b The Lord give thee that Honour and Success in all thy Affairs which he hath given to my Father. Jonathan undoubtedly knew of Samuel's final and irrevocable Sentence of Saul's Rejection from the Kingdom, and of the Substitution of some other Person after God's own Heart in his stead; and that David was this Person, he might strongly suspect (that which even Saul suspected) both from his eminent Piety, and Wisdom, and Valour, and universal Worth, and from the great Things which God had done, both by him, and for him, in preserving and advancing him by such unusual Methods; and it is most likely that Jonathan did ask David about it, and that David did Faithfully inform him of the whole Truth, as may be gathered both from the words here following, and from chap. 23. 17. And that the knowledge hereof did not raise Jealousie, and Envy, and Rage in him, who was the next Heir of the Crown, as it did in his Father, must be ascribed to Jonathan's Piety towards God, to whose disposal he chearfully submitted himself, and to his sincere Friendship to David, in whose Happiness he rejoyced as in his own.

14 And thou shalt not only while yet I live, shew me the kindness of the LORD c, that I die not d:

c Or, And wilt thou not, if I shall then be alive, (to wit, when the Lord shall be with thee, as he hath been with my Father, as he now said; i. e. when God shall have advanced thee to the Kingdom, as he did him:) yea, wilt thou not (the same Particle twice repeated for asseveration; i.e. I am well assured that thou wilt) shew me the kindness of the Lord; i.e. either such kindness as the Lord hath shewed to thee in preserving thy Life in the midst of so many, and such great Dangers: or, that kindness to which thou hast engaged thy self, in the Covenant sworn between thee and me in God's presence. d That thou do not kill me or mine, as Princes of another Line use to kill the nearest Relations of the former Line, from whom the Kingdom was translated to them; which they do either by way of Revenge, or in Policy, and reason of State, to secure the Kingdom to themselves.

* 2 Sam. 9. 3.

15 But also thou shalt not cut off * thy kindness e from my house for ever: no not when the LORD hath cut off the enemies of David, every one from the face of the earth f.

e He saith not, the kindness of the Lord, as before, because the Covenant between them seems to have been only Personal, and not comprehending their Posterity. And therefore as Jonathan speaks confidently of his own Preservation by virtue of that Covenant; so he here lays this additional Obligation upon David, That he would extend his kindness to all his Progeny. f Which he will certainly do without exception of Saul my Father, and those of his Children who have joyned, or shall joyn with him in his Hostilities and Cruelties against David. And by this word, Enemies, he implies the reasonableness of his Request, because Jonathan was none of that number, and therefore not to be treated as such.

16 So Jonathan † made a covenant with the house of David g, saying, Let the LORD even require it at the hand of Davids enemies h.

h The Covenant which before was Personal, he now extends to the whole House of David, expecting a reciprocal Enlargement of it on David's side, which doubtless he obtained. i If either I or any of my House shall break this Covenant, and shall prove Enemies to David or to his House, let the Lord, the Witness of this Covenant, severely punish the Violators of it, whoever they are. Others thus: Let the Lord require and punish the breach of this Covenant in David, if he break it. But because it was ominous and reproachful to suppose such a thing of David, by a Figure called Euphemismus, he names David's Enemies for David; as they also expound 1 Sam 25. 22. But the former sense seems more probable, because this Verse contains only Jonathan's Stipulation or Covenant with David and his House, which being expressed in the former part of it, is in this latter part confirmed by the usual form of Imprecation; and the Restipulation or Covenant of David to Jonathan and his House, is mentioned in the next Verse. Yet may that other sense stand well enough; taking these words for Jonathan's Adjuration of David to be kind to him, confirmed with an Imprecation in case he do otherwise. As if he should say, I Adjure thee, as thou hopest to escape such a Mischief (which I had rather might befal thine Enemies than thee) that thou deal not so ungratefully with me or my House. Which Adjuration of Jonathan, David seconds by an Oath in the next Verse, at the request of Jonathan.

17 And Jonathan caused David to swear again i, ‖ because he loved him k: for he loved him as he loved his own soul.

i Heb. And Jonathan added or proceeded to make David Swear; i. e. Having himself Sworn to David, or Adjured David, in the foregoing Verse, he here requires David's Oath to him, by way of Restipulation or Confirmation. k Because he had a true Friendship for David, he desired that the Covenant might be inviolably observed through all their Generations.

18 Then Jonathan said to David, To morrow is the new moon: and thou shalt be missed, because thy seat l will be † empty.

l i.e. The place where David used to sit at Meals with Saul. See v. 25.

19 And when thou hast stayed three days m, then thou shalt go down ‖ † quickly, and come to the place where thou didst hide thy self, † when the business was in hand n, and shalt remain by the stone Ezel o.

m Either at Bethlehem with thy Friends, v. 6. or elsewhere, as thou shalt see fit. n Heb. in the day of business: or, of the business, the latter. And these words are to be joyned, either, 1. with the words next foregoing; and so they note the time when David hid himself there; which was, when this same business which now they were treating about, was in agitation formerly; to wit, to discover Saul's Mind and Purpose towards him; chap. 19 2, 3. Or, 2. With the more remote words; and so they note the time when David should come to the place appointed, and formerly used to hide himself in, upon a like occasion; to wit, in the day when the business here spoken of was to be done; i.e. when the discovery of Saul's Mind was to be made. o Or, by the stone of going, or travelling; i.e. By that Stone which directs Travellers in the way; to wit, in some Cave, or convenient Place, which was near that Stone.

Or, the working day. Or, the business.

20 And I will shoot three arrows on the side thereof as though I shot at a mark p.

p He chose this way to avoid Saul's suspicion, because Bows and Arrows were the principal Arms of those Times; and Jonathan, as well as others, did oft go forth to Exercise himself with them, both for Recreation, and Improvement of his Skill in that Art. Besides, he knew not that he should have any opportunity of private Converse with David, by reason of Passengers, though the Event proved better than he expected.

21 And behold, I will send a lad, saying, Go, find out the arrows q. If I expressly say unto the lad, Behold, the arrows are on this side of thee, take them; then come thou, for there is peace to thee, and † no hurt, as the LORD liveth.

q I will send him out before I shoot, to find out, and take up the Arrows which I shall shoot. And I shall shoot them either short of him, or beyond him, as I shall see occasion.

22 But if I say thus unto the young man, Behold the arrows are beyond thee: go thy way, for the LORD hath sent thee away r.

r Take this for an intimation of God's Providence, that thou shouldest keep away from the Court.

23 And as touching * the matter which thou and I have spoken of, behold, the LORD be † between thee and me for ever.

* Verse 14, 15. † witness.

24 ¶ So David hid himself in the field s: and when the new moon was come, the king sat him down to eat meat.

s To wit, at the time appointed: for it seems probable, that he went first to Bethlehem, as he had Jonathan tell his Father, v. 6. and thence returned to the Field, when the occasion required: else we must charge him with a downright Lye, which ought not to be imagined (without any apparent cause) concerning so good a Man; especially, in so distressed and dangerous a Condition. And why should he hide himself there so long before the time, when Jonathan was to come thither to inform him? Nor were there any need of appointing a certain time to meet, if David were there all the while.

25 And the king sat upon his seat as at other times, even upon a seat by the wall: and Jonathan arose t, and Abner sat by Sauls side, and Davids place u was empty.

t To wit, from his Seat where he was sat next to the King, whence he arose, and stood up at Abner's coming, to do Honour to him, who was his Father's Cousin, and the General of the Army. u Which seems to have been next to Abner on the same side with him.

26 Nevertheless, Saul spake not any thing that day: for he thought, something hath befallen x, he is not clean, surely he is not clean.

x Some Accident which hath rendred him unclean, and so unfit to partake of this Feast, which consisted in part of the remainders of these Peace-offerings, according to the Law, Levit. 7. 20. Unfit also to come into any company, much more, into the King's company, lest he should pollute them also. See above, on v. 5. See also, Levit. 11. and 15.

27 And it came to pass on the morrow, which was the second day of the month y, that Davids place was empty: and Saul said unto Jonathan his son z, Wherefore cometh not the son of Jesse a to meat, neither yesterday, nor to day b?

y Or, on the morrow of the new moon, being the second day: Either, 1. Of the three Days appointed, v. 5. 19. Or, 2. Of the Feast. Or, 3. Of the Month. z Who was David's Friend, and best knew his mind, and his ways. a So he calls him in Scorn and Contempt, to note the meanness of his Original; and as not deigning to call him by his proper Name: See below, chap. 22. 9. and 25. 10. b For the Uncleanness which came by some chance, usually lasted but for one Day. See Levit. 11.

28 And Jonathan answered Saul, David earnestly asked leave of me to go to Bethlehem:

29 And he said, Let me go; I pray thee, for our family hath a sacrifice in the city, and my brother, he hath commanded me to be there c: and now, if I have found favour in thine eyes, let me get away, I pray thee, and see my brethren: therefore he cometh not to the kings table.

c Either in his Father's Name, or in the Right of the First-born; one Branch of which was Authority over his Brethren in all the Concerns of the Family; whereof this was one.

30 Then Sauls anger was kindled against Jonathan, and he said unto him, ‖ † Thou son of the perverse rebellious woman d, do not I know that thou hast chosen the son of Jesse to thine own confusion e, and unto the confusion of thy mothers nakedness f?

d This base Temper of thine, thou hadst not from me, but from thy Mother; of whose perverseness I have had so much experience. Or, thou son of perverse rebellion; i.e. Thou perverse and rebellious Son: Or, thou most perverse rebel: For in the Hebrew Language, the word Son, thus used, is an aggravation of a Man's Crime; and notes one who is extraordinarily addicted to it. Thus he calls him, because he hid and preserved that Man whom the King had commanded to be brought forth, that he might be slain. e For it will be a horrible shame and reproach unto thee, that David by his crafty Insinuations, and fair Pretences, should Cheat thee of thy Kingdom. f Men will conclude, That thy Mother was a Whore, and thou a Bastard; and that thou hast no Royal Blood in thy Veins, that canst so tamely give up thy Crown to so contemptible a Person.

31 For as long as the son of Jesse liveth upon the ground, thou shalt not be stablished, nor thy kingdom g: wherefore now send and fetch him unto me, for he † shall surely die.

† Heb. is a son of death.

g Thus he grosly mistakes the Cause of Jonathan's loss of the Kingdom, which was not David's Art, but Saul's Sin; and vainly endeavours to prevent God's irrevocable Sentence.

32 And Jonathan answered Saul his father, and said unto him, Wherefore shall he be slain? what hath he done?

33 And Saul cast a javelin at him to smite him h, whereby Jonathan knew that it was determined of his father to slay David.

h i.e. To wound him, though not to smite him even to the wall; as he designed to do to David, chap. 19. 10.

34 So Jonathan arose from the table in fierce anger, and did eat no meat the second day of the month: for he was grieved for David, because i his father had done him shame.

i Or, and because: for this is a second cause of his Grief. The Conjunction and is oft-times omitted, and to be supplied; as Psalm 33. 2. and 144. 9. Jos. 63. 11. Habak. 3. 11.

35 ¶ And it came to pass in the morning k, that Jonathan went out into the field, at the time appointed with David, and a little lad with him.

k To wit, of the third Day appointed for this Work, v. 5.

36 And he said unto his lad, Run, find out now the arrows which I shoot. And as the lad ran, he shot an arrow † beyond him.

37 And when the lad was come to the place l of the arrow which Jonathan had shot, Jonathan cried after the lad, and said, Is not the arrow beyond thee?

l i.e. Near to the place. Or, and the Lad went, or was going on to the place: For the Words following shew, that he was not yet come thither. The Hebrew Verb, bo, which properly signifies to come, sometimes signifies to go; as here, and Ruth 3. 7. and Jonah 1. 3.

38 And Jonathan cried after the lad, Make speed, haste, stay not m. And Jonathans lad gathered up the arrows, and came to his master.

m So he bids him, because finding the Coast clear, he made haste to take the opportunity to speak with his dearly beloved David.

39 But the lad knew not any thing: only Jonathan and David knew the matter.

† Heb. business. † Heb. that was the.

40 And Jonathan gave his † artillery n unto † his lad, and said unto him, Go, carry them to the city.

n His Bow, and Arrows, and Quiver.

41 ¶ And as soon as the lad was gone, David arose out of a place toward the south o, and fell on his face to the ground, and bowed himself three times: and they kissed one another, and wept one with another, until David exceeded p.

o In respect of the Stone where David by appointment hid himself. p As well he might, because he was driven away, not only from his dear Friend Jonathan, but also from his Wife, and all his Relations, and from the Commonwealth of Israel, and from the Service of God; as he complains below, Chap. 26. 19.

42 And Jonathan said to David, Go in peace, ‖ forasmuch as we have sworn both of us in the Name of the LORD, saying, The LORD be between me and thee, and between my seed and thy seed for ever q. And he arose and departed: and Jonathan went into the city.

q Therefore doubt not, but I will ever love thee, and faithfully serve thee; and the like I assure my self from thee; and this must be our comfort in our State of Separation.

CHAP. XXI.

David cometh to Nob to Ahimelech the priest: pretendeth secret business from Saul: asketh bread: Ahimelech giveth him the shew-bread, 1, 6. Doeg seeth this, 7. David asketh arms: Ahimelech giveth him Goliah's sword, 8, 9. David cometh to Achish: is known: and afraid: feigneth himself mad, 10, —13. Achish is angry with his servants for bringing him, 14, 15.

THEN came David to Nob a to Ahimelech the priest b, and * Ahimelech was afraid at the meeting of David c, and said unto him, Why art thou alone, and no man with thee d?

* Also called Abiathar. Mar. 2. 26.

a A City of Priests, as it is called Chap. 22. 19. Either, 1. Because it was assigned to the Priests. For though it be not expressed by this Name among their Cities, Jos. 21. yet it might be one of those Cities their named by some other Name, which Name might be changed; or another new Name added to the old for some reason now unknown, as was very usual among the Hebrews: Compare 1 Chron. 6. Or, 2. Because it was now inhabited by the Priests for the service of the Tabernacle, which now was here; as appears from v. 7, 9. For as the Kings of Israel were to Consult with God's Oracle in all their weighty Affairs; so they endeavoured to have it in, or near their own Habitations. Hence it was first carried by Joshua to Shiloh in his Tribe of Ephraim; and afterwards by David into his Tribe and City; and now, as it seems, had been by Saul carried to Nob, a City in the Tribe of Benjamin, Neh. 11. 32. near to Anathoth, 1 King. 2. 26. Either David resorted, partly for a supply of his Necessities, which he supposed he might receive here, without danger of being betrayed into Saul's hands: and principally, that in this great Distress, and his Resolution of going out of the Kingdom, he might seek and receive Comfort and Counsel from the Lord. b To wit, the chief Priest, Brother to that Ahiah, chap. 14. 3. and he being now dead, his Successor in the Priesthood, for they were both Sons of Ahitub, 1 Sam. 14. 3. and 22. 11. c Suspecting some extraordinary cause of his coming in such a manner, and fearing the worst, as Men usually do in such cases. d For though David had some Servants and Companions, as is manifest from v. 4. 5. and from Matth. 12. 3, 4. whom Jonathan probably had sent to a place appointed to serve and guard him; yet they were left at another place: as David himself affirmeth, v. 2. And David was now alone, as also he was when he fled to Achish, v. 10.

2 And David said unto Ahimelech the priest, The King hath commanded me a business e, and hath said unto me, Let no man know any thing of the business whereabout I send thee, and what I have commanded thee: and I have appointed my servants † to such and such a place f.

† Heb. to the place of Peloni almoni, that of such a man, Ruth 4. 1. 2 King. 6. 8. Dan. 8. 13.

e This seems to be a plain Lye extorted from him, by Fear and Necessity. But as it was officious for himself, so it was pernicious to all the Priests there. Whence David afterwards declares his Repentance for this sin of Lying, Psalm 119. 29. f To a certain place which is not material nor convenient now to mention; because the whole business requires concealment.

3 Now therefore what is under thine hand g? give me five loaves of bread in mine hand, or what † there is † present.

g To wit, in thy Power, and ready for thee to give, and for me to take, and eat.

4 And the priest answered David, and said, There is no common bread under mine hand h, but there is * hallowed bread i, if the young men have kept themselves at least from women k.

* Excod. 25. 30. Lev. 24. 5. * Matth. 12. 4.

h To wit, here in the Tabernacle: though doubtless he had enough of that, and of other Provisions in his House; but David was in great haste, and in fear of Doeg whom he saw, and knew there, chap. 22. 22. and therefore would not stay till any thing could be fetched thence. i The Shew-bread, which was appropriated to the Priests; of which see Exod. 25. 30. Lev. 24. 5. k Either from uncleanness by Women, which might be divers ways contracted: or from Conjugal converse with their Wives; which though it did not defile them, yet he thought might debar them from the participation of such very Sacred things; which he gathered by the Analogy of that Precept, Exod. 19. 15. There was a double impediment to the giving of this Bread to them; 1. Its Sacredness in its self; which the Priest implies, and David answers v. 5. and the Priest was satisfied therein by David's extraordinary Occasions, and great Necessities. 2. The Purity and Abstinence from all Women, which he supposeth should be in those that use it; concerning which he now enquires. And though he mention this only concerning David's young Men, and out of Modesty and Reverence to David, forbears to name him; yet he is also included in the number, as David's answer shews.

5 And David answered the priest, and said unto him, Of a truth women have been kept from us about these three days l, since I came out m, and the vessels n of the young men are holy, and the bread is in a manner common: ‖ yea, though it were sanctified this day in the vessel p.

q As long as the Law required, Exod. 19. 15. And so long David and his men had, it seems, hid themselves for fear of Saul in some of those Caves, whereof there were many in those parts; whereby they were kept both from all Converse with any other Persons besides themselves, and consequently from Women: and withal, from Food convenient for them. m From the place where Jonathan and David met. n i.e. Either, 1. Their Garments, or other Utensils for their Journey. Or, 2. Their Bodies, for of them the Question was, v. 4. and having now said, that Women had been kept from them, he infers, that therefore their Bodies were Holy; their Members were undefiled. Thus the word vessel is used, 1 Thess. 4. 4. and in other Authors, both Greek and Latin. o Heb. and this (to wit, the Bread; which is easily supplied out of the former Verse, because that was the thing about which the present discourse was, and against the giving whereof the Priest started an Objection, v. 4. to which, David here giveth an Answer) is in a manner, or, after a sort common: i.e. Considering the time, and our necessity, this may be asked in a manner, like common Bread, and so is used by others. For though for a reason whilest it is to stand before the Lord, it be so Holy, that the Priest himself might not eat it; yet afterwards it is eaten by the Priest, and by his whole Family, as their common Food; and so it may be by us, in our circumstances. p If it were but newly put into the Vessel, it must give place to the great Law of Necessity, and Charity; because God will have Mercy preferred before Sacrifice. Or thus, Especially, when, or, The rather because this day there is other (i.e. new Bread) sanctified in the vessel; i.e. put into the Vessel which was made to receive this Bread, Exod. 25. 29. and thereby Sanctified, or Consecrated to God: and therefore the former Shew-bread is now to be removed, and employed for the common use of the Priest and his Family.

* Mar. 2. 26. Luk. 6. 4. 6 So the priest * gave him hallowed bread, for there was no bread there p, but the shew-bread that was taken from before the LORD, to put hot bread in the day when it was taken away q.

p To wit, in the Tabernacle, where David and the Priest now were. q Which was done upon the Sabbath-day, Levit. 24. 8. For though they might not then kindle a Fire to heat the Bread in, yet they might, and did keep it hot in an Oven that had been heated before the Sabbath.

* Psal. 52. title. 7 (Now a certain man of the servants of Saul was there that day detained r before the LORD, s, and his name was * Doeg an Edomite t the chiefest of the herdmen that belonged to Saul.

r Not by force from others, but by his own choice; he fixed his abode there for that day; either because it was the Sabbath-day; on which he might not proceed in his Journey, or other Business: or for the discharge of some Vow: or to beg direction and help from God in some great Business. s i.e. At the Tabernacle. t Either, 1. By his Habitation, and Conversation among those People for some considerable time, as, for the same reason Uriah is called the Hittite; and Obed-Edom the Gittite: Or rather, 2. By his Birth, and Nation: but he was proselited to the Jewish Religion: or took it up for sinister Ends, being advanced, as here we read, to a place of Trust and Preferment, possibly upon this occasion.

8 ¶ And David said unto Ahimelech, And is there not here under thine hand spear or sword? for I have neither brought my sword, nor my weapons with me u, because the kings business required haste x.

u These he left behind him, that he might with less suspicion remove from place to place, and hide himself from Saul and his Spies. x The Message came to me, when I was unarmed, and the business required so great expedition that I could not go home to fetch my Weapons.

* Chap. 17. 2. 9 And the Priest said, The sword of Goliah the Philistine, whom thou slewest in * the valley of Elah, behold, it is here wrapt in a cloth behind the ephod y: if thou wilt take that, take it, for there is no other save that, here. And David said, There is none like that z, give it me.

y i.e. Behind that Holy Place allotted for the keeping of the Sacred, or Priestly Garments; all which are here comprehended under the Ephod; which, as the chief of the kind, is put for all the rest. Here it was laid up as a Sacred Monument of God's Power and Goodness, and that famous Victory, related chap. 17. z Because it not only served him for his use, for he was a strong and tall Man, and one that could wield that Sword, as we saw, chap. 17. but was also a Pledge of God's Favour to him, and a great Encouragement to his Faith.

* Ahimelech. Psal. 34. title. 10 ¶ And David arose, and fled that day for fear of Saul, and went to * Achish the king of Gath a:

a A strange Action: but it must be considered, 1. That Saul's Rage was so great and implacable, his Power also, and Diligence in hunting after him so great, that he despaired of escaping him any other way: and it is not strange if a desperate Disease, produceth a desperate Remedy. 2. David might reasonably think, that being persecuted, and banished by Saul, and the Israelites under his Command, he should be welcome to the Philistines; who would be glad, not only to be freed from all those Evils which he had from time to time done, and was likely further to do to them, but also to make him their Friend, and oblige him by their Kindness; and to make him the more odious and irreconcilable to Saul and the Israelites. Quest. But why did he go to these, and not rather to some other neighbour Nation? Ans. Because they were all at Peace with Saul; and therefore would certainly have delivered him up, upon Saul's Demands.

11 And the servants of Achish said unto him, Is not this David the king of the land b? did they not sing one to another of him in dances, saying, * Saul hath slain his thousands, and David his ten thousands c. * Chap. 18. 7.

b Or, of this land; i.e. Of the Land of Canaan. They call him King, either more generally for the Governour, as that word is used, Deut. 33. 5. for the most eminent Captain and Commander, and, as it were the King of the Israelitish Armies: or, rather more specially, the king; to wit, the King elect, the Person designed to be King: for, by this time, the Fame of Saul's Rejection, and David's Destination to the Kingdom, was got abroad among the Israelites, and from them, probably to the Philistines Ears. c And therefore consider what to do; and now thine, and our great Enemy is in thy hand, be sure thou never let him go alive.

12 And David laid up these words in his heart, and was sore afraid c of Achish the king of Gath:

c Lest either their Revenge or Policy should prompt them to kill him.

13 And * he changed his behaviour d before them, * Psal. 34. title. and feigned himself mad e in their hands f, and ‖ scrabbled on the doors of the gate, and let his spittle fall down upon his beard. ‖ Or, was mad.

d His Speech and Gesture; and, it may be, his Habit also. e Which they might the more easily believe; partly, because of the disappointment of his great hopes, and his extream danger and trouble from Saul, which might well make him mad: and partly, because he had put himself into their hands; which they supposed, none but a Fool, or a mad Man would have done. And David counterfeited this Madness, that he might procure, both their Pity, and their Contempt; that they being freed from jealousies and fears of future Mischief from David, and from his wise Conduct, of which they had sad Experience, might be secure of him, and so spare him. f i.e. Whilest he was in their Power, and before them.

14 Then said Achish unto his servants, Lo, ye see the man ‖ is mad g: wherefore then have ye brought him to me h? ‖ Or, playeth mad-man.

g And so were Achish and his Men too, to be so soon cheated. But this must be ascribed to the Wise and Powerful Providence of God; who, in answer to David's Prayer now made, which is Recorded Psalm 34. and 56. did infatuate them, as he hath done many others in like cases. h What Service can I expect from him? Or, What cause have I to fear him?

15 Have I need of mad men i, that ye have brought this fellow to play the mad man in my presence? shall this fellow come into mine house k?

i I need wise Men, not such Fools, or mad Men, as this is. k I will not have my Court disgraced with entertaining such Fellows.

CHAP. XXII.

David cometh to Adullam, where companies resort to him, 1, 2. He goeth to Mizpeh and commendeth his parents to the King of Moab, 3, 4. Admonished by Gad he returneth to Judah: Saul pursueth him: complaineth of his servant's unfaithfulness, 5,——8. Doeg accuseth Ahimelech: Saul sentenceth him, the high priest, and the rest of the priests, to die: Doeg slayeth 85 priests: the city Nob and all in it is laid waste: only Abiathar the priest remained alive flying to David, 9,——20. David acknowledgeth himself to be the cause hereof, 22, 23.

DAvid therefore departed thence, and * escaped to the cave of Adullam a: and when his brethren, and all his fathers house heard it, they went down thither to him b. * Psal. 57. title. 142. title.

a A Place of considerable strength, 2 Sam. 23. 13. 1 Chron. 11. 15. in the Land of Judah, Jos. 15. 21, 35. which being his own Tribe, and the Tribe to which God had first promised the Kingdom, Gen. 49, 10. he hoped for some Protection and Assistance there. b Partly to comfort and assist him; partly, to secure themselves at the present from Saul's Rage, which they knew to be Fierce and Cruel, and thought he might extend it to David's Friends; especially, because they had so lately entertained him, chap. 20. 6, 29. And partly, that they might share with David in his Honour and Advancement; which they now concluded certain, and near, though it was interrupted with some difficulties.

2 And every one that was in distress c, and every one that † was in debt d, and every one that was k † discontented e, gathered themselves unto him, and he became a captain over them f: and there were with him about four hundred men. † Heb. a creditor. † Heb. bitter of soul.

c Through Want, or Oppression, or otherwise. d How could David receive, and countenance such Persons to the wrong of their Creditors? Answ. 1. David might be ignorant of their Debts; and it is most likely they concealed that, and pretended other Causes of their coming to him, as the Protection of the Innocent, and the Defence of his just Rights, &c. 2. They might be, and probably were, poor Debtors, whom their Creditors were obliged to spare, and favour, Exod. 22. 25. And though their Persons were with David, yet their Lands and Goods were liable to their Creditors. e Or, bitter in soul; i.e. In an afflicted and calamitous Condition. f He did not justifie, nor maintain any Injustice or Wickedness, which some of them possibly might be guilty of; but on the contrary, he instructed, and obliged them to the practise of all Justice and Honesty; as appears from chap. 25. 15. And he only used them for his just Defence.

3 ¶ And

3 ¶ And David went thence to Mizpeh of Moab a, and he said unto the king of Moab b, Let my father and my mother c, I pray thee, come forth and be with you, till I know what God will do for me d.

a So called, to distinguish it from that Mizpeh, 1 Sam. 7. 5. b Partly, because he was related to, and descended from one of his People, Ruth 4. c. And partly, because he was Saul's Enemy, 1 Sam. 14. 47. and therefore more likely to be David's Friend. c Who being very aged, were not able to endure those Journies and Hardships which David foresaw that he was likely to be exposed to. d Till I see the Accomplishment of God's Promise made to me.

4 And he brought them before the king of Moab b: and they dwelt with him all the while that David was in the hold m.

l Into his Presence that he might see them, and give them leave to dwell in his Dominion. m Either, 1. In Mizpeh of Moab, which was a very strong Hold. But it is apparent, he speaks of some Hold, where his Father and Mother were exposed to fear and danger from Saul; which they were not in the King of Moab's Royal City. Or, 2. In the Cave of Adullam; mentioned above, v. 1. Or, 3. In Holes; the Singular Number being put for the Plural, as is frequent; i.e. as long as David was forc'd to go from Place to Place, and from Hold to Hold, to secure himself: for it concern'd David to secure his Father, and he did doubtless secure him for all that time; and not only whilst he was in the Hold of Mizpeh, or of Adullam, which was but a little while.

* 2 Sam. 24. 11. 1 Chron. 21. 9. 2 Chron. 29. 25. 5 ¶ And the prophet * Gad said unto David, Abide not in the hold n; depart, and get thee into the land of Judah o. Then David departed and came into the forest of Hareth p.

n Do not shut up thy self in Holes, and Holds. o Go and shew thy self in the Land of Judah, that thou mayst publickly put in thy Claim to the Kingdom after Saul's Death; and that thy Friends may be invited and encouraged to appear on thy behalf. Hereby also God would exercise David's Faith, and Wisdom, and Courage; and so prepare him for the Kingdom, and uphold, and increase his Reputation among the People. p Where there were many Caves and lurking Places.

6 ¶ When Saul heard that David was discovered, and the men that were with him: (now Saul abode in Gibeah under a ‖ tree in Ramah q, having his spear in his hand r, and all his servants were standing about him.) ‖ Or, grove in a high place.

q i.e. In the Territory of Gibeah, in, or near (for so the Hebrew Particle is oft used; as hath been shewed) Ramah. Or, in the town of Gibeah — in an high place; for so the word Ramah unquestionably signifies; and so it is here rendred by some, both Ancient and Modern Interpreters. r Either as an Ensign of Majesty, for in old times Kings carried a Spear instead of a Scepter; as Justin and others note; or, as an Instrument of Self-defence or Cruelty, as occasion required.

7 Then Saul said unto his servants that stood about him, Hear now, ye † Benjamites s, will the son of Jesse give every one of you fields, and vineyards, and make you all captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds t: † Heb. sons of Jemini, Chap. 9. 2.

s You that are of my own Tribe and Kindred, from whom David designs to translate the Kingdom to another Tribe. t Will he distribute Profits and Preferments amongst you Benjamites, as I have done, and intend still to do? will he not rather prefer those of his own Tribe before you?

8 That all of you have conspired against me, and there is none that † sheweth me that my son hath made a league with the son of Jesse u, and there is none of you that is sorry for me, or sheweth unto me, that my son hath stirred up my servant against me to lie in wait x, as at this day? † Heb. uncovereth mine ear.

u This he suspected, partly, from Jonathan's passionate Love for David, which he had formerly, and constantly declared; and from his late discontent and departure from his Father, mentioned, chap. 20. 33. and partly, from David's Confidence, in Invading the Land with Four hundred Men, which he thought he would never presume to do, without some Encouragement or promise of Assistance from Jonathan. x i.e. To design against my Crown, and Life; (which will appear to be a most groundless Suspicion, and false Accusation.)

* Psal. 52. title. 9 ¶ Then answered * Doeg the Edomite (which was set over the servants of Saul) and said, I saw the son of Jesse coming to Nob y, to Ahimelech the son of

y See on Chap. 21. 7.

* Chap. 21. 6, 9. 10 And he enquired of the LORD for him z, and * gave him victuals, and gave him the sword of Goliah the Philistine.

z This is not Recorded, Chap. 21. and therefore some think, that Doeg to curry favour with Saul, feigned this; for it is certain, David chargeth him with the Sin of Lying, Psalm 52. 3. though it is not improbable, that he told other Lyes also, not here expressed; and withal, he was guilty of concealing part of the Truth, which in this Case he was obliged to declare for Ahimelech's just Defence; to wit, the cunning Pretence and Artifice whereby David circumvented Ahimelech. Others think this was true, because Ahimelech seems to confess it, v. 15: though that may be spoken by way of concession. If it were so as Doeg declares, this was no new thing. Then he might add, that it was not so; though this be not here mentioned: for it is evident, That all his Answer or Apology, is not here expressed; for here is not a word of the Victuals or Sword which he gave him.

11 Then the king sent to call Ahimelech the priest the son of Ahitub, and all his fathers house a, the priests that were in Nob: and they came all of them to the king.

a Of the House of Eli, which God had threatned to cut off, chap. 2. 31.

12 And Saul said, Hear now, thou son of Ahitub b: and he answered, † Here I am, my lord. † Heb. behold me.

b He shews his Contempt and Anger, that he would not vouchsafe to name him: See before, on chap. 20. 27.

13 And Saul said unto him, Why have ye conspired against me, thou, and the Son of Jesse, in that thou hast given him bread, and a sword, and hast enquired of God for him, that he should rise against me to lie in wait, as at this day?

14 Then Ahimelech answered the king, and said, And who is so faithful among all thy servants, as David c, which is the kings son in law, and goeth at thy bidding, and is honourable in thine house.

c He doth not determine the Differences between Saul and David; nor affirm, what David now was: but only declared what David had formerly been, both really, and in publick Fame and Opinion.

15 Did I then begin to enquire of God for him? be it far from me: let not the king impute any thing d unto his servant, nor to all the house of my father: for thy servant knew nothing of all this e, † less or more. † Heb. little or great.

d Or, this thing; to wit, which thou now chargest me with, That I should assist David in any evil Design against thee. e Or, of thy Suspicion concerning him. For as for Saul's Attempts upon David, well might Ahimelech impute them wholly to the Violence of Saul's Passion and Disease, seeing even Jonathan did so, as may be gathered from 1 Sam. 20. 2.

16 And the king said, Thou shalt surely die, Ahimelech, thou and all thy fathers house.

17 ¶ And the king said unto the ‖ † footmen that stood about him, Turn, and slay the priests of the LORD, because their hand is with David, and because they knew when he fled, and did not shew it me. But the servants of the king would not put forth their hand to fall upon the priests of the LORD f. ‖ Or, guard. † Heb. runners.

f Shuning rather to offend the King, by disobeying his wicked and bloody Command, than to offend God, by shedding the Blood of such Innocent and Sacred Persons.

18 And the king said to Doeg, Turn thou g, and fall upon the priests. And Doeg the Edomite h turned, and he fell upon the priests, and * slew on that day fourscore and five persons i that did wear a linen ephod k. * Chap. 22. 31.

g Or, go about, to wit, from Man to Man, till thou hast killed all. h Which is noted to wipe off the stain of this Butchery from the Israelitish Nation, and to shew, why he was so ready to do it, because he was one of that Nation which had an implacable hatred against all Israelites, and against the Priests of the Lord. i With his own hand: which was not difficult, when no resistance was made. k Not at that time, as some fansie, but usually; such as used to minister to the Lord in a Linen Ephod, which Priests and Levites used to do. See Exod. 28. 40, &c. 1 Sam. 2. 18.

19 And Nob the city of the priest smote he l with the edge of the sword, both men and women, children and sucklings, and oxen, and asses, and sheep, with the edge of the sword.

l Either Saul, or Doeg, with the help of some others whom Saul appointed to that work. By this barbarous and bloody Fact Saul thought to affright all his Subjects from giving any Countenance or Assistance to David.

20 ¶ And one of the sons of Ahimelech, the son of Ahitub, named Abiathar m, escaped and fled after David n:

m Who by his Father's death was now High-Priest. n To Keilah, chap. 23. 6, 7.

21 And Abiathar shewed David, that Saul had slain the LORD's priests.

22 And David said unto Abiathar, I knew it o that day, when Doeg the Edomite was there, that he would surely tell Saul: I have occasioned the death of all the persons of thy fathers house.

o His Malice and Ambition made me suspect, that he would do it.

23 Abide thou with me, fear not: for he that seeketh my life, seeketh thy life: but with me thou shalt be in safeguard p.

p Because God will certainly preserve me to the Kingdom which he hath promised: and I by his help will protect thee.

CHAP. XXIII.

David enquiring of the Lord by Abiathar, reſcueth Keilah, and goeth into it, 1,—6. God ſhewing him the coming of Saul, and treachery of the Keilites, 7,—12. He flieth thence to the wilderneſs of Ziph with his 600 men, 13,—15. Here Jonathan cometh to him and reneweth the covenant of friendſhip with him, 16,—18. The Ziphites diſcover him to Saul, 19,—23. Who purſueth him into the wilderneſs of Maon, 24,—26. He is called away by a meſſage that the Philiſtines had invaded the land, 27, 28. David dwelleth at En-gedi, 29.

THen they told David a, ſaying, Behold, the Philiſtines fight againſt Keilah b, and they rob the threſhing-floors c.

a Or, Now they had told David, to wit, before he heard of the ſlaughter of the Prieſts. b A City in the Tribe of Judah, Joſ. 15. 44. not far from the Foreſt of Hareth, where David now was, chap. 22. 5. c Which uſually were without the Cities in places open to the Wind. See Judg. 6. 11. Ruth 3. 2, &c.

2 Therefore David enquired of the LORD d, ſaying, Shall I go and ſmite theſe Philiſtines e? And the LORD ſaid unto David, Go, and ſmite the Philiſtines, and ſave Keilah.

d Either by Abiathar; or rather, by Gad, who was a Prophet, 2 Sam. 24. 11. and David's Seer, 1 Chron. 21. 9. and was now with David, chap. 22. 5. for Abiathar was not yet come to him, v. 6. e For the caſe was both doubtful and new, he having not yet made any Attempt upon the Philiſtines, but by Saul's Commiſſion; and dangerous, becauſe of the ſmall number of his Forces.

3 And Davids men ſaid unto him, Behold, we be afraid here in Judah f: how much more then if we come to Keilah againſt the armies of the Philiſtines g?

f i.e. In this part of Judah, whereas yet we have no Army to oppoſe us: for elſe Keilah alſo was in Judah. g When we ſhall have a Potent Enemy before us, the Philiſtines, and, it may be, another behind us, even Saul, who probably will come forth, either to reſiſt the Philiſtines, or to intercept us.

4 Then David enquired of the LORD yet again h: And the LORD anſwered him, and ſaid, Ariſe, go down to Keilah: for I will deliver the Philiſtines into thine hand.

h Not for his own, but for his Soldiers Satisfaction and Encouragement; as Gideon did, Judg. 7.

5 So David and his men went to Keilah, and fought with the Philiſtines, and brought away their cattel i, and ſmote them with a great ſlaughter: ſo David ſaved the inhabitants of Keilah.

i Which the Philiſtines had either brought out of their Land, or had taken from the Iſraelites in their march, for the ſuſtenance of their Army.

6 And it came to paſs when Abiathar the ſon of Ahimelech * fled to David to Keilah, that he came down with an ephod k in his hand.

k Or, with the Ephod, to wit, the High-Prieſts Ephod, in which were the Urim and the Thummim, Ex. 28. 30. which when Abimelech and the reſt of the Prieſts went to Saul, were probably left in his hand, and to his care; which gave him the opportunity both of eſcaping, whilſt Doeg the Butcher was killing his Brethren, and of bringing away the Ephod, which Saul had oft groſly neglected, and now was juſtly deprived of it.

7 ¶ And it was told Saul that David was come to Keilah: and Saul ſaid, God hath † delivered him into mine hand l: for he is ſhut in, by entring into a town that hath gates and bars m.

l He eaſily believed what he greedily deſired, though his own Experience had oft ſhewed him how ſtrangely God had delivered him out of his Hands, and what a ſingular Care God had over him. m So that which he choſe for his Safety, will be his certain Ruine.

8 And Saul called all the people together, to war, to go down to Keilah, to beſiege David and his men.

9 ¶ And David knew that Saul ſecretly practiſed n miſchief againſt him, and * he ſaid to Abiathar the prieſt, Bring hither the ephod o.

* Numb. 27. 21.

n Whereby it may ſeem he pretended that he raiſed this Army to defend Keilah and his Country from the Philiſtines, and kept his Intention againſt David in his own Breaſt. Or, deſigned or deviſed: for ſo the word ſignifies; and ſo it is here tranſlated by many, and it ſeems both from v. 8. and from his publickly avowed jealouſie of, and rage againſt David, that he declared his deſign to be againſt him, as a Traitor to his Crown and Dignity. o And put it upon thee, that thou maiſt ask Counſel of God for me.

10 Then ſaid David p, O LORD God of Iſrael, thy ſervant hath certainly heard that Saul ſeeketh to come to Keilah, to deſtroy the city for my ſake.

p To wit, by the Prieſt, for he was to make the enquiry of God, Numb. 27. 21. and David puts the words into his Mouth.

11 Will the men of Keilah deliver me up into his hand q? Will Saul come down as thy ſervant hath heard? O LORD God of Iſrael, I beſeech thee tell thy ſervant. And the LORD ſaid r, He will come down ſ.

q To wit, if I continue in their City, and if Saul come down. r From this place it may appear that Gods anſwer by Urim and Thummim, was not by any change in the colour or ſituation of the precious Stones in the Breaſt-Plate of the Ephod, but by a Voice or Suggeſtion from God to the High-Prieſt. ſ i.e. He purpoſeth to come, if thou conſenteſt here. For ſtill as David's queſtion, ſo God's anſwer, is upon ſuppoſition, as is here ſufficiently implied.

12 Then ſaid David, Will the men of Keilah † deliver me and my men into the hand of Saul? and the LORD ſaid, They will deliver thee up t.

t To wit, if thou abideſt there. For God ſaw their hearts, their purpoſes, and paſſions, their averſion from David, and their affections to Saul, and knew better than themſelves what they would do in that caſe.

13 ¶ Then David and his men, which were about ſix hundred u, aroſe, and departed out of Keilah, and went whitherſoever they could go x: and it was told Saul that David was eſcaped from Keilah, and he forbare to go forth.

u Two hundred being added to his former number, chap. 22. 2. upon his laſt and great Succeſs againſt the Philiſtines. x Hither or thither, where they could find refuge, or an hiding place.

14 And David abode in the wilderneſs in ſtrong holds, and remained in a mountain in the wilderneſs of Ziph: and Saul fought him every day, but God delivered him not into his hand y.

y As Saul fondly perſuaded himſelf, he intended, v. 7.

15 And David ſaw z that Saul was come out to ſeek his life: and David was in the wilderneſs of Ziph in a wood.

z Either by Information from his Spies: or, by Proſpect from the top of the Mountain where he was.

16 ¶ And Jonathan Sauls ſon aroſe, and went to David in the wood a, and ſtrengthned his hand in God b.

a Where David had appointed to meet him at that time. b He comforted and ſupported him againſt all his Fears, by minding him of God's infallible Promiſes made to him, and his ſingular Providence which hitherto had and ſtill would be with him.

17 And he ſaid unto him, Fear not, for the hand of Saul my father ſhall not find thee, and thou ſhalt be king over Iſrael, and I ſhall be next unto thee c: and * that alſo Saul my father knoweth c.

* Chap. 24. 20.

c Which he gathered either from David's Generoſity, Ingenuity, and true Friendſhip to him; or from ſome Promiſe made to him by David concerning it. Or, the meaning of the words next unto thee, may be as much as to ſay, I ſhall be under thee, after thee, or inferior to thee, as the Phraſe tibi ſecundus oft ſignifies. So that the whole imports thus much; I do not look to be King my ſelf (as by my Birth I might expect), but that thou ſhalt be King (God having ſo appointed) and I but in a Secondary place inferior to thee. c By ſtrong and well-grounded Conjectures, as hath been noted.

18 And they two made a covenant d before the LORD e: and David abode in the wood, and Jonathan went to his houſe.

d i.e. Renewed their former Covenant. e i.e. Setting themſelves as in God's Preſence, and calling upon him to be Witneſs between them.

19 ¶ Then came up the * Ziphites f to Saul to Gibeah, ſaying, Doth not David hide himſelf with us in ‖ ſtrong holds in the woods, in the hill of Hachilah, which is † on the ſouth of ‖ Jeſhimon?

* Pſal. 54. title.

f Who were of David's own Tribe, though for this their unnatural and ſtrange carriage to him, he calls them ſtrangers, Pſal. 54. 3.

20 Now therefore, O King, come down according to all the deſire of thy ſoul to come down, and our part ſhall be g to deliver him into the kings hand.

g It ſhall be our Care and Buſineſs to the utmoſt of our Power. Or, we will undertake to deliver him, or betray him to thee.

21 And Saul ſaid, Bleſſed be ye of the LORD, for ye have compaſſion on me h.

h Whilſt others harden their Hearts againſt me, and joyn with David in his treaſonable Conſpiracy, you ſhew your pity to me by your readineſs to help me.

22 Go, I pray you, prepare yet i, and know, and ſee his place where his † haunt is k, and who hath ſeen † Heb. him there: for it is told me that he dealeth very ſubtilly.

i To wit, the matter, inform your ſelves certainly of things, and diſpoſe them ſo that we may not be fruſtrated in our Attempt. k In what Cave, or Wood, or Mountain he is moſt frequently.

23 See therefore, and take knowledge of all the lurking places where he hideth himſelf, and come ye again to me with the certainty, and I will go with you: and it ſhall come to paſs, if he be in the land, that I will ſearch him out throughout all the thouſands of Judah l.

l i.e. Through all the parts of that Tribe. Every Tribe was divided into Thouſands, as Counties are now with us into Hundreds. See Judg. 6. 15. Or, with all the Thouſands of Judah; i.e. I will raiſe againſt him all the Forces of that Tribe in which he truſteth and hideth himſelf. This he ſaith to animate them to the more vigorous Proſecution of him.

24 And

24 And they aroſe, and went to Ziph before Saul m: but David and his men were in the wilderneſs of Maon n, in the plain on the ſouth of Jeſhimon.

m To prepare things for Saul, who marched after them. n Whither he went from the Wilderneſs of Ziph, upon ſuſpicion or information that Saul was coming thither.

25 Saul alſo and his men went to ſeek him, and they told David: wherefore he came down into a rock o, and abode in the wilderneſs of Maon: and when Saul heard that, he purſued after David in the wilderneſs of Maon.

o i.e. Into a Cave which was in the Rock; or, which might be called a Rock, not for the height, but the ſtrength of its ſituation: where at firſt he might think to hide himſelf, but upon further intelligence or conſideration he removed from thence upon Saul's approach. Or, he came down from the Rock, i.e. Either, Firſt, From the Mountain mentioned in the next Verſe, whence he came down, that ſo he might get out of Saul's ſight and reach. Or, Secondly, From the Hill of Hachilah, where David hid himſelf, which is ſaid to be on the South of Jeſhimon, v. 19. as this place where he now was, is alſo deſcribed, ver. 24. only that ſpeaks of the Plain, and this of the Rock or Hill adjoyning to it, or in the midſt of it. Or, he came down to Selah, as the Syriack and Arabick tranſlate it; a place ſo called from the many Rocks or Stones which were in it, or near it.

26 And Saul went on this ſide of the mountain, and David and his men on that ſide of the mountain: and David made haſte to get away for fear of Saul: for Saul and his men compaſſed David and his men round about p to take them.

p Dividing themſelves into ſeveral Parties, each marching a ſeveral way after him.

27 ¶ But there came a meſſenger unto Saul, ſaying, Haſte thee, and come: for the Philiſtines have † invaded the land q.

q God ſtirring them up by his all-diſpoſing Providence to do it at this time for David's reſcue. Compare 2 Kings 19. 9.

28 Wherefore Saul returned from purſuing after David, and went againſt the Philiſtines: therefore they called that place ‖ Sela-hammahlekoth r.

r i.e. The Rock of Diviſions, becauſe there Saul was ſeparated, and in a manner pulled aſunder from David, who was now almoſt within his reach.

29 ¶ And David went up from thence, and dwelt in ſtrong holds at En-gedi.

* Pſal. 57. title, and 142. title.

b Which ſome think to have been Caves into which they uſed to drive their Sheep for ſhelter in tempeſtuous Weather. c i.e. To eaſe his Belly, as this Phraſe is thought to be uſed, Judg. 3. 24. The reaſon whereof is, becauſe the Eaſtern and ſome other Nations of old wore no Breeches, but looſe and long Coats or Gowns, like thoſe which Women with us wear; but ſhorter, whence their Feet and Legges were in a great part uncovered; and ſometimes other parts, which alſo in Scripture are deſigned by the name of the Feet, (of which ſee on Gen. 49. 10. Deut. 28. 57. 2 Kings 18. 27. Iſa. 7. 20.) were expoſed to view. But when they went to perform this office of Nature, which obliged them firſt to lift up their Garments, they afterwards diſpoſed them ſo decently, that all thoſe parts might be covered and kept out of the ſight of others. But poſſibly the words may have another meaning, and it is not to be deſpiſed, that thoſe ancient and venerable Interpreters, the Syriack and Arabick, interpret this Place and Phraſe quite otherwiſe, that Saul went in to ſleep there: which was no uncouth thing to Saul, who being a Military Man, uſed to ſleep with his Soldiers upon the bare Ground, as he did chap. 26. 7. And it is not improbable that Saul being exceeding weary with his eager and almoſt inceſſant purſuit, firſt of David, then of the Philiſtines, and now of David again, both needed and deſired ſome ſleep, God alſo diſpoſing him thereunto, that David might have this eminent occaſion to demonſtrate his integrity to Saul, and to all Iſrael; and, the ſeaſon poſſibly being hot, he might chuſe to ſleep in the Cave, for the benefit of the ſhade. But all the queſtion is, how it may appear that this is the meaning of this Phraſe, and what is the reaſon and ground of it? To which many things may be ſaid. Firſt, That this Phraſe is but twice uſed in Scripture, as far as I remember, here, and Judg. 3. 24. and this ſenſe may conveniently enough agree to both of them; nay, this ſenſe may ſeem better to agree with that place, Judg. 3. for that Summer Parlour, or Summer Chamber (for both ſeem to be the ſame place, and were apparently for the ſame uſe, v. 24, 25.) ſeems to be a place far more convenient for ſleeping, than for eaſing of Nature. And the Servants long ſtay and waiting for their Lord, ſeems to imply that they judged him gone to ſleep (which might take up a conſiderable time), rather than to that other work which requires but a little time. See my Notes on Judg. 3. 24. Secondly, That there are many Hebrew Phraſes, which do confeſſedly ſignifie ſeveral things, albeit, the reaſon of ſuch ſignifications be now utterly unknown to us, though it was doubtleſs known to the ancient Hebrews. Not need I inſtance in particulars, ſeeing it is ſo in all Languages, and particularly in the Engliſh Tongue at this day, in which the uſe of many Proverbs and Phraſes is well underſtood, though the reaſon of them be now loſt. Which if our modern Infidels, who ſcoff at ſome paſſages of Scripture, which they either do not, or will not underſtand, would conſider, they would loſe much of their ſport. Thirdly, Although there be not that clear and full proof of this ſenſe which ſome may require (though indeed it cannot be reaſonably expected in a thing ſo ancient, and in a Phraſe of ſo conciſe and narrow a Language as the Hebrew is, and in an expreſſion ſo rarely uſed in Scripture), yet there are ſome intimations in Scripture which may ſeem to favour this Interpretation. For Perſons compoſing themſelves to ſleep in this manner, are not only noted in the general to have been covered with a Mantle, as is ſaid of Siſera, Judg. 4. 18, 19. but particularly they are ſaid to have their Feet covered, as is expreſly obſerved concerning Boaz when he lay down to ſleep in the threſhing floor, Ruth 3. 4, 7. The reaſon whereof may poſſibly be this, That when they lay down to ſleep in their Garments, they were ſecured as to the other parts of their Body, only their Feet were open and viſible; and therefore it was convenient to cover their Feet; partly, to prevent the inconveniences of Cold, (for which reaſon we here take ſpecial care to cover our Feet in ſuch caſes); and partly, for decency ſake, leſt their Garments being looſe and large below, ſhould be diſordered, and ſo their Nakedneſs ſhould appear, as it happened to Noah, Gen. 9. 21. Compare Exod. 20. 26. And therefore it cannot ſeem ſtrange or forced, if in this place Saul's covering of his feet, deſign his compoſing himſelf to his reſt. And if this be ſo, then the following difficulties of this Aſſtory will appear to be plain and eaſie. For if Saul were faſt aſleep, which might eaſily be perceived by David and his Men within; then it is not ſtrange that Saul neither heard David and his men talking of him, nor felt David when he came to cut off his lap. d For that there were vaſt Caves in thoſe parts is affirmed not only by Joſephus, but alſo by Heathen Authors; and Strabo in his 16*th* Book writes of one which could receive Four thouſand Men.

4 And the men of David ſaid unto him e, Behold, the day of which the LORD ſaid unto thee, Behold, I will deliver thine enemy into thine hand, that thou mayeſt do to him, as it ſhall ſeem good unto thee f. Then David aroſe and cut off the skirt of † Saul's robe privily g.

e Queſt. How came it to paſs that Saul did not hear the debates of David and his Men? Anſ. Firſt, The greater noiſe of Saul's Men and Horſes juſt by the Caves mouth, might eaſily drown the leſſer. Secondly, There were in theſe large and capacious Caves, ſeveral Cells or Parts, whereof ſome were more inward and remote from the Caves mouth, in which they might freely converſe and diſcourſe, and yet neither be heard nor ſeen by Saul, though they could eaſily ſee him, and obſerve all his poſtures and actions, becauſe he was in the mouth of the Cave. Thirdly, Saul might be aſleep, as hath been diſcourſed. f Not that either God might be aſleep, or made any ſuch particular promiſe, as ſome apprehend; but they put this conſtruction upon thoſe confeſſed and known Promiſes which God had made to him, of delivering him from all his Enemies, and carrying him through all hinderances and difficulties to the Throne and Kingdom: Which Promiſe they conceived put him under an Obligation of watching and taking all opportunities which God by his Providence ſhould put into his hand for their accompliſhment, whereof this was an eminent inſtance. g Qu. How could David do thus, and Saul not perceive it? Anſ. Firſt, This might be ſome looſe and upper Garment, which Saul might then lay at ſome diſtance from him, as we oft do on the ſame occaſion. Secondly, In thoſe vaſt Caves there were divers particular Cells and Rooms which were diſtinct one from another, yet ſo as there were ſecret paſſages from one to another, as may be gathered from the relations of Hiſtorians and Travellers. At the mouth of one of theſe, Saul might lay his upper Garment: which David perceiving, and very well knowing all the Cells and Paſſages of that Cave, might go ſome ſecret way to it, and cut off a little part of it. Thirdly, The noiſe which David's morion might be ſuppoſed to make, was but ſmall, and that he well knew would be perfectly drowned with the far greater noiſe of Saul's Army, which lay at the mouth of the Cave. Fourthly, The Heroical Actions of great Men in Scripture are not to be meaſured by common Rules. And as divers of the Prophets and Saints of old were in ſome of their Actions, ſo David might be in this, moved to it by a ſecret and divine impulſe, which alſo gave him confidence of God's aſſiſtance therein, and of the ſucceſs of his Enterprize. Fifthly, This difficulty doth perfectly vaniſh, if Saul was now aſleep. And as no man can prove that he was not; ſo that he was, may ſeem probable from what is ſaid on v. 3.

*1 Sam. 24. 16. 5 And it came to pass afterwards, that *David's heart smote him, because he had cut off Saul's skirt.

h Not only because it was injurious, and reproachful, and dangerous to the King; but possibly because he had some secret thought of doing more to him, though he suppressed and overcame it; for he attempted this in pursuance of his Soldiers suggestion, v. 4. which if followed would have carried him to further Action.

6 And he said unto his men i, The LORD forbid that I should do this thing k unto my master l the LORD's anointed, to stretch forth mine hand against him m, seeing he is the anointed of the LORD n.

i Either, First, Before he cut off Saul's lap. Or rather, Secondly, Afterwards, when he returned with Saul's lap in his hand, and his Soldiers were enraged that he had not killed him. k Which you persuade me to do, even cut off Saul. l Whom I must still own for my Sovereign Lord and King, to whom I owe Allegiance whilst he lives, although after his death the right of the Kingdom be mine. m To wit, to kill him. n A Synecdochical expression. See Gen. 37. 22. h i.e. Anointed by God to the Kingdom; by which Unction his Person was made Sacred and Inviolable, and is so to be accounted by me, and you, and all his Subjects. And as God only Exalted him, and God only could pronounce a Sentence of Deprivation of his Kingdom against him; so it belongs to God only to execute his own Sentence, and actually to Depose him.

† Heb. cut off. 7 So David † stayed o his servants with these words, and suffered them not to rise against Saul: but Saul rose up out of the cave, and went on his way.

o Heb. cut, or clave, or divided, or cut them off. The word notes both the eagerness and violence of David's men in prosecuting their desire, and David's resolutenes in opposing them, as it were, by force. Wherein he shews great Piety, and Generosity, and Loyalty to Saul.

8 David also arose afterward, and went out of the cave, and cried after Saul, saying, My lord the king. And when Saul looked behind him, David stooped with his face to the earth, and bowed himself.

*Psal. 141. 6. 9 ¶ And David said unto Saul, *Wherefore hearest thou mens words p, saying, Behold, David seeketh thy hurt?

p He prudently and modestly Translates the fault from Saul to his followers, and evil counsellors.

10 Behold, this day thine eyes have seen, how that the LORD hath delivered thee to day into mine hand in the cave: and some bade me kill thee, but *mine eye q spared thee, and I said, I will not put forth mine hand against my lord, for he is the LORD's anointed.

q Which words are easily understood both from the nature of the thing, and from the use of this Phrase in other Scriptures, as Deut. 7. 16. and 13. 8. The Eye is said to spare, because it affects the Heart with pity, and moves a Man to spare.

11 Moreover, my father r, See, yea, see the skirt of thy robe in my hand: for in that I cut off the skirt of thy robe, and killed thee not, know thou and see, that there is neither evil nor transgression in mine hand s, and I have not sinned against thee; yet thou huntest my soul to take it.

r So he calls him; partly, because he was his Father-in-law; partly, in testimony of his respect and subjection to him as to a Father; and partly, that by so amiable a compellation he might both insinuate himself into his favour, and mind him of that Duty which as a Father he owed to David. s I neither design mischief against thee with my heart, nor will I execute it with my hand, which my false accusers told thee I would do, if thou didst at any time fall into my hand.

† Or, will judge. 12 The LORD judge † between me and thee, and the LORD avenge me of thee t: but mine hand shall not be upon thee u.

t Or, will avenge me of thee, to wit, if thou dost persist in thy injurious and cruel designs against me. u I will not execute Vengeance on thee, but will leave it wholly to God.

13 As saith the proverb of the ancients, Wickedness proceedeth from the wicked x: but mine hand shall not be upon thee.

x i.e. Wicked men will do wicked actions, among which this is one, to kill their Sovereign Lord and King; as David implied above, v. 6. and more fully expresseth, chap. 26. 9. And therefore if I were so wicked and vile a Person as thy Courtiers represent me to thee, I should make no conscience of laying wicked and violent hands upon thee, but should assassinate thee when I had opportunity. Which because I have now neglected and refused to do, though moved to it by some of my wicked Soldiers; know therefore that I am not guilty of any wicked designs against thee, but am just and innocent towards thee. Or thus: wicked actions (such as that would have been if I had killed thee) proceed only from thee wicked, of which number I am none, and therefore my hand shall not be upon thee.

14 After whom is the king of Israel come out? after whom dost thou pursue? After a dead dog, *Chap. 26. 20. after *a flea y.

y After a worthless, contemptible, and impotent person, such as I am. Thou disparagest thy self in contending with such a Person; and even thy conquest of me will be inglorious and shameful.

15 The LORD therefore be judge, and judge between me and thee, and see, and plead my cause, and † deliver me out of thine hand.

† Heb. judge. 2 Sam. 15.

16 ¶ And it came to pass when David had made an end of speaking these words unto Saul, that Saul said, Is this thy voice, my son David? And Saul lift up his voice, and wept a.

z He knew his voice, though being at a great distance from him, he could not discern his face. a Partly, from the sense of his Sin against God, and of his wicked and base carriage to David, (for there are some such Temporary Passions oft-times in Hypocrites and ungodly Men) and principally from the remembrance of so great and so late a danger, as he had now escaped; which commonly produceth Grief and Tears; as 2 Sam. 13. 36. Yet these may be tears of affection or tenderness (upon the sense of David's kindness) rather than of grief.

17 And he said to David, Thou art more righteous than I: for thou hast rewarded me good b, whereas I have rewarded thee evil c.

b For the Evil that I have designed and done to thee. c For thy good will to me.

18 And thou hast shewed this day how that thou hast dealt well with me: forasmuch as when the LORD had † delivered me into thine hand, thou killedst me not.

19 For if a man find his enemy, will he let him go well away d? wherefore the LORD reward thee good, for that thou hast done unto me this day.

d i.e. He will certainly destroy him. And therefore thou hast not dealt with me after the manner of Men, but hast imitated the clemency of God in this act.

20 And now behold, * I know well e that thou * Chap. shalt be surely king, and that the kingdom of Israel 17. shall be established in thine hand.

e Or, am convinced, not only by the fame of Samuel's Anointing thee, but by God's singular Providence watching over thee; and by that good Spirit, and those great and Princely Vertues wherewith God hath endowed thee.

21 Swear now therefore unto me by the LORD, that thou wilt not cut off my seed after me f, and that thou wilt not destroy my name g out of my fathers house.

f As Princes use to destroy their Competitors, and those that have any hopes of, or pretence to their Crown; and Saul had endeavoured to destroy David for the same reason, and therefore he feared a retaliation. g To wit, by cutting off my Seed. So it is the same thing repeated in other words, as is usual in Scripture.

22 And David sware unto Saul h: and Saul went home; but David and his men gat them up unto the hold i.

h Qu. How then could David destroy so many of Saul's Sons, 2 Sam. 21. 8? Ans. David could bind himself by his Oaths, but he could not bind God, to whose good pleasure all Promises, Vows, and Oaths, must in all reason be submitted; and that was done by God's Command, and God was well pleased with it, 2 Sam. 21. 14. Nor is it to be supposed that David sware not to destroy any of them in case God should specially Command it, or that should by miscarriage render themselves obnoxious to the Sword of Justice: but only that he would not do it barely on his own private account, nor seek occasions of so doing. i To wit, En-gedi, v. 1. For having had so great and frequent experience of Saul's Inconstancy, and Malice, and Perfidiousness, he would trust him no more.

CHAP. XXV.

Samuel dieth: David goeth to the Wilderness of Paran, 1: Nabal's Riches, 2. His and his Wife Abigail's Nature and Condition, 3. David requesteth of Nabal some Relief for his Camp: He entreateth David's Messengers scornfully. David is provoked, and mindeth to destroy him, 4,——13. Abigail understands it, 14,——17. Taketh a Present, 18,—22. And by her Wisdom, 23,——31. Pacifieth David, 32,——35. Nabal hearing of this, dyeth, 36,——38. David taketh Abigail and Ahinoam to be his Wives, 39,——43. Saul having given Michal to Phalti, 44.

AND * Samuel died, and all the Israelites were * Ch. 28. 3 gathered together, and lamented him, and buried him in his house a at Ramah. And David arose, and went down to the wilderness of Paran b.

a According to the manner of those Times. See Gen. 23. 9. and 50. 5. Matth. 27. 60. b In the Southern Borders of the Land of Judah, that so when occasion served, he might retire out of Saul's Dominions.

2 And there was a man in Maon c, whose ‖ possessions were in Carmel d, and the man was very sinful. great, and he had three thousand sheep, and a thousand goats: and he was shearing his sheep in Carmel.

c A place in or near to the Wilderness of Paran. See chap. 23. 24. d Not that Carmel in Issachar; of which see chap. 15. 12. and 1 Kings 18. 19. but another in the Tribe of Judah, near unto Maon, as appears from Jos. 15. 55.

3 Now the name of the man was Nabal, and the name of his wife Abigail: and she was a woman of good understanding, and of a beautiful countenance: but the man was churlish, and evil in his doings, and he was † of the house of Caleb e.

e This is added to aggravate his Crime, That he was a degenerate Branch of that Noble stock of Caleb; and consequently of the Tribe of Judah, as David was.

4 ¶ And David heard in the wilderness, that Nabal did shear his sheep f.

f Which Times were celebrated with Feasting and Jolliry. See 2 Sam. 13. 23, 24.

5 And David sent out ten young men, and David said unto the young men, Get ye up to Carmel, and go to Nabal, and † greet him in my name.

† Heb. ask for him in my name of peace.

6 And thus shall ye say to him that liveth in prosperity g, † Peace be both to thee, and peace be to thine house h, and peace be unto all that thou hast i.

g Heb. to him that liveth. Life is oft put for a prosperous and happy life, as in that Prayer, Let the King live, 1 Sam. 10. 24. 1 Kings 1. 25. and in other passages of Scripture, and other Authors; for an afflicted and calamitous life is unworthy of the name of life, and is esteemed a kind of death, and oft so called, as 2 Cor. 1. 10. and 11. 23. By this expression David both congratulates Nabal's felicity, and tacitly minds him of the penury and distress in which David and his Men now were. h i.e. To all thy Family. i To all thy Goods. So Da'ia's Prayer is very comprehensive, reaching to his Soul, and Body, and Wife, and Children, and Servants, and all his Estate.

† Heb. found. 7 And now I have heard that thou hast shearers: now thy shepherds which were with us, we † hurt them not, neither was there ought missing unto them, all the while they were in Carmel k.

k Which, considering the licentiousness of Soldiers, and the necessities which David and his Men were oft exposed to, was no small favour and priviledge, which Nabal was bound both in justice, and gratitude, and prudence to requite.

8 Ask thy young men, and they will shew thee: wherefore let the young men find favour in thine eyes: (for we come in a good day l) give I pray thee, whatsoever cometh to thine hand, unto thy servants m, and to thy son n David.

l i.e. In a day of Feasting and Rejoycing; when Men are most chearful and liberal; when thou mayst relieve us out of thy abundance without damage to thy self; when thou art receiving the Mercies of God, and therefore obliged to pity and relieve distressed and indigent Persons, Deut. 12. 12. and 14. 26, 29. and 15. 7. m To us who have been and still are ready to serve and guard thee and thine. Or, the word Servants may be only used as a word of respect, frequently used in Scripture, where Inferiors speak to Superiors, especially when they be suppliants, and beg some favour. n So he calls himself, to shew that respect and affection which he bore to Nabal, as being elder and wealthier than himself, and of the same Tribe with himself, and a Branch of so worthy a Family as Nabal's was.

9 And when Davids young men came, they spake to Nabal according to all those words in the name of David, and † ceased.

10 ¶ And Nabal answered David's servants, and said, Who is David o? and who is the son of Jesse? There be many servants now a days that break away, every man from his master p.

o What relation or obligation have I to David? p Hereby he taxeth both David, as one revolted from, and risen up against Saul his Lord and Master; and his Soldiers as Runagates from their Masters and Creditors, &c. See chap. 22. 2.

† Heb. slaughter. 11 Shall I then take my bread, and my water q, and my † flesh that I have killed for my shearers, and give it unto men whom I know not whence they be?

q He speaketh thus, either because in those hot and dry Parts Water was scarce and precious: or, Water is here put for any kind of Drink, as Bread is oft taken for all sorts of Meat.

12 So David's young men turned their way, and went again, and came and told him all those sayings.

13 And David said unto his men, Gird ye on every man his sword r. And they girded on every man his sword, and David also girded on his sword: and there went up after David about four hundred men, and two hundred abode by the stuff s.

r Having resolved and sworn to revenge himself of Nabal, as is expressed ver. 21, 22. s See chap. 17. 22. and 30. 24.

14 ¶ But one of the young men told Abigail t Nabals wife, saying, Behold, David sent messengers

t Wisely considering the mischievous effects likely to follow so churlish a message.

† Heb. shamed. 15 But the men were very good unto us, and we were not † hurt, neither missed we any thing as long as we were conversant with them, when we were in the fields.

16 They were a wall u unto us both by night and day, all the while we were with them keeping the sheep.

u i.e. A defence against wild Beasts, and Robbers, and Enemies.

17 Now therefore know, and consider what thou wilt do: for evil is determined against our master, and against all his houshold x: for he is such a son of Belial, that a man cannot speak to him y.

x Which it was easie to guess; either from some threatning expressions which David's Men used; or from the consideration of David's great Power, and that rage which so high a provocation was likely to produce in Military Persons. y To wit, without hazard to himself, and therefore I acquaint thee, rather than him, with this matter.

18 ¶ Then Abigail made haste, and took two hundred loaves z, and two bottles of wine, and five sheep ready dressed, and five measures of parched corn, and an hundred † clusters of raisins, and two † Or, lumps. hundred cakes of figs, and laid them on asses.

z Which she did without his leave, and against his mind, because it was a case of apparent necessity, for the preservation of her self, and Husband, and all the Family from imminent ruin. And surely, that real and urgent necessity which dispenseth with God's positive Commands, might well dispense with the Husband's right, in this case.

19 And she said unto her servants, Go on before me, behold, I come after you a: but she told not her husband Nabal.

a For she knew she could quickly overtake them.

20 And it was so, as she rode on the ass, that she came down by the covert of the hill b, and behold, David and his men came down c against her, and she met them.

b In the lower part, and under the shadow of the Hill, or of the Trees that grew upon it; so that David did not see her till she met him. c To wit, from another opposite Hill.

21 (Now David had said d, Surely in vain have I kept all that this fellow e hath in the wilderness, so that nothing was missed of all that pertained unto him, and he hath requited me evil for good.

d Either in his Journey, or as soon as he heard that reproachful answer. e Whom he thought unworthy to be named, for his barbarous Ingratitude and Churlishness.

22 So, and more also do God unto the enemies of David f, if I leave of all that pertain unto him by the morning light, any that pisseth against the wall g.)

f i.e. Unto David himself. But because it might seem ominous and unnatural to Curse himself, therefore by a Figure called Euphemismus, instead of David, he mentions David's Enemies. See 1 Sam. 20. 16. The words may be thus rendred: So and more also let God do fo (the Hebrew Lamed being very oft so used) the Enemies of David, i.e. Let God work for them, and give them as much Prosperity and Success as Nabal hath hitherto had. Or, let God utterly destroy their Enemies; and especially, my self the chief of them, if I do not destroy this Man. g i.e. Any of the Males, for they only do so; and of them this Phrase is manifestly understood; 1 Kings 14. 10. and 21. 21. and 2 Kings 9. 8. And Men not wholly barbarous have generally spared Women in such cases. Qu. Why then was Abigail so much concerned and afraid? Answ. Partly from humanity, and the horror of so general and dreadful a Slaughter of her Family and nearest Relations: and partly, because when the Sword was once drawn, she knew not where it would rest, nor whether she should escape: for she knew nothing of this limitation of David's threatning, till she came to him.

23 And when Abigail saw David, she hasted and lighted off the ass, and fell before David on her face, and bowed her self to the ground h, h Not only in token of deep reverence, but as a most humble suppliant; as 2 Kings 4. 27.

24 And fell at his feet, and said, Upon me, my LORD, upon me let this iniquity be h, and let thine handmaid, I pray thee, speak in thine † audience, † Heb. ear. and hear the words of thine handmaid.

h Impute Nabal's Sin to me, and if thou pleasest, punish it in me, who here offer my self as a Sacrifice to thy just Indignation. This whole Speech of Abigail is done with great artifice; and she doth here, by an absolute submitting to Mercy, without any pretence of justification of what was done, (but rather with aggravation of it) endeavour to work upon David's Generosity, and good nature, to pardon it. And, with great Art, first would divert the Punishment from her Husband to her self, because she had then much more to say, why David should spare her, then why he should spare Nabal. And there was hardly any head of Argument, whence the greatest Orator might argue in this case, which she doth not manage to the best advantage, and most plausible insinuations for such an exigent.

25 Let not my lord, I pray thee, † regard i this † Heb. lay man of Belial m, even Nabal: for as his name is, it is so is he: Nabal is his name, and folly is with him: † Heb. heart. but I thine handmaid saw not the young men of my lord, whom thou didst send o.

l His Person and Words deserve thy contempt, but not thy regard. m For such he hath shewed himself to be by this wicked and abominable carriage towards thee. n His noted folly and stupidity is a more proper Object for thy pity than anger. His foolish Answer to thy Servants did not proceed from any ill design, or deep Malice, but from brutish Sottishness, and want of the understanding of a Man in him. It may be thought a great Crime, that she traduceth her Husband in this manner. But this may be said for her, That she told them nothing but what they all knew concerning him, and that she only seemed to take away that which he never had indeed, to wit, his good Name, that she might preserve that which he had, and which was more dear and important to him, even his Life and Soul. o Though I freely submit my self to the Punishment in my Husband's stead, yet I was innocent of the Crime.

26 Now therefore, my lord, as the LORD liveth and as thy soul liveth, seeing the LORD hath withholden thee from coming to shed blood p, and from † avenging thy self with thine own hand; now let thine enemies, and they that seek evil to my lord be as Nabal q.

p Seeing God hath so ordered this business by his wise and wonderful Providence, that I should accidentally, and unexpectedly come to the knowledge of my Husband's vile and sordid Carriage; and that I should come to meet thee, and find thee so gracious, as to give a favourable Audience; and all this, that hereby he might with-hold thee from the Sin of Blood-guiltiness. q Let them be as contemptible and hateful as Nabal is, and will be for this odious Action; let them be as unable to do thee any hurt as he is; let them be forced to yield to thee, and implore thy Pardon and Favour, as Nabal now doth by my mouth: let the Vengeance thou didst design upon Nabal and his Family, fall upon their heads, who, by their constant and inveterate Malice against thee, do more deserve it than this silly Fool for this one miscarriage; and much more than all the rest of our Family, who, as they are none of thine Enemies, not such as seek thee evil, so they were no way guilty of this wicked Action. And therefore spare these, and execute thy Vengeance upon more proper Objects.

27 And now this ‖ blessing r which thine handmaid hath brought unto my lord, let it even be given unto the young men that † follow my lord s.

r So a Gift or Present is called here, and Gen. 33. 11. and elsewhere; not only because the matter of it comes from God's blessing; but also because it is given with a Blessing, or with a good Will. s As being unworthy of thine acceptance or use.

28 I pray thee, forgive the trespass of thine handmaid t: for the LORD will certainly make my lord a sure house u, because my lord fighteth the battels of the LORD x, and evil hath not been found in thee, all thy days y.

t i.e. Which I have taken upon my self, v. 24. and which, if it be not Pardoned, but Punished, the Punishment will reach to me. u i.e. Will give the Kingdom to thee, and to thy House for ever, as he hath promised thee. And therefore let God's great kindness to thee, make thee gentle and merciful to others; do not sully thy approaching Glory with the stain of Innocent Blood; but consider, that it is the glory of a King (which thou art by God's appointment, and shall e're long actually be) to pass by Offences; and that it will be thy loss to cut off such as will shortly be thy Subjects. x i.e. For the Lord, and for the People of the Lord against their Enemies; especially, the Philistines. And as that this is thy proper Work, and therein thou mayest expect God's blessing and help; so it is not thy work to draw thy Sword in thy own private quarrel against any of the people of the Lord; and God will not bless thee in it. y Though thou hast been oft aspersed, and charged with many Crimes, by Saul and others; yet thy Innocency hath been, and is evident to all Men: Do not therefore now by this cruel act of Vengeance justifie thine Enemies Reproaches, nor blemish thy great and just Reputation.

29 Yet a man z is risen to pursue thee, and to seek thy soul a: but the soul of my lord shall be bound in the bundle of life b with the LORD thy God c, and the souls of thine enemies, them shall he sling out, † as out of the middle of a sling d.

z To wit, Saul, though no way injured nor justly provoked by thee. a i.e. To take away thy Life. b Or, in the bundle: i.e. In the Society, or Congregation of the living; out of which, men are taken, and cut off by Death. The Phrase is taken from the common usage of Men, who bind those things in bundles, which they are afraid to lose, because things that are solitary and unbound, are soon lost. The meaning of the place is, God will preserve thy Life; and therefore it becomes not thee, unjustly and unnecessarily to take away the Lives of any; especially of the People of thy God and Saviour. c i.e. In the hand and custody of God, who, by his watchful Providence, preserves this Bundle, and all that are in it; and thee in a particular and singular manner, as being thy God in a peculiar way, and special Covenant. God himself will hide, and keep thee in the secret of his Presence. Psal. 31. 20. where no hand of violence can reach thee. And therefore all the Attempts of Saul or others against thee, are vain and ridiculous. For who can destroy whom God will keep? d God himself will cut them off suddenly, violently, and irresistibly; and cast them far aways, both from his Presence, and from thy Neighbourhood, and from all capacity of doing thee any hurt.

30 And it shall come to pass, when the LORD shall have done to my lord, according to all the good that he hath spoken concerning thee, and shall have appointed thee ruler over Israel;

31 That this shall be † no grief unto thee, nor † offence of heart unto my lord e, either that thou hast shed blood causeless f, or that my lord † hath avenged himself g: but when the LORD shall have † dealt well with my lord, then remember thine handmaid h.

e Thy Mind and Conscience will be free from all the Torment which the guilt and shame of such an Action would cause in thee. By which, the cunningly insinuates, what a blemish this would be to his Glory, what a disturbance to his Peace and Felicity, if he proceeded to execute his Purpose: and withal implies, how sweet and comfortable it would be to him to remember, that he had for conscience to God denied himself, and restrained his Passions. f Which she signifies would be done if he should go on. For though Nabal had been guilty of abominable Rudeness, Uncharitableness, and Ingratitude; yet he had done nothing worthy of Death, by the Laws of God or of Man. And whatsoever he had done, the rest of his Family were innocent. g Which is directly contrary to God's Law, Levit. 19. 18. Deut. 32. 35. compare with Rom. 12. 19. h When God shall make thee King, and I shall have occasion to apply my self to thee for Justice, or Relief, let me find Grace in thy sight, and so let me do at this time. Or, and the Lord will bless my lord, and recompense thee for this Mortification of thy Passion, and thou wilt remember thine handmaid: i.e. Thou wilst remember my Counsel with satisfaction to thy self, and thankfulness to me.

32 ¶ And David said unto Abigail, Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, which sent thee i this day to meet me:

i Which by his gracious and singular Providence so disposed Matters, that thou shouldest come to me: He rightly begins at the Fountain of this Deliverance, which was God; and then proceeds to the Instruments.

33 And blessed be thy advice, and blessed be thou k, which hast kept me this day from coming to shed blood l, and from avenging my self with mine own hand.

k i.e. The Lord bless and recompense thee, for this thy good Advice. l Which I had sworn to do. Hereby it plainly appears, That Oaths whereby Men bind themselves to any Sin, are Null and Void: and as it was a Sin to make them; so it is adding sin to sin to perform them.

34 For in very deed, as the Lord God of Israel liveth, which hath kept me back from hurting thee m, except thou hadst hasted and come to meet me, surely there had not been left unto Nabal by the morning light, any that pisseth against the wall.

m Not that he intended to Kill her, but the Males only: as was noted on v. 22. But their Destruction was a dreadful Affliction and Damage to her.

35 So David received of her hand that which she had brought him, and said unto her, Go up in peace to thine house: see, I have hearkened to thy voice, and have accepted thy person n.

n i.e. Shewed my Acceptance of thy Person, by my grant of thy Request: See Gen. 19. 21.

36 ¶ And Abigail came to Nabal, and behold he held a feast in his house like the feast of a king o, and Nabals heart was merry within him, for he was very drunken: wherefore she told him nothing p, less or more, until the morning light.

o As the manner was upon those solemn Occasions. Sordid Covetousness, and vain Prodigality were met together in him. p He being then uncapable of Admonition, his Reason and Conscience being both asleep.

37 But it came to pass in the morning, when the wine was gone out of Nabal, and his wife had told him these things that his heart died within him, and he became as a stone q.

q He was oppressed with Grief, and fainted away through the fear and horror of so great a Mischief, though it was past. As one, who having in the Night galloped over a narrow Plank, laid upon a broken Bridge, over a deep River; when in the Morning he came to review it, was struck dead with the horror of the danger he was in.

38 And it came to pass about ten days after, that the LORD smote Nabal, that he died r.

r God either inflicted some other stroke or Disease upon him, or increased his Grief and Fear to such an height, as killed him.

39 ¶ And when David heard that Nabal was dead, he said, Blessed be the LORD, that hath pleaded the cause of my reproach from the hand of Nabal s, and hath kept his servant from evil t: for the LORD hath returned the wickedness of Nabal upon his own head. And David sent u and communed with Abigail, to take her to him to wife.

s How could David rejoyce at the Death of his Enemy? Answ. Although it may be said, that he rejoyced not in Nabal's Death as such, but only in the declaration of God's Justice in punishing so great a Wickedness; which was an honour to God, and a document, and therefore a benefit to Mankind; and so a Publick good, and cause of joy: Yet the matter is not weighty, if we confess, that this was another instance of Humane Infirmity in David, and that that it is not proposed for our Imitation, but for our Caution. Yet it may be further said, That this was not purely an act of private Revenge, because David was a Publick Person, and Anointed King: and therefore Nabal's Reproach cast upon David above, v. 10, 11. was a contempt of God, and of his Ordinance and Appointment; which was vindicated by this remarkable Judgment. t i.e. From the sin of Bloodshed and Self-revenge, v. 33. u To wit, Messengers; which he thought fitter than to go himself; partly, because if he had met with a Repulse, it had been less Ignominious; and partly, because he would leave her to her freedom and choice, and would not so much as seem to take her by violence. But this doubtless was not done immediately after Nabal's Death, but in some convenient space of time after it; though such Circumstances be commonly omitted in the Sacred History; which gives only the Heads, and most important Passages of things.

40 And when the servants of David were come to Abigail to Carmel, they spake unto her, saying, David sent us unto thee, to take thee to him to wife.

41 And she arose, and bowed her self on her face to the earth, and said x, Behold, let thine handmaid be a servant to wash the feet of the servants of my lord.

x She shewed this Reverence, and spake thus to them, as representing David's Person.

42 And Abigail hasted, and arose and rode upon an ass with five damsels of hers that went † after her: and she went after the messengers of David y, and became his wife.

y Not immediately, but some competent time after they were gone. She considered not David's present straits and penury, which she thought her plentiful Estate might supply; nor his danger from Saul; but by a true and strong Faith, rested upon God's Promise made to David, not doubting but God would perform it.

* Josh. 15. 56. 43 David also took Ahinoam * of Jezreel, and they were also both of them his wives.

* 2 Sam. 3. 13, 15. 44 ¶ But z Saul had given * Michal his daughter, Davids wife, to Phalti the son of Laish, which was of Gallim.

z Or, For, as the Hebrew Vau is oft-times used. For this seems to be added, as a reason why David took other Wives, because Saul had given his former Wife to another Man, that he might as far as he could extinguish all Relation and Kindred to him, whom he hated; and withal, cut off his Hopes and Pretence to the Crown upon that account.

CHAP. XXVI.

Saul by the discovery of the Ziphites cometh to Hachilah against David, 1,—3. Who cometh with Abishai to Saul's Camp; slayeth him from killing Saul, but taketh his Spear and Cruse, 4,——12. He upbraideth Abner, 13,——17. Exhorteth Saul, 18,——20. who acknowledgeth his sin, 21,——25.

AND the Ziphites came unto Saul a to Gibeah, saying, * Doth not David hide himself in the hill of Hachilah, which is before Jeshimon b?

* Chap. 23. 19. Psal. 54. title.

a Having once betrayed him before, they thought their Case desperate with David; and therefore did more strenuously assist Saul in discovering him, in order to his Ruine. b He is returned to his former haunt: of which see Chap. 23. 19. This place might be convenient for him, either for its nearness to Abigail's Estate: or because he might think, that Saul was mollified, and the Ziphites cautioned by the unsuccessfulness of their former Attempt; or because he could from thence, make good his Retreat into other places, if need were.

2 Then Saul arose, and went down to the wilderness of Ziph, having three thousand chosen men of Israel with him, to seek David in the wilderness of Ziph.

3 And Saul pitched in the hill of Hachilah which is before Jeshimon by the way: but David abode in the wilderness, and he saw c that Saul came after him into the wilderness.

c i.e. He understood by Information, probably, from his dear friend Jonathan.

4 David therefore sent out spies, and understood that Saul was come in very deed.

5 ¶ And David arose, and came to the place where Saul had pitched d: and David beheld the place where Saul lay, and * Abner the son of Ner the captain of his host: and Saul lay in the ‖ trench e, and the people pitched round about him.

* Chap. 14. 50. 17. 55. ‖ Or, midst of his carriages.

d Came near to the skirts of Saul's Camp; which he might easily discover from some neighbouring Hill, or Wood; and yet, not be discerned himself. And it is probable, he came thither disguised, and towards Night. e Encompassed with his Carriages for better Security. Compare, 1 Sam. 17. 20.

6 Then answered David, and said to Ahimelech the Hittite f, and to Abishai the son of Zeruiah g, brother to Joab, saying, Who will go down with me to Saul to the camp? And Abishai said, I will go down with thee.

f So called, either because he was one of that Nation, but Converted to the Jewish Religion: Compare 2 Sam. 11. 3. and 15. 18. Or, from his Habitation amongst, or some Relation to some of that People. g David's Sister: See 1 Chron. 2. 16. His Father is not named; either because he was now dead; or because he was an obscure Person.

7 So David and Abishai came to the people h by night, and behold, Saul lay sleeping within the trench, and his spear stuck in the ground at his bolster: but Abner and the people lay round about him.

h i.e. To Saul's Host and Camp. It might seem a bold and strange Attempt; but many things are to be considered: 1. That Heroical Persons have oft attempted thi gs of no less difficulty and danger than this was; as many credible Historians relate. 2. That David did, and might easily perceive, that they were all fast asleep. 3. That David had a particular Assurance that God would preserve him to the Kingdom. 4. That he had a special Instinct from God, to this Work; and possibly God might inform him, that he had cast them into a dead sleep, that he might have this second opportunity of manifesting his Innocency towards Saul, and the Justice of his Cause.

8 Then said Abishai to David, God hath † delivered thine enemy into thine hand this day: now shut up therefore let me smite him, I pray thee, with the spear, even to the earth at once, and I will not smite him the second time i.

i I will Nail him to the Ground at one blow, that I shall not need a second stroke.

9 And David said to Abishai, Destroy him not: for who can stretch forth his hand against the LORD's anointed, and be guiltless k?

k Though Saul be a cruel Tyrant, and rejected by God, yet he is our Sovereign Lord and King; and I, though designed King, as yet am but a private Person, and his Subject; and therefore cannot kill him without Sin, nor will I consent that thou should'st do it.

10 David said furthermore, As the LORD liveth, the LORD shall smite him l, or his day shall come to die m, or he shall descend into battel and perish.

l By some sudden and mortal Stroke. m According to the course of Nature.

11 The LORD forbid that I should stretch forth mine hand against the LORD's anointed: but, I pray thee, take thou now the spear that is at his bolster n, and the cruse of water o, and let us go.

n Which will shew where we have been, and what we could have done. o Which might be put there, either to wash himself in case of any accidental Pollution, which oft happened in the Night: or to refresh him, and quench his thirst in that hot Climate and Season: or for divers other uses.

12 So David took the spear, and the cruse of water from Sauls bolster, and they gat them away, and no man saw it, nor knew it, neither awaked: for they were all asleep, because a deep sleep † from the LORD p was fallen upon them.

p Sent upon them by the Lord, for David's advantage.

13 ¶ Then David went over to the other side, and stood on the top of an hill afar q off (a great space being between them.)

q That his Person might be out of their reach, and yet his Voice might be heard; which in a clear Air, and in the silence of the Night might be heard at a great distance.

14 And David cried to the people, and to Abner the son of Ner, saying, Answerest thou not, Abner? Then Abner answered and said, Who art thou that criest to the king r?

r Or, with or beside the king, i.e. So near to him, so as to disturb the King.

15 And David said to Abner, Art not thou † a valiant man? and who is like to thee s in Israel? Wherefore then hast thou not kept thy lord the king? for there came one of the people in to destroy the king thy lord.

† For Courage and Conduct: and therefore thy fault herein is the greater.

s For Courage and Conduct: and therefore thy fault herein is the greater.

16 This thing is not good t: that thou hast done: as the LORD liveth, ye are † worthy to die, because ye have not kept your master the LORD's anointed. And now see where the kings spear is, and the cruse of water that was at his bolster.

t i.e. It is very bad, a great Crime. A Figure called Meiosis, as Prov. 18. 5. and 19. 2.

17 And Saul knew Davids voice, and said, Is this thy voice, my son u David? And David said, It is my voice, my lord, O king.

u As thou wast my Son by Marriage, so thou hast expressed the care and affection of a Son to me now a second time.

18 And he said, Wherefore doth my lord pursue thus after his Servant? for what have I done? or what evil is in mine hand?

19 Now therefore, I pray thee, let my lord the king hear the words of his servant. If the LORD have ſtirred thee up againſt me x, let him † accept an offering y: but if they be the children of men z, curſed be they before the LORD: for they have driven me out this day from † abiding in the inheritance of the LORD ∴, ſaying, Go, ſerve other gods a.

x If the Lord hath by the evil Spirit which he hath ſent, or by his ſecret Providence, directed thy Rage againſt me for the Puniſhment of thine, or my Sins. y Let us offer up a Sacrifice to God to appeaſe his Wrath againſt us. z Who by their craſty Inſinuations, and Calumnies, have incenſed thee againſt me. He ſheweth his Prudence, and Reverence, and Meekneſs; that he Accuſeth not the King, but tranſlateth the fault wholly upon his Evil Miniſters; as the Iſraelites do in the like Caſe, Exod. 5. 16. ∴ From the Land which God hath given to his People for their Inheritance, and where he hath eſtabliſhed his Preſence and Worſhip. a This was the Language of their Actions. For by driving him from God's Land, and the place of his Worſhip, into Foreign and Idolatrous Lands, they expoſed him to the peril of being either enſnared by their Counſels, or Examples; or forced by their threats and power to worſhip Idols.

20 Now therefore let not my blood fall to the earth b before the face of the LORD c: for the king of Iſrael is come out to ſeek * a flea d, as when one doth hunt a partridge in the mountains d.

* Chap. 24. 14.

b Do not attempt to ſpill my Innocent Blood like Water upon the ground. c Remember, if thou doeſt it, God the Judge of all Men ſeeth it, and will avenge it of thee; though I will not avenge my ſelf. d Hard to be taken, and not worth catching; a mean and contemptible Perſon. d Where his advantage doth no way compenſate his Labour.

21 ¶ Then ſaid Saul, I have ſinned. Return, my ſon David, for I will no more do thee harm, becauſe my ſoul was precious in thine eyes this day: behold, I have played the fool, and have erred exceedingly e.

e He not only confeſſeth, but aggravateth his fault, becauſe his Conſcience was fully convinced, though his Heart was not changed.

22 And David anſwered and ſaid, Behold the kings ſpear, and let one of the young men come over and fetch it.

23 The LORD render to every man his righteouſneſs and his faithfulneſs f: for the LORD delivered thee into my hand to day, but I would not ſtretch forth mine hand againſt the LORD's anointed.

f I deſire, that God would deal no otherwiſe with me, than I have deal with thee.

24 And behold, as thy life was much ſet by this day in mine eyes, ſo let my life be much ſet by in the eyes of the LORD, and let him deliver me out of all tribulation.

25 Then Saul ſaid to David, Bleſſed be thou, my ſon David: thou ſhalt both † do great things, and alſo ſhalt ſtill prevail. So David went on his way g, and Saul returned to his place.

† Heb. in doing thou ſhalt do: Dan. 11. 28, 32.

g Knowing Saul's unſtable and deceitful Heart, he would not truſt to any of his Profeſſions, or Promiſes, but kept out of his reach.

CHAP. XXVII.

David with his 600 Men, and all his Family, goeth to K. Achiſh: And abideth there a while: Saul purſueth no more after him, 1,——4. He obtaineth Ziklag of Achiſh to dwell in, 5,——7. He invadeth neighbour Nations: Leaves no man alive to complain: Perſwadeth Achiſh he fought againſt Judah, 8,——12.

AND David ſaid in his heart, I ſhall now † periſh one day by the hand of Saul a: there is nothing better for me, than that I ſhould ſpeedily eſcape into the land of the Philiſtines b, and Saul ſhall deſpair of me, to ſeek me any more in any coaſt of Iſrael, ſo ſhall I eſcape out of his hand.

a I ſee by this late experience his reſtleſs and implacable hatred againſt me; and how little heed is to be given to all his pretences of Repentance or Friendſhip. b But this was certainly a very great miſtake and fault in David: for 1. This proceeded from groſs diſtruſt of God's Promiſe and Providence; and that after ſuch repeated demonſtrations of God's peculiar Care over him, which gave him cauſe to conclude, quite contrary to what is here ſaid. 2. He forſakes the place where God had ſettled him, Chap. 22. 5. and given him both aſſurance and experience of his Protection there. 3. He voluntarily runs upon that Rock, which he particularly his Enemies for throwing him upon, Chap. 26. 19. and upon many other Snares and Dangers, as the following Hiſtory will ſhew; and withal, deprives the people of the Lord of thoſe ſuccours which he might have given them, in caſe of a Battel. But it pleaſed God to leave David to himſelf in this, as well as in other particulars, that theſe might be ſenſible demonſtrations of the Infirmities of the beſt Men; and of the neceſſity of God's Grace, and daily direction and aſſiſtance: and of the freeneſs and riches of God's Mercy, in paſſing by ſuch great Offences. And beſides, God hereby deſigned to accompliſh his own Counſel, to withdraw David from the Iſraelites, that Saul and they might fall by the hand of the Philiſtines, without any reproach or inconvenience to David, whom God had put into a ſafe place.

2 And David aroſe, and he paſſed over with the ſix hundred men that were with him, unto Achiſh the ſon of Maoch, king of Gath c.

c It might ſeem a bold adventure: but 1. He thought himſelf forced to it by Saul's inveterate Rage, and continued reſolutions to Perſecute him. 2. It is probable, he had ſent ſome Perſons to Treat with him, and had agreed upon Conditions; and received aſſurance of his ſafe and peaceable abode with him. 3. David reaſonably thought, that Achiſh would gladly receive him, as indeed he did; partly, becauſe he ſaw Saul's implacable Enmity againſt him: partly, becauſe by this means he ſhould be freed from the moſt formidable Enemy which he had in all Iſrael, who might do him moſt miſchief in the Battel; which it ſeems at this time he deſigned: and partly, becauſe he came not now alone, as he did before, but brought with him ſufficient Pledges of his Fidelity to Achiſh; namely, all his Soldiers, and his and their Wives, v. 3.

3 And David dwelt with Achiſh at Gath, he and his men, every man with his houſhold even David with his two wives, Ahinoam the Jezreeliteſs, and Abigail the Carmeliteſs, Nabals wife.

4 And it was told Saul that David was fled to Gath, and he ſought no more again for him d.

d By which it is implied, That he would have gone on in Perſecuting David, if he had continued in his Dominions.

5 ¶ And David ſaid unto Achiſh, If I have now found grace in thine eyes, let them give me a place in ſome town in the country, that I may dwell there e: for why ſhould thy ſervant dwell in the royal city with thee f?

e A prudent deſire. Hereby David deſigned, 1. To preſerve his People, both from the Idolatry, and other Vices, which converſation with the Philiſtines would have expoſed them to: and from that Envy, and Malice, and Miſchief, which diverſity of Religion, or other Prejudices, might have cauſed. 2. That he might have opportunity of enterprizing ſomething againſt God's Enemies, without the knowledge or obſervation of the Philiſtines. f Which is too great an honour for me, and too burdenſome to thee, and may be an occaſion of ſuſpicion and offence to thy People, and of many other inconveniences.

6 Then Achiſh gave him Ziklag g that day: wherefore Ziklag pertaineth unto the kings of Judah h unto this day i.

g Not only to Inhabit, but to Poſſeſs it as his own. Which he did, to lay the greater obligations upon David, whom he knew ſo able to ſerve him. h It was given to the Tribe of Judah before, Joſh. 15. 31. and afterwards to the Tribe of Simeon, Joſh. 19. 5. whoſe inheritance was given them within the inheritance of the children of Judah, Chap. 19. 1. But the Philiſtines kept the Poſſeſſion of it till this time, and were hitherto permitted to do ſo. And being now given by them to David, it now belonged not to the people of the Tribe of Judah, to whom it was allotted before; but to the King of Judah, David and his Heirs for ever. i This, and ſome ſuch Clauſes ſeem to have been added by ſome Sacred Writers, after the main ſubſtance of the ſeveral Books was written.

10 And Achiſh ſaid, ‖ Whither have ye made a rode to day? And David ſaid, Againſt the ſouth of Judah o, and againſt the ſouth of the Jerahmeelites q, and againſt the ſouth of the Kenites r.

o Theſe and the following Words are ambiguous: for they may be underſtood, either of the Southern parts of Judah, &c. which he would have, Achiſh underſtand: or, of another Country lying Southward from Judah, &c. which David meant, and which was the truth. So though it was not a downright lye; yet it was an Equivocation, with an intention to deceive, which is the formality of a Lye, and was contrary to that ſimplicity which became David, both as a Prince, and as an eminent Profeſſor of the true Religion.

p For, that is: for in the following words, he particularly expreſſeth what part of the South of Judah he went againſt, even that which was Inhabited by the Jerahmeelites, and by the Kenites.

q The Poſterity of Hezron, a Family of Judah, 1 Chron. 2. 9, 25.

r The Poſterity of Jethro, which choſe to dwell in the South of Judah, Judg. 1. 16. See Numb. 24. 21.

11 And David ſaved neither man nor woman alive, to bring tidings to Gath, ſaying, Leſt they ſhould tell on us s, ſaying, ſo did David, and ſo will be his manner all the while he dwelleth in the countrey of the Philiſtines.

s That the tidings of this Action againſt this People (who were, it ſeems, either Tributaries to, or confederates with Achiſh) might neither come quickly nor certainly to Achiſh his Court: which he might the rather preſume himſelf, becauſe Achiſh and all his Men were now buſily imployed in their Warlike Preparations againſt the Iſraelites; and if any ſlying rumour came thither, he thought by his Intereſt and Artifices he could eaſily diſcredit and daſh it. Beſides the conſideration of God's Curſe denounced againſt the People whom he had now deſtroyed, and of God's particular Promiſes made to him, and of his ſpecial Providence which he conſtantly experienced watching over him, made him more ſecure and confident in this and in many other hazardous attempts.

12 And Achiſh believed David t, ſaying, He hath made his people Iſrael † utterly to abhor him: therefore he ſhall be my ſervant for ever.

t Partly, becauſe of his confidence in David's Authority and Fidelity: partly, becauſe moſt Men eaſily believe what they heartily wiſh to be true: And partly, from God's Providence, which blinded him in this and in divers other particulars relating to David's coming hither, and abiding here.

CHAP. XXVIII.

Achiſh intending War againſt Iſrael, relieth on David, 1,——2. Saul having deſtroyed the Witches, yet Samuel being dead, in his fear, conſulteth of God, ſeeketh to a Witch, 3,——8. She, encouraged by Saul, raiſeth Samuel: Of whom hearing his approaching ruine, he fainteth, 9,——20. The Woman, with his Servants, refreſh him with Meat, 21,——25.

AND it came to paſs in thoſe days, that the Philiſtines gathered their armies together for warfare to fight with Iſrael a: And Achiſh ſaid unto David, Know thou aſſuredly, that thou ſhalt go out with me to battel b, thou and thy men.

a Encouraged thereunto by Samuel's death, and Saul's degeneration, and David's preſence with Achiſh. b This he faith, partly, to try his Sincerity; and partly, in confidence of David's Fidelity.

2 And David ſaid to Achiſh, Surely thou ſhalt know what thy ſervant can do c. And Achiſh ſaid to David, Therefore d will I make thee keeper of mine head e for ever.

c He ſpeaks ambiguouſly, as he did before, that Achiſh might underſtand him, as he did, of his acting for him againſt the Iſraelites; whereas he meant it of his acting for the Iſraelites againſt the Philiſtines, to which he was obliged both by God's expreſs Command, and by his indelible and manifold Obligations to God, and to God's People; and by his own manifeſt intereſt. Though it is likely he would have managed his Affairs with all poſſible regard and care of Achiſh's Perſon, to whom alone, upon the matter, David ſtood obliged, and not to the reſt of the Philiſtines, who had an ill opinion of him, as we ſhall ſee. d For that Valour which I doubt not thou wilt ſhew on my behalf. e i.e. Of my Body and Life, the Captain of my Life-Guard.

3 ¶ Now * Samuel was dead ∴ and all Iſrael had lamented him, and buried him in Ramah, even in his own city f: and Saul had put away thoſe that had familiar ſpirits, and the wizards g out of the land h.

∴ This is mentioned here as the reaſon why Saul did not enquire of Samuel; which, if he had now been alive, he would have done. f Where he had his Birth and Education, and moſt ſetled Habitation, 1 Sam. 19. 18. g According to God's Command, Levit. 19. 31. and 20. 6, 27. Deut. 18. 11. This he did, either by Samuel's Inſtigation: or from a conceit that the evil Spirit came upon him by ſome of their means: or, that he might gain the repute of a Religious Prince, which was very uſeful to him: or, that he might quiet his troubled Conſcience, and pleaſe God, as far as his Intereſt would give him leave. And this is here related, partly, to ſhew that an Hypocrite, and wicked Man, may obey ſome of God's Commands: and principally to bring in the following Hiſtory. h Of Iſrael.

4 ¶ And the Philiſtines gathered themſelves together, and came and pitched in Shunem i: and Saul gathered all Iſrael together, and they pitched in Gilboa k.

i A Town in the Tribe of Iſſachar, Joſ. 19. 18. k A Mountain not far from the Valley of Jezreel, where the Battel was fought, chap. 31. 1. 2 Sam. 1. 21. So the two Armies ſeem to be placed in the ſame manner as they were chap. 17. each upon an Hill, and a Valley between them.

5 And when Saul ſaw the hoſt of the Philiſtines l, he was afraid, and his heart greatly trembled m.

l From Mount Gilboa, chap. 31. 1. m Partly, from the greatneſs and reſoluteneſs of the Hoſt of the Philiſtines, who were the agreſſors: partly, from the loſs of David, who might have been of great uſe to him at this time: partly, from the Conſcience of his own manifeſt Guile, and juſt expectation of Divine Vengeance oft threatned, and now in all likelihood to be inflicted upon him.

6 And when Saul enquiredof the LORD n, the LORD anſwered him not o, neither by dreams, nor by Urim, nor by Prophets p.

n In his ſlight and perfunctory way, as chap. 14. 19. as appears from hence, that when God did not ſpeedily anſwer him, he goes to the Devil for an anſwer, v. 7. For which reaſon he is ſaid, not to have enquired of the Lord, 1 Chron. 10. 14. i.e. not ſeriouſly, and after the right order. Poſſibly he enquired by ſome Prophet then with him, or by the Prieſt before the Ark. o Becauſe he ſought him not in due order; not by the Urim and Thummim which were in the Ephod, which he by his cruelty to the Prieſts had loſt, chap. 23. 6. and becauſe he did not truly repent of, nor put away his ſins, which provoked God, and kept him from anſwering; as Saul well knew by his own conſcience and experience, chap. 14. 37, 38, 39. p i.e. Neither by ordinary means, nor extraordinary.

7 ¶ Then ſaid Saul unto his ſervants, Seek me a woman q that hath a familiar ſpirit r, that I may go to her, and enquire of her. And his ſervants ſaid to him ſ, Behold, there is a woman that hath a familiar ſpirit at Endor t.

q Rather than a man; for he thought that Sex moſt likely to be given to thoſe wicked Arts, as being the weaker Sex, and ſo apteſt to be deceived, and moſt prone to Superſtition, and oft-times moſt malicious and revengeful. r One that converſeth with the Devil, and dead Men's Ghoſts, and by them can diſcover future things. See Iſa. 8. 19. ſ Inſtead of diſſuading him from this wicked and deſtructive practice, which they ſhould and would have done, if they had either loved God or their King, they further him in it. t A place in the Tribe of Manaſſeh, within Jordan, not very far from the place where the Armies were encamped.

8 And Saul diſguiſed himſelf u, and put on other raiment, and he went, and two men with him, and they came to the woman by night, and he ſaid, I pray thee divine unto me by the familiar ſpirit, and bring me him up whom I ſhall name unto thee.

u Both becauſe he was aſhamed to be known, or thought guilty of this practice; and becauſe he ſuſpected that the Woman, had ſhe known him, would not practice her Art before him.

9 And the woman ſaid unto him, Behold, thou knoweſt x what Saul hath done, how he hath cut off thoſe that have familiar ſpirits, and the wizards out of the land: wherefore then layeſt thou a ſnare for my life, to cauſe me to die y?

x For his Speech and Garb diſcovered him to be an Iſraelite, and therefore acquainted with theſe matters. y By accuſing me to Saul as guilty of a capital Crime.

10 And Saul ſware to her by the LORD, ſaying, As the LORD liveth, there ſhall no † puniſhment happen to thee for this thing.

† Heb. iniquity. So Gr.

11 Then ſaid the woman, Whom ſhall I bring up unto thee? And he ſaid, Bring me up Samuel z.

z Whoſe kindneſs and compaſſion to him, as he had formerly experienced, ſo now he expected it in his deep diſtreſs. This practice of divination by the dead, or by the Ghoſts or Souls of dead Perſons, called up by Magical Art, was very uſual among all Nations, and from Saul learned it.

12 And when the woman ſaw Samuel, ſhe cryed with a loud voice a: and the woman ſpake to Saul, ſaying, Why haſt thou deceived me? for thou art Saul b.

a For fear of her life, Saul himſelf being Witneſs of her Crime. b This ſhe knew, either by ſome geſture of Reverence, which this ſuppoſed Samuel might ſhew to Saul, as to the King: or, by information from this Ghoſt, or from the Spirit by whoſe help ſhe had raiſed him.

13 And the king ſaid unto her, Be not afraid: for what ſaweſt thou? And the woman ſaid unto Saul, I ſaw ‖ gods c aſcending out of the earth d.

c i.e. A god, a divine Perſon, glorious, and full of majeſty and ſplendor, exceeding not only mortal Men, but common Ghoſts. She uſeth the Plural Number, gods, either after the manner of the Hebrew Language, which commonly uſeth that word of one Perſon: or, after the Language and Cuſtom of the Heathens. But the whole Coherence ſhows that it was but one. For Saul deſired but one, v. 11. and he enquires, and the Woman anſwers only of one, v. 14. d As if it came from the place of the dead.

14 And he ſaid unto her, † What form is he of? And ſhe ſaid, An old man cometh up, and he is covered with a mantle e. And Saul perceived that it was form† Heb. what is his

e The uſual Habit of Prophets, 2 Kings 2. 8, 13. Zech. 13. 4. and particularly of Samuel, 1 Sam. 15. 27. f The Woman pretended, and Saul upon her Suggeſtion believed that it was Samuel indeed; and ſo many Popiſh, and ſome other Writers conceived. But that it was not Samuel, but the Devil repreſenting Samuel, is ſufficiently evident. For, Firſt, It is moſt incredible, that God, who had juſt now refuſed to anſwer Saul by the means which himſelf appointed, and uſed in that caſe, would anſwer him, or ſuffer Samuel to anſwer him in that way, and upon the uſe of thoſe means which God detested and contemned: which would have given great countenance and encouragement to Saul and the Witch, and all Professors and Consulters of those Devilish Arts. Secondly, There are divers passages in this Relation which plainly discover that this was no good, but an evil Spirit: As first, That he receives that Worship from Saul, v. 14. which good Spirits would not suffer, Rebel 19. 10. and 22. 8, 9. Secondly, That amongst his other sins for which he condemneth him, he omitteth this of asking Counsel of one that had a familiar Spirit, to enquire of it; for which transgression, with others, he is expressly said to have died, 1 Chron. 10. 13. which the true Samuel, who was so zealous for God's Honour, and so faithful a Reprover, would never have neglected, especially now, when he takes Saul in the very Fact. Thirdly, That he pretends himself to be disquieted, and brought up, v. 15. by Saul's Instigation, and the Witches Art; which is most false, and impious, and absurd to imagine, concerning those blessed Souls who are returned to their God, Eccles. 12. 7. and entred into peace and rest, Isa. 57. 2. and lodged in Abraham's bosom, Luk. 16. 22. and rest from their labours, Revel. 14. 13. The only Argument of any colour to the contrary, is only this, That the Devil could not so particularly and punctually discover Saul's future Events, as this Samuel doth, v. 19. But this also hath little weight in it; it being confessed and notoriously known, that evil Spirits both in the Oracles of the Heathen, and otherwise, have oft-times foretold future contingencies; God being pleased to Reveal such things to them, and to permit them to be the Instruments of Revealing them to Men, for the trial of some, and for the terror and punishment of others. Besides, the Devil might foresee this by strong conjectures, as by the numerousness, strength, courage, and resoluteness of the Philistine Host, and the quite contrary condition of the Israelites, and by divers other symptoms far above the reach of mortal Men, but such as he by his great Sagacity could easily discern. And for that express determination of the time, to morrow, v. 19. that word may be understood not of the very next day, but indefinitely of some short time after this, as it is taken, Exod. 13. 14. Deut. 6. 20. Jos. 4. 6, 21. And then it was easie to gather from the present posture of the two Armies, that the Fight and the Ruine of the Israelites was very near. And that it was not the very next day, but some days after this, is evident from the course of the Story, and hath been proved by a late Learned Writer. See my Latin Synopsis on this place.

15 ¶ And Samuel said to Saul, Why hast thou disquieted me to bring me up g? And Saul answered, I am sore distressed; for the Philistines make war against me, and God is departed from me, and answereth me no more, neither † by prophets, nor by dreams h: therefore I have called thee, that thou mayest make known unto me what I shall do.

g As the Devil appeared in Samuel's Shape and Garb, so also he speaketh in his Person, that he might ensnare Saul, and encourage others to seek to him in this wicked way. And God permits him to do so for Saul's greater condemnation and punishment. h He omitteth the Urim here, because he neither did nor could enquire by that, because Abiathar had carried it away to David, and so he expected no answer that way.

16 Then said Samuel, Wherefore then dost thou ask of me, seeing the LORD is departed from thee, and is become thine enemy?

17 And the LORD hath done ‖ to him i, * as he spake by † me k: for the LORD hath rent the kingdom out of thine hand, and given it to thy neighbour, even to David:

i i.e. To David, as it is explained in the following words. The Pronoun Relative put before the Noun to which it belongs, as is usual in the Hebrew Text, as Psal. 87. 1. and 105. 19. Prov. 7. 7, 8. Jer. 40. 5. Otherwise, to him, is put for to thee; such changes of Persons being frequent among the Hebrews. Otherwise, for himself, i.e. for the accomplishment of his Counsel, and Prediction, and Oath, and for the Glory of his Justice and Holiness. k Still he nourisheth this persuasion in Saul, that it was the true Samuel that spake to him.

* Chap. 15. 19.

18 * Because thou obeyedst not the voice of the LORD, nor executedst his fierce wrath upon Amalek l, therefore hath the LORD done this thing unto thee this day.

l He mentions this as an eminent instance of his disobedience.

19 Moreover, the LORD will also deliver * Israel with thee, into the hand of the Philistines: and to morrow shalt thou and thy sons be with me m: the LORD also shall deliver the host of Israel into the hand of the Philistines.

m i.e. In the state of the dead; and so it was true both of Saul and Jonathan. Or, in the state of rest: For though thou shalt suffer here for thy sin, yet after death thou shalt be happy, as dying in the Lord's Quarrel: So the Devil's design might be to flatter Saul into an opinion of his own future happiness, and to take him off from all serious thoughts and cares about it. And it is here observable, That as it was the manner of the Heathen Oracles to answer ambiguously, the better to save his credit in case of mistake, (the Devil himself not being certain of future events, but only conjecturing at what was most likely): so doth this counterfeit Samuel here. For, as concerning the time, he says to morrow: which he understood indifferently for the very next day, or for some short time after. And, as concerning the condition, thou shalt be with me; which may be understood either of a good condition, if understood as spoken in the Person of Samuel; or, of a bad condition, if understood as spoken by an evil Spirit; or, at least indefinitely of a dead condition, be it good or evil: which last he foresaw by circumstances to be very likely.

20 Then Saul † fell straightway all along on the earth n, and was sore afraid, because of the words of Samuel, and there was no strength in him: for he had eaten no bread all the day, nor all the night.

n Being quite dis-spirited with these sad and surprizing tidings, and so unable to stand.

21 ¶ And the woman came unto Saul o, and saw that he was sore troubled, and said unto him, Behold, thine handmaid hath obeyed thy voice, and I have put my life in my hand, and have hearkened unto thy words which thou spakest unto me.

o From whom she departed, when she had brought him and Samuel together, that they might more freely converse together, as being alone.

22 Now therefore, I pray thee, hearken thou also unto the voice of thine hand-maid p, and let me set a morsel of bread before thee; and eat, that thou mayest have strength when thou goest on thy way.

p This earnestness did not come meerly from her humanity and respect to Saul, but from a prudent and necessary care of her self, because if Saul had died in her House, his Blood would have been charged upon her.

23 But he refused, and said I will not eat. But his servants, together with the woman, compelled him q, and he hearkened unto their voice: so he arose from the earth, and sate upon the bed.

q i.e. Did over-persuade him, by importunate intreaties, as the next words shew.

24 And the woman had a fat calf in the house, and she hasted, and killed it, and took flour, and kneaded it, and did bake unleavened bread thereof.

r Not having time to Leaven it.

25 And she brought it before Saul, and before his servants, and they did eat: then they rose up, and went away that night s.

s i.e. Before Morning. For he came by Night, v. 8. and went away before Day; not willing to have it discovered that he had consulted with a Witch.

CHAP. XXIX.

David marching with the Philistines: Is disallowed by their Princes: Achish pleadeth for him, and against his Will, dismisseth him, 1,—7. He expostulateth with Achish, 8. His Answer, 9, 10. David departeth, 11.

NOW the Philistines gathered together all their armies to Aphek a: and the Israelites pitched by a fountain which is in Jezreel.

a Either, that in the Tribe of Asher, Jos. 19. 24. or rather another Town of that Name in Issachar, though not mentioned elsewhere in Scripture; this being the case of many places, to be but once named.

2 And the lords of the Philistines passed on by hundreds, and by thousands: but David, and his men passed on the rereward with Achish b.

b i. e. As the Life-guard of Achish, as he had promised, chap. 28. 2. Achish being, as it seems, the General of the Army.

3 Then said the princes of the Philistines c, What do these Hebrews here? And Achish said unto the princes of the Philistines, Is not this David the servant of Saul the king of Israel, which hath been with me these days, or these years d, and I have † found no fault in him, since he fell unto me ∴, unto this day.

c The Lords of the other eminent Cities and Territories, who were confederate with him in this expedition. d Q. d. did I say Days? I might have said Years; either because he hath now been with me a full Year and four Months, chap. 27. 7. or because he was with me some Years ago, 1 Sam. 21. 10. and since that time hath been known to me. And it is not improbable, but David, after his escape from thence, might hold some correspondency with Achish, as finding him to be a Man of more generous Temper than the rest of the Philistines, and supposing that he might have need of him for a Refuge in case Saul continued to seek his Life. ∴ i.e. Since he revolted, or left his own King to turn to me. For that sense Achish put upon this escape of David (as it is called chap. 29. 1.) and so is the Phrase of falling to a party, elsewhere used, Jer. 37. 13, 14.

4 And the princes of the Philistines were wroth with him e, and the princes of the Philistines said unto him, * Make this fellow return, that he may go again to his place which thou hast appointed him f, and let him not go down with us to battel, lest in the battel he be an adversary to us: for wherewith should he reconcile himself unto his master? should it not be with the heads of these men g?

* Chap. 12. 19.

e Were unsatisfied and offended with Achish for this Intention and Declaration. f Herein the wise and gracious Providence of God appeared, both in helping him out of those Snares and Difficulties, out of which no human wit could have extricated him, but he must either have been, or have been thought to be a Traitor, and an ungrateful unworthy Person either to the one or to the other side; and moreover in giving him the happy opportunity of recovering his own, and his All from the Amalekites, which had been irrecoverably lost, if he had gone into this Battel. And the Kindness of God to David was the greater, because it had been most just for God to have left David in all those Distresses into which his own finful Counsel and Course had brought him. g i.e. Of these our Soldiers? They speak according to the Rules of Reason and true Policy; for by this very Course, great Enemies have sometimes been reconciled together.

5 Is not this David, of whom they sang one to another in dances, saying, * Saul slew his thousands, and David his ten thousands?

* Chap. 18. 7. & 21. 11.

6 ¶ Then Achish called David, and said unto him, Surely, as the LORD liveth h, thou hast been upright, and thy going out, and thy coming in with me i in the host is good in my sight; for I have not found evil in thee, since the day of thy coming unto me k, unto this day: nevertheless † the lords favour thee not.

h He swears by Jehovah; either, because he did acknowledge their Jehovah to be a God, being, it may be, convinced and instructed therein by David, though he did worship Dagon with him, and above him: or, because this was David's God, and therefore he swore by him; partly, out of complaisance with David, that he might receive his unwelcome Message to him with less offence; and partly, that this Oath might gain more Credit to his words with David. i i.e. Thy whole Conversation with me. See chap. 18. 13 and many other places where that Phrase is used. k Though before that time there was Evil in thee towards me and my People.

7 Wherefore now return and go in peace, that thou † displease not the lords of the Philistines.

8 ¶ And David said unto Achish, But what have I done? and what hast thou found in thy servant so long as I have been † with thee unto this day, that I may not go to fight against the enemies of my lord the king l?

l This was deep dissimulation and flattery, but he apprehended it necessary, lest he should tacitly confess himself guilty of that whereof they accused him, and thereby expose himself to the utmost hazards. These perplexities he brought himself into by his irregular course, in forsaking the Land of Judah, where God had placed him, chap. 22. 5. and promised him Protection, and putting himself into the hands of the Philistines.

9 And Achish answered and said to David, I know thou art good in my sight, as an angel of God m: notwithstanding the princes of the Philistines have said, He shall not go up with us to the battel.

m In whom nothing is blame-worthy. Or, it may be used to express David's great Wisdom; (as well as Integrity) as 2 Sam. 14. 17. and 2 Sam. 19. 27. The Heathens acknowledged good Spirits, which also they worshipped as an inferior sort of Deities, who were Messengers and Ministers to the Supreme God; only Achish had learned the Title of Angels, from the Israelites his Neighbours, and especially from David's Conversation.

10 Wherefore now rise up early in the morning, with thy masters servants n that are come with thee: and as soon as ye be up early in the morning, and have light, depart o.

n He intimates the ground of the Philistines Jealousie concerning David and his Men, that they were all Servants of Saul, and therefore had an Obligation, and were suspected to have an Affection to their old Lord and Master, against whom even David himself could not make them fight, especially with, and for the Philistines. o Before the Battel begin, left, if you delay, the Lords of the Philistines fall upon you, and destroy you.

11 So David and his men rose up early to depart in the morning, to return into the land of the Philistines, and the Philistines went up to Jezreel.

CHAP. XXX.

The Amalekites in David's absence spoil Ziklag: and carry away the people and his two wives captives, 1,—6. David asking counsel is encouraged by God to pursue them, 7,—10. By the means of an Egyptian, who was left behind, he is brought to the enemies, and recovereth all the spoil: and spoileth them, 11,—22. Makes an order for the dividing the prey, 23,—25. Sendeth presents to his friends, 26,—31.

AND it came to pass, when David and his men were come to Ziklag on the third day a, that the Amalekites b had invaded the south c, and Ziklag, and smitten Ziklag d, and burnt it with fire:

a To wit, after David's departure from Achish; for Ziklag was at a great distance from the Camp and place of Fight, as appears from 2 Sam. 1. 2. and David's Men being all Foot-men, could make but slow Marches. b The remainders of that People who lived near those Parts where David had destroyed their Brethren, chap. 27. 8, 9. c To wit, the Southern part of Judah, and the adjacent parts: See below, v. 14. d i.e. Sacked and spoiled it.

2 And had taken the women captives that were therein: they slew not any e, either great or small, but carried them away, and went on their way.

e Which was strange, considering how David dealt with them, chap. 27. 9. But this must be ascribed partly to their selfish or fleshly Interest: for they might reserve them, either to make sale of them for their Profit, or to abuse them for their Lust; or, it may be, to revenge themselves upon David and his Men, by reserving them to extraordinary, and lingring, and repeated Punishments; but principally, to God's over-ruling and wonderful Providence, who let these Bounds to their Rage; and though he designed to chastise David's Sin and Folly, yet would not deliver him nor his up to death.

3 ¶ So David and his men came to the city, and behold, it was burnt with fire, and their wives, and their sons, and their daughters were taken captives.

4 Then David and the people that were with him, lift up their voice and wept, until they had no more power to weep f.

f Till either the Humour was wholly spent, or the Consideration of their Calamity had made them stupid.

5 And Davids two wives were taken captives, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail the wife of Nabal, the Carmelite.

6 And David was greatly distressed: for the people spake of stoning him g, because the soul of all the people was † grieved, every man for his sons, and for his daughters: but David encouraged himself in the LORD his God h.

g As the Author of their Miseries, by coming to Ziklag at first, by provoking the Amalekites to this Cruelty, by his forwardness in marching away with Achish, and leaving their Wives and Children unguarded. h i.e. In this that the All-wise, and All-powerful Lord, was his God by Covenant-relation, and special Promise, and true and fatherly Affection, as he had shewed himself to be in the whole course of his Providence towards him.

7 And David said to Abiathar the priest, Ahimelechs son, I pray thee bring me hither the ephod i: and Abiathar brought thither the ephod to David.

i And put it upon thy self, that thou maist enquire of God according to his Ordinance, Numb. 27. 21. See above, chap 23. 9. David was sensible of his former Error in neglecting to ask Counsel of God by the Ephod, when he came to Achish, and when he went out with Achish to the Battel; and his Necessity now brings him to his Duty, and his Duty meets with Success.

8 And David enquired at the LORD, saying, Shall I pursue after this troop? shall I overtake them? And he answered him, Pursue, for thou shalt surely overtake them, and without fail recover all k.

k Before, God answered more slowly and gradually, chap. 23. 11, 12. but now he answers speedily, and fully at once, because the business here required more haste. So gracious is our God, that he considers even the degree of our Necessities, and accommodates himself to them.

9 So David went, he and the six hundred men that were with him, and came to the brook Besor, where those that were left behind, stayed.

10 But David pursued, he and four hundred men l: (for two hundred abode behind, which were so faint, that they could not go over the brook Besor.)

l A small number for such an Attempt: but David was strong in Faith, giving God the Glory of his Power and Faithfulness.

11 ¶ And they found an Egyptian in the field m, and brought him to David, and gave him bread, and he did eat, and they made him drink water n.

m Whom by his Habit they guessed to be a Soldier that had been engaged in that Expedition. n Partly, out of humanity and compassion to a perishing Creature: and partly, in Prudence, that by him they might learn the true state of their Enemies.

12 And they gave him a piece of a cake of figs, and two clusters of raisins: and * when he had eaten, his spirit came again to him: for he had eaten no bread, nor drank any water, three days, and three nights o.

* See Judg. 15. 19. Ch. 14. 27.

o Which is to be understood Synecdochically of one whole day and part of two others, as the same Phrase is taken Matth. 12. 40. as appears from the next Verse, where he saith, three days agone I fell sick, but in the Hebrew it is, this is the third day since I fell sick.

13 And David said unto him, To whom belongest thou? and whence art thou? And he said, I am a young man of Egypt p, servant to an Amalekite, and my master left me q, because three days agone I fell sick.

p God by his Providence so ordering it, that he was not one of that cursed Race of the Amalekites, who were to be utterly destroyed, but an Egyptian, who might be spared. q In this Place and Condition: which was barbarous inhumanity: for he ought, and easily might have carried him away with the Prey which they had taken.

But

But he paid dear for this Cruelty, for this was the occasion of the ruine of him and of all their Company. And God by his secret Providence ordered the matter thus for that very end. So that there is no fighting against God, who can make the smallest Accidents serviceable to the production of the greatest Effects.

14 We made an invasion upon the south of the Cherethites r, and upon the coast which belongeth to Judah, and upon the south of Caleb s, and we burnt Ziklag with fire.

r i.e. The Philistines, as is manifest from v. 16. who are so called Zeph. 2. 5. s This is added by way of Explication: q. d. that part of the South of Judah which belongs to Caleb's Posterity, Jos. 14. 13.

15 And David said to him, Canst thou bring me down to this company? And he said, Swear unto me by God, that thou wilt neither kill me, nor deliver me into the hands of my master, and I will bring thee down to this company t.

t For his Master had told him whither they intended to go, that he might come after them, as soon as he could.

16 ¶ And when he had brought him down, behold, they were spread abroad upon all the earth u, eating, and drinking, and dancing, because of all the great spoil that they had taken out of the land of the Philistines, and out of the land of Judah.

u Secure and careless, because they were now come almost to the Borders of their own Country, and the Philistines and Israelites both were otherwise engaged, and David, as they believed, with them. So they had no visible cause of danger; and yet then they were nearest to their destruction.

17 And David smote them from the twilight ∴, even unto the evening of the † next day: and there escaped not a man of them, save four hundred young men which rode upon camels, and fled.

∴ The word signifies both the Morning and Evening Twi-light. But the latter seems here intended, partly because their Eating, and Drinking, and Dancing, was more customary and proper work for the Evening, than for the Morning; and partly, because the Evening was more convenient for David, that the fewness of his Forces might not be discovered by the Day-light. Object. It is not likely that David would fall upon the Amalekites before his Men, who had been tired with a long and hasty March, were refreshed. Answ. Nor is it said that he did. It is probable, that when he came near them, he reposed himself, and his Army, in some secret Place, whereof there were many in those Parts, for a convenient Season; and then marched on so as to come to them at the Evening time.

18 And David recovered all that the Amalekites had carried away: and David rescued his two wives.

19 And there was nothing lacking to them, neither small nor great, neither sons nor daughters, neither spoil, nor any thing that they had taken to them: David recovered all.

20 And David took all the flocks, and the herds x: which they drave before those other cattel y, and said, This is Davids spoil z.

x To wit, which the Amalekites had taken from the Philistines or others. y Before those who belonged to Ziklag. z i.e. The Soldiers, who lately were so incensed against David, that they spake of Stoning him: now upon this Success magnifie him, and Triumphantly celebrate his Praise; and say concerning this Spoil, David purchased it by his Valour and Conduct, and he may dispose of it as he pleaseth.

21 ¶ And David came to the two hundred men, which were so faint that they could not follow David, whom they had made also to abide at the brook Besor: and they went forth to meet David, and to meet the people that were with him a; and when David came near to the people, he ‖ saluted them b.

a To congratulate the Victory; which, it is probable, David had sent a Messenger to acquaint them with. b He speak kindly to them, and did not blame them because they went no further with them.

22 Then c answered all the wicked men, and men of Belial d of † those that went with David, and said, Because they went not with us e, we will not give them ought of the spoil that we have recovered, save to every man his wife, and his children, that they may lead them away, and depart.

c When those 200 Men required, or expected a part of the Spoil; and they gathered from David's words and carriage, that he intended to give it to them. d So he calls them for their Covetousness, and Injustice, and Churlishness to their Brethren. By which Expressions we may judge, how heinous and odious those Sins are in God's sight. e Which was from their impotency; not by choice, or design. Herein therefore was their Iniquity and Unreasonableness, they would punish them for no fault.

23 Then said David, Ye shall not do so, my brethren f, with that which the LORD hath given us g, who hath preserved us, and delivered the company that came against us, into our hand.

f He useth his Power and Authority to over-rule them; but manageth it with all sweetness, calling them Brethren; not only as of the same Nation and Religion with him, but as his Fellow-Soldiers. g What he hath freely imparted to us, we should not unkindly and injuriously with-hold from our Brethren.

24 For who will hearken unto you in this matter h? but * as his part is that goeth down to the battel, so shall his part be that tarrieth by the stuff: they shall part alike i.

* See Num. 31. 27.

h What wise or just Man will be of your Opinion in this matter? i A prudent and equitable Constitution, and therefore practised by the Romans, as Polybius and others note. The Reason of it is manifest; because they were exposed to hazards, as well as their Brethren: and were a Reserve to whom they might retreat in case of a Defeat; and they were now in actual Service, and in the station in which their General had placed them.

25 And it was so from that day † that he made it a statute, and an ordinance for Israel unto this day.

26 ¶ And when David came to Ziklag, he sent of the spoil unto the elders of Judah k, even to his friends (saying, Behold, a † present for you of the spoil of the enemies of the LORD l.)

k Partly in gratitude for their former favour to him: and partly, in Policy, to engage their Affections to him now, when he apprehended Saul's death near. l He intimates, that though he was fled to the Philistines, yet he imployed not his Forces against the Israelites, as, no doubt, Saul's Courtiers and Soldiers reported that he designed; but only against God's Enemies.

27 To them which were in Bethel m, and to them which were in * south Ramoth n, and to them which were in Jatter o, m In Kiriath-jearim, where the Ark was, 1 Sam. 10. 3. n A City in the Tribe of Simeon, Jos. 19. 8. so called by way of distinction, from Ramoth in Gilead, which was more Northward, 1 King. 22. 12. o Of which, see Josh. 15. 48.

* Josh. 15.

28 And to them which were in Aroer p, and to them which were in Siphmoth, and to them which were in Eshtemoa, p Not that beyond, Jordan, Numb. 32. 34. as many think; which was too remote from David: but another Place of that Name in Judah, where the rest of the Places here named were: This being one of those Places where David and his men were wont to haunt, as is expressed v. 31.

29 And to them which were in Rachal, and to them which were in the cities of the Jerahmeelites, and to them which were in the cities of the Kenites,

30 And to them which were in Hormah, and to them which were in Chor-ashan, and to them which were in Athach, 31 And to them which were in Hebron, and to all the places where David himself, and his men were wont to haunt q.

q Or, to go. Whither they used to resort in the time of Saul's Persecution, either to hide themselves in some of their Territories; or, to get Provision from thence.

CHAP. XXXI.

The Israelites are smitten by the Philistines. Saul's sons are slain: Saul is wounded: he falleth on his own sword: as doth his armour-bearer, 1,—5. The rest flee: and the Philistines possess their towns, and triumph over the dead carcasses, 6,—10. They of Jabesh-Gilead by night take down the bodies of Saul and of his sons and burn them: and mourn fully bury their bones, 11,—13.

NOW * the Philistines fought against Israel a: and the men of Israel fled from before the Philistines, and fell down ‖ slain in mount Gilboa.

* 1 Chron. 10. 1.

a Whilst David was ingaged against the Amalekites. So he returns to the History, which had been interrupted, to give an account of David's concerns.

2 And the Philistines followed hard upon Saul, and upon his sons; and the Philistines slew * Jonathan b, and Abinadab c, and Malchishua, Sauls sons.

* 1 Chron. 8. 33.

b David's dear Friend; God so ordering it for the further exercise of David's Faith and Patience; and that David might depend upon God alone for his Crown, and receive it solely from him, and not from Jonathan; who doubtless, had he lived, would have speedily settled the Crown upon David's Head, which would have in some sort eclipsed the Glory of God's Grace and Power in this Work. There was also a special Providence of God, in taking away Jonathan, (who of all Saul's Sons, seems to have been the fairest for the Crown) for the preventing Divisions, which have happened amongst the People concerning the Succession: David's way to the Crown being by this means made the more clear. c Called also Ishui, 1 Sam. 14. 49. Ishbosheth was not here, being possibly at home for the management of Publick Affairs there.

3 And the battel went sore against Saul, and the † archers † hit him, and he was sore wounded of the archers.

4 Then said Saul unto his armour-bearer, Draw thy sword, and thrust me through therewith, lest these uncircumcised come, and thrust me through, and ‖ abuse me d. But his armour-bearer would not, for he was sore afraid; therefore Saul took a sword and fell upon it e.

d Lest they take me, and put me to some shameful and cruel death.

e And died of the Wound, as it follows.

5 And when his armour-bearer saw that Saul was dead, he fell likewise upon his sword, and died with him.

6 So Saul died with his three sons, and his armour-bearer, and all his men that same day together.

7 ¶ And when the men of Israel that were on the other side of the valley f, and they that were on the other side Jordan g, saw that the men of Israel fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead, they forsook the cities and fled, and the Philistines came and dwelt in them.

f To wit, the Valley of Jezreel, where the Battel was fought. g Or rather, on this side Jordan; for these were in the most danger: and the Hebrew Preposition is indifferently used for on this side, or for beyond.

8 And it came to pass on the morrow, when the Philistines came to strip the slain, that they found Saul and his three sons fallen in mount Gilboa.

9 And they cut off his head h, and stripped off his armour, and sent into the land of the Philistines round about, to publish it in the house of their idols i, and among the people.

h As the Israelites did by Goliah. i To give them the glory of this Victory.

10 And they put his armour in the house of Ashtaroth: and they fastned his body to the wall of Beth-shan.

11 ¶ And when the inhabitants of Jabesh-Gilead k heard ‖ of that which the Philistines had done to Saul:

k Which was beyond Jordan: for the People on this side Jordan were fled from their Cities, as was now said.

12 All the valiant men arose, and went all night, and took the body of Saul, and the bodies of his sons, from the walls of Beth-shan, and came to Jabesh, and * burnt them there l.

* Jer. 34. 5.

13 And they took their bones, and * buried them under a tree at Jabesh, and fasted seven days m.

* 2 Sam. 2. 4, 5. & 21. 12, 13.

m To testifie their Sorrow for the publick loss of Saul, and of the People of God; and to intreat God's Favour to prevent the utter Extinction of his People. But you must not understand this word of fasting strictly, as if they eat nothing for seven whole Days; but in a more large and general sense, as it is used both in Sacred and Prophane Writers; that they did eat but little, and that seldom; and that but mean Food, and drunk only Water for that time.

II. SAMUEL.

CHAP. I.

David being at Ziklag receiveth tidings by an Amalekite of Saul and Jonathan's death: the messenger pretendeth himself to have killed Saul, 1,—12. David causeth him to be put to death, 13,—16. Lamenteth Saul and Jonathan with a song, 17,—27.

NOW it came to pass after the death of Saul, when David was returned from * the slaughter of the Amalekites, and David had abode two days in Ziklag a, a Which though burnt, yet was not so consumed by the Fire, that David and his Men could not lodge in it.

* 1 Sam. 30. 17.

2 It came even to pass on the third day b, that behold a man came out of the camp from Saul, with his clothes rent, and earth upon his head c: and so it was when he came to David, that he fell to the earth, and did obeisance.

b From David's return to Ziklag, as the foregoing words manifest. c Pretending sorrow for the loss of God's People, in complyance with David's humour.

3 And David said unto him, From whence comest thou? And he said unto him, Out of the camp of Israel am I escaped.

4 And David said unto him, † How went the matter? I pray thee tell me. And he answered, That the people are fled from the battel, and many of the people also are fallen and dead, and Saul and Jonathan his son d are dead also.

d He mentions only these two, as those who seemed most to obstruct David's coming to the Crown.

5 And David said unto the young man that told him, How knowest thou that Saul and Jonathan his son be dead e?

e For the knowledge of this did most concern both David and the whole Commonwealth of Israel.

6 And the young man that told him, said, As I happened by chance upon mount Gilboa, behold, Saul leaned upon his spear: and lo, the chariots and † horsemen followed hard after him.

† Heb. masters: or, captains of the horsemen.

7 And when he looked behind him, he saw me, and called unto me: and I answered, † Here am I.

8 And he said unto me, Who art thou? and I answered him, I am an Amalekite.

9 He said unto me again, Stand, I pray thee, upon me f, and slay me: for ‖ anguish is come upon me g, because my life is yet whole within me h.

f i.e. Lean upon me with thy weight and force, that the Spear may come through me: Or, stay by me; i.e. Stop thy flight, and tarry so long with me till thou hast killed me. g i.e. I am in great pain of Body, and anguish of Mind. Or thus, my coat of mail: or, embroydered coat, hath hindred me, that the Spear could not pierce into me. Thus divers both Hebrew and other Learned Expositors understand it. h I am heart-whole, and not likely to die, as well as not willing to live.

10 So I stood upon him, and slew him i, because I was sure that he could not live after that he was faln k: and I took the crown that was upon his head l, and the bracelet that was on his arm, and have brought them hither unto my lord m.

k It is most probable this was a Lye, devised to gain David's Favour, as he supposed. For, 1. Saul was not killed by a Spear, as he pretends, but by his Sword, 1 Sam. 31. 4. 2. It is expressly said, That Saul's armour-bearer being yet living, saw that Saul was dead, 1 Sam. 31. 5. which doubtless he would very thoroughly examine and know, before he would kill himself upon that account, as he did. 3. Saul's death is manifestly ascribed to his own Action, even to his falling upon his Sword, v. 4, 5. k This he addeth by way of caution and excuse, that it might be thought an act of necessity and kindness, and not of choice or ill-will that he killed Saul. But here also he betrays himself: for how could this be true, when Saul's life was whole within him, as he had now said, v. 9? (Not that he then wore it; which would have exposed him too much, and that unnecessarily, to the Rage of the Philistines; but that he used to wear it. It is not likely that he found it now actually upon Saul's Head, but that he met with it in some part of the Camp, whither Saul had brought it to wear it when he saw fit. m Unto thee, whom, now Saul is dead, I own for my Lord and King.

11 Then David took hold on his clothes, and * rent them, and likewise all the men that were with him.

* Chap. 3. 31. & 13. 31.

12 And they mourned and wept, and fasted until even, for Saul and for Jonathan his son, and for the people of the LORD, and for the house of Israel, because they were fallen by the sword.

13 ¶ And David said unto the young man that told him, Whence art thou n? And he answered, I am the son of a stranger, an Amalekite.

n David heard and knew before what he was, but he asked it again judicially, in order to his Trial and Punishment.

14 And David said unto him, * How wast thou not afraid to stretch forth thine hand to destroy the LORD's anointed o?

* Psal. 105. 15.

o Why didst not thou refuse to kill him, as his Armour-bearer had done? For notwithstanding his great danger, something might have fallen out through God's All-disposing Providence, whereby his Life might have been preserved.

15 And David called one of the young men, and said, Go near and fall upon him. And he smote him that he died.

16 And David said unto him, Thy blood be upon thy head p: for thy mouth hath testified against thee, saying, I have slain the LORD's anointed q.

p The guilt of thy blood-shed or death lies upon thy self, not upon me. q Thy free and voluntary Confession is sufficient proof of thy guilt in killing the King.

17 ¶ And David lamented with this lamentation over Saul, and over Jonathan his son:

18 ¶ (Also r he bade them s, teach the children of Judah: behold, it is written x * in the book ‖ of Jasher.)

* Josh. 10. 13.

r Having mentioned David's Lamentation in general, before he comes to the particular description of it, he interposeth this Verse by way of Parenthesis; to signifie, That David did not so give up himself himself to Lamentation, as to neglect his great business, the care of the Commonwealth, which now lay upon him; but took particular care to fortifie them against such further Losses and Calamities as he bewails in the following Song; and by his Example, and this Counsel, to instruct the People, that they should not give up themselves to Sorrow and Despondency for their great and general Loss; but should raise up their Spirits, and betake themselves to Action. s David being now actually King upon Saul's death, takes his Power upon him, and gives forth his Commands. t These he more particularly teacheth, because they were the Chief, and now the Royal Tribe, and likely to be the great Bulwark to all Israel against the Philistines, upon whose Land they bordered; and withal, to be the most friendly and true to him, and to his Interest. u i.e. The use of their Arms, which are all Synecdochically expressed, under the name of the bow, which then was one of the chief Weapons; and for the dexterous use whereof Jonathan is commended in the following Song: which may be one reason, why he now gives forth this Order, that so they might strive to imitate Jonathan in the Military Skill, and to excel in it, as he did. x Not the following Song, as many think, for that is written here, and therefore it was needless to refer us to another Book for it; but this foregoing counsel and course which David took to repair the last Loss, which is here mentioned but briefly, and in general terms; but, as it seems, more largely and particularly described in the Book of Jasher: Of which, see on Josh. 10. 13.

19 The beauty of Israel y is slain upon the high places z: how are the mighty fallen a!

y Their Flower and Glory, Saul and Jonathan, and their Army, consisting of young and valiant Men. z Heb. upon thy high places; i.e. Those which belong to thee, O Land of Israel. a How strangely! how suddenly! how dreadfully and universally!

* Mic. 1. 10. 20 * Tell it not in Gath b, publish it not in the streets of Askelon: lest the daughters c of the Philistines rejoyce; lest the daughters of the uncircumcised triumph.

b This is not a Precept, but a Poetical Wish; whereby he doth not so much desire, that this might not be done, which he knew to be vain and impossible; as, expresse his great Sorrow, because it was, and would be done, to the great dishonour of God, and of his People. c He mentions these, because it was the custom of Women in those Times and Places to celebrate those Victories which their Men obtained, with Triumphant Songs and Dances; as Exod. 15. Judg. 11. 34. 1 Sam. 18. 6.

d This is no proper Imprecation; which he had no reason to inflict upon those harmless Mountains; but only a passionate representation of the Horror which he conceived at this publick Loss; which was such, as if he thought every Person or Thing which contributed to it, were fit to bear the Tokens of Divine Displeasure, such as this is, when the Earth wants the blessed and necessary Influences of Dew and Rain. e i.e. Fruitful Fields, which may produce fair and goodly Fruits fit to be offered unto God. f The Shields of the valiant Men of Israel. g Dishonourably: for it was a great Reproach to any Soldier, to cast away or lose his Shield. h To wit, by themselves, that they might flee more swiftly away, as the Israelites did, and Saul with the rest; as is said, 1 Sam. 31. 1, 2. i As if he had been no more, nor better than a common Soldier: he was exposed to the same kind of Death and Reproach as they were.

22 From the blood of the slain, from the fat of the mighty, the bow of Jonathan turned not back k, and the sword of Saul returned not empty l.

k To wit, without Effect: Compare Isa. 45. 23. and 55. 11. Their Arrows shot from their Bows, and their Swords did seldom miss, and commonly pierced Fat, and Flesh, and Blood, and reached even to the Heart and Bowels. l i.e. Not filled and glutted with Blood: for the Sword is Metaphorically said to have a mouth, which we translate an edge; and to devour, 2 Sam. 2. 26. and 11. 25. Jer. 2. 30. and 46. 10. And this their former successfulness is here mentioned as an aggravation of their last Infelicity.

‖ Or, sweet. 23 Saul and Jonathan were lovely, and ‖ pleasant m in their lives n, and in their death they were not divided o: they were swifter than eagles p, they were stronger than lions q.

m Amiable, and obliging in their Carriage and Conversation, both towards one another, and towards their People: for, as for Saul's fierce behaviour towards Jonathan, it was only a sudden Passion, by which his ordinary Temper was not to be measured; and for his Carriage towards David, 1 Sam. 20. 30, 33. that was from that Jealousie and Reason of State which usually engageth even good-natured and well-natured Princes, to the same Hostilities in like cases. But it is observable, That David speaks not a word here of his Piety and other Vertues; but only commends him for those things which were truly in him. A fit Pattern for all Preachers in their Funeral Commendations. n Jonathan was not false to his Father, as was reported; but stuck close to him. o And as he lived, so he died with him, at the same time, and in the same common and good Cause. p Expeditious and nimble in pursuing their Enemies, and executing their Designs; which is a great Commendation in a Prince, and in a Soldier. q In regard of their bodily Strength, and the Courage of their Minds.

24 Ye daughters of Israel r weep over Saul, who clothed you in scarlet s, with other delights; who put on ornaments of gold upon your apparel.

r These he mentions; partly, because the Women then used to make Songs both of Triumph, and of Lamentation, as occasion required: and partly, because they usually are most delighted with the Ornaments of the Body here following. s This he did, partly, because he procured them so much Peace as gave them opportunity of enriching themselves: and partly, because he took these things as Spoils from the Enemies, and clothed his own People with them. Compare Psal. 68. 12.

25 How are the mighty fallen in the midst of the battel! O Jonathan, thou wast slain in thine high places t.

t Which were in thy Country, and (had not thy Father disinherited thee by his Sins) in thy Dominions.

26 I am distressed for thee u, my brother Jonathan, very pleasant hast thou been unto me: thy love to me was wonderful, passing the love of women x.

u i.e. For the loss of thee. For, besides the loss of a true Friend, and all the comfort of Friendship, which is inestimable; he lost him who both could, and undoubtedly would have given him a speedy, and quier, and sure Possession of the Kingdom: whereas now, he met with long and troublesom Interruptions. x i.e. That Love wherewith they love their Husbands, or Children: for their Affections are usually more vehement and ardent than Mens.

27 How are the mighty fallen, and the weapons of war y perished?

y Either, 1. Metaphorically so called; to wit, Saul and Jonathan, and the brave Commanders and Soldiers of Israel; who might have been called, the chariots of Israel, and the horsemen thereof. Or, rather, 2. Properly: for, together with the Men, their Arms were lost, which was a very great aggravation of their loss, and that loss seems to be at this time more irrecoverable and dangerous, than the loss of their Men.

CHAP. II.

David by God's direction with his company goeth up to Hebron, where he is made king of Judah, 1,—4. He commendeth them of Jabesh-Gilead for burying Saul, 5,—7. Abner maketh Ishbosheth king of Israel, 8,—11. A mortal fight between twelve of Abner's and twelve of Joab's men, 12,—17. Asahel pursueth Abner, and is slain by him, 18,—24. At Abner's motion Joab soundeth a retreat, 25,—31. Asahel's burial, 32.

AND it came to pass after this, that David enquired of the LORD a, saying, Shall I go up into any of the cities of Judah b: And the LORD said unto him, Go up. And David said, Whither shall I go up? And he said, Unto Hebron c.

a By Urim, as 1 Sam. 23. 6, 9. and 30. 7, 8. Thus David begins at the right end, and lays his Foundation in God's Counsel and Assistance, which now he seeks. b He asketh not whether he should take the Kingdom; for that was appointed and known before; and he would not offend God, nor dishonour his Ordinance with frivolous and unnecessary Enquiries; but only where he should enter upon it; whether in Judah, as he supposed, because of his relation to that Tribe, and his interest in it; or whether in some other Tribe: for he doth not limit God, but resolves exactly to follow his Counsels. c Which was next to Jerusalem (part whereof the Jebusites now possessed) the chief City of that Tribe, and a City of the Priests, Josh. 21. 10, &c. and in the very center or middle of that Tribe, to which the whole Tribe might speedily resort, when need required.

2 So David went up thither, and his two wives also, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail Nabals wife the Carmelite.

3 And his men that were with him, did David bring up, every man with his household: and they dwelt in the cities of Hebron d.

d i.e. The Cities or Towns belonging and subject to Hebron, which was the Metropolis, Josh. 21. 11, 12. For in Hebron it self there was not space for them all, because it was filled with Priests, and with David's Court.

* 1 Sam. 30. 26. 4 And * the men of Judah came, and there they anointed David king over the house of Judah e: and they told David, saying, That * the men of Jabesh-Gilead were they that buried Saul.

e This they did upon just grounds, because not only the Kingdom was promised to that Tribe, Gen. 49. 10. but David was designed and anointed by God, whose Will both they and all Israel were obliged to observe and obey. And they piously resolved not to neglect their Duty, though they saw the other Tribes would. Yet their prudent Caution and Modesty is observable, That they make him King of Judah only, and not of all Israel. And therefore there was need of a Third Anointing to the Kingdom over all Israel, which he had chap. 5. 3. But as for that First Anointing, 1 Sam. 16. 13. it was only a Designation of the Person who should be King, but not an actual Inauguration of him to the Kingdom.

5 ¶ And David sent messengers unto the men of Jabesh-Gilead, and said unto them, Blessed be ye of the LORD, that † ye have shewed this kindness † Or, kindly f unto your lord, even unto Saul, and have buried him.

f This Respect and Affection to procure him Burial. For as it is, and ever was esteemed an act of Inhumanity to deny Burial to the Dead; so it is an act of Mercy and Kindness to Bury them.

6 And now the LORD shew kindness and truth g unto you: and I also will requite you this kindness h, because ye have done this thing.

g i.e. True and real Kindness; not in words only, but also in actions, as you have now done to your King, the Lord's anointed. h So far am I from being offended with you for this Kindness to my late Enemy, that I will requite it.

† Heb. be ye the sons of valour. † from this for your comfort that. † Heb. the rest which was Saul's. ‖ Or, Eshbaal. 1 Chr. 8. 33. 7 Therefore now let your hands be strengthned, and † be ye valiant i: for your master Saul is dead k, and also † the house of Judah have anointed me king over them.

i Be not afraid lest the Philistines should punish you for this Fact, but take good Courage, I will defend you. k Or, though your Master Saul be dead, and so your Hearts may faint within you, as if you were now Sheep without a Shepherd.

8 ¶ But Abner the son of Ner l, captain of † Sauls host, took ‖ Ishbosheth m the son of Saul, and brought him over to Mahanaim n.

l Partly, out of Envy and Malice against David; and partly, out of his own Ambition and Desire of Rule, because he knew that Ishbosheth would have only the name of King, whilst he had the Power. m Called also Eshbaal, 1 Chron. 8. 33. and 9. 39. It being usual with the Hebrews, instead of Baal, the name of false gods, to put Bosheth, which signifies shame, or confusion, or a shameful thing; as appeareth by comparing Judg. 9. 53. with 2 Sam. 11. 21. and 2 Sam. 4. 4. with 1 Chron. 8. 34. and from Jer. 3. 24. Hos. 9. 10. n A place beyond Jordan, whither he carried him; partly, to secure those brave and valiant Men of Jabesh-Gilead to himself; and principally because this place was most remote from David, and from the Philistines too; and therefore here he might recruit his Forces with less disturbance than in other places.

9 And he made him king over Gilead o, and over the Ashurites p, and over Jezreel q, and over Ephraim, and over Benjamin, and over all † Israel r.

o Largely so taken for all the Land of Israel beyond Jordan, as it is Josh. 22. 9. Judg. 10. 8. p i.e. The Tribe of Asher, as the Chaldee Paraphrast and others understand it. q A large and rich Valley situate in the Borders of the Tribes of Zebulun, Issachar and Naphtali, and so put Synecdochically for them all. r Except Judah, as it follows.

10 Ishbosheth Sauls son was forty years old when he began to reign over Israel, and reigned two years s: but the house of Judah followed David.

s To wit, before the following War broke forth. Compare 1 Sam. 13. 1. For that he reigned longer, may appear both from the following Verse, and from chap. 3. 1. and from the following History. Though some think he reigned only two Years, and that the rest of David's seven Years the Israelites by Abner's instigation stuck to the House of Saul, but were in suspence whether they should confer the Crown upon Mephibosheth the right Heir, but a Child; or upon Ishbosheth a grown Man, whom with some difficulty, and after long debates amongst themselves, they preferred.

† Heb. number of days. 11 (And the † time that David was king in Hebron over the house of Judah, was seven years and six months.)

12 ¶ And Abner the son of Ner, and the servants t of Ishbosheth the son of Saul, went out from Mahanaim to Gibeon u.

t i.e. His Officers, and Commanders, and their Army. u In the Country of Benjamin, Josh. 18. 25. near Judah, to fight with David's Army, and to bring back the rest of the Kingdom to Saul's House.

† Heb. them together. † Sam. 2. 13. 13 And Joab the son of Zeruiah, and the servants of David, went out x, and met † together y by the ‖ pool of Gibeon: and they sate down, the one on the one side of the pool, and the other on the other side of the pool.

x To Battel. Quest. How could or durst this one Tribe oppose all the rest? Ans. First, This Tribe was very numerous and valiant of themselves, and they had a King of extraordinary Courage, and Conduct, and Success. Secondly, There were great numbers of the other Tribes which favoured them, as appears from 1 Chron. 12. Thirdly, They had the encouragement of special Promises of God, made both to their Tribe, and to David. y i.e. Met the opposite Army, and put themselves into a Posture for Battel.

14 And Abner said to Joab z, Let the young men now arise, and play a before us: and Joab said, Let them arise.

z Abner trusting to his greater numbers, offers Battel. a i.e. Shew their Prowess and Dexterity in managing their Weapons, and Fighting together. He speaks like a vain-glorious and cruel Man, and a Soldier of Fortune, that esteemed it a Sport to see Men wounding and killing one another. So this he designed, partly for their mutual Recreation, and trial of Skill and Valour; and partly, that by this occasion they might be engaged in a Battel.

15 Then there arose and went over by number twelve of Benjamin b, which pertained to Ishbosheth the son of Saul, and twelve of the servants of David.

b He selected all his Combatants out of that Tribe, both because that was a warlike and valiant Tribe; and that he might give the more honour to his own Tribe.

16 And they caught every one his fellow by the head c, and thrust his sword in his fellows side; so they fell down together: Wherefore that place was called ‖ Helkath-hazzurim d, which is in Gibeon.

‖ That is, the field of strong men, or, of rocks.

c By the Hair of the Head, which, after their manner was of a considerable length, and therefore gave their Enemy advantage; which every one of them endeavoured to get, and to improve against the other. d Or, the field of Rocks; i.e. of Men who stood like Rocks unmovable, each one dying upon the Spot where he fought.

17 And there was a very sore battel that day: and Abner was beaten, and the men of Israel, before the servants of David.

18 ¶ And there were three sons of Zeruiah there, Joab, and Abishai, and Asahel: and Asahel was as light † of foot † as a wild roe.

19 And Asahel pursued after Abner, and in going † down he turned not to the right hand, nor to the left † from following Abner.

† Heb. from after Abner.

20 Then Abner looked behind him, and said, Art thou Asahel? And he answered, I am.

21 And Abner said to him, Turn thee aside to thy right hand, or to thy left, and lay thee hold on one of the young men, and take thee his ‖ armour e. But Asahel would not turn aside from following of him.

e If thou art ambitious to get a Trophy or Mark of thy Valour, desist from me who am an old and experienced Captain, and go to some young and raw Soldier; try thy Skill upon him, and take away his Arms from him.

22 And Abner said again to Asahel, Turn thee aside from following of me: Wherefore should I smite thee to the ground? how then should I hold my face to Joab thy brother f?

f He was loth to enrage Joab too much against him, because his guilty Conscience told him that his Cause was bad, and therefore he prefaged ill success; and that he might need such a Friend as Joab, to make his peace with David.

23 Howbeit, he refused to turn aside: Wherefore Abner with the hinder end of the spear g, smote him * Chap. 20. 10. under the fifth rib h: that the spear came out behind him, and he fell down there, and died in the same place i: and it came to pass, that as many as came to the place where Asahel fell down and died, stood still.

g Which was sharp pointed after the manner. h The fear of the Liver and Bowels, where wounds are mortal. i Upon the Spot, not being able to go one step further.

24 Joab also and Abishai pursued after Abner: and the sun went down when they were come to the hill of Ammah, that lieth before Giah, by the way of the wilderness of Gibeon.

25 ¶ And the children of Benjamin gathered themselves together after Abner, and became one troop, and stood on the top of an hill k.

k Where, being upon the upper Ground, they might better defend themselves.

26 Then Abner called to Joab, and said, Shall the sword devour for ever? Knowest thou not that it will be bitterness in the latter end l? How long shall it be then, ere thou bid the people return from following their brethren m?

l It will produce dreadful Effects, and many bloody Slaughters, if by a further prosecution thou makest them desperate; which is against all the Rules of Policy. m By Nation and Religion: whom therefore they should not pursue with so fierce a Rage, as if they were pursuing the Philistines.

27 And Joab said, As God liveth, unless thou hadst spoken n, surely then † in the morning the people had ‖ gone up every one from following his brother.

n Unless thou hadst made the motion that they might fight, v. 14. It was thou, not I, that gave the first occasion of this Fight. Withal, he intimates, That Abner was the sole cause of this War; and that if he had not given Commission and Command, the War had never been undertaken, but all things had been ended by an amicable Agreement: which might have been made that very morning, if he had so pleased.

28 So Joab blew a trumpet, and all the people stood still, and pursued after Israel no more, neither fought they any more o.

o Either, First, At that time. Or rather, Secondly, In any pitch'd Battel.

29 And Abner and his men walked all that night through the plain, and passed over Jordan, and went through all Bithron p, and they came to Mahanaim.

p Otherwise called, the Mountains of Bether, Cant. 2. 17. which were beyond Jordan. Or, some other Country, now not known by that name: which is the case of hundreds of places.

30 And Joab returned from following Abner: and when he had gathered all the people together, there lacked of Davids servants nineteen men, and Asahel.

31 But the servants of David had smitten of Benjamin and of Abners men, so that three hundred and threescore men died.

32 ¶ And they took up Asahel, and buried him in the sepulchre of his father, which was in Bethlehem: and Joab and his men went all night, and they came to Hebron at break of day.

CHAP. III.

The war between the house of David and the house of Saul. Six sons born to David in Hebron, 1,—5. Abner displeased with Ishbosheth, 6,—11. Revolteth to David: who requireth of him that he bring with him Michal: which he does: and communes with the elders of Israel: is feasted by David and dismissed, 12,—21. Joab returning from battel is displeased with the king, and treacherously murthereth Abner, 22,—27. David curseth Joab, 28,—30. Mourneth over Abner, 31,—39.

NOw there was long war a between the house of Saul, and the house of David: but David waxed stronger and stronger, and the house of Saul waxed weaker and weaker.

a For five Years longer: for it is probable that Ishbosheth was made King presently upon Saul's death, to give them countenance for their Rebellion against David; and the other Tribes did not submit to David before seven Years were expired.

2 ¶ And * unto David were sons born in Hebron: and his first-born was Ammon, of Ahinoam the Jezreelitess: * 1 Chron. 3. 1.

3 And his second Chileab b, of Abigail † the wife of Nabal the Carmelite: and the third Absalom, the son of Maacah, the daughter of Talmai king of Geshur c: † who had been.

b Called also Daniel, 1 Chron. 3. 1. c A part of Syria, Northward from the Land of Israel, Deut. 3. 14. Jos. 12. 5. See 2 Sam. 13. 37. and 14. 13. and 15. 8. Her he married, as it may seem, in Policy, that he might have a powerful Friend and Allie to assist him against Ishbosheth's Party in the North, whilst himself opposed him in the Southern parts. But he paid dear for making Piety give place to Policy herein, as the History of Absalom sheweth. There were other Geshurites Southward from Canaan, whom David invaded, 1 Sam. 27. 8. and it is not impossible but they were a Colony of those in the North.

4 And the fourth, Adonijah the son of Haggith: and the fifth, Shephatiah the son of Abital:

5 And the sixth, Ithream by Eglah Davids wife d: these were born to David in Hebron.

d This is added, either because she was of obscure Parentage, and was known by no other Title but her relation to David: or, to distinguish her from some other Person of that name, who possibly might be of no good fame: or, because this was his first and most proper Wife, best known by her other name of Michal, who, though she had no Child by David after she scoffed at him for dancing before the Ark, chap. 6. 23. yet might have one before that time. And she might be named the last of these here, because she was given away from David, and married to another Man, when David took the other Wives, and therefore though she had been first, yet now she was become the last of them. Or, this Title, being put in the last place, may belong to all the rest of the Women abovementioned, by a Figure called Zeugma, to distinguish them from his Concubines, 2 Sam. 5. 13. 1 Chron. 3. 9.

6 ¶ And it came to pass while there was war between the house of Saul, and the house of David, that Abner made himself strong for the house of Saul e.

e He used all his endeavours to support Saul's House. Which is mentioned, to shew the reason of his deep Resentment of the following Aspersion. Or, he strengthned himself in the House of Saul; i.e. he so managed all Affairs, as to get all the Riches and Power into his own hands: which made Ishbosheth suspect that he aimed at the Kingdom, and fought to Marry the King's Concubine in order to it, as the manner was. See 2 Sam. 12. 8. and 16. 21. and 1 King. 1. 17.

7 And Saul had a concubine whose name was * Rizpah the daughter of Aiah: and Ishbosheth said to Abner, Wherefore hast thou gone in unto my fathers concubine f. * Chap. 21. 10.

f Either, First, To satisfie thy own Lust. Or rather, Secondly, By that pretence to take away my Crown first. For this was that which stirred up his Jealousie and Rage, and caused him to speak that to Abner which otherwise he neither would nor durst. But whether Abner were guilty or no, it is not evident from the following words: for if it were true, great Men cannot endure to be told of their Faults, though they be true and great.

8 Then was Abner very wroth for the words of Ishbosheth, and said, Am I a dogs head g, which against*h* Judah do shew kindness this day unto the house of Saul thy father, to his brethren, and to his friends, and have not delivered thee into the hand of David i, that thou chargest me to day with a fault concerning this woman k.

g i.e. A vile and contemptible Creature, as a Dog was. See Deut. 23. 18. 1 Sam. 24. 14. 2 Sam. 9. 8. and 16. 9. Job 30. 1. Eccles. 9. 4. And a Dogs head is put for a Dog by a Synecdoche, usual both in the Hebrew and in other Languages, as the Head is oft put for the whole Man in the Latin Tongue. h So the Particle Lamed is well rendred, as el, which among the Hebrews is confessedly of the same nature and use, is used Eccles. 9. 4. Jer. 34. 9. Ezek. 23. 9, 20. Amos 7. 15. i Which I could oft and easily have done. k Either that thou accusest me falsly concerning this matter: or, that thou canst not wink at so small a Fault, (for so he esteemed it) as Conversation with this Woman, who, whatsoever she formerly was, is now so impotent and inconsiderable, that she can do thee no service, as I have done.

9 * So do God to Abner, and more also, except as * Ruth. 1. 17. the LORD hath sworn to David l, even so I do to him:

l Whence it appears that this wicked Wretch did all this while fight against his own Knowledge and Conscience, and against God himself.

10 To translate the kingdom from the house of Saul, and to set up the throne of David over Israel, and over Judah, from Dan even to Beersheba.

11 And he could not answer Abner a word again m, because he feared him n.

m Because he durst not provoke Abner further, lest he should really execute what he supposed as yet he only threatned. n As having a greater Interest in, and power with both the Army and the rest of the People, than himself had.

12 ¶ And Abner sent messengers to David on his behalf o, saying, Whose is the land p? saying also, Make thy league with me q, and behold, my hand shall be with thee, to bring about all Israel unto thee.

o Who in his name and stead might treat with David concerning his Reconciliation with him. Thus God over-rules the Lusts and Passions of wicked Men, to accomplish his own wise and holy Purposes. And who then dare contend with that God who makes even his Enemies to do his work, and destroy themselves? p To whom doth this whole Land belong, but to thee? Is it not thine by Divine Right? Saul's Son is but an Usurper, thou only art the rightful owner. q That thou wilst pardon all past Offences to me, and to all Israel, and thou wilst receive me into thy Grace and Favour.

13 ¶ And he said, Well, I will make a league with thee r: but one thing I require of thee, † that is, Thou shalt not see my face, except thou first bring Michal Sauls daughter, when thou comest to see my face. † Heb. Before.

r To wit, upon thy terms: which, all Circumstances considered, seems to be lawful, to prevent the great effusion of Israelitish Blood, which otherwise would certainly have been spilt. And although the principle of this action of Abner's was base and wicked, yet the action it self was Lawful and Commendable, and no more than his Duty to God and David obliged him to; and therefore David might well persuade and induce him to it.

14 And David sent messengers to Ishbosheth Sauls son f, saying, Deliver me my wife Michal t, which I espoused to me * for an hundred fore-skins of the Phi- * 1 Sam. 18. 25, 27. listines.

f Whose Consent was necessary, both to take her away from her present Husband, and to persuade her to return to David. Hereby David opened to him also a door of hope for his Reconciliation, lest being desperate he should hinder Abner in his present Design. t Who, though she was taken from me by force, and constrained to marry another, 1 Sam. 25. 44. yet is indeed my rightful Wife. Her David demands, partly, for the affection he formerly had, and still retained to her: partly, to deliver her from the Sin and Reproach of Adultery with another Man, who was not in truth and justice her Husband, though he was so called and accounted: and partly, upon a politick Consideration, that she might strengthen his Right and Title to the Kingdom.

15 And Ishbosheth sent and took her from her husband u, even from * Phaltiel the son of Laish. * 1 Sam. 25. 44. Phalti.

u For, being forsaken by Abner, he durst not deny David, into whose Power he saw he must unavoidably come: and besides, he supposed that she might be an effectual Instrument to make his Peace with David.

x A City of Benjamin, upon the Borders of Judah. See 2 Sam. 19. 16. 1 King. 2. 8.

17 ¶ And Abner had communication with the elders of Israel, saying, Ye sought for David † in times past to be king over you y. † Heb. heretofore, & yesterday & third day.

y Even in Saul's time you highly honoured him, and prized his Conduct, and wished that the Power were in his hands; and great numbers of you went to him, when he was in the Hold, 1 Chron. 12. And after Saul's death you would gladly have advanced him to the Crown, if your respect to Saul's Family, together with my Authority and Influence, had not diverted you.

18 Now then do it z; for the LORD hath spoken of David a, saying, By the hand of my servant David, I will save my people Israel out of the hand of the Philistines, and out of the hand of all their enemies b.

z You shall have my free Consent and utmost Assistance in procuring it. a He wickedly pretends Religion, when he intended nothing but the satisfaction of his own Pride, and Malice, and Fury against Ishbosheth. b It is very probable God spake these words, but undoubtedly he spake the same sense by Samuel, though it be not expressed before.

19 And Abner also spake in the ears of Benjamin c: and Abner went also to speak in the ears of David in Hebron, all that seemed good to Israel, and that seemed good to the whole house of Benjamin.

c To these he particularly applies himself, because they might be thought most kind to Saul and his House, and most loth to let the Kingdom go out of their own Tribe; and therefore it was necessary that he should use all his Art and Power with them, to persuade them to a compliance with his Design; and besides, they were a valiant Tribe, and bordering upon Judah, and situate between them and the other Tribes; and therefore the winning of them, would be of mighty concernment to bring in all the rest.

20 So Abner came to David to Hebron, and twenty men with him: and David made Abner, and the men that were with him, a feast d.

d Which in those times was customary when Persons entred into Covenant. See Gen. 26. 30. and 31. 44, 46.

21 And Abner said unto David, I will arise, and go, and will gather all Israel e unto my lord the king, that they may make a league with thee, and that thou mayest reign over all that thy heart desireth. And David sent Abner away, and he went in peace.

e i.e. The Elders and Chieftains of all Israel, Representing and Ruling all the rest.

22 ¶ And behold, the servants of David, and Joab, came from pursuing a troop f, and brought in a great spoil with them: (but Abner was not with David in Hebron, for he had sent him away, and he was gone in peace.)

f Of Robbers, either Philistines, or Edomites, or some others, who taking advantage of the Discord between the Houses of Saul and David, made inroads into Judah, as they had occasion.

23 When Joab and all the host that was with him, were come, they told Joab, saying, Abner the son of Ner came to the king, and he hath sent him away, and he is gone in peace.

24 Then Joab came to the king, and said, What hast thou done g? behold, Abner came unto thee: why is it that thou hast sent him away, and he is quite gone?

g Thou hast committed a great over-sight, to dismiss so dangerous and mischievous a Person, when he was in thy hands.

25 Thou knowest Abner the son of Ner, that he came to deceive thee, and to know thy going out, and thy coming in h, and to know all that thou dost.

h To search out thy Counsels and secret Designs, and to make use of them against thee.

26 And when Joab was come out from David, he sent messengers after Abner i, which brought him again from the well of Sirah: but David knew it not.

i In the King's Name, and upon pretence of some further Communication with him.

27 And when Abner was returned to Hebron, Joab * took him aside in the gate k, to speak with him ‖ quietly l: and smote him there under the fifth rib m, that he died, for the blood of * Asahel his brother n. * 1 King. 2. 5. Or, privately. * Chap. 2. 23.

k In the entrance into the City before he came to the King; and in the place where Conferences used to be. l With appearance of great Civility and Kindness. Or, secretly, as having some matter of great importance to utter, which none but himself must hear. m As he did Asahel, chap. 2. 23. n To revenge the death of Asahel; and withal (though that be not here mentioned) to secure his own standing, and rid his hands of so great and powerful a Competitor. And this was Joab's Design; but God had other Designs in it, both to punish Abner's manifold Wickedness, and particularly his Rebellion against David, and against God and his own Conscience therein: and that David might not owe his Kingdom to Abner, and to his Revenge and Treachery, but wholly to God's wise and powerful Providence.

28 ¶ And afterward when David heard it, he said o, I and my kingdom are guiltless before the LORD p for ever, from the † blood of Abner the son of Ner: † Heb. bloods.

o Publickly before his Courtiers and People; and seriously as in God's presence. p I call the Lord to Witness, that this was not done by my Instigation or Authority, or by any publick Counsel, but only by Joab's Malice; and therefore I trust that God will not punish me nor my Kingdom, but Joab only.

29 Let it q rest on the head of Joab, and on all his fathers house r, and let there not † fail from the house of Joab one that hath an issue s, or that is a leper, or that leaneth on a staff t, or that falleth on the sword, or that lacketh bread. † Heb. cut off.

q i.e. This Blood, the guilt and punishment of it. r But Children were not to suffer for their Parents sin, Deut. 24. 16. And therefore either this was only a Prediction; or, if it were an Imprecation, David may seem to have transgressed his Bounds, and mingled his Passion with his Zeal, that so he might express his utter detestation of this horrid Murder, and how far he was from having any hand in it. s Which was not only a troublesome and shameful Disease, but also infectious, both to him that had it, and to all that touched him: so that, whilst it was upon a Man, he was cut off in a great part from Converse either with God or Men. t Through crasiness, or feebleness, or lameness, whereby he is rendred unfit for Action and publick Service.

30 So Joab and Abishai u his brother slew Abner, because he had slain their brother * Asahel at Gibeon in the battel x. * Chap. 2. 23.

u For though Joab only committed the Murder, yet Abishai was guilty of it, because it was done with his Consent, and Counsel, and Help, and Approbation: for by these, and such like actions Men are involved in the guilt of other mens Sins, at least in God's Judgment. x Which he did in the fury of Battel, and for his own necessary defence; and therefore it was no justification of this unnecessary and treacherous Murder in a time of Peace.

31 ¶ And David said to Joab y, and to all the people that were with him, * Rent your clothes, and gird you with sackcloth, and mourn before Abner z. And king David himself followed the † bier a. * Josh. 7. 6. † Heb. bed.

y Him he especially obliged to it; partly, to bring him to Repentance for his Sin: partly, to expose him to publick shame, and to the contempt and hatred of all the People, with whom he had too great an Interest, which hereby David designed to diminish. z i.e. Attending upon his Corps, and paying him that Respect and Honour which was due to his Quality. a Which was against the usage of Kings, and might seem below David's Dignity; but it was now expedient to vindicate himself from all suspicion and contrivance or concurrence in this Action.

32 And they buried Abner in Hebron, and the king lift up his voice, and wept at the grave of Abner, and all the people wept.

33 And the king lamented over Abner, and said, Died Abner as † a fool dieth b? † Heb. Nabal.

b i.e. As a wicked Man, for such are oft called Fools in Scripture. Was he cut off by the hands of Justice for his Crimes? Nothing less; but by Joab's Malice and Treachery. Or, did he die by his own Folly, because he had not Wisdom or Courage to defend himself? Ah no. The words may be thus rendred: shall or should Abner die like a Fool, or a vile contemptible Person? i.e. unregarded, unpitied, unrevenged; as Fools or vile Persons die, for whose death none are concerned. Or, How is Abner dead like a Fool! pitying his mischance. It being honourable for a great Man and a Soldier to fight, if met with by an Enemy, and not (having his Armsat liberty) stand still like a Fool to be killed, without making any resistance or defence; which, by this treachery of Joab, happened to be his case. So Gr.

34 Thy hands were not bound, nor thy feet put into fetters c: as a man falleth before † wicked men, so fellest thou. And all the people wept again over him. † Heb. children in iniquity.

c Thou didst not tamely yield up thy self to Joab, as his Prisoner, to be bound hand and foot at his pleasure. Joab did not overcome thee generously and honourably in an equal Combat, nor durst he attempt thee in that way, as a General or Soldier of any worth would have done. d Or, before; i.e. in the presence, or by the hands of froward, or perverse, or crooked men, by Hypocritic and Perfidiousness, whereby the vilest Coward may kill the most valiant Person. Thus he reproached Joab to his very Face, before all the People: which was a great Evidence of his own Innocency herein; because otherwise Joab, being so powerful, and proud, and petulant to his Sovereign, would never have taken the shame and blame of it wholly to himself, as he did.

35 And when all the people came to cause David to eat meat e, while it was yet day, David sware, saying, So do God to me, and more also, if I taste bread, or ought else, till the sun be down e.

d To refresh and chear up his depressed Spirits; as they used to do at Funerals. See Jer. 16. 5. Ezek. 24. 17. e i.e. Till Evening, for then Fasting Days ended of course.

36 And all the people took notice of it f, and it † pleased them g: as whatsoever the king did h pleased all the people. † Heb. was good in their eyes.

f Observed what the King said and did. g They were satisfied concerning David's Integrity, and the method he used here for his own just Vindication. h Either in this matter: or rather, in all things following this Action. The meaning is, By his carriage herein he gained so great an Interest in the hearts of his People, that they judged most favourably of, and put the best construction upon all his words and actions; as, on the contrary, when People have a prejudice against, or an ill will towards their Prince, they are apt to judge most harshly of all his Counsels and Doings.

37 For all the people, and all Israel understood that day, that it was not of the king h to slay Abner the son of Ner.

h Not done by his design or good will.

38 And the king said unto his servants, Know ye not that there is a prince, and a great man i fallen this day in Israel?

i Both for his illustrious Quality, and for his high Courage and wise Conduct; and especially, now for his great usefulness and serviceableness viceableneſs to me in giving me the intire and peaceable Poſſeſſion of all Iſrael. But ſtill obſerve David's Prudence and Piety, that he doth not commend him for his Vertues and Graces, as Men of vendible Conſciences and Tongues uſe to do upon Funeral-occaſions; but only for that kind of worth which was really in him. Compare 2 Sam. 1. 23.

39 And I am this day † weak k, though anointed king; and theſe men the ſons of Zeruiah l be * too hard for me m: * the LORD ſhall reward the doer of evil according to his wickedneſs.

k Or, tender, in the infancy of my Kingdom, not well rooted and ſettled in it. The Metaphor is taken from a young and tender Child or Plant. l Joab and Abiſhai, the Sons of my Siſter Zeruiah. m i. e. Too powerful. They have ſo great a Command over all the Soldiers, and ſo great Favour with the People, that I cannot Punith them without apparent hazard to my Perſon and Kingdom; eſpecially, now when all the Tribes, except Judah, are yet in a ſtate of Oppoſition againſt me. But this, although it might give ſome colour to the delay of their Puniſhment for a ſeaſon, yet it may ſeem to have been one of David's Infirmities, that he did not do it within ſome reaſonable time, both becauſe this Indulgence proceeded from a diſtruſt of God's Power and Faithfulneſs; as if God could not, or would not make good his Promiſe of the Kingdom to him, without, and againſt Joab and all his Confederates; and becauſe it was contrary to God's Law, which ſeverely requires the Puniſhment of wilful Murderers, Gen. 9. 6. Exod. 21. 14. Numb. 35. 21. which David had no power to diſpence with. And David might, and ſhould have remembred, how dear Saul paid for this very thing, that he diſpenſed with God's Command, and ſpared thoſe whom God commanded him to ſlay, 1 Sam. 15. And it ſeems David's Conſcience oft ſmote him for this: which made him watch for a fit opportunity to remove, and then puniſh him, and having neglected it till death, he declareth his Sorrow for that neglect, by giving Solomon a charge to execute it after his death, 1 King. 2. 5, 6. 34.

CHAP. IV.

Iſhboſheth and his party are aſtoniſhed at Abner's death, 1. Two captains murther Iſhbo ſheth, and bring his head to David, 2,—8. Who cauſed them to be put to death and hanged up: and Iſhboſheth's head to be buried, 9,—12.

AND when Sauls ſon heard that Abner was dead in Hebron, his hands were feeble a, and all the Iſraelites were troubled b.

a His Spirit, and Courage, and Strength failed him. This Phraſe is uſed in the ſame ſence, Ezra 4. 4. Neh. 6. 9. Iſa. 13. 7. and 35. 3. b Becauſe now they were unable to oppoſe David, and doubtful of obtaining his Favour, now Abner their Peace-maker was dead.

2 And Sauls ſon had two men that were captains of bands, the name of the one was Baanah, and the name of the † other Rechab, the ſons of Rimmon, a Beerothite, of the children of Benjamin c: (for Beeroth alſo was reckoned to Benjamin d; c Of Iſhboſheth's own Tribe, whom therefore he truſted the more; and this gave them opportunity to execute their wicked deſign. d This is added as the reaſon why he called them Beerothites, becauſe though Beeroth was now in the Hands and Poſſeſſion of the Philiſtines, 1 Sam. 31. 7. yet of right it belonged to the Benjamites, Joſh. 18. 25.

3 And e the Beerothites fled to Gittaim, and were ſojourners there until this day.)

e Or, Yet, or But. For this comes in to anticipate an Objection againſt what he had now ſaid. It is true, ſaith he, the Beerothites fled, as others did, upon the overthrow of Saul and his Army, 1 Sam. 31. 7. to a place called Gittaim, 2 Sam. 4. 3. not that in Benjamin. Nehem. 11. 33. but ſome other place of that name more remote from the Philiſtines, and ſo they were Gittaimites by their preſent Habitation; but Beerothites by their Original, and place of their Birth.

4 And Jonathan Sauls ſon had a ſon that was lame of his feet f, and was five years old when the tidings came of † Saul and Jonathan out of Jezreel g, and his nurſe took him up, and fled, and it came to paſs as ſhe made haſte to flee, that he fell, and became lame; and his name was ‖ Mephiboſheth h.

f This Hiſtory is inſerted as that which encouraged theſe Men to this wicked Murder, becauſe Saul's Family was now reduced to a low ebb; and if Iſhboſheth was diſpatched, there would be none left, but a lame Child, who was altogether unfit to manage the Kingdom, eſpecially in ſo troubleſome a time as this was; and therefore the Crown muſt neceſſarily come to David by their act and deed; for which they promiſed themſelves no ſmall recompence. g The place of that laſt and fatal Fight, 1 Sam. 29. 11. h Called alſo Merib-baal, 1 Chron. 8. 34. See the Notes on chap. 2. 8.

5 And the ſons of Rimmon the Beerothite, Rechab and Baanah, went and came about the heat of the day to the houſe of Iſhboſheth, who lay on a bed at noon i.

i Either, from diſcontent of Mind, as Ahab did, 1 King. 21. 4. or from ſloth and ſenſuality, as David ſeems to have done, chap. 11. 2.

6 And they came thither into the midſt of the houſe k, as though they would have fetched wheat l; and they ſmote him under the fifth rib; and Rechab and Baanah his brother eſcaped m.

k Or, into the houſe: for the midſt is not always taken exactly, and Mathematically, but for any part within, as Gen. 48. 16. Exod. 8. 22. Joſh. 3. 17. l Which was laid up in publick Granaries in the King's Houſe, and was fetched thence by the Captains and Commanders of the Army for the Pay of their Soldiers, who, in thoſe ancient Times were not paid in Money, but in Corn, as is well known. Upon this Pretence they were admitted into the Houſe, and ſo went from Room to Room, to the place where the King lay. m Which was not difficult to do, when the King was left alone, either becauſe he deſired to compoſe himſelf to reſt or ſleep: or, becauſe his Guards, if he had any, were very ſmall, and negligent, now at leaſt, in his declining and forlorn Condition.

7 For when they came into the houſe, he lay on his bed in his bed-chamber: and they ſmote him, and ſlew him, and beheaded him, and took his head, and gat them away through the plain n all night.

n i. e. In the way from Mahanaim to Hebron; which for the moſt part was a plain Country.

8 And they brought the head of Iſhboſheth unto David to Hebron, and ſaid to the king, Behold, the head of Iſhboſheth the ſon of Saul, thine enemy, which ſought thy life o; and the LORD hath avenged my lord the king this day of Saul and of his ſeed p.

o i. e. To deſtroy it, or take it away; as this Phraſe is uſed, 1 Sam. 20. 1. and 23. 15. and elſewhere. p They thought their Action not only blameleſs, but Meritorious; becauſe they had but executed Juſtice upon Saul's Houſe, and David's Enemies, and made way for David's obtaining of his Rights. It may ſeem ſtrange, they were not diſcouraged by David's puniſhing of the Amalekite for killing Saul, 2 Sam. 1. and by his ſharp Reproof of Joab for Murdering Abner; but they thought the firſt Caſe much differing from theirs, becauſe Saul was anointed King by God: whereas Iſhboſheth was not, but was a meer Uſurper: and for the latter, they thought that David's ſharp words proceeded rather from Art and Policy, than from any real diſlike of the thing; which they judged, becauſe David contented himſelf with words, and Joab did not only go unpuniſhed, but continued in his former Place and Power.

9 ¶ And David anſwered Rechab, and Baanah his brother, the ſons of Rimmon the Beerothite, and ſaid unto them, As the LORD liveth, who hath redeemed my ſoul out of all adverſity q.

q Who hath hitherto delivered, and will deliver me from all mine Enemies. So that I needed not your wicked help in this way.

10 When * one told me, ſaying, Behold Saul is dead, († thinking to have brought good tidings) I took hold of him, and ſlew him in Ziklag, ‖ who thought that I would have given him a reward for his tidings.

11 How much more when wicked men have ſlain a righteous perſon r in his own houſe, upon his bed? Shall I not therefore now require his blood of your hand, and take you away from the earth?

r For ſo he was comparatively, and in reſpect of theſe Men, having not deſerved Death at their hands.

12 And David commanded his young men ſ, and they ſlew them, and cut off their hands and their feet t, and hanged them up over the pool in Hebron u: but as for Iſhboſheth's head, they took the head of Iſhboſheth, and buried it in the ſepulchre of Abner in Hebron.

ſ Thoſe of his Guard, who uſed to execute Juſtice upon Malefactors at the Kings Command. t Which had been moſt inſtrumental in this Villany; their Hands to cut off his Head, and their Feet to carry them away, and his Head with them. u As Monuments of their Villany, and of David's Abhorrency of it.

CHAP. V.

The tribes come to Hebron to anoint David king over all Iſrael: the years of his reign at Hebron and Jeruſalem: his age, 1,—5. He taketh the ſtrong hold of Zion from the Jebuſites and dwelleth there, 6,—10. Hiram maketh a league with David, and ſendeth wood and work-men to build an houſe, 11, 12. He taketh more wives, and eleven ſons are born to him at Jeruſalem, 13,——16. David directed by God ſmiteth the Philiſtines at Baal-Perazim, 17,——21. And again at the Mulberry-trees, 22,——25.

THen * came all the tribes of Iſrael a to David unto Hebron, and ſpake, ſaying, Behold, we are thy bone, and thy fleſh b.

* 1 Chron. 11. 1.

a To wit, by their Ambaſſadors, Iſhboſheth and Abner being now dead; and that without David's concurrence. b i. e. Thy Brethren, or Kinſmen, of the ſame Nation and Parentage, though not of the ſame Tribe; and therefore, as God's Law, Deut. 17. 15. permits us, ſo our own relation and affection inclines us to chuſe thee for our King; and we doubt not thou will receive us for thy Subjects and People, and Pardon our Offences againſt thee.

2 Alſo in time paſt, when Saul was king over us, * thou waſt he that leddeſt out, and broughteſt in Iſrael c: and the LORD ſaid to thee d, * Thou ſhalt feed my people Iſrael e, and thou ſhalt be a captain over Iſrael.

* 1 Sam. 18. 13. * Pſal. 78. 71.

c Thou waſt our chief Commander in our Expeditions againſt the Philiſtines, and therefore art moſt fit to be King over us. d To wit, by Samuel, 1 Sam. 16. 11, 12, 13. for though the words vary, yet the ſence is the ſame. e i. e. Rule them, and take care of them, as a Shepherd doth of his Sheep, Pſal. 78. 70, 71. This Expreſſion he uſeth to admoniſh David, that he was not made a King to advance his own Glory and Intereſt, but for the good and benefit of his People

People; and that he ought to Rule them with all tenderneſs, and to watch over them with all diligence.

3 So all the elders of Iſrael came to the king to Hebron, and king David made a league with them f in Hebron before the LORD g: and they anointed David h king over Iſrael.

f Whereby David obliged himſelf to rule them according to God's Laws; and the People promiſed Fidelity and Obedience to him. g Either, 1. Before the Ark; which might be here, though that be not mentioned in this place. Or, 2. Before the Prieſt clothed with the Ephod; whereby he was in a manner put into God's Preſence. Or rather, 3. In the congregation of the mighty, or Magiſtrates, where God uſed to be preſent, Pſal. 82. 1. in the Publick Aſſembly now met together in God's name and fear, and as in his Preſence to call upon him, to appeal to him as the Witneſs and Judge of their Tranſactions. Compare Judg. 11. 11. 1 Sam. 23. 18. h Either by a Prophet or the Prieſt, to whom this Office belonged. See 2 Sam. 2. 4.

4 ¶ David was thirty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned forty years i.

i And ſome odd Months, as it follows.

5 In Hebron he reigned over Judah * ſeven years and ſix months: and in Jeruſalem he reigned thirty and three years over all Iſrael and Judah.

* Chap. 2. 11

6 ¶ And the king and his men went k to Jeruſalem l unto the Jebuſites m, the inhabitants of the land, which ſpake unto David, ſaying, ‖ Except thou take away the blind and the lame, thou ſhalt not come in hither n: ‖ thinking, David cannot come in hither o.

‖ Or, except thou remove from thence. Or, ſay.

k Having the advantage of ſo great a confluence of his People to make him King, he thought fit to begin his Reign with ſome eminent Action, and to lead them forth in this Expedition. Wherein doubtleſs he aſked Advice from God, and the conſent of the Elders now preſent. l As the place which God had deſigned for his Worſhip; and in the center and heart of his Kingdom, and therefore fitteſt for his Royal City. m Who continued to dwell there in ſpight of the Benjamites, to whoſe lot it fell. See Joſh. 15. 63. Judg. 1. 21. and 19. 10, 11. n Or, thou ſhalt not come in hither, but the olind and the lame ſhall remove or hinder thee. By the blind and the lame they underſtand, either, 1. Their own People; and ſo they imply, that the Place was ſo Impregnable, that a few blind and lame Men were able to defend it againſt all David's Aſſaults. And theſe may be called, and were the hated of David's ſoul, v. 8. Not becauſe they were Blind and Lame, but becauſe they were Jebuſites, a People hated and accurſed by God: and the Jebuſites of this place were more hateful to him, than the reſt of that Nation; partly, becauſe they poſſeſſed this Place, which David knew was deſigned for the one and only place of God's ſolemn Worſhip; and partly, becauſe they did ſo wickedly and inſolently deſie the Armies of Iſrael, and conſequently, the God of Iſrael. Or 2. Their gods or images; which, after the manner of the Heathens, they Worſhipped as their tutelary gods, and placed in their Gates or Walls. Theſe they call blind and lame ſarcaſtically, and with reſpect to David's Opinion; as if they ſaid, Theſe gods of ours, whom you Iſraelites Reproach, as Blind and Lame, Pſal. 115. 5, 6. and ſo unable to direct and protect us, they will defend us againſt you; and you will find, they are neither Blind nor Lame, but have Eyes to watch for us, and Hands to fight againſt you; and you muſt Conquer them before you can take our City. And theſe may well be called, the hated of David's ſoul. But I prefer the former ſence, as being moſt eaſie, and natural, and proper; whereas, the latter is Metaphorical, and ſeems doubtful and forced. o Concluding their Fort to be Impregnable.

7 Nevertheleſs, David took the ſtrong hold of Zion o: the ſame is † the city of David.

o Either, 1. A very ſtrong Fort which they had built upon Mount Sion; which being taken, the City quickly yielded. Or, 2. The City of Zion, which was very ſtrongly Fortified.

8 And David ſaid on that day, Whoſoever getteth up to the gutter p, and ſmiteth the Jebuſites, and the lame, and the blind q, that are hated of David's ſoul r, * 1 Chron. 11. 6. Or, becauſe they had ſaid, even the blind and lame, ſhall not come into the houſe. * he ſhall be chief and captain s: ‖ wherefore they ſaid, The blind and the lame ſhall not come into the houſe t.

p i.e. Whoſoever ſcaleth the Fort, or getteth up to the top of it, where the Gutter was. q Or ewen, or especially (for the Hebrew Particle Vau, ſignifies both ways) the lame and the blind: i.e. Thoſe of them who are ſet to defend that Place; who, as they pretend, ſhould be only the Lame and the Blind. Others underſtand it, of their Idols, or Images. But they could not properly be ſaid to be ſmitten, i.e. Killed; as that Word is uſed here, and elſewhere. r This belongs to the Jebuſites, and the lame and the blind; and it is explained in v. 6. s Theſe words are ſtly ſupplied out of 1 Chron. 11. 6. where they are expreſſed; and they muſt needs be underſtood to make the ſence compleat. And ſuch Ellipſes or Defects of a part of the Sentence, are uſual in Promiſes and Oaths, and Conditional Offers, ſuch as this was. t i.e. Whence it became a Proverb, or a common ſaying, uſed by David, and others, upon this occaſion: or otherwiſe, The blind and the lame Jebuſites were ſet to keep the Houſe, i.e. The Fort of Zion; and to keep others from coming into it; but now they are ſhut out of it, and none of them, to wit, either, 1. Of the Jebuſites; or, 2. Or blind and lame Perſons, ſhall be admitted to come into it again. Which David might reſolve, and ordain, to keep up the memory of this great Exploit, and of the Inſolent Carriage of the Jebuſites, and their unhappy Succeſs. Or, the blind and the lame ſhall not come into my houſe: to wit, into the King's Palace. And although this might be a general Rule and Decree of David's, yet he might diſpence with it in ſome ſpecial caſes, as in that of Mephiboſheth. But it is not neceſſary, that this ſhould be a Proverb; for the Words may be thus rendred, as it is in the Margent of our Bible, becauſe they had ſaid, even the blind and the lame, he (i.e. David) ſhall not come into the houſe: or, becauſe they (i.e. the Jebuſites) had ſaid, the blind and the lame ſhall hinder him; (which words are eaſily ſupplied out of v. 6. where having ſpoken of this more largely, it was ſufficient here to mention the moſt emphatical Words, as is uſual in ſuch caſes;) He ſhall not come into the houſe; or hither; as they ſay, v. 6. i.e. Into the Fort: for the Word houſe is uſed very largely and generally in the Hebrew Language, for any place; as Judg. 16. 21.

9 So David dwelt in the fort, and called it, The city of David: and David built round about from Millo u, and inward.

* 1 Chron. 11. 16. and 14. 8.

c Whilſt the Civil War laſted between the Houſes of Saul and David, they wiſely forbore all Hoſtilities, and left them to tear out one anothers Bowels, that afterwards they might make a more eaſie Conqueſt of both. But that being ended, and all united under David, they beſtir themſelves. d To find him out, and fight againſt him, and cut him off now in the Infancy of his Kingdom. Whereby they give David a juſt occaſion to fight againſt them for his own neceſſary Defence, and acquit him from any note of Ingratitude, in oppoſing them who had formerly exerciſed kindneſs and hoſpitality to him. Though indeed David's Obligations were in a manner wholly to Achiſh, who ſeems to be dead at this time, there being no mention of him. e To ſome fortified place to which his People might conveniently reſort from all places, and where he might intrench his Army, and which lay towards the Philiſtines.

18 The Philiſtines alſo came and ſpread themſelves in the valley of Rephaim f.

f Or, of the Giants: which lay Weſtward from Jeruſalem, and ſo was the ready way to Jeruſalem, which it ſeems they deſigned to take.

19 And David enquired of the LORD, ſaying, Shall I go up to the Philiſtines? wilt thou deliver them into mine hand? and the LORD ſaid unto David, Go up: for I will doubtleſs deliver the Philiſtines into thine hand.

20 And David came to * Baal-perazim g, and David ſmote them there, and ſaid, The LORD hath broken forth upon mine enemies before me, as the breach of waters b. Therefore he called the name of that place ‖ Baal-perazim.

* Iſa. 28. 21

‖ That is, the plain of breaches.

g Whither the Philiſtines were come from the Valley of Rephaim, 1 Chron. 14. 11. b As Floods or Rivers of Waters, which break the Banks, and overflow a Land, and overturn all that ſtands in their way.

i Which they seem to have brought into the Field to Fight for them, as the Israelites had formerly done the Ark. k As God had commanded, Deut. 7. 5.

22 And the Philistines came up yet again l, and spread themselves in the valley of Rephaim.

k Doubtless with greater Force, as those that saw their All lay at stake.

23. And when David enquired of the LORD, he said, Thou shalt not go up m: but fetch a compass behind them, and come upon them over against the mulbery-trees n.

m To wit, directly against them, as the following words explain it. n Where they least expect thee; God's Purposes and Promises do not exclude Mens just endeavours, but require them.

24 And let it be when thou hearest the sound of a going o in the tops of the mulbery-trees, that then thou shalt bestir thy self p: for then shall the LORD go out before thee, to smite the host of the Philistines.

o A noise as it were of Persons walking upon the tops of them, which I shall cause; and by this sign, both thou shalt be assured that I am coming to help thee; and the Philistines shall be affrighted and amused, and not perceive the noise of thy Army, until thou art upon them. p Do thou fall upon them.

25 And David did so, as the LORD had commanded him, and smote the Philistines from Geba, until thou come to Gazer q.

q They followed their Victory, and pursued them to their own Borders, in which Gazer was, as Josephus relates.

CHAP. VI.

David fetcheth the Ark with much People, and great joy out of the House of Abinadab, 1,——5. Uzza laying hold of the Ark is slain of God: David is grieved: Carries the Ark into the House of Obed-Edom, whom God blesseth for its sake, 6,——11. David bringeth the Ark into Zion with Sacrifices: Danceth before it: For which Michal despiseth him, 12,——16. They place it in a Tabernacle: He offereth to God: Blesseth the People: Giveth them Presents, 17,——19. Michal reproving David: He answereth her: She is Childless to her Death, 20,——23.

AGain David gathered together all the chosen men of Israel a, thirty thousand.

a The stoutest, and valiantest Men in his Army and Land; lest the Philistines should attempt to disturb them in this work.

* 1 Chron. 13. 5, 6. ‖ Or, on which the name, even the name of the LORD of hosts was called upon.

2 And * David arose, and went with all the people that were with him b, from Baale of Judah c, to bring up from thence the ark of God d, ‖ whose name is called by the name of the LORD of hosts e, that dwelleth between the cherubims.

b With the whole body of the People: for these seem to be a differing Party from the 30000 now mentioned. See 1 Chron. 13. 1, 2. c Qu. How from it, when they went to it; as is evident, both from 1 Chron. 13. 6. and because the Ark was there, and to be fetched thence? Answ. Some affirm, That the Hebrew Preposition Mem, sometimes signifies to, as Gen. 13. 11. But there is no need of that: for, 1 Chron. 13. 6. mentions their going to Baalah; and this place mentions their going from it; and the one of these doth manifestly suppose the other: for they went thither, that they might return thence. So the fence is plain, They went from Baalath of Judah, to bring (or rather to carry; for the Word signifies either) up from thence the ark. Whereby it is supposed, that they first went thither, which is related 1 Chron. 13. 6. Moreover, this place is commonly called Kiriath jearim, 1 Sam. 7. 1. and 1 Chron. 13. 5. and formerly, Kiriath-baal, Josh. 15. 60. and Baalah, Josh. 15. 9. and here Baale of Judah, so called, because it was in the Tribe of Judah, as is evident from Josh. 15. 1, &c. d Unto Jerusalem, which, in many respects, was fitter for it than Baalah; because this was a more Publick place, where it would be more observed and regarded; and in the Center of the Kingdom, to which they might more easily come from all Parts; and the Royal City, where it might be always at hand for David to enquire at, as occasion required; and the place which God had allotted for it. e Thus whose, belongs not to the Ark, but to God: for what follows is not the name of the Ark, but of God. The place may well be, and is by some rendred thus, Upon (or At, or Beside, or Before,) which (Ark) the name, even the name of the Lord of hosts, that dwelleth between the Cherubims is called upon: i. e. By, or before which, they were to present their Prayers to God for Counsel and Succour upon all occasions. And this is mentioned here as the reason why David put himself and his People to so great trouble and charge, because it was to fetch up the choicest Treasure which they had, and so the benefit would abundantly recompense the inconvenience.

f Being taught, and encouraged to do so, by the Example of the Philistines, who did so without any token of God's displeasure upon them for so doing. But they did not sufficiently consider, that God might wink at the Philistines, because they were ignorant of God's Laws; and yet be angry with them for the same thing, because they knew, or might, and should have known the Law of God, which commanded the Priests to bear it upon their Shoulders, Numb. 4. 14, 15. and 7. 9. But their present transports of Joy in the happy change of their Affairs, and their greedy desire of having the Ark removed, made them hasty and inconsiderate. g Or, on the hill, as 1 Sam. 7. 1. h For Abinadab himself seems now to have been dead; or at least, detained at home through infirmity or indispensable occasions.

m With some deadly Disease or Stroke, as it follows. n Either, 1. For his touching the Ark, when he was no Levite, as Josephus reports; nor indeed was Kiriath-jearim a Levitical City: or, that being but a Levite, he touched the bare Ark, which only the Priests might do, Numb. 5. 15. and 18. 3. And though the Ark was ordinarily covered, yet it is not impossible but the covering might be either loose, and so blown aside by the Wind; or worn out, and so he might touch the Ark it self. Or, 2. Because he put the Ark into a Cart, and thereby exposed it to the danger of falling, which would have been a great discouragement to the Israelites, and a reproach to the Ark. And though Abia also might have an hand in putting it into the Cart, yet Uzzah only is smitten; either, because he was the Elder Brother, and the Person to whose care the Ark was more especially committed; or, because he was the chief Author of this Counsel of putting it into a Cart; or, because he added a new fault of touching the Ark, and that out of distrust of God's care over it. o This may seem very severe, considering that his Intention was Pious, and his Transgression not great. But, besides that, Men are very improper Judges of the Actions of God; and that God's Judgments are always just, though sometimes obscure: There are many things to be said of this, and such like cases. 1. That it is fit and reasonable, that God should make some Persons Examples of his just and high Displeasure against Sins, (seemingly small; partly, for the demonstration of his own exact and impartial Holiness; partly, for the establishment of Discipline, (for which very reason, even Earthly Princes have oft-times Inflicted great Punishments for small Offences;) and for the greater Terror and Caution of Mankind, who are very prone to have slight thoughts of Sin, and to give way to small Sins, and thereby to be led on to greater; all which is, or may be prevented by such instances of Severity: and consequently, there is more of God's Mercy, than of his Justice, in such Actions, because the Justice is confined to one particular person, but the Mercy and Benefit of it publick and common to Mankind of that, and all future Ages. 2. That God is justly most severe in those things which immediately concern his Worship and Service; and against those persons who have the neareſt Relation to him, and the greatest opportunities of Knowing, and the highest obligations of careful Practising those Duties which they neglect: See Levit. 10. 3. That this Punishment possibly was not so great as it may seem to be; for as for his Body, the Disease, though dangerous, might not be exceedingly painful; and for his Soul, the stroke probably was not so sudden, as not to give him space of Repentance.

8 And David was displeased p, because the † Heb. had broke, or, brast the breach of Uzzah. LORD had † made a breach upon Uzzah: And he called the name of the place ‖ Perez Uzzah to this day.

p Or, grieved, both for the sin, which he acknowledgeth, 1 Chron. 15. 2, 13. and for God's heavy Judgment; whereby their hopes were dashed, and their joys interrupted, and a good Subject struck dead for the circumstantial error of a Pious Mind, which he might possibly think harsh and very severe, and therefore be displeased or offended at this sharp Providence.

9 And David was afraid of the LORD q that day, and said, How shall the ark of the LORD come unto me r?

q Either, that God was displeased with him for removing the Ark, and bringing it to his City: or left God should proceed further in the way of his Judgments upon him and his People: or, left the Ark being brought to his House, might be the occasion of Inconveniencies and great Calamities, for some Neglects or Errors which they might easily and frequently commit. r How may I presume, or how shall I dare do it, when God hath shewed a displeasure for my attempting it? I will therefore wait further upon God for his direction in the case, and at present forbear. But why did not David consult God presently by the Urim, as he used to do? This therefore seems to have been his infirmity and neglect.

10 So David would not remove the ark of the s Which doubtless was done by the consent and desire of the owner of it, who for the enjoyment of so great a Priviledge, was willing to expose himself to some hazard; and wisely considered, that that the late Judgment was not to be imputed to the Ark, but to Uzzah's carelessness in managing it. t He was certainly a Levite, 1 Chron. 15. 18, 21, 23. and 16. 5. and 26. 4. and here called a Gittite, either, First, From Gath of the Philistines, where he or his Father might be Born or have Sojourned, which might be upon divers occasions: Or, Secondly, From Gath-rimmon, which was a Levitical City, Jos. 21. 24, 25.
* Josh. 24. 1 Chr. 13. 13. LORD unto him into the city of David: but David carried it aside into the house of Obed-Edom * the Gittite s.

11 And the ark of the LORD continued in the house of Obed-Edom the Gittite three months: and the LORD blessed Obed-Edom, and all his household u.

u With happy Success in all their Affairs and Actions.

12 ¶ And it was told king David, saying, The LORD hath blessed the house of Obed-Edom, and all that pertaineth unto him, because of the ark of God. So David went and brought up the ark of God x from the house of Obed-Edom y, into the city of David, with gladness.

1 Chron. 15. 25.

x Understanding that the Ark was entertained without danger or inconvenience, and with great advantage, he apprehended his former mistake, and brought it to himself. y Which is thought to have been either in Jerusalem, or very near it.

13 And it was so, that when they that bare the ark of the LORD, had gone six paces z, he sacri-z With safety and comfort. a Upon an Altar suddenly erected, as was usual in such cases. See Exod. 20. 24. This he did, either, to appease God for the former miscarriage: or, to praise him for his present Mercy, that he had not made another breach upon them: or, to implore his favour and gracious presence with them in this great Affair.

b To express his inward joy and thankfulness to God by his outward carriage, according to the manner of those Times. See Exod. 15. 20. Judg. 11. 34. and 21. 21. 1 Sam. 18. 6. Psal. 149. 3. and 150. 4. c The usual Habit of the Priests and Levites, in their Sacred ministrations, yet sometimes worn by others, as it was by the young Child Samuel, 1 Sam. 2. 18. before he was come to those years in which the Levites were allowed to Minister; and so hereby David, who laid by his Royal Robes, and put on this Robe to signifie and declare, that although he was King of Israel, yet he willingly owned himself to be the Lord's Minister and Servant.

15 So David and all the house of Israel brought up the ark of the LORD with shouting, and with the sound of the trumpet.

16 And as the ark of the LORD came into the city of David, Michal Sauls daughter looked through a window, and saw king David leaping and dancing before the LORD, and she despised him in her heart d.

d As one of a base and mean spirit, that knew not how to carry himself with that Majesty which became his place, but behaved himself like one of the Fools or vain Persons in Israel.

* 1 Chron. 16. 1. † Heb. stretched.

17 ¶ And * they brought in the ark of the LORD, and set it in his place, in the midst of the tabernacle that David had † pitched for it e: and David offered burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings before the LORD.

e For Moses his Tabernacle was still at Gibeon, 1 Chron. 16. 39 and 21. 29. and 2 Chron. 1. 3. which David left there, because he designed to build a Temple at Jerusalem with all speed, though he was countermanded therein by God himself.

* 1 Chron. 16. 2.

18 And assoon as David had made an end of offering burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings, * he blessed the people f in the name of the LORD of hosts.

f i.e. He heartily and solemnly prayed to God for his Blessing upon them: which he did both as Prophet, and as their King, to whom by office it belongs, by all means, to seek his Peoples welfare.

19 And he dealt among all the people, even among the whole multitude of Israel, as well to the women as men, to every one a cake of bread, and a good piece of flesh, and a flagon of wine: so all the people departed every one to his house.

20 ¶ Then David returned to bless his house-
Or, pray. hold; and Michal the daughter of Saul came out to meet David, and said, How glorious was the king of Israel to day, who uncovered himself g to day in the eyes of the handmaids of his servants h, as one of the vain fellows i ‖ shamefully uncovereth himself!

g Either, First, By stripping himself of his Royal Robes, that he might put on a Levitical Ephod: or, by discovering some part of his Thighs or Legs, as might possibly happen whilst he danced with all his might, as is said above, ver. 14. considering that the men did then wear loose Garments. Or, the speaks thus, not that he did so, but only by way of aggravation of his fault, and to vilifie him the more, as is usual with Persons in such cases. h Who either bare a part in the Solemnity, as Women sometimes did, Exod. 15. 20. or, at least were spectators of it, and of David's Carriage in it. i As idle and light Persons use to do.

21 And David said unto Michal, It was before the
Or, of the handmaids of my servants. LORD k, which chose me before thy father, and before all his house l, to appoint me ruler over the people of the LORD, over Israel: therefore will I play before the LORD.

k In his presence and service, which though contemptible to thee, is, and ever shall be honourable in mine eyes. l Which took away the honour from him and his, and transferred it upon me, whereby he hath obliged me to Love and Serve him with all my Might.

22 And I will yet be more vile than thus, and will be base in my own sight m: and ‖ of the maidservants which thou hast spoken of, of them shall I be had in honour n.

m I will always be ready to humble and abase my self before God. n I shall rather chuse to get Honour from the meanest of my People, in serving and praising God, than to gain esteem from thee by my lukewarmness in God's service.

23 Therefore o Michal the daughter of Saul had no child p until the day of her death q.

o Not because of David's words to her, which have nothing in them to this purpose; but because of her proud, and petulant, and ungodly speech and carriage to David, which God justly punished with sterility. p To wit, by David, and after this time, which these words evidently respect. Which was true, although those five Children ascribed to Michal, 2 Sam. 21. 8. were hers by Birth, and not by Adoption only. q i.e. Never: for if she ever had any, it must be before her death. Compare 1 Sam. 15. 35. Matth. 1. 25.

CHAP. VII.

David being at rest, desires to build God an House: Which Nathan at first approves of: Afterwards in obedience to the Word of God forbiddeth him, 1,——11. He promiseth him Benefits and Blessings in his Seed, Solomon and the Messiah who should build the House of God, 12,——17. David's Prayer and Thanksgiving, 18,——29.

AND it came to pass, * when the king sat in his
* 1 Chron. 17. 1. house a, and the LORD had given him rest round about from all his enemies b:

a i.e. Was settled and warm in the House which Hiram's Men built for him, chap. 5. 11. then he reflected upon the unhandsome and unsettled state of the Ark. b Philistines, Moabites, and others, so that they durst not invade his Land, as they had formerly done. For though you read of David's Wars with them, chap. 8. yet in them David was the Aggressor, and entred their Lands.

2 That the king said unto Nathan the prophet, See now, I dwell in an house of Cedar, but the ark of God dwelleth within curtains c.

c i.e. In a Tent or Tabernacle, v. 6. composed of several Curtains, Exod. 26. 1, &c.

3 And Nathan said to the king, Go, do all that is in thine heart d: for the LORD is with thee.

d Pursue thy Incentions, and build an House for the Ark. The design being Pious, and the thing not forbidden by God, Nathan hastily approves it, before he had either seriously considered it in his own mind, or consulted God about it, as both he and David certainly ought to have done in a matter of so great moment. And therefore Nathan meets with this rebuke, that he is forced to acknowledge his error, and recant it. For the Holy Prophets did not speak all things by Prophetical Inspiration, but some things by an human Spirit, and prudent conjecture; and therefore they were ignorant and mistaken in some matters, as 1 Sam. 16. 6. 2 Kings 4. 27.

4 ¶ And it came to pass that night e, that the
* See 1 Kin. 5. 3. † Chr. 22. 8. and 28. 3 word of the LORD came unto Nathan f, saying,

e Because David's mistake was Pious, and from an honest Mind, God would not suffer him to lie long in his mistake, nor to disquiet his Mind, or run himself into inconveniencies, in order to the Work, before he gave a stop to it. f That the same Person who had confirmed David in his mistake, might now rectifie it.

5 Go and tell † my servant David, Thus saith the † Heb. to my servant, to David. LORD, * Shalt thou build g me an house for me to dwell in?

g i.e. Thou shalt not. Or, wilst thou build, &c? Dost thou purpose it?

6 Whereas I have not dwelt in any house, * since
* 1 Kings 8. 16. the time that I brought up the children of Israel out of Egypt, even to this day, but have walked in a tent, and in a tabernacle h.

h These two seem thus to be distinguished, the one may more the Curtains and Hangings within, the other the Frame of Boards, and Coverings upon it.

7 In all the places wherein I have walked with all
‖ 1 Chron. 17. 6. any of the Judges. the children of Israel, spake I a word i with ‖ any of the tribes k of Israel, whom I commanded to feed my people Israel, saying, Why build ye not me an house of cedar?

i Did I ever give any Command about it, without which neither they did, nor thou shouldst attempt it? k In 1 Chron. 17. 6. it is of the Judges, and to them, not to the Tribes, the following words agree, whom I commanded to feed my People Israel. Either therefore the Tribes are here put Synecdochically for the Rulers of the Tribes, Tribes, as the word Church is sometimes used for the Governors of it: or, the word here rendred Tribes, may be rendred Scepters, as it is used Gen. 49. 10. and Scepters put for Scepter-bearers or Rulers, as is very frequent.

8 Now therefore, so shalt thou say unto my servant David l: Thus saith the LORD of hosts, * I took thee from the sheep-coat, † from following the sheep, to be ruler over my people, over Israel m.

* 1 Sam. 16. 11, 12. Psa. 78. 71. † Heb. from after.

l Left David should be too much discouraged, or judge himself neglected and forsaken of God, as one thought unworthy of so great an honour, God here gives him the honourable title of his Servant, thereby signifying that he accepted of his Service, and of his good Intentions, which also was expressed at this time, as it may seem from 1 Kings 3. 18. though not in this place. m I advanced thee, and I do not repent of it.

9 And I was with thee whithersoever thou wentest, and have cut off all the enemies † out of thy sight, and have made thee a great name, like unto the name of the great men that are in the earth.

10 (Moreover, I will appoint a place n for my people Israel o, and will plant them, that they may dwell in a place of their own p, and move no more: neither shall the children of wickedness afflict them any more, as before-time q.

n i.e. I will make room for them, whereas hitherto they have been much constrained and distressed by their Enemies. Or, I will establish (for so that Verb sometimes signifies) a place for them, i.e. I will establish them in their Place or Land. Some Learned Men render the Verse thus, and the Hebrew words will bear it: And I have appointed (or, assigned, or, given) a place for my people Israel (to wit, the Land of Canaan) and have planted them in it, that they may dwell in their own place, and be no more driven to and fro: or rather, and they shall dwell in their own place, &c. i.e. As I did long ago appoint it to them, and afterwards planted them, or put them into actual possession, so now they shall continue or dwell in it, in spight of all their Enemies. o Among the favours which God had vouchsafed, and would vouchsafe to David, he reckons his Blessings to the People of Israel, because they were great Blessings to David; partly, because the strength and happiness of a King consists in great part in the multitude and happiness of his People; and partly, because David was a Man of a pious and publick Spirit, and therefore no less affected with Israel's felicity than with his own. p i.e. In their own Land, not in strange Lands, nor mixed with other People. q Either, First, As in the Land of Egypt, and so he goes downward to the Judges. Or, Secondly, As in Saul's Time; and so he ascends to the Judges.

11 And as since the time that I commanded judges to be over my people Israel r, and ‖ have caused thee to rest from all thine enemies s.) Also the LORD telleth thee, That he will make thee an house t.

‖ Or, I will cause to Sojourn.

r Nor as they did under the Judges, neither so oft, nor so long. But all this is to be understood with a condition, except they should notoriously forsake God, or rebel against him: which being so oft declared by God in other places, it was needless to mention it here. Or, this may relate to the later Ages of the World, when the People of Israel shall be converted to Christ, and recalled out of Captivity, and planted in their own place; when they shall enjoy a far greater degree of Tranquility than ever they did before. And this agrees best with the Future Tense, I will appoint —— and will plant them, &c. otherwise the work was already done, God had already appointed this Land for them, and actually planted them in it. s i.e. And until this time in which I have given thee rest. But these words, though according to our Translation they be inclosed in the same Parenthesis with the foregoing Clauses, may seem to be better put without it, and to be taken by themselves. For the foregoing words in this Verse, and in v. 10. do all concern the People of Israel; but these words seem to concern David alone, to whom the Speech returns after a short digressions concerning the People of Israel. And they may be rendred either thus, And I have caused thee to rest, &c. or, And I will cause thee to rest, &c. to wit, more fully and perfectly than yet thou dost. t For thy good Intentions to make him an House, he will make thee an house, to wit, a fare house, as is expressed, 1 Kings 11. 38. i.e. he will encrease and uphold thy Posterity, and continue thy Kingdom in thy Family.

* 1 Kings 8. 20.

12 ¶ And * when thy days be fulfilled u, and thou shalt sleep with thy fathers, I will set up thy seed after thee x, which shall proceed out of thy bowels y, and I will establish his kingdom.

u When the time of thy life shall expire. This Phrase implies, that his days shall be compleated and prolonged to the usual course and stint of Nature, and not cut off in the midst, by any violent or untimely death. x I will set up in thy stead and Throne, thy Posterity, first Solomon, and then others successively, and at last the Messias. So the following words may be understood diversly, part of his Posterity in general or indefinitely taken; part of Solomon, and part of Christ only, according to the differing nature of the several passages. y Out of thy inward parts, or from thy Loins; who shall be begotten by thee.

* 1 Kings 5. 5. and 6. 12. 1 Ch. 22. 10

13 * He shall build an house z for my Name a, and I will stablish the throne of his kingdom b for ever.

z This is meant li erally and immediately of Solomon, who alone did build the material House or Temple; but mystically and ultimately of Christ, who is the Builder of God's Spiritual House or Temple Heb. 3. 3, 6. 1 Pet. 2. 5. a i.e. For my Service, and Worship, and Glory. b This is not meant of Solomon, for his Kingdom was not for ever. And though the Phrase for ever is sometimes used of the time of a Man's Life, yet it cannot be so understood here, because the Mercy here promised to David's Son is of another nature, and of far longer continuance, than that which was given to Saul, v. 15. who yet enjoyed the Kingdom as long as he lived. But it is to be understood of David's Posterity in general, but with special respect to Christ, in whose Person the Kingdom was to be lodged for ever, Isa. 9. 7. Dan. 2. 44. Luke 1. 32. 33.

14 * I will be his father, and he shall be my son c: * if he commit iniquity d, I will chasten him with the rod of men ∴, and with the stripes of the children of men:

* Heb. in. * Psal. 89. 30, 32. 26.

c I will carry my self towards him as becomes a Father, with all affection and tenderness, and I will own him as my Son. This is intended both of Solomon, as a Type of Christ; and of Christ himself, as is evident from Heb. 1. 5. d This agrees only to Solomon and some others of David's Posterity; but not to Christ, who never committed Iniquity, as Solomon did, who therein was no Type of Christ, and therefore this branch is terminated in Solomon; whereas in those things wherein Solomon was a Type of Christ, the sense passeth through Solomon unto Christ. ∴ Either, First, With such Rods as Men use to correct their Sons, or to beat other Men: which are here opposed to the Rods or Strokes which an angry God inflicts. See Job 23. 6. Psal. 39. 11. Isa. 47. 3. Rom. 9. 22. Heb. 10. 31. and 12. 29. Or, Secondly, With such Rods as are gentle and moderate, and suited to Man's weakness; as a tolerable and resistible temptation is called human, or common to men, 1 Cor. 10. 13.

15 But my mercy e shall not depart away from him, as I took it from Saul f, whom I put away before thee.

e i.t. Or, my kindness, i.e. the Kingdom which I have mercifully and kindly promised to thee and thine. f In regard of his Posterity, for the Kingdom was continued to his Person during life.

16 And thine house, and thy kingdom shall be established for ever * before thee g: thy throne shall be established for ever.

* 1 Kings 1. 48.

g Thine Eyes in some fort beholding it: for he lived to see his Wife and Godly Son Solomon actually placed in the Throne, with great reputation and general applause, 1 Kings 1. 39, 40. which was in it self a good presage of the continuance of the Kingdom in his Family; and being considered, together with the infallible certainty of God's Promise to him and his for ever, of the accomplishment whereof, this was an earnest, gave him good assurance thereof; especially considering that he had his Eyes and Thoughts upon the Messiah, Psal. 110. 1, &c. whose day he saw by Faith, as Abraham did, John 8. 56. and whom he knew that God would raise out of the fruit of his Loins to sit on his Throne, as is affirmed, Acts 2. 30. and that for ever: and so the Eternity of his Kingdom is rightly said to be before him. The LXX and Syriack read before me, which is an usual Phrase, which makes no great variation in the Hebrew Text.

17 According to all these words, and according to all this vision, so did Nathan speak unto David h.

h Although it was conerary to his own Opinion, and an evidence of his Rashness and Folly: This therefore is here mentioned as an evidence of his Fidelity and Impartiality, in relating the whole Mind of God herein, and of his Modesty in taking Shame to himself.

18 ¶ Then went king David in, and sat i before the LORD, and said, Who am I, O LORD God? and what is my house, that thou hast brought me hitherto k?

i This word may note either, first, his Bodily gesture: for there is no certain gesture to which Prayer is limited; and we have examples of Saints Praying in that posture, Exod. 17. 12. 1 Kings 19. 4. or, he might sit for a season whilst he was Meditating upon these things, and then alter his Posture (though it be not here expressed) and betake himself to Prayer. Or rather, Secondly, his continuance there, as this Hebrew word is oft used, as Gen. 27. 44. Levit. 14. 8. 1 Sam. 1. 22 and 20. 19. that he did not barely present himself before God, but abode there for some competent time, that he might with God's leave pour out his Soul freely before him. For howsoever one may in some cases pray sitting, yet it is most probable that David would in this Holy Place, and upon this occasion, use a more humble and reverent Gesture, such as kneeling is, which therefore David prescribeth or adviseth, Psal. 95. 6. and Solomon accordingly practiseth, 1 Kings 8. 54. 2 Chron. 6. 13. k How infinitely unworthy am I and my Family of this great honour and happiness!

19 And this l was yet a small thing in thy sight, O LORD God m: but thou hast spoken also of thy servants house for a great while to come n: and is this the † manner of man, O LORD God o?

l To wit, which thou hast already done for me, as he now said, That thou hast brought me hitherto, i.e. to that pitch of Honour, and Peace, and Prosperity, in which through thy favour I now stand.

stand. m Though it was more than I deserved, or could expect, yet thou didst not think it enough for thee to give to me. n For many future Ages, and indeed to all Eternity. o Do Men use to deal so freely and kindly with their Inferiors, as thou hast done with me? No: this is the Prerogative of Divine Grace, to give such Promises and Largesses as this. So these are words of admiration: which very well suit with the foregoing and following words. Or, And is this the Manner, or Law, or Custom of mean or obscure men, &c. as the Hebrew Adam is confessed sometimes to signifie, as Psal. 49. 2. and 62. 9. Isa. 2. 9. i.e. Is this the manner of Mens dealing with mean and obscure Persons, such as I am? So the Hebrew, baadam, is the Genuine Case of the Object, which is frequent in the Hebrew and other Languages. And this seems more probable, because it exactly agrees with the parallel place, 1 Chron. 17. 17. where the words are, thou hast regarded me according to the estate of a man of high degree, i.e. thou hast dealt with me as if I had been not a poor mean Shepherd, but the Son of some great Monarch, to whom such honours best agree.

20 And what can David say more unto thee p? for ‖ thou LORD God, knowest thy servant q.

‖ Or, but

p Either, First, In way of gratitude and praise to thee, words cannot express my Obligations to thee, nor my sense of these Obligations. Or rather, Secondly, In way of Prayer, as appears by the parallel place, 1 Chron. 17. 17. What can I ask or desire of thee more than thou hast freely done? q Thou knowest, Either, First, My deep sence of thy favours, and my obligations to thee. Or rather, Secondly, My condition and necessities, what I do or may need hereafter; and as thou knowest this, so I doubt not thou wilst be ready to supply me accordingly. Compare Matth. 6. 8, 32.

r That thou mightest fulfil thy Promises made to me, by Samuel and Nathan, and thereby demonstrate thy Faithfulness. s i.e. Of thine own meer liberality and good pleasure, without any desert of mine. So far was David, though now a very gracious Man, from thinking his actions Meritorious. t i.e. That thy gracious and wonderful purposes of Mercy towards me, which lay hid in thine own heart, might be manifested unto me and others; by thy most kind words and actions. So it agrees with 1 Chron. 17. 19.

22 Wherefore thou art great u, O LORD God: for * there is none like thee, neither is there any God beside thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears x.

* Deut. 3. 24. and 4. 35. and 32. 39. 1 Sam. 2. 2. Isa. 45. 5. Jer. 10. 6, 7.

u Both in Power and in Goodness, as appears by the great and good things which thou hast done for me. x What we have heard from our Parents, or out of thy word concerning the incomparable excellency of thy Majesty, and of thy Works; of that I have this day eminent experience.

23 And * what one nation in the earth is like thy people, even like Israel, whom God went y to redeem for a people to himself, and to make him a name z, and to do for you great things, and terrible, for thy land, before thy people which thou redeemedst to thee from Egypt, from the nations and their gods?

* Deut. 4. 7, 32. and 33. 29. 1 Chron. 17. 21.

y To wit, into Egypt. An expression of God after the manner of Men. z To advance the Glory of his Power and Goodness, and other Perfections. Compare Exod. 9. 16.

24 For thou hast confirmed to thy self a thy people Israel to be a people unto thee for ever: and thou, LORD, art become their God b.

a Partly, by thy Promises, and that sure Covenant which thou hast made with them: and partly, by thy Glorious Works wrought on their behalf, as it appears this day. b In a peculiar manner, and by special Relation and Covenant: for otherwise he is the God and Father of all things, 1 Cor. 8. 6.

25 And now, O LORD God, the word that thou hast spoken concerning thy servant, and concerning his house, establish it for ever, and do as thou hast said.

26 And let thy name be magnified for ever, saying, The LORD of hosts is the God over Israel c: and let the house of thy servant David be established before thee.

c i.e. Do thou never cease to manifest thy self to be the God and Governour of Israel.

27 For thou, O LORD of hosts, God of Israel, hast † revealed to thy servant, saying, I will build thee an house: therefore d hath thy servant found in his heart e to pray this prayer unto thee.

d Because thy Promise hath given me encouragement to Pray, and assurance of Answer. e Or, found his heart, i.e. taken Courage: as a Man is said to lose his Heart when he wants Courage.

28 And now, O LORD God, (thou art that God f, and * thy words be true, and thou hast promised this goodness unto thy servant):

* John 17. 17.

f That God who hast declared thy self to be Israel's God, and in particular my God.

29 Therefore now † let it please thee to bless the house of thy servant, that it may continue for ever before thee: for thou, O LORD God hast spoken it g, and with thy blessing let the house of thy servant be blessed for ever.

† Heb. be thou pleased and bless.

g And therefore wilst certainly do it, for thy words never fail.

CHAP. VIII.

David subdueth the Philistines and the Moabites: Smiteth the King of Zoba: And the Syrians: Placeth a Garrison in Damascus, 1,—8. Toi sendeth Joram with Presents to bless him: Which, with the spoil, he dedicateth to God, 9, —13. Smiteth the Edomites, and placeth a Garrison in their Land, 14. David's Government and Officers, 15,—18.

AND after this it came to pass, that David smote the Philistines, and subdued them: and David took ‖ Metheg-Ammah a out of the hand of the Philistines.

a i.e. Gath and her Towns, as it is expressed in the parallel place, 1 Chron. 18. 1. which are called Metheg-Ammah; or the Bridle of Ammah, because Gath was the chief City of the Philistines, and having a King, which none of the rest had, was the Bridle which had hitherto kept the Israelites in subjection, but now was taken out of their mouths.

2 And he smote Moab b, and measured them with a line c, casting them down to the ground d; even with two lines measured he to put to death e; and with one full line to keep alive: and so the Moabites became Davids servants, and brought gifts.

b For although the King of Moab, out of hatred to Saul, pretended some kindness to David, and gave protection to his Parents, 1 Sam. 22. 3, 4. yet the Moabites were perpetual and sworn Enemies to the Israelites, who therefore were forbidden to admit them into the Congregation of the Lord, and to seek their Peace and Prosperity, Deut. 23. 6. And though God commanded them in their March to Canaan, to spare the Moabites, Deut. 2. 9, 19. yet afterwards they proved unthankful, and insolent, and fierce Enemies to God and his People, Numb. 22. 2, &c. and 24. 17. and 25. 17, 18. Judg. 3. 14, &c. 1 Sam. 14. 47, &c. and thereby provoked God to alter his course and carriage towards them. c i.e. As with Line, the Particle as being oft understood, as Psal. 11. 1. and 22. 6. and 44. 1. The sense is, Having Conquered the Land, he made an estimate of it, and, as it follows, distributed the Towns and People into three parts. d i.e. Overthrowing their Towns, and utterly destroying their People in manner following. e Which severity was necessary for his own and his Peoples security, because they were numerous and potent, and bordering upon Canaan, and very vexatious and mischievous to the Israelites. And now that Prophecy Numb. 24. 17. was accomplished.

3 ¶ David smote also Hadadezer f the son of Rehob, king of * Zobah g, as he h went to recover his border at the river Euphrates.

* Psal. 60. title.

f Called Hadarezer, 1 Chron. 18. 3. the Hebrew Letters Daleth and Resch being alike, and so oft interchanged. g A part of Syria, lying North-East from Canaan, towards Hemath, 1 Chron. 18. 3. See 1 Sam. 14. 47. h Quest. Who? Ans Either, First, Hadarezer: who being already very potent, and going to enlarge his Dominion further, David thought fit to oppose him. Or, Secondly, David, who remembring the grant which God had made to his People of all the Land as far as Euphrates, and having subdued his Neighbouring Enemies, went to recover his Rights, and establish his Dominion as far as Euphrates.

4 And David took ‖ from him a thousand ‖ chariots i, and seven hundred horsemen k, and twenty thousand footmen: and David houghed l all the chariot horses m, but reserved of them for an hundred chariots.

i Which word is fitly supplied out of 1 Chron. 18. 4. such Substantives being oft understood in the Hebrew Language, as Gen. 26. 30. 2 Sam. 21. 16. k Or, seven hundred Companies of Horsemen, i.e. in all seven thousand; as it is 1 Chron. 18. 4. there being ten in each Company, and each ten having a Ruler or Captain, Exod. 18. 21. Deut. 1. 15. Or, these seven hundred were the Chief and the Rulers of the rest, and the remaining 6300 were the common Horsemen, subject to their Commanders. l i.e. Cut the sinews of their Legs, that they might be useless for War. Compare Jos. 11. 6. m Except the following reserve. Chariots are here put for Chariot-Horses, as they are 1 Sam. 13. 5. 2 Sam. 10. 18. Psal. 76. 6. David did this, because he could not keep them for his own use, Deut. 17. 16.

5 And when the Syrians of Damascus ∴ came to succour Hadadezer king of Zobah, David slew of the Syrians two and twenty thousand men.

∴ i.e. Who were subject to Damascus, the chief City of Syria.

6 Then David put garisons in Syria of Damascus, and the Syrians became servants to David, and brought gifts n: and the LORD preserved David whithersoever he went.

n To purchase their Peace, and acknowledge their Subjection to him.

7 And David took the shields of gold that were on the servants o of Hadadezer, and brought them to Jerusalem.

o Or rather, which were with the servants, i.e. committed to their Custody, as being kept in the King's Armoury: for it is not probable they carried them into the field.

8 And from Beta, and from Berothai p, cities of Hadadezer, king David took exceeding much brass.

p In 1 Chron. 18. 8. it is, from Tibhath, and from Chun. Either therefore the same Cities were called by several names, as is usual, the one by the Hebrews, the other by the Syrians: or those were two other Cities, and so the Brass was taken out of these four Cities.

9 ¶ When Toi king of Hamath q heard that David had smitten all the host of Hadadezer, q Another eminent City of Syria.

10 Then Toi sent Joram r his son unto king David, to † salute him, and to bless him, because he had fought against Hadadezer, and smitten him: (for Hadadezer † had wars s with Toi) and Joram † brought with him vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and vessels of brass;

† Heb. ask him of peace. † Heb. was a man of wars with, &c. † Heb. in his hands were,

r Here also the Names differ from 1 Chron. 18. 9, 10. where it is Tou and Hadoram. s Heb. was a man of Wars, i.e. was exercised with continual Wars. Compare Gen. 9. 20, &c.

11 Which also king David * did dedicate unto the LORD t, with the silver and gold that he had dedicate of all nations which he subdued:

* 1 Chron. 18. 11. and 26. 26.

t To the building of God's Temple. So he shewed his Affection to God and his House, in preparing for it, when he was not permitted to build it.

12 Of Syria, and of Moab, and of the children of Ammon, and of the Philistines, and of Amalek, and of the spoil of Hadadezer son of Rehob, king of Zobah.

13 And David gat him a name u when he returned from † smiting of the Syrians x in the valley of salt y, * being eighteen thousand men z.

u i.e. Much increased his Reputation. x Or, Edomites, as they are said to be, 1 Chron. 18. 12. It is likely these two People were Confederates, and that divers of the Syrians whom David had defeated in Syria, fled to Edom, and there joyned with them against their common Enemy, and made up together a very great Army (as the number of the Men slain in it sheweth) consisting of the veterane Soldiers of both Countries. Although the slaughter here following may seem not to have been of the Syrians, as the words at first reading seem to intimate, but of the Edomites; (it not being probable that the Syrians would come so far from their own Country, as to the Valley of Salt, to fight) and this Verse may be read thus, and that very agreeably to the Hebrew: And David got him a name when he returned from smiting of the Syrians, in smiting (which is easily repeated out of the last Clause, according to the common usage of Scripture) in the Valley of Salt eighteen thousand men, who were Edomites, as is sufficiently implied here in the next Verse, and expressed 1 Chron. 18. 12. y A place in Edom so called, either from its Neighbourhood to the Salt Sea, or for some other cause now unknown. z As it is also 1 Chron. 18. 12. where also they are said to be smitten by Abishai; because he was then a chief Commander of the Army under David, and, it may be, began the fight; as, for the like reason, they are said to be smitten by Joab, Psal. 60. title, where also there are only 12000 mentioned; which place, if it speak of this Battel, the state of it was this: Abishai begins the Combat, and kills 6000, after him comes in Joab and kills 12000 more, which makes up this 18000. But why may not that be another History and Battel? So the Edomites and Syrians together did first fight with Abishai, and lost 18000 Men, and afterwards recruited their Forces and fought with Joab, and lost other 12000 Men. Nor is it strange if two Battels were fought in one place; of which there are divers instances in Historians.

14 ¶ And he put garisons in Edom; throughout all Edom put he garisons, and all * they of Edom became Davids servants: and the LORD preserved David whithersoever he went.

* Numb. 24. 18.

15 And David reigned over all Israel, and David executed judgment and justice a upon all his people.

a i.e. Just Judgment, as Deut. 16. 18. A Figure called Hendiadis; as in Gen. 3. 16. Matth. 4. 16.

16 And Joab the son of Zeruiah was over the host b; and Jehoshaphat the son of Ahilud was ‖ recorder c.

b Who having doubtless declared his Repentance for his former Crimes, and having done eminent service for his Country, and having received the chief Command by vertue of David's Promise and Contract, 2 Sam. 5. 8. was still continued in his place. c Either, First, The writer of Chronicles. But it is not likely he would have been put among the great Officers of State and Church. Or, Secondly, The Treasurer, who examined all the Accounts, and kept Records of them. Or, Thirdly, The Kings Counsellor, as Ahithophel is called, 2 Sam. 15. 12. 1 Chron 27. 33. who was to bring things of moment to the King's Mind and Remembrance, and to admonish him from time to time of things fit to be done. See 1 Kings 4. 3. and 2 Kings 18. 18.

17 And * Zadok the son of Ahitub d, and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar e, were the priests f; and Seraiah was the ‖ Scribe; d Not of that Ahitub, 1 Sam. 4. for that was of Ithamar's Race, but this of Eleazar. e So Abiathar called his Son by the name of his Father, 1 Sam. 21. 20. f i.e. The Chief Priest next under Abiathar, who fled to David, 1 Sam. 22. 20. and now was High Priest, as may be gathered from 2 Sam. 15. 35. and 1 Kings 2. 27, 35. under him these two were the next Chief Priests, or the Second Priests, each one being Chief of the House of his Father, Zadok of Eleazar, and Ahimelech of Ithamar. See Numb. 3. 32. 1 Chron. 24. 3, 4. Or, these two are here mentioned, because they constantly attended upon the King, that he might consult with them in the matters of the Lord, as need required.

* 1 Chron. 24. 3, 4. ‖ Or, Secretary.

18 * And Benaiah the son of Jehoiada was over both the Cherethites and the Pelethites h: and Davids sons were ‖ chief rulers i.

* 1 Chron. 18. 17. ‖ Or, Priests.

g These words are supplied out of the parallel place, 1 Chron. 18. 17. and out of 2 Sam. 20. 23. where they are expressed. h The Cherethites and Pelethites were undoubtedly Soldiers, and such as were eminent for their Valour and Fidelity to the King, as is evident from 2 Sam. 15. 18. and 20. 7. and 1 Kings 1. 38, 44. and most probably they were the Kings Guards, which consisted of these two Bands, who might be distinguished either by their several Weapons, or by the differing time or manner of their service. They are supposed to be thus called, either, first, from their Office, which was upon the King's Command to cut off or punish offenders, and to preserve the King's Person, as their names in the Hebrew Tongue may seem to imply. Or, Secondly, From some Country, or place to which they had relation. As for the Cherethites, it is certain they were either a Branch of the Philistines, or a People neighbouring to them, and confederate with them, as is manifest from 1 Sam. 30. 14. Ezek. 25. 16. Zeph. 2. 4, 5. And so might the Pelethites be too, though that be not related in Scripture. And these Israelites and Soldiers of David might be so called, either, because they went and lived with David when he dwelt in those parts: or, from some notable Exploit against, or Victory over these People; as among the Romans the names of Asiaticus, Africanus, &c. were given for the same reason. One of their Exploits against the Cherethites is in part related, 1 Sam. 30. 14. And it is likely they did many other against them, and against other People, amongst which the Pelethites might be one. i Had the places of greatest Authority and Dignity conferred upon them.

CHAP. IX.

David, for Jonathan's sake, sendeth for his Son Mephibosheth, 1,—6. Entertaineth him at his Table: And restoreth him all that was Saul's: Appointeth Ziba to be his Servant, 7,——13.

AND David said a, Is there yet any that is left of the house of Saul b, that I may shew him kindness for Jonathans sake?

a David's Wars being ended, he set himself to the Administration of Justice to all his People, chap. 8. 15. And amongst others he minds his just debt and obligation to Jonathan and his Family. b He saith not of the house of Jonathan, for he knew not of any Son which he had left, and therefore thought his kindness and obligation was to pass to the next of his Kindred. As for Mephibosheth, he was very young and obscure, and possibly concealed by his Friends, lest David should cut him off from Jealousie of State, as hath been usual among Princes in like case, and therefore was unknown to David, as well he might be, especially when David's head and hands were full of War with divers and Potent Enemies, as they had hitherto been.

2 And there was of the house of Saul a servant c whose name was * Ziba: and when they had called him unto David, the king said unto him, Art thou Ziba? And he said, Thy servant is he.

* Chap. 16. 1. and 19. 17.

c One who had been a Servant, and, as it may seem, a Steward to Saul. See below, v. 10.

3 And the king said, Is there not yet any of the house of Saul, that I may shew the kindness of God d unto him? And Ziba said unto the king, Jonathan hath yet a son, which is * lame on his feet.

* Ch. 4. 4.

d Either, First, That kindness which I owe him for God's sake, and by vertue of my Oath given to him about it, 1 Sam. 20. 14, 15. But that Oath seems only to oblige him to Jonathan's Posterity, and not to any other of Saul's House. Or, Secondly, Great and eminent kindness.

4 And the king said unto him, Where is he? And Ziba said unto the king, Behold, he is in the house of Machir, the son of Ammiel, in Lodebar e.

e In a place beyond Jordan, chap. 17. 27. where his Friends thought he might be kept out of David's sight.

5 ¶ Then king David sent, and fet him out of the house of Machir the son of Ammiel, from Lodebar.

6 Now when Mephibosheth the son of Jonathan, the son of Saul, was come unto David, he fell on his face, and did reverence: And David said, Mephibosheth. And he answered, Behold thy servant.

7 ¶ And David said unto him, Fear not; for I will surely shew thee kindness for Jonathan thy fathers sake, and will restore thee all the land of Saul thy father f, and thou shalt eat bread at my table continually.

f Which are now seized and possessed by David, as due to him, either, in right of his Wife, to whom the Inheritance was devolved, Saul's Sons by his Wives being all dead. See Numb 27. 8. or, by Divine Donation, as belonging to the Crown which God had had now given him: or, by forfeiture, because of Ishbosheth's Rebellion against his Lord and King.

8 And he bowed himself, and said, What is thy servant, that thou shouldest look upon such a * dead dog as I am g?

* 1 Sam. 24. 14.

g So contemptible in my Person and Condition.

9 ¶ Then the king called to Ziba Sauls servant, and said unto him, * I have given unto thy masters son all that pertained to Saul, and to all his house.

* See Chap. 16. 3, 4.

10 Thou therefore, and thy sons, and thy servants shall till the land for him, and thou shalt bring in the fruits, that thy masters son may have food to eat h: but Mephibosheth thy masters son shall eat bread alway at my table. Now Ziba had fifteen sons, and twenty servants i.

h i.e. That he may have wherewith to buy Food for all his Family, and all manner of Provisions (which oft come under the title of Food and Bread) necessary for himself and them. i For it is probable he had been the chief Steward to manage Saul's Lands: whereby he had great opportunities to inrich himself, which also he was very intent and resolved upon, either directly, or indirectly, as the following History of him shews; and therefore it is not strange that he was so rich.

11 Then said Ziba unto the king; According to all that my lord the king hath commanded his servant, so shall thy servant do. As for Mephibosheth, said the king, he shall eat at my table, as one of the kings sons k.

k These are the words, Either, First, Of David; the words, said he, or said the King, being supplied out of the former and following Verses. Or, Secondly, Of Ziba, being thus rendred and understood, Also Mephibosheth, if the King so please, shall eat at my table, and shall be treated there according to his Quality, as one of thy Sons, as thou desirest: for the Estate will suffice for that also.

12 And Mephibosheth had a young son l, whose name was Micha m: and all that dwelt in the house of Ziba were servants unto Mephibosheth.

l Either, First, Before he was discovered and brought to the King; and then David seems guilty of a great error in forgetting his dear Jonathan so long; although his long and continued Wars both Civil and Foreign, might afford him some excuse, as filling his mind and time with business of another nature. Or, Secondly, After that time: for there is nothing here which determines when this Son was Born. m Who also had other Children and Grandchildren, to keep up the name and memory of worthy and famous Jonathan. See 1 Chron. 8. 34, 35. and 9. 40, 41.

13 So Mephibosheth dwelt in Jerusalem: for he did eat continually at the kings table; and was lame on both his feet.

CHAP. X.

David sendeth Messengers to comfort the King of the Ammonites: He abuseth them, 1,——5. The Ammonites and Syrians prepare to fight against the Israelites: And are overcome by Joab. and Abishai, 6,——14. They renewing their Forces, are again conquered by David, 15,——19.

AND it came to pass after this, that the * king of the children of Ammon a died, and Hanun his son reigned in his stead.

* 1 Chron. 19. 1.

a Nahash, v. 2. probably the same whose Army Saul defeated and destroyed, 1 Sam. 11. who out of enmity to Saul shewed kindness to David, as it follows; hoping also by fomenting the differences between Saul and David, to make way for his future Conquests.

2 Then said David, I will shew kindness unto Hanun the son of Nahash b, as his father shewed kindness unto me c. And David sent to comfort † the life of. him by the hand of his servants, for † his father: and David's servants came into the land of the children of Ammon.

b Therefore there had hitherto been Peace and Friendship between David and him; and therefore the spoils of the children of Ammon are mentioned, chap. 8. 12. by way of anticipation, and with respect to the story here following. c Which he might do, either, by offering him his help, if he needed it; or, by supplying him with Military or other Provisions upon occasion, or many other ways.

3 And the princes of the children of Ammon said unto Hanun their lord, † Thinkest thou that David doth honour thy father, that he hath sent comforters unto thee? Hath not David rather sent his servants unto thee, to search the city, and to spie it out d, and to overthrow it?

† Heb. in thine eyes doth David

d To observe where the City is weakest, and may soonest be taken. The ground of this suspicion was, partly, the Conscience of their ill deserts and carriage towards the Israelites, whose quarrel David had espoused: partly, the opinion they had of David's Policy: and partly, the severity of God's Law, particularly against them, Deut. 23. 6. which might easily come to their ears. And they knew David was a zealous asserter of God's Laws.

4 Wherefore Hanun took Davids servants, and shaved off the one half of their beards e, and cut off their garments in the middle, even to their buttocks f, and sent them away.

e Partly, that he might compel them to bear a part in their Mourning, and that in such a way as was usual with them, but forbidden to the Israelites, Levit. 19. 27. Deut. 14. 1. which probably was not unknown to them: And partly, to fasten this as a reproach upon them, and to make them ridiculous and contemptible. Compare Isa. 20. 4. and 47. 2. and 50. 6. f This was worse than the former, because the Israelites wore no Breeches, and so their nakedness was hereby uncovered. Compare Isa. 20. 4.

5 ¶ When they told it unto David, He sent to meet them g, because the men were greatly ashamed: and the king said, Tarry at Jericho h until your beards be grown i, and then return.

g He sent them Clothes and other necessaries. h Both because this was one of the first places which they came to in Canaan: and because it was now a very obscure Village, and therefore fittest for them in their circumstances: for it was not built as a City till after this time, 1 Kings 16. 34. i For the want or loss of Beards was esteemed a reproach among the Israelites.

6 ¶ And when the children of Ammon saw that they stank before David, the children of Ammon sent and hired the Syrians of Beth-Rehob k, and the Syrians of Zoba l, twenty thousand footmen, and of king Maacah m a thousand men, and of Ishtob n twelve thousand men.

k Near Hamath, Numb. 13. 21. l Of which see 1 Sam. 14. 47. and 2 Sam. 8. 3. m i.e. Of that part of Syria which was under King Maachah: for Syria was a large Country, and there were divers Kings in the several parts of it. This part was near Gilead. See Deut. 3. 14. n Or, of the men of Tob, the Country where Jephthah dwelt, Judg. 11. 3. Besides these, they hired others out of Aram Naharaim, or Mesopotamia, as appears from 1 Chron. 19. 6. and Psal. 60. title. And all these were forward enough to Combine against David, both to revenge their former losses and reproaches, and to give check to his growing Greatness.

7 And when David heard of it, he sent Joab, and all the host of the mighty men o.

o Chusing wisely to carry the War into their Country, rather than to expect it in their own.

8 And the children of Ammon came out, and put the battel in aray at the entring in of the gate p: and the Syrians of Zoba, and of Rehob, and Ishtob, and Maacah, were by themselves in the field q.

p To wit, of Medeba; as it is expressed, 1 Chron 19. 7. which was a frontier City. See Numb. 21. 30 This place they chose for the Fight, that they might both defend that City and their Country, whereof that was the entrance, and, if need were, might retreat into it. q That by their numerous Forces they might fall upon the Israelites on the other side.

9 When Joab saw that the front of the battel was against him before and behind, he chose of all the choice men of Israel, and put them in aray against the Syrians r.

r Which were the most valiant and expert Soldiers.

10 And the rest of the people he delivered into the hand of Abishai his brother, that he might put them in aray against the children of Ammon.

11 And he said if the Syrians be too strong for me, then thou shalt help me: but if the children of Ammon be too strong for thee, then I will come and help thee.

12 Be of good courage, and let us play the men for our people s, and for the cities of our God t: and the LORD do that which seemeth him good t.

s For the preservation of our selves and all our Brethren from that utter ruine which our Enemies design for us. Our War is not vainly undertaken to enlarge our Empire or Glory, but for our own just and necessary defence: and therefore we may hope for God's Blessing and assistance in it. t Which are devoted to his Worship and Service, and therefore he will plead their Cause against his Enemies. t Let us do our parts, and quietly referr our selves and the event to God's good pleasure, which we have no reason to distrust.

13 And Joab drew nigh, and the people that were with him, unto the battel against the Syrians u: and they fled before him.

u He prudently falls upon them first, because they were but Mercenaries, and not concerned so much in the Success as the Ammonites were, all whose Interest lay at stake; and therefore not likely to venture too far in their defence.

14 And when the children of Ammon saw that the Syrians were fled x, then fled they also before Abishai, and entred into the city: so Joab returned from the children of Ammon y, and came to Jerusalem.

x In whose numbers and prowess they had the most confidence. y Not judging it convenient or safe to pursue them; because the Forces were not utterly ruined, but only dispersed and put to flight, and so might easily rally together.

15 ¶ And when the Syrians saw that they were smitten before Israel, they gathered themselves together z.

z Partly, to wipe out the stain of Cowardize which they had now contracted: partly, to prevent that Vengeance which they supposed David would execute upon them for their last attempts: and partly, to shake off the Yoke that David had lately put upon them.

16 And Hadarezer a sent, and brought out the Syrians that were beyond the river b: and they came to Helam; and Shobach c the captain of the host of Hadarezer went before them.

a The same with Hadadezer, chap. 8. 3. b Who having engaged themselves in the former expedition, as was noted before, were now obliged to proceed in their own defence, being also perswaded and hired to this second Expedition, v. 19. c Or, Shophach, 1 Chron. 19. 16.

17 And when it was told David, he gathered all Israel d together, and passed over Jordan, and came to Helam: and the Syrians set themselves in aray against David, and fought with him.

d i.e. The Chosen and Valiant Men pick'd out of all Israel.

18 And the Syrians fled before Israel, and David slew the men of seven hundred chariots e of the Syrians, and forty thousand horsemen f, and smote Shobach the captain of their host, who died there.

e Heb. seven hundred chariots: i.e. The Men belonging to them; that fought in, or with them; as plainly appears, 1. Because the Men only, and not the Chariots were capable of being killed, as these are said to have been. 2. Because it is thus explained in the Book of Chronicles, which was written after this Book, for this end, to explain what was dark or doubtful, and to supply what was omitted here; where, instead of these Words, are seven thousand men which fought in Chariots, 1 Chron. 19. 18. And this is a very common Metonymy; of which, See above Chap. 8. 4. and the Note on 1 Sam. 13. 5. Although there might be 7000 Chariots in all, whereof 700 were chosen ones; according to the distinction made Exod. 14. 7. f For which in 1 Chron. 19. 18. is forty thousand footmen. Which may be reconciled divers ways. 1. Both these may be true, that he slew 40000 Horsemen, which being the most considerable part and strength of the Army, it might seem sufficient to name them, and every one could easily understand, that the Footmen in that case were certainly cut off; and that he slew also 40000 Footmen, as is said 1 Chron where he mentions them only, because they were omitted in 2 Sam and the Horsemen being expressed here, it was needless to repeat them in 1 Chron. 2. The Horsemen may be here called footmen, in opposition to those that fought in Chariots; because they sometimes fought on Horseback, and sometimes came down from their Horses, and fought on Foot, when the place of the Battel was more commodious for Footmen than for Horsemen; which it is not improbable was their Case here; for David being a Soldier of great Prudence and Experience, and understanding the great Numbers of the Syrian Horsemen; whereas the Israelites had but very few, Deut. 17 16. would doubtless endeavour to chuse a place as inconvenient for their Horsemen as he could. 3. Peradventure the Syrians designed to bring the War into David's Country, and therefore hasined their March, and for that end put their Footmen on Horseback, (as hath been frequently done in like Cases) who, when they came to the place of Battel, came down from their Horses, and fought on Foot. So there is no need of acknowledging an error of the Scribe in the Sacred Text: which, yet if it were granted in such Historical Passages of no moment to the Doctrine of Faith and good Life, it would not shake the Foundation of our Faith in matters of great Importance, which it might reasonably be presumed the Providence of God would more watchfully preserve from all depravation or corruption.

19 And when all the kings that were servants to Hadarezer f saw that they were smitten before Israel, they made peace with Israel, and served them: So the Syrians feared to help the children of Ammon any more.

f To wit, for that time, or in that Expedition to which he hired them.

CHAP. XI.

Whilst Joab besieged Rabbah David committeth Adultery with Bathsheba, 1,——4. And hearing that she was big with Child he sendeth for Uriah her Husband out of the Camp, to cover his shame. He will not go to his own House, neither lodge nor drunk, 5,——13. David sendeth him again into the Camp with a Letter to Joab to expose him to Death, 14,——17. The news of which Joab sendeth to David: He marrieth Bathsheba, 18,——27.

AND it came to pass, that † after the year was expired a, at the time when kings go forth b to battel c that * David sent Joab and his servants with him, and all Israel; and they destroyed the children of Ammon, and besieged Rabbah d, but David tarried still at Jerusalem.

a When that Year ended, and the next begun, which was in the Spring-time, Exod. 12. 2. b Which is, when the ground is fit for the March of Soldiers, and brings forth Provision for Man and Beast. c These words are to be understood here, as Gen. 10. 11. and 14. 8. d The Chief and Royal City of the Ammonites, Deut. 3. 11.

2 ¶ And it came to pass in an evening-tide, that David arose from off his bed e, and walked upon the roof f of the kings house: and from the roof he saw a woman washing her self g: and the woman was very beautiful to look upon.

e Where he had lain, and slept for some time; being possibly disposed to sleep after Dinner, by reason of some Excess committed in Eating or Drinking; and indulging himself in his Lazy Humour, which may seem very improper for so great a Prince and Captain, who had so many and great Burdens upon his Shoulders, especially in a time of War; and therefore such Practices have been condemned by Heathens: and Homer will not allow a General and great Counsellor to sleep all the Night, much less to take any part of the Day for it. And therefore this is thought to be David's first Error, and the occasion of his following Fall. f Which was plain after the manner, Deut. 22. 8. g To wit, in a Bath, which possibly was in her Garden, or in some room near to the King's Palace, where she might wash her self divers ways, and for different ends; either for health, or coolness, or to cleanse her self from some kind of legal Impurity: where also, the Windows being open, and she careless, David might espie her.

3 And David sent and enquired after the woman h: and one said, Is not this Bathsheba i the daughter of Eliam, the wife of Uriah the Hittite k?

h Instead of suppressing that Lust which the sight of his Eyes had kindled, he seeks rather to feed it; and first enquires who she was; that, if she were unmarried, he might make her either his Wife or his Concubine. i Called also Bathshua, 1 Chron. 3. 5. where also Eliam is called Ammiel. k So called, either, 1. By his Original, being born either of that Race, but become a zealous Proselyte; or, at least, among that People. Or, 2. By his Habitation among them. Or, 3. For some notable Exploit of his against that People: See 1 Sam. 26. 6. and the notes on 2 Sam 8. 18.

4 And David sent messengers and took her l, and she came in unto him m, and he * lay with her († for she was purified from her uncleanness) n and she returned unto her house.

l From her own House into his Palace, not by force, but by persuasion, as desiring to speak with her, m into his Palace and Chamber, as he desired. n To wit, from her menstruous Pollution, according to the Law, Levit. 18. 19. Which is here noted, as the clearest reason, either why David pursued his Lustful desire; or why she so easily yielded to it, because she was not under that Pollution which * Lev. 15. might alienate her from it; or rather, why she so readily conceived, and that time being observed by Aristotle and others, to be the most likely time for Conception.

5 And the woman conceived, and sent, and told David, and said, I am with child o.

o Consider therefore what to do for thy own honour, and for my safety, whom thou hast brought into a most shameful and dangerous condition.

6 And David sent to Joab, saying, Send me Uriah the Hittite: And Joab sent Uriah to David.

7 And when Uriah was come unto him, David demanded of him † how Joab did, and how the people did, and how the war prospered p?

p Frivolous Questions which any common Messenger could have answered: which probably made Uriah suspect that there was some other secret cause why he was sent for. And he might understand something, either by David's Messengers, v. 4. or by some of his own Family, concerning her being sent for to the Court: which, together with other Circumstances might give him cause of further suspicion. Yet such might be the Questions, (though not here particularly mentioned) concerning those Heads, as every private Person might not be acquainted with, nor able to resolve, but such only as were acquainted with the Counsel of War.

8 And David said to Uriah, Go down to thy house q, and wash thy feet r. And Uriah departed out of the kings house, and there † followed him a messe of meat from the king s.

q Not doubting but he would there Converse with his Wife, and so cover their Sin and Shame. r As Travellers there used to do. s Seeming so much a Testimony of David's Respect and Affection to him; but really to cheer up his Spirits, and dispose him to desire his Wife's company.

9 But Uriah slept at the door of the kings house with all the servants of his lord t, and went not down to his house.

t With the King's Guard. This he did, either upon some suspicion of the matter, See v. 7. Or, by the secret direction of God's wise and irresistible Providence, who would bring David's Sin to light.

10 And when they had told * David, saying, Uriah went not down unto his house, David said unto Uriah, Camest thou not from thy journey u? why then didst thou not go down unto thine house?

* Whether of their own accord, or being first asked by David, it doth not appear. u Wearied with hard service and Travel, and therefore didst need refreshment; nor did I expect or desire that thou shouldest now attend upon my Person, or keep the Watch.

11 And

11 And Uriah said unto David, The ark x, and Israel, and Judah abide in tents, and * my lord Joab, and the servants of my lord are encamped in the open fields y; shall I then go into mine house to eat, and to drink, and to lie with my wife z? As thou livest, and as thy soul liveth, I will not do this thing.

* Chap. 20. 6.

x Which it seems, was now carried with them for their Encouragement and Direction, as was usual: See Numb. 10. 35. 1 Sam. 4. 4. y To wit, in Tents which are in the Fields. z He might possibly add these words, to insinuate his apprehension of the King's Design, and to awaken his Conscience to the consideration of his Sin, and of the Injury which he had done him. His meaning is, Now when God's People are in a doubtful and dangerous Condition, it becomes me to Sympathize with them, and to abstain even from lawful Delights. Whereby he might possibly intimate, how unworthy it was for David in such a season to indulge himself in sinful and injurious Pleasures. But David's Ear was now deaf, his Heart being hardened through the deceitfulness of Sin.

12 And David said to Uriah, Tarry here to day also, and to morrow I will let thee depart. So Uriah abode in Jerusalem, that day and the morrow.

13 And when David had called him a, he did eat and drink before him, and he made him drunk a: and at even he went out to lie on his bed b with the servants of his lord c, but went not down to his house.

a i.e. Being invited by David. a Or, he made him merry, as the word oft signifies. He caused him to drink more than was convenient. b Which it doth not appear, that he did the Night before; but now his Excess in eating and drinking, might make it more necessary for him. c i.e. In some Chamber in the King's Court, where the King's Servants used to take their Repose.

14 And it came to pass in the morning, that David wrote a letter to Joab, and sent it by the hand of Uriah.

15 And he wrote in the letter, saying, Set ye Uriah in the forefront of the † hottest battel, and retire ye † from him, that he may be smitten and die d.

d So far is David from Repenting upon these just and great Occasions, that he seeks to cover one Sin with another; and to hide his Adultery with Murther, even the Murther of a most excellent Person, and that in a most malicious and perfidious manner.

16 And it came to pass when Joab observed the city, that he assigned Uriah unto a place where he knew that valiant men were e.

e Placed there to defend it, because that part of the City was supposed either the weakest, or the place designed for the Assault. Joab having formerly committed a base Murther upon Abner, was ready to execute this wicked Command of the King; that so he being involved in the same Guilt with him, might the more willingly receive him into Favour.

17 And the men of the city went out and fought with Joab: and there fell some of the people of the servants of David, and Uriah the Hittite died also.

18 Then Joab sent, and told David all the things concerning the war:

19 And charged the messenger, saying, When thou hast made and end of telling the matters of the war unto the king;

20 And if so be that the kings wrath arise, and he say unto thee, Wherefore approached ye so nigh unto the city when ye did fight? knew ye not that they would shoot from the wall?

21 Who smote * Abimelech the son of Jerubbesheth? ∴ did not a woman cast a piece of a millstone upon him from the wall, that he died in Thebez? why went ye nigh the wall? then say thou, Thy servant Uriah the Hittite is dead also f.

* Judg. 9. 53.

∴ Called also Jerubbaal, Judg. 9. 1. See the Note on 2 Sam. 2. 8.

f Which he knew would be acceptable News to the King, and therefore allay his Wrath. This indeed might make the Messenger suspect that David had an hand in Uriah's Death; and possibly Joab might say so for that very reason, that these matters by degrees being known, David might be hardned in Sin, and so Joab might have the greater Interest in him.

22 So the messenger went and came, and shewed David all that Joab had sent him for.

23 And the messenger said unto David, Surely the men prevailed against us, and came out unto us into the field, and we were upon them even unto the entring of the gate g.

g We beat them back, and pursued them even to the Gate.

24 And the shooters shot from off the wall upon thy servants, and some of the kings servants be dead, and thy servant Uriah the Hittite is dead also.

† Heb. be evil in thine eyes.

25 Then David said unto the messenger, Thus shalt thou say unto Joab, Let not this thing † displease thee h: for the sword devoureth † one as well as another: make thy battel more strong against the city, and overthrow it: and encourage thou him i.

† Heb. So and so.

h Be not dejected or discouraged by this sad occasion. i i.e. Joab, to proceed in the Siege.

26 And when the wife of Uriah heard that Uriah her husband was dead, she mourned for her husband.

27 And when the mourning was past k, David sent and fet her to his house, and she became his wife, and bare him a son l: but the thing that David had done m, † displeased the LORD.

k Which was seven days, Gen. 50. 10. 1 Sam. 31. 13. Nor could the nature of the thing admit of longer delay, lest the too early birth of the Child might discover David's Sin. l By which it appears, That David continued in the state of Impenitency for divers Months together; and this notwithstanding his frequent attendance upon God's Ordinances. Which is an eminent Instance of the Corruption of Man's Nature, which is even in the best; and, without Divine Assistance, is too strong for them; of the deceitfulness of Sin, and of the tremendous Judgment of God in punishing one Sin, by delivering a Man up to another. m i.e. His Adultery and Murther, as is evident from the next Chapter.

CHAP. XII.

Nathan by a parable reproveth, and threateneth David, 1.—12. He confesseth his sin and is pardoned, 13, 14. But the child must dye: David mourneth and prayeth for it whilst life was in it, after is satisfied and cheared: the reason, 15.—23. He goeth in to Bathsheba: Solomon is born of her: and is called Jedidiah, 24, 25. David taketh Rabbah and tortureth the people thereof, 26.—31.

AND the LORD sent Nathan a unto David: and * he came unto him, and said unto him, There were two men in one city b; the one rich and a The Prophet, chap. 7. 2. 1 King. 1. 8. When the ordinary means did not awaken David to Repentance, God useth an extraordinary Course. Thus the Merciful God pities and prevents him who had so horribly forsaken and forgotten God. b He prudently adhereth in his Reproof with a Parable, after the manner of the Eastern Nations, and ancient Times, that so he might surprize David, and cause him unawares to give Sentence against himself. He manageth his Relation as if it had been a real thing; and demands the King's Justice in the case. Though the Application of this Parable to David be easie and obvious, yet it matters not, if some Circumstances be not so applicable; because it was fit to put in some such Clauses, either for the decency of the Parable, or that David might not too early discover his Design.

2 The rich man had exceeding many flocks and herds c.

c Noting David's many Wives and Concubines.

3 But the poor man had nothing save one little ewe-lamb d, which he had bought e and nourished up: and it grew up together with him, and with his children, it did eat of his own † meat, and drank of his own † cup, and lay in his bosom f, and was unto him as a daughter.

d Designing Uriah, with his own and only Wife. e As Men then used to buy their Wives: or, had procured. f Which David might take for Hyperbolical Expressions of his tender Care of, and Affection to it. Although there want not instances of some who have treated such Brute-Creatures in this manner.

4 And there came a traveller g unto the rich man, and he spared to take of his own flock, and of his own herd, to dress for the wayfaring man that was come unto him, but took the poor mans lamb, and dressed it for the man that was come to him.

g This some make to be the Devil, whom David gratified by his Sin; but it rather seems added for the decency of the Parable.

5 And Davids anger was kindled greatly against the man, and he said to Nathan, As the LORD liveth, the man that hath done this thing, ‖ † shall surely die h.

‖ Or, is worthy to die. † Heb. is the son of death.

h This seems to be more than the Fact deserved, or than he had Commission to inflict for it, Exod. 22. 1. But it is observable, That David now when he was most indulgent to himself, and to his own Sin, was most severe to others; as appears by this Passage, and the following Relation, v. 31. which was done in the time of David's impenitent continuance in his Sin.

6 And he shall restore the lamb * fourfold, because he did this thing, and because he had no pity.

* Exod. 22. 4.

7 And Nathan said to David, Thou art the man i. Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, * I anointed thee king over Israel, and I delivered thee out of the hand of Saul:

* 1 Sam. 16. 13.

i Thou hast committed this Crime with great Aggravations; and out of thine own Mouth thy Sentence hath proceeded, and thou art worthy of Death.

8 And I gave thee thy masters house, and thy masters wives k into thy bosome, and gave thee the house of Israel and of Judah, and if that had been too little, tle, I would moreover have given unto thee such and such things l.

k Or, women, as that word is elsewhere used; as Numb. 31. 18. And though we read not a word of God's giving, or of David's taking any of Saul's Wives into his Bosome; or, which is all one, into his Bed; yet (which I think to be aimed at here) it might be according to the manner of that time, that the Wives and Concubines of the precedent King, belonged to the Successor, to be at least at his disposé. And to pretend to them, was interpreted little less than pretending to the Crown. Which made it fatal to Adonijah to ask Abishag, 1 Kings 2. 23. And to Abner to be suspected for Rispah, 2 Sam. 3. 8. And Absalom, usurping the Crown, usurped the Concubines also; which is looked on as a Crime unpardonable, 2 Sam. 16. 21. nor would this have been reckoned amongst the Mercies and Blessings which God here is said to give him, and which are opposed to that which he sinfully took: but we do read, That Merab Saul's Daughter, was given to him for his Wife by Saul's promise, and consequently by God's grant; though afterwards Saul perfidiously gave her to another Man; and that Michal, the other Daughter, was actually given to him, 1 Sam. 18. And it is very possible, that some other of David's Wives were nearly Related to the House of Saul; whereby David might design to enlarge and strengthen his Interest in the Kingdom. Although there is no absolute Necessity of restraining this to Saul, seeing the word is Plural, Masters; and may belong to others also, who sometimes were owned by David as his Masters; Lords, or Superiors, such as Nabal was, and some others not elsewhere named might be, whose Houses and Wives, or, at least, Women, God might give to David. l Such other things as thou hadst wanted, or in reason desired.

m i.e. Those Laws of God which forbad thee to do this thing, by not giving them that respect and observance which they deserved. n That Valiant, and Generous, and Noble Person. o This he mentions amongst his other Sins; partly, because he had rewarded her, who by God's Law should have been severely punished: partly, because he compassed this Marriage by wicked Practices, even by Uriah's Murther, and for sinful Ends, even for the gratification of his inordinate and sensual Lusts, and for the concealment of that Sin which he was obliged to confess and lament. p Those cursed Enemies of God, and of his People, whom thou hast encouraged and hardned in their Idolatry, by giving up him, and others of God's People into their hands. And note here, That although David did not kill Uriah himself, nor command any to do it; but only that he should be put upon dangerous Service, (which a General of an Army of doth to Soldiers under him, on justifiable accounts, without being therefore legally chargeable with Murther, though the Person so employed die in the Service:) yet in God's account, who judged of David's Design therein, it is justly so reputed. And therefore, though the Ammonites slew Uriah, yet David is said to have killed him with their Sword.

10 Now therefore the sword shall never depart from thine house q, because thou hast despised me, and hast taken the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be thy wife.

q During the residue of thy Life: as appears from the following History.

11 Thus saith the LORD, Behold, I will raise up evil r against thee out of thine own house s, and I will take thy wives before thine eyes, t and give them u unto thy neighbour x, and he shall lie with thy wives in the sight of the Sun y.

* Deut. 28. 38. Ch. 16. 22.

r To wit, the evil of Punishment. s From thy own Children and Family. t i.e. Openly, so as thou shalt know it as certainly as if thou didst see it, and yet not be able to hinder it. u i.e. I shall by my Providence, give him Power over them, which I know he will abuse; and I shall not restrain him from so doing, either by my Grace or Providence. x To one who is very near to thee, even thy beloved Son Absalom. But God expresseth this here darkly and doubtfully, that the accomplishment of it might not be hindred. y In the open Day, and in a publick Place. The accomplishment hereof, see chap. 16. 22.

12 For thou didst it secretly: but I will do this thing z before all Israel, and before the sun.

z i.e. I will execute this Judgment. This God did by inclining David's Heart to leave his Concubines, to keep his House, and to come into Absalom's Power, by giving up Ahithophel to his own Carnal Policy, which readily suggested to him that wicked and desperate Counsel; and by exposing Absalom to these Temptations, and leaving him to his own vicious Inclinations, which God certainly knew would in such Circumstances produce that Effect. So the Sin was wholly from Men; but the ordering and over-ruling their Mistakes and Miscarriages to this end, was from God.

13 And David said unto Nathan, * I have sinned against the LORD a. And Nathan said unto David, The LORD also hath put away thy sin b, thou shalt not die c.

* Psal. 32. 5. & 51. 4.

a I now freely confess, that Sin which I have hitherto so wickedly smothered; and I have deserved all these, and far heavier Judgments for it; and I am more troubled for my Sin against my Sovereign Lord and gracious God, than for the shame and punishment that follow it. How serious and pathetick this Confession was, we may see, Psalm 51. b i.e. So far as concerns thy own Life and Eternal Salvation: both which were forfeited by this Sin. c As by thy own Sentence v. 5. thou didst deserve, and as thou mightest expect to do by my immediate Stroke; though possibly thou mightest elude the Law, before a humane Judicature; or there be no Superior to execute the Law upon thee.

14 Howbeit, because by this deed thou hast given great occasion to the enemies of the LORD to blaspheme d, the child also that is born unto thee shall surely die e.

d i.e. To reproach both God and his People, and the true Religion. For though these were not concerned in David's Sin, the blame and shame of which should have been appropriated to him; yet Heathens and wicked Men would, according to their own evil Minds, and malicious Hearts, fasten the Reproach of this upon God and Religion; as if God were unholy, because the Man after God's own Heart was so; and partial, in conniving at so great a Crime, when Saul was cast off for a far less Sin: and negligent in the Government of the World, and of his Church in suffering such a Wickedness, as even Heathens have abhorred to go unpunished; and as if all Religion were but Hypocrisie and Imposture, and a pretence for Villanies. Besides, the Ammonites upon their success against Uriah and his Party, did doubtless magnifie and praise their Idols, and blaspheme the God of Israel. e Which, considering his Affection to it, and the Punishment threatned to the poor innocent Infant for his sake, must needs be grievous to him.

15 And Nathan departed unto his house: and the LORD struck the child f that Uriahs wife bare unto David, and it was very sick.

f With some sudden and dangerous Distemper.

16 David therefore besought God for the child g; and David † fasted, and went in h, and lay all night upon the earth.

g Supposing the Threatning might be conditional, and so the execution of it prevented by Prayer. h To wit, into his Closet, as Matth. 6. 6. to pray solitarily and earnestly as he had done with others. Or this word may only note his progress and continuance in the Actions here expressed.

i The chief Officers of his Kingdom and Houshold who were there present. k This excessive Mourning did not proceed simply from the fear of the loss of the Child; but from a deep sence of his Sin, and from the Divine Displeasure manifested herein; and particularly from a just apprehension of the Injury which he had done to the Child by his Sin, which Justice obliged him to do his utmost to repair by Prayer, or other means.

18 And it came to pass on the seventh day l, that the child died: and the servants of David feared to tell him that the child was dead: for they said m, Behold, while the child was yet alive, we spake unto him, and he would not hearken unto our voice: how will he then † vex himself, if we tell him that the child is dead?

l Either, 1. From the beginning of the Distemper. Or, rather, 2. From the Day of his birth, which is the most usual way of computation of Mens Days or Years: for it is apparent, that this happened during the time of David's Fasting, and lying upon the Earth, v. 20. which it is not probable that it lasted for seven Days.

19 But when David saw that his servants whispered, David perceived that the child was dead: therefore David said unto his servants, Is the child dead? And they said, He is dead.

m Whispering among themselves, v. 19.

20 Then David arose from the earth, and washed, and anointed himself, and changed his apparel, and came into the house of the LORD n, and worshipped: then he came to his own house, and when he required, they set bread before him, and he did eat.

n i.e. To the Tabernacle, to confess his Sin before the Lord, and to own his Justice in this stroke, and the other Threatnings, and to deprecate his great and just Displeasure, and to acknowledge God's rich Mercy, in sparing his own Life; and to offer such Sacrifices as were proper and required in such Cases. Nor did David transgress that Law, Numb. 19. 14. in going thither before the seven Days were expired. For neither is there the same reason of a Tent, and of a Dwelling-House; where the several Rooms of the House are as distinct as several Tents; nor is it here said, that David was in the same Room, or in the same House where the Child died.

21 Then said his servants unto him, What thing is this that thou hast done? thou didst fast and weep for the child while it was alive, but when the child was dead, thou didst rise and eat bread.

22 And he said, While the child was yet alive, I fasted and wept: * for I said, Who can tell whether God will be gracious to me, that the child may live o?

* See Isa. 38. 1. Jon. 3. 9.

o For God's threatning of the Child's death might be conditional, as that was of Nineveh's Destruction, Jonah 3. 4.

23 But now he is dead, wherefore should I fast p? can I bring him back again? I shall go to him q, but he shall not return to me.

p Seeing Fasting and Prayer cannot now prevail with God for his Life: q Into the state of the Dead, in which he is, and into Heaven, where I doubt not I shall find him.

24 And David comforted Bathsheba his wife r, and went in unto her s, and lay with her: and * she bare a son and * he called his name Solomon; and the LORD loved him t.

* Matt. 1. 6. * 1 Chron. 22. 9.

r Who was now much dejected, both for her former Sin, which she truly repented of, as may be gathered from Prov. 31. 1, 2, 3, &c. and for the loss of that Child which was very dear to her, and which might seem to be the only tie of David's Affection to her, which being now dead, she might think that David would utterly cast her off, and leave her to that Shame and Punishment which she had deserved. s To wit, into her Chamber or Bed. t i.e. The Lord declared to David, that he loved his Son, notwithstanding the just cause which David had given to God to alienate his Affections from him.

25 And he sent by the hand of Nathan the prophet; and he called his name ‖ Jedidiah, because of the LORD u.

‖ That is, beloved of the LORD.

u Either, because of the Lord's Love to him, as the Name signifies: or because the Lord commanded him to do so.

26 And Joab fought against Rabbah of the children of Ammon, and took the royal city x.

x i.e. That part of the City where was the King's Palace, where he ordinarily resided; though now it seems he was retired to a strong Fort.

27 And Joab sent messengers to David and said, I have fought against Rabbah, and have taken the city of waters y.

y The same Royal City so called, because it either stood beside the River, or was encompassed with Water, both for defence and delight. Although the words are by some learned Men rendred thus, I have taken, or intercepted, or cut off water from the city. Which well agrees, both with the words, eth being here put for meeth, which is frequent; as Gen. 4. 1. and 44. 2. Exod. 9. 29, &c. and with the Relation of Josephus the Jew, who saith, The Conduits of Water were cut off, and so the City was taken: And with a Relation of Polybius concerning the same City, which was taken afterwards by Antiochus in the same manner, by cutting off Water from the City.

28 Now therefore, gather the rest of the people together, and encamp against the city, and take it z: lest I take the city, and † it be called after my name a.

† Heb. my name be called upon it.

z For having taken one part of the City, he concluded the remaining part of it could not long stand out. a Lest I have the Honour of taking it. Thus he seeks to ingratiate himself with the King, by pretending great care for his Honour and Interest.

29 And David gathered all the people together b: and went to Rabbah: and fought against it, and took it.

b Either because Joab needed more help for the Storming of the City: or, at least, for the Prosecution of the Victory, and Execution of Justice upon the whole Land: or because he would have them all to partake of the spoil of the City, which was there in great abundance, v. 30. the rather because they were all exposed to the hazard of utter Ruine, in case the Ammonites had prevailed against them.

30 * And he took their kings crown from off his head, (the weight whereof was a talent of gold c, with the precious stones) and it was set on Davids head: and he brought forth the spoil of the city † in great abundance.

* 1 Chron. 20. 2.

c Or rather, the price whereof, &c. For as the Hebrew Shekel signifies both a Weight, and a piece of Money of a certain price; so also may mishkal, as proceeding from the same Root. And in general, the same words both in Hebrew, Greek, and Latin, are promiscuously used, to signifie either Weight, or Price; as is well known to the Learned. And the addition of precious stones, which are never valued by the Weight of Gold, makes this signification here most proper, and probable. Moreover, the Weight might seem too great either for the King of Ammon, or for David to wear it upon his Head. Although, if this were meant of the Weight, it might be said, that this was not a Crown to be worn ordinarily, but meerly to be put on upon the King's Head at his Coronation, or upon Solemn Occasions, as here where this was done, in token of the Translation of this Kingdom to David; and, it may be, it was held up, or supported by two Officers of State, that it might not be too burdensome to him, and after a little while taken off.

31 And he brought forth the people that were therein d, and put them under saws e, and under harrows of iron, and under axes of iron f, and made them pass through the brick-kiln g: and thus did he unto all the cities of the children of Ammon. So David and all the people returned unto Jerusalem.

d The words are indefinite, and therefore not necessarily to be understood of all the People; for it had been barbarous to use Women and Children thus; but of the Men of War, and especially, of those who had been the Chief Actors or Abettors of that Villanous Action against David's Ambassadors, (which was contrary to the Law of Nature, and of Nations, and of all Humanity,) and of the Dreadful War ensuing upon it; for which, they might seem to deserve the severest Punishments. Although indeed there seems to have been too much rigour used; especially, because these dreadful Deaths were inflicted not only upon those great Counsellors, who were the only Authors of that vile Usage of the Ambassadors; but upon a great number of the People who were innocent from that Crime. And therefore it is probably conceived, That David exercised this Cruelty whilst his Heart was hardned, and impenitent; and when he was bereaved of that free and good Spirit of God, which would have taught him more Mercy and Moderation. e He sawed them to Death: of which Punishment, we have Examples both in Scripture, Heb. 11. 37. and in other Authors. f He caused them to be laid down upon the Ground, and torn by sharp Iron Harrows drawn over them, and hewed in pieces by keen Axes. g i.e. To be burnt in Brick-Kilns. Or, made them to pass through the furnace of Malchen: i.e. of Moloch, called also Milchom, and here Malchen; Punishing them with their own Sin, and with the same kind of Punishment which they inflicted upon their own Children: See 2 Kings 16. 3. and 23. 10. and Levit. 18. 21. and 20. 2. and Deut. 18. 10.

CHAP. XIII.

Amnon loveth his sister Tamar: ravisheth her: then hateth and driveth her away, 1,—19. Absalom entertaineth and revengeth her with Amnon's death, 20——29. David is grieved: Absalom fleeth to Geshur, 30,—39.

AND it came to pass after this, that Absalom the son of David had a fair sister a, whose name was Tamar: and Amnon the son of David loved her.

a His Sister by Father and Mother: See 2 Sam. 3. 3.

2 And Amnon was so vexed, that he fell sick b for his sister Tamar, for she was a virgin c, and † Amnon thought it hard for him to do any thing to her.

† Heb. it was marvellous, or hidden in the eyes of Amnon.

b The Passion of his Mind disturbed his Body, as is usual. c And therefore diligently kept, so as he could not get private Converse with her; and withal Modest, and abhorring any compliance with his Lustful Desires, both from her Inclination and Interest.

3 But Amnon had a friend whose name was Jonadab, the son of Shimeah d, Davids brother: and Jonadab was a very † subtil man.

d Called also Shammah, 1 Sam. 16. 9.

4 And he said unto him, Why art thou, being the kings son, † lean † from day to day? wilt thou not tell me? And Amnon said unto him, I love Tamar my brother Absaloms sister.

e Heb from morning to morning: for, whereas in the Day he had many Diversions, and Refreshments; in the Night he was pester'd with tormenting Thoughts and Passions; the Effects whereof appeared in his Countenance in the Morning. f Thy sure Friend and faithful Servant, who am ready to advise and assist thee.

5 And Jonadab said unto him, Lay thee down on thy bed, and make thy self sick: and when thy father cometh to see thee, say unto him, I pray thee, let my sister g Tamar come, and give me meat, and dress the meat in my sight, that I may see it, and eat it at her hand h.

g So he calls her, to prevent the suspicion of any dishonest Design upon so near a Relation, whom neither Nature, nor Respect and Affection would permit him to violate. h Pretending, that his Stomach was so nice, that he could eat nothing but what he saw dressed, and that by a Person whom he much affected.

6 So Amnon lay down, and made himself sick: and when the king was come to see him, Amnon said unto the king, I pray thee, let Tamar my sister come, and make me a couple of cakes in my sight, that I may eat at her hand.

7 Then David sent home to Tamar, saying, Go now to thy brother Amnons house, and dress him meat i.

i It is strange, that so wise and sagacious a Person, as David, did not see through so vain a Pretence: but that must be ascribed partly to the Instincts of Nature, which generally preserve near Relations from such monstrous Actions; and partly to God's Providence, which blinded David's Mind, that he might bring upon him the designed and threatned Judgments.

8 So Tamar went to her brother Amnons house, (and he was laid down k) and she took ‖ flour, and kneaded it, and made cakes in his sight, and did bake the cakes.

‖ Or, paste.

k Upon his Bed, or rather his Couch.

9 And she took a pan, and poured them out l before him, but he refused to eat. And Amnon said, Have out all men from me: and they went out every man from him.

l Out of the Frying-pan into the Dish.

10 And Amnon said unto Tamar, Bring the meat into the chamber m, that I may eat of thine hand. And Tamar took the cakes which she had made, and brought them into the chamber to Amnon her brother.

m An inner Chamber: either, 1. That wherein he lay sick upon his Bed, where also Tamar made the Cakes in his sight, who then carried them out into the next Room, to bring them in again when he

he called for them. Or rather, 2. Another Chamber. Amnon lying upon his Couch in one Chamber where the Company were with him, where also she made the Cakes before him, first sendeth all out of that Room, and then riseth from his Couch, and, upon some pretence, goes into another secret Chamber, where he might have the better opportunity for his intended Wickedness.

11 And when she had brought them unto him to eat, he took hold of her, and said unto her, Come lie with me, my sister.

12 And she answered him, Nay, my brother n, do not † force me o: for * † no such thing ought to be done in Israel p; do not thou this folly.

n Whom Nature both teacheth to abhor such Thoughts and obligeth to defend me from such a Mischief with thy utmost hazard, if another should attempt it. o Thou shouldest abhor it, if I were willing; but to add Violence to thy Filthiness, is Abominable. p Among God's People who are taught better things; who also will be infinitely reproached for such a base Action.

13 And I, whither shall I cause my shame to go q? And as for thee, thou shalt be as one of the fools in Israel r: now therefore I pray thee, speak unto the king, for he will not withhold me from thee s.

q How can I either endure or avoid the shame and reproach of it? r i.e. Loathsom and contemptible to all the People, whereas now thou art in great Reputation, and Heir apparent of the Crown. s This she spake, either because she did not understand, or not remember that the Law of God prohibited such Marriages between a Brother and his half-Sister; or, because she thought her Royal Father could or would dispense with it, upon this extraordinary occasion, to save his first-born Son's life: or, that by this pretence she might free her self from her present and most urgent danger, knowing she should have opportunity enough to prevent other mischiefs.

14 Howbeit, he would not hearken unto her voice: but being stronger than she, forced her, and lay with her.

15 ¶ Then Amnon hated her † exceedingly t, so that the hatred wherewith he hated her, was greater than the love wherewith he had loved her: and Amnon said unto her, Arise, be gone.

t Partly, because his Lust being now satisfied, his Mind and Conscience had a true and clear prospect, and deep sense of the natural turpitude and baseness of the action, and of that shame, and contempt, and loss, and mischief, which was likely to follow it, and consequently an utter aversion from her who had been the instrument and occasion of his sin; and principally, by the just Judgment of God both upon Amnon and David, that so the sin might be made publick, and way made for the succeeding Tragedies: for otherwise it would probably produce Love and Kindness to her, as it did in another, Gen. 34. 2, 3. especially in him, whom both Nature, and Interest, and even Lust it self, obliged to allay her grief and shame, by all possible demonstrations of kindness.

16 And she said unto him, There is no cause ∴: this evil in sending me away, is greater than the other t that thou didst unto me: but he would not hearken unto her.

∴ To wit, given thee by me. t This she might truly say, because though the other was in it self a greater sin, yet this was an act of greater inhumanity and barbarous Cruelty, and a greater wrong and calamity to her (which she means by evil) because it exposed her to publick infamy and contempt, as if she had been an impudent Strumpet, and had either enticed him to the sin, or at least consented to it; and besides, it turned a private offence into a publick scandal, to the great dishonour of God and of his people Israel, and especially of all the Royal Family, and was likely to cause direful Passions, and Breaches, and Mischiefs among them.

17 Then he called his servant that ministred unto him, and said, Put now this woman out from me, and bolt the door after her.

18 And she had a garment of divers colours u upon her: for with such robes were the kings daughters that were virgins, apparelled. Then his servant brought her out, and bolted the door after her.

u Of Embroidered work. Compare Gen. 37. 3.

19 ¶ And Tamar put ashes on her head, and rent her garment x of divers colours that was on her, and laid her hand on her head y, and went on, crying z.

x To signifie her grief for some Calamity which had befallen her, and what that was, concurring circumstances did easily discover. y In token of grief and shame, as if she were unable and ashamed to shew her face. See Jer. 2. 37. z To manifest her abhorrency of the Fact, and that it was not done by her consent.

20 And Absalom her brother said unto her, Hath Amnon thy brother been with thee a? but hold now thy peace, my sister: he is thy brother b, † regard not this thing c. So Tamar remained † desolate d in her brother Absaloms house.

a i.e. Lien with thee. Behold, and imitate the modesty of Scripture-expressions. b Therefore thou must forgive and forget the Injury; therefore thy disgracing of him will be a blot to us all: therefore thou wilt not get right from David against him, because he is as near and dear to him as thou: therefore thy dishonour is the less, because thou wast not abused by any mean Person, but by a King's Son: therefore this Evil must be born, because it cannot be revenged. And thus he covers his design of taking vengeance upon him at the first opportunity. c So as to torment thy self. d Neglected and forsaken by others, none now seeking her in marriage; and through shame and dejection of Mind, giving her self up to solitude and retirement.

e To wit, with Amnon: whom yet he did not punish, at least so severely as he should: either from the conscience of his own guilt in the like kind; or, from that foolish indulgence which he oft shewed to his Children: or, because the case was perplexed: for if he had been put to death for the Fact, by virtue of that Law, Deut. 22. 23, 24. she also, who was innocent, must have died with him, because she did not cry out: although indeed that Law did not reach the present case, Tamar not being betrothed to an Husband: and for the following Law concerning a Virgin not betrothed that could have no place here: he could not force Amnon to marry Tamar, because that Marriage had been incestuous.

f i.e. He said nothing at all to him; to wit, about that business. It is a Synecdochical expression, used in like manner, Gen. 31. 24. He neither debated it with him, nor threatned him for it; but seemed willing to cover it, and pass it by with Brotherly kindness. For if he had wholly forborn all discourse and converse with him, it would have raised great jealousies in Amnon and David, and hindred him in his intended and desired revenge. g Or rather, but, or though, as the Hebrew Particle, Chi, commonly signifies: for the following Clause is not added as a reason of the former, but by way of exception or opposition. Though he outwardly expressed no dislike of the Fact, yet he inwardly hated him.

23 ¶ And it came to pass after two full years ∴, that Absalom * had sheep-shearers h in Baal-Hazor, which is besides Ephraim i: And Absalom invited all the kings sons.

* 1 Sam. 25. 4.

∴ This circumstance of time is noted, partly, as an aggravation of Absalom's malice, which was so inveterate and implacable: and partly, as an act of Absalom's policy, that both Amnon and David might more securely comply with his desires, as being now free from all suspicion of revenge. h According to the manner of those ancient times, when Princes did not give themselves up to sloth and luxury, but spent their time and pains in some honest employment. i Either, First, The City called Ephraim, or Ephrem, John 11. 54. Or, Secondly, The Tribe of Ephraim, towards or nigh unto which this place was situate.

24 And Absalom came to the king, and said, Behold, now, thy servant hath sheep-shearers, Let the king, I beseech thee, and his servants go with thy servant k.

k To the Feast, which was usual upon those occasions. See Gen. 38. 12. 1 Sam 25. 7, 11.

25 And the king said to Absalom, Nay, my son, let us not all now go, lest we be chargeable unto thee. And he pressed him l: howbeit he would not go, but blessed him m.

l Pretending great desire of his presence there, to prevent any jealousies, which otherwise he thought would arise in the Breast of a King so wise and experienced, and under the expectation of God's dreadful Judgments to be inflicted upon his Family. m Dismissed him with thanks for his kindness, and with his Fatherly blessing.

26 Then said Absalom, If not, I pray thee, let my brother Amnon go with us n. And the king said unto him, Why should he go with thee?

n For the King designed (as the following words shew) to keep him at home with him, as being his eldest Son, and Heir of his Kingdom: otherwise Absalom would never have made particular mention of him; which now he was forced to do. Nor did this desire of Amnon's presence want specious Pretences, as that seeing the King would not, he who was next to him might, honour him with his company; and that this might be a manifest and publick token of that Love and Friendship which was between him and his Brother, notwithstanding the former occasion of difference.

27 But Absalom pressed him, that he let Amnon and all the kings sons go with him o.

o It is strange that his urgent desire of Amnon's company raised no suspicion in so wise a King; but God blinded his Mind that he might execute his Judgments upon David, and bring upon Amnon the just punishment of his lewdness.

28 ¶ Now Absalom had commanded his servants, saying, Mark ye now when Amnons heart is merry with wine p, and when I say unto you, Smite Amnon, then kill him, fear not: || have not I commanded you q? be couragious, and be † valiant.

p When he least suspects, and will be most unable to prevent the evil. q I who am the King's Son, and, when Amnon is gone, his Heir: who therefore shall easily obtain pardon for you, and will liberally reward you.

29 And the servants of Absalom did unto Amnon as Absalom had commanded: then all the kings sons arose, and every man † gat him up upon his mule r, and fled.

† Heb. unto him, or, against him. † Heb. rode.

r Which were in use amongst the Israelites. See 1 King. 23. 33. For though they might not promote such mixed kinds of procreation, Levit. 19. 19. yet they might use Creatures so engendred.

30 ¶ And

30 ¶ And it came to pass, while they were in the way, that tidings came to David, saying, Absalom hath slain all the kings sons s, and there is not one of them left.

s Which was not improbable, when the Sword was once drawn among them, and one of them killed, which might provoke the rest to draw their Swords, both to defend themselves, and to revenge their Brother's death, and thereby occasion the death of all. And God suffered this false report to be spread for David's greater terrot and humiliation, that he who had formerly rejoyced in the tidings of Uriah's death, might now be tormented with the report of the death of all his Sons.

31 Then the king arose, and tare his garments, and lay on the earth, and all his servants stood by with their clothes rent.

32 And Jonadab the son of Shimeah, Davids brother t, answered and said, Let not my lord suppose that they have slain all the young men the kings sons: for Amnon only is dead: for by the † appointment u of Absalom this hath been || determined, from the day that he forced his sister Tamar.

t A Man of great craft and subtilty, and one that had exact knowledge of Amnon's Fact, and of Absalom's Temper. u Or, by the command; Heb. mouth, put for command, Numb. 3. 16. || It was resolved from that time in his Breast: but the word of command was not then given to others; for that would probably have hindred his design. But all this he seems to have spoken from a probable conjecture, rather than of certain knowledge, as appears by the sequel.

33 Now therefore let not my lord the king take the thing to heart, to think that all the kings sons are dead: for Amnon only is dead.

34 But Absalom fled y. And the young man that kept the watch lift up his eyes, and looked, and behold, there came much people by the way of the hill-side behind him z.

y He who had undertaken to defend his Servants, flies for his own life. z Behind the Watch-man: for it seems they did not come in the direct Road, where the Watch-man looked for them, but (for some reason or fansie they had) fetched a compass, and came that way which he least expected them.

35 And Jonadab said unto the king, Behold, the kings sons come: † as thy servant said, so it is.

† Heb. according to the word of and of speaking, that behold, the kings sons came, and thy servant.

36 And it came to pass as soon as he had made an lift up their voice and wept: and the king also and all his servants wept † very sore.

37 ¶ But Absalom fled, and went to Talmai, the son of || Ammihud king of Geshur ∴: and David mourned for his son every day.

|| Or, Anmihur.

∴ His Mothers Father, 2 Sam. 2. 3. that he might have present protection and sustenance from him; and that by his mediation he might obtain his Father's pardon and favour.

38 So Absalom fled, and went to Geshur, and was there three years.

39 And * the soul of king David || longed to go forth unto Absalom a: for he was comforted concerning Amnon, seeing he was dead.

* 1 Sam. 24. 10. Hos. 16. 2. || Or, was consumed.

a To wit, to visit him, or to send for him. And thus this word, the Soul, is here understood, partly, from the Hebrew Verb, which being of the Feminine Gender, agrees not with David, but with David's Soul; and partly, by comparing this with other places, where the same Verb is used, and the Soul expressed, as Psal. 84. 3. and 119. 81. But as this Supplement may seem too bold, so this Version seems not so well to agree with that Phrase of going out to Absalom; for David neither desired nor intended to go out to Absalom, but that Absalom should come home to him. And these words may be, and are otherwise rendred, by the most ancient and remarkable Interpreters to this purpose, And king David made an end of going out (to wit, in an Hostile manner, as that Verb is oft used, Gen. 14. 18. 2 Sam. 11. 1.) against (for so the Hebrew Particle, El, is oft used, as Jer. 34. 7. Ezek. 13. 9, 20. Amos 7. 15.) Absalom; i.e. having used some, though it is probable, but cold and remiss endeavors to pursue after Absalom, and to fetch him from his Grand-fathers to receive condign Punishment, he now gave over thoughts of it. Thus the same Verb, and that in the same conjugation, is used in the same manner, 1 King. 3. 1. he made an end of building. It is to be objected, That the Hebrew Verb is of the Feminine Gender, and therefore doth not agree with King David, which is Masculine. It may be answered, That Enallage of Genders is a most frequent Figure; and as the Masculine Gender is sometimes applied to Women when they do some manly and gallant Action, Exod. 1. 21. so the Feminine Gender is sometimes used of Men when they shew an effeminate tenderness in their disposition; which is the case here, as some learned Hebricians have noted.

CHAP. XIV.

Joab subborning a widow of Tekoah by a parable to incline the king's heart to fetch home Absalom, bringeth him to Jerusalem, but not into David's sight, 1, —24. Absalom's beauty, hair, and children, 25, —27. After two years Joab bringeth him into the kings presence, 28, —33.

NOw Joab the son of Zeruiah, perceived that the kings heart was toward Absalom a.

a He desired to see him, but was ashamed to shew kindness to one whom God's Law and his own Conscience obliged him to punish; and wanted a fair pretence, which therefore Joab gave him.

2 And Joab sent to Tekoah b, and fetcht thence a wise woman c, and said unto her, I pray thee, feign thy self to be a mourner, and put on now mourning apparel, and anoint not thy self with oil d, but be as a woman that had a long time mourned for the dead:

b A City of Judah, 2 Chron. 11. 5, 6. c One of Jerusalem was not convenient, lest the King might know the Person, or search out the business. And besides, this Woman seems to be of great eminency for her Wisdom, as the following discourse manifests. c Rather than a Man, because Women can more easily express their Passions, and do sooner procure pity in their Miseries, and an answer to their Requests. d As they used to do when they were out of a mourning state. See Ruth 3. 3. Matth. 6. 17.

3 And come to the king, and speak on this manner unto him: so Joab put the words in her mouth.

4 ¶ And when the woman of Tekoah spake to the king, she fell on her face to the ground, and did obeisance, and said, † Help, O king. † Heb. save.

5 And the king said unto her, What aileth thee? And she answered, I am indeed a widow-woman e, and mine husband is dead.

e One of them who most need thy compassion and assistance, and whom thou art by God's Law obliged in a singular manner to protect and relieve.

6 And thy handmaid had two sons, and they two strove together in the field, and there was † none to part them, but the one smote the other, and slew him f.

f And therefore there is no witness, either that he killed him, or how he killed him, whether from some sudden passion and great provocation, or in his own necessary defence, or otherwise. g As the avengers of Blood report.

7 And behold, the whole family is risen against thine handmaid, and they said, Deliver him that smote his brother, that we may kill him h, for the life of his brother whom he slew, and we will destroy the heir also i: and so they shall quench my coal which is left k, and shall not leave to my husband l neither name nor remainder † upon the earth. † Heb. upon the faces of the earth.

h According to the Law, Numb. 35. 19. Deut. 19. 12. i So they plainly discover, that their prosecution of him was not so much from love of Justice, as from a covetous desire to deprive him of the Inheritance, and to transfer it to themselves; which self-interest might justly render their Testimony suspected. Or, perhaps these words are not spoken as the express words of the prosecutors (who can hardly be thought so directly to express a sinister design) but as the Womens Inference or Comment upon what they were doing: (for this would be indeed the result of it, though they did not say so in express words) thereby to represent her case as the more deserving pity. k The poor remainder of my light and comfort, by whom alone my hopes may be revived and repaired. l She names him rather than her self, because Children bear the Names of their Fathers, not of their Mothers.

8 And the king said unto the woman, Go to thine house, and I will give charge concerning thee m.

m That thy Cause may be justly and truly examined, and thy Son preserved from their unjust and malicious proceedings.

9 And the woman of Tekoah said unto the king, My lord, O king, the iniquity be on me, and on my fathers house: and the king and his throne be guiltless n.

n The sense is, either, first, this, If I do not inform thee aright, and thou thereby becst drawn to give an unrighteous Sentence on my behalf, I am willing to bear the whole blame of it before God and Men; I acknowledge thou art wholly innocent in the case. Compare Gen. 27. 13. Or, secondly, this, If through thy forgetfulness or neglect of this my just cause, my Adversaries prevail and destroy my Son, my desire is, that God would not lay it to the King's charge, but rather to me and mine, so the King may be exempted thereby. Whereby the both insinuates her great esteem of, and affection for the King, thereby winning upon him to compass her design; and withal implies, that such an omission of the Kings will bring guilt upon him; and yet most prudently and decently orders her Phrase so as not to seem to blame or accuse the King. Compare Exod 5. 16. 2 Sam. 20. 16. This sense seems best to agree with David's answer, which shews that she desired some further assurance of the King's Care and Justice in her concern.

10 And the king said, Whosoever saith ought unto thee, bring him to me, and he shall not touch thee o any more.

o i.e. So as to hurt or molest thee, by pursuing thy Son.

11 Then said she, I pray thee, let the king remember the LORD thy God p, † that thou wouldest not suffer † Heb. that the revengers of blood do destroy any more q, lest they destroy my son r. And he said, As the LORD liveth, there shall not one hair of thy son fall to the earth s: revenger of blood do not multiply to p The sense is, either, first, Make mention (as this Hebrew Verb is oft rendred) of the Name of the Lord thy God, to wit, in an Oath; i.e. swear to me by God, That thou wilt protect me and my Son against the Revenger of Blood. For so David did in compliance with this desire of hers. Only she was forced to express her Mind in more general and ambiguous terms, because it had been presumption and rudeness for her in plain terms to desire the King's Oath, as if she durst not trust his word; yet withal she insinuates her meaning so plainly, that the King understood it; and yet so handsomly and elegantly, that the King was much pleased with her Wisdom, and thereby inclined to grant her request. Or, secondly, this, Remember the gracious Nature of thy God, who is not too severe and rigorous to mark or see all that is amiss, nor doth use all exact and man-slayer, as appears from Numb. 35. and from the example of Cain, and from thy self, O King: though this she expresseth not, but only useth such words which she knew would give so wise and good a King occasion to reflect upon himself, and upon the goodness of God in sparing him, though a wilful Murtherer, that thereby he might be obliged to imitate God, in sparing the Person whom she designed. Or, Thirdly, this, Remember the Lord, in whose presence thou hast made me this promise, and who will be a witness against thee, if thou breakest it. q Heb. left the avenger of blood multiply to destroy; i.e. left they cause one destruction to another, and add my surviving Son to him who is slain already. Or, left thou dost multiply avengers of blood to destroy; i.e. left by thy connivence at their cruel and malicious proceedings against my Son, thou dost encourage Avengers of Blood to the like furious Practices, and thereby increase the number of that sort of Men, and upon that pretence occasion multitudes of Murthers. r Or, and let them not destroy my Son; the Future Tense, being put for the Imperative Mood, as is frequent. s i.e. He shall not suffer the least damage. We have the same Phrase used 1 Sam. 14. 45. 1 King. 1. 52. Act. 27. 34. Compare Mat. 10. 30.

12 Then the woman said t, Let thine handmaid, I pray thee, speak one word unto my lord the king. And he said, Say on:

t Having obliged the King by his Oath in her supposed case, she now throws off the Veil, and begins to apply this Parable to the Kings and Kingdoms present case.

13 And the woman said, Wherefore then hast thou thought such a thing against the people of God u? for the king doth speak this thing as one which is faulty x, in that the king doth not fetch home again his banished y.

u If thou wouldst not permit the Avengers of Blood to molest me, or to destroy my Son, who are but two Persons; how unreasonable is it that thou shouldest proceed in thy endeavours to avenge Amnon's Blood upon Absalom, whose death would be highly injurious and grievous to the whole Commonwealth of Israel, all whose Eyes are upon him as the Heir of the Crown, and a wise, and valiant, and amiable Person, unhappy only in this one act of killing Amnon, which was done upon an high and heinous provocation, and whereof thou thy self didst give the occasion by permitting Amnon to go unpunished? x By thy Word, and Premise, and Oath given to me for my Son, thou condemnest thy self for not allowing the same Equity towards thy own Son. y To wit, Absalom, from that Heathenish Country where he is in evident danger of being infected with their Idolatry and other Vices: which is likely to be a great and publick Mischief to all thy People, if he come to Reign in thy stead, which he is very likely to do. It is true, there was a considerable disparity between her Sons, and Absalom's case, the one being a rash and sudden action, the other a deliberate and premeditated Murther; but that may seem to be balanced in some measure; partly, by Amnon's great and lasting provocation; and principally, by the vast difference between a private Injury, which was her case, and a publick calamity and grievance, which she affirmed, and the King easily believed was Absalom's case: And what David said in the case of Joab's Murther of Abner, That he could not revenge it, because the sons of Zeruiah were too hard for him, 2 Sam. 3. 39. the like peradventure might have been said in this case, where the Peoples hearts may seem to have been universally and vehemently set upon Absalom, and the rather, because his long banishment moved their pity, and his absence made him more desirable, as it frequently happens among People; and therefore it might really be out of the King's power to punish him; and so he might seem to be obliged to spare him for the common safety of his whole Kingdom.

14 For we must needs die z, and are as water spilt on the ground, which cannot be gathered up again a: ‖ neither doth God respect any person b, yet doth he devise means, that his banished be not expelled from him c.

‖ Or, because God hath not taken away his life, he hath also devised means, &c.

z Heb. In dying we shall die; i.e. we shall certainly and suddenly die all of us, both thou, O King, who therefore art obliged to take due care of thy Successor, who is Absalom; and Absalom, who, if he do not die by the hand of Justice, must shortly die by the necessity of Nature: and Amnon too must have died in the common way of all flesh, if Absalom had not cut him off. Therefore, O King, be not implacable towards Absalom for nipping a Flower a little before its time of fading, and restore him to us all before he die in a strange Land. a Which is quickly drunk up and buried in the Earth, and cannot be recovered. b To wit, so far as to exempt him from this common Law of dying. But this Version seems not to agree with the Scripture-Phrase: for the accepting of a person is never to my knowledge expressed in Hebrew by Nasa Nepheſh, which is the Phrase here, but by Nasa Panim, every where. The words therefore may be rendred either thus: yet God will not take away, or doth not use to take away (the Future Tense oft noting a continued act, as Hebricians observe) the soul, or ſouls, or lives of Men, to wit, by violence. God doth not severely and instantly cut off Offenders, but suffers them to live till they die by the course of Nature; and therefore so shouldst thou do too. Or, rather thus: yet God hath not taken away his ſoul or life; the Pronoun, his, being understood here, as it is in many other places, and as being easily supplied out of the context. So the sense is, God hath hitherto spared him, and did not suffer his Brethren to kill him, as in reason might have been expected; nor hath God himself yet cut him off for his Murther, as he oft doth with Persons who are out of the Magistrates reach; but hath hitherto preserved him even in a Heathenish Land. All which are intimations that God would have him spared. c Or, but hath deviſed means, &c. i.e. hath given Laws to this purpose, That the man-slayer who is banished should not always continue in banishment, but upon the High-Priests death return to his own City. Whereby he hath shewed his pleasure, that the Avenger of Blood should not implacably persist in seeking revenge, and that the man-slayer should be spared. Or rather, thus, but thinketh thoughts, or, but hath deſigned, or, therefore he intendeth that he who is banished (to wit, Absalom) be not (always) expelled or banished from him; i.e. from God and from his People, and from the place of his worship; but that he should return home to him. So the sense is, That God by sparing Absalom's life in the midst of dangers, did sufficiently intimate, that he would in due time bring him back to his Land and People.

15 Now therefore that I am come to speak of this thing unto my lord the king, it is because the people have made me afraid d: and thy handmaid said e, I will now speak unto the king; it may be that the king will perform the request of his handmaid.

d The truth is, I was even forced to this bold Address to thee, by the disposition and condition of thy People, who are discontented at Absalom's perpetual banishment, and full of fears; either lest, upon thy death, which none knoweth how soon it may happen, they should be involved in a Civil War about thy Successor; or lest, in the mean time, if Absalom by his Father-in-laws assistance invade the Land, and endeavour by force to re-gain and secure his Right to the Succession, the People, who have a great opinion of him, and kindness for him, and think he is very hardly used, should take up Arms for him; or lest he who is thy Heir and Successor should by continual and familiar conversation with Heathens, be infected in their Errors, or alienated from the true Religion, and from God's Worship, from which he is now utterly excluded. e Or, therefore thy handmaid said, either, within my self; i.e. I intended: or, to the People, to quiet them.

16 For the king will hear f, to deliver his handmaid out of the hand of the man g that would destroy me and my son h together out of the inheritance of God i:

f For I know the King is so wise and just, that I assure my self of Audience and Acceptation. Which expectation of hers is cunningly insinuated here, that the King might conceive himself obliged to answer it, and not to disappoint her hope, nor to forfeit that good opinion which his Subjects now had of him. g To grant my request concerning my Son, and consequently the Peoples Petition concerning Absalom. h Implying that her life was bound up in the life of her Son, and that she could not out-live his death; (and supposing, it is like, that it might be David's case also, and would therefore touch him in a tender part, though it were not proper to say it expressly:) and thereby suggesting, that the tranquillity, safety, and comfort of the People of Israel, depended upon Absalom's Restitution, and the settlement of the Succession in him. i i.e. Out of that Inheritance which God hath given to me and mine: or, out of that Land which God gave to his People to be their Inheritance and Possession, and in which alone God hath settled the place of his Presence and Worship. Whereby she intimates the danger of Absalom's living in a state of separation from God, and his House, and amongst Idolaters.

17 Then thine handmaid said, The word of my lord the king shall now be † comfortable k: for as an angel of God l, so is my lord the king † to discern good and bad m; therefore n the LORD thy God will be with thee o.

k I doubt not the King will give a gracious and satisfactory Answer to my Petition. l To wit, in Wisdom, and Justice, and Goodness. m To hear and judge of Causes and Requests, whether they be just, and good, and fit to be granted, as mine is; or unrighteous, and unreasonable, and fit to be rejected. So she intimates her confidence in the Justice of her Cause, and thereby confirms the King in his purpose and promise to grant her Request, and withal arms the King against the suggestions of them who should advise him to a rigorous execution of God's Law against Absalom, and be ready to censure him for restoring Absalom, and this for want of that Angelical Wisdom which the King had, who wisely considered many things far above their reach. n Because thou art so wise, and just, and pitiful, and gracious to those who in strict Justice deserve punishment. o God will own and stand by thee in this thy act of Grace: or, God will prosper thee in thy enterprizes: or, at least, not be offended with thee.

18 Then the king answered and said unto the woman, Hide not from me, I pray thee, the thing that I shall ask thee. And the woman said, Let my lord the king now speak.

19 And the king said, Is not the hand of Joab with thee in all this p? And the woman answered, and said, As thy soul liveth, my lord the king, none can turn to the right hand, or to the left, from ought that my lord the king hath spoken q: for thy servant Joab he bade me, and he put all these words in the mouth of thine handmaid r:

p Hast thou not said and done this by Joab's direction and contrivance? q As the King is so wise that no Man can deceive him by any turnings or windings to the right or left hand, but he quickly searcheth out the truth in every thing; so (it is a folly to dissemble, or go about to conceal it) it is even so, thou hast now discovered the truth of this business. r To wit, for the scope and substance of them, but not as to all the expressions which she used, for these were to be varied as the King's answer gave occasion, which also she did with singular prudence.

20 To fetch about this form of speech ſ hath thy servant Joab done this thing: and my lord is wise, according to the wisdom of an angel of God, to know all things that are in the earth t.

ſ i.e. To

ſ i.e. To propose mine, and his, and the Peoples desire of Absalom's restitution in this parabolical manner, in mine, and my Sons Person. t Or, in this Land, in all thy Kingdom; all the Counsels and Devices of thy Subjects, which have any relation to thee or thy Affairs.

21 ¶ And the king said unto Joab, Behold now, I have done this thing u: go therefore, bring the young man x Absalom again.

u In compliance with thy desire: although in truth it was according to his own desire. He overlooks the Woman in this grant, because she was but Joab's Instrument in it. x By which expression he mitigates his Crime, as being an act of youthful heat, and folly, and rashness.

22 And Joab fell to the ground on his face, and bowed himself, and † thanked the king: and Joab said, To day thy servant knoweth that I have found grace in thy sight, my lord, O king, in that the king hath fulfilled the request of ‖ his servant y.

y i.e. Restored Absalom at my request. Whereby Joab thought to establish himself for ever, and that he should be both the Father's and the Son's favourite. Queſt. Whether David did well in granting this request? Anſ. Although there be some Circumstances which of Absalom; Absalom's being out of the reach of David's Justice, where also he could and would have kept himself, if David had not promised him impunity; the extream danger of Absalom's infection by Heathenish Principles and Practices; the safety of David's Kingdom, which seemed to depend upon the Establishment of the Succession, and that upon Absalom, to whom the hearts of the People were so universally and vehemently inclined, if the matter was really so, and not pretended or magnified by the Art of this subtil Woman; yet it seems most probable that David was faulty herein, because this action was directly contrary to the express Laws of God, upon all wilful Murtherers, without any reservation, Gen. 9. 6. Numb. 35. 30, 31. And David had no power to dispense with God's Laws, nor to spare any whom God commanded him to destroy: for the Laws of God did bind the Kings and Rulers, as well as the People of Israel, to observe and obey them, as is most evident from Deut. 17. 18, 19. and from Joſ. 1. 8. and many other places. And indeed we may read David's Sin in the Glass of those tremendous Judgments of God which befel him, by means of his indulgence to Absalom. For although God's Providences be in themselves no Rule to judge of the good or evil of Mens actions; yet where they comply with God's Word, and accomplish his Threatnings, as here they did, they are to be taken for the tokens of God's Displeasure.

23 So Joab arose and went to Geshur, and brought Absalom to Jerusalem.

24 And the king said, Let him turn to his own house, and let him not see my face z. So Absalom returned to his own house, and saw not the kings face.

z Lest whilst he shewed some mercy to Absalom, he should seem to approve of his Sin, and thereby wound his own Conscience, and lose his Honour, and encourage him and others to such like Attempts; and that by this means Absalom might be drawn to a more thorough Humiliation and true Repentance.

25 ¶ † But in all Israel there was none to be so much praised as Absalom for his beauty a: from the sole of his foot even to the crown of his head, there was no blemish in him.

a This is here noted as the occasion of his Pride and Insolency, and of the Peoples Affections to him, and consequently of the following Rebellion.

26 And when he polled his head, (for it was at every years end that he polled it: because the hair was heavy on him, therefore he polled it) he weighed the hair of his head at two hundred shekels b, after the kings † weight.

b Whereas ordinarily the hair of a Man's head which grows in a years space, comes not to half so much. But some Mens hair grows much faster, and is much heavier than others. But others understand this not of the weight, but of the price of his hair, which was sold by him that Polled it at that rate.

27 And unto Absalom there were born three sons c and one daughter, whose name was Tamar d: she was a woman of a fair countenance.

c All which died not long after they were born, as may be gathered from chap. 18. 18. where it is said, that Absalom had no son. d So called from her Aunt, chap. 13. 1.

28 ¶ So Absalom dwelt two full years in Jerusalem, and saw not the kings face.

29 Therefore Absalom sent for Joab, to have sent him to the king e, but he would not come to him: and when he sent again the second time, he would not come f.

e That by his mediation he might be admitted into the King's favour and presence. f Partly, because perceiving David's affections to be cold to Absalom, he would not venture his own Interest for him, especially in desiring that which he feared he should be denied; partly, lest by interceeding further for Absalom, he should revive the remembrance of his former Murther, and meet with the reproach of one Murtherers interceeding for another; and partly, because by converse with Absalom, he observed his temper to be such, that if once he were fully restored to the King's favour, he would not only eclipse and oppose Joab's Interest and Power with the King, but also attempt high things, not without danger to the King and Kingdom, as it happened.

30 Therefore he said unto his servants, See, Joabs field is † near mine, and he hath barley there; go and † Heb. set it on fire g: and Absalom's servants set the field on fire.

g That Joab may be forced to come to me to complain of, and demand reparations for this Injury.

31 Then Joab arose and came to Absalom unto his house, and said unto him, Wherefore have thy servants set my field on fire?

32 And Absalom answered Joab, Behold, I sent unto thee, saying, Come hither that I may send thee to the king, to say, Wherefore am I come from Geshur? it had been good for me to have been there still h: now therefore let me see the kings face: and if there be any iniquity in me, let him kill me i.

h Rather than here, because my estrangement from him now when I am so near to him, is both more grievous and more shameful to me. But the truth of the business was this, Absalom saw that his Father had accomplished his design in bringing him thither, having satisfied both his own natural affection, and his Peoples desire of Absalom's return from banishment; but that he could not without restitution into the King's presence and favour compass his design; i.e. confirm and improve that Interest which he saw he had in the Peoples hearts. i For it is better for me to die, than to want the sight and favour of my dear Father. Thus he insinuates himself into his Father's affections, by pretending such Respect and Love to him. It seems that by this time Absalom having so far recovered his Father's favour, as to be re-called, he began to grow upon him, and take so much confidence as to stand upon his own justification, as if what he had done, had been no iniquity, at least not such as to deserve death. For so much this Speech intimates.

33 So Joab came to the king, and told him: and when he had called for Absalom, he came to the king, and bowed himself on his face to the ground before the king: and the king kissed Absalom k.

k In restimony of his thorough Reconciliation to him. Which Absalom did very ill requite, as the next Chapter manifesteth.

CHAP. XV.

Absalom stealeth the hearts of Israel, 1,—6. Under pretence of a vow obtaineth leave to go to Hebron: there with Ahithophel's aid he conspires to be king, 7,—12. David flyeth from Jerusalem with all his men: leaveth ten of his concubines, 13,—37.

AND it came to pass after this, that Absalom * prepared him charets, and horses, and fifty men to run before him a.

* 1 King. 1. 5.

a As being the King's eldest Son, now Amnon was dead; for Chileab, who was his eldest Brother, 2 Sam. 3. 3. was either dead, or manifestly uncapable of the Government. And this course he knew would draw the Eyes and Minds of People to him, and make them conclude that David intended him for his Successor.

2 And Absalom rose up early b, and stood beside the way of the gate c: and it was so, that when any man that had a controversie, † came to the king for judg- † Heb. to come. ment, then Absalom called unto him d, and said, Of what city art thou e? And he said, Thy servant is of one of the tribes of Israel f.

b Thereby making a shew of self-denial, and diligence, and solicitude for the good of the publick, and of every private Person, as he had opportunity. c Either, First, Of the King's Palace. Or rather, Secondly, Of the City, for that was the place of Judicature or Judgment, for which these Men came. d Preventing him with the offers of his assistance. e As if he were ready to make particular enquiry into the state of his cause. f Or rather, of one City (which word is easily understood out of the foregoing question) of the tribes of Israel; i.e. of an Iſraelitiſh City, either this, or that; of such or such a City.

And Absalom said unto him, See, thy matters are good and right g: but ‖ there is no man deputed of the king to hear thee h.

‖ Or, none will hear thee from the king.

g Upon some very slight hearing of their Case, he approved it, that he might oblige all. h To wit, none such as will do thee Justice. The other Sons and Relations of the King, and the rest of the Judges and Rulers under him and them, are wholly corrupted, and swayed by favour or bribes; or, at least not careful and diligent as they should be: and my Father being grown in years, is negligent of publick Affairs, leaving them wholly to their Conduct.

4 Absalom said moreover, O that I were made judge in the land i, that every man k which hath any suit or cause, might come unto me, and I would do him justice.

i For the King had only restored Absalom to favour, but thought not fit to put him into any place of Power and Trust. k I should refuse no Man, and decline no Pains to do any Man good. So he pretends to a very publick Spirit.

5 And it was so, that when any man came nigh to him, to do him obeisance, he put forth his hand, and took him and kissed him l.

l Putting on the Garb of singular humanity and good will to all Men. For that seems to have been a Ceremony, in frequent use in those times, of shewing respect, as pulling off the Hat, and bowing, or imbracing, is at this day with us.

6 And on this manner did Absalom to all Israel, that came to the king for judgment: so Absalom stole the hearts of the men of Israel m.

m i.e. He secretly and subtilly undermined his Father, and robbed his Father of the good Opinions and Affections of his People; that he might gain them to himself, by such insinuations into their Affections, by his plausible and over-civil Carriage.

7 ¶ And it came to pass after forty years n, that Absalom said unto the king, I pray thee, let me go, and pay my vow o which I have vowed unto the LORD in Hebron p.

n Quest. Whence are these to be computed? Ans. Not from Absalom's Birth; for he was born in Hebron some considerable time after David had begun his Reign, 2 Sam. 3. 3. much less from the time of his Vow made, or of his return from Banishment: but, either, first, from the time of David's election or designation to the Kingdom, 1 Sam. 16. 13. Or, Secondly, From the beginning of Saul's Reign: which being a solemn time, and observable for the change of the Government in Israel, might very fitly be made an Epocha, from which the computation or account of Times begin; as the Greeks and Romans began their Accounts in the same manner, and upon the same ground. Or rather, Thirdly, From the beginning of David's Reign, who reigned 40 Years; and so the words may be rendred, about or towards the end of forty years; i.e. in the beginning of the fortieth Year. And so this very Phrase is used, Deut. 15. 1. At the end of every seven years; i.e. in the seventh Year, even from the beginning of it, as is manifested and confessed. So in a like expression, After three days will I rise again, Mark 8. 31. i.e. on the beginning of the third Day, when Christ did rise; the number of three Days being then compleated when the third Day is begun. And the 40 Years are here expressed as one motive or inducement to Absalom to rebel, because now his Father's end grew near; and one of the Hebrew Doctors affirms, That there was a Tradition, or Rumour, or Prediction, that David should Reign but 40 Years. And Absalom might easily understand that David intended to decline him, and to make Solomon his Successor, as well by the conscience of his own wickedness and unfitness for so great a Trust, as by that eminent Wisdom and Piety which appeared in Solomon in his tender Years, and that great Respect and Affection which his Father must needs have and manifest to him upon this account, and by that Promise and Oath given to Bathsheba concerning his Succession mentioned, 1 King. 1. 30. but made before that time, which also might come to Absalom's ear. Against this Opinion two things are objected: First, That David was in the time of this Rebellion a strong Man, for he marched on Foot, v. 30. whereas in his last Year he was very infirm and bed-rid. Secondly, That after this Rebellion was ended, divers other things happened, as the three Years Famine, 2 Sam. 21. 1. and other things following in the History. But it may be answered to the first, That David might in the beginning of his last Year, have so much strength and vigour left as to march on Foot, especially when he did so humble and afflict himself, as it is apparent he did, v. 30. and yet through his his tedious Marches, and the tormenting Cares, Fears, and Griefs of his Soul for Absalom, might be so strangely and suddenly impaired, as in the end of the same Year to be very feeble and bed-rid, it being a very common accident, especially in old Men, and upon extraordinary occasions, to languish and decline exceedingly, and to fall from some competent degree of health and vigour, to be very infirm and bed-rid, and that in the space of a few Months. And to the second Objection, That those Histories related chap. 21, &c. though they be placed after this Rebellion, yet indeed were done before it; the proof of which see on chap. 21. 1. For it is so confessed and evident, that things are not always placed in the same order in which they were done, that it is a Rule of the Hebrews, and approved by other learned Men, Non datur prius & posterius in Sacris literis; that is, There is no first and last in the order of Scripture-relations. And here is a plain reason for this transplacing of this History, which is allowed in other like cases, That when once the History of Tamar's Rape had been mentioned, it was very fit to subjoin the Relation of all the Mischiefs which followed upon that occasion. If any Infidel will yet cavil with this Text and number of Years, let him know, that instead of forty, the Syriack, and Arabick, and Josephus the Jew, read four years; and that it is much more rational to acknowledge an Error of the Scribe, who copied out the Sacred Text, than upon so frivolous a ground to question the Divine Authority of the Holy Scriptures. And that some Men chuse the latter way rather than the former, is an evidence that they are Infidels by the choice of their wills, more than by the strength of their reasons. o He pretends Piety, which he knew would please his Father, and easily procure his consent. p Which is mentioned as the place, not where the Vow was made, for that was at Geshur, v. 8. but where he intended to perform it. The pretence for which was, That he was born in this place, 2 Sam. 3. 3. and that here was a famous high-place; and, till the Temple was built, it was permitted to sacrifice upon the high-places.

8 For thy servant vowed a vow while I abode at Geshur in Syria, saying, If the LORD shall bring me again indeed to Jerusalem, then I will serve the LORD q.

q i.e. Worship him by the offering of Sacrifices of Thanksgiving to God, for restoring me to the place of his presence and service, and to my Father's favour. But why should not this service have been performed at Sinai, or at Gibeon? Here was some ground of suspicion; but God blinded David's Eyes, that he might bring upon David and upon Absalom the Judgments which they deserved, and he designed.

9 And the king said unto him, Go in peace. So he arose, and went to Hebron r.

r This place he chose as being an eminent City, and next to Jerusalem, the chief of the Tribe of Judah, and the place of his birth, and the place where his Father began his Kingdom, which he took for a good Omen, and where it is probable that he had secured many Friends, and which was at some convenient distance from Jerusalem, that his Father could not suddenly reach him.

10 ¶ But Absalom sent s spies throughout all the Tribes of Israel, saying, As soon as ye hear the sound of the trumpet t, then ye shall say, Absalom reigneth in Hebron.

s From Hebron. Or, had sent from Jerusalem, that when he went to Hebron, they should go into the several Tribes to stir the People, and to dispose them to Absalom's Party, and acquaint them with his success. t Which I shall take care to have sounded in several parts by other Persons; and when that is done, you shall inform them of the reason of it. Or, as soon as you understand that the Trumpet was sounded at Hebron; partly, to call the People together for my assistance; and partly, to celebrate my Inauguration to the Kingdom, which you shall speedily know by Messengers whom I shall send to you to that end.

11 And with Absalom went two hundred men out of Jerusalem, that were called u, and they went in their simplicity, and they knew not any thing x.

u Such as Absalom had pick'd out as fit for his purpose; such as were of some quality and reputation with the King and People, which would give a great countenance to his undertaking, and give occasion to People at first to think that this was done by his Father's consent or connivence, as being now aged, and infirm, and willing to resign the Kingdom to him, as his eldest Son, and the Noblest too, as being descended from a King by both Parents; and such as by their Wisdom and Interest in the People, might have done David much service in this needful time; yet such as were not very martial Men, nor likely with violence to oppose his proceedings. x Concerning Absalom's design.

y Who is thought to have been the Author, or, at least, the fomenter of this Rebellion; either, because he was discontented with David, for which there might be many reasons; or, because he saw the Father was old and nigh his end, and he thought it best policy to worship the rising Sun, and to follow the young Prince, whom he observed to have so great an Interest in the Hearts of the People, and whom he supposed he could easily manage as he pleased, which he could not do with David. z Which he did not in Devotion to God, for he neither feared God, nor reverenced Man; nor to implore God's favour and assistance against his Father, which he knew was a vain thing to expect; but meerly that upon this pretence he might call great numbers of the People together, whereof many would come to join with him in the worship of God, and most to partake of the Feasts which were made of the remainders of the Sacrifices, according to the manner.

13 ¶ And there came a messenger to David, saying, The hearts of the men of Israel are after Absalom a.

a The generality of the People are for him. Which is not strange, considering, either, first, David, whose many miscarriages had greatly lost him in the hearts of his People. Or, Secondly, The People, whose Temper is generally unstable, weary of old things, and desirous of changes, and apt to expect great benefits thereby. Or, Thirdly, Absalom, whose noble Birth, and singular Beauty, and most obliging Carriage, and ample Promises, had won the Peoples hearts, considering also that he was David's first-born, to whom the Kingdom of right belonged, and yet that David intended to give away his right to Solomon, which the People thought might prove the occasion of a civil and dreadful War, which hereby they designed to prevent. Or, Fourthly, The Just and Holy God, who ordered and over-ruled all these things for David's chastisement, and the instruction and terror of Sinners in all future Ages.

14 And David said unto all his servants, that were with him at Jerusalem, Arise, and let us flee b: for we shall not else escape from Absalom: make speed to depart, lest he overtake us suddenly, and † bring † Heb. evil upon us, and smite the city with the edge of the sword.

b For though the Fort of Zion was strong and impregnable, and he might have defended himself there; yet he had not laid in Provisions for a long Siege; and, if he had been once besieged there, Absalom would have got speedy and quiet possession of his whole Kingdom; whereas if he marched abroad, he might raise a considerable Army for his defence and the suppression of the Rebels. Besides, the greatest part of Jerusalem could not be well defended against him. And he suspected that a great number of the Citizens might take part with Absalom, and possibly deliver him up into Absalom's hands. Besides, if he had made that the Seat of the War, he feared the destruction of that City, which he vehemently desired to preserve, because it was the Chief and Royal City, and the place in which God had appointed to put his Name and Worship. Moreover, when David considered, that God's hand was now against him, and that he was now bringing evil upon him out of his own house, as he had threatned, chap. 12. 11. it is no wonder if he was intimidated and disposed to flee.

15 And the kings servants said unto the king, Behold, thy servants are ready to do whatsoever my lord † Heb. the king shall † appoint. chuse.

16 And * the king went forth, and all his houshold † after him c: and the king left ten women which were concubines d, to keep the house. * Psal. 3. title. † Heb. at his feet.

c Or, on foot, by comparing v. 30. which the King chose to do, rather than to ride; partly, to humble himself under the hand of God; partly, to encourage his Companions in this hard and comfortless March; and partly, to move Compassion in his People towards him. d For he supposed that their Sex would protect them even among Barbarians, and their relation to David would gain them some respect, and, at least, safety from his Son. But it seems he did not now actually consider that Clause of the threatning concerning his Wives, (God diverting his Mind to other things) or he thought that would be accomplished some other way, conceiving that Absalom would abhor the thoughts of such incestuous Converse, especially with Persons which were now grown in Years.

17 And the king went forth, and all the people after him, and tarried e in a place that was far off f.

e Either to rest and refresh themselves a little: or rather in expectation of others who should or would come after him, that they might march away in a considerable Body, which might both defend the King, and invite others to come in to their assistance. f At some convenient distance, but not very far.

18 And all his servants passed on beside him: and all the Cherethites, and all the Pelethites g, and all the Gittites h, six hundred men, which came after him from Gath, passed on before the king.

g Of whom see the notes on chap. 8. 18. h Who were either, first, Israelites by Birth, called Gittites, because they went with him to Gath, and abode with him in that Country. Or rather, Secondly, Strangers, as Ittai their head is called, v. 19. and they are called his Brethren, v. 20. and probably they were Philistines by Birth, born in the City or Territory of Gath, as the following words imply, who by David's Counsel, and Example, and the success of his Arms, were won to embrace and profess the true Religion, and had given good proof of their Military Skill, and Valour, and Fidelity to the King.

19 ¶ Then said the king to Ittai the Gittite, Wherefore goest thou also with us? return to thy place i, and k abide with the king l: for thou art a stranger, and also an exile m.

i Either, First, To thy native Country of Gath, where thou wilst be remote from our broils. Or, Secondly, To Jerusalem, where thy settled abode now is. k Or, or: for he could not both go to Gath, and tarry in Jerusalem with Absalom. Although this part of the Verse lies otherwise in the Hebrew Text, and may be rendred thus, Return (to wit, to Jerusalem) and abide with the King (there;) for thou art a stranger and exile from thy own place; or, in respect of thy own place, or, as concerning thy place, i.e. in regard of the place of thy birth and former habitation. l With Absalom, who is now made King by the choice of the People, and therefore is able to give thee that protection and encouragement which thou deservest; whereas I am in a manner deposed and unable to do for thee what I desired and intended. m Not much concerned in our affairs, and therefore not fit to be involved in our troubles.

20 Whereas thou camest but yesterday n, should I this day † make thee go up and down with us? seeing I go whither † I may o, return thou, and take back thy brethren p: * mercy and truth be with thee q. † Heb. make thee wander in going. * Heb. I go.

n By which it may be gathered, that these were not the Israelitish Soldiers which went with David to Gath, and came up with him from thence to Hebron, which was above thirty Years before this time, but some Proselytes which came from thence more lately. For though this word yesterday be sometimes used of a time long before past, as 2 Kings 9. 26. Job 8. 9. Isa. 30. 33. yet it seems to be here restrained to a shorter compass by the following words, and by the argument here used. o I know not whither; having now no certain dwelling place. p Thy Countrymen and Soldiers the Gittites, v. 18. q Since I am now unable to recompense thy kindness and fidelity to me, my hearty Prayer to God is, That he would shew to thee his Mercy, in Blessing thee with all sorts of Blessings, and his Faithfulness in making good all those Promises which he hath made, not to Israelites only, but in and with them to all true-hearted Proselytes, such as thou art.

21 And Ittai answered the king, and said, As the LORD liveth, and as my lord the king liveth, surely in what place my lord the king shall be, whether in death or life, even there also will thy servant be.

22 And David said to Ittai, Go and pass over. And Ittai the Gittite passed over, and all his men, and all the little ones that were with him r.

r For being so deeply engaged for David, he durst not leave his little ones to Absalom's Mercy.

23 And all the country f wept with a loud voice, and all the people passed over: the king also himself passed over the brook ‖ Kidron t, and all the people passed over toward the way of the wilderness u. ‖ Called, John 18. 1. Cedron.

f i.e. The generality of the People by whom they passed: for it must be considered, that Absalom's Friends and Partizans were gone to him to Hebron, and the rest of the People thereabouts were either well-willers to David, or at least moved with compassion at the sad and sudden change of so great and good a King, which was able to affect an heart of Stone. t Which was near Jerusalem. See Matth. 26. 36. John 18. 1. u Which was between Jerusalem and Jericho.

24 ¶ And lo, Zadok also, and all the Levites were with him, bearing the ark of the covenant of God x, and they set down the ark of God y: and Abiathar went up z, until all the people had done passing out of the city.

x As a pledge of God's presence and assistance, and that David might enquire at it upon occasion. y Either in expectation of drawing forth more People to David's Party, if not from their Loyalty to their Lawful King, yet from their Piety and Reverence to the Ark: or, that all the People might pass along, and the Ark might come in the rear of them for their safeguard and encouragement. z Either, 1. From the Ark which now was in the low ground, being near the Brook Cedron, to the top of the Mount of Olivet, whence he had the prospect of the City and Temple; as appears from Mark 13. 3. where he could discern when the People ceased to come out of the City after David; which when they did, he gave notice to David, that he should wait no longer, but march away and carry the Ark with him. Or, 2. From the Ark to the City, which was in an higher ground, that so he being High-Priest, might use his Authority and Interest with the People, to perswade them to do their duty, in going forth to defend and help their King against his Rebellious Son; and there he staid until all those whom he could perswade were gone forth.

25 And the king said unto Zadok, Carry back the Ark of God into the City a: if I shall find favour in the eyes of the LORD, he will bring me again, and shew me both it, and his habitation b.

a Partly, out of Care and Reverence to the Ark, which though sometimes it was, and might be carried out to a certain place; yet he might justly think unfit to carry it from place to place he knew not whither, and to expose it to all the hazards and inconveniences to which he himself was likely to be exposed: partly, out of respect to the Priests, whom, by this means, he thought he should expose to the Rage of Absalom, as he had before exposed them to Saul's Fury on another occasion, 1 Sam. 22. And partly, that by this means he might have the better opportunity to search out, and to Counter-work Absalom's Plots; which was so necessary, not only for himself, but for the defence and maintenance of the Ark, and all God's Ordinances, and of the true Religion. b i.e. The Tabernacle which David had lately built for it, Chap. 6. 17. in which the Ark, and God, by means thereof, ordinarily dwele. And hereby he insinuates another reason of his returning the Ark to Jerusalem, because there was the Tabernacle made for the receipt of it.

26 But if he thus say, I have no delight in thee c: behold, here am I, d let him do to me as seemeth good unto him.

c I will not receive thee into my Favour, nor restore thee to thy Throne and City, and to the enjoyment of my Ark and Ordinances. d Ready to obey him, and to submit to his Will and Pleasure concerning me.

27 The king said also unto Zadock the priest e, * Art not thou a Seer f? return into the city in peace * 1 Sa. 9. 9. See cha. 17. 17. g, and * your two sons with you, Ahimaaz thy son, and Jonathan the son of Abiathar.

e Either because Abiathar was gone from him, v. 24. and not yet returned: or because David put more confidence in Zadok, f i.e. Either, 1. A Prophet, for such were called Seers, 1 Sam. 9. 9. 2 Sam. 24. 11. Amos 7. 12. And such he may be called, either because he really had the gift of Prophecy: or, because as the name of Prophets is sometimes given to those who had not Prophetical Gifts, but were only Officers and Ministers devoted to, and employed in God's Worship and Service, as 1 Sam. 10. 5, &c. 1 Kings 18. 4, 13. Compare 1 Chron. 25. 1, 2, 3. So it it is reasonable, That the name of Seers be extended to the same Latitude; and therefore he may properly and fitly be called a Seer, as he was with, and under Abiathar the Chief Governour of the House and Worship of God; who, by his Office, was to instruct and direct the People in those matters, whereby he had many opportunities both of fitting out Absalom's Counsels, and of minding the People of their Duty to David, as he saw opportunity. Which fence suits well with David's Scope and Design. Or, 2, a seeing, or discerning, or observing Man: for so the Hebrew Verb raah is oft used. And this suits well with David's Mind: Thou art a wise Man, and therefore fit to manage this great business, which requires Prudence and Secresie. g As Men of Peace, giving over all thoughts of War, and devoting your selves entirely to God's Service.

28 See, I will tarry in the plain of the wilderness, until there come word from you to certifie me.

29 Zadok therefore and Abiathar carried the ark of God again to Jerusalem: and they tarried there.

30 And David went up by the ascent of mount Oliver, † and wept as he went up, and had his head covered, and he went bare foot b: and all the people that was with him, covered every man his head, and they went up weeping, as they went up. † Heb. and weeping.

h In Testimony of his deep Sorrow, and Humiliation and Shame for his Sins, whereby he had procured this Evil to himself: for these were the Habits of Mourners, 2 Sam. 19. 4. Esth. 6. 12. Isa. 20. 3, 4. Jer. 14. 3, 4. and to take an Holy Revenge upon himself for his former Delicacy and Luxury.

31 And ‖ one told David i, saying, Ahitophel is among the conspirators with Absalom. And David said, O LORD, I pray thee, turn the counsel of Ahitophel into foolishness k. ‖ Or, Paid told.

i Or, i Or, David told; i. e. David being hereof informed, acquaints his Friends and Followers with it, to stir them up to joyn with him, in the following Prayer against him. k Either infatuate him, that he may give foolish Counsel; or let his Counsel be rejected as foolish, or spoiled by the foolish execution of it.

32 And it came to pass that when David was come to the top of the mount where he worshipped God l, behold, Hushai * the Archite came to meet him, with his coat rent, and ashes upon his head:

l Looking towards Jerusalem where the Ark and Tabernacle was. Compare 1 Kings 8. 44, 48. Dan. 6. 10.

33 Unto whom David said, If thou passest on with me, then thou shalt be a burden unto me m.

Increasing my Charge, and Care, and Sorrow, for what may befall thee; and being but of little use to me: for it may seem he was an Old Man, and fitter for Counsel than for War.

34 But if thou return to the City, and say unto Absalom, I will be thy servant, O king: as I have ‖ Or, here- been thy fathers servant ‖ hitherto, so will I now also be thy servant n; then mayest thou for me defeat the counsel of Ahitophel. tofore.

n i.e. As faithful to thee, as I have been to thy Father; which he neither was, nor ought to be. And therefore, the profession of this was great dissimulation: And David's suggesting this crafty Counsel, may be reckon'd amongst his Errors: which, proceeding from a violent Temptation, and his present and pressing Straits, God was pleased mercifully to pardon and to direct this Evil Advice to a good End.

35 And hast thou not there with thee Zadok, and Abiathar the priests? therefore it shall be, that what thing soever thou shalt hear out of the kings house, thou shalt tell it to Zadok and Abiathar the priests.

* Ver. 27. 36 Behold, they have there * with them o their two sons, Ahimaaz Zadoks son, and Jonathan Abiathars son: and by them ye shall send unto me every thing that ye can hear.

o Not in Jerusalem, but in a place near to it, to which they could easily send upon occasion. See chap. 19. 17.

37 So Hushai Davids friend came unto the city, and Absalom came into Jerusalem.

CHAP. XVI.

Ziba by Presents and false Suggestions, obtaineth of David his Master's Inheritance, 1,——4. Shimei revileth and curseth David: Who restraineth Abishai from revenging it, 5,——14. Absalom cometh with Achitophel to Jerusalem: lieth with his Father's Concubines in the sight of all Israel, according to the Counsel of Ahitophel who was esteemed as an Oracle, 15,——23.

*Chap. 15. 23.

AND when David was a little past the top of the hill, behold, * Ziba a the servant of Mephi-

* Chap. 9. 2. bosheth met him with a couple of asses sadled, and upon them two hundred loaves of bread, and an hundred bunches of raisins, and an hundred of summer fruits, and a bottle b of wine.

a A Crafty Man; who being perswaded, that God would in due time appear for the Righteous Cause of so good a King, and scatter the Cloud which was now upon him, takes this occasion to make way for his future Advancement. b A large Bottle, or Vessel proportionable to the other Provisions.

2 And the king said unto Ziba, What meaneth thou by these? And Ziba said, The asses be for the kings houshold to ride on c, and the bread and summer fruit for the young men to eat, and the wine, that such as be faint in the wilderness may drink.

c For the King, and his Wives and Children were all on Foot; nor that he had not, or could not procure Asses for them at Jerusalem; but because he chose it as best becoming that State of Penitence and Humiliation in which they were.

3 And the king said, And where is thy masters son? And Ziba said unto the king, Behold, he abideth at Jerusalem: for he said, To day shall the house of Israel restore me the kingdom of my father d.

d Which though it might seem a very unlikely thing, yet such vain Expectations do often get into the Minds of Men; nor was it impossible, that when David's Family was thus divided, and one part ingaged against another, they might destroy themselves by mutual Wounds; and the People being tired out with Civil Wars, might restore the Kingdom to the Family of Saul their old Master, whereof this was the top-branch. And this was a time of general Defection of many whom the King had greatly obliged, witness Ahitophel. And Mephibosheth's absence made the Calumny more probable.

4 Then said the king to Ziba, Behold, thine are all that pertained unto Mephibosheth e. And Ziba † Heb. I do obeisance. said, † I humbly beseech thee that I may find grace in thy sight, my lord, O King f.

e A rash Sentence, and unrighteous, to condemn a Man unheard, upon the single Testimony of his Accuser, and Servant. But David's Mind was both clouded by the deep sense of his Calamity, and byassed by Ziba's great and seasonable kindness. And he might think, that Ziba would not dare to accuse his Master of so great a Crime, which, if false, might so easily be disproved. f Thy favour is more to me, than this gift; which, as a token of thy favour, I accept with all thankfulness.

5 And when king David came to Bahurim g, behold, thence came out a man of the family of the house of Saul, whose name was Shimei the son of Gera: ‖ he came forth, and cursed still as he came. ‖ Or, & fast as he went.

g A City in Benjamin, Chap. 3. 16. and 19. 16. i.e. To the Territory of it, for to the City he came not till v. 14.

6 And he cast stones k at David, and at all the cast. servants of king David: And all the people, and all the mighty men were on his right hand, and on his left i.

b Not so much to hurt them, as to shew his Contempt of them. i Which is noted to shew the Prodigious Madness of the Man: though Rage, (which is truly said to be a short Madness) and the height of Malice hath oft transported Men to the most hazardous and desperate Speeches and Actions.

7 And thus said Shimei when he cursed, Come out k, come out thou † bloody man, and thou man † Heb. of blood of Belial:

k Or rather, go out, as the Word properly signifies. Be gone out of thy Kingdom, as thou deservest.

8 The LORD hath returned upon thee all the blood of the house of Saul l, in whose stead thou hast reigned, and the LORD hath delivered the kingdom into the hand of Absalom thy son: and † behold, thou art taken in thy mischief m, because thou art a bloody man. † Heb. b Or, taken in thy evil

l Either, 1. The Blood of Abner and Ishbosheth; which he maliciously imputes to David, as if they had been killed by David's Contrivance: especially the former, because David did only give Joab hard Words, as in Policy he was obliged to do; but instead of Punishing him, did Reward and Preferr him. Or, 2. The Death of Saul's seven Sons, Chap. 21. 8. which, though related after this, seems to have been done before: Of which, see the Notes on Chap. 15. 7. m The same Mischief thou didst bring upon others, is now returned upon thy own head. Or, Thy Sin hath found thee out, and thou art now receiving the just Punishment of it.

9 Then said Abishai the son of Zeruiah unto the king, Why should this * dead dog curse my lord the * 1 Sam. king? let me go over, I pray thee, and take off his 24. 14. head. Chap 3. 8.

10 And the king said, What have I to do with you n, ye sons of Zeruiah? so let him curse, because the LORD hath said unto him o, Curse David. Who shall then say p, Wherefore hast thou done ‖ so? ‖ Or, let me alone.

n To wit, in this Matter I ask not your Advice, nor will I follow it; nor do I desire you should ac all concern your selves in it, but wholly leave it to me, to do what I think fit. o Not that God commanded it by his Word; for that severely forbids it, Exod. 22. 28. or moved him to it by his Spirit; for neither was that necessary, nor possible, because God tempteth no man, Jam. 1. 13. but that the secret Providence of God did order and over-rule him in it. God did not put any Wickedness into Shimei's Heart, for he had of himself an heart full of Malignity and Venome against David; but only left him to his own Wickedness; took away that common Prudence which would have kept him from so foolish and dangerous an Action; directed his Malice that it should be exercised against David, rather than another Man; as when God gives up one Traveller into the hands of a Robber, rather than another; inclined him to be at home, and then to come out of his doors at that time when David passed by him; and brought David into so distressed a condition, that he might seem a proper Object of his Scorn and Contempe. And this is ground enough for this Expression, the Lord said, not by the Word of his Precept, but by the Word of his Providence, in respect whereof he is said to command the Raven, 1 Kings 17. 4. and to send forth his Word and Commandment to senseless Creatures, Psal. 147. 15, 18. p Not unto Shimei, for it was justly said so to him afterwards, 1 Kings 2. 9. but unto the Lord: who shall reproach God's Providence for permitting this? Or, who shall by Words or Actions restrain him from executing God's just Judgment against me?

11 And David said to Abishai, and to all his servants, Behold, my son, which came forth of my bowels, seeketh my life q: how much more now may this Benjamite ‖ do it? let him alone, and let him curse r: for the LORD hath bidden him. ‖ Or, let me alone.

q Which is a greater Mischief, than to Reproach me with Words. ‖ Of that Tribe and Family from which God hath taken away the Kingdom, and given it to me; which was likely to stir up his Rage and Hatred against me. r Do not now hinder him violently from it, nor punish him for it. It is meet I should bear the Indignation of the Lord manifested herein, and submit to his Pleasure, and possess my Soul with Patience; and by bearing these lesser Evils, prepare my self for greater, which are coming towards me.

12 It may be s that the LORD will look on mine ‖ † affliction t, and that the LORD will re- ‖ Or, eye. † Heb. eye. quite me good for his cursing this day.

s He speaks doubtfully, because he was conscious, that by his Sins he had forfeited all his Claim to God's Promises. t With an Eye of Commiseration.

13 And as David and his men went by the way, Shimei went along on the hills side over against him, and and cursed as he went, and threw stones at him, and † Heb. walked him † cast dust u. with dust.

u Not that he could reach, or hurt him with it; but only as an expression of Contempt. And the like is to be thought concerning the Stones, wherewith he could not think to reach David, when he was Encamped with his Men on every side.

14 And the king, and all the people that were with him, came x weary, and refreshed themselves there.

x To the City of Bahurim, v. 5.

15 And Absalom and all the people, the men of Israel, came to Jerusalem, and Ahitophel with them.

16 And it came to pass when Hushai the Archite, Davids friend, was come unto Absalom, that Hushai said unto Absalom, † God save the king y, God save the king. † Heb. Let the king live.

y To wit, Absalom, whom he pretends to own for his King and Liege Lord.

17 And Absalom said to Hushai, Is this thy kindness to thy friend z? why wentest thou not with thy friend?

z Doth this Action answer that Profession of greatest Friendship which thou hast hitherto made to him? Dost thou thus requite his Favour and true Friendship to thee? He speaks thus only to try him. And he saith, thy Friend, by way of Reflection upon David; as one who was a Friend to Hushai, and to Strangers, but not to his own Son, whom, by his Severity and Design to give away his Right to Solomon, he provoked to this Course; and therefore he doth not vouchsafe to call him his Father.

18 And Hushai said unto Absalom, Nay, but whom the LORD, and this people, and all the men of Israel chuse a, his will I be, and with him will I abide.

a Though as a private Person, I owed and payed Friendship to David whilst he was King; yet I must make all my Obligations give place to the Authority of God, who putteth down, and setteth up Kings at his pleasure; and to the common Sence and Decree of the whole Body of the Nation. But Hushai expresseth himself very cautiously; for though he would be thought to understand Absalom, yet in truth this Character did not agree to him, whom neither God, nor all the People had chosen, but only a part, and that the worst part of them.

19 And again, whom should I serve? should I not serve in the presence of his son b? as I have served in thy fathers presence, so will I be in thy presence.

b Thou art his Son, and Heir, and Successor, and now in his place and stead: whereby my Friendship which was due to him, is devolved upon thee by Right of Inheritance; and I reckon, that my Friendship is not wholly alienated from him, when it is transferred upon one that came out of his Bowels.

20 Then said Absalom to Ahitophel, Give counsel among you what we shall do.

21 And Ahitophel said unto Absalom, Go in unto thy fathers concubines c, which he hath left to keep the house, and all Israel shall hear that thou † art abhorred of thy father d, then shall the hands of all that are with thee be strong e. † Heb. stinkest with thy father.

c This Counsel he gave, partly to Revenge the Injury done to Bathsheba, who was the Daughter of Eliam, 2 Sam. 11. 3. who was the son of Ahitophel, Chap. 23. 34. and principally for his own, and the People's safety, that the Breach between David and Absalom might be made wide, and irreparable by so Vile an Action, which must needs provoke David in the highest Degree, both for the Sin, and shame of it: as the like Action had done Jacob, Gen. 49. 3, 4. and cut off all hopes of Reconciliation, which otherwise might have been expected by some Treaty between Absalom and his tenderhearted Father; in which Case his Followers, and especially Ahitophel himself, had been left to David's Mercy. d And therefore obliged by thy own Interest to prosecute the War with all possible Vigour, and to abandon all thoughts of Peace: as knowing that his Father, though he might dissemble, yet would never forgive so foul and scandalous a Crime. e They will fight with greater Courage and Resolution, when they are freed from the fear of thy Reconciliation, which otherwise would make their Hearts faint, and Hands slack in thy Cause. But by this we may see the Character of Absalom's Party, and how abominably wicked they were, whom such a loathsome and scandalous Action tied the faster to him, whom for that very reason they should have deserted and abhorred. And we may further learn, how corrupt and filthy the Body of the People was, and how ripe for that severe Judgment which is now hastening to them.

22 So they spread Absalom a tent upon the top of the house f, and Absalom * went in unto his fathers * Chap. 12. 11. concubines g, in the sight of all Israel h.

f To wit, of the King's Palace, the very place from whence David had spied and gazed upon Bathsheba, chap. 11. 2. So that his Sin was legible in the very place of his Punishment. g i.e. To one, or some of them. And by so doing did further make Claim to the Kingdom as his own; and, as it were, take Possession of it. It being usual in the Eastern Countries to account the Wives and Concubines of the late King, to belong of right to the Successor; See the note on Chap. 12. 8. h Who saw him go into the Tent; and thence concluded, That he lay with them, as he had designed to do.

23 And the counsel of Ahitophel which he counselled in those days, was as if a man had enquired at the † oracle of God i: so was all the † Heb. counsel of Ahitophel, both with David k, and with word. Absalom.

i It was received by the People with equal Authority and Veneration, and was usually attended with as certain Success. Which is mentioned as the reason why a Counsel which had so ill a face, should meet with such general approbation. k To whose Pious Disposition he accommodated himself, as Policy obliged him; but being weary of it, he takes this first occasion to discover himself, and execute that Wickedness which before lay in his Heart.

CHAP. XVII.

Hushai, David's Friend, being, by David's Order, gone over to Absalom, by God's appointment, overthroweth Ahitophel's Counsel, 1,——14. Hushai certifieth David thereof, and adviseth him forthwith to march on, 15,——21. David passeth over Jordan, 22. Achitophel hangeth himself, 23. David cometh to Mahanaim: Absalom passeth over Jordan, making Amasa the Captain of his Host, 24,——26. David is there furnished with Provisions by his Friends, 27,——29.

MOreover, Ahitophel said unto Absalom, Let me now chuse out twelve thousand men, and I will arise and pursue a after David this night:

a I am so well assured of the goodness of this Counsel, that I will venture my own Person and Life in the execution of it.

2 And I will come upon him while he is weary and weak-handed, b and will make him afraid: and all the people that are with him shall flee, and I will smite the king only.

b Tired with a tedious March on Foot, and destitute of Men, and Military Provisions; and disheartned by his own small Numbers, and by the general defection of his Subjects.

3 And I will bring back all the people unto thee: the man whom thou seekest is as if all returned c: so all the people shall be in peace.

c i.e. The Death of that Man whom thou seekest to destroy, is no less considerable to thee, than if all the People that follow him should desert him, and return unto thee.

4 And the saying † pleased Absalom well, and all the † Heb. was right in the eyes of, &c. Elders of Israel.

5 Then said Absalom, Call now Hushai the Archite also, and let us hear likewise † what he saith d. † Heb.

d A wonderful Effect of Divine Providence, blinding his Mind, what is in his mouth. and influencing his Heart, that he could not rest in Ahitophel's Counsel, though it was so evidently Wise, and Good, and approved by the general consent of his whole Party; and that he should desire Hushai's Advice, though neither his Reputation for Wisdom was equal to Ahitophel's, nor had he yet given any one proof of his Fidelity to Absalom, as Ahitophel had done; nor was he so fixed by his Interest to him, as Ahitophel was; and though there wanted not just cause to suspect him, and his Counsel too. But there is no contending with that God who can Arm a Man against himself, and destroy him by his own Mistakes and Passions, without any other help.

6 And when Hushai was come to Absalom, Absalom spake unto him, saying, Ahitophel hath spoken after this manner: Shall we do after his † saying? if † Heb. Word. not, speak thou.

7 And Hushai said unto Absalom, The counsel that Ahithophel hath † given, is not good at this time e. † Heb. counselled.

e Though at other times he generally gives most wise and admirable Counsel; yet, as he is a Man, he seems now to be under a mistake, and not sufficiently to consider all the present Circumstances of this Business.

8 For (said Hushai) thou knowest thy father and his men, that they be mighty men f, and they be † † Heb. bitter of soul. chafed in their minds g, as * a bear robbed of her whelps in the field: and thy father is a man of war, b, and will not lodge with the people. *Hos. 13. 8.

f Of approved Courage and Strength, therefore not so soon vanquished as Ahitophel supposeth. g Heb. bitter of soul, inflamed with Rage; desperate, and therefore resolved to sell their Lives at a dear rate. b A wise Prince and General; who knowing of what Importance it is to secure his own Person, and that your great Design is against his Life; will doubtless use extraordinary care to keep out of your reach, which he may easily do.

9 Behold, he is hid now in some pit, or in some other place i: and it will come to pass, when some of them k be † overthrown at the first l, that whosoever † Heb. fallen. heareth it, will say m, There is a slaughter among the people that followeth Absalom.

i Having been oft accustomed to that course, and well acquainted with all hiding-places from Saul's time. In one of them, unknown to us, he will lurk with some of his chosen Men, and lie in Ambush for us; and, when they see a fit opportunity, they will suddenly come forth and surprize some of our Men, when they least expect it, and fall upon them with great fury, and probably will as first put them to flight. k To wit, of Absalom's Men sent against David. l Implying, that their good success at first would mightily animate David's Men to proceed vigorously in the fight, and intimidate Absalom's Army, and consequently would be both a presage and an occasion of their total defeat. m They who first hear these ill ill tidings will propagate it, and strike terror with it into the rest of the Army.

10 And he also that is valiant, whose heart is as the heart of a lion, shall utterly melt: for all Israel knoweth that thy father is a mighty man, and they which be with him are valiant men n.

n The known fame of the prodigious Valour of David and his followers will easily gain credit to that report, and strike the stoutest of our Men with dread, even Ahithophel himself, if he should go with them.

11 Therefore I counsel, that all Israel be generally gathered unto thee o, from Dan even to Beer-sheba, as the sand that is by the sea for multitude, and † that thou go to battel in thine own person p.

o His presence was, that they might have a far greater Army, and make sure, though slow work: his design was to gain David more time, that he might increase his Army, and make better provisions for the Battel; and that the present heat of the People might be cooled, and they might at last bethink themselves of their duty to David, and return to their former Allegiance. p For thy presence will put more Life and Courage into all thy Soldiers, who will be ambitious to shew their utmost Skill and Courage in defending thy Person and Cause, when they know that all their Actions are observed by him who hath the distribution of Rewards and Punishments in his hands. So mayest thou also give Counsel as occasion offers, and encourage thy men to kill David, which otherwise they may possibly be afraid to do. Besides, the glory of the Victory will be wholly thine, which now Ahithophel seeks to get to himself.

12 So shall we come upon him in some place where he shall be found, and we will light upon him as the dew falleth on the ground q: and of him, and of all the men that are with him, there shall not be left so much as one.

q i.e. Plentifully, suddenly, irresistibly, and on all sides; for so the Dew falls.

13 Moreover, if he be gotten into a city, then shall all Israel bring ropes to that city r, and we will draw it into the river s, until there be not one small stone found there.

r Not that they should do so, or that it was the Custom to do so; but it is an Hyperbolical and Thrasonical Expression, suited to the vain glorious temper of this insolent young Man; and therefore most likely to prevail with him: implying, that they would do so if they could not discover and destroy him another way: or, that they should be enough to do so, if there were occasion. s Adjoyning to the City; it being usual to build Cities near some River, both for defence, and for other accommodations.

14 And Absalom and all the men of Israel said t, The counsel of Hushai the Archite is better than the counsel of Ahithophel: for the LORD had † appointed to defeat the good counsel u of Ahithophel, to the intent that the LORD might bring evil upon Absalom.

t Being infatuated by a Divine Power, and given up to believe Lyes and Mistakes. u So it was, principally considered; being the wisest and most effectual course to accomplish Absalom's end.

15 ¶ Then said Hushai unto Zadok, and to Abiathar the priests, Thus and thus did Ahithophel counsel Absalom and the elders of Israel: and thus and thus have I counselled.

16 Now therefore send quickly, and tell David, saying, Lodge not this night in the plains of the wilderness x, but speedily pass over, lest the king be swallowed up, and all the people that are with him.

x Left the King's and People's Minds change, and Ahithophel, by his deep wit and great interest, persuade the King to follow his former advice, and to pursue you speedily.

17 Now Jonathan and Ahimaaz stayed by Enrogel y: (for they might not be seen to come into the city) and a wench z went and told them: and they went and told king David.

y Or, the Fullers well. A place near Jerusalem, Jos. 15. 7. and 18. 16. z Pretending to go thither to wash some Cloaths.

18 Nevertheless, a lad saw them a, and told Absalom, but they went both of them away quickly b, and came to a mans house in Bahurim, which had a well in his court, whither they went down c.

a Who knew them to be favourers of David, and observed them to wait there upon design, and to gain intelligence, and possibly saw the Wench speaking privately to them. b Suspecting by this Lads observation and Carriage, that they were discovered. c Either to come hole in the side of the Pit: or, to the bottom of the Pit, it being then dry, as Pits often were in those hot Countries. And this being in so open a place, they concluded none would imagine them to be hid there. And besides, they relied upon God's good Providence, which they knew watched over David, and them for his sake.

19 And the woman took and spread a covering over the wells mouth, and spread ground corn thereon ∴, and the thing was not known.

∴ Under pretence of drying it by the Sun: which shews it was Summer-time.

20 And when Absaloms servants came to the woman to the house, they said, Where is Ahimaaz and Jonathan? And the woman said unto them, They be gone over the brook of water d. And when they had sought, and could not find them, they returned to Jerusalem.

d i.e. Over Jordan. This was a manifest Lye; but because it was spoken for no hurt, but good only, many Persons in those times conceived such Lyes to be lawful. Compare Exod. 1. 19. Jos. 2. 4, 5. But although God was pleased to overlook and pardon the sin, and graciously to reward the good intention which accompanied them; yet it is certain that all kinds of Lyes are moral Evils, and condemned by plain Scriptures, and that we must not do evil that good may come, nor tell a lye for Gods glory, Rom. 3. 7, 8.

21 And it came to pass, after they were departed, that they came up out of the well, and went and told king David, and said unto David, Arise, and pass quickly over the water: for thus hath Ahithophel counselled against you.

22 Then David arose, and all the people that were with him, and they passed over Jordan e: by the morning-light, there lacked not one of them that was not gone over Jordan.

e Either at the Ford, or in Boats.

23 ¶ And when Ahithophel saw that his counsel was not † followed, he saddled his asse, and arose, and † Heb. saw gate him home to his house, to his city, and † put † Heb. executing his houshold in order f, and hanged himself g, and died, and was buried in the sepulchre of his father.

f Disposed of his Estate by Will. Compare Isa. 38. 1. g Partly, because he could not indure to outlive his disgrace, and the rejection of his Counsel: and partly, because he foresaw by this means David would gain time and strength, and in all probability be Victorious, and then the storm would fall most heavily upon his head, as the main Author and Pillar of the Rebellion, and the contriver of those two pernicious Counsels above-mentioned.

24 Then David came to Mahanaim h: and Absalom passed over Jordan i, and all the men of Israel with him.

h A place in the Country of Gilead, bordering upon the Land of the Ammonites, v. 27. See Gen. 32. 2. and 2 Sam. 2. 8. i Not speedily, but when all the men of Israel were gathered together according to Hushai's Counsel, who are said to be with him here, as it follows.

25 ¶ And Absalom made Amasa captain of the host instead of Joab: which Amasa was a mans son whose name was Ithra, an Israelite k, that went in to Abigail l the daughter of Nahash m, sister to Zeruiah, Joabs mother.

k Obj. He was an Ishmaelite, 1 Chron 2. 17. Ans. Not Amasa; but Ithra, or Jether, Amasa's Father, is there so called, because he was such, either by his Birth from such Parents, or by his long habitation among them, or for some other reason now unknown. Compare 2 Sam. 15. 18. And Amasa is here called an Israelite, either, because he was a Proselyte: or, in opposition to Joab, who was of the Tribe of Judah, as Amasa was of one of the ten Tribes: or rather, to intimate, that although he or his Parents were called Ishmaelites for some reason, yet as to their extraction they were indeed Israelites. Which if Amasa had not been, it is not probable that he could have had so powerful an influence upon the Tribe of Judah, as he had, chap. 19. 14. l i.e. Lay with her, whether being first Married to her, or not, is uncertain. m Nahash is either another name of Jesse: or rather, the name of Jesse's Wife, by whom he had this Abigail, as he had Zeruiah by another Wife; so they were sisters by the Father, but not by the Mother; and Nahash is here named to signifie so much.

26 So Israel and Absalom pitched in the land of Gilead.

27 ¶ And it came to pass when David was come to Nahanaim, that Shobi the son of Nahash of Rabbah of the children of Ammon n, and * Machir the son of Ammiel of Lodebar o, and * Barzillai the Gileadite, of Rogelim,

* Chap. 19. 31. * Chap. 17. 27.

n Who, as it may seem, disliked and disowned that barbarous action to the Embassadors; and therefore, when the rest were destroyed, was left King or Governour of the residue of the Ammonites. o See above chap. 9. 4.

28 Brought beds, and ‖ basins p, and earthen vessels, ‖ Or, pots and wheat, and barley, and flour, and parched corn, and beans, and lentiles, and parched pulse.

p i.e. All sorts of Houshold-stuff, as well as other provisions, all which David now wanted.

29 And honey, and butter, and sheep, and cheese of kine for David, and for the people that were with him, to eat: for they said, The people is hungry, and weary, and thirsty in the wilderness q.

q i.e. Having been in the wilderness. Which is an easie and common Ellipsis. Or, because of (to the Hebrew Particle beth is oft used) the Wilderness, which they have passed thorough, in which Provisions are very scarce.

CHAP.

CHAP. XVIII.

David viewing the Armies in their March, giveth them charge of Absalom, 1,——5. whose Men are smitten: He hanging by his Hair on an Oak, is slain by Joab, and cast into a Pit: His Pillar and Monument, 6,——18. David hearing hereof, 19,——32. Mourneth for Absalom, 33.

AND David numbred the people that were with him a, and set captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds over them.

a Which flocked to him thither, so as to make up a small Army.

2 And David sent forth a third part of the people under the hand of Joab b, and a third part under the hand of Abishai the son of Zeruiah Joabs brother, and a third part under the hand of Ittai the Gittite: and the king said unto the people, I will surely go forth with you my self also c.

b To wit, for his especial conduct and management in the Battel: otherwise Joab was the General of all the Forces; nor had David yet taken away that Power from him, nor was this a time to do it. But such distributions of Forces are usual in Battels. c That by my presence I may put life and courage into my Soldiers; and because it is fit I should run the same hazards with you, which you do for my sake.

3 But * the people answered, Thou shalt not go forth d: for if we flee away, they will not † care for us; neither if half of us die, will they care for us: but now thou art † worth ten thousand of us e: therefore now it is better that thou † succour us out of the city f.

* Chap. 21. 17. † Heb. in their heart on us. † Heb. as ten thousand of us. † Heb. be in succour.

d For this was Absalom's great error, into which he was drawn by a Divine infatuation, and by Hushai's craft to go to Battel in his own Person, which was the utter ruin of him and of his Cause. e Not only for the Dignity of thy Person, but also for the importance of our common cause and concern, which, if thou are slain, is irrecoverably lost. f By sending us Supplies of Men, and Provisions of all sorts, as we have occasion; and by securing our retreat, if we be defeated. Or thus: not go along to the Battel with us, but only go out with us, or accompany us out of the City (to encourage the Company) and then retire for thy own safety. And so it seems by the next Verse.

4 And the king said unto them, What seemeth you best, I will do. And the king stood by the gate-side g, and all the people came out by hundreds, and by thousands.

g i.e. Between the two Gates of the City, as it is expressed below, v. 24.

5 And the king commanded Joab, and Abishai, and Ittai, saying, Deal gently for my sake with the young man, even with Absalom h. And all the people i heard when the king gave all the captains charge concerning Absalom.

h If you Conquer (which he presaged they would by God's gracious Answer to his Prayer for the turning of Ahithophel's Counsel into foolishness), take him Prisoner, but do not kill him. Which desire proceeded, partly, from his great Indulgence towards his Children: partly, from David's Consciousness that he himself was the meritorious and procuring cause of this Rebellion, Absalom being given up to it for the punishment of David's sins; and therefore did indeed deserve some pity from him: partly, from the consideration of his Youth, which commonly makes Men foolish, and heady, and violent, and subject to ill Counsels: And partly, from his Piety, being loth that he should be cut off in the act of his sin without any space, or means for repentance, whereby both his Soul and Body would be in danger to perish for ever. i To wit, the Citizens and others who stood with the King in the Gate when the Army marched forth.

6 ¶ So the people went out into the field against Israel: and the battel was in the wood of Ephraim k.

k So called, not from its situation in the Tribe of Ephraim, which was on the other side Jordan, as is evident; but from some memorable action or occurrent of the Ephraimites beyond Jordan; whether it was their killing of Oreb and Zeeb there, Judg. 7. 25. and 8. 3. or, their slaughter by Jephthah, Judg. 12. 5, 6. or, some other not mentioned in Sacred Scripture.

7 Where the people of Israel l were slain before the servants of David, and there was there a great slaughter that day of twenty thousand men.

l i.e. The Soldiers of Absalom; so called, partly, to note that all Israel (some few excepted) were engaged in this Rebellion, which made David's deliverance more glorious and remarkable: and partly, in opposition to David's Men, who, as to the main Body, or most considerable part, were of the Tribe of Judah, or had followed him from Judah.

8 For the battel was there scattered m over the face of all the country: and the * wood † devoured more people n that day than the sword devoured o.

* Isa. 5. 9. † Heb. multiplied to devour.

m i.e. The Warriers being beaten in the fight, fled and were dispersed: the abstract being put for the concrete, as poverty is put for poor men, 2 Kings 24. 14. and deceit for the deceiver, and dreams for dreamers, Prov. 12. 24. and 13. 6. n i.e. More People died in the Wood, either through hunger, and thirst, and weariness: or, by the wild Beasts, whereof great numbers were there, which, though they were driven away by noise and clamour from the place of the main Battel, yet might easily meet with them when they fled several ways, which also might be directed and sent to them by God's Providence, and just Judgment to punish them for their Rebellion: or, by falling into Ditches and Pits, which were in that place, v. 17. and probably were covered with Grass or Wood, so as they could not see them till they fell into them: or, by being hanged in Trees, as Absalom was, v. 9. and especially by David's Men, who pursued them, and killed them in the Wood: and the Wood is rightly said to have devoured them, because it gave the occasion to their destruction, inasmuch as the Trees, and Ditches, and Pits, entangled them, and stopped their flight, and made them an easie prey to David's Men, who followed them, and slew them in the pursuit, being therein directed and assisted by the People of that Country, who, after the manner, fell in with the victorious side; o To wit, in the main Battel: the Sword being put for the Battel, by a common Metonymy.

9 ¶ And Absalom met the servants of David p; and Absalom rode upon a mule, and the mule went under the thick boughs of a great oak, and his head caught hold of the oak q, and he was taken up between the heaven and the earth, and the mule that was under him went away r.

p Who, according to David's Command, spared him, and gave him an opportunity to escape. q In which probably he was entangled by the hair of the head, which being very long and thick, might easily catch hold of a Bough, especially when the great God directed it. Either he wore no Helmet, or his Helmet was such as left much of his Hair visible; or he had thrown away his Helmet as well as his other Arms, to hasten his flight, or because of the heat of the season. Thus the matter of his Pride was the instrument of his Ruine, as also Asahel's swiftness, chap. 2. 18. and Ahithophel's Policy, chap. 17. 23. were the occasions of their destruction. r Which might easily happen, because being in flight the Mule passed along very swiftly.

10 And a certain man saw it, and told Joab, and said, Behold, I saw Absalom hanged in an oak.

11 And Joab said unto the man that told him, And behold, thou sawest him, and why didst thou not smite him there to the ground s, and I would have given thee ten shekels of silver, and a girdle t?

s Why didst thou not smite him down from the Oak, and with thy Spear nail him to the ground? t A Military Belt of more than ordinary price, as a testimony of thy Valour and good Service. See on 1 Sam. 18. 4.

12 And the man said unto Joab, Though I should † receive a thousand shekels of silver in mine hand, yet would not I put forth mine hand against the kings son: for in our hearing the king charged thee, and Abishai, and Ittai, saying, † Beware that none touch the young man ∴ Absalom.

∴ Or, take heed what (for so the Hebrew Pronoun mi, is sometimes used, as Judg. 13. 17.) ye do with the young man. He expresseth David's sense, though not his words.

13 Otherwise I should have wrought falshood against mine own life t: for there is no matter hid from the king u, and thou thy self wouldest have set thy self against me ∴.

t Either, First, I should have been guilty of false and perfidious dealing against the King's express Injunction, and that with the manifest hazard of my own Life. Or, Secondly, I should have betray'd my own Life. I should not only have deceived my self with false hopes, either of concealing my Fact from the King, or of obtaining a Reward, yea, or a Pardon, from him or thee for it, but also have destroyed my self thereby, and laid a plot against my own Life. u This, as all other things, would certainly come to the King's ear. ∴ Thou wouldst have been my Adversary and Accuser; partly, because it was thy duty to be so; and partly, to vindicate thy self by casting the blame upon another. Or, thou wouldst have stood afar off, as this Phrase is used, Psal. 38 11. Thou wouldst not have stood to me to intercede for my Life or Reward, but wouldst keep at a distance from me.

14 Then said Joab, I may not tarry thus † with thee v. And he took three darts in his hand, and thrust them through the heart ∴ of Absalom, while he was yet alive a in the † midst of the oak.

v I must not lose time in contending with thee till I let the occasion slip. ∴ Not properly so called, for he was yet alive after these wounds, and was slain, ver. 15. but through his middle, as the word heart is oft used, as Psal. 46. 2. and that too, not exactly, but more largely understood, as Deut. 4. 11. Ezek. 27. 4. Matth. 12. 40. or through his Body: which might be, and yet the wounds not mortal. a Or, yet he continued alive, i.e. the Darts did not dispatch him, and therefore they smite him again, and kill him, v. 15.

15 And ten young men that bare Joabs armour, compassed about, and smote Absalom, and slew him b.

b Judging that there could be no safety to the King, nor peace to the Kingdom, nor security to himself, and all David's Friends, and Loyal Subjects, and good Men, if Absalom had lived, as may seem probable from chap. 19. 10. and yet perceiving that the King's heart was reconcilable to Absalom, notwithstanding his abominable Crimes of lying with his Father's Concubines, and of horrid and unnatural Rebellion; both which were capital Crimes by the Law of God; he adventured to save David's Life against his Will. But whether Joab did well in this, all things considered I shall not here determine.

18 And Joab blew the trumpet, and the people returned from pursuing after Israel: for Joab held back the people c.

c Who otherwise were highly incensed against the Rebels, and hotly pursued them. But, the head of the Rebellion being cut off, and the danger thereby past, he puts a stop to the effusion of Israelitish blood.

17 And they took Absalom, and cast him into a great pit in the wood, and laid a very great heap of stones upon him d: and all Israel fled every one to his tent e.

d As a lasting monument of Absalom's sin and shame, and of the Righteous Judgment of God upon him. Compare Jos. 7. 26. and 8. 29. and 10. 27. He was first hanged, after a sort, which was an accursed death, Deut. 21. 23. and then thrust through with Darts and Swords; and, after all, in a manner stoned, which was the proper punishment of a Rebellious Son, Deut. 21. 21. e To their houses and dwellings, to avoid the shame and punishment of their Rebellion.

18 ¶ Now Absalom in his life time had taken and reared up for himself a pillar f, which is in * the kings dale g: for he said, I have no son to keep my name in remembrance h: and he called the pillar after his own name, and it is called unto this day, Absaloms place i.

* Gen. 14. 17.

f To preserve his name in memory; whereas it had been more for his honour if his name had been buried in perpetual oblivion But this was the effect of his pride and vain-glory. g A place near Jerusalem so called. Genesis 14. 17. h Object. He had three sons, Chap. 14. 27. Anſ. Either they were all now dead; or, if one of them was left alive, he thought him unfit and unworthy to keep up his name and honour; or, he erected this Pillar before his Sons were born. But the first opinion seems most probable; and it was a remarkable Judgment of God, that he who struck at his Father's life, should be punished with the death of all his Sons. i Heb. Absalom's hand, i.e. his work, made, though not by his hand, yet for him and his glory, and by his procurement.

19 ¶ Then said Ahimaaz the son of Zadok, Let me now run, and bear the king tidings, how that the LORD hath † avenged himself of his enemies.

† Heb. judged him from the hand of, &c.

20 And Joab said unto him, Thou shalt not † bear tidings this day, but thou shalt bear tidings another day: but this day thou shalt bear no tidings, because the kings son is dead k.

k And thou shalt not be a Messenger of Evil tidings, which will be unwelcome to him, and prejudicial to thee.

21 Then said Joab to Cushi l, Go tell the king what thou hast seen. And Cushi bowed himself unto Joab, and ran.

l Or, to an Ethiopian; so he might be by birth, and yet by profession an Israelite.

22 Then said Ahimaaz the son of Zadok yet again to Joab, But † howsoever, let me, I pray thee, also run after Cushi. And Joab said, Wherefore wilt thou run, my son m, seeing that thou hast no tidings ‖ ready?

‖ Or, convenient, or, sufficient, Numb. 11. 22.

m So he calls him with respect both to his younger years, and to that true and tender affection which he had for him.

23 But howsoever (said he) let me run. And he said unto him, Run. Then Ahimaaz ran by the way of the plain n, and over-ran Cushi.

n Which was the smoother and easier, though the longer way.

24 And David sate between the two gates o: and the watchmen went up to the roof over the gate unto the wall p, and lift up his eyes, and looked, and behold, a man running alone.

o For the Gates of the Cities then were, as now they are large and thick; and for the greater security, had two Gates, one more outward, the other inward. Here he sate, that he might hear tidings when any came into the City. p Unto the top of the Wall or Tower upon the Gate, where watchmen used to watch. Compare 2 Kings 9 17. Ezek 33 2.

25 And the watchmen cried, and told the king. And the king said, If he be alone there is tidings in his mouth q. And he came apace, and drew near.

q He is sent with some special Message: which was a very probable conjecture: for if he had run or fled from the Enemy, many others would have followed him.

26 And the watchman saw another man running, and the watchman called unto the porter, and said, Behold, another man running alone. And the king said, He also bringeth tidings.

27 And the watchman said, † Methinketh the running of the foremost, is like the running of Ahimaaz the son of Zadok. And the king said, He is a good man, and cometh with good tidings r.

r He loves me well, and therefore would not afflict me with Evil tidings.

28 And Ahimaaz called and said unto the king, ‖ † All is well. And he fell down to the earth upon his face before the king, and said, Blessed be the LORD thy God, which hath † delivered up † the men that lift up their hand against my lord the king.

‖ Or, Peace be to thee. † Heb. Peace.

† Heb. shut up.

s Into thy hand and power; or, to destruction. Compare 1 Sam. 24. 19. and 26. 8.

29 And the king said, † Is the young man Absalom safe? And Ahimaaz answered, When Joab sent the kings servant s, and me thy servant, I saw a great tumult, but I knew not what it was t.

† Heb. Is there peace?

t Cushi. † He seems to tell an untruth, as is evident from v. 20. because he now plainly perceived what Joab foretold him, that such tidings would be very unwelcome to David. But he made a bad choice, to offend God with a lye, rather than to displease the King with a truth. Yet thus far it might be true; that though he had reason to think Absalom was dead, yet was not able to give account of the particulars which concerned it, wherewith Cushi was instructed.

30 And the king said unto him, Turn aside, and stand here. And he turned aside, and stood still.

31 And behold, Cushi came, and Cushi said, † Tidings my lord the king: for the LORD hath avenged thee this day of all them that rose up against thee.

32 And the king said unto Cushi, Is the young man Absalom safe? And Cushi answered, The enemies of my lord the king, and all that rise up against thee to do thee hurt, be as that young man is u.

u May they perish and be cut off, as he is.

33 ¶ And the king was much moved, and went up to the chamber over the gate x, and wept: and as he went, thus he said, O my son Absalom, my son, my son Absalom: would God I had died for thee, O Absalom, my son, my son y.

x Retiring himself from all Men and Business, that he might wholly give up himself to lamentation. y This he might speak from a deep sense of his Eternal State, because he died in his sins, without the least testimony of repentance, and because David himself had by his own sins been the unhappy instrument and occasion of his Sons death.

CHAP. XIX.

Joab by hard words moveth the King to cease his mourning, and shew himself to the People, 1,——8. The King is brought back by the men of Judah: And Amasa put in Joab's place, 9,——14. Shimei sueth for mercy, and obtaineth it, 16,——23. Mephibosheth meeting the King, recovers half his Estate, 24,——30. Barzillai is dismissed: Chimham his Son is taken into the King's Family, 31,——40. The Israelites expostulate with Judah for bringing home the King without them, 41,——43.

AND it was told Joab a, Behold, the king weepeth and mourneth for Absalom.

a By his Messengers, upon their return.

2 And the † victory that day was turned into mourning, unto all the people: for the people heard † Heb. sa- vation, or, deliverance say that day, how the king was grieved for his son.

3 And the people gat them by stealth that day into the city b, as people being ashamed steal away when they flee in battel.

b Not openly, and orderly, and triumphantly, as Conquerors use to do; but secretly, and disorderly, and asunder, as if they were afraid and ashamed, left David should see them, and look upon them with an evil eye, as those that had an hand in the killing of his dearly beloved Son.

4 But the king covered his face c, and the king cried with a loud voice, O my son Absalom, O Absalom, my son, my son.

c As a deep mourner, as one that desired neither to see, nor to be seen by any others.

5 And Joab came into the house d to the king, and said, Thou hast shamed this day the faces of all thy servants e, which this day have saved thy life, and the lives of thy sons, and of thy daughters, and the lives of thy wives, and the lives of thy concubines f, d Either the Gate-house: or, his now dwelling-house in the City: to which he was retired, that he might more freely indulge himself in the expressions of his Grief. e By disappointing their just hopes of Praises and Rewards, and by requiting them with Contempt and tacit Rebukes. f All which Absalom struck at, and had sooner or later actually taken away, if he had not been cut off in such a manner, without expecting thy knowledge or consent: and therefore thy carriage towards them that have saved the lives of thee and thine, with the utmost hazard of their own, is highly unjust and ungrateful.

6 † In that thou loveſt thine enemies, and hateſt thy friends; for thou haſt declared this day, † that thou regardeſt neither princes, nor ſervants: for this day I perceive, that if Abſalom had lived, and all we had died this day, then it had pleaſed thee well g.

g This is not to be underſtood as exactly true in the rigour of it; but only comparitively and hyperbolically ſpoken. For David deſired their preſervation and Abſalom's too: but it muſt be conſidered, that Joab was now in an high tranſport of Paſſion, which might eaſily hurry him into indecent expreſſions; and that David's carriage gave too much colour to ſuch a ſuggeſtion; and that ſuch ſharpneſs of ſpeech was in a manner neceſſary to awaken the King out of his Lethargy, and to preſerve him from the impendent Miſchiefs.

7 Now therefore ariſe, go forth, and ſpeak † comfortably unto thy ſervants: for I ſwear by the LORD h, if thou go not forth i, there will not tarry one with thee this night k, and that will be worſe unto thee than all the evil that befel thee from thy youth until now.

h This Oath was either aſſertory of what he believed might in reaſon be expected, as likely in great meaſure to come to paſs; or elſe promiſſory; or rather, minatory of what he by his influence could and would effect; and if ſo, it was much more than became him to ſay to his Sovereign; and could only be excuſed by the circumſtances which at this time might make it ſeem neceſſary: For David was indeed to blame in taking no more notice of their good ſervice (however Joab might be faulty alſo in diſobeying the Kings expreſs Command as to Abſalom's Perſon); and great reaſon there was that David, as Joab did now adviſe, ſhould ſhew himſelf leſs diſpleaſed to the People, who had expoſed their Lives to preſerve him and his. i To the Gate, to ſhew thy ſelf to thy People, and kindly and thankfully to acknowledge the good ſervice that they have now done thee. k The hearts of all thy People will forthwith be irrecoverably alienated from thee, and they will look out for ſome other Perſon on whom they may ſee the Crown.

8 Then the king roſe, and ſate in the gate l: and they told unto all the people, ſaying, Behold, the king doth ſit in the gate: and all the people came before the king m: for Iſrael had fled every man to his tent.

l He was come forth out of his retirement, and appeared in public, on the Seat of Judgment, at the Gate of the City, to receive the Addreſſes of his People, and mind the Affairs of the Kingdom. m To congratulate him for the Victory, and to profeſs their ſubjection to him. So Joab's Speech, though very ſevere and preſumptuous, was, it ſeems, a word in ſeaſon, and had that good effect which he deſigned.

9 ¶ And all the people were at ſtrife n throughout all the tribes of Iſrael, ſaying o, The king ſaved us out of the hand of our enemies, and he delivered us out of the hand of the Philiſtines, and now he is fled out of the land for Abſalom p.

n Quarrelling one with another as the Authors or Abettors of this ſhameful and curſed Rebellion. o Diſcourſing privately and publickly of David's high Merits, which God, being now reconciled to David, brings afreſh to their Memories, and reneweth the ſenſe of their obligations to their King, which they had lately ſhaken off. Thus the Crowns of Kings fit faſter or looſer upon their heads, as God is pleaſed to diſpoſe of the Thoughts and Hearts of their People, which he can turn in an inſtant which way he will. p Now we come to reflect upon our own Actions, we are ſenſible of our folly and unworthineſs in adhering to Abſalom, and thereby forcing David to fly out of the Land of Canaan, to the parts beyond Jordan for his ſecurity.

10 And Abſalom whom we anointed q over us, is dead in battel r: now therefore why † ſpeak ye not a word ſ of bringing the king back?

q i.e. Cauſed to be Anointed by Zadok, or Abiathar, or ſome other of the Prieſts, whom they perſuaded or conſtrained to do this office: for this being a Sacred Ceremony, of a great Reputation, and a likely means to gain the more authority and veneration from the People to Abſalom, as one whom God by his Vicegerent had conſtituted and ſet up; and this Rite being uſual upon all tranſlations of the Government from one Perſon to another in an extraordinary way, as this confeſſedly was, it is not likely that they would now omit it: though otherwiſe Anointing is frequently put for deſigning or conſtituting. r And therefore we have no obligation to him, and no hope of any thing from him. ſ The People of Iſrael ſpeak thus to the Elders of Iſrael, as appears by comparing this Verſe with the next. Seeing their deſigns for Abſalom diſappointed, they now repented of that undertaking, and were willing to teſtifie ſo much by their forwardneſs to bring back David, and re-eſtabliſh him.

11 ¶ And king David ſent to Zadok, and to Abiathar the prieſts, ſaying, Speak unto the elders of Judah t, ſaying, Why are ye the laſt to bring the king back to his houſe u? (ſeeing the ſpeech of all Iſrael is come to the king, even to his houſe x).

t Who being the firſt and chief Abettors of Abſalom's Rebellion, deſpaired of ever obtaining the King's Grace and Pardon, and therefore were backward to promote the King's Reſtauration. u To his Royal Palace at Jeruſalem. x i.e. Even to Mahanaim, where now the King's Houſe and Family is. Thus ſometimes one word is taken in divers ſenſes in the ſame Verſe, as Matth. 8. 22. Or rather thus: About bringing the King back to his houſe: For, Firſt, Thoſe words are very fitly and eaſily underſtood here, out of the foregoing member of the Verſe; ſuch defects being uſual in the Hebrew, which is a very conciſe or ſhort Language. So it is Exod. 22. 15. and Deut. 1. 2, &c. Secondly, It ſeems moſt reaſonable to underſtand the ſame Phraſe, to his houſe, being twice here uſed in the ſame ſence in both places, to wit, of his Houſe in Jeruſalem: and this is moſt agreeable to Rule, and to Scripture-uſage. Thirdly, Thus the words have more Emphaſis than the other way: For if the Speech came to the King at Mahanaim, it matters not whether it found him in his Houſe there, or in the Gate-houſe, or in the Field. Fourthly, David had no Houſe in Mahanaim, which could properly be called his houſe; as he had in Jeruſalem. And then the Parenthеſis ſhould cloſe before thoſe laſt words; even to his houſe, or even to his own houſe, to wit, that at Jeruſalem.

12 Ye are my brethren, ye are my bones and my fleſh y: wherefore then are ye the laſt to bring back the king z?

y Of the ſame Tribe, and ſome of you of the ſame Family with my ſelf; and therefore if I ſhould revenge my ſelf of you, which perhaps you may fear I will do when I have fully regained my power, I ſhould but tear my own Fleſh in pieces, and hare my own Body, which Nature and intereſt obligeth every Man to preſerve. z This delay doth not ſuit with the relation you have, and the affection you owe to me.

13 And ſay ye to Amaſa a, Art thou not * of my bone, and of my fleſh b? God do ſo to me, and more alſo, if thou be not captain of the hoſt before me c continually, in the room of Joab d.

* Chap. 17. 25.

a Abſalom's late General; who judging his caſe, above all others, deſperate, might be ready to uſe all his Intereſt with that Tribe, to delay or hinder the King's return. b i e. My near Kinſman, my Nephew. See 1 Chron. 2. 16, 17. c i e. In my preſence; or, now whilſt I live; leſt he ſhould think he promiſed him only the reverſion of it. d Who, beſides his other Crimes, had lately exaſperated the King by his wilful Murther of Abſalom, contrary to David's expreſs Command; and by his inſolent Carriage towards him. And therefore the King having now the opportunity of another Perſon who had a greater Intereſt both in Judah and Iſrael than Joab, he gladly complies with it, that ſo he might both chaſtiſe Joab for his faults, and reſcue himſelf from the Bondage in which Joab had hitherto held him. Yet it is not neceſſary, from thoſe words in the room of Joab, to conclude that Joab was to be diſplaced to make room for Amaſa; but that he might be in like condition with Joab: But, what follows in the next Chapter, makes very probable that he was indeed diſplaced, and Amaſa put in his place.

14 And he e bowed the heart of all the men of Judah, * even as the heart of one man, ſo that they ſent this word unto the king, Return thou and all thy ſervants.

e Either, Firſt, Amaſa by his great influence upon them. Or, rather, Secondly, David by this prudent and kind Meſſage, and his free offer of pardon and favour to them, as if they had never offended.

15 So the king returned, and came to Jordan: and Judah came to Gilgal, to go to meet the king, to conduct the king over Jordan f.

f To attend upon the King in his paſſage over Jordan, and to furniſh him with conveniencies for his paſſage and journey. See below, ver. 41, 42.

16 ¶ And * Shimei, the ſon of Gera, a Benjamite, which was of Bahurim, haſted and came down with the men of Judah, to meet king David.

* Chap. 16. 5. 1 Kin. 2. 8.

17 And there were a thouſand men of Benjamin with him g, and * Ziba the ſervant of the houſe of Saul h, and his fifteen ſons, and his twenty ſervants with him, and they went over Jordan before the king i.

* Chap. 16. 1.

g Whom he brought, partly to ſhew his power and intereſt in the People, whereby he was able to do David either great ſervice, or great diſſervice: and partly, as Interceſſors on his behalf, and as witneſſes of David's clemency or ſeverity, that in him they might ſee what the reſt of them might expect. h Who, being conſcious of his former abuſe of David, and of his Maſter Mephibosheth; which he knew the King would underſtand, deſigned to ſweeten David's Spirit towards him, by his great officiouſneſs and forwardneſs in meeting him, and congratulating his return. i They did not tarry on this ſide Jordan waiting till the King came over, as the moſt of the men of Judah did; but went over Jordan to pay their reſpects and duty to the King there, to expreſs their eager and impatient deſire to ſee the King.

18 And there went over a ferry-boat k to carry the kings houſhold, and to do † what he thought good. And Shimei the ſon of Gera fell down before the king as he was come over Jordan l; k Made by the men of Judah for the King's proper uſe; beſides which there were doubtleſs many Boats ready for the uſe of others. l Or rather, as he was paſſing, or about to paſs over Jordan; but this was beyond Jordan: for as he went over Jordan to the King, v. 17. ſo doubtleſs he fell down before him at his firſt coming into his preſence there.

19 And ſaid unto the king, Let not my lord impute iniquity unto me, neither do thou remember * that which thy ſervant did perverſly the day that my lord the king went out of Jeruſalem, that the king ſhould take it to his heart m.

* Chap. 16. 5.

m i.e. Be affected with it, or excited to revenge it.

20 For thy ſervant doth know that I have ſinned n: therefore behold, I am come the firſt this day of all the houſe of Joſeph o, to go down to meet my lord the king.

n I do not excuſe my Sin, but with grief and ſhame confeſs it; in which caſe the Lord thy God is ready to pardon Offenders, and ſo I truſt wilt thou be. o The ſenſe of my former Sin now hath, and, whilſt I live will make me the firſt and moſt forward in all Acts of Duty and Service to thy Majeſty. p Object. He was a Benjamite, Chap. 16. 5. How then doth he make himſelf one of the house of Joseph? Answ. The house of Joseph is here put, either, 1. For the Ten Tribes, which are oft distinguished from Judah, and then they are called the house of Joseph; as Zech. 10. 6. But this distinction was not made before the division of the People into two Kingdoms: And even after that Division, Benjamin was constantly reckoned with Judah, and not with Joseph or Ephraim. Or, 2. For all the Tribes of Israel, who are all called the children of Joseph, Psal. 77. 15. Compare Psal. 80. 1. and 81. 5. as well they might, not only because of Joseph's Eminency, (the most Eminent Persons and Things being oft put for the rest of the kind) and because the rights of Primogeniture were in a great part devolved upon him, 1 Chron. 5. 1. but also because Joseph had been as a Father to them, and had nourished them all like Children; as is expressed in the Hebrew Text, Gen. 47. 12. But in this sence this was not true, for the House of Judah came before him, ver. 15. Or rather, 3. For all the Tribes, except Judah, which are conveniently called the house of Joseph, for the reasons now mentioned, and are fitly distinguished from Judah, because the Rights of the First-born were divided between Judah and Joseph, 1 Chron. 5. 2. And though Benjamin, after the Division of the Kingdoms was fitly joyned with Judah, because then they adhered to that Tribe; yet before that time it was more conveniently joyned with Joseph, because they marched under the Standard of the House of Joseph, or of Ephraim, Numb. 10. 22, 23, 24. Whence it is, that Ephraim, Benjamin, and Manasseh, are put together, Psal. 80. 2.

21 But Abishai the son of Zeruiah answered and said, Shall not Shimei be put to death for this, because he cursed the LORD's anointed q?

q i.e. The King. By this Expression, he minds David of his former Zeal against those who offered any injury to Saul, because he was the Lord's Anointed, 1 Sam. 24. 6. and 26. 9. and therefore demands the same Justice against Shimei for his Cursing of the King, which was so expressly forbidden, Exod. 22. 28. and by the Analogy of that Law, Exod. 21. 17. might seem punishable with Death.

22 And David said, What have I to do with you r, ye sons of Zeruiah s, that ye should this day be adversaries unto me t? * Shall there any man be put to death this day in Israel? for do not I know, that I am this day king over Israel u?

* 1 Sam. 11. 13.

r I do not ask, neither will I take your Advice in this Matter. s Implying, that Joab's hand was in this Contrivance, or that he suspected it. t i.e. That you put me upon things unfit for me to do, and contrary to my present Interest; for it was David's Interest at this time to appease the People, and reconcile them to him, and not now to give them any new distast by acts of Severity: For this would make others jealous, that David will not forgive them neither, but would watch an opportunity to be Revenged on them. You preend Friendship herein, and would have me take it for an effect of your Zeal for my Service; but in truth you give me such Counsel as my Enemies would wish me to follow, that thereby I might awaken the fears and jealousies of my People which are now asleep, and cast them into a second Rebellion: which either Joab and Abishai really designed by this Advice, that so Joab might recover his Place again, and be made necessary for the King's Service; or David suspected that they did so. u Is not my Kingdom, which for my Sins was in a manner wholly lost, just now restored and assured to me? And when God hath been so merciful to me in forgiving my Sin, shall I now shew my self Revengeful to Shimei? Shall I sully the Publick Joy and Glory of this Day, with an act of such severity? Or, shall I alienate the Hearts of my People from me, now when they are returning to me?

23 Therefore * the king said unto Shimei, Thou shalt not die x: and the king sware unto him y.

* 1 Kings 2. 37, 46.

x To wit, this day, as Abishai desireth; nor whilst I live, nor by my Hands, as it is repeated and explained, 1 Kings 2. 8. not for this Cause alone. For though David gave order to Solomon for his Punishment after his Death; nor was it fit for the Publick Good that such a horrid Crime should go unpunished; yet he would not have him punished for this Fault alone, but for some other Capital Crime, which he presumed Shimei's Temper would easily betray him to; and Solomon's deep Wisdom would easily find out, 1 Kings 2. 9. y That he would not put him to death with the Sword, as it is expressed 1 Kings 2. 8.

24 ¶ And Mephibosheth the son z of Saul came down to meet the king, and had neither dressed his feet a, nor trimmed his beard b, nor washed his cloathes c, from the day the king departed, until the day he came again in peace.

z i.e. The Grandson, 2 Sam. 6. 3, 6. 4 By cutting his Nails, and by washing his Feet, which was usual in those hot Climates, and very refreshing; and therefore now neglected, as becoming a Mourner. b But suffered it to grow very long, and disorderly, as was usual with many Persons in a solemn, or mournful State. c His Linnen Clothes. This and the former were signs, that he was a true and obstinate Mourner, that laid aside his usual Refreshments: and they are here mentioned as Evidences of the Falshood of Ziba's former Relation concerning him, Chap. 16. 3.

25 And it came to pass when he was come to Jerusalem d to meet the king, that the king said unto him, Wherefore wentest not thou with me, O Mephibosheth?

d So it is supposed, That Mephibosheth, though he were to meet the King, wanted either Courage, or fit Opportunity to speak to the King till he came to Jerusalem, because of the great Multitudes that Addressed themselves to the King by the way. Though it might more reasonably be thought, that he could not go from Jerusalem to meet the King, as others did, because he wanted conveniencies for his Journey: for Ziba had gotten all his Lands and Goods, Chap. 16. 4. and it is not likely that he, who would not provide him an Ass to ride on, or to accompany the King at his departure, would now be hasty to furnish him with one to meet the King, to whom he knew he would complain of him. But the Words may seem to be better rendred thus, when he went (for so the Hebrew Verb signifies, Ruth 3. 7. Jonah 1. 3.) from (which Præpositon is oft understood) Jerusalem. For there he was, Chap. 16. 3. and having continued there, as probably he did, (because he wanted an Ass to convey him elsewhere, and knew not where to be with more safety) he could not properly nor truly be said to have come thither to meet the King. e As Justice and Gratitude obliged thee to do.

26 And he answered, My lord, O king, my servant deceived me f; for thy servant said, I will saddle me an ass, that I may ride thereon, and go to the king, because thy servant is lame:

f By carrying away the Ass which I bid him Saddle for me.

27 And * he hath slandered thy servant unto my lord the king; but my lord the king is as an angel of God g: do therefore what is good in thine eyes.

* Chap. 16. 3.

g To distinguish between true Reports and Calumnies; See on Chap. 14. 20.

28 For all of my fathers house, were but † dead men before my lord the king h: yet * didst thou set thy servant among them that did eat at thine own table: what right therefore have I yet to cry any more unto the king i?

h i.e. Before thy Tribunal: we were all at thy Mercy: not my Estate only (which thou hast now granted to Ziba) but my Life also was in thy Power, if thou hadst dealt with Rigour, and as Earthly Kings use to do with their Predecessors and Enemies Children. For otherwise by the Law of God Saul himself had not deserved to die by David's hands, as David himself confessed: Much less his Children, who were not to dye for their Father's Sins, Deut. 24. 16. But Mephibosheth speaks like a Courtier, and like an Orator, aggravating Matters against himself, that he might seem to justifie the King's Sentence, and to submit to it; and so insinuate himself into the King's favour. i To wit, for the Vindication of mine Honour, and the Restitution of my Estate.

29 And the king said unto him, Why speakest thou any more of thy matters k? I have said l, Thou and Ziba divide the Land m.

k For as Ziba was present, so doubtless he was not silent, but said and did what he could to make good his former Charge; which must needs occasion many Words before the King. And the King was not now at leisure for long Debates, and therefore makes an end of the Matter. l To wit, within my self; I have considered the Matter as far as now I can, and upon the whole am come to this Resolution, wherein I expect that thou and he do both acquiesce. Or, I do nam say, I pronounce this Sentence in the Cause. m The meaning is either, 1. The Land shall be divided between thee and him, as it was by my first Order, Chap. 9. 10. He and his Sons managing it, and supporting themselves out of it, as they did before, and giving the rest of the Profits thereof to thee. And to this the following words may well enough be accommodated; Yea, let him take all; to wit, to his own sole use. Or, 2. The Right and Profits of the Land shall be equally divided between you. It seems a very rash and harsh Sentence, and very unbecoming David's Wisdom, and Justice, and Gratitude to Jonathan; and Ziba seems to have deserved Death for falsly accusing his Master of Treason, rather than a Recompence. But the whole Transaction of the Matter is not here set down. Possibly Ziba might bring plausible Pretences to justifie his Accusation; and it might be proceeded, That Mephibosheth neglected the trimming and dressing himself only in Policy, and that for a season, till David and his Family had destroyed one another by their Civil Wars, and giving him a fit opportunity to take the Crown. So that David might really be at a loss what to determine. And Ziba had given proof of his Affections to David by an Act of kindness which could not be without hazard to himself, Chap. 16. 1, 2. which Mephibosheth had not done. And possibly, this was only a present Sentence, and David resolved to Examine things more throughly when he had more leisure, and then to make a more full and final Determination of the Business; which also he might do, though it be not here Recorded. For we must not think, that nothing was done and said about such things but what is mentioned in Scripture. Besides, Ziba being a powerful Man, and the Crown not yet firmly fixed upon the King's Head, David might think fit, to suspend his final Sentence till a more convenient season, and not now to provoke him too much by taking away all his Estate from him at once, but to proceed against him by degrees. However, this is certain, we cannot pass a right Judgment upon this Action of David's, unless we understood all the Circumstances of it, which we cannot pretend to do.

30 And Mephibosheth said unto the king, Yea, let him take all, forasmuch as my lord the king is come again in peace unto his own house n.

n I am concerned to lose all, being fully satisfied with the happiness of seeing my dear and dread Sovereign restored to his Crown, and Truth and Peace returned to his Kingdom.

o And then to cross Jordan again, and so return to his Native Land.

32 Now Barzillai was a very aged man, even fourscore years old, and * he had provided the king of sustenance while he lay at Mahanaim: for he was a very great man.

* Chap. 17. 27.

33 And the king said unto Barzillai, Come thou over with me, and I will feed thee with me in Jerusalem.

34 And Barzillai said unto the king, † How long have I to live, that I should go up with the king unto Jerusalem p?

† Heb. How many days are the years of my life?

p Seeing my time of continuance in this World is but short, it is not advisable to change my Habitation, or to give thee or my self any further trouble.

35 I am this day fourscore years old: and can I discern between good and evil? can thy servant taste what I eat or what I drink? can I hear any more the voice of singing-men, and singing women q? wherefore then should thy servant be yet a burden unto my lord the king r?

q My Senses are grown dull, and uncapable of relishing the Delights of the Court. I am past taking Pleasure in delicious Tastes, or sweet Musick, and other such Delights of the Court. r I am through Age both useless and burthensome to others, and therefore most improper for a Court-life.

36 Thy servant will go a little way over Jordan s with the king: and why should the king recompense it me t with such a reward?

s A little onward in thy way to Jerusalem, and then return. t Or, recompence me, to wit, for my small kindness to thee at Mahanaim, which was but a part of my Duty to thee.

37 Let thy servant, I pray thee, turn back again, that I may die in mine own city, and be buried by the grave of my father, and of my mother: but behold thy servant Chimham u, let him go over with my lord the king, and do to him what shall seem good unto thee.

u Barzillai's Son, 1 King. 2. 7.

38 And the king answered, Chimham shall go over with me: and I will do to him that which shall seem good unto thee: and whatsoever thou shalt † require of me, that will I do for thee.

39 And all the people went over Jordan: and when the king was come over, the king kissed Barzillai, and blessed him, and he returned unto his own place.

40 Then the king went on to Gilgal, and Chimham went on with him, and all the people of Judah conducted the king x, and also half the people of Israel y.

x Attended upon him on his Journey towards Jerusalem. y Whereas the Men of Judah came intirely and unanimously to the King, as is noted here, and above, ver. 14. the Israelites of the other Tribes came in but slowly, and by halves, as being no less guilty of the Rebellion, than the Tribe of Judah; but not encouraged and invited to come in by such a particular and gracious Message as they were. And this is here mentioned as the occasion both of the Contention here following, and of the Sedition, chap. 20.

41 ¶ And behold, all the men of Israel z came to the king, and said unto the king, Why have our brethren the men of Judah stolen thee away a, and have brought the king and his household, and all Davids men b with him over Jordan?

z To wit, such as were present. a i.e. Conveyed thee over Jordan hastily and privily, not expecting nor desiring our Consent and Concurrence in the Business, which we were no less ready to afford than they. It is also a secret Reflection upon the King, for permitting this Precipitation. b i.e. All thy Men; such changes of Persons being most frequent in the Hebrew Language; thine Officers, and Guards, and Soldiers. This is mentioned as an aggravation of their Fault, That they did not only carry the King over Jordan, but all his Men too, without asking their Advice.

42 And all the men of Judah answered the men of Israel, Because the king is near of kin to us c: wherefore then be ye angry for this matter? have we eaten at all of the kings cost? or hath he given us any gifts d?

c Of the same Tribe with us, and therefore both oweth the more respect to us, and might expect and challenge more respect from us. d We have neither sought nor gained any advantage to our selves hereby, but only discharged our duty to the King, and used all Expedition in bringing him back, which you also should have done, and not have come in by halves, and so coldly as you have done; See ver. 40.

43 And the men of Israel answered the men of Judah, and said, We have ten parts e in the king f, and we have also more right in David than ye g: Why then did ye † despise us, that our advice should not be first had in bringing back our king h? And the words of the men of Judah were fiercer i than the words of the men of Israel.

e They say but ten, though strictly there were Eleven; either, because they accounted Joseph (which comprehends both Ephraim and Manasseh under it) for one Tribe, as it is sometimes reckon'd; or because Simeon, whose Lot lay within the Tribe of Judah, were joyned with them in this Action. f i.e. In the Kingdom, and the management of the Affairs of it; the word King being put for Kingdom, as it is 2 Chron. 23. 20. and Isa. 23. 15. Dan. 7. 17. Hos. 10. 15. Or, in the King's Person, and the disposal thereof. g As in the general we have more right in the King and Kingdom; so particularly, we have more right in David than you, because you were the first beginners, and the most zealous promoters of this Rebellion: and as David is nearest of kin to you, so he hath been most injured by you; howsoever, as he is King, we justly Claim a greater Interest in him, than you; inasmuch as we are the far greatest part of his Subjects. h That we being the far greater Number, should not have the first and chiefest Vote in this Action. But the words are by some, and may well be rendred interrogatively, And was not my word first about bringing the King back? Did not we make the first mention of it, before you could be drawn to it? For so indeed they did, vers 11. And therefore the neglect of their Advice herein might seem more inexcusable. i Instead of mollifying them with gentle words, they answered them with greater fierceness and insolency; so that David durst not interpose himself in the matter.

CHAP. XX.

By occasion of this quarrel Sheba stirreth up Israel to sedition, 1, 2. David's ten concubines are shut up in perpetual prison, 3. Amasa is slain by Joab, 4,—10. He and Abishai pursueth Sheba unto Abel, 11,—15. The citizens by the advice of a wise woman cut off his head and cast it over the wall to Joab, 16,—22. David's officers, 23,—26.

AND there happened a to be there a man of Belial b, whose name was Sheba the son of Bichri, a Benjamite c, and he blew a trumpet, and said, * We have no part in David d, neither have we inheritance in the son of Jesse e: every man to his tents f, O Israel.

* 1 King. 12. 16.

a His presence was casual in it self, though certain, and ordered by God's Providence. b A lawless Person, one that attempted to shake off the Yoke of Civil Authority: See Deut. 13. 13. c Agrieved at the translation of the Kingdom from Saul, and that Tribe, to David. d The Tribe of Judah have monopolized the King to themselves, and will not allow us any share in him; let them therefore enjoy him alone, and let us seek out a new King. e An expression of Contempt, implying their rejection of him, that he was no more to be owned as their King, but as a private Person, as the Son of Jesse. f Let us all desist from this unthankful Office, of bringing the King back, and go each to our homes, that we may consider, and then meet together to chuse a new King.

2 So every man of Israel g went up from after David, and followed Sheba the son of Bichri: but the men of Judah clave unto their king, from Jordan even to Jerusalem.

g i.e. The generality of those Israelites who were present.

3 ¶ And David came to his house at Jerusalem, and the king took the ten women his * concubines, whom he had left to keep the house, and put them in † ward, and fed them, but went not in unto them: so they † were † shut up unto the day of their death, † living in widowhood.

* Chap. 15. 16. and 16. 22.

h Partly, because they had not vigorously opposed Absalom's lustful Desire, as they should have done, even with the hazard of their Lives: and partly, left the sight of them should renew the Memory of Absalom's Filthiness, and of their own and David's Reproach, which it was fit to bury in perpetual Oblivion: and partly, because it might appear Incestuous to have to do with those who had been defiled by his own Son: and partly, because as David would not, so it was not now convenient that any other Man should have any conjugal Conversation with them.

4 ¶ Then said the king to Amasa, † Assemble me the men of Judah h, within three days i, and be thou here present k.

h And march in the Head of them as their General, as I have promised thee, chap. 19. 13. i Which he supposed Amasa, having been their late General, could easily do; and the business required haste. k Within that time to receive Orders and Instructions from me.

5 So Amasa went to assemble the men of Judah; but he tarried longer than the set time l which he had appointed him.

l Either, because the People being wearied out by the late Civil War, were not forward to engage in another: or, because the Soldiers had more Affection to Joab, than to their new General, to whose ill Conduct possibly they might impute their unsuccessfulness in the last Battel: Or, because Amasa for his own Interest might seek delays, to render himself more necessary and useful to the King, and to keep up his honourable and profitable Employment, which is the common Policy of such Men.

6 And David said to Abishai m, Now shall Sheba the son of Bichri do us more harm than did Absalom: take thou * thy lords servants n, and pursue after him, lest he get him fenced cities, and † escape us.

* Chap. 11. 11.

m Not to Joab; lest by this means he should recover his Place, and Amasa be discontented, and David's Fidelity in making good his Promise to Amasa be questioned. n i.e. My Guards that attend upon upon my Person, and the other Soldiers who are now present with me. He speaks of himself in the Third Person, as is very frequent. For it is not probable he would now call Joab his lord, whom he had lately deposed; nor Amasa, who had not yet taken actual Possession of his Place, nor had the Command over the King's Guards.

7 And there went out after him Joabs men o, and the * Cherethites, and the Pelethites p, and all the mighty men: and they went out of Jerusalem to pursue after Sheba the son of Bichri.

* Chap. 8. 18.

o The remainders of Joab's Army who were there present, with whom also Joab might go as a Reformade, watching an opportunity to do what he designed. p Of whom, see on chap. 8. 18.

8 When they were at the great stone which is in Gibeon, Amasa went before them q; and Joabs garment that he had put on, was girded unto him r, and upon it a † girdle with a sword fastned upon his loins in the sheath thereof, and as he went forth s is fell out t.

q Having gathered some Forces, and given due Orders for the rest to follow him, he returned to Jerusalem, and by the King's Command went after those mentioned ver. 7. and being come up to them at the place where they waited for him, he put himself into the Head of Joab's Men, and the Cherethites and the Pelethites, and such as he had brought along with him, and marched before them as their Chief and General. r After the manner of Travellers and Soldiers. s To meet and salute Amasa, who was coming towards him to do him Honour. t Things having (it is likely) been so contrived by Joab, that upon the least motion of his Body, his Sword should drop out, and he might take it up without raising Amasa's Suspicion.

9 And Joab said to Amasa, Art thou in health, my brother? And Joab took Amasa by the beard u with the right hand to kiss him.

u As the manner of Ancient Times was, when they kissed and saluted one another.

10 But Amasa took no heed to the sword that was in Joabs hand x: so he smote him therewith in the fifth rib y, and shed out his bowels to the ground, and † strook him not again z, and he died: so Joab a and Abishai his brother pursued after Sheba the son of Bichri.

x Which falling out, as it seemed, casually, he supposed that Joab intended only to put it into its Scabbard, and therefore took no care to defend himself against the stroke. y See on chap. 2. 22. z He dispatched him at one stroke; or, gave him his Deaths Wound at the first blow, and needed not to smite him again. a Who now boldly resumed his former Place, and marched in the Head of the Army. It is not strange, that Amasa's Soldiers did not fight to revenge his Death; partly, because not many of them were yet come up, but came by degrees, as the following Verses shew; and partly, because Joab's Interest and Authority with the Military-men was very great; especially, with David's Guards, who were here present, and who had no kindness for Amasa, as having been the General of the Rebellious Army; and, as they might think, was not fit to be put into a Place of so great Power and Trust.

11 And one of Joabs men b stood by him, and said, He that favoureth Joab c, and he that is for David d, let him go after Joab.

b Left there on purpose to deliver the following Message. c He that would have Joab to be General, rather than such a perfidious Rebel and Traytor as Amasa. d He that wisheth David good success against Sheba, and against all Rebels. Whereby he implies, that though this Fact of his was done against the King's Command, yet it was for his Interest and Defence.

12 And Amasa wallowed e in blood f in the midst of the high way: and when the man saw that all the people g stood still h, he removed Amasa out of the high way into the field i, and cast a cloth upon him, when he saw that every one that came by him stood still.

e Heb. rolled himself, being in the Pangs of Death; yet having so much life left, as to move himself a little, though not to raise himself up from his place. f In his own Blood, which was shed there. g To wit, the Soldiers which were upon their march. h Wondering at the Spectacle, and enquiring into the Author and Occasion of it. i Perceiving, that it both incensed them against Joab, and hindred the King's present Service.

13 When he was removed out of the high way, all the people went on after Joab, to pursue after Sheba the son of Bichri.

14 ¶ And he k went through all the tribes of Israel unto Abel, and to Beth-maachah l, and all the Berites m: and they n were gathered together, and went also after him o.

k Either, 1. Joab, who pursued Sheba through all the Tribes as far as Abel. Or rather, 2. Sheba, who was last mentioned, who marched from Tribe to Tribe to stir them up to Sedition; and so him the following words seem best to agree. l Or rather, to Abel, even to Beth-maachah; i.e. unto Abel-beth-maachah, as this place is called here in the Hebrew Text, ver. 15. and 1 King. 15. 20. 2 King. 15. 29. to distinguish it from other Abels; and to signifie, that this was that Abel which was in the Tribe of Naphtali in the Northern border of Canaan towards that part of Syria called Maachah, 2 Sam. 10. 8. m Such as lived in the City, or Territory of Beeroth of Benjamin, Josh. 18. 25. who being of the same Tribe, if not City with Sheba, and his greatest Acquaintance and Friends: or, being most implacable against David, adhered to Sheba, and followed him through all the Tribes of Israel. n To wit, the Tribes of Israel; i.e. a considerable Number of them; as might well be expected, when the Discontents were so high and general. o i.e. After Sheba.

15 And they p came and besieged him in Abel of Beth-maachah, and they cast up a bank against the city q, and ‖ it stood in the trench r: and all the people that were with Joab, † battered the wall to throw it down:

p i.e. Joab and his Army, which is easily understood, both from what the foregoing and following Verses. q From whence they might either batter the Wall, or shoot at those who defended it against them, who should assault it. See 2 King. 19. 32. Jer. 32. 24. and 33. 4. Otherwise, they threw down the bank of the City, which they found had raised up to defend the City on the weakest side. r i.e. The Bank stood in, or near to the Trench, or the Wall of the City; so that the City was in great danger of being taken. Otherwise, the City stood within the Trench, or Wall, being defended only by a single Trench, or a weak Wall; the Bank which was raised up there to defend it, being thrown down.

16 ¶ Then cried a wise woman out of the city, Hear, hear, say, I pray you, unto Joab, Come near hither, that I may speak with thee.

17 And when he was come near unto her, the woman said, Art thou Joab? And he answered, I am he: Then she said unto him, Hear the words of thine handmaid. And he answered, I do hear.

18 Then she spake, saying, ‖ They were wont to speak in old time, saying, They shall surely ask counsel at Abel: and so they ended the matters.

‖ Or, To speak in old time, saying, They shall surely ask counsel, so they began to end the matters.

s According to this Translation the sence is, This City which thou are about to destroy, is no mean and contemptible one, but so honourable and considerable for its Wisdom, and the wise People in it, that when any Differences did arise among any of the Neighbours, they used Proverbially to say, We will ask the Opinion and Advice of the Men of Abel about it, and we will stand to their Arbitration; and so all Parties were satisfied, and Disputes ended. But there is another Translation in the Margent, embraced also by some others, which seems to be the best; They (i.e. the Citizens of this City) plainly (or, commonly) spake (among themselves) in the beginning (to wit, when Sheba and his Men first came into the City, and they were informed, That Joab was pursuing him) saying, Surely they will ask of Abel, and so make an end: They will peaceably Expostulate the business with us, and enquire, Why we received Sheba into our City? And whether we would deliver him up into their hands, and would inform us of the reason of their Hostile Attempt upon us, and offer to us Conditions of Peace, which by God's Law, Deut. 20. 10. they were to do even to strange, and much more to Israelitish Cities. So she doth both modestly reprove Joab for the neglect of his Duty, and oblige him to the Performance of it.

19 I am one of them that are peaceable and faithful in Israel t: thou seekest to destroy a city, and a mother u in Israel: why wilt thou swallow up the inheritance of the LORD x?

t Or, I (to wit, the City of Abel, in whose Name and Person she speaks this) am one of the peaceable and faithful Cities of Israel. Whatsoever Sheba may design, whom we have innocently received into our City, before we well understood the matter: We of this City abhor the thoughts of Warring, and Rebelling against the King, as having had no hand in Absalom's late Rebellion: which is probable enough, considering both their Situation in the utmost Borders of the Land, very remote from the Seat of that Civil War; and their open Profession of their Peaceableness, and Fidelity, or Loyalty to the King; which had been impudent if they had been so lately involved in the last War and Rebellion. u i.e. A Mother: for great Cities are commonly called Mothers; as lesser Towns or Villages subject to them, and depending upon them, for Direction and Defence, are called their Daughters, as Ezek. 16. 27, 46. x i.e. A considerable part of that Land which God hath chosen for his peculiar Possession. The Destruction which thou are about to bring upon us, is an Injury also to Israel, and to the God of Israel.

20 And Joab answered and said, Far be it, far be it from me, that I should swallow up, or destroy.

21 The matter is not so: but a man of mount Ephraim, y (Sheba the son of Bichri † by name) hath lift up his hand z against the king, even against David: deliver him only, and I will depart from the city. And the woman said unto Joab, Behold, his head shall be thrown to thee over the wall a.

y Quest. How can this be so, when he is called a Benjamite? ver. 1. Ans. Either he was a Benjamite by Birth, but dwelt in the Tribe of Ephraim, as many did upon several occasions dwell out of their own Tribes: or, mount Ephraim was a place in Benjamin, which might be so called, either because it was upon the Borders of Ephraim, and looked towards it; or from some notable Action or Event of the Ephraimites in that place. Compare chap. 18. 6. z i.e. Taken up Arms, or raised Rebellion. a Which she undertook, because she knew the present Temper, and great Fears of the Citizens, and Soldiers too; and that considering their evident and extream Danger, they were generally desirous of Peace, from which they were restrained only by Sheba's Authority and Interest; and therefore did not doubt by God's Blessing upon her wise Counsel to effect it, as indeed she did. And it is not unlikely, that this Woman might be a Governess in that City. For though this Office was commonly performed by men, yet were not the Women wholly excluded, but sometimes employed in the Government: As we see in Deborah, who judged Israel, Judg. 4. 4. and Queen Athaliah, 2 King. 11.

22 Then the woman went unto all the people in her wisdom b, and they cut off the head of Sheba the son of Bichri, and cast it out to Joab: and he blew a trumpet, and they c † retired from the city, every man to his tent: and Joab returned to Jerusalem unto the king.

b Prudently treated with them about it, either severally or joyntly, as she saw fit; representing to them the certainty and nearness of all their Ruine, if they did not speedily comply with her Desires, and certain Deliverance if they did. c Joab and his Army which besieged them.

23 ¶ Now * Joab was over all the host of Israel d: and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada was over the Cherethites, and over the Pelethites.

* Chap. 8. 16.

d The good success of this, and of the former Expedition, under the Conduct of Joab, had so fixed his Interest in the Army, and others of David's fastest Friends, that the King could not without danger to the Publick Weal displace him.

24 And Adoram was over the tribute e: and Jehoshaphat the son of Ahilud was ‖ recorder f.

26 And Ira also the Jairite h was ‖ a chief ruler i about David.

Compare 2 Sam. 8. 18. where this Title is given to David's Sons, the Chief of which were now cut off. And these things are here repeated with some alteration, to shew that David was now fully re-established in his former Estate.

CHAP. XXI.

A three years famine declared by God to be for the Gibeonites sake ceaseth by their hanging seven of Saul's sons, 1.—9. Rizpah preserveth the dead bodies, 10, 11. David buryeth the bones of Saul and Jonathan, an also of them that were hung up in his father's sepulchre, 12.—14. Four battels against the Philistines wherein four valiants of David slay four giants, 15,—22.

THen a there was a famine in the days of David three years, year after year; and David † enquired of the LORD b. And the LORD answered, It is for Saul, and for his bloody house, because he slew the Gibeonites c.

a When? Either, First, After Absalom's and Sheba's Rebellion, as it is here related. Or rather, Secondly, In some other time before. It is well known and confessed, that the Particle, then, doth not always note that the thing was done in that order in which it is mentioned; but is oft of an indefinite signification; as also that the Scripture in its Histories and Relations, doth not always observe the order of time, but the order of things, putting that after, which was done before, as occasion requires. And so it seems to be here. The things related here and chap. 24. are by the most and best Interpreters conceived to have been done long before Absalom's Rebellion. And this Opinion is not without sufficient grounds: First, This Particle, then, is here explained, in the days, i.e. during the Life and Reign of David: which general and indefinite words seem to be added as an intimation that these things were not done after the next foregoing Passages, for then the Sacred Writer would rather have added, after these things, or some such expression, as it is 2 Chron. 32. 1. and in many other places. Secondly, Here are divers Passages which it seems very improbable to ascribe to the last Years of David's Reign: Such as these, First, That Saul's Sin against the Gibeonites should so long remain unpunished. And indeed that this was done, and Saul's seven Sons hanged by David's order before that time, seems plainly to be intimated by that passage 2 Sam. 16. 8. where he is charged with the blood of the house of Saul: for which there was not the least colour till this time. Secondly, That David should not remove the Bones of Saul and Jonathan to their proper place, here ver. 12, 13, 14. till that time. Thirdly, That the Philistines should wage War with David again and again, v. 15, &c. so long after he had fully subdued them; chap. 8. 1. and that David in his old Age should attempt to fight with a Philistine Giant, or that his People should suffer him to do so. Fourthly, That David should then have so vehement a desire to number his People, chap. 24. 1, &c. which being an act of youthful heat and vanity, seems not at all to agree with his old age, nor with that state of deep humiliation, and great affliction in which he then was. And the reason why these matters are put here out of their proper order, is plainly this, because David's Sin being once related, it was very convenient that David's Punishments inflicted for it should immediately succeed: this being very frequent in Scripture-story, to put those things together which belong to one matter, though they happened at several times. And this is the more considerable, because it tends to the clearing of that great difficulty 2 Sam. 15. 7. b Concerning the reason of his Displeasure, and this Judgment. c Which was not only an act of Cruelty, but also of Perfidiousness and Perjury, because it was a direct and publick violation of that Solemn Oath given to them for their security by Joshua and the Princes, in the name of all the Israelites, of that, and of succeeding Generations, and consequently a great scandal to the true Religion, and the Professors of it, and a meen to discourage others from embracing it, as the Gibeonites had done. Quest. Why did not God punish Saul whilst he was alive for this fault, but his innocent Children, and David and the Israelites of this Age? Ans. First, God did severely punish Saul for this and his other Sins. Secondly, As God may justly inflict Temporal Punishments upon any Offender, either in his Person, or in his Posterity, when he pleaseth; so it is meet he should take his own time for it; and it is folly and wickedness in us to quarrel with God for so doing. Thirdly, The Israelites might sundry ways make themselves guilty of Saul's sin, though it be not particularly mentioned in Scripture, advising or encouraging him to it; or, by assisting him in the execution of it; or, by conniving at it; or, by rejoycing in it, for some worldly advantage which they received, or expected from it; or, by not repairing the Injuries which Saul had done them, as far as they might. And some of these ways David himself might be involved in the guilt: although indeed this evil fell principally upon the People. And whereas many of the People probably were innocent of that Crime, yet they also were guilty of many other Sins, for which God might punish them, though he took this occasion for it. And it may be further observed, That God is pleased many times severely to punish lesser Delinquents, and to suffer the greater for the present to go unpunished; and that not only to manifest his own Sovereign Power and Liberty, but also to give the World thereby assurance of a future Judgment, and Punishments referred for the next life.

2 And the king called the Gibeonites, and said unto them, (now the Gibeonites were not of the children of Israel, but * of the remnant of the Amorites, and the children of Israel had sworn unto them: and Saul sought to slay them d, in his zeal to the children of Israel and Judah e.)

* Josh. 9. 3, 16, 17.

d i.e. He sought occasions and pretences how he might cut them off with some colour of Law or Justice, diligently searching out and aggravating their Faults, and punishing them worse than they deserved; oppressing them with excessive Labours, and openly killing some of them, and incending by degrees to wear them out. e Conceiving, or rather, pretending that it was not for the honour, nor comfort, nor advantage of God's People, to nourish any of that viperous Brood in their Bosoms; and that howsoever Joshua and the Princes which then were, had by their Fraud been drawn into an Oath to preserve them, Josh. 9. 15. yet in truth that Oath was contrary to God's Command, Exod. 23. 32. Deut. 7. 2. and therefore (as he thought) not to be observed. This was his pretence; but how little Zeal he had for God, or for the publick good of his People, is evident by the whole course of his life: and therefore it is more than probable he had some particular motive or design in the case: either, because some of them had highly provoked him, for whose sake he would be revenged of the whole Race: or, because they being cut off, their Estates might be forfeited to the Crown: or, for some other reason now unknown.

3 Wherefore David said unto the Gibeonites f, What shall I do for you g? and wherewith shall I make the atonement, that ye may bless the inheritance of the LORD h?

f To some of the chief of them, who were to impart it to the rest. g What satisfaction do you expect or require for the Injuries formerly done to you? h That by your acknowledgment of satisfaction received, the guilt and curse may be removed from the Land and People of God, and by this means, as also by your Prayers, God may be reconciled, and may restore his Blessing of Plenty to us, which hitherto he hath denied us.

4 And the Gibeonites said unto him, ‖ We will have no silver or gold of Saul, nor of his house, neither for us shalt thou kill any man in Israel i. And he said, What you shall say k, that will I do for you.

‖ Or, It is not silver nor gold that we have to do with Saul or his house, neither pertains it to us to kill, &c.

i Except Saul's Family, as it here follows. k To wit, in any reason, and as far as God's Law will permit.

5 And they answered the king, The man that consumed us, and that ‖ devised against us, that we should be destroyed from remaining in any of the coasts of Israel l, l That we should be either killed, or banished from the Land of Israel; which is as bad as death to us, because here, and here only God is truly worshipped and enjoyed. Whereby it seems divers of them were hearty Proselites, and godly Persons; and therefore God is more severe in punishing the Injuries done to them. Compare 1 Sam. 26. 19.

6 Let seven men of his sons be delivered unto us, and we will hang them up unto the LORD m in Gibeah of Saul n ‖ whom the LORD did chuse o. And the king said, I will give them p.

‖ Or, chosen of the LORD.

m To vindicate his Honour, which was injured by Saul's violation of the Oath and Covenant of God, and to appease his wrath. n Saul's Country, 1 Sam. 10. 26. and 11. 4. for their greater shame. o This is added to aggravate Saul's Offence, that it was committed not only against them, but also against the Lord who had chosen and advanced him, and therefore did little deserve this from Saul's hand, to have his Laws broken, and his Name dishonoured by Perjury. p Having doubtless consulted God in the matter; who as he had before declared Saul's Bloody House to be the causes of this Judgment, so now commanded that Justice should be done upon it; and that the remaining Branches of it should be cut off; as sufficiently appears from hence, that God was satisfied and well pleased with the action; which he would not have been, if David had done it without his command; for then it had been a sinful action of David's, and contrary to a double Law of God, Deut. 21. 23. and 24. 16. which none but God himself could dispense with.

7 But

7 But the king ſpared Mephibosheth q the ſon of Jonathan ∴, the ſon of Saul, becauſe of * the LORD's oath that was between them, between David and Jonathan the ſon of Saul.

* 1 Sam. 18. 3. and 20. 8, 42. and 23. 18.

q For the Gibeonites deſiring only ſuch a number, without deſigning the Perſons, it was at David's choice whom to ſpare. Or, he prevailed with the Gibeonites that they did not demand him; and with the Lord, that he might not be one of thoſe who were devoted to deſtruction. ∴ This is expreſly added, to diſtinguiſh him from the other Mephibosheth, v. 8.

8 But the king took the two ſons of Rizpah r, the daughter of Aiah, whom ſhe bare unto Saul, Armoni, and Mephibosheth, and the five ſons of ‖ Michal ſ the the daughter of Saul, whom ſhe † brought up t for Adriel the ſon of Barzillai the Meholathite u,

And it muſt be remembred, that the Hebrew Language is very ſhort, and full of Ellipſes or defects of words, which yet may be eaſily underſtood from the ſenſe. Particularly, relative words are oft lacking, and to be ſupplied, as Goliah is put for Goliah's brother, here v. 19. and Uncle for Uncle's ſon, Jer. 32. 7, 12. Or, the Sons of Merob are called the ſons of Michal, to wit, by adoption; or, the near Kindred and next Heirs of Michal, and brought up by her. For upon that and ſuch like accounts the Title of Son is oft given in Scripture, as Gen. 48. 5. Exod. 2. 10. Deut. 25. 5, 6. Ruth. 1. 11, 12. and 4. 17. Queſt. But why then are not theſe called the ſons of Merob? Anſ. Becauſe they were better known by their Relation to Michal, who was David's Wife, and, it may be alive at this time, and having no Children of her own, took theſe and bred them up as her own; when Merob was now a more obſcure Perſon, and poſſibly dead many Years before this. † For ſo this Hebrew Verb, which primarily and properly ſignifies to bear, is ſometimes uſed, as Gen. 50. 23. Ruth 4. 17. becauſe the Education of Children is a kind of bearing of them, as requiring frequently no leſs care and pains than the bearing doth; whence it is that Nurſes are reputed as Mothers, and ſometimes go under that Name both in Sacred and Prophane Writers. See Ruth 4. 16, 17. and compare Gen. 16. 2. and 30. 3. Numb. 11. 12. Gal. 4. 19. u Of Abel-meholah in the Tribe of Benjamin, Judg. 7. 22. x Queſt. How could David do this, when he had Sworn that he would not cut off Saul's Seed, 1 Sam. 24. 21, 22. Anſ. Becauſe he had ſpecial warrant and direction from God about it, who, as all confeſs, can diſpenſe with Mens Oaths, and with his own Laws when he ſees fit. And that he did ſo here, is manifeſt, becauſe God was pleaſed with it, and removed the Judgment upon it, whereas otherwiſe David had been guilty of the ſame Sin with Saul, to wit, of the breach of his Oath and Covenant, for which this Famine was inflicted. See the Note on 1 Sam. 24. 22. y Or, in an hill, in or near Gibeah; in a conſpicuous place for their greater infamy, and for the caution and terror of others who ſhould make any attempt upon the Gibeonites for the future. z As a Sacrifice offered up to God to appeaſe his Wrath: or, unto the Lord, as was ſaid v. 6. a i.e. Died: for ſo the word, to fall, is oft uſed, as Exod. 19. 21. 1 Chron. 21. 14. Pſal. 91. 7. Jer. 39. laſt. init. 5. 5. or, were executed. b Which was before the Wheat-harveſt.

And God was herein pleaſed to diſpenſe with his own Law, that it might plainly appear that theſe were not put to death by David for politick Reaſons, as that he and his Sons might be freed from Competitors, which doubtleſs David's Enemies were ready to ſuggeſt; but by God's ſpecial Command, who was pleaſed to execute this Judgment upon them, as partly and principally for the puniſhment of Saul's Sin; ſo ſecondarily for the ſtabliſhing of David's Throne to himſelf and to his Seed for ever, as he had promiſed. d In ſome convenient place in a Rock, near adjoyning. e i.e. Until they were taken down: which was not to be done till God had given Rain as a ſign of his Favour, and a mean to remove the Famine, which was cauſed by the want of it. f i.e. On their Carcaſſes. g From which ſhe might preſerve her ſelf and them by divers methods.

11 And it was told David h what Rizpah the daughter of Aiah the concubine of Saul had done.

h Who heard it with ſo much approbation, that he thought fit to imitate her Piety, being by her Example provoked to do what hitherto he had neglected, to beſtow an honourable Interment upon the remains of Saul and Jonathan, and, with them, upon thoſe that were now put to death, that the honour done to them herein, might be ſome comfort to this dejected and diſconſolate Widow.

12 ¶ And David went and took the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan his ſon, from the men of Jabeſh-Gilead, which had ſtollen them from the ſtreet of Beth-ſhan, where the * Philiſtines had hanged them, when the Philiſtines had ſlain Saul in Gilboa:

* 1 Sam. 31. 12.

13 And he brought up from thence the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan his ſon; and they gathered the bones i of them that were hanged.

i Having firſt burnt off the Fleſh which remained upon them when they were taken down. Compare 1 Sam. 31. 10, &c.

14 And the bones of Saul and Jonathan his ſon, buried they in the country of Benjamin in Zelah k, in the ſepulchre of Kiſh his father: and they performed all that the king commanded: and after that l God was intreated for the land.

k A place in Benjamin, mentioned Joſh. 18. 28. l After thoſe things were done which were before related; i.e. after they were hanged up: for by that God was pacified, and not by their burial. So the relative belongs to the remoter antecedent. Or, if this relate to what was laſt mentioned, the meaning is, that God was pleaſed to reſtore the Bleſſing of Plenty to the Land.

15 ¶ Moreover, the Philiſtines had yet a war again with Iſrael m, and David went down, and his ſervants with him, and fought againſt the Philiſtines, and David waxed faint.

m Theſe Wars though here related, were tranſacted long before this time: of which ſee the Notes on v. 1. For it is no way probable, either, that the Philiſtines being ſo fully and perfectly ſubdued by David, chap. 8. 1. ſhould in his days be in a capacity of waging War with the Iſraelites: or, that David in his old age would undertake to fight with a Giant, or that his People would permit him to do ſo.

16 And Iſhbi-benob, which was of the ſons of ‖ the giant n, (the weight of whoſe † ſpear weighed three hundred ſhekels o of braſs in weight) he being girded with a new ſword p, thought to have ſlain David.

n So called by way of eminency. Or, of Rapha, a Giant ſo called. o See 1 Sam. 17. 5. p Or rather, with a new Girdle or Belt: For, Firſt, This was the uſual habit of Soldiers, 1 Sam. 18. 4. 2 Sam. 18. 11. and 20. 8. 1 King. 2. 5. Iſa. 5. 27. and, when it was of an extraordinary faſhion and price, and Enſign of Dignity and Command in the Army, Ezek. 23. 15. So this may be mentioned to note, that this was the firſt time either of his going out to fight, or of his advancement to ſome eminent place in the Army: which made him deſirous to ſignalize himſelf with ſome great Action. Secondly, This Supplement is more natural and uſual, the word girdle being eaſie ſupplied from the word being girded: ſuch Ellipſes of conjugate words being frequent in the Hebrew Tongue, as Numb. 11. 14. Pſal. 76. 12. Matth. 20. 12. Thirdly, The newneſs of the Sword ſeems to have no emphaſis nor ſignificancy for the preſent purpoſe; ſeeing an old and tried Sword would ſeem more conſiderable for his encouragement, than one new and unproved.

17 But Abiſhai the ſon of Zeruiah ſuccoured him, and ſmote the Philiſtine, and killed him. Then * the men of David ſware unto him, ſaying, Thou ſhalt go no more out with us to battel, that thou quench not the † light of Iſrael q.

* Chap. 18. 3. † Heb. candle, or lamp.

q Leſt thou be ſlain, and thereby thy People be ruined. Good Kings are in Scripture juſtly called the Light of their People, as 1 King. 11. 36. and 15. 4. Pſal. 132. 17. becauſe the beauty and glory, the conduct and direction, the comfort and ſafety, and welfare of a People depends upon them, and comes from them.

18 * And it came to paſs after this r, that there was again a battel with the Philiſtines at Gob ſ: then Sibbechai the Huſhathite t ſlew Saph, which was of the ſons of ‖ the giant.

* 1 Chron. 20. 4. [Or, Rapha.

r After the Battel laſt mentioned. ſ Or, in Gezer, as it is 1 Chron. 20. 4. whereby it ſeems Gob and Gezer were neighbouring Places, and the Battel fought in the Confines of both. t One of David's Worthies, 1 Chron. 11. 29.

19 And there was again a battel in Gob, with the Philiſtines, where Elhanan u, the ſon of Jaare-oregim, a Bethlehemite, ſlew * the brother of Goliah the Gittite x, the ſtaff of whoſe ſpear was like a weavers beam y.

* See 1 Chron. 20. 5.

u Another of David's worthy and valiant Commanders. x The relative word Brother, is not in the Hebrew Text, but is fitly ſupplied out of the parallel place, 1 Chron. 20. 5. where it is expreſſed. And ſuch defects of relatives are not unuſual in Scripture. Thus the word Wife is underſtood, Matth. 1. 6. Job. 19. 25. and Father or Mother, Mar. 15. 40, 47. Compare with Mar. 16. 1. and Luke 24. 10. and Son, Matth. 4. 21. Mar. 2. 14. Job. 21. 15. and Brother, Luke 6. 16. Compare with Jud. v. 1. And ſuch Ellipſes do alſo frequently occur in prophane Authors. Although the place may be, and is otherwiſe rendred Elhanan the ſon of Jaare-oregim, ſlew Beth-halachmi or Lachmi, (as he is called by way of abbreviation, 1 Chron. 20. 5. which is very frequent in the Hebrew Tongue,) who was (which words are frequently underſtood in the Hebrew Text) with (ſo eth is oft rendred, as hath been noted before) Goliath the Gittite; i.e. in his Company, bred up with him to the War, and related to him as his Brother. Or, he ſlew Beth-halachmi a Goliath (or, another Goliath) of Gath, or the Gittite. So the name of the Giant was Beth-halachmi, who may be here called Goliath, not only for his near relation to him, being his Brother, but but for his exact reſemblance of him in Feature, or in Stature and Strength, or in Courage and Military Skill; as John the Baptiſt was called Eliah, for the like reaſon. Peradventure alſo, after the death of the firſt and famous Goliath the Gittite, 1 Sam 17. that name was either given to him by others, or taken by himſelf. y In thickneſs. See 1 Sam. 17. 7.

20 And there was yet a battel in Gath z, where was a man of great ſtature ∴, that had on every hand ſix fingers, and on every foot ſix toes, four and twenty in number, and he alſo was born to ‖ the giant.

z i.e. In the Territory of the City of Gath. Which circumſtance intimates, that this, and conſequently the other Battels here deſcribed, were fought before David had taken Gath out of the hands of the Philiſtines, which he did 2 Sam. 8. 1. compare with 1 Chron. 18. 1. and therefore not in the laſt days of David, as ſome conceive from their mention in this place. ∴ Or, a man of Middin or Madon, as the LXX render it, ſo called from the place of his birth, as Goliath is ſaid to be of Gath for the ſame reaſon.

21 And when he ‖ defied Iſrael, Jonathan the ſon of * Shimea, the brother of David, ſlew him.

‖ Or, upbraided. * 1 Sam. 16. 9.

22 Theſe four were born to the giant in Gath, and fell by the hand of David a, and by the hand of his ſervants.

a Either, becauſe they were ſlain by his Conduct, and Counſel, or Concurrence; for he contributed by his hand to the death of one of them, whilſt maintaining a fight with him, he gave Abiſhai the eaſier opportunity of killing him, ver. 16. 17. or becauſe what is done by the inferior Commanders, is commonly aſcribed to the General, both in Sacred and Prophane VVriters.

CHAP. XXII.

A Pſalm of thankſgiving for God's powerful deliverance and manifold bleſſings, 1,—51.

This Chapter is in a manner wholly the ſame with Pſalm 18. and therefore I ſhall adjourn the Expoſition of it to that place.

AND David ſpake unto the LORD the words of this ſong, in the day that the LORD had delivered him out of the hand of all his enemies, and out of the hand of Saul,

2 And he ſaid, * The LORD is my rock, and my fortreſs, and my deliverer:

* Pſal. 18. 2, &c.

3 The God of my rock, in him will I truſt: he is my ſhield, and the horn of my ſalvation, my high tower, and my refuge, my ſaviour; thou ſaveſt me from violence.

4 I will call on the LORD, who is worthy to be praiſed: ſo ſhall I be ſaved from mine enemies.

5 When the ‖ waves of death compaſſed me; the floods of † ungodly men made me afraid;

‖ Or, ſorrows. † Heb. Belial.

6 The ‖ ſorrows of hell compaſſed me about: the ſnares of death prevented me;

‖ Or, cords.

7 In my diſtreſs I called upon the LORD, and cried to my God: and he did hear my voice out of his temple, and my cry did enter into his ears.

8 Then the earth ſhook and trembled: the foundations of heaven moved and ſhook, becauſe he was wroth.

† Heb. by.

9 There went up a ſmoke † out of his noſtrils, and fire out of his mouth devoured: coals were kindled by it.

10 He bowed the heavens alſo, and came down: and darkneſs was under his feet.

11 And he rode upon a cherub, and did flee: and he was ſeen upon the wings of the wind.

12 And he made darkneſs pavillions round about him, † dark waters, and thick clouds of the ſkies.

13 Through the brightneſs before him were coals of fire kindled.

14 The LORD thundred from heaven, and the moſt High uttered his voice.

15 And he ſent out arrows, and ſcattered them: lightning, and diſcomfited them.

16 And the chanels of the ſea appeared, the foundations of the world were diſcovered, at the rebuking of the LORD, at the blaſt of the breath of his noſtrils.

17 He ſent from above, he took me, he drew me out of ‖ many waters.

18 He delivered me from my ſtrong enemy, and from them that hated me: for they were too ſtrong for me.

19 They prevented me in the day of my calamity: but the LORD was my ſtay.

20 He brought me forth alſo into a large place: he delivered me, becauſe he delighted in me.

21 The LORD rewarded me according to my righteouſneſs: according to the cleanneſs of my hands hath he recompenſed me.

22 For I have kept the ways of the LORD, and have not wickedly departed from my God.

23 For all his judgments were before me: and as for his ſtatutes, I did not depart from them.

‖ Or, perfect. † Heb. to him.

24 I was alſo ‖ upright † before him, and have kept my ſelf from mine iniquity.

25 Therefore the LORD hath recompenſed me according to my righteouſneſs: according to my cleanneſs † in his eye-ſight.

† Heb. before his eyes

26 With the merciful thou wilt ſhew thy ſelf merciful, and with the upright man thou wilt ſhew thy ſelf upright.

27 With the pure thou wilt ſhew thy ſelf pure: and with the froward thou wilt ‖ ſhew thy ſelf unſavoury.

‖ Or, wreſtle, Pſa. 18. 26.

28 And the afflicted people thou wilt ſave: but thine eyes are upon the haughty, that thou mayeſt bring them down.

29 For thou art my ‖ lamp, O LORD: and the LORD will lighten my darkneſs.

30 For by thee I have ‖ run through a troop: by my God have I leaped over a wall.

‖ Or, broken a troop.

31 As for God, his way is perfect; the word of the LORD is ‖ tried: he is a buckler to all them that truſt in him.

‖ Or, refined

32 For who is God ſave the LORD? and who is a rock, ſave our God?

33 God is my ſtrength and power: and he † maketh my way perfect.

34 He † maketh my feet like hinds feet: and ſetteth me upon my high places.

35 He teacheth my hands † to war: ſo that a bow of ſteel is broken by mine arms.

† Heb. for the war.

36 Thou haſt alſo given me the ſhield of thy ſalvation, and † thy gentleneſs hath † made me great.

† Heb. thy bearkening to me. So Gr.

37 Thou haſt enlarged my ſteps under me: ſo that my † feet did not ſlip.

38 I have purſued mine enemies, and deſtroyed them, and turned not again until I had conſumed them.

† Heb. mul-tiplied me.

39 And I have conſumed them, and wounded them, that they could not ariſe: yea, they are fallen under my feet.

40 For thou haſt girded me with ſtrength to battel: them that roſe up againſt me, haſt thou † ſubdued under me.

41 Thou haſt alſo given me the necks of mine enemies, that I might deſtroy them that hate me.

42 They looked, but there was none to ſave: even unto the LORD, but he anſwered them not.

43 Then did I beat them as ſmall as the duſt of the earth, I did ſtamp them as the mire of the ſtreet, and did ſpread them abroad.

44 Thou alſo haſt delivered me from the ſtrivings of my people, thou haſt kept me to be head of the heathen: a people which I knew not, ſhall ſerve me.

45 † Strangers ſhall ‖ † ſubmit themſelves unto me: as ſoon as they hear, they ſhall be obedient unto me.

46 Strangers ſhall fade away, and they ſhall be afraid out of their cloſe places.

47 The LORD liveth, and bleſſed be my rock, and exalted be the God of the rock of my ſalvation.

48 It is God that † avengeth me, and that bringeth down the people under me;

49 And that bringeth me forth from mine enemies: thou alſo haſt lifted me up on high above them that roſe up againſt me: thou haſt delivered me from the violent man.

50 Therefore I will give thanks unto thee, O LORD, among * the heathen, and I will ſing praiſes unto thy name.

CHAP. XXIII.

David's laſt words: a character of himſelf: of a good ruler, and his uſefulneſs, 1,—4. His faith on God's covenant with him, 5. Deſtruction to the wicked, 6, 7. David's worthies and their valiant acts, 8,—39.

NOw theſe be the laſt words of David a: David the ſon of Jeſſe ſaid, and the man who was raised up on high b, the anointed of the God of Jacob c, and the sweet psalmsit of Israel d said, a Not simply the last that he spoke, but some of the last uttered in his last days upon the approach of his death: or, the last which he spake by the Spirit of God, assisting and directing him in an extraordinary manner. b Advanced from an obscure Family and Estate, to the Kingdom. c Whom, though despised by Men, and rejected by his own Brethren, God himself singled out from all his Fathers House, and out of all the Families and Tribes of Israel, and anointed to be King. d Or, sweet, or delightful, or amiable in the Songs of Israel: Either, First, As the object of them: he whom the People of Israel mentioned in their Songs with Joy and Praise, as when they sung, Saul hath slain his thousands, and David his ten thousands; and many others which doubtless they made and sung concerning him, upon the occasion of his eminent Victories, and the Blessings of his wise and righteous Government; some whereof we have in the Book of Psalms. Or, 2dly, As the Author of them: he who was eminent and famous among the People of God, for the composing of sweet and holy Songs to the praise of God, and for the use of his Church in after Ages: for he did not only indite most of the Book of Psalms, by the the direction of God's Spirit; but also invented the Tunes, or appointed Tunes to which they were to be sung, and the Instruments of Musick which were used in and with those Holy Sons, 1 Chron. 25. 2, 6. Amos 6. 5. If the expressions here used seem arrogant, and not fit to be said by David in his own Praise; let it be considered, First, That holy Men spake by Inspiration from God; and therefore must follow his suggestions impartially, as indeed they do, sometimes in the publishing their own Praises; which yet is never done unnecessarily, and always moderately; and sometimes in the publishing of their own infirmities and shame, as they are moved thereunto, and as the Edification of the Church requires. Secondly, That these seem not to be the words of David, but of the Sacred Pen-man of this Book, to make for, and gain the greater attention and respect unto David's following words.

2 The Spirit of the LORD spake by me, and his word was in my tongue e:

e The following words, and consequently the other words and Psalms composed and uttered by me upon the like solemn occasions, are not to be looked upon as my private Fancies or humane Inventions, but both the matter and the words of them are suggested and governed by God's Spirit, which is the great Teacher of the Church.

3 The God of Israel said, * The rock of Israel f spake to me g: ‖ He that ruleth over men must be just, ruling in the fear of God h:

* Deut. 32. 4. ‖ Or, He that ruleth.

f He who is the strength, and defence, and protector of his People; which he here manifests by obliging and directing Kings and Rulers so to manage their Power and Authority as may most conduce to their comfort and benefit. g By way of command. Or, of me, by way of Prediction and Promise concerning me and my House, and the Messias who is to come out of my Loins. h Thus it is a Precept or Declaration of the Duty of Kings, and particularly of Solomon his Son (to whom as a dying Man he gives this Advice) and of his Successors the Kings of God's Israel, for whose Instruction he gives this Rule. And so here are the two principal parts of a King's Duty, answerable to the two Tables of God's Law, Justice towards Men, and Piety towards God, both which he is to maintain and promote among his People. To which if you add Benignity and Clemency, whereby a King renders his Government not frightful and burdensom, but acceptable and amiable to his People, which possibly may be meant by the following Similitudes, here is a compleat Character of an excellent Prince or Governour. Others make it a Prophecy of Christ, and then the words are or may be thus rendred, There shall be a Ruler over Men (or rather, among Men, as the Hebrew word properly signifies, to wit, the Messias, who, though he be the Eternal and Invisible God, yet shall visibly appear and rule among Men) a just or righteous one (a Title oft given to Christ, as Isa. 53. 11. Jer. 23. 5, 6. and 33. 15. Zech. 9. 9.) ruling in the fear of the Lord, making it his great business to advance the Service, and Worship, and Glory of the Lord: or, as it is in the Hebrew, ruling the fear of the Lord; i. e. Governing and ordering the Worship of God, which is oft called, the fear of God. And so this Clause is added to prevent or remove scandals and offences which might be taken at the Messias when he should come, because of his changing and abrogating the Ceremonial Law; and to insinuate that he should have no less power in the governing of God's House and Worship, than Moses had; and that he might make such Laws as he thought meet. And if this be the meaning of the place, then as Jacob, being greatly afflicted with the troubles which he by the Spirit of Prophecy foresaw were coming upon his Posterity, comforts himself with the thoughts of that great and glorious Salvation of God, which he also foresaw and waited for, Gen. 49. 18. So David reflecting upon the great Disorders, and Miscarriages, and Calamities which had already arisen in his House; and either, wisely presaging, or foreseeing by the Spirit of the Lord, ver. 2. that the same sins and miseries should befal his Posterity and Successors; he supports and comforts himself with this Consideration, That one of them should be a most excellent Person; Just, and Pious, and Merciful, and an unspeakable Blessing to David himself, and to all his Family and People, and to the whole World, even the great Messias, who was undoubtedly revealed to, and expected by David, as appears by many passages of the Psalms, and by other Scriptures.

4 And * he shall be i as the light of the morning, when the sun riseth, even a morning without clouds; as the tender grass springing out of the earth by clear shining after rain.

* Judg. 5. 31. Psa. 89. 36. Prov. 4. 18. Hos. 6. 3.

i These words are either, 1. A further Description of the King's Duty, which is not only to Rule with exact Justice and Piety, but also with Sweetness, and gentleness, and condescension to the Infirmities of his People; to render his Government as pleasant and acceptable to them, as is the Sun-shine in a clear Morning, or the tender Grass which springs out of the Earth by the warm and refreshing Beams of the Sun after the Rain, which hath a peculiar kind of sweetness and fragrancy in it. Or rather, 2. A Prediction or Declaration of the sweet and blessed Effects of such a Government, both to the Governour himself, in that Peace, and Prosperity, and Glory, and Happiness which it brings to him, and to his People; to whom it is no less grateful, and comfortable, and beneficial, than those great and publick Blessings of Sun-shine and Rain, and the Fruits which they produce: Which is true of every good King or Governour; but most eminently of the Messias.

5 Although my house be not so with God k; yet he hath made with me an everlasting covenant l, ordered in all things m and sure n: for o this is p all my salvation q, and all my desire r, although he make it s not to grow.

k Although God knows that neither I, nor my Children have Lived and Ruled as we should have done, so justly, and in the fear of the Lord; and therefore have not enjoyed that uninterrupted Prosperity which we might have enjoyed: but our Morning-light, or, the beginning of that Kingdom promised to me and mine for ever, hath been over-cast with many black and dismal Clouds, and my Children have not hitherto been like the tender Grass springing out of the Earth, and thriving by the Influences of the Sun and Rain; but rather like the Grass that withereth away, or is cut off before its due time. l Notwithstanding all our Transgressions whereby we have broken Covenant with God, and the Confusions and Civil Wars which have threatned our Dissipation and utter Destruction; yet I comfort my self with this, That God, to whom all my Sins were fore-known before I commitred them, was graciously pleased to make a sure Covenant, to give and continue the Kingdom to me, and to my Seed for ever, chap. 7. 16. until the coming of the Messias; who is to be my Son and Successor, and whose Kingdom shall have no End. m Ordained in all Points by God's Eternal and Unchangeable Counsel; and disposed by his wise and powerful Providence, which doth and will over-rule all things, even the Sins and Sufferings of my House so far, that although he would punish them for their Sins, yet he will not utterly root them out, nor break his Covenant made with me and mine; as is said, Psal. 89. 31, 32, 33, 34. n Or, preserved, or observed, or kept; to wit, on God's part, or by God's Power and Faithfulness in the midst of all the Oppositions and Uncertainties to which it seems to be exposed on our part: Compare Rom. 3. 3. and 2 Tim. 2. 13. o Or therefore, as the Hebrew Particle chi, oft signifies; therefore i. e. because God hath made such a Covenant. p Or, he is, he who hath made this Covenant: or, in this is, i. e. it consists in, and depends upon this Covenant. q Both my own Eternal Salvation, and the Temporal Salvation, or the Preservation of the Kingdom to me and mine. r Or, every desirable thing; the word desire being oft put for desired, or a desirable Thing; as Psal. 21. 2. and 78. 29, 30. Ezek. 24. 16. David being deeply sensible, and having had large experience of the vanity and uncertainty of all Earthly things, here declares, That the Covenant made by God with him, and his in the Messias, is the only happiness which he prizeth and desireth, in which he doth fully acquiesce. s i. e. My House, mentioned before. So the sence is, Although God as yet hath not made my House or Family to grow; i. e. to increase, or to flourish with worldly Glory and Prosperity, as I expected; but hath for my Sins cut off divers of my most eminent Branches, and sorely afflicted my Person and Family; and although he may for the future deal in like manner with my Sons and Successors for the like miscarriages, which it is probable they may commit: yet this is my great support and comfort, that God will constantly and inviolably keep this Covenant; and therefore, in the midst of all the shaking, and confusions, and interruptions, which may happen in my House, and Kingdom, will preserve my Line and Family until the coming of the Messias out of my Loins, whose Kingdom is an Everlasting Kingdom; who, as he is the desire of all Nations, Hag. 2. 7. so in a special manner is my desire, and the Author of all my Salvation.

6 ¶ But the sons of Belial t shall be all of them as thorns thrust away u, because they cannot be taken with hands.

t Or, the Men of Belial, as it is expressed 2 Sam. 16. 7. and elsewhere. Having in the foregoing Verses described the nature, and felicity, and stability of that Kingdom which God himself had by a sure and everlasting Covenant settled upon him and his Seed; and especially, upon the Messiah, who was to be one of his Posterity; he now describes the quality, the mischievous nature, the hazardous and miserable condition, of all the Enemies of this Holy and Blessed Kingdom, whom he justly calleth sons of Belial, because they rebelled against God's appointment, and against that King whom God had set over them: for which reason others are so called, 1 Sam. 10. 27. 2 Chron. 13. 7. u Which Men do not use to handle, as they do other Trees, but thrust them away from themselves, by some Instrument chosen for that purpose. And so will God remove, or thrust away from himself, and from his People, and Kingdom, all those who shall either secretly or openly set themselves against it. And this may be here added, either, 1. By way of Prescription to Rulers, whom, as before, he admonished to be just and kind to their People, ver. 3, 4. So here he requires them to be severe in Punishing, and Purging away wicked and incorrigible Men from about his Throne, and from among his People; the Encouraging of the Good, and the Punishing of the Bad, being the two chief Works of every good Magistrate, and the two Pillars of all Government. Or, 2. By way of caution; to shew, That notwithstanding the holiness, and happiness, and fureness of this Kingdom, yet there would be sons of Belial in it, who would endeavour to disturb, and overthrow it, but to no purpose; for all their Projects against it should be vain, and fall upon their own Heads.

7 But the man that shall touch them, must be ‖ fenced with iron, and ‖ the staff of a spear x, and y they shall be utterly burnt with fire in the same place z.

x So the meaning is, He must fill his Hand, or Arm himself with some Iron Weapon, whereby he may cut them down; or, with the staff of a spear, or some such like thing, whereby he may thrust them away from himself, that they do him no hurt. Or thus, he will be filled, or will fill himself; i. e. his Hand, wherewith he attempted to touch, and take them with Thorns, as with iron and the staff of a spear. i. e. He will be as surely and sorely wounded, as if one should run the Iron-head, and part of thee Wood of a Spear, into his Hand. y Or, therefore, because Men cannot safely touch them, therefore they will burn them up. Or, or, i. e. if they do not cut them down with Iron, or thrust them away with the Staff of a Spear, they will burn and consume them. z Or, in their place, where they grow or stand; and they will not trouble or hazard themselves to remove them. Withal, it may imply, that they shall be destroyed, when, and where they thought themselves most secure, even in their own place. And, it may possibly intimate, That those Children of Belial, the wicked and unbelieving Jews, who rejected and rebelled against the Messiah, David's Successor, and their lawful King, should be destroyed in their great, and strong, and Holy City Jerusalem, where the greatest part of that People were gathered together as Fewel for the Fire, and were destroyed together by the Romans under Titus, where also their wicked Predecessors had been destroyed by Nebuchadnezar in former times.

8 ¶ These be the names of the mighty men whom David had a; ‖ The Tachmonite b that sate in the seat, chief among the captains (the same was Adino c the Eznite d) ‖ he lifted up his spear e against eight hundred †, whom he slew at one time f.

a i. e. Of his chief and most valiant Commanders. And as it was noted upon chap. 21. 1. that the things related in that Chapter were done before Absalom's and Sheba's Rebellion, though they be mentioned after them; so that Opinion is confirm'd by this Catalogue, which though placed here, was taken long before, as is manifest from hence, that Asahel and Uriah are named here. And whereas there are some differences between this List, and that, 1 Chron. 11. most of them are easily reconciled by these two Conideratons; 1. That nothing is more common than for one Person to have divers Names. 2. That as some of the Worthies died, and others came in their steads; so this must needs cause some alteration in the latter Catalogue, 1 Chron. 11. from this which was the former. b Or, Hachmonite, called Jashobeam, 1 Chron. 11. 11. from his place; or, as here, Josheb-bassheheth; i. e. as we render it, that sate in the seat; i. e. Was, under Joab, Chief, or President of the Council of War, or Lieutenant (locum tenens.) c This was his proper Name. d So called, either from his Family, or from the place of his Birth or Education. e Which words are fitly supplied out of 1 Chron. 11. 11. where they are expressed. Or thus, he was above 800; i. e. He conquered them. So there is only an Ellipsis of the Verb substantive, which is most frequent. f In one Battel, which though it be strange, yet cannot seem incredible, supposing him to be a Person of extraordinary strength and activity, and his Enemies to be weak, or discouraged, and fleeing away; and especially, God's singular Blessing, and Assistance: all which may very reasonably be supposed. Obj. But this Man is said to have slain only 300 in 1 Chron. 11. 11. Ans. 1. Possibly he slew 800 at one time, and 300 at another; whereof the former is related here, as being most considerable; and the latter in the Book of Chronicles, which supplies many Passages omitted in the former Writings. 2. He slew 300 with his own Hands, and the other 500, though killed by his Men, are said to be slain by him, because he was the chief Cause of all their deaths; for he by his undaunted Courage killing 300, put the rest to flight, who were easily slain by his Soldiers, in the Pursuit. 3. Some of the Hebrew Writers affirm, That these were two distinct Persons, being called by differing Names; the one the Father, and the other the Son, who succeeded his Father, as in Strength and Valour, so also in his place of Honour and Trust.

* 1 Chron. 11. 12. and 27. 4.

9 And after him was * Eleazar the son of Dodo the Ahohite g, one of the three h mighty men with David i, when they defied the Philistines k that were there gathered together to battel, and the men of Israel were gone away l:

* 1 Chron. 11. 12. † Heb. slain.

g Of the Children of Ahoah, 1 Chron. 8. 4. h i. e. One of the first Three, ver. 19. i Who were with David at this time: or, who usually attended upon David. k When he either in the name of all the Israelites, or with the countenance and help of some of them, challenged the Philistines to fight. Or, when some of, or among the Philistines defied them: i. e. The Israelites, according to their manner, and the example of their great Goliath, 1 Sam. 17. 25, 36. Or, in Horpam (for some make it a proper name of a Place) among the Philistines. l i. e. Fled away, 1 Chron. 11. 13. being dismayed at the approach of their Enemies. Heb. ascended, i. e. Vanished away like Smoke which ascends, and so disappears, as that Verb is oft used.

10 He arose m, and smote the Philistines until his hand was weary, and his hand clave unto the sword n: and the LORD wrought a great victory that day; and the people returned after him only to spoil o.

m i. e. He undertook the work, as that word sometimes is used. Or, he stood, (as it sometimes signifies) when the rest fled. n Either through Sweat or Blood, or by a contraction of the Sinews. Or thus, yet did his hand cleave to his sword; i. e. Though he was weary, he did not desist, but continued fighting. o i. e. To pursue the Enemy whom he had discomfited, and to take their Spoil.

* 1 Chron. 11. 27. ‖ Or, for foraging.

11 And after him was * Shammah the son of Agee the Hararite: and the Philistines were gathered together ‖ into a troop, where was a piece of ground full of lentiles o: and the people fled from the Philistines.

o Or Barley, as it is 1 Chron. 11. 13. For both might very well grow in the same Field, in divers parts of it. And this fact is ascribed to Eleazer, 1 Chron. 11. 12, but so as it is implied, that he had some Partner or Partners in it; for it is there said, v. 14. They set themselves, &c. So Eleazer might stand and fight in that part where the Barley was; and Shammah there where the Lentiles were.

12 But he stood in the midst of the ground and defended it p, and slew the Philistines: and the LORD wrought a great victory.

p That the Philistines could neither burn, nor tread it down, and spoil it, nor carry it away.

13 ‖ And three of the thirty q chief went down and came to David, in the harvest-time, unto the cave of Adullam r: and a troop of the Philistines pitched in the valley of Rephaim s.

‖ Or, the three captains over the thirty.

q Either, 1. The Three already named, as is generally supposed, because it is said of them, in the close of this History, 1 Chron. 11. 19. These things did those three mightiest. But in the Hebrew it is only, these three mighty men, as the same words are rendred here, ver. 17. Or rather, 2. The following three: for it is expressly said, both here, ver. 16. and 1 Chron. 11. 20. That Abishai was chief, and therefore one of the three: and this Three are plainly distinguished from the first Three, ver. 19. and 1 Chron. 11. 25. r Which was a strong Place where David had been before, 1 Sam. 22. 1, &c. and where he had now again fortified himself in the beginning of his Reign, when the Philistines were too strong for him. s Of which see above, chap. 5. 18.

14 And David was then in an hold, and the garison of the Philistines was then in Bethlehem.

15 And David longed, and said, O that one would give me drink of the water of the well of Bethlehem t, which is by the gate!

t Being hot and thirsty, he expresseth how acceptable a draught of that water would be to him; as is usual with Men to do in such cases: but was far from desiring, or expecting that any of his Men should hazard their Lives to procure it, as appears from ver. 17.

16 And the three mighty men brake through the host of the Philistines u, and drew water out of the well of Bethlehem, that was by the gate, and took it, and brought it to David: nevertheless he would not drink thereof x, but poured it out unto the LORD y.

u Which was in the Valley of Rephaim, v. 13. and in the way to Bethlehem. x Left by gratifying himself upon such terms, he should seem either to set too high a Price upon the satisfaction of his Appetite, or too low a Price upon the Lives of his Soldiers, or should encourage others to the like vain-glorious and foolish Attempts: y As a kind of Drink-offering, and acknowledgment of God's Goodness in preserving the Lives of his Captains in so dangerous an Enterprize; and to shew, that he esteemed it as a Sacred thing, which considering all things, it was not fit for him to drink it.

17 And he said, Be it far from me, O LORD, that I should do this: is not this the blood of the men z that went in jeopardy of their lives? therefore he would not drink it. These things did these three mighty men a.

z i. e. The Price of their Blood or Lives, which they rashly exposed to manifest hazard. a Either one of these Three are here omitted, as one of the first Three is not named, 1 Chron. 11. Or Abishai, who follows next, was one of these Three.

18 And * Abishai the brother of Joab the son of Zeruiah, was chief among three, and he lift up his spear against three hundred, † and slew them b, and had the name among the three c.

* 1 Chron. 11. 20. † Heb. slain.

b He fought with, and killed 300 Men in one Battel. c i. e. Was the most famous and eminent among them.

19 Was he not most honourable of three? therefore he was their captain: howbeit, he attained not unto the first three d.

d He fell short of them in Strength and Valour.

20 And Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, the son of a valiant man, of Kabzeel e, † who had done many acts f, he slew two † lion-like men g of Moab: he went down also and slew a lion in the midst of a pit b in time of snow i.

Or, Lions of God; i. e. Great and strong Lions. Or, two Gigantick Persons; and therefore both so called, as being either equal in might, or Brethren by birth. b Where he put himself under a necessity, either of killing, or being killed. i When Lions are most fierce, both from the sharpness of their Appetite in cold Seasons, and from want of Provisions, Camel being then shut up, and fed at home.

21 And he slew an Egyptian, † a goodly man k: and the Egyptian had a spear in his hand; but he went down to him with a staff l, and plucked the spear out of the Egyptians hand, and slew him with his own spear.

† Heb. a man of countenance or sight. 1 Chron. 11. 23. called a man of great stature.

k For Stature, as it is expressed, 1 Chron. 11. 23. l Without a Sword, or any warlike Weapon.

22 These things did Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and had the name among three mighty men.

‖ Or, honourable among the thirty ‖ Or, councel. † Heb. at his command.

23 He was ‖ more honourable than the thirty, but he attained not to the first three: and David set him over his ‖ † guard m.

o In 1 Chron. 11. 27. Shammoth the Harorite. Concerning which, and such like alterations, and other changes of the Names, which will be observed, by comparing this Catalogue with that, it will be sufficient to suggest, 1. That the same Names of Persons, or Places, are differently pronounced according to the different Dialects used by Men of divers Places or Ages. 2. That one Man had oft two Names. 3. That David had more Worthies than those here mentioned; and as some of these were slain in the former part of David's Reign, as Asahel was; so others came up in their steads; and some were added to this Number, as appears from 1 Chron. 11. where they are named, but not numbered, as they were here; and where there is a greater Number than is here expressed.

38 Ira an Ithrite, Gareb an Ithrite,

39 Uriah the Hittite; thirty and seven in all p. p Here are but 36 named. Either therefore one must be supplied whose name is not expressed among the three second Worthies: or, Joab is comprehended in the number, as being the Lord-General of all.

CHAP. XXIV.

David tempted by Satan forceth Joab to number the people: who are thirteen hundred thousand fighting men, 1,—9. David acknowledgeth his sin in it: having three judgments propounded by God: he is in great distresse, and chuseth the pestilence: of which seventy thousand men die, 10,——15. David by his humiliation preventeth the destruction of Jerusalem, 16, 17. He by God's direction and order from God purchaseth Araunah's threshing-floor to build an altar there: on which having sacrificed, the plague stayeth, 18,—25.

AND again a the anger of the LORD was kindled against Israel, and ‖ he moved David b against them c, to say d, Go number Israel and Judah.

a To wit, after the former tokens of his Anger, such as the three years Famine, chap. 21. b He; Who? Either, 1. Satan, as is expressed, 1 Chron. 21. 1. Or, 2. God; who is said, in like manner, to stir up Saul against David, 1 Sam. 26. 19. and to turn the hearts of the Egyptians to hate his people, Psalm. 105. 25. and to make men to err from his ways, Isa. 63. 17. and to send strong delusions, &c. and to harden their hearts. All which Expressions are not so to be understood, as if God did work these sinful Dispositions; which neither was necessary, because they are naturally in every Man's heart, nor possible for the Holy God to do; but because he permits them, and withdraws his Grace, and all restrains and hindrances from them, and giveth occasions and advantages to them; and directs their Thoughts to such Objects as may indeed be innocently thought of, which yet he knows they will wickedly abuse, and give them up to Satan, who, he knows, will deceive and entice them to such and such Sins; which, being tempted to do by Satan, and being effected by their own wicked Hearts, he so orders and over-rules, that they shall be Punishments for their former Sins. c i.e. For Israel's Punishment. d Or, saying. For this may be referred, either, 1. to God. of whom the same Expression is used, 2 Sam. 16. 10. The Lord said to Shimei, Curse David. Which in both places is not to be understood of any command or impulse of God, but of his secret Providence disposing things in manner here above expressed. Or, 2. To David: he moved David to say, to wit, to Joab, as he did, ver. 2.

2 For the king said to Joab the captain of the host, which was with him, ‖ Go now through all the tribes ‖ Or, Compass. of Israel, from Dan even to Beersheba, and number ye the people, that I may know the number of the people e.

e Which Expression points at David's Sin in this matter, that he numbred them, not by direction from God, nor for any important business of the Church or Kingdom; but out of meer curiosity, and pride, and vain-glory; accompanied either with a secret distrust of God's Promise; or rather, with a carnal confidence in the Numbers of his People. All which were great Sins, and were so manifest, that not only God saw them, and all the degrees and aggravations of them in David; but even Joab and the Captains of the Host were very sensible of them, ver. 3. 4.

3 And Joab said unto the king, Now the LORD thy God add unto the people (how many soever they be) an hundred fold, and that the eyes of my lord the king may see it: but why doth my lord the king delight in this thing f?

f What reason or necessity is there for this Action? It is to no purpose, and will be burdensome to thy People, and may offend God, and produce ill Effects.

4 Notwithstanding, the kings word prevailed against Joab g, and against the captains of the host: and Joab and the captains of the host went out from the presence of the king, to number the people of Israel.

g Joab perceiving the King bent upon it, would not hazard the King's Favour, by further disputing, or disobeying his Command.

5 ¶ And they passed over Jordan h, and pitched i in Aroer, on the right side of the city that lieth in the midst of the ‖ river of Gad k, and toward Ja- ‖ Or, valley. zer l.

h They began their Computation in the Eastern part of David's Dominions, which were beyond Jordan. i Or, encamped. For Joab carried with them divers of his Commanders, and others; partly, for his honour, and the credit of the work: partly, to assist him in that troublesome work: and partly, to overcome the People, in case they should oppose it as sinful or burdensome, or favouring of some evil Design which David might have upon them. k i.e. Of the River which lay in the Tribe of Gad, or upon the borders of Gad and Reuben, which was called Arnon, Deut. 2. 36. l Or, near Jazer, which also was upon the River Arnon.

6 Then they came to Gilead m, and to the ‖ land of ‖ Or, Nethertahtim-hodshi n; and they came to Dan-Jaan o, and land (or about to Zidon p, inclosed.

m To Mount Gilead, which lay Northward from Arnon. n A Place so called. Or, the low-land lately gained; i.e. not given by Joshua, but taken lately from the Hagarens by Saul; which was near Gilead, 1 Chron. 5. 10. o i.e. Probably, the famous City of Dan, as it is called, Josh 19 47. Judg. 18. 7. for this was in the Northern Border of the Land, and in the way from Gilead to Zidon. p i. e. To the City and Territory of Zidon; but not into it, because it was not in the Power and Possession of the Israelites: and the like is to be thought concerning Tyre, and the Cities which the Hivites and Canaanites yet possessed in the Neighbourhood of Tyre and Sidon.

7 And came to the strong hold of Tyre, and to all the cities of the Hivites, and of the Canaanites: and they went out to the south of Judah, even to Beersheba.

8 So when they had gone through all the land, they came to Jerusalem at the end of nine months and twenty days.

9 And Joab gave up the sum of the number of the people unto the king: and there were in Israel eight hundred thousand q valiant men that drew the sword; and the men of Judah were five hundred thousand r men.

q Obj. In 1 Chron. 21. 5. They are numbred 1100 thousand: Answ. The sum here expressed, is only of such as were not in the ordinary and settled Militia waiting upon the King, which being 24000 for every Month, as is largely related, 1 Chron. 27. amounts to 288 thousand, which either with their several Commanders, or with the Soldiers placed in several Garisons, might very well make up 300 Thousand. Or, 288 Thousand may pass in such accounts for 300 Thousand; it being frequent in such great Sums to neglect a smaller number. But in the Book of the Chronicles, which was to gather up the Fragments omitted in the former Books, both sorts are put together, and so they amount to 1100 Thousand. r In 1 Chron. 21. 5. but 470 Thousand. Answ. Either, 1. they were exactly no more, but are called 500 Thousand in a round sum. as is usual in Scripture, and other Authors, Or, 2. the Garison-Soldiers, and such as were imployed in other Services about the King are here included, which are there excluded. Or, 3. They were 500 Thousand when Joab gave up the Number to the King; though presently after that, they were but 470 Thousand, 30000 being slain by the Plague, in the Tribe of Judah; which being David's own Tribe, it was but just and fit it should suffer more than the rest for this Sin. And though it be true, that Joab gave up the Sum before the Plague begun, yet the sacred Pen-man of the Book of Chronicles thought fit to make a defalcation of them who had been swept away by the Plague, that the Judgment of God therein might be observed. Or

Or, 4. There are included here the 30000 which belonged to the 30 Colonels mentioned Chap. 23. who are excluded 1 Chron. 21. although it be questionable, whether those were all of the Tribe of Judah.

10 ¶ And Davids heart smote s him after that he had numbred the people: and David said unto the LORD, I have sinned greatly in that I have done: and now I beseech thee, O LORD, take away the iniquity of thy servant; for t I have done very foolishly.

s His Conscience discerned his Sin, and he was heartily sorry for it. And the occasion of his Repentance was, God's Message by the Prophet Gad, as it here follows, ver. 11. For when, &c. as formerly God's Message by Nathan had the same effect, 2 Sam. 12. Both which Passages are noted, to shew how necessary the further and repeated supplies of God's Grace, are even to the best of Men, to raise them when they fall into Sin. t Because I am sensible of my Sin and Folly, as it is more fully expressed, Psal. 51. 5, 6. Or, although, as this Particle is oft used.

11 For when David was up in the morning, the word of the LORD came unto the prophet Gad, Davids * seer u, saying,

* 1 Chron. 29. 29. u So called, because he was a Prophet (for such were called Seers, 1 Sam. 9. 9.) now and at other times employed by God to reveal his Mind and Will to David. See 1 Sam. 22. 5. 1 Chron. 29. 29.

12 Go, and say unto David, Thus saith the LORD, I offer thee three things; choose thee one of them, that I may do it unto thee.

13 So Gad came to David, and told him, and said unto him, Shall seven years of famine x come unto thee, in thy land? or wilt thou flee three months before thine enemies, while they pursue thee? or that there be three days pestilence in thy land? now advise, and see what answer I shall return to him that sent me.

x Obj. In 1 Chron. 21. 12. it is only three years of famine. Ans. 1. Some conceive, that here was an Error in the Transcriber, and that the true Reading is, three years, as the LXX read it in this place, being supposed to have found it so in their Copies, and that otherwise they durst never have presumed to make so great a change in the Text. 2. In Chron. he speaks exactly of those years of Famine only which came for David's Sin: but here he speaks more confusedly and comprehensively, including those Three Years of Famine sent for Saul's Sin, Chap. 21. And this Sin of David's was committed in the Year next after them, which was in a manner a year of Famine; either, because it was the Sabbatical Year, wherein they might not Sow, nor Reap: or rather, because not being able to Sow in the Third Year, because of the excessive Drought, they were not capable of Reaping this Fourth Year. And Three Years more being added to these Four, make up the Seven here mentioned. So the meaning of the Words is this, As thou hast already had Four Years of Famine, shall Three Years more come? And that it is said of these Seven Years, that Three years shall come, it is a Synecdochical Expression frequent in Scripture, because part of the Years were yet to come. Even as it is said of the Israelites, that they should wander in the wilderness forty years, Numb. 14. 33. when part of that time was already spent.

14 And David said unto Gad, I am in a great strait, let us fall now into the hand of the LORD y (for his mercies are ‖ great z) and let me not fall into the hand of man. ‖ Or, many.

y To wit, his immediate Stroke, which is chiefly in the Pestilence: for though the Sword and Famine be also God's Hand, yet there is also the hand of Man, or other Creatures in them. The reason of this choice was partly his Experience in, and confidence of God's great goodness: partly, because the other Judgments, especially the Sword, had been more dishonourable, not only to David, but also to God, and to his People, and to the True Religion: and partly, because he having sinned himself, thought it just and reasonable to chuse such a Plague to which he was as obnoxious as his People; whereas, he had better fences for himself against Sword and Famine than they had. z And therefore will not exceed measure in his Strokes, as Men will do.

15 ¶ So the LORD sent a Pestilence upon Israel, from the morning even to the time appointed a: and there died of the people from Dan even to Beersheba, seventy thousand men b.

a Either, 1. From Morning to Evening, which is here called the time appointed; or, the time of the convention, or, publick meeting, as this Hebrew Word oft signifies, i.e. till the time of the Evening-Prayer and Sacrifice, when the People used more solemnly to meet together. See Psal. 141. 2. Act. 3. 1. Thus God mitigated his Sentence, and turned three days into one; it being a thing not unusual with God, to qualifie his threatnings, and to take off the evil threatned sometimes wholly, as in Nineveh's Case, and sometimes in part. And this God might do here upon the speedy and serious Repentance of David, and of his People. Or rather, 2. from the morning, (or rather, from that morning; for the Article seems to be Emphatical, and to denote, That very morning in which Gad came to David, ver. 11. and that the Plague did immediately ensue after God's offer, and David's choice: ) even to the time appointed; to wit, by God, i.e. for Three Days, as God had set the time, ver. 13. Object. If it continued Three Days, how is it said, That God repented him of the evil, and stopped the Angel in his course? ver. 16. Answ. This he did in the beginning of the Third Day, whereas otherwise it should have gone on to the end of the Day. Or, it may signifie no more but this; At the end of the Third Day God gave over smiting: For then is God said (after the manner of Men) to repent, when he ceaseth to proceed as before he had done. b So the number of his People, which was the matter of his pride and glorying was diminished.

16 And when the angel c stretched out his hand upon Jerusalem d to destroy it, * the LORD repented him of the evil e, and said to the angel that destroyed the people, It is enough: stay now thine hand. And the angel of the LORD was by the threshing-place of * Araunah f the Jebusite. * 1 Sam. 15. 11. * 1 Chron. 21. 18, 20, 21.

c Which appeared in the shape of a Man with a Sword in his hand, 1 Chron. 21. 16. to convince them more fully that this was no natural nor common Plague, but inflicted immediately by the hand of God. d Which he had begun to smite, and was proceeding to make a far greater slaughter. e i.e. He moderated, and in part recalled his Sentence of the Plagues continuance for three whole days, and this he did upon David's Prayers and Sacrifices, as appears from v. 25. though these be mentioned afterward. f Called also Aranjah in the Hebrew of v. 18. and Ornan, 1 Chron. 21. 22. Such changes in the pronunciation of the names being usual in Scripture.

17 And David spake unto the LORD, when he saw the angel that smote the people, and said, Lo, I have sinned, and I have done wickedly: but these sheep, what have they done? Let thine hand, I pray thee, be against me g, and against my fathers house h.

g Wherein David shews his Justice, and Piety, and Fatherly care of his People, and that he was a Type of Christ. h Against my nearest Relations, who probably either put David upon, or encouraged him in this action, because they were no less vain-glorious than David; and the honour which they thought would come to David thereby, would also redound to them; or, at least they did not use their utmost endeavours to dissuade David from it, as they should have done, and therefore were involved in David's Guilt. Howsoever it was but fit and reasonable that his Family which did partake of his honour and happiness, should also partake in his suffering, rather than those who were less related to him. Nor doth David absolutely desire that they may suffer, but only speaks comparatively, and by way of supposition, and with reference to God's good pleasure.

18 ¶ And Gad came that day to David i, and said unto him, Go up k, rear an altar unto the LORD in the threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite l.

i By command from God, v. 19. 1 Chron. 21. 18. k To Mount Moriah. l Which place God appointed for this work, partly, in gracious condescension to, and compliance with David's fear of going to Gibeon, which is expressed 1 Chron. 21. 29, 30. partly, because this was the place where God by his Angel appeared in a threatning posture, where therefore it was meet he should be appeased: and partly, because God would hereby signifie the translation of the Tabernacle from Gibeon hither, and the erection of the Temple here, 2 Chron. 3. 1.

19 And David, according to the saying of Gad, went up, as the LORD commanded.

20 And Araunah looked, and saw the king, and his servants coming on toward him: and Araunah went out, and bowed himself before the king, on his face upon the ground.

21 And Araunah said, Wherefore is my lord the king come to his servant m? And David said, To buy the threshing-floor of thee, to build an altar unto the LORD, that † the plague may be stayed from the people. † Sacrifices may be offered, and so.

m Wherefore doth the King do me this honour, and give himself the trouble of coming to me?

22 And Araunah said unto David, Let my lord the king take and offer up what seemeth good unto him: Behold, here be oxen n for burnt-sacrifice, and threshing-instruments, and other instruments of the oxen for wood.

n Which were employed by him in his present work, which was threshing, 1 Chron. 21. 20. See the notes on Deut. 25. 4.

23 All these things did Araunah, as a king o give p unto the king: and Araunah said unto the king, The LORD thy God accept thee q.

o The Particle, as, being understood, as it oft is in the Hebrew; i.e. with a Royal Bounty. Or, Araunah the king; as he might be called, either, because he was King of the Jebusites before David took their City: or, because he was the Son and Heir of that King. p He not only offered, but actually gave them, i.e. he actually resigned his right and property in them unto David; for so he did; and David by his refusal returned it to Araunah again. q He was a Jebusite by Nation, but an hearty Proselyte; which made him so liberal in his offers to God's service, and the common good of God's People.

24 And the king said unto Araunah, Nay, but I will surely buy it of thee at a price: neither will I offer burnt-offerings unto the LORD my God, of that which doth cost me nothing. ‖ So David bought the threshing-floor, and the oxen, for fifty shekels of silver s. ‖ 1 Chron. 21. 25.

r For this would be both dishonourable to God, as if I thought him not worthy of a costly Sacrifice: and a disparagement to my self, as if I were unable and unwilling to offer a Sacrifice of my own Goods: and unsatisfactory to the Command of God, which obligeth all offenders, and me in a particular manner, to offer Sacrifice of their own Estate. s Obj. In 1 Chron. 21. 25. he is said to give for the place six hundred shekels of gold by weight. Ans. These two places may be fairly reconciled divers ways. First, Here he speaks of the price paid for the threshing-floor, and oxen, and Instruments; and there for the whole place adjoyning, on which the Temple and its Courts were built, which certainly was very much larger than this Threshing-floor, and probably had Araunah's House, if not some others, now built upon it. Secondly, The Shekels here may be of Gold; and in 1 Chron. 21. of Silver; and so the proportion of Gold to Silver being that of twelve to one, 50 Shekels of Gold make 600 Shekels of Silver. And whereas it may be objected, That on the contrary these 50 Shekels are said to be of Silver, and the 600 of Gold; this they answer by another translation of the words. For they render this place thus, agreeably enough to the words and the order of the Hebrew Text, he bought them for silver, (or, for money, as the Hebrew word Chesseph, oft signifies, and particularly in this very History in the parallel place, 1 Chron. 21. 24. where David desires to buy it for the full price, or for full money, where in the Hebrew it is for full silver): even for fifty shekels, to wit, of Gold, as it is expressed 1 Chron. 21. 25. which place they render thus, and that consonantly to the Hebrew, he gave shekels of gold of the value (for the Hebrew word Mishkal, of six hundred shekels, to wit, of Silver. And this may seem added in the Book of the Chronicles, lest it should be thought that the 50 Shekels here mentioned were but common and Silver Shekels. Thirdly, There is a considerable difference in the Phrase in these two places, Here he mentions for what David bought it, or what he was obliged to give for it; and in Chronicles what he actually gave of it: which was decent and convenient for so great a King, and especially upon so great an occasion, and to him who had given him such a noble example.

25 And David built there an altar unto the LORD t, and offered burnt-offerings u, and peace-offerings x: so the LORD was intreated for the land y, and the plague was stayed from Israel.

t Which he might well do, having God's command for it, and the place being Sanctified by God's special presence in and by the Angel. u To make atonement for his sins. x To praise God for his Gracious manifestation of himself. y As appeared both by fire from Heaven, which consumed the Sacrifices, as was usual in such cases: and by the speedy cessation of the Plague.

I. KINGS.

The ARGUMENT.

These two Books called of the Kings, because they treat of the Kings of Judah and Israel, were written by the Prophets or Holy Men of God, living in or near their several times, and by some one of them digested into this order. But whoever was the Penman, that these are a part of those Holy Scriptures which were Divinely inspired, is sufficiently evident, First, From the concurring Testimony of the whole Jewish Church in all Ages, to whom were committed the Oracles of God, Rom. 3. 2. who also did faithfully discharge their Duty in preserving and delivering them entirely and truly to their Posterity from time to time, as plainly appears, because Christ and his Apostles who, reproved them freely for their several sins, never taxed them with this fault, of depraving the Holy Scriptures of the Old Testament. Secondly, Because this is manifest concerning divers parcels of them which were taken out of the Records of the Prophets Nathan, Ahijah and Iddo, 2 Chron. 9. 29. and out of the Prophesies of Isaiah and Jeremiah; and the rest doubtless were of the same nature. Thirdly, From the approbation of these Books by the New Testament, both generally, as 2 Tim. 3. 16. All thy had known from a child, v. 15. and therefore must necessarily be meant of all the Books of the Old Testament, which the Jews owned for Canonical Scripture; and particularly Rom. 11. 2, 3, &c. where a passage out of these Books is quoted and owned as a part of the Holy Scripture, called the Scripture by way of eminency.

CHAP. I.

Abishag cherisheth David in his extream Age, 1,——4. Adonijah usurpeth the Kingdom, 5,——10. by the Counsel of Nathan to Bathsheba, and their Petition to David, he reneweth his Oath of making Solomon King after him, 11,——31. He, by David's appointment, is anointed King, the People Triumph, 32,——40. Adonijah hearing this, his Guests flye, and himself fleeth to the horns of the Altar: is pardoned by Solomon, and sent to his own House, 41,——53.

NOW king David was old, and † stricken in years a, and they covered him with cloathes, but he gat no heat b. † Heb. entred into days.

a Being in the end of his seventieth Year. b Which is not strange in a Person not only of so great an Age, but also who had been exercised with so many hardships in War, and with such tormenting cares, and fears, and sorrows, for his own sins (as divers of his Psalms witness) and for the sins and miseries of his Children and People. See Prov. 17. 22. Besides, this might be from the nature of his Disease, or Bodily Distemper.

2 Wherefore his servants c said unto him, † Let there be sought for my lord the king † a young virgin d, and let her stand before the king e, and let her † cherish him, and let her lie in thy bosom f, that my lord the king may get heat. † Heb. let them seek. † Heb. a damsel, a virgin. † Heb. be a cherisher unto him.

c His Physicians. d Whose natural Heat is fresh and wholsome, and not impaired with bearing or breeding of Children. The same counsel doth Galen give for the cure of some cold and dry Distempers. e i.e. Minister unto him, or wait upon him, (as this Phrase is oft used) in his sickness, as occasion requires. f As his Wife or Concubine: for that she was so, may appear by divers arguments. First, Otherwise this had been a wicked counsel and course; which therefore neither his Servants durst have prescribed, nor would David have used, especially being now in a dying condition. And seeing this was easily prevented by his talking her for his Concubine, which then was esteemed allowable, it is absurd to think that he would not chuse the safer way. Secondly, That passage, v. 4. but the king knew her not, implies that the King might have had carnal knowledge of her without sin or scandal. Thirdly, It appears from this Phrase of lying in his bosom, which is every where in Scripture mentioned as the priviledge of a Wife and Concubine, as Gen. 16. 5. Deut. 13. 6. 2 Sam. 12. 8. Mic. 7. 5. Fourthly, This made Adonijah's Crime in desiring her to Wife, so heinous in Solomon's account, because he wisely saw, that by Marrying the King's Wife he designed to revive his pretence to the Kingdom, at least in case of Solomon's death; which pretence had been ridiculous, if she had been only the King's handmaid.

3 So they sought for a fair damsel g throughout all the coasts of Israel; and found Abishag a Shunamite h, and brought her to the king.

g Whose beauty might engage his affections, and refresh his spirits, and invite him to those embraces which might communicate some of her natural Heat to him, as was designed. h Of the City of Shunem in Issachar, Jos. 19. 18. See 2 Kings 4. 8.

4 And the damsel was very fair, and cherished the king, and ministred unto him: but the king knew her not i.

i Which is mentioned to note the continuance and progress of the King's Malady, and the ground of Adonijah's Rebellion, and of his following request, chap. 2. 17.

5 ¶ Then k Adonijah the son of Haggith l exalted himself m, saying, I will † be king n: and he † prepared him charets, and horsemen, and fifty men to † run before him o. † Heb. filled up his hand. † Heb. to run.

k Upon notice of the desperateness of the King's Disease, and the approach of his death. l See 2 Sam. 3. 4. m Entertained high thoughts and designs. n As the right of the Kingdom is mine, v. 6. so I will now take possession of it, lest Solomon attempt to deprive me of it. o As Absalom had done upon the like occasion, 2 Sam. 15. 1. such ill use did he make of that example, that he committed the same wickedness which he had done, and yet feared not the same disappointment and destruction which he brought upon himself.

6 And his father had not displeased him † at any † Heb. time p, in saying, Why hast thou done so q? And from his he also r was a very goodly man; and his mother bare days. him after Absalom s.

p This is noted as David's great error, and the occasion of Adonijah's presumption. q He neither restrained him from, nor reproved him for his miscarriages: which was a great sin against that plain Law, Levit. 19. 17. and severely punished in Eli, which David was not ignorant of, except Adonijah's Errors were small or concealed from David. r This particle relates, either, First, To Absalom here following, who also was a goodly Man. Or rather, Secondly, to what goes before, to signifie that this was a second ground of his confidence, because his great comeliness made him amiable in the People's Eyes, as his Father's indulgence was the first. s i. e. Next after Absalom was born of his Mother: See 2 Sam. 3. 3, 4.

7 And † he conferred with Joab the son of Zeruiah, and with Abiathar the priest: and they † following Adonijah, helped him t. † Heb. his words were with Joab. † Heb. and they followed after Adonijah.

t Either, because they thought the right of the Crown was his: or rather, from secret grudges, because they perceived themselves neglected by David, and possibly by Solomon too; and from Carnal Policy, that they might secure and advance their own Interest, which they saw to be in manifest danger.

8 But Zadok the priest, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and Nathan the prophet, and * Shimei and Rei, and * the mighty men which belonged to David u, were not with Adonijah. * Chap. 1. 10. * Sam. 23. 8.

u His great and famous Commanders, and the Guards, and Soldiers under them.

9 And Adonijah slew sheep and oxen, and fat cattel x, by the stone of Zoheleth, which is by ‖ Enrogel y, and called all his brethren the kings sons z, and all the men of Judah the kings servants a. ‖ Or, the fountain of Rogel, or, of the Fuller: 2 Sam. 17. 17. Jos. 18. 16.

x Partly, for a Sacrifice; and partly, for Feasts, that he might engage God to be on his side, and draw a multitude of people after him. y Or, the fountain of Rogel, or, of the Fuller: a place nigh to Jerusalem. See Jos. 15. 7. and 18. 16. 2 Sam. 17. 17. z Either, because he knew they envied, and were discontented with Solomon, and therefore would favour him, or that he might engage them so to do. a Except these here excepted, v. 10.

10 But Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, and the mighty men b, and Solomon his brother he called not.

b Because he knew they favoured Solomon his Competitor.

11 ¶ Wherefore Nathan spake c unto Bathsheba the mother of Solomon d, saying, Hast thou not heard that Adonijah the son of * Haggith doth reign, and David our lord knoweth it not e? * 2 Sam. 3. 4.

c Being prompted to it both by his Piety in sulfilling the will of God declared to him, and by him to David concerning Solomon's Succession, 2 Sam. 7. 13. 1 Chron. 22. 8, 9. and by his prudence, as knowing that Adonijah hated him for being the principal instrument of Solomon's advancement. d Who being retired and private in her apartment, was yet ignorant of what was done abroad: and, who was likely to be most zealous in the cause, and most prevalent with David. e So far is he from consenting to it, as thou may'st fear or others think, that they have not yet acquainted him with it.

12 Now therefore come, let me, I pray thee, give thee counsel, that thou mayst save thine own life, and the life of thy son Solomon f.

f For he will never reckon himself safe till his Competitor and his Friends be taken out of the way.

13 Go, and get thee in unto king David, and say unto him, Didst not thou, my lord, O king, swear g unto thine hand-maid h, saying, * Assuredly Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne i? Why then doth Adonijah reign k? * 1 Chron. 22. 9.

g i.e. Thou didst Swear; which David himself owneth, v. 30. which probably he did to satisfie Bathsheba's doubts and fears about it, and to oblige himself to a compliance with the Divine Will declared about it. See chap. 2. 15. and 1 Chron. 28. 5. h So she calleth her self, to testifie her reverence and subjection to him, not only as her Husband, but as her King. i Another expression of the same thing, to signifie David's sincerity and fervency in his Swearing, which adds to his obligation. k How comes this to pass? Or why dost thou suffer it?

14 Behold, while thou yet talkest there with the king, I will also come in after thee, and † confirm thy words. † Heb. fill up.

15 ¶ And Bathsheba went in unto the king, into the chamber: and the king was very old, and Abishag the Shunamite ministred unto the king.

16 And Bathsheba bowed, and did obeisance unto the king: and the king said, † What wouldst thou? † Heb. what to thee?

17 And she said unto him, My lord, thou swearest by the LORD thy God l unto thine handmaid, saying, Assuredly Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne:

l To whom thou art highly obliged, whose name thou justly fearest and honourest, and therefore thou wilt'st not pollute it by Perjury, but make Conscience of thy Oath.

18 And now behold, Adonijah reigneth; and now my lord the king, thou knowest it not m.

m This she adds, partly, lest she should seem to accuse the King of inconstancy and perfidiousness; and partly, to aggravate Adonijah's Crime, from that gross neglect and contempt of the King, which did accompany it.

19 And he hath slain oxen, and fat cattel, and sheep in abundance, and hath called all the sons of the king, and Abiathar the priest, and Joab the captain of the host: but Solomon thy servant hath he not called.

n Who is not so presumptuous as Adonijah, usurping the Throne before his time, but carries himself modestly and submissively, as thy Son, and Servant, and Subject.

20 And thou, my lord, O king, the eyes of all Israel are upon thee o, that thou shouldst tell them who shall sit upon the throne of my lord the king p after him q.

o The generality of the People are in suspence, whether Adonijah's practices be with thy consent or no, and wait for thy Sentence, which they will readily embrace. p She speaks only in general, as owning the King's Prerogative to give the Crown to which of his Sons he pleased, if he had not restrained himself by his Oath to Solomon. q i.e. After thy death. Whereby she taxeth Adonijah's Ambition, who usurped the Crown whilst his Father lived.

r i.e. Die as his Fathers did. See Gen. 47. 30. s We shall be punished with death as Malefactors, as guilty of practising against the right Heir of the Crown, and transferring the Kingdom to Solomon, and covering our ambitious designs with a pretence of Religion.

22 ¶ And lo, while she yet talked with the king, Nathan the prophet also came in t.

t To discourse with the King; which made it fit for her to withdraw, as she did, v. 28.

23 And they told the king, saying, Behold, Nathan the prophet. And when he was come in before the king, he bowed himself before the king with his face to the ground.

24 And Nathan said, My lord, O king, hast thou said u, Adonijah shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne?

u Is this done by thy consent, without which it seems strange that he durst attempt it?

25 For he is gone down this day, and hath slain oxen, and fat cattel, and sheep in abundance, and hath called all the kings sons, and the captains of the host, and Abiathar the priest; and behold, they eat and drink before him, and say, † God save king Adonijah. † Heb. Let king Adonijah live.

29 But me, even me thy servant x, and Zadok the priest, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and thy servant Solomon hath he not called.

x Whom he knew to be acquainted with thy mind, and with the mind of God in this matter: And therefore his neglect of me herein gives me cause to suspect that this is done without thy privity: which now I come to know.

27 Is this thing done by my lord the king, and thou hast not shewed it unto thy servant y, who should sit on the throne of my lord the king after him?

y Who, having been an instrument in delivering God's message to thee concerning thy Successor, might reasonably expect that the King had changed his Mind, or God had since made some revelation contrary to the former, thou wouldst have acquainted me with it, as being both a Prophet of the Lord, and one whom thou hast always found Faithful to thee, and to whom thou hast used to communicate thy secret counsels.

28 ¶ Then king David answered and said, Call me Bathsheba z: and she came † into the kings presence, and stood before the king. † Heb. before the king.

z Who, upon Nathan's approach to the King had modestly withdrawn her self, either in another Room, or into another part of this Room, more remote from the Bed upon which David lay.

29 And the king sware, and said, As the LORD liveth, that hath redeemed my soul out of all distress, 30 Even as I sware unto thee by the LORD God of Israel, saying, Assuredly Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne in my stead; even so will I certainly do this day.

31 Then Bathsheba bowed with her face to the earth, and did reverence to the king, and said, Let my lord king David live for ever a.

a i.e. For a long time, as that word is oft used, as Chap. 2. 33. Dan. 2. 4. Though I desire thy Oath may be kept, and the right of Succession confirmed to my Son, yet I am far from thirsting after thy death for his advancement, and should rather rejoyce, if it were possible for thee to live and enjoy thy Crown for ever.

32 ¶ And king David said, Call me Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada. And they came before the king.

33 The king also said unto them, Take with you the servants of your lord b, and cause Solomon my son to ride upon † mine own mule c, and bring him down to Gihon d. † Heb. which belongeth to me.

b i.e. My publick Officers, and my Guards. c As a token that the Royal Dignity is transferred upon Solomon, and that by my consent. Compare Gen. 41. 43. Esth. 6. 8. d A River near Jerusalem, on the West side, as may be gathered from 2 Chron. 32. 30. as En-rogel, where Adonijah was inaugurated, was on the East side. This place David chose, either, as remote from Adonijah and his company, that to the People might go thither, and be there without fear of Tumults or Bloodshed; or to shew that Solomon was chosen King in opposition to Adonijah: or, because this was a place of of great resort, and fit to receive and display that numerous company, which he knew would follow Solomon thither: or, that he might from thence return and make the more magnificent entrance into the City.

34 And let Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, anoint him there king e over Israel: and blow ye with the trumpet f, and say, God save king Solomon.

e As they used to do where there was any thing new, or doubtful, or extraordinary in the Succession, as 1 Sam. 10. 1. and 16. 12, 13. 1 Kings 19. 15, 16. 2 Kings 9. 3. And this unction signified both the designation of the Persons to the Office, and the Gifts and Graces which were necessary for their Office, and which, they seeking them sincerely from God, might expect to receive.

f To make the action more Solemn, and Glorious, and Publick.

35 Then ye shall come up after him, that he may come and sit upon my throne; for he shall be king in † Heb. commanded him So Gr. my stead g; and I have † appointed h him to be ruler over Israel, and over Judah i.

g My Deputy and Vice-King whilst I live, and absolutely King when I die. Or, if David and Solomon were Joint-Kings, it is no more than was afterwards frequent at Rome, where the Father and Son, or two other Persons were not seldom Joint-Emperors. h And that by Divine direction. i This is added, partly, as being the most Eminent and Royal Tribe, it being frequent, together with the general distinction, to mention one of the most eminent particulars, as 1 Kings 11. 1 Psal. 18. title. Mark 16. 7. and partly, lest the men of Judah, who were in a special manner invited by Adonijah, v. 9. might think themselves exempted from his Jurisdiction.

36 And Benaiah the son of Jehoiada answered the king, and said, Amen k: The LORD God of my lord the king say so too l.

k Which was both an approbation of the King's Fact, and a profession of his Allegiance to the new King, and a Petition to God to ratifie and confirm it. l The Lord stablish Solomon's Throne in spight of Adonijah, and all his other Enemies.

37 As the LORD hath been with my lord the king, even so be he with Solomon, and make his throne greater than the throne of my lord king David m.

m Which Petition, albeit it might have offended an unworthy, vain-glorious and envious Father, he knew would be welcome to so pious and generous a Man as David was, and to one so kind and indulgent to his Children.

38 So Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites went down, and caused Solomon to ride upon king Davids mule, and brought him to Gihon.

*Exod. 30. 23, 25, 32. 39 And Zadok the priest n took an horn of * oil out of the tabernacle o, and anointed Solomon: and they blew the trumpet, and all the people said, God save king Solomon.

n For though he was not the High-Priest, he might do this office, especially having the direction of the Prophet Nathan, v. 34. o That which David had erected for the Ark, 2 Sam. 6. 17. in which Oyl was kept for divers Sacred uses: for Moses his Tabernacle was at Gibeon, 1 Chron. 16. 39. and 21. 29. which was too remote for the present occasion, which required all possible expedition.

40 And all the people came up after him p, and the ‖ Or, flutes. people piped with ‖ pipes, and rejoyced with great joy q, so that the earth rent r with the sound of them.

p Which flocked thither in abundance, some out of curiosity to see so solemn an Action; others to do their Duty; and others in expectation of some advantage by their chearful attendance upon the new King. q Partly, because this would certainly prevent Civil Wars, under which they had so lately and so sorely groaned, and which they had reason to fear from Adonijah's pretence to the Crown, and the assistance he might have from the great and famous Lord General Joab, and from Abiathar the High-Priest, and from others who were or might easily be engaged for him, if David had not ended the Controversie in his life-time: and partly, because of the singular wisdom and vertue for which Solomon was even then famous. See chap. 2. 5, 9. r An Hyperbolical Expression: yet even solid Bodies have been oft broken and rent by great sounds.

41 ¶ And Adonijah, and all the guests that were with him, heard it, as they had made an end of eating f: and when Joab heard the sound of the trumpet, he said, Wherefore is this noise of the city, being in an uproar?

f For Nathan having given wise Counsel, took all due care to expedite the execution of it, that it might not be spoiled by delays, as frequently happens.

42 And while he yet spake, behold, Jonathan the son of Abiathar s the priest came, and Adonijah said unto him, Come in, for thou art a valiant man u, and bringest good tidings.

s Who is seems was left at Jerusalem for a Spy, as he had formerly been under Absalom. u Or, a man of vertue or worth, as this Hebrew word is used, Prov. 12. 4. and therefore an happy man, and hast good news for thy self and us. Compare 2 Sam. 18. 27.

43 And Jonathan answered and said to Adonijah, Verily x, our lord king David hath made Solomon king.

x Or, but, or, nay but; i.e. The matter is not as thou expectest, but quite contrary.

44 And the king hath sent with him Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites, and they have caused him to ride upon the kings mule.

45 And Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, have anointed him king in Gihon: and they are come up from thence rejoycing, so that the city rang again: this is the noise that ye have heard.

46 And also Solomon sitteth on the throne y of the kingdom.

y i.e. Is put into actual possession of the Kingdom.

47 And moreover, the kings servants came to bless our lord king David z, saying, God make the name of Solomon better than thy name, and make his throne greater than thy throne: And the king bowed himself upon the bed a.

z To praise and thank him for his great and good care, in leaving them in the hands of so excellent a Successor, under whom they might expect Peace and all Prosperity; and to congratulate with him for God's great Mercy to him, in giving him such a Son and Successor, and that his Eyes had now seen the actual accomplishment of God's promise made to him concerning this thing. a Adoring God for this great Mercy, and thereby declaring his hearty approbation and consent to this action. Compare Gen. 47. 31.

48 And also thus said the king, Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, which hath given one to sit on my throne this day, mine eyes even seeing it.

49 And all the guests that were with Adonijah, were afraid, and rose up, and went every man his way b.

b i.e. The way to his own House, lest they should be discovered and taken.

50 ¶ And Adonijah feared, because of Solomon, and arose, and went, and caught hold on the horns of the altar c.

c Either, that which was at Gibeon, as appears from 1 Chron. 16. 39. 2 Chron. 1. 3. and was made with four Horns, Exod. 38. 2. to which the Sacrifices were bound, Psal. 118. 27. Or rather, that which David had lately set up in the Threshing-floor of Araunah, which doubtless was made after the same form as that at Gibeon: For, First, This was next at hand. Secondly, The Altar only is mentioned here, whereas in Joab's case there is mention of the Tabernacle and Altar both, Chap. 2. 28, 29. which seems to be noted to distinguish the two Altars: for Adonijah being the King's Son, he might safely go to Araunah's Altar, and the People would not be forward to seize upon him, or bring him to Justice: but Joab truly thought it was not safe for him to venture himself there, and therefore he flieth to Gibeon, as a place more remote from Jerusalem. Hither he fled, either to implore God's Mercy; or rather, to avoid Solomon's Rage: supposing that his Reverence to that Sacred place would not permit him to pollute him with his Brother's blood; or that the consideration of God's Grace and Mercy, which himself needed and begged of God, in pardoning his Offences, and accepting the Sacrifices which he should offer there, would engage and dispose him to shew Mercy to his offending and now penitent Brother; or, that his Piety would not allow him violently to pluck him as it were out of the Arms of God, into which he had put himself. And for these or such like reasons the Altar was esteemed a kind of Sanctuary or place of Refuge, not only among the Gentiles, but also among the Hebrews, though it be not called by that name, as may be gathered from Exod. 21. 14. 1 Kings 2. 28.

51 And it was told Solomon, saying, Behold, Adonijah feareth king Solomon: for lo, he hath caught hold on the horns of the altar, saying, Let king Solomon swear unto me to day, that he will not slay his servant d with the sword.

d He owns Solomon as his King, and himself as his Servant and Subject; and being sensible of his great guilt, and of the jealousie which Kings have of their Competitors, could not be satisfied without Solomon's Oath.

52 And Solomon said, If he will shew himself † Heb. a worthy man e, * there shall not an hair of him fall to the earth f: but if wickedness shall be found in him g, he shall die. † Heb. a son of strength. * 1 Sam. 14. 45. 2 Sam. 14. 11. Act. 27. 34.

e Heb. a man of strength or courage: for it requires great strength of mind, and resolution, to resist all temptations of Vice, and to do Vertuously. f Herein Solomon manifests his Clemency and Brotherly Affection, and wirhal his prudence in sparing him, whom, being his Brother, and his eldest Brother too, it would have been invidious to have slain. g Not only if he shall be guilty of some capital Crime, but of any great wickedness or evil design. For as this pardon was Solomon's free act, so he might justly qualifie it as he pleased.

53 So king Solomon sent, and they brought him down from the altar; and he came and bowed himself to king Solomon: and Solomon said unto him, Go to thine house h.

CHAP. II.

David lying on his Death-bed, giveth charge to Solomon of a Religious Life, 1,—4. Of Joab: Barzillai and Shimei, 5,—9. he dieth: Solomon succeedeth, 10,—12. Adonijah suing for Abishag, is put to Death, 13,—25. Abiathar is deprived of the Priesthood, 26, 27. Joab fleeing to the Horns of the Altar is slain there, 28,—34. Benaiah is put in Joab's room, and Zadok in Abiathar's, 35. Shimei confined to Jerusalem, going thence to Gath is put to Death, 36,—46.

NOW the days of David drew nigh, that he should die; and he charged Solomon his son, saying, a i.e. Of all men upon the Earth. Compare Jos. 23. 14. Heb. 9. 27. b For, to govern his People according to the Law of God, as it here follows, requires great fortitude or strength of Mind, to arm himself against the subtil devices and evasions of some; against the flatteries and importunities of others; against terrors and dangers from revengeful Men, and especially against himself and his own weakness, partiality, through fear or favour; and against all those evil thoughts and passions to which the temptations of their great wealth, and glory, and uncontrollable power naturally expose them. See Prov. 16. 32. c In manly Wisdom, and Courage, and Constancy, though thou art but young in years, 1 Chron. 22. 5.

2 I go the way of all the earth a: be thou strong b therefore, and shew thy self a man c.

3 And keep the charge of the LORD thy God d, to walk in his ways, to keep his statutes, and his commandments, and his judgments, and his testimonies, as it is written in the law of Moses e, that thou mayest * Deut. 29. 9. Josh. 1. 7. ‖ Or, do wisely. ‖ prosper f in all that thou doest, and whithersoever thou turnest thy self:

d i.e. What God hath charged or commanded thee to do; the act being put for the object, as is usual. e Which the Prince was enjoyned to transcribe and read, Deut. 17. 18. that he might govern his own and his Peoples actions by it. f Or, behave thy self prudently: for the word signifies both. Hereby he intimates, That Religion is the truest Reason of State, and that all true Wisdom and good Success depends upon Piety.

4 That the LORD may confirm his word g which he spake concerning me, saying, * If thy children take heed to their ways h, to walk before me i in truth k, with all their heart, and with all their soul l, * Psal. 132. 12. * 1 Sam. 2. 35. † Heb. be cut off from here from the throne. there shall not † fail thee (said he) a man on the throne of Israel m.

g i.e. Fulfil his promise, the condition upon which it was suspended being performed. h i.e. Diligently observe all their Actions, to order them according to God's Word. i To live as those that have God before their Eyes, and endeavour to approve themselves to him. k Not only in pretence and shew, but truly and sincerely. l i.e. Universally, freely, and fervently. m The Successi-on shall be continued in thy Line without any interruption.

5 Moreover, thou knowest also what Joab the son of Zeruiah did to me n, and o, what he did to the two captains of the hosts of Israel, unto * Abner, the * 2 Sam. 3. 27. * 2 Sam. 20. 10. † Heb. put. son of Ner, and unto * Amasa the son of Jether, whom he slew, and † shed the blood of war in peace p, and put the blood of war upon his girdle that was about his loins, and in his shoes that were on his feet q.

n i.e. Against me; Either, First, Directly and immediately; how insolently and imperiously he hath carried himself towards me from time to time, trampling upon my Authority and Commands when they thwarted his humour or interest, provoking my spirit by his words and actions. See 2 Sam. 3. 39. and 19. 7. Or, Secondly, Indirectly in what he did against Abner and Amasa: whose death was a great injury to David, as it was a breach of his Laws and Peace; a contempt of his Person and Government; a pernicious example to others of his Subjects upon the like occasions; a great scandal and dishonour to him, as if Joab had been only David's instrument, to effect what he secretly desired and designed; whereby the hearts of his People either were, or might have been alienated from him, and inflamed against him, and the wounds which were well-nigh healed, might have been widened again, and made to bleed afresh. o Or, even; the following branches being added as an explication of the foregoing, to shew what and how he acted towards or against David. Or, and particularly; as his other miscarriages, so these especially. p He slew them as if they had been in the state and act of War, when there was not only a cessation of Arms, but also a treaty and agreement of Peace, of which also they were the great procurers and promoters. q This is added to note his impudence and impenitency, that although by his perfidious manner of killing them when he pretended to embrace them, he stained his own Garments with their Blood, yet he was not ashamed of it, but gloried in it, and marched boldly along with the Army, with the same Girdle and Shoes which were sprinkled with their Blood. See 2 Sam. 20. 10.

6 Do therefore according to thy wisdom r, and let † Heb. let not his hoar head go down to † the grave in peace s. Sc Gr.

r i.e. What in Reason and Justice thou seest fit For tho' I was forced to forbear him when it was in a manner out of my power to punish him, yet I never forgave him; and therefore do thou wisely and severely examine all his Actions, and particularly this last Rebellion, and punish him according to his demerits. s Though he be old, having been the General of the Army 40 Years, yet do not suffer him to die a natural death, but cut him off by the Sword of Justice.

7 But shew kindness unto the sons of * Barzillai the Gileadite t, and let them be of those that eat at thy table: for so u they x came to me when I fled because of Absalom thy brother. * 2 Sam. 19. 31.

t Quest. Why doth he not require the like kindness to Mephibosheth the Son of his dear Jonathan? Ans. Either he and his were now extinct; or by their after miscarriages had forfeited his favour. u i.e. With such kindness either as I cannot express (as the Particle so is elsewhere used) or, as I command thee to shew to them. x i.e. Barzillai and his Sons: for though Barzillai only be mentioned, 2 Sam. 17. 27. yet his Sons doubtless were instrumental in the business, especially Chimham, 2 Sam. 19. 37, 38.

8 And behold, thou hast with thee y * Shimei the son of Gera, a Benjamite of Bahurim, which cursed me with a † grievous curse z, in the day when I went to Mahanaim: but he came down to meet me at Jordan, and I sware to him by the LORD, saying, * I will not put thee to death with the sword a. * 2 Sam. 16. 5. † Heb. strong. * 2 Sam. 19. 23.

y i.e. In thy power, as that Phrase is oft used. z Or, reproached me with bitter reproaches, 2 Sam. 16. 7, 8. which David could not but deeply resent from him, though, as it was an affliction sent from God, he patiently submitted to it. a Quest. How then could David lawfully engage Solomon to punish him for it? And did David upon his Death-bed bear malice against Shimei? Ans. First, David was not a private Person which might remit such Offences without any inconvenience; but a publick Magistrate, who for the honour and maintenance of Government was obliged to punish such insolent and opprobrious Speeches, if the necessity of his Affairs had not then engaged him to pass it by. Otherwise it appears from divers passages of the Psalms, and of this History, how free David was from a rancorous and revengeful spirit even towards his Enemies. Secondly, The following advice is not contrary to David's Oath, both because that was only personal, that David would not kill him either at that time, as Abishai desired him, or whilst he lived; and did not oblige his Successors; and especially, because it was not David's mind that Shimei should be put to death for that fault (as is evident, for then there was no need of Solomon's Wisdom to find out an occasion, but only of his Justice to punish him for the old crime) but for some other competent crime, which Solomon's Wisdom narrowly prying into all his actions, would easily find out. And if the condition which Solomon imposed upon Shimei, v. 36, 37. seem hard, it must be remembred, that David only swore that he would Pardon him as to life, but not that he would exempt him from all punishment or confinement.

9 Now therefore hold him not guiltless b: for thou art a wise man c, and knowest what thou oughtest to do unto him d, but his hoar head bring thou down to the grave with blood e.

b Though I have spared his life, do not treat him as an innocent Person, neither let him go wholly unpunished. c And therefore wilest easily find out just occasions to chastise him, especially confidering his perverse and wicked disposition. d How to punish him, not without just cause, and yet without any violation of my Oath, or reflection upon me, or upon Religion for my or thy sake. e i.e. With the effusion of his blood; with a bloody or violent death.

10 * So David slept with his fathers f, and was buried in the city of David g. * Act. 2. 29. and 13. 36.

f See of this Phrase Deut. 31. 16. 1 Kings 1. 21. g i.e. In that part of Jerusalem which was called by his name, because he took it from the Jebusites. See 2 Sam. 5. 7. 1 Chron. 11. 5. 2 Chron. 5. 2.

h More precisely, 7 Years and 6 Months, 2 Sam. 5. 5. but smaller sums are oft neglected in Scripture-computations.

12 ¶ * Then sate Solomon upon the throne of David his father, and his kingdom was established greatly i. * 1 Chron. 29. 23. 2 Chr. 1. 1.

i Being settled upon him with universal consent and approbation, and with the hearty affections of his People, which all Wise Men know to be a Prince's best and surest Establishment.

13 And Adonijah the son of Haggith came to Bathsheba the mother of Solomon, and she said, Comest thou peaceably k? and he said, Peaceably.

k Or, with some Evil design upon me or my Son: which she might well surmise, knowing his ambition and envy at Solomon, and his hatred against her, as the chief occasion of his dejection.

14 He said moreover, I have somewhat to say unto thee. And she said, Say on.

15 And he said, Thou knowest that the kingdom was mine l, and that all Israel set their faces on me, that I should reign m: howbeit, the kingdom is turned about n, and is become my brothers: for * it was his from the LORD o. * 1 Chr. 22. 9. and 28. 5.

l Both by Birthright, and by actual Inauguration. It seems he could not yet forget his pretence to the Crown, nor his ambition for it, but continues his claim: Which, it seems, Solomon did apprehend and and resent, though Bathsheba did not; the Wives and Concubines of the late King being reputed to appertain to the Successor. See 2 Sam. 12. 8. m They looked upon me as their King, and David's Successor, expecting that David should confirm my Election. n Translated from me to him by the vicissitude of human Affairs, and the changeable humour of the People. o Either, First, By God's Providence so disposing David's Mind, and the People's Hearts. Or rather, Secondly, By God's appointment and particular designation, wherein he would seem to acquiesce. Which he mentions, not that he made any Conscience of it, or had any regard to it; but only that by this pretence he might deceive both her and Solomon, as if he were far from any design of usurping the Kingdom.

17 And he said, Speak, I pray thee, unto Solomon the king (for he will not † say thee nay) that he give me Abishag the Shunamite to wife q.

q Which, though it was against a positive Law of God, Levit. 18. 7. yet either Adonijah might be ignorant of it, being a man more studied in the Affairs of the Court, than in the Book of God; or might think her not concerned it it, because David knew her not, Chap. 1. 4.

18 And Bathsheba said, Well, I will speak for thee unto the king.

19 ¶ Bathsheba therefore went unto king Solomon to speak unto him for Adonijah: and the king rose up to meet her, and bowed himself unto her, and sat down on his throne, and caused a † seat to be set for the kings mother, and she sat on his right hand r.

20 Then she said, I desire one small petition s of thee, I pray thee say me not nay: and the king said unto her, Ask on, my mother, for I will not say thee nay t.

s So she esteemed it, because she did not perceive his Design in it; and as for that Law, Levit. 18. 7. she might apprehend, that because David knew her not, it was only a Contract for Marriage, and therefore no impediment of her Marriage to any other after his Death; which also is the Opinion of some of the late Learned Hebrew Doctors. t Supposing thy Request be but small, as thou say'st it is, and not unlawful, nor injurious to my self, or others.

21 And she said, Let Abishag the Shunamite be given to Adonijah thy brother u to wife.

u By the Father's side, whom brotherly Affection and Relation obligeth thee to gratifie; at least, in small things.

22 And king Solomon answered and said unto his mother, And why dost thou ask Abishag the Shunamite for Adonijah? ask for him the kingdom also x; (for he is mine elder brother y) even for him, and for Abiathar the priest, and for Joab the son of Zeruiah z.

x His Design is not upon Abishag, but upon the Kingdom; which, by this means, he thinks to recover; partly, because she was the last King's Wife, or Concubine, which might strengthen his Pretence to the Crown; See 2 Sam. 3. 7, and 12. 8. and 16. 21. and partly, because by her eminent Beauty, and near Relation to David, she had a powerful Interest in the Court. Quest. Was not this too harsh a Censure, and the following Punishment of it too severe? Answ. 1. That Adonijah had such a Design, is very probable, both from his Temper, for he was an aspiring and designing Man, and highly discontented with Solomon's Government, and desirous of a Change; and from the nature of the thing, because he would not have made so daring and presumptuous a Request, if he had not some great Design in it. 2. It is very likely from the following words, though not expressed, that he, and Joab and Abiathar were engaged in some Design against Solomon, and that Solomon had got Information of it; and therefore he did, and might reasonably take this for an Indication, and the first overt act of his Treason. 3. Solomon did not pardon Adonijah's Treason simply, and absolutely, but upon condition that he carried himself worthily, Chap. 1. 52. and this being confessedly a bold and unworthy Action, and arguing more confidence and presumption than became him; and carrying in it the appearance and intention of an Incestuous Marriage, he might justly revive his Guilt, and take this occasion to execute the Sentence which he formerly deserved. If it be said, That it is very improbable that Adonijah should expect to get the Kingdom from Solomon, who was so firmly established in it with universal Applause; it may be answered, That Adonijah was not the only Man that hath fed himself with vain hopes, and engaged himself in high and treasonable Designs, where, to other wise Men there was but little likelihood of Success: and that he might now be only laying the Foundation of what he further intended, when he saw a fit time, and getting a pretence for his future Attempts upon the Crown; either, when Solomon should lose the Peoples Affections, as David had done; or when Solomon should die, which also Adonijah might secretly procure and hasten; and he had only Solomon's young and tender Son to contest with. All which, and many other things, Solomon in his great Wisdom might easily discern; yea, or have some secret Intelligence of, though it be not Recorded. y He looks upon the Kingdom as his, by Nature and Birthright, and the Law of Nations; and therefore he may seek to recover his own, and to cast me out as an Usurper. z Who have all an hand in the Plot, though he alone appear in it: which appears the more likely, because of Solomon's proceeding against them all at the same time; as appears in the following Verses.

23 Then king Solomon sware by the LORD a, saying, * God do so to me, and more also, if Adonijah have not spoken this word against his own life.

a Once here, and again, ver. 24. Which he did to oblige himself irrevocably to it, and to prevent all Intercessions for his Life, it being of so great importance to him.

24 Now therefore, as the LORD liveth, which hath established me, and set me on the throne of David my father b, and who hath made me an house c as he * promised, Adonijah shall be put to death this day d.

* 2 Sam. 7. 13.

b Though Adonijah be my elder Brother, yet I have an undoubted Right and Title to the Crown, and that from the promise and appointment of that God who disposeth of all Kingdoms, and especially this of Israel, to whom he pleaseth; and therefore Adonijah in this, and his former Attempt, is guilty of Treason against me, and of Rebellion against God. c Either, 1. who hath given me Posterity, as that Phrase is used, Exod. 1. 21. and elsewhere: for Rehoboam most probably was born before this time; by comparing 1 Kings 14. 21. Or rather, 2. who hath established me in the House and Throne of David: which he thus expresseth, to signifie, that God hath fulfilled in and to him that Promise which he made to David, in 2 Sam. 7. 11. where the same Phrase is used, and where it doth not so much signifie the giving of David Posterity, which he had sufficiently before that time; as the settlement of the Crown in him and his Seed. d For he knew delays were dangerous in matters of that Nature.

25 And king Solomon sent by the hand of Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada e, and he fell upon him f that he died.

e For the Execution of Justice was not then committed to obscure Persons, as now it is; but to Persons of great Honour and Authority. See Judg. 8. 21. 1 Sam. 22. 18. 2 Sam. 1. 15. and 4. 12. f With a Sword, or other Instrument of Death; as below, ver. 32, 34, 46.

See Jer. 32. 7. i He doth not fully Pardon him, but only forbears him, and reserves to himself a liberty of Punishing him afterwards, if he saw occasion; which he doth to keep him in awe, that he might not dare to raise or foment Discontents or Tumults among the People, which otherwise he might be prone to do. k When he thought fit to carry it out with him; as 2 Sam. 15. 24, 29. 1 Chron. 15. 11, 12. when he as High-Priest was to attend upon it. Thus Solomon sheweth his respect to his Sacred Function. l Here he mixeth Mercy with Justice, and requites Abiathar's former kindness to David; hereby teaching Princes, that they should not write Injuries in Marble, and Benefits in Sand or Water, as they have been too oft observed to do.

m Either from his Office; or, at least, from the Execution of his Office. For some think, that he was thrust from his Office before David's Death, when Zadok was formerly made Priest; i. e. High Priest in his stead, 1 Chron. 29. 22. But that seems to be a mistake: For although that passage immediately follows the History of what was done in the time of David's Life and Health, when he was in a capacity of going into the Publick Congregation: yet it manifestly belongs to another time, and was done after it: For he there speaks of Solomon's being made King the second time, and he was made King but twice; once undoubtedly before this, 1 Chron. 23. 1. and again, 1 Kings 1. 39. When David was Bedrid, and Adonijah's Usurpation made a second Unction necessary. And therefore what is said, 1 Chron. 29. 22. of Zadok's being made Priest, was done after Abiathar's Deposition, and upon that occasion. n For what hinders but Solomon might intend this not only as a Punishment for his Treason, but also as a means to accomplish God's Word? o i. e. Concerning the Translation of the Priesthood from the House of Eli, and of Ithamar, unto that of Eleazar: which being threatned 80 years ago, is now Executed. So Divine Vengeance, though sometimes it be slow, is always sure.

28 ¶ Then tidings p come to Joab, (for Joab had turned after Adonijah, though he turned not after Absalom) and Joab fled unto the Tabernacle of the LORD q, and caught hold on the horns of the altar r.

p Concerning Adonijah's Death, and Abiathar's Deposition. q Which then was at Gibeon, 1 Kings 3. 4. compared with 2 Chron. 1. 3, 5. r Of which see before, Chap. 1. 50.

29 And it was told king Solomon that Joab was fled unto the tabernacle of the LORD, and behold, he is by the altar: then Solomon sent Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, saying, Go, fall upon him s.

s To wit, if he will not come thence, as I foresee he will not.

30 And Benaiah came to the tabernacle of the LORD, and said unto him, Thus saith the king, Come forth t. And he said, Nay, but I will die here u. And Benaiah brought the king word again, saying, Thus said Joab, and thus he answered me.

t That the King gave him this Command, though it be not mentioned before, is evident, both from the nature of the thing; for Solomon would not pollute the Altar without necessity; and from Benaiah's affirmation of it; for why should he tell a lye without a cause? and from his return to the King for new Orders upon Joab's Resolution not to come thence. u For he supposed, either, that Solomon would not desile that place with his Blood: or, that he had a superstitious conceit, that his dying there might give his guilty and miserable Soul some advantage.

31 And the king said unto him, Do as he hath said x, and fall upon him, and bury him; that thou mayst take away the innocent blood y which Joab shed from me, and from the house of my father.

x Either, 1. Kill him in that place: and for so doing, Solomon might seem to have warrant from God, Exod. 21. 14. and might further design by this just severity, to deterr future Offenders, by shewing, that no place nor person should protect them from the stroke of Justice. Or rather, 2. let him Die as he is resolved; kill him, though he be there; take him by violence from that place, and then kill him: for Exod. 21. 14. doth not command the Ruler to kill the Murderer there, but to remove him thence, to take him from the Altar, that he may die. And seeing this might be done, why should Solomon unnecessarily stain the Altar with his Blood? y i. e. Both the Guilt of it, which would rest upon my Fathers and my Family, if it went unpunished; and the scandal and reproach of it, that neither this, nor following Ages may imagine that it was done by David's secret instigation, or with his consent.

32 And the LORD shall return his blood z upon his own head, who fell upon two men more righteous and better than he a, and slew them with the sword, my father David not knowing thereof, to wit, * Abner the son of Ner, captain of the host of Israel, and * Amasa the son of Jether, captain of the host of Judah.

* 2 Sam. 3. 27.

* 2 Sam. 20. 10.

z i. e. The guilt of the Blood which he shed. a Of more ingenuous and generous Tempers, abhorring from all such Treacherous Practices; and both of them then devoted to, and employed in my Service.

33 Their blood therefore shall return * upon the head of Joab, and upon the head of his seed for ever b: but upon David and upon his seed, and upon his house, and upon his throne, shall there be peace for ever from the LORD c.

* 2 Sam. 3. 29.

b Either as long as he shall have a Posterity: or, for a long time: as that Phrase is commonly used. c In, and by this Execution of Justice upon him, and such Malefactors, my Throne shall be established, and God will bless me, and mine, with Peace and Prosperity.

34 So Benaiah the son of Jehoiada went up, and fell upon him, and slew him, and he was buried in his own house in the wilderness d.

d Places which have but few Houses and Inhabitants, are oft so called in Scripture; as, Isa. 42. 11. Jer. 25. 24. Ezek. 34. 25.

35 ¶ And the king put Benaiah the son of Jehoiada in his room over the host, and Zadok the priest did the king put in the room of Abiathar e.

e He now put him in the execution of that Office, to which he may seem to have been Anointed before, 1 Chron. 29. 22. But of that, see my notes here on ver. 27.

36 ¶ And the king sent, and called for * Shimei, and said unto him, Build thee an house in Jerusalem, and dwell there, and go not forth thence any whither f.

* 2 Sam. 15. 8.

f This Solomon ordered, partly, for his own security; that being removed from that place where his Kindred, and Estate, and Interest lay, to a place where he was but a stranger, and sufficiently odious for his former, and never-to-be-forgotten Insolency towards his Lord and King, he might be uncapable of raising any Tumults and Seditions; partly, as a penalty for his former Wickedness, wherein yet there was more Mercy than Justice, and from which David had not promised him any security, but only given him his Life; and partly, That being in this Publick Theatre, all his Words, and Actions might be narrowly observed; which, considering his base, and covetous, and wicked Temper, was likely to give Solomon the advantage which he sought for; and this very Prohibition would probably inflame his desire of Transgressing it, as the manner of Men is.

37 For it shall be, that on the day thou goest out, and passest over the * brook Kidron g, thou shalt know for certain, that thou shalt surely die: thy blood shall be upon thine own head h.

* 2 Sam. 15. 23.

g A Brook nigh unto Jerusalem, of which see 2 Sam. 15. 23. 2 Kings 23. 4. Which he particularly names, because that was the way to Baburim, his former and settled Habitation: but this is not to be understood exclusively to other ways and places; for the restraint was general, that he should not go forth thence any whither, ver. 36. to wit, as far any other way as Cedron was; which also appears from the following History; for when he went to Gath, he went not over Cedron, (which lay Eastward from the City) but Westward, as Gath lay. h The blame and guilt of thy Blood shall lie upon thy self only.

38 And Shimei said unto the king, The saying is good i: as my lord the king hath said, so will thy servant do k. And Shimei dwelt in Jerusalem many days.

i Thy Sentence is much more merciful than I expected, or deserved. k And Shimei did not only promise it, but also swore to it; being required by Solomon to do so, as is manifest from verse 42, 43.

39 And it came to pass at the end of three years, that two of the servants of Shimei ran away unto Achish son of Maachah king of Gath l, and they told Shimei, saying, Behold, thy servants be in Gath.

l A King, but subject and tributary, first to David, and then to Solomon. This might be, either that Achish who shewed so much kindness to David, 1 Sam. 27. and 28. or his Son; who, in requital of this kindness was still permitted to enjoy the Title and Honour of a King, but not the full Power; whence it was, that Achish could not, or durst not keep these Servants, though they had fled to him for Protection; but suffered Shimei to take them away from his Royal City.

40 And Shimei arose, and saddled his ass, and went to Gath m, to Achish, to seek his servants: and Shimei went and brought his servants from Gath.

m Which, though highly dangerous, he attempted, partly, because he was blinded with Covetousness and Rage against his Servants, which two Lusts have done, and daily do engage Men to such Courses and Actions as are no less dangerous to their lives than this is; partly, because he thought length of time had worn this out of Solomon's mind, and other mens thoughts: and that this being done secretly and speedily, would never have come to Solomon's ears; or that Solomon would not be severe in this Case, where it was not wantonness nor contempt of his Authority, but the necessity of his Houshold-concerns, which put him upon it: And partly, because God withdrew from him the light of common Prudence, and wholly left him to his own Mistakes, and Folly, and Lusts; and withal, to the Instigation of the Devil, whose cunning and powerful Artifices, and Insinuations he could not resist, without Divine help.

41 And it was told Solomon n, that Shimei had gone from Jerusalem to Gath, and was come back again.

n Who doubtless had his Spies appointed, to observe him in all his Motions.

42 And the king sent and called for Shimei, and said unto him, Did I not make thee to swear by the LORD, and protested unto thee, saying, Know for a certain, that on the day thou goest out, and walkest abroad any whither, that thou shalt surely die? And thou saidst unto me, The word that I have heard is good.

43 Why then hast thou not kept the oath of the LORD, and the commandment that I have charged thee with o?

o He was guilty both of Rebellion against the express, and just, and (as himself called it) good Command of the King, and of Perjury against God; which were two high and heinous Crimes. His Oath, he calls the Oath of the Lord, because it was taken in God's Presence, and he was called upon as witness of it, and as the Avenger of all Violations of it, and because the Law of God obliged him to the performance of it.

44 The king said moreover to Shimei, Thou knowest all the wickedness which thine heart is privy to p, that thou didst to David my father: therefore the LORD shall return q thy wickedness upon thine own head.

p For which thy own Conscience accuseth thee, and there is no need of other Witnesses. q Heb. hath returned, which seems most proper. God hath Punished thee for thy former Wickedness, by suffering thee to fall into further Crimes, and expose thy self to thy deserved Death.

45 And king Solomon shall be blessed, and the throne of David r shall be established s before the LORD t for ever.

r That Royal Power and Dignity conferred upon David to him and his Heirs for ever. s By the execution of such Righteous Judgments as this is. t In the presence of that God, who is both an Observer and Rewarder of all such Righteous Actions: or, under God's inspection, and by his Blessing.

46 So the king commanded Benaiah the son of Jehoiadah, which went out u, and fell upon him that he died: and the * kingdom was established in the hand of Solomon x.

* 2 Chron. 12. 1.

u Carrying Shimei along with him to the place of Execution, which was not fit to be in the King's Presence. x His secret and worst Enemies being taken out of the way.

Solomon marrieth Pharaoh's Daughter: High Places being in use, he goeth to Gibeon to Sacrifice, 1,——4. There the Lord appeareth to him: Gives him a choice: He preferreth Wisdom: Obtaineth it, and also Riches and Honour, 5.——15. His Judgment between the two Harlots, 16,——28.

* Gha. 7. 8. AND * Solomon made affinity with Pharaoh king of Egypt a, and took Pharaohs daughter b, and brought her into the city of David c, until he had made an end of building his own house, and the a As being a powerful neighbour. b Upon what conditions is not here expressed: but it is probable, she was first instructed in, and Proselyted to the Jewish Religion; as may be gathered, 1. Because he was not yet fallen from God, but loved the Lord, and walked in the statutes of David, ver. 3. And therefore would never have married a gross Idolater, which was so contrary to God's Law, and so pernicious in its Consequences. 2. Because he is no where reproved for this Fact, as he is for loving many other strange women, 1 Kings 11. 1. 3. By comparing Psal. 45. and the Book of Canticles: whereby it plainly appears, that this Action had something extraordinary in it, and was design'd by God to be a Type of Christ, calling his Church to himself, and to the true Religion, not only out of the Jews, but even out of the Gentile World. c Of which, see Chap. 2. 10. Into David's Palace there. d i.e. The Temple appropriated to the Worship and Honour of God. e Which though in some sort built by David, 2 Sam. 5. 9. yet Solomon is here said to Build, either because he made it higher, and stronger, and more beautiful, and glorious; in which, or the like sense Nebuchadnezzar is said to have built Babylon, Dan. 4. 30. or because he built another Wall besides the former, for greater security; for after this time Jerusalem was encompassed with more Walls than one.

* 2 Chron. 33. 17. 2 * Only ∴ the people sacrificed in high places f, because there was no house g built unto the name of the LORD h until those days.

∴ This Particle is used here, and v. 3. as an Exception to Solomon's Integrity and Glory, and as his infirmity, and a blemish to his Government, That he himself both permitted and practised this which was expresly forbidden, Levit. 17. 3, 4. Deut. 12. 13, 14. except in some extraordinary cases. Possibly he permitted it, because he thought it better to allow an Error in a Circumstance, than to occasion a neglect of the Substance of God's Worship, which he apprehended would follow upon a severe Prohibition of that Practise, because the People's hearts were generally and constantly set upon these high Places, as appears from all the following History; and they were not willing to submit to so much trouble and charge as the bringing of all their Sacrifices to one place would cause; nor would yield to it until the Temple was built, which he knew would easily encline and oblige them to it; and that being speedily to be done, he might think it more adviseable, rather to delay the Execution of that Law of God for an approaching Season, wherein he doubted not, they would be sweetly and freely drawn to it than at present to drive them to it by force. Although these and all other prudential Considerations should have given place to the Will and Wisdom of God. f Which were Groves, or other convenient places upon Hills, in which the Patriarchs used to offer up their VVorship and Sacrifices to God; and from them this Custom was derived both to the Gentiles and the Jews: and in them the Gentiles Sacrificed to Idols, Jer. 7. 31. Ezek. 6. 3, 4. Hos. 10. 8. the Hebrews to the true God. g VVhich reason was not sufficient, for there was a Tabernacle, to which they were as much confined as to the Temple, Deut. 12, &c. h Either, 1. To the Lord, the name of the Lord being oft put for the Lord himself, as Deut. 28. 58. Job 1. 21. Psal. 7. 17. and 116. 13. and 139. 1. Or, 2. To the Honour, and Praise, and Service of God; to the Glory of his Name; i. e. of his Majesty, and all his Perfections, which shall be adored and manifested there.

3 And i Solomon loved the LORD, walking in the statutes of David k his father: only he sacrificed and burnt incense in high places.

i Or, yet, although he mistook, and miscarried himself in the matter of High Places, yet in the general, his Heart was right with God, and he both loved him with inward Affection, and walked with him in outward Conversation and Worship. k i.e. According to the Statutes or Commands of God, which are here called the statutes of David; not only because they were so freely chosen, and heartily loved, and diligently practised by David, but also because the observation of them was so earnestly pressed upon Solomon, and fortified with David's Authority and Command: See 1 Kings 2. 2, 3, 4. and 1 Chron. 28. 8, 9.

4 And the king went to Gibeon to sacrifice there; for that was the great high place l: a thousand burnt-offerings did Solomon offer upon that altar m.

l The most eminent and frequented, because there was the Tabernacle, and the Altar of Moses, 1 Chron. 16. 39. and 21. 29. And 2 Coron. 1. 3, 5, 6. which possibly were placed upon an high, or raised Ground. m Thereby shewing his special respect to this above all other places; and by his Example teaching and inviting all his People to do so.

5 ¶ In Gibeon the LORD appeared to Solomon in a dream n by night: and God said o, Ask what I shall give thee.

n Quest. How could Solomon pray in his Dream, or that prayer be acceptable to God, as this was, v. 10? Ans. The Dreams of Men are not such insignificant things as many imagine. That good Dreams are oftentimes praise-worthy, and evil Dreams blameworthy, is not only the opinion of the Jews and Christians, but of divers of the wiser and better Heathens; and the reason hereof is evident, because mens Dreams are commonly the Images of their Minds and Tempers, and do only reflect and represent, though but faintly and imperfectly, those very things which are most imprinted upon their hearts by their waking Meditations, and daily Conversation; and therefore it is not unreasonable, that either the sinful Dreams of evil-minded Men should be imputed to them, and punished in them, or the vertuous Dreams of good Men imputed to, and rewarded in them; which was Solomon's case: for his heart having been daily and constantly imployed in passionate longings and prayers for the Wisdom, which here he begs; it was a natural and likely thing that his heart should, as it did, work that way even in his Dreams. Although, to speak truly and strictly, Solomon's prayer made in his Dream, would have been no way pleasing to God, nor profitable to himself, if it had not been the result of his daily and most serious practice; and though God signified his mind in a Dream, yet it was Solomon's waking Prayers (which were shadowed by this dark representation) which God accepted and requited; and this acceptance of God was signified to him in an extraordinary manner, and by a Divine Dream, which was one of those ways whereby God oft used to communicate his Will to his Prophets and People. So the whole business lies thus: Solomon dreamed that God bid him ask what he would, 1 Kings 3. 5. and that he did ask Wisdom, v. 6, &c. and that God accepted his desire, v. 10. and gave him that gracious answer, ver. 11, &c. And all this was done in a Dream, but with this difference; Solomon's prayer was but imaginary, but God's answer was real, though conveyed in a Dream. And when he awoke, he knew by Divine Inspiration that this was a Dream sent from God to assure him that he would give him Wisdom, and Riches, and Honour, and this with respect unto his frequent, constant, and fervent waking desires, which his Dream of his Prayers did sufficiently intimate. See more on v. 6. o i.e. He dreamed that God said so.

6 And Solomon said p, Thou hast shewed unto thy servant David my father great ‖ mercy, according as he walked before thee in truth q, and in righteousness, and in uprightness of heart with thee r, and thou hast kept s for him this great kindness, that thou hast given him a son to sit on his throne, as it is this day.

p i.e. He dreamed that he said. See on v. 5. Or, he really said. For although the use of reason is ordinarily so dark and imperfect in Dreams, that such actings are not human actions; yet in extraordinary and Divine Dreams it is but reasonable to allow something extraordinary. For who can doubt but God may so clear up and assist a Man's reason in his Dream, that he may have a true and strong apprehension of some things, which also may make a suitable impression upon the will or affections; and consequently such acts of the Soul may be moral acts and regardable by God and men? And this might be a kind of exstatical rapture, whereby his Soul might be as it were carried out of his Body, as St. Paul's was, 2 Cor. 12. 3. for a season, in which case both his reason might clearly and distinctly apprehend God's mind, and his gracious offer; and his Will might make a free choice of Wisdom; which therefore might be accepted and rewarded by God. q Either, First, Sincerely, and without dissimulation. But that is more fully expressed in the following words, in uprightness of heart. Or rather, Secondly, in the true Worship and Service of God, in the profession, belief, practice and defence of the truth, or of the true Religion, or of God's Will or Word, which is called truth, Prov. 23. 23. John 17. 17. Gal. 3. 1. So truth here contains all his duties to God, as righteousness doth his duties to men, and uprightness the right manner of performing both sorts of duties. r i.e. In thy Judgment, to whom alone his heart was known, and to whom he oft appealed as the witness of his Integrity; and with respect to whom he performed all his duties, even to men. s Or, reserved; that which thou didst not reserve for Saul, whose Posterity thou didst cut off from the Kingdom.

7 And now, O LORD my God, thou hast made thy servant king instead of David my father: and I am but a little child t: I know not how to go out or come in t.

t So he was in Years: not as if he were now but twelve Years old, as many gather from this name of Child; for that name is given to Ishmael, when 18 Years old, Gen. 21. 14, 15. and to Rehoboam when 41 Years old, 2 Chron. 13. 7. where the word is the same in the Hebrew: and before this time David calls him a wise man, chap. 2. 9. but he was now not above 20 Years old; and withal (which he principally intends) he was raw and unexperienced, as a Child, in State Affairs, and altogether unfit for so hard a task. t i.e. To govern my People, and manage Affairs; as that Phrase signifies, Num. 27. 17. Deut. 31. 2. Jos. 14. 11.

8 And thy ¶servant is in the midst of thy people u which thou hast chosen x, a great people, that cannot be numbred, nor counted for multitude.

u i.e. Is fee over them to rule and guide them. A Metaphor from the Overseer of divers VVorkmen, who usually is in the midst of them, that he may the better observe how each of them dischargeth his office. x Thy peculiar People, whom thou takest special care of, and therefore wilt expect a more punctual account of my Government of them.

9 * Give therefore thy servant an † understanding heart y to judge z thy people, that I may discern between good and bad a: for who is able b to judge this thy so great a people?

* 2 Chron. 1. 10. † Heb. hearing.

y Whereby I may both clearly discern, and faithfully perform all the parts of my duty: for both these are spoken of in Scripture, as the the effects of a good understanding; and he that lives in the neglect of his Duties, or the practice of Wickedness, is called a Fool, and one void of understanding. z Or, govern, as that word is used, Judg. 3. 10. and 4. 4. Psal. 7. 8. and 67. 4. Isa. 2. 4. and 16. 5. a To wit, in Causes and Controversies among my People; that I may not through mistakes, or prejudices, or passions, give wrong Sentences, and call evil good, or good evil. b Of himself, or without thy gracious assistance.

10 And the speech pleased the LORD c, that Solomon had asked this thing.

c How such a dreaming Prayer could please God, see in the Notes on v. 5, and 6.

11 And God said unto him, Because thou hast asked this thing, and hast not asked for thy self † long life, neither hast asked riches for thy self, nor hast asked the life of thine enemies d, but hast asked for thy self understanding † to discern judgment;

d That God would take away their lives, or put them into thy power to destroy them.

12 Behold, I have done according to thy word e: lo, I have given thee a wise and an understanding heart f, so that there was none g like thee before thee, neither after thee shall any arise like unto thee ∴.

e I have granted, and do at this present grant unto thee thy desire. And accordingly at this time God did infuse into him a far higher degree, and greater measure of Wisdom than he naturally had. f i.e. Wisdom to govern thy People, to know and do thy several Duties; which was the thing that Solomon desired, v. 7, 9. and the effects whereof here follow, v. 16, &c. and withal, all Divine and Humane Wisdom, the knowledge of all Things, of all the Arts and Sciences, as may be gathered from 1 King 4. 29, &c. and that in a far greater proportion than by his years, and the time he could get for his study, could possibly produce. g Either, no King: or rather, no Man: for he is herein preferred not only before all Kings, but before all men, chap. 4. 31. no meer Man since the Fall equalled him, to wit, in universal Knowledge, and especially in the Art of well-governing his People. ∴ Quest. Did not the Apostles excel him? Ans. They did not in Natural and Political Knowledge, but only in the knowledge of the Mysteries of Faith, which were more freely and more fully imparted in those Times; the ignorance whereof was no disparagement to Solomon's Wisdom, because they were not discoverable by any Creature without Divine Revelation, which God saw fit not to afford in Solomon's time. I know no inconvenience in affirming that Solomon's natural Capacities were higher than any of the Apostles; and Solomon had a more comprehensive Knowledge of all things known in that Age, than the Apostles had in all the Discoveries of their Age.

* Matth. 6. 33. ‖ Or, hath or here.

13 And I have also * given b thee that which thou hast not asked, both riches and honour, so that there ‖ shall not be i any among the kings like unto thee all thy days k.

b Either, First, I have granted and decreed to give: for words signifying action, are oft put only for the purpose of the action. Or rather, Secondly, I will give, as it is expressed in the Parallel place, 2 Chron. 1. 12. I will as certainly give them, as if I had actually done it; for future certain things are oft expressed in Scripture in the past time, as is well known to all. i So it is true of all the succeeding Kings of Israel, of whom he speaks. Or, hath not been, as it is in the Hebrew: and so it may be true of all the Kings that then were or had been in the World, whereof none was like to him, to wit, in all the things here mentioned, and wherein he is compared with them, which is not only in Riches, but also in Wisdom, and in Honour or Renown. k To wit, of thy life. Whereby he signifies, that these Gifts of God were not temporary and transient, as they were in Saul, but such as should abide with him whilst he lived.

* Chap. 15. 5. 14 And if thou wilt walk in my ways l, to keep my statutes, and my commandments, * as thy father David did walk, then I will lengthen thy days.

l This Caution God gives him, lest his great Wisdom should make him proud, or careless, or presumptuous, as if he were out of all danger; and to oblige him to more care and circumspection to avoid the snares and mischiefs to which so much prosperity and glory would probably expose him; and withal to justifie himself in case he should afterwards alter the course of his Providence towards Solomon; and that, when Men are surprized with Solomon's dreadful fall, they might know, it was no surprisal to God, but that he did foresee it, and would over-rule it to his own Glory one way or other.

15 And Solomon awoke, and behold, it was a dream m: and he came to Jerusalem, and stood before the ark of the covenant of the LORD n, and offered up burnt-offerings o, and offered peace-offerings p, and made a feast to all his servants.

m i.e. He perceived that it was a Dream; not a vain Dream, wherewith Men are commonly deluded; but a Divine Dream, assuring him of the thing: which he knew, partly, by a Divine Impression and Inspiration thereof in his mind after he was awakened: and partly, by the vast alteration which he presently found within himself in point of Wisdom and Knowledge. n Which was there in the City of David, 2 Sam. 6 17. before which he presumed himself in way of Holy Ministration and Adoration, which may be noted by the word, stood. Or, that word may note his abode there for some considerable time, as the offering of so many Sacrifices required. o Chiefly for the expiration of his and his Peoples Sin, through the Blood of Christ, manifestly signified in these Sacrifices p Solemnly to praise God for all his Mercies, and especially for giving him a quiet and fixed possession of the Kingdom, and for his glorious Appearance to him in a Dream, and for the great Promise therein made to him, and the actual accomplishment of it since wrought in him.

16 ¶ Then came there two women that were harlots q, unto the king r, and stood there before him s.

q Or, Visitaullers: for the Hebrew word signifies both. See on Josh. 2. 1. And possibly they might be both, this by their open profession, and the other by their secret practice: not that they were common Harlots; for neither would Solomon have tolerated such; nor durst such have presented themselves before so wise and just a Ruler; nor do such use either to bring forth Children, or to have such a tender care of, and affection to them as these express. Yet that they were unmarried Persons, and so guilty of Fornication, seems most probable, both because there is no mention of any Husbands, whose office it was, if there were any such, to contest for their Wives; and because they lived a solitary life in one House. r Haply they had presented their Cause to the Inferior Courts, who could not determine; and therefore now they bring it to the King, as the Supreme Magistrate, and famous for his Wisdom. s Desiring and expecting his Sentence in the Case.

17 And the one woman said, O my lord, I and this woman dwell in one house, and I was delivered of a child with her in the house.

18 And it came to pass the third day t after that I was delivered, that this woman was delivered also: and we were together; there was no stranger with us in the house u, save we two in the house.

t So they could not be distinguished by their Age. u Therefore no Witness on either side: and although there might be some sensible difference to an exact Observer between the Features of the two Children; yet it is not probable that was much minded by the Neighbours: for though civil Women might affist them both in their Child-births, yet it is not likely they would afterwards converse much with them, as being Persons of suspected Fame, and the Features of the children, especially for so few days, might easily be so like, that it was difficult to discern the one from the other. And the Testimonies of the Women were of equal credit, i.e. of none at all.

19 And this womans child died in the night, because she over-laid it x.

20 And she arose at midnight y, and took my son from beside me z, while thine handmaid slept a, and laid it in her bosome, and laid her dead child in my bosome.

y When I was asleep, as she reasonably and truly concluded. z Either, because she really desired the comfort of a Child, to be educated by her, and owned as hers: or, because she would not be thought guilty of the Child's death, for which she knew not how severely Solomon would punish her. a As she might well know, because had the been awake, she had discovered and prevented her design.

21 And when I rose in the morning to give my child suck, behold, it was dead: but when I had considered it in the morning, behold, it was not my son, which I did bear.

22 And the other woman said, Nay, but the living is my son, and the dead is thy son: and this said, No; but the dead is thy son, and the living is my son. Thus they spake before the king b.

b Both peremptorily and vehemently affirmed the same thing, oft repeating the same words.

23 Then said the king, The one saith, This is my son that liveth, and thy son is the dead: and the other saith, Nay; but thy son is the dead, and my son is the living.

24 And the king said, Bring me a sword: and they brought a sword before the king.

25 And the king said c, Divide the living child in two, and give half to the one, and half to the other.

c With seeming sincerity and earnestly, though with a design far above the reach of the two Women, or of the People present, who probably with admiration and horror expected the execution of it.

26 Then spake the woman whose the living child was, unto the king, (for * her bowels † yerned upon her son) and she said, O my lord, give her the living child, and in no wise slay it: but the other said, Let it be neither mine nor thine, but divide it.

* Hos. 11. 8. † Heb. were hot.

27 Then the king answered and said, Give her the living child, and in no wise slay it: she is the mother thereof d.

d As is evident from her Natural and Motherly Affection to the Child, which she had rather have alienated and given away from her, than destroyed.

28 And all Israel heard of the judgment which the king had judged, and they feared the king: for they saw that the wisdom of God e was † in him to do judgment f.

e Either, great and eminent Wisdom, as the Cedars or mountains of God are the highest and most eminent of the kind: or, Divine Wisdom, with which God had inspired him for the better government of his People. f To assist him in wisely Examining and justly Determining the Causes and Controversies of his People.

CHAP. IV.

Solomon's chief princes, 1,—19. And officers for provision, 7,—19. The peace and largeness of his kingdom, 20, 21. His daily provision for his court, 22,—25. The stables for his horses, 26,—28. His wisdom, 29,—34.

SO king Solomon was king over all Israel a.

a This is spoken with respect to his Successors, who were Kings only over a part, and that the smallest part of it. Or, in reference to the times of Division and Rebellion under David; when part went after David, and part after Ishbosheth; or part after Absalom, or Sheba, or Adonijah: but now all Israel were united under Solomon, and adhered to him, not only a part of them; especially since the death of Adonijah and Joab (who may be suspected to have watched an opportunity of revolting,) and the confinement of Abiathar, and of Shimei (if not his death also) who could now have little or no Interest or Opportunity of setting up a Party against Solomon (their Principals being taken away, to whom they were but Accessaries;) nor, in probability, any Design to attempt it.

2 And these were the princes which he had b, Azariah the son c of Zadok d, ‖ the priest e.

b i.e. The chief Rulers or Officers belonging to him. c Or, the Grand-son, by comparing this with 1 Chron. 6. 8, 9. d Either Zadok the Priest, 1 Chron. 6. 8, 9. or some other of that name. e So he was the second Priest, or the Priest that attended upon Solomon's Person in Holy Offices and Administrations. But when this Sacred Writer professeth to give an account of Solomon's Princes, why should he put the second Priest, or Solomon's Domestick Priest, in the first place? Or, why should he be mentioned distinctly from his Father, who was generally present with Solomon, and could easily, either by himself, or some other fit Person or Persons appointed by him, manage all the King's Sacred Concerns? Or, why is he named before his Father? Others therefore render this Hebrew word, Prince, as it is used, Gen. 41. 45. and 47. 22, 26. Exod. 2. 16. 2 Sam. 8. 18. So he was either the chief in Dignity, the first Prince, and the highest Officer in the State next to the King: or the chief Minister of State, by whom the great Affairs of State were managed and prepared for the King's Confideration, &c.

3 Elihoreph, and Ahiah the sons of Shisha, ‖ scribes f: Jehoshaphat, the son of Ahilud the ‖ recorder g.

f i.e. Secretaries of State. He chose two, whereas David had but one: either, because he observed some inconveniencies in trusting all those matters in one hand: or, because he had now much more employment than David had, this being a time of great Peace and Prosperity, and his Empire enlarged, and his Correspondencies with Foreign Princes more frequent. g Of which see on 2 Sam. 8. 16.

4 And Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, was over the host: and Zadok and Abiathar were the priests h.

h i.e. The High-Priests, to wit, successively, first Abiathar, and then Zadok. Quest. Why is Abiathar named when he was deposed? Ans. First, Because it is ordinary for Persons to retain the Names and Titles of those Places which in reality they have lost. Secondly, Because though he was deposed from the High-Priesthood, yet he was a Priest, and the Chief of one of the Priestly Families: and as Zadok was jointly named with Abiathar when Abiathar alone was the High-Priest, as 2 Sam. 8. 17. and 20. 25. so now Zadok and Abiathar are joined, although the High-Priesthood was rested in Zadok alone. Thirdly, Possibly Abiathar, though he was deposed from the Supreme Priesthood, yet upon his serious Repentance, and by the Intercession of his Friends, was restored to the execution of the Priestly Office, and put into that Place which Zadok enjoyed when Abiathar was High Priest. Fourthly, Some say that here is mention made of all Solomon's Chief Officers, both such as now were, and such as had been, and such as were afterwards, as they gather from v. 11. and 15. where two Persons are named who married two of Solomon's Daughters, which could not be till many Years after this time.

5 And Azariah the son of Nathan was over the officers i: and Zabud the son of Nathan k was principal officer l, and the kings friend m.

i Or, Overseers, or Surveyors, to wit, over those twelve Officers named ver. 7, &c. where this Hebrew word is used, who were all subject, and to give up their Accompts to him. Though the word signifies any Governors or Commanders of the higher sort, as 1 King. 5. 16. 2 Chron. 8. 10. k The Prophet, who had been so highly instrumental in Solomon's Establishment in the Throne. l Possibly, President of the King's Council. The Hebrew word is Cohen, which ver. 2. is rendred Priest, whence some read this place thus: Zabud the son of Nathan the Priest, or the Minister (as the word properly signifies, and that Title well enough agrees to a Prophet, or the Prince: for the Prophet Nathan was a Man considerable both for his Quality, and for his Honour and Esteem with the King,) was the kings friend. m Either his special Favourite, both for his Father's sake and for his own, having, it seems, been brought up with him: or, his Confident, with whom he used to communicate his most secret Counsels.

* Chap. 5. 14. ‖ Or, levy.

6 And Abishar was over the houshold n: and * Adoniram the son of Abda was over the ‖ tribute o.

n Steward of the King's Houshold. o To wit, the personal Tribute, or the levy of Men, as appears by comparing this with chap. 5. 13, 14. it being very fit that there should be some one person to whom the chief Conduct or Inspection of that great business was committed.

7 ¶ And Solomon had twelve officers over all Israel, which provided victuals for the king and his houshold: each man his month in a year made provision.

8 And these are their names: ‖ the son of Hur p in mount Ephraim.

p This and others of them are denominated from their Fathers, because they were known and famous in their Generation.

9 ‖ The son of Dekar in Makaz, and in Shaalbim, and Bethshemesh, and Elon-Beth-hanan q.

q Or, Elon, the house or dwelling-place of Hanan; and Hanan may be a Mans name, and this Place may be so differenced from other Elons. Or, the plain (for so the Hebrew word signifies) of Beth-hanan.

10 ‖ The son of Hesed in Aruboth, to him pertained Sochoh r, and all the land of Hepher s.

r There were two Sochohs, but both near together. See Josh. 15. 35, 48. s In Judah. See 1 Chron. 4. 6.

11 ‖ The son of Abinadab in all the region of Dor t, which had Taphath the daughter of Solomon to wife.

t In Manasseh with Jordan, where also were Taanach, Megiddo, and Bethshean, v. 12.

12 Baana the son of Ahilud, to him pertained Taanach, and Megiddo, and all Beth-shean, which is by Zartanah beneath Jezreel t, from Beth-shean to Abel-Meholah, even unto the place that is beyond Jockneam.

t Which was in Issachar. And this seems added to distinguish it from that Zartanah, Josh. 3. 16.

13 ‖ The son of Geber in Ramoth-Gilead u, to him pertained the towns of Jair x the son of Manasseh, which are in Gilead: to him also pertained the region of Argob, which is in Bashan, threescore great cities with walls and brazen bars y.

u Ramoth in the Land of Gilead, Deut. 4. 43. Josh. 20. 8. 1 King. 22. 3. so called to difference it from Ramath in Issachar, 1 Chron. 6. 73. x In Manasseh beyond Jordan. See Numb. 32. 41. Deut. 3. 14. y This is added by way of distinction from those Town of Jair. For being without Jordan, they were liable to the attempts of their Enemies.

14 Ahinadab the son of Iddo had ‖ Mahanaim z.

z The City and Territory of Mahanaim: of which see Gen. 32. 2. Josh. 13. 26. But this seems too narrow a compass for one of these great Officers, and unequal to the rest: although these portions seem not to be distributed into equal portions of Land, but into larger or lesser parts, according to their fertility or barrenness. And this seems to have been a very fruitful place. See 2 Sam. 17. 27. Or, to Mahanaim. So he may understand all the space from the parts last mentioned to Mahanaim, which was in the Tribe of Gad.

15 Ahimaaz was in Napthali: he also took Basmath the daughter of Solomon to wife.

16 Baanah the son of Hushai was in Asher, and in Aloth.

17 Jehoshaphat the son of Paruah in Issachar.

18 Shimei the son of Elah a, in Benjamin.

a Which he adds to distinguish him from that cursed and cursing Shimei, 2 Sam. 16. 5.

19 Geber the son of Uri was in the country of Gilead b, in the country of Sihon king of the Amorites, and of Og king of Bashan: and he was the only officer which was in the land c.

b i.e. In the remaining part of that Land of Gilead, which was mentioned above, v. 19. c Or rather, in that land, for the Hebrew points intimate that the emphatical Article is there understood, to wit, in all Gilead, excepting the parcels mentioned before, in all the Territories of Sihon and Og; which because they were of large extent, and yet all committed to this one Man, it is here noted concerning him as his priviledge above the rest, whose Jurisdictions were of a narrower extent.

20 ¶ Judah and Israel were many, as the sand which is by the sea in multitude, eating and drinking, and making merry.

21 And Solomon reigned over all kingdoms, from the river d unto the land of the Philistines e, and unto the border of Egypt f: they brought presents, and served Solomon g all the days of his life.

d Euphrates: for so far David, having conquered the Syrians, extended his Empire, which Solomon also maintained in that extent. And so God's Promise concerning the giving of the whole Land, as far as Euphrates, to the Israelites, was fulfilled. And, if the Israelites had multiplied so much that the Land of Canaan would not suffice them, having God's Grant of all the Land as far as Euphrates, they might have seized upon it whensoever occasion required. e Which is to be understood inclusively; for it is unreasonable to think that the Philistines were not within Solomon's Dominion f Unto the River Sihor, which was the border between Egypt and Canaan, Josh. 13. 3. Compare Gen. 15. 18. g By Tribute, or other ways, as he needed and required.

22 ¶ And Solomons † provision for one day was thirty h measures of fine flour, and threescore measures of meal i, b Heb. Cors: each of which contained ten Ephah's, Exod. 16. 36. So this Provision was sufficient for near three thousand Persons. i Of a courser sort for common use, and for the inferior sort.

23 Ten fat oxen k, and twenty oxen out of the pastures l, and an hundred sheep, beside harts, and roebucks, and fallow-deer, and fatted fowl.

k Fatted in stalls. l Well fleshed, tender and good, though not so fat as the former.

24 For he had dominion over all the region on this side the river, from Tiphsah m even to Azzah, over all the kings on this side the river n: and he had peace on all sides round about him.

m Either that Tiphsah, 2 King. 15. 16. which was in the Kingdom of Israel within Jordan; or, rather, another place of that name upon the River now mentioned, to wit, Euphrates, even that eminent City which is mentioned by Ptolemy, and Strabo, and Pliny, called Thapsacum. And this best agrees with the following Azzah, which was the border of Canaan in the South and West, Gen. 10. 19. Deut. 2. 23. as Tiphsah was in the North and East. And so his Dominion is described by both its borders. n Who owned subjection, and payed Tribute to him.

25 And Judah and Israel dwelt † safely, * every man under his vine, and under his fig-tree o, from Dan even to Beersheba, all the days of Solomon.

o Enjoying the Fruit of his own Labours with safety and comfort. Under these two Trees, which were most used and cultivated by the Israelites, he understands all other Fruit-bearing Trees, and all other comforts, by a Synecdoche. And they are brought in as sitting or dwelling under these Trees, partly for Recreation or Delight in the Shade; and partly, for the Comfort or Advantage of the Fruit; and withal, to note their great security, not only in their strong Cities, but even in the Country, where the Vines and Fig-trees grew, which were most open to the incursions of their Enemies.

1 Chron. 5. 25.

26 ¶ And * Solomon had forty thousand stalls of horses p for his charets q, and twelve thousand horsemen r.

p In 2 Chron. 9. 25. it is but four thousand. Ans First, Some acknowledge an error of the Transcriber, writing arbahim, forty, for arbah, four, which was an easie mistake. And such mistakes in some Copies, in these lesser matters, God might permit, for the trial and exercise of our Faith, without any prejudice to the Authority of the Sacred Scriptures in the great Doctrines of Faith and good life. Secondly, It is not exactly the same Hebrew word which is here and there, though we translate both stalls; and therefore there may well be allowed some difference in the signification, the one signifying properly stables, of which there were 4000, the other stalls or partitions for each Horse, which were 40000. Which great number seems directly forbidden, Deut. 17. 16. except Solomon had some particular dispensation from God, which might be, though it be not recorded. q Both for his Military Charets, which seem to be those 1400, 1 King. 10. 26. and for divers other uses, as about his great and various Buildings, and Merchandises, and other occasions, which might require some thousands of other Charets. r Appointed partly for the defence and preservation of his People in peace; and partly, for attendance upon his Person, and for the Splendor of his Government. Compare chap. 10. 26. But the words may be otherwise rendred, and 12000 horses, for Parash manifestly signifies both an horse and horsemen. And these might be a better sort of Horses than most of those which were designed for the Charets. Or thus, and for (which Particle is easily understood and borrowed from the foregoing clause) 12000 horsemen: and so he means that the 40000 Horses were in part appointed for his Charets, and in part for his 12000 Horsemen.

27 And those officers s provided victual for king Solomon, and for all that came unto king Solomons table, every man in his month: they lacked nothing t.

s Named above, v. 7, &c. t Or rather, they suffered nothing to be lacking to any man that came thither, but plentifully provided all things necessary.

28 Barley also and straw for the horses, and ‖ dromedaries t, brought they unto the place where the officers were, every man according to his charge.

t Or, Mules, by comparing this with 2 Chron. 9. 24. or, Post-Horses: which are particularly mentioned and distinguished from the other Horses, because they took a more exact and particular care about them. Howsoever, it is agreed that these were swift Beasts, which is evident from Esth. 8. 10, 14. Mich. 1. 13.

29 ¶ And God gave Solomon wisdom, and understanding, exceeding much, and largeness of heart u, even as the sand that is on the sea shore x.

u i.e. Either, First, Magnanimity, or generosity and greatness of spirit, whereby he was disposed and emboldened to undertake great things. But this seems not so well to suit with the following resemblance. Or rather, Secondly, Vastness of understanding, a most comprehensive knowledge of all things both Divine and Humane: for this Wisdom is the thing for which he is here commended, both in the foregoing and following words. x Which cannot be numbred or measured; and which, though it be so vast and comprehensive, yet consists of the smallest parts, and so it may note that Solomon's Wisdom was both vast, reaching to all thing; and most accurate, searching and discerning every small thing.

30 And Solomons wisdom excelled the wisdom of all the children of the east country y, and all the wisdom of Egypt z.

y The Chaldeans, Persians, and Arabians, who all lay Eastward from Canaan, and who were famous in ancient times for their Wisdom and Learning, as appears both from Sacred and Prophane Writers. z i.e. The Egyptians, whose Fame was then great for their Skill in the Arts and Sciences, which made them despise the Grecians as Children in knowledge. See Act. 7. 22.

31 For he was wiser than all men a: than Ethan the Ezrahite, and Heman b, and Chalcol, and Darda c the sons of Mahol d: and his fame was in all nations round about.

a Either of his Nation: or, of his time: or, of all Times and Nations, whether of the East or any other Country, excepting only the first and second Adam. b Israelites of eminent Wisdom, probably the same mentioned, 1 Chron. 2. 6. and 15. 19. and 25. 4. Psal. 88. title, and 89. title. c Of whom see 1 Chron. 2. 6. d Obj. All these four were the Sons of Zerah, 1 Chron. 2. 6. or of Ezrah, as others call him. Ans. Either, the same Man had two names, Zerah and Mahol, which was common amongst the Jews; and he might be called Mahol from his Office or Employment; for that signifies a Dance, or a Pipe; and he was expert in Musical Instruments, and so were his Sons, 1 Chron. 15. 17, 18, 19. who possibly may here be called by a vulgar Ebraisme, Sons of the Musical Instrument, from their dexterity in handling it, as upon another account we read of the daughters of musick, Eccles. 12. 4.

32 And he spake three thousand proverbs e: and his songs were a thousand and five f.

e i.e. Short, and deep, and useful Sentences, whereof a great and the best part are contained in the Books of Proverbs and Ecclesiastes. f Whereof the chief and most Divine are in the Canticles.

33 And he spake of trees g, from the cedar-tree that is in Lebanon, even unto the hyssop that springeth out of the wall h: he spake also of beasts, and of fowl, and of creeping things, and of fishes.

g i.e. Of all Plants, of their nature and qualities: all which Discourses are lost, without any impeachment of the Perfection of the Holy Scriptures; which were not inspired and written to teach Men Philosophy or Physick, but only to make Men wise to Salvation. See Joh. 20. 31. 2 Tim. 3. 16, 17. h i.e. From the greatest to the least.

34 And there came of all people to hear the wisdom of Solomon, from all i kings of the earth, which had heard of his wisdom.

i To wit, from all the neighbouring Kings; universal Particles being frequently understood in a restrained sense; and such restriction is grounded upon the following words, where this is limited to such as heard of Solomon's Wisdom.

CHAP. V.

Hiram sendeth to congratulate Solomon: who desireth of Hiram timber to build the temple, 1,—6. Hiram blesseth God for Solomon: and, for food for his family, sendeth him trees, 7,—12. The number of labourers and workmen employed about the temple, 13,—18.

AND Hiram king of Tyre sent his servants unto Solomon a: (for he had heard that they had anointed him king in the room of his father) for * Hiram was ever a lover of David.

* 2 Sam. 5. 11. 1 Chron. 14. 1.

a To wit, as soon as he heard of his Succession in the Throne, as the following words shew, he sent to congratulate with him, as the manner of Princes is.

2 And * Solomon sent to Hiram, saying,

* 2 Chron. 2. 3.

3 Thou knowest b how that David my father could not build an house unto the name of the LORD his God c, * for the wars which were about him on every side d, until the LORD put them under the soles of his feet e.

* 1 Chron. 22. 8.

b By common Fame, and by particular Information. c i.e. Either, First, For the Worship and Service of God, 1 King 3. 2. Or, Secondly, For the Lord himself, as that Phrase is used Deut. 23. 58. Psal. 20. 1. and 52. 9. d Which diverted his Cares and Thoughts to other things, and withal occasioned God's denial of the honour of that work to him. e i.e. Made them subject to him, that he might trample upon them at his pleasure. Compare Psal. 8. 6. 1 Cor. 15. 27.

4 But now the LORD my God hath given me rest on every side, so that there is neither adversary, nor evil occurrent.

5 And behold, I † purpose to build an house unto the name of the LORD my God, * as the LORD spake unto David my father, saying, Thy son whom I will set upon thy throne in thy room, he shall build an house unto my name.

† Heb. say. * 2 Sam. 7. 13. 1 Chron. 17. 12. and 22. 10.

6 Now therefore command thou, that they f hew me cedar-trees g out of Lebanon h, and my servants shall be with thy servants i: and unto thee will I give hire for thy servants k, according to all that thou shalt † appoint: for thou knowest that there is not among us any that can skill to hew timber, like unto the Sidonians l.

f i.e. Thy Servants, as appears both from the foregoing words, command, &c. and from the following opposition of my servants, &c. and this assistance which these Gentiles gave to the building of Solomon's Temple, was a Type of the calling of the Gentiles, and that they should be very instrumental in the building and constituting of Christ's Spiritual Temple, to wit, his Church. g Which for their soundness, and strength, and fragrancy, and durableness, were most excellent and proper for his design. Of these David had procured some, but not a sufficient number. h Which was either wholly or in part in Solomon's Jurisdiction: and therefore he doth not desire that Hiram would give him the Cedars, because they were his own already; but only that his Servants might hew them for him; which required Art and Skill, in the time and manner of doing of it; all which the ingenious Tyrians well understood. i Either to be employed therein as they shall direct; or to receive the Cedars, being cut down and hewed, from their hands, and to transmit them to me; although Hiram in his return eased him of that trouble. k i.e. Pay them for their Labour and Art. l Or Tyrians: for these Places and People being near, and subject to Hiram, are promiscuously used one for another.

Christ's

7 ¶ And it came to pass, when Hiram heard the words of Solomon, that he rejoyced greatly m, and said, Blessed be the LORD n this day, which hath given unto David a wise son over this great people.

m Being an ingenuous Prince, a lover of Excellency, and a faithful Friend to David and to his House. n For though it be not probable that he was a sincere Proselite, because he did not endeavour the instruction of his People, and the extirpation of their grosse Idolatry, which by God's blessing and Solomon's help he might easily have effected; yet he had sufficient information concerning the Nature and Excellency of the God of Israel, and had honourable thoughts of him, as also divers other Heathens had, 1 Sam. 4. 8. Dan. 6. 16. 2 Macc. 3. 3.

8 And Hiram sent o to Solomon, saying, I have † considered the things which thou sentest to me for: and I will do all thy desire concerning timber of cedar, and concerning timber of fir p.

o A Letter, 2 Chron. 2. 11. p Which formerly was, and still is very useful in most buildings. Others render the Hebrew word, pitch-trees, or ash-trees, or pine-trees. To others, it was a particular sort of Cedars, and therefore comes under the general name of Cedars, in Solomon's message before related.

9 My servants shall bring them down from Lebanon unto the sea q: and I will convey them by sea in ‖ floats r unto the place that thou shalt † appoint me s, and will cause them to be discharged t there, and thou shalt receive them: and thou shalt accomplish my desire, in giving food for my houshold u.

q The Mid-land Sea. r Or, Ships, or Rafts. It is thought the Timbers were tied together in the Water, as now it is usual, and so by the help of Boats or Ships, conveyed to the appointed place, which was at no great distance. s Which was Joppe, 2 Chron. 2. 16. a Town upon the Sea, Josh. 19. 46. Act. 9. 43. t Heb. dispersed, or dissolved: which implies that they were tied together. u Or, i.e. Either, First, My Kingdom or People: for the word house or family is sometimes used for a Nation or People, as Judg. 13. 2. and 18. 11. Zech. 12. 13. and 14. 18. The reason of this desire is, because the Country belonging to Tyre and Sidon, was very barren, and the People there being very numerous, depended upon Solomon's Country for relief, as is manifest from Acts 12. 20. Compare Ezra 3. 7. Ezek. 27. 17. And this Relief or Provisions, Hiram doth not desire to be freely given to him, but to be sold to him and his People at a reasonable rate, as Josephus reports it. Or, Secondly, My servants employed in the work, as it is expressed, 2 Chron. 2. 16. Though divers, both Jewish and Christian Interpreters, conceive that this and that are differing accounts; and that here he speaks of the recompence which was given to Hiram himself, and to his House, for the materials which were taken out of his Territories; and in 2 Chron. 2. of what was given to his Servants for their Labour. Or, Thirdly, My Royal Family and Court, which most properly is called his house.

10 So Hiram gave Solomon cedar-trees, and fir-trees, according to all his desire.

11 And Solomon gave Hiram twenty thousand † measures of wheat, for food to his houshold, and twenty measures of pure oil x: thus gave Solomon to Hiram year by year y.

x Heb. Twenty Cors of pure oil; but in 2 Chron. 2. 10. it is twenty thousand baths of oil. To which is there added 20000 measures of barley, and 20000 baths of wine. Either therefore, First, He speaks of several things, as was now said on v. 9. Or, Secondly, He speaks there of what Solomon offered: for it runs thus, I will give; and here of what Hiram accepted; and accordingly Solomon gave, for it is here said, Solomon gave Hiram. Or, Thirdly, The Barley, and Wine, and 20000 baths of common oil, mentioned 2 Chron. 2. must be added to the 20000 measures of wheat, and the twenty measures of pure oil here expressed, and the whole summ is to be made up from both places; that Book of Chronicles being written to supply and compleat the Histories of the Books of Samuel, and of the Kings. y Either, First, For sustenance to the Workmen, during the Years wherein they were employed in the cutting down and hewing of the Timber. Or, Secondly, For the yearly support of the King's House, during the said time. And these words being left out in 2 Chron. 2. may seem to favour their Opinion, that these places speak of divers Passages, and several Recompences, the one given to the King's House, the other to the Labourers, although the Argument is not cogent; and this might be omitted there, either because it was sufficiently implied in the nature of the thing, or because it had been plainly expressed here.

* Chap. 3. 12. * Judg. 4. 17.

12 And the LORD gave Solomon wisdom z, * as he promised him, and there was * peace between Hiram and Solomon, and they two made a league together.

z i.e He increased in Wisdom more and more: which is here mentioned, because he shewed his Wisdom in all his Transactions with Hiram.

13 ¶ And king Solomon raised a † levy out of all Israel, and the levy was thirty thousand men a.

a Which were to be employed in the most honourable and easie parts of the Work relating to the Temple; in manner expressed, ver. 14. And these were Israelites; but those 150000 mentioned ver. 15. were Strangers, by comparing this with chap. 9. 21, 22. If it seem strange to any Man, that so many Thousands should be employed about so small a Building as the Temple was; it must be considered, 1. That the Temple, all its parts being considered, was far larger than Men imagine; of which, more hereafter. 2. That it is probable, that they were employed by turns, as the 30000 were, ver. 14. else they had been oppressed with hard and uninterrupted Labours. 3. That the Timber and Stone hewed and carried by them, was designed, not only (though principally) for the Temple, but also for Solomon's own Houses, and Buildings; because we read of no other Levy of Men, nor of any great care and pains taken after the Building of the Temple, for the procurement, or preparation of Materials for his own Houses, or his other Buildings; which implies, That that Work was done before; nay, that this very Levy of Men was made and employed for the building of the Lords house, and Solomons house, and Millo, and the wall of Jerusalem, and Hazor, and Megiddo, and Gezer, is expressed 1 King. 9. 15. which may fully satisfie that scruple.

14 And he sent them to Lebanon, ten thousand a month by courses: a month they were in Lebanon, and two months at home: and * Adoniram was over the levy.

* Chap. 4. 6.

15 And Solomon had threescore and ten thousand that bare burdens, and fourscore thousand hewers b in the mountains:

b Either of Timber, or rather of Stones: for Hiram had taken care for the Timber.

16 Besides the chief of Solomons officers which were over the work, three thousand and three hundred c, which ruled over the people that wrought in the work.

c Whereof 3000 were set over the 150000, expressed ver. 15. each of these over 30 of them, and the odd 300 were set over these 3000, each of these to have the oversight of ten of them, to take an account of the Work from them. But in 2 Chron. 2. 18. these Overseers are said to be 3600. Ans. The 300 added in 2 Chron. 2. might be a reserve, to supply the places of the other 3000: yea, or of the 3300, as any of them should be taken off from the work by Death, or Sickness, or Weakness, or necessary occasions; which was a prudent Provision, and not unusual in such like cases. And so there were 3600 commissioned for the work, but only 3300 employed at one time; and therefore both Computations may fairly stand together. Some learned Men add, That those 3600 were Strangers, which Indeed is manifest from 2 Chron. 2. 17. And that those 3300 were a distinct number of Men, and Israelites, which were set over all the rest, both Strangers and Israelites; who therefore are here called, the chief of Solomons officers, and are said to rule over the workmen: whereas, all that is said of those 3600 2 Chron. 2. 18. is, that they were overseers to set the people a work: Which may deserve further Consideration. Others say, That the 300 added in 2 Chron. were overseers of the Tyrian Workmen in Mount Lebanon, and the rest in all other places; or that they were set over some particular and more curious and considerable parts of the work.

d Marble and Porphiry, or other Stones of great size and value. e Where they could not afterward be seen: and therefore that this was done, is mentioned only as a point of Magnificence, except it was intended for a Type, or Mystical signification of the Preciousness of Christ, who is the foundation of the true Temple, the Church of God; as he is called, Isa. 28. 16. 1 Cor. 3. 11.

‖ Or, Giblites, of Gebal, Ezek. 27. 9.

18 And Solomons builders, and Hirams builders did hew them, and the ‖ stone-squarers f: so they prepared timber and stones to build the house.

f Heb. the Giblites, the Inhabitants of Gebel, a place near Zidon, named Psalm 83. 7. Ezek. 27. 9. famous for Artificers and Architects, Josh. 13. 5. These are here mentioned apart, as distinct from the rest of Hiram's Builders, as the most Eminent of them.

AND * it came to pass in the four hundred and fourscore year after the children of Israel were come out of the land of Egypt a, in the fourth year of Solomons reign b over Israel, in the month Zif, which is the second month, that he † began to build c the house of the LORD.

a This Chronological difficulty, is too vast and comprehensive to be fully discussed here, or to be determined by Unlearned Readers, and for the Learned, I refer them to what is largely digested in my Latin Synopsis upon this place. It may suffice at present to suggest these Particulars, 1. That Israels coming out of Egypt is variously understood understood in Scripture, and with some latitude, so as not only to note the time when first they came out of Egypt, but the time of their being in, or coming out of the Wildernesse; as is manifest from Deut. 4. 45. where the words in the Hebrew are not after, &c. but in their coming forth out of Egypt: And Psalm 114. 1, 2, 3. When Israel came forth, &c. Heb. in their coming forth, &c. And it is not impossible it may be so understood here; after they were come out, &c. to wit, compleatly; i. e. towards the end of their Expedition out of Egypt into Canaan. Nor doth the difference between the Hebrew Prepositions, Lamed and Beth, which a learned Man objects, hinder this sence; for as Beth signifies, (as he saith) after; so also doth Lamed, Gen. 7. 4. 10. Numb. 33. 38. 2. That whereas the times of the Judges do chiefly cause this difficulty, there are many things which will relieve us therein; as, 1. That divers of the years there mentioned belong to one and the same time, as is evident from Jair's 22 years, within which fell out, as divers learned Chronologers agree, the 18 years of the Oppression of the Ammonites, and several years of the Philistine Tyranny, who oppressed Israel in the West, whilst the Ammonites vexed them in the East: and the like might be observed in other cases. 2. That the years of Rest are not necessarily to be understood of so many distinct years, besides those of War, and Servitude; and those words which are generally rendred, the land had rest forty, or eighty years, or the like; may be thus rendred, and that very agreeable to the Hebrew, The land had rest, or began to rest, or recovered its rest, in the fortieth, or in the eightieth (the Cardinal Numbers being frequently put for the Ordinal, especially where the Number exceeds Ten) year, to be computed from some remarkable time; and so that Phrase doth not note how long time, or till what time the Rest continued, but at what time it began. As for instance, in Judg. 3. 11. the land had rest, not forty years, as it is in our Translation, but in the fortieth year; to wit, from, and after their first Rest in, or quiet Possession of, the Land of Canaan, which Joshua gave them; which time may very probably be made up of the days of Joshua, after he had settled them in a state of Rest; and of the elders that out-lived him; Judg. 2. 7. and the time of their Corruption after the death of these Elders; and the eight years of Servitude under the King of Mesopotamia. So Judg. 3. 30. The land had rest in the eightieth year; to wit, from, and after that Rest which Othniel obtained for them, ver. 11. And Judg. 5. 31. It rested in the fortieth year; to wit, after that Rest got by Ehud, Judg. 3. 30. and Judg. 8. 28. It rested in the fortieth year; to wit, from the last Rest got by Deborah. And thus the computation of Years is more plain and certain, being thus made from Rest to rest, than theirs that proceed the other way. And this is the more considerable, because it was the Opinion of that famously Learned and Pious Bishop of Armagh. All which considered, it will be very easie to contain all the parts and passages of Sacred Story, from the coming out of Egypt, to this time, within the compass of 480 Years: of the several parcels whereof, see my Latin Synopsis. And as for other Scriptures, which some conceit to be contradictory to this, I shall by God's help Vindicate them in their several places. b His three first Years being spent, partly, in settling the Affairs of his Kingdom; without which, neither Civil nor Ecclesiastical Concerns could have any Consistency; and partly, in making necessary Preparations for the Work. c For so it is expressed, 2 Chron. 3. 1. And so it is explained here below, ver. 37. The foundation of the house was laid: though in the Hebrew it be only, he built. Thus active words are oft understood of the beginning of the Action, as Gen. 5. 32. and 11. 26.

2 And the house d which king Solomon built for the LORD, the length thereof e was threescore cubits f, and the breadth thereof twenty cubits, and the height thereof g thirty cubits.

d Properly so called, as distinct from all the Walls and Buildings which were adjoyning to it; to wit, the holy, and most holy Place. e From East, and to West. And this, and the other Measures may seem to belong to the inside from Wall to Wall. f Cubits of the Sanctuary; of which, see on Gen. 6. 15. g To wit, of the House: for the Porch was 120 Cubits high, 2 Chron. 3. 4. So that all the measures compared each with other, were harmonious. For 60 to 20. (the length to the breadth) is triple: or as 3 to 1: And 60 to 30 (the length to the height) is double, or as 2 to 1: And 30 to 20 (the heighth to the breadth) is Sesquialter, or one and a half, as 3 to 2. Which are the Proportions answering to the Three great Concords in Musick, commonly called, a Twelfth, an Eighth, and a Fifth. Which therefore must needs be a graceful Proportion to the Eye, as that in Musick is graceful to the Ear.

3 And the porch before the temple of the house h, twenty cubits was the length thereof, according to the breadth of the house; and ten cubits was the breadth thereof before the house.

h In the Front of, or Entrance into the house, 2 Chron. 3. 4. Being a Peristilium or Portico, a Vault or Gallery, at one end of the Building (from side to side.) And the measures of this were Harmonious also. For 20 to 10 (the length of the Portico to the breadth of it) is double, or as 2 to 1. And, if the height within, be the same with that of the House, that is 30; it will be to the length of it, as 3 to 2; and to its breadth, as 3 to 1. Or, if we take in the whole height mentioned 2 Chron. 3. 4. which is 120; there is in this no disproportion (being to its length as 6 to 1; and to its breadth as 12 to 1; especially when this height was conveniently divided into several Galleries, one over another, each of which had their due Proportions.

‖ Or, windows broad within, and narrow without; or, shewed Light; yet shut; i. e. so far closed as to keep out VVeather, and let in Light.

4 And for the house, he made ‖ windows of narrow lights i.

i Narrow outward, to prevent the inconveniencies of the VVeather; widening by degrees inward, that so the House might better receive, and more disperse the Light. Or, for prospect; i.e to give and closed.

5 ¶ And ‖ against the wall k of the house he built † chambers l round about, against the walls of the house round about m, both of the temple, and of the oracle: and he made † chambers n round about.

k Or, upon it; or joyning to it: for the Beams of the Chambers were not fastned into the VVall, but leaned upon the Buttresses of ribs, the VVall. l For the laying the Priests Garments, and other Utensils belonging to the Temple, or to the Worship of God, therein; see 2 Kings 11. 2. 1 Chron. 28. 12. Ezek. 42. 13, 14. m Not simply, for there were none on the East-side; and it may seem, that there were some spaces left for the Windows, which being narrow outwardly, little spaces would suffice; but in a manner, i. e. on all the sides except the East, where the Porch was; and except some very small passages for the Light. And yet these Lights might be in the Five uppermost Cubits of the Wall, which were above all these Chambers, for these were only 15 Cubits high, and the Wall was 20 Cubits high. n Heb Ribs; i.e. Either, other Chambers above, and besides the former: or rather, long Galleries which encompassed all the Chambers, as the Ribs do Mans Body; and which were necessary for passage to all the several Chambers.

6 The nethermost chamber was five cubits broad o, and the middle was six cubits broad, and the third was seven cubits broad: for without in the wall of the house he made † narrowed rests p round about, that the beams should not be fastned in the walls of the house q.

o To wit, on the inside, and besides the Galleries mentioned above. p Or, narrowings: as in our Buildings the Walls of an House are thicker, or broader at the bottom, and narrower towards the top: only these Narrowings were in the outside of the VVall, which at each of the Three Stories was a Cubit narrower than that beneath it. And this is mentioned, as the reason of the differing breadth of the Chambers; because the VVall being narrower, allowed more space for the upper Chambers. q That there might be no holes made in the VVall for the fastening of them; and that the Chambers might be removed, if occasion were, without any inconvenience to the House.

7 And the house, when it was in building, was built of stone, made ready r before it was brought thither: so that there was neither hammer, nor ax, nor any tool of iron heard in the house, while it was in building s.

r Hewed, and squared, and fitted exactly according to the direction of the Architect. s So it was ordered, partly for the ease and conveniency of Carriage: partly, for the Magnificence of the VVork, and Commendation of the VVorkmens skill and diligence: and partly, for Mystical signification. And as this Temple was a manifest Type both of Christ's Church upon Earth, and of the Heavenly Jerusalem: so this Circumstance signified as to the former, That it is the duty of the Builders and Members of the Church, as far as in them lies, to take care that all things be transacted there with perfect peace and quietness; and that no noise of Contention, or Division, or Violence, be heard in that Sacred Building: and for the latter, that no Spiritual Stone, no Person, shall bear a part in that Heavenly Temple, unless he be first hewed, and squared, and made meet for it in this Life.

8 The door for the middle chamber t was in the right † side u of the house: and they went up with winding stairs x into the middle chamber y, and out of the middle into the third.

t i.e. By which they entred to go up to the middle Chamber or Chambers; to wit, such as were in the middle Story. u i.e. In the South-side, called the right-side here, and in the Hebrew Text, Psalm 89. 12. and in other Authors; because when a Man looks towards the East, or Sun-rising, which is esteemed the most Glorious part of the Heavens, and to which Men most frequently look for divers reasons; the South is on his right-hand. VVhereby it is implied, That there was another Door on the left, or the North-side, leading to the Chambers on that side; though for brevity sake it be not mentioned here. x VVhich were either, 1. VVithin the thickness of the Temple-wall, as many think, which is not probable, as tending to the great weakning of the VVall; especially in the upper parts, where the VVall was much narrower. And if such care was taken to preserve the VValls intire and unbroken, that there might not be small holes made into it for the fastning of the Beams of the Chambers, ver. 6. it seems very absurd and incredible, that there should be made such great Breaches within them, as the Stairs would require. Or rather, 2. VVithout the VVall, and without the Chambers too, as leading up to the Gallery out of which they went into the several Chambers. y Or rather, into the middle Story, or row of Chambers; and so in the following words, out of the middle Story: for these Stairs could not lead up into each of the Chambers; nor was it needful, or convenient it should do so, but only into the Story, which was sufficient for the use of all the Chambers.

9 So he built the house, and finished it z; and covered the house ‖ with beams and boards of cedar a.

z To wit, the Bulk, and the Body of the House. a Or, the house, i.e the top of the House: for the like is said of the sides, and bottom, ver. 15. even the beams and boards; (or, the vault-beams, and the cielings; the arched Beams and Boards wherewith the top of the House was covered, which was made of other VVood, which was more pliable than Cedar, and would better endure bowing and bending) with Cedars.

10 And then he built chambers against all the house b, five cubits high c: and they rested d on the house with timber of cedar e.

b Which Interpreters understand of those Chambers described ver. 5, 6. But why should that be repeated again, and that so darkly and confusedly, after he had particularly and exactly treated of them? (unless to give an account of the height of each Chamber, or Story, which before was not done.) And the Hebrew words may be truly and properly rendred thus, He built a roof, (to wit, a flat and plain Roof, called Tatziah, because of the exact resemblance it hath with the Floor of an House) over all the house, according to the manner of all the Israelitish Buildings, which were flat at the top; of which, see Deut. 22. 8. Josh. 2. 6. 2 Sam. 11. 2. The inner Roof was arched, ver. 9. that it might be more beautiful and glorious to behold; but the outward Roof was flat. c Above the Walls of the Temple; which was necessary, that it might be a little higher than the arched Roof, which it was designed to cover and secure. d Heb. it rested, to wit, the Roof: for the Hebrew Verb is of the Singular Number. e Which rested upon the top of the Wall, as the Chambers, v. 5. rested upon the sides of the Wall. But all this I submit to the Learned and Judicious.

11 ¶ And the word of the LORD came unto Solomon f, saying, f Either by some Prophet, or rather in a Vision or Dream, as it did before.

12 Concerning this house which thou art in building g, * if thou wilt walk in my statutes, and execute my judgments, and keep all my commandments to walk in them, then will I perform my word with thee, * which I spake unto David thy father.

* Chap. 2 4 & 9 4.

* 2 Sam. 7. 13. 1 Chron. 22. 10.

g God speaks thus, partly to encourage him to proceed in his Work; and partly, to purge out that Pride and Vain-glory, (which God, the searcher of hearts, saw either then did, or would arise in Solomon's Mind, as being the Author and Builder of so glorious a Work:) and that Presumption and Security which was very likely to grow, and God foresaw would grow both in Solomon, and in the People; as if God was now in a manner engaged to continue his Presence with them, and in his own Temple; and that they had now no great reason to fear God's departure from them, though they should provoke him. Therefore he expresseth the Condition upon which his Promise and Favour is suspended; and by assuring him thereof in case of Obedience, he plainly intimates the contrary, upon his Disobedience.

13 And I will * dwell among the children of Israel, and will not forsake my people Israel.

* Exod. 25. 8.

14 So Solomon built the house, and finished it.

15 And he built the walls of the house within with boards of cedar, ‖ both the floor h of the house, and the walls of the cieling i, and he covered them k on the inside with wood l, and covered the floor of the house m with planks of fir.

b Or rather, from the floor, as it is in the Hebrew: for the floor it self was not covered with Cedar, but with fir, as it here follows. i Or rather, as it is in the Hebrew, unto the walls of the cieling, or of the roof; i. e. unto the top of the Wall, which was even with the Roof: for the Roof it self was not of Stone, but Wood. Or, unto the walls of the cieling; i. e. unto the Cieling it self; which performing the office of a Wall, may well be called by that name. For the name of a wall is not appropriated to Stone or Brick, because we read of a brazen wall, Jer. 15. 20. and a wall of iron, Ezek. 4. 3. And that wall into which Saul smote his javelin, 1 Sam. 19. 10. seems more probably to be understood of Wood, than of Stone; especially, considering that it was the Room where the King used to dine. So by this Periphrasis, from the floor of the house, unto the walls of the cieling, he designs all the side-walls of the house. k To wit, the side-walls of the House, now mentioned. l i. e. With other kind of Wood, even with Fir; as appears from 2 Chron. 3. 5. wherewith the Floor is here said to be covered. m This is here spoken only concerning the Floor, because there was nothing but Planks of Fir; whereas there was both Cedar and Fir in the sides of the House, the Fir being either put above, or upon the Cedar; or, intermixed with, or put between the Boards or Ribs of Cedar: as may be gathered from the said Parallel place, 2 Chron. 3. 5.

16 And he built twenty cubits on the sides of the house n both the floor and the walls o with boards of cedar: he even built them for it within, even for the oracle, even for the † most holy place p.

n i. e. The most holy Place, which contained in the length of the House twenty Cubits, by comparing this with ver. 2. and ver. 17. which may be said to be on the sides of the house, because this part took off 20 Cubits in length from each side of the House, and was also 20 Cubits from side to side, so it was 20 Cubits every way; or on the sides, (i. e. on all the sides, as indeed it was) of the house, or of that house; to wit, The most holy place, as it here follows. Or, from the sides of the house; i. e. from one side to the other. And so this is meant only of the Partition-VVall, which was between the holy and the most holy Place. o Or rather, as ver. 15. from the floor to the wall, or ceiling, or roof. So it is not necessary, at least by virtue of these words, to understand this, as they generally do, That the Floor it self was built with Cedar; but only all the sides of it from the bottom 20 Cubits upward. If it be said, that the whole House, and consequently the most holy Place, was 30 Cubits high, ver. 2. it may be replied, either, That that is true only of the greater House, or the holy Place, which is called the house, ver. 17. and that the lesser, or that most holy Place, was but 20 Cubits high, as divers think; or that the 20 cubits at the top, were covered with some other VVood or thing; or were left open, that it might thereby receive both Light from the Candlesticks, and Smoke from the Altar of Incense. p i. e. That it might be the Oracle, or, the most holy place. Or, on the inner side (whereby he might imply, that the outside of the Partition-VVall which looked towards the holy Place, was not so covered.) Of (for the Hebrew Lamed is very oft a note of the Genitive Case) the Oracle, even of the most holy place: which last words are added, to explain what he means by the word Oracle, which he had not used before.

17 And the house q, that is, the temple r, before it s, was forty cubits long.

q i. e. The holy Place. r This is added, to restrain the signification of the word house, which otherwise notes the whole Building. s i. e. Before the Oracle. Or, as it is in the Hebrew, before my face; i. e. before the place of my Presence. Or, it may be said to be before God, because he being pleased to describe himself as sitting upon the Cherubim, hath his face towards this house, where he beholds the services of his People. So this part of the House distinct from the most Holy, hath its harmonious proportions also. The Length 40, to the Height 30, is Sesquitertian, or 4 to 3; (which is that of a Fourth in Musick:) The Length to the Breadth, 40 to 20; as 2 to 1: The Height to the Breadth, 30 to 20, as 3 to 2.

18 And the cedar of the house within was carved with ‖ knops, and † open flowers; all was cedar; ‖ Or, gourds. † Heb. openings of flowers. there was no stone seen.

t i. e. All the House was covered with Cedar. Quest. How was this true, when it was covered with Fir, 2 Chron. 3. 5? Ans. 1. It was done with Cedar and Fir: of which see on ver. 15. 2. It may be said to be all cedar, because the greatest part was so, universal Particles being oft so used. 3. Cedar is here named, not to exclude all other VVood, but Stone only; as the following words shew. 4. Or, all was of Cedar; that is, all the Carving was of Cedar.

19 And the oracle he prepared u in the house x within y, to set there the ark of the covenant of the LORD.

u i. e. Adorned and fitted it for the Receipt of the Ark. x Heb. in the middle of the house, or building; not the middle Mathematically or exactly, but in general within the House, as that Phrase, in the middle, oft signifies; as Deut. 4. 11. Josh. 7. 21. Dan. 3. 26. y Or, in the uttermost part of the House; for so this was, the entrance into the House being at the other end.

20 And the oracle in the forepart z was twenty cubits in length, and twenty cubits in breadth, and twenty cubits in the height thereof a: and he overlaid it with † pure gold, and so b covered the altar c which was of cedar d.

z Or rather, which was in the inner part, to wit of the House, called here in Hebrew, the fore-part; not because a Man first enters there, but because when a Man is entring, or newly entred into the House, it is still before him. Thus the same or the like word proceeding from the same Root, is oft used, as Levit. 10. 18. 1 Kings 6. 19, 29, 30, 36. 1 Chron. 28. 11. a Objell. The great House was 30 Cubits high, above, ver. 2. Ans. It is probably affirmed by divers, That the most holy Place was not so high as the holy Place, by ten Cubits: which was no way inconvenient, nor against the Rules of Proportion observed in Buildings. And as the second part of the Building was far lower than the first, which was the Porch; so the third part might be considerably lower than the second. And it might be lower either, 1. Outwardly, or in respect of the Walls of it, which might be only 20 Cubits high, and at that height covered with a flat Roof; it being but decent that that eminently holy Place should be distinguished from the less holy, even by its outward and visible shape. Or, 2. Inwardly, or within the VValls of that part. For although this part might be vaulted at the top, as the holy Place was, which vaulted Roof some think was ten Cubits high; yet here might be the difference, That the vaulted Roof of the holy Place lay open to view; whereas that of the most holy was covered with a flat Roof from Wall to Wall, at the height of 20 Cubits, b i. e. With Gold, chap. 7. 48. 1 Chron. 28. 18. c To wit, The Altar of Incense, which was put next to the most high Place, ver. 22. d Objell. This Altar was made of Shittim Wood, Exod. 30. 1. Ans. Either that was covered with Cedar, that it might be agreeable to the rest, all being Cedar, as was said, ver. 18. Or this was a new Altar which Solomon made by Divine Command and Direction, delivered to him, either immediately, or by his Father: of which, see 1 Chron. 28. 12, &c. But this place may seem to be better translated thus, and he covered the altar with Cedar, either to make it like the rest; or, because this was a new Altar made of Stone, and therefore fit to be covered with Cedar, that it might better receive and retain the Gold wherewith this Cedar was over-laid, ver. 22.

21 So Solomon overlaid the house e within with pure gold f: and he made a partition by the chains of gold g before the oracle h, and he overlaid it i with gold.

e Or, that house, to wit, the Oracle. f Compare 2 Chron. 3. 8. g i. e. He made a Veil, which was upon, or before the Partition; or which was a further Partition between the holy, and the most holy; which Veil did hang upon these Golden Chains. Others render it thus, he closed or shut (as the word signifies in the Chaldee Dialect, from which divers Hebrew words borrow their signification) it (i. e. the House now mentioned; to wit, the Door of it) with chains or bars of gold. h i. e. In the outward part of the Wall, or Partition, which was erected between the Oracle and the holy Place; which is properly said to be before the Oracle, which was the space within, and beyond that Partition: for there the Veil was hung; and there the Chains or Bars, or whatsoever it was which fastned the Doors of the Oracle, were placed. i To wit, the Partition; which he here distinguisheth from the house, or the main Walls of the House, which he had in the former part of this Verse told us were overlaid with Gold; and now he affirms as much of the Partition.

22 And the whole house k he overlaid with gold, until he had finished all the house: also the whole altar that was by the oracle l, he overlaid with gold m.

k Not only the Oracle, but all the Holy Place; and, as some add, even the Chambers belonging to it. l i. e. The Altar of Incense, which was set in the Holy Place close by the Doors of the Oracle. m As before he overlaid it with Cedar: of which, see the Notes on ver. 20.

23 ¶ And within the oracle he made two cherubims n of ‖ † olive-tree o, each ten cubits high.

n Besides those two made by Moses, Exod. 25. 18. which were of Gold, and far less than these, and fixed in another place and posture. o Or, of oily trees, which sometimes are distinguished from the Olive-trees, as Isa. 41. 19.

24 And five cubits was the one wing of the cherub, and five cubits the other wing of the cherub: from the uttermost part of the one wing unto the uttermost part of the other, were ten cubits.

25 And the other cherub was ten cubits: both the cherubims were of one measure, and one cise.

26 The height of the one cherub was ten cubits, and so was it of the other cherub.

27 And he set the cherubims within the inner house; and * ‖ they stretched forth the wings of the cherubims, so that the wing of the one touched the one wall, and the wing of the other cherub touched the other wall: and their wings touched one another in the midst of the house.

* Exod. 25. 20. ‖ Or, the Cherubims stretched forth their wings.

28 And he overlaid the cherubims with gold.

29 And he carved all the walls of the house round about with carved figures of cherubims p, and palm-trees q, and † open flowers, within and without r.

p As signs of the Presence and Protection of the Angels vouchsafed by God to that Place. q Emblems of that Peace and Victory over their Enemies, which the Israelites duly serving God in that Place might expect. r Within the Oracle and without it, in the Holy Place.

30 And the floor of the house he overlaid with gold, within and without.

31 ¶ And for the entring of the oracle, he made doors of olive-tree: the lintel and side-posts were ‖ a fifth part of the wall s.

s i. e. Four Cubits in height or breadth, whereas the Wall was 20 Cubits. Or, a fifth part of the Door now mentioned. Or rather, five square, having 5 Sides, and 5 Angles, which is not incongruous, nor unusual in Buildings.

32 The two ‖ doors also were of olive-tree, and he carved upon them carvings of cherubims and palm-trees, and † open flowers, and overlaid them with gold, and spread gold upon the cherubims, and upon the palm-trees.

‖ Or, leaves of the two. † Heb. openings of flowers.

33 So also made he for the door of the temple, posts ‖ of olive-trees a fourth part of the wall s.

s Or rather, four-square. See on ver. 31.

* Ezek. 41. 23.

35 And he carved thereon cherubims, and palm-trees, and open flowers, and covered them with gold, fitted upon the carved work.

36 And he built the inner court t with three rows of hewed stone, and a row of cedar-beams u.

t i. e. The Priests Court, 2 Chron. 4. 9. so called, because it was next to the Temple which it did encompass. u Which is understood, either, 1. Of the thickness of the Wall, the three rows of Stones being one within another, and the Cedar innermost as a lining to the Wall. Or, 2. Of the height of the Wall, which was only 3 Cubits high, that the People might see the Priests Sacrificing upon the Altar, which was in their Court; each row of Stones being about a Cubit, and possibly of a differing Colour from the rest, and all covered with Cedar. Or rather, 3. Of so many Galleries, one on each side of the Temple, whereof the Three first were of Stone, and the Fourth of Cedar, all supported with rows of Pillars: upon which there were many Chambers for the uses of the Temple, and of the Priests: for it is hard to think, that only the making of a low Wall about the Court would be called a Building of the Court. And that a great number of Buildings and Rooms were necessary for the various Offices and VVorks which were to be done, and the Treasures of all sorts which were to be laid up in the Temple, largely so called, is sufficiently evident from the nature of the things, and divers passages in Scripture: See among others, 1 Chron. 28. 11, 12.

37 ¶ In the fourth year was the foundation of the house of the LORD laid, in the month Zif.

38 And in the eleventh year, in the month Bul, (which is the eighth month) was the house finished throughout all the parts thereof, and according to all the fashion of it: so was he seven years x in building it.

x Compleat, and 6 Months, as appears by computation. But smaller Summs are usually neglected, and swallowed up in the greater, both in Scripture, as Judg. 20. 46. 2 Sam. 5. 5. 1 King. 2. 11. and in other Authors. It is not strange that this VVork took up so much time: for, 1. The Temple properly so called, was for Quantity the least part of it, there being very many and great Buildings both above Ground in the several Courts, (for though only the Court of the Priests be mentioned, yet it is thereby implied, that the same thing was proportionably done in the others) and under Ground. 2. The great curiosity of Art which was used here, and the fewness of exquisitire Artists, required the longer time for the doing of it. And if the Building of Diana's Temple did employ all Asia for 200 Years; and the Building of one Pyramid employed 360 Thousand Men, for 20 Years together; both which, Pliny affirms: no reasonable Man can wonder that this Temple was 7 Years in Building.

CHAP. VII.

The building of Solomon's house: the house of Lebanon, 1,—5. The porch of pillars, and of judgment: the house of Pharaoh's daughter, 6,—12. Hiram's work of the two pillars of brass, 13,—22. Of the molten sea, 23,—26. Of the ten bases of brass, 27,—37. The ten brazen lavers: all the vessels of brass and gold, 38,—50. The dedicated things are brought into the temple, 51.

BUT Solomon was building his own house a * thirteen years b, and he finished all his house.

* Chap. 9. 10.

a The Royal Palace for himself, and for his Successors. Or, his houses, the Singular Number being put for the Plural. b Almost double time to that in which the Temple was built; because neither were the Materials so far provided and prepared for this, as they were for the Temple: nor did either he or his People use the same alacrity and diligence in this, as in the other VVork; nor had they the same Obligations to this VVork, as they had to that, to which they were quickned by God's express Command; and by the necessity of serving up God's VVorship there, as the Foundation of all the hopes and happiness both of King and People, whereas his Building was only for Solomon's greater conveniency, and he had already a Palace of David's building.

2 ¶ He built also the house of the forest of Lebanon c, the length thereof d was a hundred cubits, and the breadth thereof fifty cubits, and the height thereof thirty cubits, upon four rows of cedar-pillars e, with cedar-beams upon the pillars f.

c An House so called. Either, first, Because it was built in the Mountain and Forest of Lebanon, for his Recreation there in Summer-time. But it is generally and more probably held, that it was in or near Jerusalem, both because there was the throne of judgment, v. 7. which was fixeſt to be in the place of his constant and usual Residence: and because there was the chief Magazin of Arms, Isa. 22. 8. and Solomon's Golden Shields were put there, as is manifest from 1 King. 10. 17 and 14. 25, 26, 28. which no wise Prince would do in a place so remote from his Royal City, and in the utmost Borders of his Kingdom, as this was. Or rather, Secondly, From some resemblance it might have with that Place, for the pleasant Shades and Groves which were about it: nothing being more frequent both in Sacred and other VVriters, than to transfer the names of Carmel, or Tempe, or the like, to other Places of the same nature and quality with them. d To wit, of the principal Mansion; to which doubtless other Buildings were adjoyned. e Upon which the House was built, and between which there were four stately VValks. f VVhich were laid for the Floor of the second Story.

3 And it was covered with cedar above upon the † beams that lay on forty five pillars, fifteen in a row g.

g So in this second Story were only three rows of Pillars, which was sufficient for the Ornament of the second, and for the support of the third Story.

4 And there was windows in three rows, and † light was against light b in three ranks i.

b One directly opposite or answering to the other, as is usual in well-contrived Buildings. i One exactly under another.

5 And all the ‖ doors and posts were square with the windows: and light was against light in three ranks k.

‖ Or, spaces. and pillars were square in prospect.

k He speaks, either, first, of the same Lights mentioned, v. 4. it being the manner of the Hebrews to repeat the same things. Or rather, of the smaller VVindows or Lights, which were over the several Doors, as the manner of many Buildings is.

6 ¶ And he made a porch of pillars l; the length thereof was fifty cubits, and the breadth thereof thirty cubits: and the porch m was ‖ before them: and ‖ Or, according to the other pillars n, and the thick beam o were ‖ before them. ‖ Or, according to them.

l i. e. Supported by divers Pillars, for the more Magnificent entrance into the House; upon which also it is thought there were other Rooms built, as in the House. m Now mentioned, which is said to be before them; i. e. before the Pillars on which the House of Lebanon stood; or, before the Doors and Posts mentioned v. 5. or, a porch; i. e. another and a lesser Porch, which was before them; i. e. before the Pillars of the greater Porch now mentioned. n Or, and pillars; i. e. fewer and lesser Pillars for the support of the lesser Porch. o Which was laid upon these Pillars, as the others were, v. 2.

7 ¶ Then he made a porch p for the throne q where he might judge r, even the porch of judgment: and it was covered with cedar † from one side of the floor to the other s.

p Another Porch or distinct Room without the House. q Described chap. 10. 18. r The People that brought their Causes before him. f i. e. The whole Floor; or, from floor to floor, i. e. from the lower Floor on the Ground, to the upper Floor which covered it.

8 ¶ And his house where he dwelt, had another court within the porch t, which was of the like work. Solomon made also an house for Pharaohs daughter u, (* whom he had taken to wife) like unto this porch x.

* Chap. 3. 1.

t i. e. Between the Porch and the House, called therefore the middle court, 2 King. 20. 4. u Of which see 1 King. 3. 1. and 2 Chron. 8. 11. x Not for Form or Quantity, but for the Materials and Workmanship, the Rooms being covered with Cedar, and furnished with like Ornaments.

9 All these y were of costly stones according to the measures of hewed stones z, sawed with saws, within and without a, even from the foundation unto the coping b, and so on the outside toward the great court c.

y Buildings described here and in the former Chapter. z Either, First. which were hewed in such measure and proportion as exact Workmen use to hew ordinary Stones. Or, Secondly, As large as common hewed Stones, which are oft very great. a Both on the inside of the Buildings which were covered with Cedar, and on the outside also. b From the bottom to the top of the Building. c Not only on the outside of the front of the House, which being most visible, Men are more careful to adorn; but also of the other side of the House, which looked towards the great Court belonging to the King's House.

10 And the foundation was of costly stones, even great stones, stones of ten cubits d, and stones of eight cubits.

d Not square, which would have been both unnecessary, and unportable, and unmanageable; but of solid measure, by which Stones and Timber are usually measured: and so they were only two Cubits square, but there were twenty solid Cubits contained in them. And so also the following eight cubits are to be understood.

11 And above e were costly stones (after the measures of hewed stones) and cedars f.

e i. e. In the Roof or upper part; for this is opposed to the foundation. f Intermixed here the one, and there the other.

12 And the great court g round about, was with three rows of hewed stones, and a row of cedar-beams h, both for the inner court of the house of the LORD i, and for the porch of the house k.

g To wit, of Solomon's Dwelling-House, mentioned ver. 8. b Of which see the Note on 1 King. 6. 36. i Or, as (Heb. and, which is oft used in that Sense for a Particle of comparison or similitude, as Prov. 11. 25. and 17. 3. and 25. 23.) for the inner court, &c. i. e. as it was in that inner Court, of which the very same thing is said, 1 King. 6. 36. Otherwise it might seem very improper and impertinent to speak of the Court of the Lord's House here, where he is treating only of Solomon's House. k Or, of this house, to wit, of which I am here speaking; i. e. Of the King's House, the Porch whereof had Pillars, verse 6. and these both of Stone and Cedar, as may seem most probable, because the other Pillars were such. And whereas the Number and Quality of the Pillars of the Porch was omitted, verse 6. that defect is here supplied, and we are implicitly acquainted with both of them. But this I speak with submission.

13 ¶ And king Solomon sent and fet Hiram out of Tyre.

14 He was † a widows son of the tribe of Naphthali l, and his father was a man of Tyre m, a worker in brass: and he was filled with wisdom and understanding, and cunning to work all works in brass n: and he came to king Solomon, and wrought all his work.

l Obj. She was one of the daughters of Dan, 2 Chron. 2. 14. Ans. So indeed Hiram King of Tyre there affirms; but he might easily mistake or be misinformed, especially being no Israelite, nor a careful Observer of the distinction of Tribes. Or, She might be of Dan by her Father, and of Naphthali by her Mother, or by her Husband, who was of that Tribe, and therefore she was truly a widow of Naphthali. m Either by his descent, being a Tyrian by Birth: or, by Education and Habitation, he or his Father being given to the study of these Arts, and having planted themselves at Tyre for their improvement therein. However that was, it was a singular Providence of God that there was at that time so excellent a Workman fit for so great and glorious Works. n And of gold, and stone, and purple, and blue, &c. as is affirmed 2 Chron. 2. 14. But only his skill in brass is here mentioned, because he speaks only of the Brasen things which he made.

15 For he † cast * two pillars of brass o, of eighteen cubits high a piece p: and a line of twelve cubits did compass either of them about q.

o Of which see 2 King. 25. 16, 17. Jer. 52. 21. p Obj. They are said to be 35 Cubits high, 2 Chron. 3. 15. Ans. That place manifestly speaks of both the Pillars; and this of each, or one pillar, as it is in the Hebrew. Obj. But then it should have been 36 Cubits. Ans. Either the odd half Cubit is swallowed up either in the top of the Chapiter, or in the bottom of the Basis of each Pillar; or, it is neglected in the Account, as commonly small Measures or Numbers are. q So the Diameter was four Cubits, which, considering the chapiter of five cubits added to the height of each Pillar, 2 Chron. 3. 14. was not unproportionable to the height.

f Obj. It is but three cubits in 2 King. 25. 17. Ans. The word chapiter is taken diversly, as hundreds of other words are, either more largely for the whole, so it is 5 Cubits; or, more strictly, either for the pommels, as they are called, 2 Chron. 4. 12. or for the Cornice or Crown, and so it was but three Cubits, to which the Pomegranates being added make it four cubits, as it is below, ver. 19. and the other work upon it took up one Cubit more, which in all made five cubits.

17 And nets of checker-work, and wreathes of chain-work, for the chapiters r which were upon the top of the pillars: seven for the one chapiter, and seven for the other chapiter.

r Which those Nets and Wreathes did encompass, either covering, and as it were receiving and holding the Pomegranates, or being mixed with them.

18 And he made u the pillars, and two rows x round about upon the net-work, to cover the chapiters that were upon the top, with pomegranates: and so did he for the other chapiter.

u Or, so he made, or framed, or perfected. x Either of Pomegranates, by comparing this with ver. 20. or of some other curious Work.

19 And the chapiters that were upon the top of the pillars, were of lily-work y in the porch z, four cubits a.

y Made like the Leaves of Lilies, or such Flowers. z Or, as in the porch; i. e. such Work as there was in the Porch of the Temple, in which these Pillars were set, ver. 21. that so the work of the tops of these Pillars might agree with that in the top of the Porch. So there is only an Ellipsis or defect of the Particle as, which is frequent, as Gen. 49. 9. Deut. 33. 22. Psal. 11. 1. Isa. 21. 8. a Of which see on ver. 16.

20 And the chapiters upon the two pillars, had pomegranates also above, over against the belly b, which was by the net-work: and the pomegranates were two hundred c, in rows round about upon the other chapiter.

b So he calls the middle part of the Chapiter, and that which jetted furthest out. c These Pomegranates are variously accounted in Scriptures. They are said to be ninety and six on a side of a pillar; i. e. in one row, and in all an hundred, Jer. 52. 23. four great Pomegranates between the several Checker-works being added to the first 96. And it must needs be granted, that there were as many on the other side of the Pillar, or in the other Row, which makes them 200 upon a Pillar, as is here said, and 400 upon both Pillars, as they are numbred, 2 Chron. 4. 13.

21 * And he set up the pillars in the porch of the temple d: and he set up the right pillar, and called the name thereof ‖ Jachin e: and he set up the left pillar, and called the name thereof ‖ Boaz.

* 2 Chron. 3. 17. ‖ That is, he shall establish. ‖ That is, in it is strength.

d Where they were placed for meer Ornament and Magnificence, for they supported nothing. e Jachin signifies he; i. e. God shall establish, to wit, his Temple, and Church, and People: and Boaz signifies, in it, or rather, in him (to answer the he in the former name) is strength. So these Pillars being eminently strong and stable, were in a manner Types or Documents of that strength which was in God, and would be put forth by God for the defending and establishing of his Temple and People, if they were careful to keep the Conditions required by God on their parts.

22 And upon the top of the pillars was lily-work: so was the work of the pillars finished.

23 ¶ And he made * a molten sea f, ten cubits † from the one brim to the other: it was round all about, and his height was five cubits: and a line of thirty cubits did compass it round about.

* Jer. 52. 17. † Heb. from his brim to his brim.

f He melted the Brass, and cast it into the form of a great Vessel, for its vastness called a Sea, which name is given by the Hebrews to all great collections of Waters. The use of it was for the Priests to wash their Hands and Feet, or other things as occasion required, with the Water which they drew out of it. See 2 Chron. 4. 2. Compare Exod. 30. 19, 20.

* 2 Chron. 4. 3.

g Or, carved or molten figures: for learned Hebricians note, that this word signifies the Figures or Pictures of all sorts, as Flowers, Beasts, &c. This general word is particularly explained of oxen, 2 Chron. 2. 3. unless there were so many Figures, or Sculptures of Gourds, or other Flowers; and in each of these a little Ox's head. h So there were 300 in all. i Together with the Sea, not carved. k It seems doubtful whether the second Row had ten in each Cubit, and so there were 300 more; or, whether the ten were distributed into five in each Row.

25 It stood upon twelve oxen l, three looking toward the north, and three looking toward the west, and three looking toward the south, and three looking toward toward the east m: and the sea was set above upon them, and all their hinder-parts were inward.

l Of solid Brass, which was necessary to bear so great a weight. It is probably conceived, that the Water was by Cocks drawn out of the Mouths of these Oxen. m Partly, for the more equal and convenient support of the Vessel; and partly, that divers persons might draw Water out of it at the same time, which was frequently necessary, especially in great Solemnities.

26 And it was an hand-breadth thick, and the brim thereof was wrought like the brim of a cup, with flowers of lilies: it contained two thousand baths n.

n Which amounts to 500 Barrels, each Bath containing about 8 Gallons; the Bath being a measure of the same bigness with an Ephah, Ezek. 45. 11. Obj. This Sea is said to contain 3000 Baths, 2 Chron. 4. 5. Ans. Either there were two sorts of Baths, as of Cubits, the one common, the other sacred, and the sacred held half as much more as the common: or rather, he here speaks of what it did actually and usually contain, to wit, 2000 Baths, which was sufficient for use, and in 2 Chron. 4. 5. he speaks of what it could contain if it were filled to the brim, as it is implied in the Hebrew words, which differ from these, and properly sound thus, strengthning it self (to wit, to receive and hold as much as it could, or being filled to its utmost capacity) it contained, or could contain 3000 Baths.

27 And he made ten bases o of brass: four cubits was the length of one base, and four cubits the breadth thereof, and three cubits the height of it.

o Upon which stood the ten Lavers mentioned below, v. 38. in which they washed the parts of the Sacrifices, 2 Chron. 4. 6.

28 And the work of the bases was on this manner: they had borders p, and the borders were between the ledges:

p Broad brims, possibly for the more secure holding of the Lavers.

29 And on the borders that were between the ledges, were lions, oxen, and cherubims: and upon the ledges there was a base r above: beneath the lions and oxen were certain additions s made of thin work.

r So he calls the uppermost part of the Base: for though it was above, yet it was a Base to the Laver, which stood upon it. s Either as Bases for the Feet of the said Lions and Oxen: or, only as further Ornaments.

30 ¶ And every base had four brazen wheels t, and plates of brass: and the four corners thereof had under-setters u: under the laver were under-setters molten, at the side of every addition.

t Whereby the Bases and Lavers might be carried from place to place as need required. u Heb. Shoulders; fitly so called, because they strongly supported the Lavers, that they should not fall from their Bases, when the Bases were removed together with the Lavers.

31 And the mouth of it x within the chapiter y and above z was a cubit a: but the mouth thereof was round after the work of the base, a cubit and an half b: and also upon the mouth of it were gravings with their borders, four-square, not round c.

x So he calls that part in the top of the Base which was less hollow, that the foot of the Laver might be let into it, and fastned in it. y i. e. Within the little Base, which he calls the chapiter, because it rose up from, and stood above the great Base, as the Head doth above the rest of the Body. z Above the Chapiter; for the Mouth went up, and grew wider like a Funnel. a Either in breadth: or rather in height, v. 35. whereof half a Cubit was above the Chapiter or little Base, as is said v. 25. and the other half is here implied to be within it, and below it. b To wit, in compass. c So the innermost part, called the Mouth, was round, but the outward part was square, as when a Circle is made within a Quadrangle.

32 And under the borders were four wheels: and the axle-trees of the wheels were † joined to the base, and the height of a wheel was a cubit and half a cubit.

33 And the work of the wheels was like the work of a charet-wheel: their axle-trees, and their naves, and their felloes, and their spokes were all molten d.

d And cast together with the Bases.

34 And there were four under-setters to the four corners of one base: and the under-setters were of the very base it self e.

e Not only of the same matter, but of the same piece, being cast with it.

35 And in the top of the base was there a round compass of half a cubit high: and on the top of the base, the ledges thereof, and the borders thereof were of the same.

36 For on the plates of the ledges thereof, and on the borders thereof, he graved cherubims, lions, and palm-trees, according to the † proportion f of every one, and additions round about.

f Or, empty place, i. e. according to the bigness of the spaces which were left empty for them, implying that they were smaller than those above-mentioned.

37 After this manner he made the ten bases: all of them had one casting, one measure, and one size.

38 ¶ Then made he ten lavers of brass: one laver contained forty baths g: and every laver was four cubits: and upon every one of the ten bases, one laver.

g Ten Barrels; of which see above on ver. 26.

39 And he put five bases on the right † side b of the house i, and five on the left side of the house k: and he set the sea on the right side of the house eastward, over against the south l.

b i. e. In the South-side, as is expressed in the end of the Verse, and as the right side is used above 1 Kings 6. 8. and Psal. 89. 12. i Not within the House, but in the Priests Court, where they washed either their Hands or Feet, or the parts of the Sacrifices. k i. e. On the North side; for this is here opposed to the right or South-side. l i. e. In the South-East part, where the Offerings were prepared.

40 ¶ And Hiram made the lave, and the shovels, and the basons: So Hiram made an end of doing all the work that he made king Solomon, for the house of the LORD.

41 The two pillars, and the two bowls of the chapiters that were on the top of the two pillars: and the two net-works to cover the two bowls of the chapiters, which were on the top of the pillars:

42 And four hundred pomegranates for the two net-works, even two rows of pomegranates for one net-work, to cover the two bowls of the chapiters that were † upon the pillars:

† Heb. upon the face of the pillars.

43 And the ten bases, and ten lavers on the bases:

44 And one sea, and twelve oxen under the sea:

45 And the pots m, and the shovels, and the basons: and all these vessels which Hiram made to king Solomon for the house of the LORD, were of † bright brass.

m To seethe those parts of the Sacrifices which the Priests or Officers were to eat. To these, flesh-hooks are added, 2 Chron. 4. 16.

46 In the plain of Jordan did the king cast them †, in the clay ground n, between Succoth and Zarthan.

† Heb. in the thickness of the ground.

n Or, in thick clay, fat, and tough, and tenacious, and therefore fittest to make Moulds of all sorts, into which the melted Brass was to be poured.

47 And Solomon left all the vessels unweighed †, because they were exceeding many: neither was the weight of the brass † found out.

o Because the weighing of them was very troublesome, and to no purpose.

48 And Solomon made all the vessels that pertained unto the house of the LORD p: the altar of gold q, and the table of gold, whereupon the * shew-bread was r.

* Exod. 25. 30.

r Such as God by the Mouth of Moses had commanded to be made for his House and Service, and such as Moses had made, only these were larger, and richer, and more, acco ding to the difference of the Temple, and Tabernacle, and Solomon's vast riches, and the poverty of Moses and the Israelites at that time. q To wit, of Incense, as appears from 1 Chron. 28. 18. where this is mentioned amongst the things for which David left Gold, and Solomon is here said to build it; and therefore this cannot be that Altar made by Moses, Exod. 25. 23, 24. and 30. 1, 3. which also was of Shittim-Wood, whereas this was made of Cedar, and covered with Gold, 1 Kings 6. 20. r Under which, by a Synecdoche are comprehended both all the utensils belonging to it, and the other ten Tables which he made together with it, 2 Chron. 4. 7, 8.

49 And the candlesticks s of pure gold t, five on the right side, and five on the left, before the oracle u, with the flowers x, and the lamps, and the tongs of gold.

s Which were ten, according to the number of the Tables, whereas Moses made but one: whereby might be signified the progress of the Light of Sacred Truth, which was now grown clearer than it was in Moses his time, and should shine brighter and brighter until the perfect day of Gospel-Light. t Of massie and fine Gold. u In the holy place. x Wrought upon the Candlesticks, as it had formerly been. See on Exod. 25. 31.

50 And the bowls, and the snuffers, and the basons, and the spoons, and the † censers of pure gold; and † Heb. the hinges of gold, both for the doors of the inner asphaus. house, the most holy place, and for the doors of the house, to wit, of the holy temple.

51 So was ended all the work that king Solomon made for the house of the LORD: and Solomon brought in the † things * which David his father had dedicated, even the silver and the gold y, and the vessels z did he put among the treasures of the house of the LORD.

The Feaſt of the Dedication of the Temple: The Ark of the Covenant with the Holy Inſtruments are brought into it: The Lord giveth a token of his preſence, 1,——11. Solomon's Bleſſing and Thanksgiving, 12,——21. His Prayer, 22,——61. His Sacrifice of Peace-Offering, 62,——65.

* 2 Chron. 5. 2. † Heb. princes.

THen * Solomon aſſembled the elders of Iſrael a, and all the heads of the tribes b, the † chief of the fathers c of the children of Iſrael, unto king Solomon d in Jeruſalem e, that they might bring up the ark f of the covenant of the LORD, out of the city of David g, which is Zion h.

a The Senators, and Judges, and Rulers. b For each Tribe had a peculiar head or Governour. c The chief Perſons of every great Family in each Tribe. d Unto himſelf; the antecedent Noun being put for the relative and reciprocal Pronoun, as is frequent with the Hebrews. e Where the Temple was built, and now finiſhed. f To the top of this high Hill of Moriah, upon which it was built; whither they were now to carry the Ark in a ſolemn pomp, that by this their attendance they might make a publick profeſſion of that ſervice and reſpect, and obedience which they owed unto that God who was graciouſly and gloriouſly preſent in the Ark. g Where David had placed the Ark, 2 Sam. 6. 12, 17. See 01 1 *King*s. 10 and 3. 1. h Which is called Zion, becauſe it was built upon that Hill.

2 And all the men of Iſrael i aſſembled themſelves unto king Solomon at the feaſt k, in the month Ethanim, which is the ſeventh month l.

i Not only the chief Men who were particularly invited, but a vaſt number of the common People, as being forward to ſee and to joyn in this great and glorious Solemnity. k Underſtand either firſt, The Feaſt of Tabernacles. Or rather, Secondly, The Feaſt of the Dedication, to which Solomon had invited them, which was before that Feaſt: for that began on the 15*th* day of the 7*th* month, Lev. 23. 34. but this began at the leaſt 7 days before that Feaſt; for Solomon and the People kept the Feaſt for 14 days, here v. 65 i.e. 7 days for the dedication of the Temple, and 7 other days for that of Tabernacles; and after both theſe were finiſhed, he ſent all the People to their homes on the 23 day of the month. See 2 Chron. 7, 9, 10. l Which time he choſe with common reſpect to his Peoples convenience, becauſe now they had gathered in all their Fruits, and now they were come up to Jeruſalem, to Celebrate the Feaſt of Tabernacles. Queſt. The Temple was not finiſhed till the eighth month, 1 Kings 6. 38. how then could he invite them in the ſeventh month? Anſ. This was the ſeventh month of the next Year. For although the houſe in all its parts was finiſhed the Year before, yet the utenſils of it deſcribed Chap. 7. were not then fully finiſhed, but took up a conſiderable time afterward: and many preparations were to be made for this great and extraordinary occaſion.

3 And all the elders of Iſrael came, and the prieſts took up the ark m.

m For although the Levites might do this, Numb. 4 15. yet the Prieſts did it at this time, partly, for the greater honour of the Solemnity; and partly, becauſe the Levites might not enter into the Holy place, much leſs into the Holy of Holies, where it was to be placed, into which the prieſts themſelves might not have entred, if the High-Prieſt alone could have done it. Obj. The Levites are ſaid to have done this, 2 Chron. 5. 4. Anſ. That is moſt true, becauſe all the Prieſts were Levites, though all the Levites were not Prieſts.

4 And they brought up the ark of the LORD, and the tabernacle of the congregation n, and all the holy veſſels that were in the tabernacle, even thoſe did the prieſts and Levites o bring up.

n That made by Moſes, which doubtleſs before this time had been tranſlated from Gibeon to Zion, and now together with other things, was put into the Treaſuries of the Lord's-Houſe, to prevent all the ſuperſtitious uſe and prophane abuſe of it, and to oblige the people to come up to Jeruſalem, as the only place where God would now be Worſhipped. o The Prieſts carrying ſome, and the Levites others.

5 And king Solomon, and all the congregation of Iſrael, that were aſſembled unto him, were with him before the ark, ſacrificing ſheep and oxen p that could not be told nor numbred for multitude.

p Either, Firſt, In the way, as David did upon the like occaſion, 2 Sam. 6. 13. Or, Secondly, When the Ark was come into the Prieſts Court where the Altar ſtood, whence it was ſpeedily to be conveyed to that place where the People could never behold it more. Or rather, Thirdly, When the Ark was ſeated in its place: for although they might in the way or paſſage offer ſome Sacrifices, as David did; yet that was not a proper ſeaſon to offer ſo many Sacrifices as could not be told nor numbred, as theſe are here ſaid to be; which far better agrees with what is more particularly related below, ver. 62, 63, 64. which is here ſignified in the general by way of anticipation, as is frequently done in the Scripture in like caſes.

6 And the prieſts brought in the ark of the covenant of the LORD unto his place, into the Oracle of the houſe q, to the moſt holy place, even under the wings of the cherubims r.

q i.e. To that part of the Houſe which is called the Oracle. 1 Kings 6. 5, 16, 19, 23. or, as it here follows, the moſt holy place. r To wit, of Solomon's new-made Cherubims, 1 Kings 6. 23, 24, 27. not of the Moſaical Cherubims, which were far leſs, and unmovably fixed to the Ark, Exod. 37. 7, 8. and therefore together with the Ark, were put under the wings of theſe Cherubims.

7 For the cherubims ſpread forth their two wings over the place of the ark, and the cherubims covered the ark, and the ſtaves thereof above.

8 And they drew out the ſtaves ſ, that the † ends of the ſtaves were ſeen out in the ‖ holy place † before the oracle, and they were not ſeen without: and there they are unto this day.

ſ Not wholly, which was expreſly forbidden, Exod. 25. 15. Numb 4. 6. but in part. t Either, Firſt, Properly ſo called: which place was indeed before the oracle. But how then could it be ſaid, that they were not ſeen without, to wit, in the Holy place? For that they ſhould be ſeen without, to wit, in the Court, was ſo ridiculous a conceit, that it had been abſurd to ſuppoſe it, or to ſay any thing to prevent it. Nor is it much better what others ſay, that theſe ends of the ſtaves did diſcover themſelves thorough the veil, which they thruſt forward, though they did not pierce thorough it. For neither in that caſe had they been ſeen; and beſides, there was a Wall as well as a Veil in that place. Or rather, Secondly, In the moſt holy place, which is oft called by way of eminency, the Holy place, as Exod. 29. 30. and 39. 1. Levit. 6. 30. and 10. 18. and 16 2, 16, 17, 20. And the Hebrew words rendred before the oracle, may be as well rendred, within the oracle, the Phraſe, al pene, bei ſo uſed, Gen. 1. 2. the ſpirit of God moved upon the face of the waters, i. e. in the Waters, or in that confuſed heap of Earth and Water, in which God was now working, that he might bring it into order and uſe; and Gen. 1. 20. where it is well rendred, in the open firmament of heaven, i.e. of the Air. And thus the whole is moſt true, They were ſeen out, to wit, without the Ark, and the Cherubims which covered all the other parts, but they were not ſeen without the Oracle, to wit, in the Holy place, ſtrictly ſo called. For how could they be ſeen there, when there was both a Wall and a thick Veil between that place and the Oracle? And theſe Staves were left in this poſture, that the High-Prieſt might hereby be certainly guided to that very particular place where he was one day in a year to ſprinkle Blood, and to offer Incenſe before the Ark, which otherwiſe he might miſtake in that dark place, where the Ark was wholly covered with the Wings of the great Cherubims, which ſtood between him and the Ark when he entred thither. Some conceive that the Door of the Oracle ſtood always open (which yet ſeems very improbable); and that they who were near the Door, might ſee the ends of the Staves, though, by reaſon of the darkneſs of the place they could ſee nothing elſe there.

9 * There was nothing in the ark u, ſave the two tables of ſtone, which * Moſes put there at Horeb, ‖ when the LORD made a covenant with the children of Iſrael, when they came out of the land of Egypt.

* Exo. 25. 21. Deu. 10. 2. * Deut. 5. ‖ Or, where u S tridly and properly: for in a more large ſenſe, as in is oft taken for by or near, as is confeſſed. and hath been proved before; ſo the pot of Manna, and Aaron's rod were alſo in it, Heb. 9. 4. i.e. by it. to wit, in the moſt Holy place, before the Ark of the teſtimony, where God commanded Moſes to put them, as it is expreſſed, Exod. 16. 33, 34. Numb. 17. 10. and not ſtrictly in it. But of this more, God aſſiſting, on Heb. 9. 4.

10 And it came to paſs when the prieſts were come out of the holy place x, that the cloud y * filled the houſe of the LORD z.

* Exod. 40. 34, 35.

x Either, Firſt, The moſt Holy place, into which the Prieſts had now entred to carry in the Ark. Or rather, Secondly, The Holy place, where they might have ſtood to miniſter, if the Cloud had not hindred them, as may be gathered from the next Verſe. y The uſual token of God's glorious preſence. See Exod. 16. 10. and 24. 15, 16. Numb. 9. 15. ‡ Partly, in teſtimony of his gracious acceptance of this Work, and their Service; and partly, to beget an awe and reverence in them, and in all others, when they approach to God.

11 So that the prieſts could not ſtand to miniſter, becauſe of the cloud a: for the glory of the LORD had filled the houſe of the LORD.

a Becauſe the Cloud was either ſo bright that it dazled their eyes: or rather ſo dark, that it ſtruck them with horror and amazement, as is implied in the next Verſe.

12 ¶ Then ſpake Solomon b, The LORD * ſaid c that he would dwell * in the thick darkneſs.

* 2 Chr. 6. 1. * Lev. 16. 2

b Perceiving both Prieſts and People ſtruck with horror and wonder at this darkneſs, he minds them, that this was no ſign of God's diſlike or diſavſour, as ſome of them might poſſibly imagine; but a token of his Approbation, and Grace, and ſpecial Preſence among them. c Not in expreſs words, but by plain conſequence, becauſe he hath declared both by his Words and Actions, that he would manifeſt his preſence with, and dwelling among his People, by a dark Cloud, in which he would appear. See Exod. 13. 21, 22. and 24. 16. and 40. 35. Numb. 9. 15. Deut. 4. 11. and 5. 22. Pſal. 18. 12. and 97. 2.

13 I have ſurely built thee an houſe to dwell in d, a ſettled place for thee to abide in for ever e.

d I perceive by this thick darkneſs, that thou art coming among us, and therefore make haſte and come, O thou Bleſſed Gueſt, into into the dwelling-place which I have built by thy Command, and for thy Service. e Not a Tabernacle, which was made to be carried from place to place; but a durable, and, I hope, perpetual Habitation.

14 And the king turned his face about f, and bleſſed all the congregation of Iſrael g; (and all the congregation of Iſrael ſtood h).

f From the Temple, towards which he was looking to obſerve that thick and extraordinary darkneſs, to the Body of the Congregation. g Or, Bleſſed, (to wit, the Lord, which is eaſily underſtood from the following words; in which he only bleſſeth or praiſeth God, but doth not bleſs the People at all) with (ſo the Hebrew eth is oft uſed, as hath been ſhewed before) all the congregation. Although he might do both, firſt bleſs the Congregation, which poſſibly he might do in that ſolemn and appointed Form, Num. 6. which therefore it was needleſs to repeat here; and then bleſſed God. And indeed he doth both here below, where theſe ſame words are uſed, ver. 55, 56, &c. h Partly, in way of Devotion to God, whom they adored: and partly, out of reſpect to the King.

15 And he ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD God of Iſrael, which ſpake with his mouth unto David my father, and hath with his hand fulfilled it i, ſaying, i Praiſed be God both for his Grace in making ſuch a promiſe, and for his Goodneſs and Truth in fulfilling it.

16 Since the day that I brought forth my people Iſrael out of Egypt k, I choſe no city l out of all the tribes of Iſrael to build an houſe, that my Name might be therein m; but I choſe * David n to be over my people Iſrael.

* 2 Sam. 7. 6.

k Until David's time; for then he did chuſe Jeruſalem. l i.e. I did not declare my choice of it: for ſo chuſing is uſed for declaring or executing ones choice, as Deut. 12. 1. 2 Chron. 6. 5. Zech. 2. 12. and things are oft ſaid to be done when they are only manifeſted or declared to be ſuch; in which ſenſe God is ſaid to be, juſtified, Pſal. 51. 4. and Men to be guilty, Hoſ. 5. 15. Otherwiſe to ſpeak properly, whatſoever God chuſeth, he chuſeth from Eternity. m That my Preſence, and Grace, and Worſhip, and Glory, might be there. n And in and with him the Tribe of Judah, of which he was, and Jeruſalem where he dwelt; which is here implied by the oppoſition of this to the former part of the Verſe.

17 And * it was in the heart of David my father o, to build an houſe for the Name of the LORD God of Iſrael.

See Exod 22. 8, him, or, 11. Numb. 5. 12, 15, &c. m For here God, who was appealed tender an to as Witneſs, was eſpecially preſent. Hence the Heathens uſed to oath to him. Swear at their Altars.

32 Then hear thou in heaven, and do, and judge thy ſervants, condemning the wicked, to bring his way n upon his head, and juſtifying the righteous, to give him according to his righteouſneſs o.

n i.e. The juſt Recompence of his wicked Action and Courſe. o To vindicate him, and to manifeſt his Integrity.

33 ¶ When * thy people Iſrael be ſmitten down before the enemy, becauſe they have ſinned againſt thee, and * ſhall turn again to thee, and confeſs thy Name p, and pray, and make ſupplication unto thee ‖ in his houſe:

* Lev. 26. 17. Deu. 28. 25 * Lev. 26. 39, 40. ‖ Or, toward.

p Give Glory to thy Name, by acknowledging their Sins, and thy Juſtice; and by accepting the puniſhment of their Iniquity; and by truſting to thy Power and Goodneſs alone, for their Deliverance.

34 Then hear thou in heaven, and forgive the ſin of thy people Iſrael, and bring them again q unto the land, which thou gaveſt unto their fathers.

q From the Land into which they are ſuppoſed to be carried by their Enemies, into Canaan. Queſt. If they were Baniſhed into a ſtrange Land, how could they pray in this houſe, as they are ſaid to do, ver. 33. Anſw. 1. That may be rendred to, or, towards this houſe, as it is expreſſed, v. 29, 30. The Hebrew Preposition Beth, in, being oft put for El, to, or, towards. 2. This may be underſtood of divers Perſons; and ſo the ſence is this: When the People of Iſrael be defeated in Battel, and many of their Brethren be taken Priſoners, and carried into Captivity; if then their Brethren remaining in the Land, ſhall heartily pray for their Captive Brethren, they ſhall be delivered.

35 ¶ When * heaven r is shut up s, and there is no rain, because they have sinned against thee; if they pray towards this place, and confess thy Name, and turn from their sin, when thou afflictest them t:

r The lower Heaven in which the Clouds are; as Deut. 11. 17. Psal. 147. 8. s The Heaven is compared to a great Store-House in God's keeping, out of which nothing can be had, so long as it is close shut up. t Do not reject their Prayers, because they are forced from them by their Afflictions, as thou may'st justly do.

36 Then hear thou in heaven, and forgive the sin of thy servants, and of thy people Israel, that thou teach them u the good way x wherein they should walk, and give rain y upon thy land which thou hast given to thy people for an inheritance.

u That their Sin being Pardoned, and thou being Reconciled unto them, may'st vouchsafe to teach them Or rather, as our Translators render the very same Words, 2 Chron. 6. 27. When thou shalt teach, or hast taught them, not only by thy Word, for that was done before; but by their Afflictions, which is one of God's Schools; and especially, by thy Spirit, enlightening their Minds, and inclining their Hearts, that they may learn, and profit both by the Word, and by their Afflictions. And this is here fitly added, to shew, that he could not expect, and did not desire from God the Pardon of their Sins, but upon God's Terms, to wit, upon their True Repentance. x i.e. The way, or Will of God; or the way of their Duty, as the following words explain it, which is most rightly called the good way here, and 1 Sam. 12. 23. because it is both Just and Holy, and therefore good in it self; and good, that is, both Delightful and Profitable, to those that walk in it. The meaning is, When thou hast effectually taught them, and they have throughly learned how to please and serve thee acceptably, and to walk before thee in the way which thou hast prescribed them. y The order of Solomon's Prayer is very observable; first and chiefly, he prays for their Repentance and Forgiveness, which is the chief Blessing, and the only solid Foundation of all other Mercies: and then he prays for the Temporal Mercy; thereby teaching us what to mind and desire principally in our Prayers; which also Christ hath taught us in his perfect Pattern and Form of Prayer; wherein there is but one Petition for outward, and all the rest are for Spiritual Blessings.

37 ¶ If * there be in the land famine, if there be pestilence, blasting, mildew, locust, or if there be caterpillar ‖; if their enemy besiege them in the land of their † cities, whatsoever plague a, whatsoever sickness there be;

y i.e. The Plague of Locusts, or Caterpillars, infesting a Land by their great numbers, and venomous or noxious qualities: of which see, Exod. 10. 4, 5. Deut. 28. 42. Psal. 105. 34, 35. a That chiefly signifies, an extraordinary Judgment sent from God.

38 What prayer and supplication soever be made by any man, or by all thy people Israel, which shall know every man the plague of his own heart b, and spread forth his hands towards this house:

b i.e. Either, 1. His Sin, which may be called the plague of his heart, in opposition to the other Plagues here mentioned, which afflict only the Body, or outward Man; So the sence is, Who, by their Afflictions are brought to a true and serious sence of their worse and inward Plague of their Sins, which are most fitly called the plague of the heart, because that is both the principal Seat of Sin, and the Fountain from whence all actual Sins flow, Matth. 15. 19. Or rather, 2. His Affliction; for so this is Explained in the parallel place, 2 Chron. 6. 29. (which is the more considerable, because that Book was written after this, to explain what was dark or doubtful, and to supply what was lacking in this) when every one shall know his own sore, and his own grief; which is not unfitly called, the plague of his heart, because it was that Plague which his Heart was most Afflicted with, which pained him at the very heart; as the Phrase is, Jer. 4. 19. compare Psal. 55. 4. which caused him most vexation or grief, which is a Passion of the Heart: and so the sence is, Who shall know, i.e. be duly and deeply sensible of his Affliction, and the hand of God in it; and his Sin as the cause of it: for Words of Knowledge in Scripture, do very frequently note such a kind of Knowledge as affects and changeth the Heart, and reforms the whole course of a Man's Life; for which cause, Men of ungodly Lives are frequently said in Scripture not to know God, or Christ, or his Word, &c. And therefore no man knows his sore in a Scripture-sence, but he who hears the rod, who turneth unto him that smiteth him, and sincerely seeketh to the Lord for Relief.

39 Then hear thou in heaven thy dwelling-place, and forgive, and do, and give to every man according to his ways c, whose heart thou knowest d, (for thou, even thou only knowest the hearts of all the children of men.)

c According to his Repentance, or Impenitency. I pray with more hope and confidence, because I do not desire that thou wouldst deliver such as are insensible of thy Judgments, and their Sin; but only those who truly know the Plague of their own Heart, in manner before explained. d Thou knowest who are truly Penitent, and who are not; and therefore the granting of my Request will be no dishonour to thy Government, nor injury to thy Holy Nature.

40 That * they may fear thee e all the days that they live in the land which thou gavest unto our fathers.

e That when thou hast first smitten them, and then so eminently delivered them, and that in answer to their Prayer, they may hereby be taught to fear Thee, and thy Justice, and thy Goodness.

41 Moreover concerning a stranger that is not of thy people Israel, but cometh out of a far country for thy Names sake f; f This may note, either 1. The end of his coming, that he may Worship, and Glorifie thy Name: or rather, 2. The motive, or occasion of his Coming, which was the fame of God's Greatness, and Power, and Kindness to his People: as the following words Explain it.

42 (For they shall hear of thy great Name, and of thy strong hand, and of thy stretched-out arm) when he shall come and pray towards this house.

43 Hear thou in heaven thy dwelling-place, and do according to all that the stranger calleth to thee for g: that all people of the earth may know thy Name, to fear thee, as do thy people Israel h, and that they may know that † this house, which I have † Heb. thy name is called upon this house. builded, is called by thy Name i.

g To wit, Agreeable to thy Will and Word: for he would not have them heard, if they had prayed for any thing dishonourable to God, or destructive to his People. It is observable, That his prayer for the Strangers is more large, and comprehensive, than for the Israelites; that thereby he might both shew his Publick-spiritedness, and encourage Strangers to the Worship of the True God. h Whereby we see, how sincerely and heartily the ancient and godly Jews desired the Conversion of the Gentiles; whereas, the latter and degenerate Jews, in the days of Christ, and of the Apostles, did Envy, Oppose it, and Fret at it. i i.e. Is owned, not only by us, but by thy self, as thy House; the only place in the World to which thou wilt vouchsafe thy Presence and Protection, and wherein thou wilest be Publickly and Solemnly served.

44 ¶ If thy people go out to battel against their enemy, whithersoever thou shalt send them k, and shall pray unto the LORD l † toward the city which thou hast chosen m, and toward the house that I have built for thy Name n: † Heb. the way of the city.

k i.e. In a Just Cause, and by thy Warrant or Commission. Whereby he implies, That it was unlawful for them to undertake any War meerly for their own Glory, or Lust; or to enlarge their Empire beyond its due bounds; and that they could not with safe Conscience pray to God for his Blessing upon such a War. l Whereby he instructs them, That they should not trust, either to the Strength or Justice of their Arms, but only to God's Help and Blessing, which they were to pray for. m To wit, For thy Dwelling-place, and the Seat of thy Temple. n For to it they were to turn their Faces in Prayer; partly, thereby to profess themselves to be the Worshippers of the True God, in opposition to Idols; and that they sought help from him, and from no other: and partly, to strengthen Faith in God's Promises and Covenant, the Tables whereof were contained in that House.

45 Then hear thou in heaven their prayer, and their supplication, and maintain their ‖ cause o. ‖ Or, right.

o Declare the Justice of their Cause, by giving them the Victory. Heb. judgment.

46 If they sin against thee, (* for there is no man that sinneth not p) and thou be angry with them, and deliver them to the enemy, so that they carry them away captives unto the * land of the enemy, far or near: *1 Chron. 6. 36. Prov. 20. 9. Eccl. 7. 20. Jam. 3. 2. 1 John 1. 8, 10. † Heb. the land of a enemy.

p The universal Corruption of Man's whole Race and Nature, * makes me presage, that they will fall into Sins; and withal, makes me to hope, that thou wilest not be severe to deal with them as their Sins deserve. *Lev. 26. 40. Deut. 32. 26.

47 Yet if they shall † bethink themselves q in the land whither they were carried captives, and repent, bring back and make supplication unto thee, in the land of them that carried them captives, saying r, We have sinned, and have done perversly; we have committed wickedness; † Heb. to their hearts.

q Heb. bring back their hearts; to wit, their Sin; Expressed ver. 46. and implied in the following word, Repent. r Sensibly, and with an honest heart.

48 And so return unto thee with all their heart, and with all their soul s, in the land of their enemies, which led them away captive, and * pray unto thee toward their land, which thou gavest unto their fathers, the city which thou hast chosen, and the house which I have built for thy Name: *Dan. 6. 10.

s i.e. Sincerely, Universally, and Stedfastly.

49 Then hear thou their prayer, and their supplication in heaven thy dwelling-place, and maintain their ‖ cause t. ‖ Or, right.

t Heb. their right, against their Invaders and Oppressors. For Heb. they had forfeited all their Rights to God only, but not to their judgment. Enemies; whom though God used as scourges to chastise his Peoples Sins, yet they had no pretence of Right to their Land, nor any regard to it; but only minded the satisfaction of their own Lusts and Interests. See Isa. 10. 5, 6. and 47. 6. Zech. 1. 15.

50 And

50 And forgive thy people that have sinned against thee, and all their transgressions wherein they have transgressed against thee, and * give them compassion before them, who carried them away captive, that they may have compassion on them u: *Psal. 106. 46.

u i.e. May gently use them whilst they are there, and proclaim Liberty to their Captives, to go to their own Land.

51 For they be thy people x, and thine inheritance, which thou broughtest forth out of Egypt, from the * midst of the furnace of iron y: *Jer. 11. 4.

x For howsoever they may sin against thee, or suffer from Men; yet still remember, that they are thy peculiar People, and therefore do thou pity, and pardon, and save them. y So called, either from the Metal melted in it: or rather, from the Matter of which it consisted, an Iron Furnace being more hot and terrible, than one of Brick, or Stone. He understands hereby, their cruel Bondage, and painful Labours. See on Deut. 4. 20.

52 That thine eyes may be open unto the supplication of thy servant, and unto the supplication of thy people Israel, to hearken unto them in all that they call for unto thee.

53 For thou didst separate them from among all the people of the earth, to be thine inheritance z, * as thou spakest by the hand of Moses thy servant, when thou broughtest our fathers out of Egypt, O LORD GOD. *Exod. 19. 5.

z Thou hast begun to build a Work of great and glorious Mercy to them; do not give occasion to thine Enemies to think, thou wast unable to finish it; or that thou art unstable in thy ways and Counsels, or unkind to thine own Children.

54 And it was so, that when Solomon had made an end of praying all this prayer and supplication unto the LORD, he arose from before the altar of the LORD, from kneeling on his knees, with his hands spread up to heaven.

55 And he stood and blessed all the congregation of Israel with a loud voice, saying,

56 Blessed be the LORD, that hath given rest unto his people Israel, according to all that he promised: * there hath not † failed one word of all his good † promise a, which he † promised by the hand of Moses his servant. *Deut. 12. 10. † Heb. fallen. † Heb. word. Jer. 33. 14. † Heb. spoke.

a See the like, Josh. 21. 45. and 23. 14. 2 Kings 10. 10.

57 The LORD our God be with us b, as he was with our fathers: let him not leave us, nor forsake us:

b By the presence of his Grace and Mercy.

58 That he may incline our heart unto him c, to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and his statutes, and his judgments, which he commanded our fathers.

c That he may not only bless us with outward Prosperity, and Glory; but especially, with Spiritual Blessings: and that as he hath given us his Word and Statutes to teach and direct us, so he would by his Holy Spirit, effectually incline and engage our Hearts to keep and obey them.

59 And let these my words wherewith I have made supplication before the LORD, be nigh unto the LORD our God, day and night, that he † maintain the cause of his servant d, and the cause of his people Israel e † at all times, as the matters shall require of a quire: † Heb. do the judgment. † Heb. the thing of a day in his day.

d i.e. Of me, as ver. 28, 29, 30. their King, and consequently of all my Successors. e According to mine, or their various necessities and exigencies.

60 That all the people of the earth may know f that * the LORD is God, and that there is none else. *Deut. 4. 35, 39.

f Both by our vertuous and holy Lives, to which thou inclineth us by thy Grace; and by the eminent manifestations of thy Power and Goodness, in defending, and delivering us from all the assaults and devices of our Enemies.

61 Let your heart therefore be perfect g with the LORD our God, to walk in his statutes, and to keep his commandments, as at this day.

g i.e. Sincere and serious in your purposes of Obedience: for sinless Perfection, he himself taught them was not to be expected here, Eccles. 7. 20.

62 ¶ And * the king, and all Israel with him, offered sacrifice before the LORD. *2 Chron. 7. 4.

63 And Solomon offered a sacrifice h of peace-offerings which he offered unto the LORD, two and twenty thousand oxen, and an hundred and twenty thousand sheep i: so k the king and all the children of Israel dedicated the house of the LORD l.

h By the hands of the Priests. i Not all in one day, but in one 7, or, it may be in the 14 days, mentioned ver 65. k i.e. By these Sacrifices, and Holy Exercises. l i.e. Began to set it apart for the Work and Service of God.

64 The * same day did the king hallow the middle of the court m that was before the house of the LORD: for there he offered burnt-offerings, and meat-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings, because * the brazen altar that was before the LORD, *2 Chron. 7. 7. 1 Chr. 4. 1 was too little to receive the burnt-offerings, and meat-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings.

m To wit, of the Priests Court, in which the great Altar was. This he Consecrated as he did the great Altar, to wit, by Sacrifices; but with this difference, That he Consecrated That for lasting and perpetual use: but This only for the present time and occasion, being warranted to do so both by the necessity of it for God's Service, and for the present Solemn Work, for which the Brazen Altar was not sufficient, as it here follows; and by the direction of God's Spirit, wherewith Solomon was endowed, as being a Prophet, as well as a King. Here therefore he suddenly reared up divers Altars, which after this Solemnity were demolished.

65 And at that time Solomon held a feast n, and all Israel with him, a great congregation, from the entring in of Hamath, unto the river of Egypt o, before the LORD p our God, seven days, and seven days q, even fourteen days.

n i.e. Kept the Solemnity. o The usual and known bounds of the Land, in the utmost length of it, of which, see Num. 34. 8. Josh. 13. 5. Judg. 3. 3. p i.e. Before the Temple, and as in God's Presence. q Seven for the Dedication of the Temple, or Altar; and the other seven for the Feast of Tabernacles; as may be gathered from 2 Chron. 7. 9. And it seems to be expressed in this manner, to intimate, that these 14 days of Rejoicing, were not all together, but that there was some interval between them, which indeed was necessary, because the Day of Atonement was on the Tenth Day of this Month, Levit. 23. 27. And because these 14 days ended on the Twenty-second day, 2 Chron. 7. 10. it may seem most probable, that the Feast of the Dedication was kept before the Tenth day: and the Feast of Tabernacles some days after it.

66 On the eighth day he sent the people away r: and they ‖ blessed the king s, and went unto their tents joyful and glad of heart, for all the goodness that the LORD had done for David t his servant, and for Israel his people. ‖ Or, thanked.

r Solomon having joyned with the People in the Solemn Assembly, which was kept on the Eighth day; in the close of that Day and Service, he took his solemn farewel, and dismissed them with his Blessing; and the next Morning when the Heads and Elders who came to Solomon upon this special Summons, above ver. 3. and with them divers of the People came to take their leave of the King, he sent them away. And so this place agrees very well with 2 Chron. 7. 9, 10. s i.e. They prayed to God to Bless him, according to their duty and custom. Or, they praised him, for his great care and pains in Building of the Temple, and setting up God's Worship among them. t In giving him a sure House, and a wife and religious Son, by whom he had now fulfilled the Promise made to David about the Building of the Temple.

AND * it came to pass when Solomon had finished the building of the house of the LORD, and the kings house, and all Solomons desire which he was pleased to do: *2 Chron. 7. 11.

2 That the LORD appeared to Solomon the second time a, * as he had appeared unto him at Gibeon. *Chr. 3. 5.

a To wit, in a Dream or Vision: for that which is mentioned, Chap. 6. 11. seems to have been imparted unto him by some Prophet or Messenger sent from God, with that Errand. The time of this Revelation was, either 1. after all Solomon's Buildings, as the words, thus rendred plainly imply. And if it seem strange, that God should not Reveal this purpose and resolution of his concerning the Temple, till so many years after the finishing of it; it must be considered, 1. That as it is an act of God's singular Grace, when he doth thus Reveal himself to any Person, so it is but meet he should chuse his own time for it. 2. That God had presently after the finishing of the Temple, at the Feast of the Dedication of it, sufficiently shewed his acceptance and approbation of it, by that glorious Cloud, Chap. 8. 10, 11. and therefore this Revelation was not then necessary. 3. That God might chuse this as the fittest time for giving Solomon the following Admonition, when he perceived that his heart began to be lifted up in Pride, for his sumptuous and magnificent Buildings, &c. and that he was grown vain, and careless, and secure; and therefore most needed such an awakening Oracle. Or, 2. Presently after the Building of the Temple, as may be thought from the Matter of this Revelation, which seems best to suit with that time when it was newly Built, and when Solomon's Prayer here mentioned was newly made: for seeing the following words contain God's Answer to that Prayer, it seems improbable, that the Answer should come so many Years after it. But then this second Verse, and the rest even to ver. 11. are to be inclosed with a Parenthesis; and the place must be thus rendred, ver. 2. For (so the Hebrew Vau is oft rendred) the Lord appeared, or, had appeared to Solomon, &c. ver. 3. And the Lord had said unto him, &c.

And this Parentheſis may ſeem to have a foundation in ver. 10. where the firſt Verſe (in ſubſtance, though not in the very ſame words) is repeated, as is uſual after long digreſſions; and then he compleats the Sentence, ver. 11, &c. which till then had been ſuſpended. Nor are ſuch long Parentheſis without Example in Scripture; See my Latin Synopſis, on Rom. 5. 12, &c. Eph. 3. 1, &c. Revel. 22. 7.

p Or, near (as Beth oft ſignifies, as hath been proved before) the Land of Galilee bordering upon it; in thoſe parts which were near, and adjoyning to Hiram's Dominions, with the Cities, underſtand the Lands and Territories belonging to them. Queſt. How could Solomon give away any part of that Land wherein the People had a Right by a Divine Lot, and God had a Right, as being the only Proprietary of it; upon which ground the total Alienation of it, or any part of it, was forbidden. Levit. 25. 23? Anſw 1. It is not ſaid, that he gave them away wholly, and for ever; but he might Aſſign them to him only for a time, until he was fully ſatisfied for his Debt. 2 If theſe Cities were poſſeſſed by Iſraelites, Solomon did not give him their particular Poſſeſſions, but only his own Royalties over them, and all the Profits he received from them, which were very conſiderable, as may be gathered from that paſſage, Chap. 12. 4. 3. Theſe Cities, though they were within thoſe large bounds which God fixed to the Land of Promiſe, Gen. 15. 18 Joſ. 1. 4. yet were not within thoſe parts which were diſtributed by Lot in Joſhua's Time; nor belonging to the Tribe of Aſher, (as ſome ſuppoſe) as may be gathered both from Joſh. 19. ver. 27. where their border is ſaid to go out only to the Land of Cabul; to wit, exclusively: and ver. 30. where all their Cities are ſaid to be but twenty and two; and from 2 Chron. 8. 2. where it is ſaid of thoſe Cities, when Hiram reſtored them, That Solomon built them, and cauſed the children of Iſrael to dwell there. Which makes it more than probable, that theſe Cities were not Inhabited by Iſraelites, but by Canaanites, or other Heathens; who being Subdued, and Extirpated by David, or Solomon, thoſe Cities became a part of their Dominions, and at their Diſpoſal; and afterwards were reckon'd a part of Galilee, as Joſephus notes. And may be one reaſon, why he gave theſe, rather than other Cities, becauſe they were in his power to give, when others were not.

12 And Hiram came out from Tyre to ſee the cities which Solomon had given him, and they † pleaſed † Heb. were not him not q.

q He did not accept them for ſatisfaction, becauſe the Cities right in his were out of repair, as appears from ver. 13 and the Soyl not ſuch good in his Eyes, and therefore he refuſed them, 2 Chron. 8. 2. and expected, and doubtleſs had ſatisfaction ſome other way; as may be gathered from the following Story.

13 And he ſaid, What cities are theſe which thou haſt given me, my brother? And he called them the land of ‖ Cabul r unto this day. ‖ That is, diſpleaſing or, dislike r i. e. Of dirt, as moſt Interpret it. Not that it was a barren Soil, as ſome imagine; for they who deſcribe thoſe parts, commend them as Fruitful: nor would Solomon have made him ſo unworthy a return: but becauſe it was not pleaſant, nor agreeable to his, nor to his Peoples Humour; becauſe, though the Land was very good, yet being a thick and ſtiff Clay, and therefore requiring great pains to Manure and Improve it, it was very unſuitable to the diſpoſition of the Tyrians, who were Delicate, and Lazy, and Luxurious, and wholly given to Merchandiſe.

14 And Hiram ſent s to the king ſixſcore talents of gold.

s Or rather, for Hiram had ſent. And this ſeems to be here added, both to declare the quantity of the Gold ſent, which had been only named before, ver. 11. and as the reaſon why he reſented Solomon's Action ſo ill, becauſe ſo great a Sum required a better Recompence.

15 ¶ And this is the reaſon of the levy which king Solomon raiſed t, for to build the houſe of the LORD, and his own houſe, and Millo u, and the wall of Jeruſalem, and Hazor x, and Megiddo y, and Gezer z.

t Both the Levy of Men; of which, Chap. 5. 13. and the Levy of Money upon his People and Subjects, which is ſufficiently evident from many Scriptures. And this Sentence may look both backward and forward. He raiſed this Levy, both to pay what he owed to Hiram, which is mentioned before; and to Build the Works here following. u It ſeems to have been an eminent, and large, and ſtrong Fort or Caſtle in Jeruſalem; as may be gathered from 1 Kings 11. 27. 2 Chron. 32. 5. x In Naphtali, See Joſh. 11. 10. and 19. 36. y In that part of the Tribe of Manaſſeh within Jordan: of which ſee Joſh. 17. 15. z In Ephraim, Joſh. 21. 21. It now was, and long had been in the poſſeſſion of the Canaanites, Joſh. 16. 10. Judg. 1. 29. and permitted to do ſo by David, and Solomon; either by neglect, or becauſe they were buſied in greater and more neceſſary Employments.

16 For Pharaoh king of Egypt had gone up, and taken Gezer a, and burnt it with fire, and ſlain the Canaanites that dwelt in the City, and given it for a preſent unto his daughter, Solomons wife.

a Not now, but long before this time, and preſently after the Marriage of his Daughter, as is moſt probable; and it is here mentioned only as the occaſion of Solomon's Building it. Poſſibly the Canaanites of this place had been guilty of ſome heinous Crime; and becauſe Solomon thought not fit to deſtroy them himſelf, he deſired Pharaoh to do it for him, or Pharaoh might offer his Service therein for his Daughter's advantage.

17 And Solomon built Gezer, and Beth-horon the nether b, b In Benjamin, Joſ. 18. 13, 14. and Bethoron the upper, which is added 2 Chron. 8. 5. a City in the Tribe of Ephraim, Joſ. 16. 5. poſſibly bordering upon Benjamin, and nigh unto the lower Bethoron: which alone may be here mentioned, either, becauſe it was the more famous place: or, becauſe it needed more reparations.

18 And Baalath c, and Tadmor d, in the wilderneſs, in the land e, c In the Tribe of Dan, Joſ. 19. 40, 44. d Supposed to be called Tamar, Ezek. 47. 19. e This Clauſe may belong either firſt, to all the places above-mentioned, which are here declared to be in the Land of Canaan. But ſo that Clauſe may ſeem ſuperfluous; for none would eaſily think that he would Build much out of his own Land. Or rather, Secondly, To Tadmor, which otherwiſe being in that Wilderneſs which was the border of the Land, might have been preſumed to have been out of the Land.

19 And all the cities of ſtore f that Solomon had, and cities for his chariots, and cities for his horſe-

See Exod. 1. 11. g Either in the Mountain of Lebanon, which being the Border of his Land, he might Build ſome Forts, or a Frontier City in it. Or, in the Houſe of the Foreſt of Lebanon: of which ſee Chap. 7. 2.

20 And all the people that were left of the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebuſites, which were not of the children of Iſrael,

*Judg. 1. 21, 27, 29 land whom the children of Iſrael alſo were not able utterly to deſtroy, upon thoſe did Solomon levy a tribute of bond-ſervice h unto this day.

h He uſed them as Bond-men, and impoſed Burdens and Bodily Labours upon them. See 2 Chron. 2. 18. Hence ſome think they are called Solomon's ſervants, Ezra 2. 55, 58. Queſt. Why did not Solomon deſtroy them, as God had commanded, when now it was fully in his power to do ſo? Anſ. Firſt, The command of deſtroying them, Deut. 7. 2. did chiefly, if not only, concern that Generation of Canaanites, who lived in or near the time of the Iſraelites entring into Canaan. Secondly, That Command ſeems not to be Abſolute and Univerſal, but Conditional, and with ſome Exception for thoſe who ſhould ſubmit to them, and embrace the True Religion, as may be gathered both from Joſ. 11. 19. and from the Hiſtory of the Gibonites, Joſ. 9. whom Joſhua did not ſin in ſparing, when he had Sworn to do ſo; and Saul did ſin in endeavouring to deſtroy them. But if God's Command had been Abſolute, the Oaths of Joſhua, and of the Princes, could not have obliged them, nor diſpenſed with ſuch a Command.

22 But of the children of Iſrael did Solomon * make
*Lev. 25. 39 no bond-man: but they were men of war, and his ſervants, and his princes, and his captains, and rulers of his chariots, and his horſemen, 23 Theſe were the chief of the officers that were over Solomons work, five hundred and fifty i, which bare rule over the people that wrought in the work.

i Obj. They were only 250 in 2 Chron. 8. 10. Anſ. Firſt, Thoſe might be Officers of another ſort; for they are not ſaid to be over the work, as theſe are, but only over the people. Secondly, The 250 were Iſraelites, who are therefore diſtinctly mencioned in that Book, where many things are more exactly noted than in the former; and the other 300 were ſtrangers, who therefore are neglected in that more accurate account. Or, Thirdly, There was but 250 at one time, which is noted there, and 250 at another time, (for it is apparent they did their work by turns) and the other 50 either were Superior to all the reſt; or rather, were a reſerve to ſupply the place of any of the 500 when there was occaſion, which might frequently happen. And ſo this was an act not unbecoming Solomon's Wiſdom, to make proviſion for Emergencies.

*2 Chron. 8. 11. * Chap. 7. 8 24 ¶ But * Pharaohs daughter came up out of the city of David, unto * her houſe which Solomon had built for her: then did he build Millo.

25 ¶ And three times in a year k did Solomon offer burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings upon the † Heb. 4 a-a-r. altar which he built unto the LORD, and he burnt incenſe † upon the altar that was before the LORD: ſo he finiſhed the houſe l.

k i. e. At the three Solemn Feaſts. Which is not ſaid excluſively, as is evident both from 2 Chron. 8. 13. and from the expreſs and oft-repeated Commands of God to offer at other times, which it is abſurd to think that Solomon, not yet fallen into ſin, ſhould ſo wickedly and ſcandalouſly neglect; but becauſe then he did it more Solemnly, and more coſtlily, and more publickly: whereby it might be preſumed, that he did ſo at all other appointed times. l Or, ſo he perfected the houſe, to wit, by applying it to the uſe for which it was made, in which the perfection of ſuch things conſiſts. Or, the houſe may be put Metonymically for the Work or Service of the Houſe, as it is elſewhere commonly uſed for the things or perſons in the Houſe. Or, the words may be, and are rendred thus, After that (for ſo the Hebrew Vau oft ſignifies, as Iſa. 27. 9. 36. Hoſ. 1. 11. Zech. 12. 2.) he finiſhed the houſe; i. e. From the time of the finiſhing of the Houſe, until this time, he continued to do ſo.

m Not now in the order in which it is placed in the Hiſtory, but in the beginning of his Reign; as appears, becauſe the Almug-trees which he uſed in this Work, were brought in this Navy from Ophir, Chap. 10, 11, 12. 2 Chron. 9. 10, 11. which was a three Years Voyage there, ver. 22. For Ophir and Tharſis were either the ſame place, or one near to another. n Or, Elath, as it is called 2 Kings 14. 22. See Deut. 2. 8. It is thought to be that famous Port on the Red Sea, which Ptolemy and Strabo call Elana. o Which David brought under his Dominion, and Solomon kept it.

27 And Hiram ſent in the navy his ſervants, ſhip-men that had knowledge of the ſea p, with the ſervants of Solomon.

p For which the Tyrians were famous. He ſent alſo Ships to Japh with Solomon's, 2 Chron. 8. 18. not from Tyre, the famous City of Phœnicia, which was in the Midland Sea, from whence he could not Sail to the Red Sea, without fetching a vaſt compaſs; but from an Iſland in the Red-Sea, called Tyre, becauſe it was a Colony of the Tyrians, as Strabo notes.

28 And they came to Ophir q, and fet from thence gold, four hundred and twenty talents r, and brought it to king Solomon.

q A place famous for the plenty and fineneſs of the Gold there; Of which ſee Gen. 2. 11, 12. Job 22. 24. and 28. 16. Pſal. 45. 9. Iſa. 13. 12. It is manifeſt and agreed, that it was a part of the Eaſt-Indies, which though very remote from us, yet was far nearer to the Red-Sea, from whence they might eaſily Sail to it in theſe Ancient Times, becauſe they needed not to go far from the Coaſt to come to it, becauſe they might (according to the manner of theſe firſt Ages) Sail all along near the Coaſt, though the Voyage was thereby more tedious, which was the reaſon why three Years were ſpent in it. And here, and here only were to be had all the Commodities which Solomon fetched from Ophir, 1 Kings 10. 22. r In all there came to the King 450 Talents, whereof it ſeems 30 Talents were allowed by Solomon to Hiram and his Men for the Voyage, and ſo there were only 420 that came clearly into the King's Treaſury.

CHAP. X.

The Queen of Sheba cometh to Jeruſalem: admireth Solomon's Wiſdom and Glory: Giveth God thanks, and Solomon Preſents, 1,——10. His Riches, 11,——15. Targets: Ivory Throne, Veſſels, 16,——23. Preſents: Chariots and Horſes, Tribute, 24,——29.

AND when the * queen of Sheba a heard of the a Either, Firſt. Of Æthiopia, as that People by conſtant Tradition from their Anceſtors affirm, which alſo was truly in the ends of the earth, whence ſhe came, Matt. 12. 42. Or rather, Secondly, Of that part of Arabia, called Sheba, which was at a great diſtance from Jeruſalem, and really in the ends of the earth, and bordering upon the Southern Sea; for there, much more than in Æthiopia, were the Commodities which ſhe brought, v. 2, 10. However, this is here ſaid for her commendation, That being a Woman, and a Queen, and living at great eaſe, and in ſuch remote parts, ſhe was willing to take ſo long and chargeable a Journey to improve her ſelf in knowledge, and that of Divine things, as is here implied. b i.e. Concerning the great Work which he had done for the Name, i. e. the Honour, and Service, and Worſhip of the Lord, as it is expreſſed Chap. 8. 17. and elſewhere. Or, concerning God's the Name of God being oft put for God, as hath been noted before; concerning his deep knowledge in the things of God. For it is very probable, that ſhe had, as alſo had divers other Heathens, ſome knowledge of the True God, and an earneſt deſire to know more of the Being, and Nature, and Worſhip of God, wherein the Heathens were generally at a great loſs, and which many of them deſired and endeavoured to underſtand. Or, concerning the great things which God had done for him, eſpecially in giving him ſuch incomparable Wiſdom, and that in an extraordinary manner. c Concerning Natural, and Civil, and eſpecially, concerning Divine things, about which there are, and ever were the hardeſt queſtions.

2 And ſhe came to Jeruſalem with a very great † Heb. hoſt. So Gr. train, with camels that bare ſpices, and very much gold, and precious ſtones: and when ſhe was come to Solomon, ſhe communed with him of all that was in her heart d.

d i. e. Of all the doubts and difficulties wherewith her mind was perplexed.

3 And Solomon told her all her † queſtions e: † Heb. words. there was not any thing hid from the king, which he told her not f.

e Heb. all her matters; he ſatisfied her in all things ſhe deſired to know. f There was not any thing ſhe aſked which Solomon did not both underſtand himſelf, and acquaint her with.

4 And when the queen of Sheba had ſeen all Solomons wiſdom, and the houſe g that he had built, g Or, the houſes, the Singular Number being put for the Plural, to wit, both the Temple and the King's Houſe, in both which there were evidences of ſingular Wiſdom.

5 And the meat of his table and the ſitting of his ſervants h, and the † attendance of his miniſters i, † Heb. ſtanding. and their apparel k, and his ‖ cup-bearers, and his aſcent by which he went up unto the houſe of the LORD l; there was no more ſpirit in her m. ‖ Or, butlers.

h i. e. The order and manner in which his Courtiers, or other Subjects (who all were his ſervants in a general ſenſe) ſat down at Meals, at ſeveral Tables in his Court. i To wit, upon the King, both at his Table, and elſewhere in his Court; and when he went abroad to the Temple or other places. k Both the coſtlineſs of it, and eſpecially the conveniency of it to their ſeveral Places and Offices. l From his own Palace. See 2 Kings 16. 18. But the Ancients, and ſome others, tranſlate the words thus, and the burnt-offerings which he offered up in the houſe of the Lord; under which, as the chief, all other Sacrifices are underſtood: when ſhe ſaw the manner of his offering Sacrifices to the Lord, which doubtleſs ſhe would not neglect to ſee; and in the ordering of which ſhe might diſcern many Characters of excellent Wiſdom, eſpecially when ſhe had ſo excellent an Interpreter as Solomon was, to inform her of the reaſons of all the circumſtances of that Service. m She was aſtoniſhed, and wrapt up in a kind of extaſie, and could ſcarce determine whether ſhe did really ſee theſe things, or whether it was not only a pleaſant Dream.

6 And ſhe ſaid to the king, It was a true † report † Heb. word. that I heard in my own land, of thy ‖ acts, and of thy wiſdom. ‖ Or, ſayings.

7 Howbeit, I believed not the words n, until I came, and mine eyes had seen it: and behold, the half was not told me: † thy wisdom and prosperity o exceedeth the fame which I heard.

† Heb. thou hast added wisdom and goodness to the fame, &c.

n Which the reporters used concerning thee: or, the things reported: they seemed incredible, and above the perfection of humane nature. o Or, happiness: or, virtue. Heb. goodness.

8 Happy are thy men, happy are these thy servants, which stand continually before thee, and that hear thy wisdom.

9 Blessed be the LORD thy God p, which delighted in thee, to set thee on the throne of Israel q: because the LORD loved Israel for ever, therefore made he thee king, to do judgment and justice r.

p He deserves all blessing and praise, for delighting to honour and advance so worthy a Person. q For it was God's special act to make him King, rather than his elder Brother. r i.e. To execute just Judgment among them, to govern them with Right and Equity. She tacitly admonisheth Solomon, that he was not made King that he might live in Ease, and Pleasure, and Splendor, but for the good of his People.

10 And she gave the king an hundred and twenty talents of gold, and of spices very great store, and precious stones: there came no more such abundance of spices, as these which the queen of Sheba gave to king Solomon.

11 And the navy also of Hiram that brought gold from Ophir, brought in from Ophir great plenty of Almug-trees, and precious stones.

12 And the king made of the Almug-trees s, ‖ † pillars t for † the house of the LORD, and for the kings house; harps also, and psalteries for singers: there came no such * Almug-trees, nor were seen unto this day.

See 1 Chron. 26. 16. and 2 Chron. 9. 11. or, for divers parts both of the Lords, and of the King's House.

13 And king Solomon gave unto the queen of Sheba all her desire whatsoever she asked, besides that which Solomon gave her † of his royal bounty: so she turned, and went to her own country, she and her servants.

† Heb. according to the hand of king Solomon.

14 ¶ Now the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year, was six hundred threescore and six talents of gold u, u Which amounts to above two Millions of our Money. And this Gold did not come from Ophir in India, or Tarshish; but from Arabia and Ethiopia, and other parts, which then were well replenished with Gold, though since exhausted by the insatiable Avarice of succeeding Ages.

15 Besides that he had of the merchant-men x; and of the traffique of the spice-merchants y, and of all ‖ Or, captains. the kings of Arabia z, and of the ‖ governours of the country a.

x Heb. of the searchers, or spies: i.e. either Merchants, who use to enquire and search out Commodities, and all advantages of Trade: or rather, the Publicans or gatherers of the King's Revenues, who used to search narrowly into all Wares and Dealings, that the King might not be defrauded of his Rights. y Or rather, of the merchants in general, as that word is oft used in Ezek. 27. and ellewhere. So this and the former particular contain both the branches of the King's Revenue, what he had from the Land and Fruits thereof, and what he had from the Merchants and Traders in other Commodities. z To wit, of those parts of Arabia which were next to Canaan, which were either conquered by David, or submitted to pay Tribute to Solomon. But we must not think all these to be Kings of large Dominions, but many of them only Governours of Cities, and the Territories belonging to them, such as were formerly in Canaan, and were anciently called Kings. a Or, of the land, or of that land, for there is an Article in the Hebrew, i.e. either of the Land of Canaan: or rather, of the Land of Arabia: whereof some parts were so far Conquered, that he had Governors of his own over them, who were each of them to take care of the King's Revenue in his Jurisdiction; and part only so far, that they still had Kings of their own, but such as were Tributaries to him.

16 ¶ And king Solomon made two hundred * targets of beaten gold b: six hundred shekels of gold went to one target.

* 1 Sam. 17. 6.

b For Pomp and Magnificence, and (as may be thought from the use of the Brazen Shields, chap. 14. 27, 28.) to be carried before him, by his Guard, when he went abroad.

18 ¶ Moreover, the king made a great throne of ivory, and overlaid it d with the best gold.

d Not wholly, but in part, here and there, which made it more beautiful to the eye. Probably the main substance of it was Ivory, but some cavities were left in it which were filled with Gold.

20 And twelve lions stood there on the one side, and on the other upon six steps: there was not † the like made in any kingdom.

g Comparatively. Such Hyperbolical expressions being frequent both in Scripture, and other Authors.

22 For the king had at sea a navy of Tharshish h, with the navy of Hiram: once in three years came the navy of Tharshish, bringing gold and silver, ‖ ivory, and apes, and ‖ peacocks.

h Either, First, The Ships of the Sea, which may seem to be called Tarshish, as Psal. 48. 7. Isa. 60. 9. from an eminent part of the Sea near Judea, so called. Or rather, the Ships that went to Tarshish. For Tarshish was the name of a certain place upon the Sea, famous for its Traffick with Merchants, as it is manifest from Isa. 23. 6, 10. and 66. 19. Jer. 10. 9. Ezek. 27. 12. and it was a place very remote from Judea, as appears from the 3 Years usually spent in that Voyage. But whether it was Spain, where in those times there was abundance of Gold and Silver, as Strabo and others affirm; or, some place in the Indies, it is needless to determine.

29 And a charet p, came up, and went out of Egypt for six hundred shekels of silver, and an horse for an hundred and fifty: and so for all the kings of the Hittites q, and for the kings of Syria, did they bring them out † by their means.

p This is not to be understood of the Charets and Horses themselves, (for then all Horses had been set at an equal price, which is most absurd) but by a Metonymy, for the Lading of Charets and Horses, which consisting of fine Linen and Silk, &c. were of great value; and the King's Custom, together with the Charges of the Journey, amounted to these sums. q A People dwelling principally in the Northern and Eastern parts of Canaan, Jos. 1. 4. whom the Israelites, contrary to their Duty, spared, and suffered to live among them, Judg. 3. 5. who afterwards, it seems, grew numerous and potent, and, it may be, they sent out Colonies (after the manner of the Ancient Times) into some parts of Syria and Arabia; and possibly, these kings of the Hittites may be some of those kings of Arabia, 1 Kings 10. 15.

Solomon's Wives and Concubines which in his Old Age seduce him to Idolatry, 1,—8. God threateneth him, 9,——13. His Adversaries are Hadad, who fleeth into Egypt, and is entertained there, 14,—22. Rezon who reigned in Damascus, 23,——25. Jeroboam to whom Ahijah foretelleth that he shall be king: Solomon seeketh his life, 26,—40. *His wars, reign and death. BUT

* Neh. 13. 26. * Deut. 17. 17. Or, Spouses.

BUT * king Solomon loved a * many strange women b (‖ together with the daughter of Pharaoh:) women of the Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, Zidonians, and Hittites:

a To wit, Inordinately and Lustfully. b He sinned against God's known Law, both in their number, Deut. 17. 17. and in their quality.

2 Of the nations concerning which the LORD said unto the children of Israel, * Ye shall not go in to them c, neither shall they come in unto you; for surely they will turn away your heart after their gods d: Solomon clave unto these in love.

* Exod. 34. 16. Deut. 7. 3.

c i.e. Marry them. See on Gen. 6. 4. d Possibly Solomon might think himself too Wise to be drawn to Idolatry by his Wives, and therefore to be unconcerned in the reason of the Law; and consequently free in some measure from the Obligation of the Law; and so, like our first Parents, trusting his own Fancy more than God's Word, he fell dreadfully.

3 And he had seven hundred wives, princesses, and three hundred concubines e: and his wives turned away his heart.

‖ Or, they were not his wives.

e Partly, for his Lust, which being indulged, becomes infinite and unsatiable; and partly, from his Pride, accounting this a point of Honour and Magnificence.

4 For it came to pass, when Solomon was old f, that his wives turned away his heart after other gods g: and * his heart was not perfect with the LORD his God, as was the heart of David his father.

* Chap. 15. 3.

f As having now reigned nigh 30 Years, when it might have been expected that Age should have cooled his Lust, and Experience have made him wiser and better, and when probably he was secure as to the Sea near Judea, so called. Or rather, the Ships that went to Tarshish. For Tarshish was the name of a certain place upon the Sea, famous for its Traffick with Merchants, as it is manifest from Isa. 23. 6, 10. and 66. 19. Jer. 10. 9. Ezek. 27. 12. and it was a place very remote from Judea, as appears from the 3 Years usually spent in that Voyage. But whether it was Spain, where in those times there was abundance of Gold and Silver, as Strabo and others affirm; or, some place in the Indies, it is needless to determine.

5 For Solomon went after h * Ashtaroth the goddess of the Zidonians, and after * Milcom i the abomination of the Amorites.

* Judg. 2. 13. 1 Sam. 7. 3. & 12. 10. 1 Kings 11. 33.

h In manner explained in the former Verse. i Called also Molech: of which see Levit. 18. 21. 2 Kings 23. 10.

6 And Solomon did evil in the sight of the LORD, and † went not fully after the LORD k, as did David his father.

† Heb. filled not after. Deut. 1. 36.

k i.e. Did not worship God wholly and solely, but joyned Idols with him.

7 Then did Solomon build l an high place m for * Chemosh the abomination of Moab, in the hill that is before Jerusalem n; and for Molech the abomination of the children of Ammon.

* Numb. 21. 29. Judg. 11. 24.

l i.e. Suffer to be built, or gave Money for it. m i.e. An Altar upon the high Place, as the manner of the Heathens was. See Numb 22. 41. and 23. 1. n i.e. In the Mount of Olives, which was nigh unto Jerusalem, 2 Sam. 15. 30. and from this act was called the mount of corruption, 2 Kings 23. 13. Idolatry being often called and esteemed a corruption.

8 And likewise did he for all his strange wives o, which burnt incense, and sacrificed unto their gods.

o Having once given way to some few of his most beloved Wives, he was forced to comply with the rest.

9 ¶ And the LORD was angry with Solomon, because his heart was turned from the LORD God of Israel p, * which had appeared unto him q twice,

* Chap. 3. 5 and 9. 2.

p From the express Command, and from the Worship of God; not that he wholly neglected God, but because God esteems all the Worship of Idols (though it be not exclusive of, but conjoyned with his own Worship) to be a forsaking of, and departing from God, and oft-times so calls it. q To wit, in an extraordinary, and most gracious, and obliging manner.

10 And * had commanded him concerning this thing, that he should not go after other gods: but he kept not that which the LORD commanded.

* Chap. 9. 12.

11 wherefore the LORD said unto Solomon r, Forasmuch as this † is done of thee, and thou hast not kept my covenant, and my statutes which I have commanded thee, * I will surely rend s the kingdom from thee, and will give it to thy servant t.

† Heb. is not with thee. * Ver. 31. Cha. 12. 15.

r Either by suggestion to his mind: or, by appearance to him in a terrible manner: or by the Prophet Ahijah, of whom ver. 29. s I will violently take away. The word in the Hebrew is doubled for the greater assurance of the thing. t To one of thy Servants and Subjects; which was Jeroboam, ver. 26, &c.

12 Notwithstanding, in thy days I will not do it, for David thy fathers sake u: but I will rend it out of the hand of thy son.

u For the respect I bear to his Memory, and for my promise sake made to him, 2 Sam. 7.

13 Howbeit, I will not rend away all the kingdom: but will give one tribe x to thy son, for David my servants sake, and for Jerusalems sake y, which I have chosen.

x How but one, when he had both Judah and Benjamin, 2 Chron. 11. 12? Ans Either Benjamin is swallowed up in Judah, because it was comparatively very small, and their habitation much intermixed with that of Judah: or, one, to wit, of that kingdom which he here threatens to rend away from him, i.e. Of the Kingdom of Israel; and that was Benjamin: one beside Judah, which was his own Tribe: or, but one, because Benjamin was not entirely his, but part of it adhered to Jeroboam, as Bethel, 1 King. 12. 29. and Hephron, 2 Chron. 13. 19. both which were Towns of Benjamin, Josh. 18. 22. Or, if God promised to give one, and gave him two, I suppose that was no great Injury to him. y Not, surely, for its merits; but because he had chosen it, as it follows, to be the Seat of his Temple and Worship; it being God's usual method to give to him that hath, and to continue and multiply favours to them whom he hath begun to favour.

14 ¶ And the LORD stirred up an adversary unto Solomon, Hadad the Edomite, he was of the kings seed in Edom.

15 * For it came to pass when David was in Edom z, and Joab the captain of the host was gone up to bury the slain a, * after he had smitten every male in Edom b.

* 2 Sam. 8. 14. * Numb. 24. 19.

z To wit, by his Army, to War against it. See 1 Chron. 18. Deut. 12, 13. a To wit, the Israelites which were slain in the Battel, 2 Sam. 8. 13, 14. whom he honourably interred in some certain place, to which he is said to go up for that end. And this may be mentioned as that which gave Hadad the opportunity of making his escape, whilst Joab and his Men were employed in that Solemnity. b Or, and he smote, &c. as it is in the Hebrew. Which is here noted as the cause of Hadad's flight; he smote, &c. He understood what Joab had done in part, and intended further to do, even to kill all the Males, and therefore fled for his life.

16 (For six months did Joab remain there with all Israel, until he had cut off every male in Edom)

17 That Hadad fled, he and certain Edomites of his fathers servants with him, to go into Egypt; Hadad being yet a little child.

18 And they arose out of Midian c, and came to Paran, and they took men with them out of Paran d, and they came to Egypt unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, which gave him an house, and appointed him victuals, and gave him land e.

c He fled at first with an intent to go into Egypt, as is said, ver. 17. but took Midian, a neighbouring Country, in his way, and staid there a while, possibly till he had by some of his Servants tried Pharaoh's Mind, and prepared the way for his Reception. d Another Country in the Road from Edom to Egypt, where he hired Men to attend him, that making his entrance there something like a Prince, he might find more favour and respect from that King and People. e To support himself and his Train out of the Profits of it.

19 And Hadad found great favour in the sight of Pharaoh f, so that he gave him to wife the sister of his own wife, the sister of Tahpenes the queen.

f God so disposing his Heart, that Hadad might be a scourge to Solomon for his Impieties, which God foresaw long before they were done.

20 And the sister of Tahpenes bare him Genubath his son, whom Tahpenes weaned in Pharaohs house: and Genubath was in Pharaohs household among the sons of Pharaoh.

21 And when Hadad heard in Egypt that David slept with his fathers, and that Joab the captain of the host g was dead, Hadad said to Pharaoh, † Let me depart, that I may go to mine own country h.

g VVhom he feared as much as David himself. h VVhither accordingly he came; and was there, even from the beginning of Solomon's Reign; where he either lived as a private Person, yet secretly working for the recovery of his Crown when an opportunity was offered; or rather, by the near relation which was between his VVife and Solomon's; and, by Pharaoh's intercession, he obtained his Kingdom with condition of Subjection and Tribute to be paid by him to Solomon; which Condition he kept till Solomon fell from God, and then it seems he began to be troublesome to him, and dangerous to his House and Kingdom.

22 Then Pharaoh said unto him, But what hast thou lacked with me, that behold thou seekest to go to thine own Country? And he answered, † Nothing: † Heb. not.

Howbeit, let me go in any wise.

23 ¶ And God stirred him up another adversary, Rezon, the son of Eliadah, which fled from his lord Hadadezer i king of Zobah k.

i VVhen David had defeated him: See 2 Sam. 10. 10, &c. k A part of Syria, between Damascus and Euphrates: of which see 1 Sam. 14. 47. 2 Chron. 8. 3. Psalm 60. 2.

24 And he gathered men unto him, and became captain over a band l, * when David slew them of Zobah:

* 2 Sa. 8. 3. & 10. 18.

l Or, 300 shekels, as it is expressed, 2 Chron. 9. 16.

18 ¶ Moreover, the king made a great throne of ivory, and overlaid it d with the best gold.

d Not wholly, but in part, here and there, which made it more beautiful to the eye. Probably the main substance of it was Ivory, but some cavities were left in it which were filled with Gold.

19 The throne had six steps, and the top of the throne was round † behind e: and there were † stays on either side on the place of the seat, and two lions f stood beside the stays.

e Made like the half of a Circle. f These and the following Lions seem added, to express either the Tribe from which Solomon sprung, compared to a Lion, Gen. 49. 9. or rather, that Majesty and Power wherewith a Prince is adorned and armed, which his Subjects cannot resist; or, the Duty of a Prince in the execution of Judgment, which ought to be done with great Courage and Magnanimity.

20 And twelve lions stood there on the one side, and on the other upon six steps: there was not † the like made in any kingdom.

25 And he was an adversary to Israel all the days of Solomon o, beside the mischief that Hadad did p: and he abhorred Israel, and reigned over Syria q.

o He was a secret Enemy, watching all occasions to do them mischief cunningly and privately all that time; and when Solomon had forsaken God, and was forsaken by God, he shewed himself more openly and maliciously. p So the sense is, This infelicity was added to the former concerning Hadad, mentioned above, ver. 14, &c. Whilst Hadad molested him in the South, Rezon threatned him in the North. But some understand this of Hadadezer, who is here called Hadad, by way of abreviation, (which is not unusual in proper Hebrew Names, as is well known) and that for, or because of (for the Hebrew Particle eth, it sometimes put for el, which oft signifies for, or because of, as Hebricians know) the evil which befel Hadad, or Hadadezer; i. e. he bore a grudge against the Israelites from, and ever since the slaughter that Joab made in Hadadezer's Army, whereof he was a member, although he also took that occasion of making a defection from his Master. q Over all that part of Syria, enlarging his Empire more and more, and thereby laying a foundation for much misery to Solomon's House and Kingdom.

29 And it came to pass at that time, when Jeroboam went out of Jerusalem x, that the prophet Ahijah the Shilonite found him in the way, and he had clad himself with a new garment; and they two were alone in the field y.

x Upon some occasion, possibly to execute his Charge. y Having gone aside thither for some private conference; for otherwise it is most likely that he had Servants attending upon him, who, though they heard not the words, yet might see the action. and the rending of Jeroboam's Coat; and thus it came to Solomon's Ears, who being so acute and wise, could easily understand the thing by what he heard of the action, especially when a Prophet did it.

30 And Ahijah caught the new garment that was on him, and * rent it in twelve pieces.

z Whence the Kingdom of Israel is oft called the Kingdom of the Ten Tribes: by which expression it may seem, that David's Posterity should have one Tribe reserved out of the Kingdom of Israel, besides that of Judah, which because of its Greatness and Eminency, is commonly distinguished from Israel, and that not only after the division of the two Kingdoms, but even before it, as 1 Sam. 11. 8. and 2 Sam. 5. 5.

c To wit, of Israel, that which I have designed for thee. Or rather, I will not take any thing, or part of the kingdom. For the Hebrew Phrase, lo col, which properly signifies not all, or not the whole, doth usually signifie not any thing. as Deut. 8. 9. thou shalt not want every thing; i. e. not any thing. 38 And it shall be, if thou wilt hearken unto all that I command thee, and wilt walk in my ways, and do that is right in my sight, to keep my statutes, and my commandments, as David my servant did; that I will be with thee, and build thee a sure house k, as I built for David, and will give Israel unto thee.

i i. e. Firmly settle thee and thy Posterity in the Throne, as this or the like Phrase is used, 2 Sam. 7. 16, 27. but he doth not say he would do this for ever, as is there said of David's House, v. 16.

39 And I will for this k afflict the seed of David, but not for ever l.

k For this cause, which I mentioned ver. 33. l There shall a time come when the Seed of David shall not be thus molested by the Kingdom of Israel, but that Kingdom shall be destroyed, and the Kings of the House of David shall be uppermost, as it was in the days of Asa, Hezekiah and Josiah. And at last the Messiah shall come, who shall unite together the broken flicks of Judah and Joseph, and rule over all the Jews and Gentiles too.

40 Solomon m sought therefore to kill Jeroboam: and Jeroboam arose, and fled into Egypt, unto Shishak king of Egypt n, and was in Egypt until the death of Solomon.

All this was known to Jeroboam, who therefore durst put himself into Shishak's Protection; especially, considering how little such Relations cominonly signifie in the Affairs of Princes; and withal, being made confident by God's Promise of the Kingdom. p This expression is promiscuously used concerning good and bad; and signifies only, That they died as their Fathers did. But hence Interpreters question, Whether Solomon was saved, or damned? That he was damned, some believe upon this only Argument, That he died without Repentance; which they gather, 1. Because his Repentance is not mentioned in his History. 2. Because if he had repented, he would have abolished the Monuments of Idolatry which he had erected; which that he did not, they gather from 2 Kings 23. 13. Of which, (God assisting) I shall speak upon that place. But to the former, many things may be said; 1. We read nothing of the Repentance of Adam; Noah, after his Drunkenness, Lot, Samson, Asa, &c. shall we therefore conclude, they were all damned? The silence of the Scripture is a very weak Argument in matters of History. 2. If he did Repent, yet the silence of the Scripture about it in this History, was not without wise Reasons; as, among others, That his Eternal Condition being thus far left doubtful, his Example might have the greater influence for the Terror and Caution of future Offenders. 3. His Repentance is sufficiently implied in this, (to omit divers other Passages) That after Solomon's death the way of Solomon is mentioned with Honour, and joyned with the way of David, 2 Chron. 11. 17. But it seems to be put out of dispute by the Book Book of Ecclesiastes; which (by the general consent both of Jewish and Christian Interpreters) was written by Solomon, and that after his Fall; as is evident, not only from the unanimous Testimony of the Hebrew Writers, who thence conclude, That he did Repent, and was saved; but also, from the whole strain of that Book, which was written long after he had finished all his Works, and after he had liberally drunk of all sorts of sensual Pleasures, and sadly experienced the bitter Effects of his love of VVomen, Eccles. 7. 17, &c. VVhich makes it more than probable, that as David writ Psalm 51. so Solomon wrote this Book as a publick Testimony and Profession of his Repentance. And this Argument is so cogent, that those Interpreters who are of the other Opinion, confess it, if Solomon did write this Book after his Fall, which they pretend he wrote before it: but they offer not any Argument to prove it. And therefore we have reason to conclude, That Solomon did Repent, and was Saved.

CHAP. XII.

The Israelites seek to Rehoboam for relaxation, 1,—5. He refusing the old mens counsel, by the advice of the young men answereth them roughly, 6,—15. For which ten tribes revolt: kill Adoram: and make Rehoboam to flee, 16,—21. He raising an army is forbidden by Shemaiah, 22,—24. Jeroboam, king of Israel, strengtheneth himself by cities: and by the idolatry of the two calves, 25,—33.

1 Chron. 10. 1. AND † Rehoboam went to Shechem; for all Israel were come to Shechem a to make him king b.

a Rehoboam did not call them thither, but went thither, because the Israelites prevented him, and had generally pitched upon that place, rather than upon Jerusalem; partly, because it was most convenient for all, as being in the Center of the whole Kingdom: partly, because that being in the potent Tribe of Ephraim, they supposed there they might use that freedom of Speech, which they resolved to use, to get their Grievances redressed: and partly, by the secret direction of Jeroboam, or his Friends, who would not trust themselves in Jerusalem; and thought Shechem a fitter place to execute their Design. b To confirm him in the Kingdom, which they generally intended to do; he being the undoubted Heir of the Crown, and the only Son which Solomon had from 10 vast a number of VVives.

2 And it came to pass, when Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who was yet in * Egypt, heard of it c, (for he was fled from the presence of king Solomon, and Jeroboam dwelt in Egypt)

* Chap. 11. 40.

c In the Hebrew it is only heard, and may relate either to Solomon's death, or to the meering which all the Tribes had appointed at Shechem.

3 That they sent and called him d: and Jeroboam, and all the congregation of Israel came and spake unto Rehoboam, saying, d When the People sent him word of Solomon's death, they alsent a Summons for him to come to Shechem. Or, as soon as he had heard the tidings of Solomons death from others, or from common Fame; presently there came a solemn Message to him from the People, who desired his Presence and Assistance, as it seems probable from divers Motives; some, that they might treat there the Kingdom from Rehoboam to him; and others only for this reason. That the Presence and Countenance of a Man of so great Interest and Reputation, and one that had some Claim or Pretence upon the Kingdom, might lay the greater Obligation upon Rehoboam to grant their desires of Ease and Relief.

* Chap. 4. 7. 4 Thy father made our * yoke grievous e: now therefore make thou the grievous service of thy father, and his heavy yoke which he put upon us, lighter, and we will serve thee.

e By heavy Taxes and Impositions, not only for the Temple and his Magnificent Buildings, but for the Expences of his numerous Court, and of so many Wives and Concubines, whose Luxury and Idolatry must needs be very costly. And Solomon having so grosly forsaken God, it is no wonder if he oppressed the People, and made their Yoke most grievous, as they speak. But here the Peoples perverseness is very observable, both in this, that they mention and aggravate only the grievances of the Government, but take no notice of the vast Benefits which they received from it; and in that, that they mind nothing but their outward pressures, and have no regard unto that abominable Idolatry which he set up among them; being, it seemed, either leavened with it by his pernicious Example, or grown careless and negligent of all the concerns of Religion. By which, see how ripe they were all for those dreadful Judgments of God which are now hastening upon them.

5 And he said unto them, Depart yet for three days, then come again to me f. And the people departed.

f Give me that time for deliberation and advice.

6 ¶ And king Rehoboam consulted with the old men that stood before Solomon his father g, while he yet lived, and said, How do ye advise, that I may answer this people?

g With Solomon's old Counsellors whom Age and Experience of Men and Things, and converse with such a King, had made wise.

7 And they spake unto him, saying, If thou wilt be a servant unto this people this day h, and wilt serve them, and i answer them, and speak good words to them, then they will be thy servants for ever.

h By complying with their Desires, and condescending to them for a season, till the troubled Humours be quieted, and the Opportunity they now have, and some of them the seek, for Sedition, be gone, and thou best better stablished in thy Throne. They use this expression, as fore-seeing that some would dissuade him from this course, as servile or slavish, and below the Majesty of a Prince. i For, that is; Thy Service, say they, is not hard, it is only a few good words, which it is as easie to give as bad ones.

8 But he forsook the counsel of the old men k which they had given him, and consulted with the young men l that were grown up with him m, and which stood before him.

k Judging it unworthy of his Majesty and Authority, and likely to encourage and increase the People in their insolent Demands. l So called comparatively to the old Men; otherwise they were near 40 years old, as the following words imply. m Which is added as the reason of his inclination to their Counsels, because his daily converse with them, and the likeness of their Age and Humour to his, had engaged his Affections to them, and that bribed his Judgment, as it commonly doth.

9 And he said unto them, What counsel give ye, that we may answer this people, who have spoken to me, saying, Make the yoke which thy father did put upon us, lighter?

10 And the young men that were grown up with him, spake unto him, saying, Thus shalt thou speak unto this people that spake unto thee, saying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it lighter unto us; thus shalt thou say unto them, My little finger shall be thicker n than my fathers loins.

n Or rather is thicker, and therefore stronger, and more able to crush you, if you proceed in these Mutinous Demands, than his loins; in which is the principal Seat of Strength. My Father was young and weak, and had many Enemies when he first took the Kingdom; but I am the undoubted Heir; and I find the Kingdom by his wise Care, far better settled and fortified against all Enemies, Foreign or Domestick, than he did.

11 And now whereas my father did lade you with an heavy yoke, I will add to your yoke o: my father hath chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions p.

o i. e. Make it heavier and stronger, both to punish your Perulancy, and to curb and restrain you from Seditious Attempts. p i. e. With such Whips as will sting you like Scorpions: If you proceed in these courses, I will most severely punish you for it.

12 ¶ So Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the third day, as the king had appointed, saying, Come to me again the third day.

13 And the king answered the people † roughly; and forsook the old mens counsel that they gave him: † Heb. hardly.

14 And spake to them after the course of the young men, saying, My father made your yoke heavy, and I will add to your yoke; my father also chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.

15 Wherefore the king hearkned not unto the people, for * the † cause was from the LORD q, that he might perform his saying, which the LORD * spake by Ahijah the Shilonite, unto Jeroboam the son of Nebat.

* Judg. 14. 4. & 2 Chron. 10. 15. & 22. 7.

q VVho gave up Rehoboam to so foolish and fatal a mistake, and alienated the Peoples Affections from him; and ordered all Circumstances by his wise Providence to that end. † Gr. the turning.

16 ¶ So when all Israel saw that the king hearkned * unto them, the people answered the king, saying, What portion have we in David? neither have we inheritance in the son of Jesse s: to your tents, O Israel: now see to thine own house, David u. So Israel departed unto their tents.

* Chap. 11. 31.

r i. e. In David's Family and Son; we can expect no benefit or relief from him, and therefore we renounce all Commerce with him, and Subjection to him. See 2 Sam. 20. 1. They named David, rather than Rehoboam; to signifie, That they did renounce, not Rehoboam only, but all David's Family. s So they call David in contempt; q. d. Rehoboam hath no reason to carry himself with such Pride and Contempt toward his People; for if we trace his Original, it was as mean and obscure as many of ours. And since he abuseth his Power, let us reduce him to his former Obscurity. t i. e. Let us all forsake him, and go to our own homes, there to consider, and then to meet, and conclude how to provide otherwise for our selves. u i. e. Govern thy own Family; for thou shalt no longer Rule over us. Thus they brake out into actual Rebellion against him, whom God had made their Lawful Sovereign; wherein, though they fulfilled God's Counsel, yet they violated his Authority and Command. And they do again make an opprobrious mention of David, whom they should not have named without Honour.

17 But * as for the children of Israel which dwelt in the cities of Judah x, Rehoboam reigned over them. * Chap. 11. 32.

x By which Phrase he principally understands the Tribe of Judah; but withal, those parts and parcels of the Tribes of Levi, and Simeon, and Benjamin, whose dwellings were within the Confines of Judah, or intermixed with them.

18 Then king Rehoboam sent Adoram, who was over the tribute y, and all Israel stoned him with stones that he died: therefore king Rehoboam † made speed to get him up to his chariot, to flee to Jerusalem z. † Heb. strengthned himself.

y Him he sent, either, 1. To pacifie the People, and promise them Relief, now when it was too late. But then he would not have sent a Person so ungrateful to the People, as that sort of Men use to be. Or rather, 2. To pursue the Counsel which he had resolved upon, and to execute his Office, and exact their Tribute with with Rigour and Violence, if need were. r From Shechem, where it seems he yet ſtaid, and his Guards and Friends with him; that being there in the midſt of his Kingdom, and among the Seditious Tribes, he might over-awe them by his Preſence, and repreſs any Tumults in their firſt riſe.

19 So Iſrael ‖ rebelled a againſt the houſe of David unto this day.

a Their Revolt is called Rebellion, and therefore was ſinful, becauſe it was contrary to God's Authority, and Command of ſubjection to David, and his Seed for ever; from which the People were not freed by God's Promiſe and Grant made to Jeroboam, which was but a ſecret Tranſaction, not yet ſufficiently revealed to them, and was not a grant of preſent and actual Poſſeſſion; but only a Promiſe, That God would give it to him in his own time, and way; which might have been done, though neither Jeroboam, nor the People had uſed theſe indirect and evil Courſes to bring it about; as it befell David upon the ſame occaſion. Beſides, the People did not this in compliance with God's Counſel, but to gratifie their own Paſſions, and get themſelves a little eaſe.

20 And it came to paſs when all Iſrael heard that Jeroboam was come again b, that they ſent c and called him unto the congregation d, and made him king over all Iſrael: there was none ∴ that followed the houſe of David, but the Tribe of Judah * only.

* Chap. 11. 13.

b To wit, from Egypt; which was known before to the chief of the Tribes, and to them who met at Shechem, and now was more univerſally known by all the People. c To his Tent or Habitation, to which he had retired himſelf, as others alſo generally did; ſee above, ver. 16. d Which was ſummoned by the Elders of the ſeveral Tribes, to take advice, how to ſettle their Affairs, which they eaſily agreed to do, by conferring the Crown upon Jeroboam, according to God's Promiſe made to him. ∴ i.e. No intire Tribe. See on chap. 11. 13, 31, 32.

* 2 Chron. 11. 31.

21 And * when Rehoboam was come to Jeruſalem, he aſſembled all the houſe of Judah, with the tribe of Benjamin e, an hundred and fourſcore thouſand choſen men, which were warriours, to fight againſt the houſe f of Iſrael, to bring the kingdom again to Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon.

e i.e. That part of it which was next to Judah, and joyned with them. See on Chap. 11. 13. f i.e. The Families or Tribes, (for theſe words are promiſcuouſly uſed one for the other) of Iſrael.

* 2 Chron. 11. 2.

22 But * the word of God came unto Shemaiah the man of God g, ſaying, g i.e. The Prophet, ſo called; partly, to diſtinguiſh him from others of that Name. See Nehem. 6. 10. Jer. 29. 31. And partly, to add the more weight to his words.

23 Speak unto Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon king of Judah, and to all the houſe of Judah, and Benjamin, and to the remnant of the people, ſaying, 24 Thus ſaith the LORD, Ye ſhall not go up nor fight againſt your brethren the children of Iſrael: return every man to his own houſe, for this thing is from me h. They hearkned therefore to the word of the LORD i, and returned to depart according to the word of the LORD.

h This Event is from my Counſel and Providence, to puniſh Solomon's Apoſtacy, though they procured it by ſinful means: and therefore, if you proceed, you muſt fight with me, as well as them. i Either from conſcience of their Duty, or becauſe they durſt not oppoſe ſo Potent an Adverſary.

25 ¶ Then Jeroboam built Shechem k in mount Ephraim, and dwelt therein; and went out from thence, and built Penuel l.

k i.e. He repaired, and enlarged, and fortified it; for it had been ruined long ſince, Judg. 9. 45. He might chuſe it as a place both auſpicious, becauſe here the Foundation of his Monarchy was laid; and commodious, as being near the Frontiers of his Kingdom. l A place beyond Jordan; of which, ſee Gen. 32. 30. Judg. 8. 17. to ſecure that part of his Dominions.

26 And Jeroboam ſaid in his heart m, Now ſhall the kingdom return to the houſe of David:

m i.e. Reaſoned within himſelf. The Phraſe diſcovers the Fountain of his Error, That he did not conſult with God, who had given him the Kingdom; as in all Reaſon, and Juſtice, and Gratitude he ſhould have done: nor believed God's Promiſe, Chap. 11. 38. but his own Imaginations, and carnal Policies.

27 If theſe people go up to do ſacrifice in the houſe of the LORD at Jeruſalem, then ſhall the heart of this people turn again unto their LORD n, even unto Rehoboam king of Judah, and they ſhall kill me, and go again to Rehoboam king of Judah.

n Which in it ſelf might ſeem a prudent Conjecture; for this would give Rehoboam, and the Prieſts, and Levites, the ſure and faithful Friends of David's Houſe, many opportunities of alienating their Minds from him, and of reducing them to their former Allegiance. But conſidering God's Providence, by which the Hearts of all Men, and the Affairs of all Kings and Kingdoms are governed, and of which he had lately ſeen ſo eminent an Inſtance; it was a fooliſh, as well as wicked counſe.

28 Whereupon the king took counſel, and made two calves of gold o, and ſaid unto them, It is too much for you p to go up to Jeruſalem: * behold thy gods, O Iſrael, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt q.

* Exod. 32. 8.

o In imitation of Aaron's Golden Calf, and of the Egyptians, from whom he was lately come. And this he the rather preſumed to do, becauſe he knew the People of Iſrael were generally very prone to Superſtition, and Idolatry, as their whole Hiſtory ſheweth: and that Solomon's example and countenance given to falſe Worſhips, had exceedingly ſtrengthned thoſe Inclinations; and therefore they were in a great meaſure prepared for ſuch an Attempt; eſpecially, when his Propoſition tended to their own eaſe, and ſafety, and profit, which he knew was much dearer to them, as well as to himſelf, than their Religion. p Too great a trouble and charge, and neither neceſſary, nor ſafe for them, as things now ſtood. q Not as if he did himſelf believe, or thought to perſuade the People to believe, That theſe Calves were properly, and truly, that very God of Iſrael, who brought them ought of Egypt: (which was ſo monſtrouſly abſurd and ridiculous, that no Iſraelite in his right wits could believe it) and had been ſo far from attaining his end, and ſatisfying his People, that this would have made him both hareful, and contemptible to them; but his meaning was, that theſe Images were viſible Repreſentations, in, and by which he deſigned to worſhip the True God of Iſrael, as appears, partly from that Parallel-place. Exod. 32. 4. where ſee my Notes: partly, becauſe the Prieſts and Worſhippers of the Calves, are ſaid to worſhip Jehovah; and upon that account, are diſtinguiſhed from thoſe belonging to Baal, 1 Kings 18. 21. and 22. 6, 7. And partly, from Jeroboam's deſign in this Work, which was to quiet the Peoples Minds, and remove their Scruples about going to Jeruſalem to worſhip their God in that place, as they were commanded: which he doth, by ſignifying to them, That he did not intend any alteration in the ſubſtance of their Religion; nor to draw them from the worſhip of the True God, to the worſhip of Aſhteroth, or Milcom, or any of thoſe Baals, which were ſet up by Solomon; but to worſhip that ſelf-ſame God whom they worſhipped in Jeruſalem, even the True God, and the God of their Fathers, who brought them out of Egypt; but only to vary a Circumſtance: and that as they worſhipped God at Jeruſalem by, and before one viſible Sign, even the Ark, and the Sacred Cherubims there; ſo his Subjects ſhould worſhip God by another viſible Sign, even that of the Calves, in other places; and as for the change of the place, he might ſuggeſt to them, that God was preſent in all places, where Men with honeſt Minds did call upon him; that before the Temple was built, the beſt of Kings, and Prophets, and People, did pray, and ſacrifice to God in divers high Places, without any ſcruple; notwithſtanding that reſtraint of God to one Place, Deut. 12. 5, &c. That God would diſpenſe with them alſo in that matter; becauſe going to Jeruſalem was very dangerous to them at this time; and God would have Mercy, rather than Sacrifice; and God had been pleaſed to diſpenſe with his own Ordinances in caſes of neceſſity or great inconvenience, as he did with Circumciſion for 40 years in the Wilderneſs.

29 And he ſet the one in Bethel, and the other put he in Dan r.

r Which two Places he choſe for his Peoples conveniency; Bethel being in the Southern, and Dan in the Northern parts of his Kingdom.

30 And this thing became a ſin s: for the people went t to worſhip before the one, † even unto Dan u.

s i.e. A cauſe or occaſion of great wickedneſs among that People; not only of Idolatry, which is called Sin by way of Eminency; nor only of the worſhip of the Calves, wherein they pretended to worſhip the True God; but alſo of the worſhip of Baal, and of the utter deſertion of the True God; and of all ſorts of Impiety, and abominable Sins; as is manifeſt from the Hiſtory of that Kingdom: in which, there was not one good King; and very few of the People who were not guilty of hainous Crimes, as the Prophets witneſs. t The King's Counſel and Example ſeduced them, though it did not excuſe their Sin; and they willingly walked after this his wicked commandment, Hoſ. 5. 11. u Which is not here mentioned exclusively, for that they went alſo to Bethel is evident from ver. 32, 33. but for other reaſons, either becauſe that of Dan was firſt made, or beſt frequented, the People in thoſe parts having been long leavened with Idolatry: See Judg. 18. 30. or to ſhew the Peoples readineſs to comply with the King's Command, and their Zeal for Idols; that thoſe who lived in, or near Bethel, had not patience to ſtay till that Calf was finiſhed, but all of them were forward to go as far as Dan, which was in the utmoſt borders of the Land, to worſhip an Idol there; when it was thought too much for them to go to Jeruſalem to worſhip God.

31 And he made an houſe of high places x, and made prieſts of † the * loweſt of the people y, which were not of the ſons of Levi z.

† Heb. the extremities. * Chap. 13. 33. 2 Chr. 11. 14. 15.

x Or, an houſe (i.e. Houſes, or Chapels) in the high places. Beſides the famous Houſes, or Temples, which he built at Dan and Bethel; he built alſo for his Peoples better accommodation, leſſer Temples upon divers high Places, which were eſteemed Sacred and Venerable, becauſe their Pious Anceſtors had ſerved God in them: and thereby Jeroboam might not ſeem to bring in a new Religion, but only to revive the old. y Which he might do, either, 1. Becauſe the better ſort refuſed it, as an Office below their Quality: or, 2. Becauſe ſuch would be ſatisfied with mean allowances; and ſo he could put into his own Purſe a great part of the rich Poſſeſſions and Revenues of the Levites, which doubtleſs he ſeized upon when they forſook him, and went to Jeruſalem, 2 Chron. 11. 13, 14. which alſo was very neceſſary for his preſent and preſſing Occaſions; the rather, becauſe he durſt not yet lay grievous Taxes upon that People who had newly caſt off Rehoboam for that very Reaſon. Or, 3. Becauſe mean Perſons would depend upon his Favour, and therefore be very pliable to his Humour, and firm to his Intereſt, and zealous to promote the worſhip of the Calves. But the words in the Hebrew properly ſignifie, from the ends of the people; people; which is, and may be tranſlated thus, out of all the people; promiſcuouſly out of every Tribe. Which Expoſition ſeems to be confirmed by the following words, which are added to explain theſe, which were not of the ſons of Levi; though they were not of the Tribe of Levi. And that indeed was Jeroboam's Sin; not that he choſe mean Perſons, for ſome of the Levites were ſuch; and his Sin had not been leſs, if he had choſen the Nobleſt and Greateſt Perſons; as we ſee in the Example of Uzziah, 2 Chron. 26. 18, 19. But that he choſe Men of other Tribes, contrary to God's appointment, which reſtrained that Office to that Tribe. z To whom that Office was confined by God's expreſs Command; but he gave the Prieſthood promiſcuouſly to any Perſon of any other Tribe.

32 And Jeroboam ordained a feaſt a in the eighth month, on the fifthteenth day of the month b, like unto the feaſt that is ‖ in Judah c, and he ‖ offered c upon the altar, (ſo did he in Bethel) d ‖ ſacrificing unto the calves e that he had made: and he placed in Bethel f the prieſts of the high places which he had made.

a Either, 1. A Feaſt of Dedication, like that which was in Jeroboh, at the Dedication of the Temple. Or rather, 2. The Feaſt of Tabernacles, as may be thought, 1. becauſe that began on the fifteenth day of the Month, Levit. 23. 34. 2. Becauſe he is not blamed for deviſing the Feaſt (which thereby ſeems to have been of God's appointment) but only for deviſing the month, ver. 33. for keeping God's Feaſt, not in God's time, which was the fifteenth day of the Seventh Month, and ſo onward, Levit. 23. 34. But on the fifteenth day of the Eighth Month. And this alteration he made, either, 1. To keep up the difference between his Subjects, and thoſe of Judah, as by the differing Manners, ſo by the diſtinct times of their Worſhip. Or, 2. Leſt he ſhould ſeem directly to oppoſe the God of Iſrael, (who had in a ſpecial manner obliged all the People to go up to Jeruſalem at that time, Deut. 16. 16.) by requiting their attendance to Celebrate the Feaſt elſewhere, at the ſame time. Or, 3. To engage as many Perſons as poſſibly he could, to come to his Feaſt; which they would more willingly do when the Feaſt at Jeruſalem was paſt, and all the Fruits of the Earth were moſt perfectly gathered in. b And ſo onward till the Seven days ended. c He took his Pattern thence, to ſhew, That he worſhipped the ſame God, and profeſſed the ſame Religion for Subſtance, which they did; howſoever he differed in Circumſtances, as here he did in the time. c Either, 1. By his Prieſts. Or, rather, 2. By his own hands; as appears from Chap. 13. 1, 4. which he did, to give the more countenance to his new-deviſed Solemnity. Nor is this ſtrange; for he might plauſibly think, that he who by his own Authority had made others Prieſts, might much more exerciſe a part of that Office; at leaſt, upon an extraordinary occaſion; in which caſe, he knew David himſelf had done ſome things, which otherwiſe he might not do. d i.e. He himſelf did offer there in like manner, as he now had done at Dan. e For they were two, ver. 29. f As he had done at Dan, ver. 31.

‖ Or, went up to the altar, &c.

33 So he ‖ offered upon the altar which he had made in Bethel the fifteenth day of the eighth month, even in the month which he had deviſed of his own heart g: and ordained a feaſt unto the children of Iſrael, and he offered upon the altar, † and burnt incenſe.

g Which he appointed without any Warrant from God, which was Superſtition. Compare Jer. 7. 31.

CHAP. XIII.

A Prophet of Judah propheſieth againſt the altar at Bethel: Jeroboam, offering him violence, his hand withereth: and, at the prayer of the prophet, is reſtored, 1,—6. † Heb. is born. * 2 King. 23. 15.

c And conſequently, againſt all that worſhip; which is oft ſignified by the name of the altar. See Iſa. 19. 19. 1 Cor. 9. 13. Heb. 7. 13. and 13. 10. d He directs his Speech to the Altar; partly, becauſe the following Signs were wrought upon it; and partly to ſignifie, That Jeroboam would no more regard his words, than the Altar did; and yet they ſhould take effect. e Which being done above 300 years after this Prophecy; plainly ſhews the abſolute certainty of God's Providence, and Fore-knowledge, even in the moſt contingent things. For this was in it ſelf uncertain, and wholly depended upon Man's Will, both as to the having of a Child, and as to the giving it this Name. Therefore God can certainly, and effectually over-rule Man's Will which way he pleaſeth; or elſe it was poſſible, that this Prediction ſhould have been falſe; which is Blaſphemous to imagine. f Synecdochically, the Bones of the Prieſts, 2 King. 23. 15, 16. whereby the Altar ſhould be defiled.

3 And he gave a ſign the ſame day g, ſaying, This is the ſign which the LORD hath ſpoken: Behold, the altar ſhall be rent, and the aſhes that are upon it poured out.

g i.e. He then wrought a Miracle, to aſſure them of the Truth of his Prophecy.

4 And it came to paſs when king Jeroboam heard the ſaying of the man of God, which had cried againſt the altar in Bethel, that he put forth his hand h from the altar i, ſaying, Lay hold on him. And his hand which he put forth againſt him, dried up k, ſo that he could not pull it in again to him.

h To point out the Man whom he would have the People lay hands on, and to ſtir them up to do ſo. i Where it was employed, in offering ſomething upon it. k Or, withered, the Muſcles and Sinews, the Inſtruments of Motion, were ſhrunk up. This God did, partly to chaſtiſe Jeroboam for offering Violence to the Lord's Prophet: partly, to ſecure the Prophet againſt further Violence: and partly, that in this Example God might ſhew, how highly he reſents the Injuries done to his Miniſters, in, and for the faithful diſcharge of their Office.

5 The altar alſo was rent, and the aſhes poured out from the altar, according to the ſign which the man of God had given by the word of the LORD.

6 And the king anſwered l, and ſaid unto the man of God, Intreat now the face of the LORD thy God m, and pray for me, that my hand may be reſtored me again. And the man of God beſought † the LORD n, and the kings hand was reſtored again o, and became as it was before.

† Heb. the face of the LORD.

l i.e. Spoke; as that word is oft uſed in both Teſtaments. m Who by his Zeal for thee, hath manifeſted himſelf to be thy God and Friend, in a ſingular manner; and therefore will hear thy Prayers for me, though he will not regard mine, becauſe I have forſaken him and his Worſhip. n To aſſure Jeroboam, that what he had ſaid, was not from ill-will to him, and that he heartily deſired his Reformation, not his Ruine. o Partly to aſſure him, that the ſtroke was from God: partly, becauſe he repented of that Violence which he intended againſt the Prophet, for which God inflicted it: and partly, that this Goodneſs of God to him, might have led him to Repentance; or, if he continued Impenitent, leave him without all excuſe.

7 And the king ſaid unto the man of God, Come home with me, and refreſh thy ſelf, and I will give thee a reward p.

p Horrid Stupidity! He deſires to requite the Inſtrument, but takes no notice of the chief Cauſe and Author of this great and wonderful Mercy, which was God.

9 And the man of God ſaid unto the king *, If thou will give me half thine houſe, I will not go in with thee, neither will I eat bread, nor drink water in this place:

* So Numb. 22. 18. & 24. 13.

9 For ſo was it charged me by the word of the LORD q, ſaying, Eat no bread, nor drink water r, nor turn again by the ſame way that thou cameſt s.

q My refuſal of thy Favour, is not from any contempt, or hatred of thy Perſon; but in obedience to the juſt Command of my God, who hath forbidden me all further Converſe or Communication with thee. r To wit, in that Place, or with that People. Whereby God declares, how deteſtable they were in God's Eyes; not becauſe their Idolatry was ſo bad as that of the Heathens, but becauſe they were vile Apoſtates from the True God, and embraced this Idol-worſhip, againſt the Light of their own Conſciences, meerly to comply with the King's Humour and Command: and becauſe their Vicinity and Relation to the Tribe of Judah; made this more dangerous, as to their infection by it. s That by thy avoiding the way that led thee to Bethel as execrable, although thou wenteſt by way that led thee to Bethel as execrable, although thou wenteſt by any ſpecial Command, thou mighteſt teach all others, how much they ſhould abhor that way, and all thoughts of going to that place, or to ſuch People, upon any trivial and unneceſſary occaſion.

10 So he went another way, and returned not by the way that he came to Bethel.

11 ¶ Now there dwelt an old prophet t in Bethel u, and his † ſons x came and told him all the works that the man of God had done that day in Bethel: the words which he had ſpoken unto the king, them they told alſo to their father.

t A Prophet of the Lord; one to whom, and by whom, God did ſometimes impart his Mind; as is manifeſt from ver. 20. 21. and one that had a Reſpect to the Lord's Holy Prophets, and gave Credit to their Predictions: all which the following Relation ſhews: but whether he was an holy and good Man, may juſtly be doubted, ſeeing all thoſe Qualifications might meet in a vicious Man, to, and by whom he may reveal ſome part of his Mind, as he did to Balaam Numb. 23, &c. and in ſuch, his other Qualities are ſometimes found; and we find him in a downright and premeditated Lye, and that without any great temptation to it, ver. 18. And albeit, an holy Prophet might poſſibly have continued in the Kingdom of Iſrael, he would never have gone from his own Habitation, to dwell at Bethel, the chief Seat of Idolatry, unleſs with deſign to preach againſt it: which it is evident he did not; his Sons ſeem to have been preſent at, and to have joyned with others in that Idolatrous worſhip, ver. 11. and that not without their Father's connivence. u For thither he came to dwell, probably expecting ſome great advantages from Jeroboam; but he came out of Samaria, 2 King. 23. 18. where he either was born, and had lived before. Or, his uſual dwelling was at Bethel, but had lately been at Samaria, and was now returned to Bethel. x Who probably were eye and ear-witneſſes of what had paſſed.

12 And their father said unto them, What way went he? for his sons had seen what way the man of God went, which came from Judah.

13 And he said unto his sons, Saddle me the ass. So they saddled him the ass, and he rode thereon:

14 And went after the man of God, and found him sitting under an oak y: and he said unto him, Art thou the man of God that camest from Judah? And he said, I am.

y Being faint and weary with his Journey, and possibly with the heat, which makes him chuse this shady place; and especially with hunger and thirst, ver. 9. And he might easily guess that this was the old Prophet, by his Age and Carriage, and, it may be, by his Prophetical Mantle, and by the Character which his Sons had given him.

15 Then he said unto him, Come home with me, and eat bread.

16 And he said, I † may not return with thee, nor go in with thee: neither will I eat bread, nor drink water with thee in this place z.

† Heb. cannot. Deut. 12. 16, & 17. 5. & 1 Cor. 10. 21.

z i.e. In Bethel, where thou desirest me to do it.

17 For † it was said to me by the word of the LORD, Thou shalt eat no bread, nor drink water there, nor turn again to go by the way that thou camest.

† Heb. a word was.

18 He said unto him, I am a prophet also as thou art, and an angel spake unto me by the word of the LORD, saying, Bring him back with thee into thine house, that he may eat bread, and drink water. But he lyed unto him a.

a Not with evil design against him, but out of curiosity, to know all the truth and circumstances from his own Mouth, and to express his kindness to him, and to relieve his pressing hunger; whereby possibly he thought to please God, and to compensate for his miscariages. But his Sin was great; for he did not only tell a premeditated Lye, but also made God a Lyar, and to contradict himself, and all this without any pretence of necessity, or benefit to himself.

19 So he went back with him, and did eat bread in his house, and drank water.

20 ¶ And it came to pass, as they sat at the table b, that the word of the LORD came c unto the prophet that brought him back d:

b There the Prophet meets with a severe Judgment, where he was pleasing himself with this seasonable Refreshment. c By secret instinct into his Mind; as sometimes God spake to Moses and other Prophets when they were in company with others. d So he makes this Prophet publickly to call himself Lyar, and to pronounce a terrible Sentence against him, to whom he professed so much kindness. Indeed the Hebrew words are ambiguous, and by others rendred thus, to the Prophet whom he had brought back; which agrees very well with the Hebrew Phrase; and may seem to be the best Translation, by comparing ver. 23. where the very same Phrase is so rendred; and ver. 26. where this message is said to be spoken to him. But these Arguments are not cogent; not that from ver. 23. because it is a common thing for the same Phrase in divers Verses, and sometimes in one and the same Verse, to be diversly used: nor that from ver. 27. for that may be rendred concerning him. And therefore our Translation is better, as is manifest from ver. 21.

21 And he cried e unto the man of God that came from Judah, saying, Thus saith the LORD, Forasmuch as thou hast disobeyed the mouth f of the LORD, and hast not kept the commandment which the LORD thy God commanded thee, e With a loud Voice, the effect of his Passion, both for his own guilt and shame, and for the Prophets approaching misery, and his unhappy influence both in procuring and in denouncing of it. f i.e. The word of command coming out of his mouth. A Metonymy of the Cause for the Effect.

22 But camest back, and hast eaten bread, and drunk water in the place, of the which the LORD did say to thee, Eat no bread, and drink no water; thy carcase shall not come unto the sepulchre of thy fathers g.

g i.e. Thou shalt not die a natural, but a violent death; and that in this Journey, before thou returnest to thy native habitation; and thy Carcase shall not be buried in the proper Sepulchre; which was esteemed a kind of Curse, and a note of Infamy; as the contrary was reckoned an honour and blessing. See chap. 14. 13. Isa. 14. 19, 20. Jer. 22. 19. and 26. 24.

23 ¶ And it came to pass, after he had eaten bread, and after he had drunk, that he sadled for him the ass ∴, to wit, for the prophet whom he had brought back.

∴ That he might sooner come to his home, and, if possible, escape the Judgment threatned. But, it is observable, he doth not accompany him; his guilty Conscience making him to expect and fear to be involved in the same Judgment with him.

24 And when he was gone, a * lion met him h by the way, and slew him i: and his carcase was cast in the way k, and the ass stood by it: the lion also stood by the carcase l, b For there were many Lions in Judea, and this was brought hither by God's special Providence. i Why doth God punish a good Man so severely for so small an offence? Ans. First, His Sin was not small, for it was a gross Disobedience to a positive Command. Obj. But he supposed, and was told by another Prophet, that God had repealed his Command, and so was deceived. Ans. 1. He had no sufficient discharge from the former Command; for he neither was assured that the old Man was a Prophet, nor that the message he delivered was from God; but had reason to suspect the contrary, or at least to enquire the mind of God in this doubtful Point, which he grosly neglected to do, and willingly believed the message, because it suited with his own inclination and necessity. Add to this, that he being a Prophet was obliged to the greater exactness in obedience to all God's Precepts; and therefore this Sin was much greater in him than in another, because hereby God was dishonoured, and the Authority and Success of his message blasted, and Jeroboam and the Idolatrous Israelites hardened in their wicked Courses; for the prevention whereof it was necessary that God should exercise Severity towards him. Ans. Secondly, As his Sin was not so small, so his punishment was not so great, as may be imagined. For, as to his outward Man, his bodily death (which was a Debt that he owed to God and Nature) in this way was not so painful and terrible as many other kinds of death; and as to his Soul, God, by giving him a gracious Admonition both of his Sin and Danger, ver. 21, 22. awakened him to true Repentance, which doubtless he practised, and so was prepared for his death, and by this sudden death freed from all the miseries of an evil Time and World, and speedily let into Eternal Glory. Ans. Thirdly, As the World and all Men it were made for God's Glory, and all their Lives and Deaths ought to be laid out in his Service; so it cannot seem strange nor harsh if God should bring his deserved death upon him in this manner, for the accomplishment of his own Glorious Designs, as to vindicate his own Honour and Justice from the imputation of Partiality; to assure the Truth of his Predictions, and thereby provoke Jeroboam and his Idolatrous Followers to Repentance; to justifie himself in all his dreadful Judgments which he intended to inflict upon Jeroboam's House, and the whole Kingdom of Israel, for their cursed Apostacy; and to warn all succeeding Sinners not rashly to venture upon small Sins, and especially to take heed of greater Sins, for which they might expect far forer punishments. k His Life and Soul being gone, his dead Body falls to the Ground, and lies there. l See on ver. 28.

25 And behold, men passed by, and saw the carcase cast in the way, and the lion standing by the carcase: and they came and told it in the city where the old prophet dwelt.

26 And when the prophet that brought him back from the way, heard thereof, he said, It is the man of God, who was disobedient unto the word of the LORD: therefore the LORD hath delivered him unto the lion, which hath † torn him, and slain him, according to the word of the LORD, which he spake unto him m.

m Or rather, concerning him: for so the Particle Lamed is oft used, as Gen. 20. 13. Psal. 3. 2. and 91. 11. Compare with Matth. 4. 6. See the Notes on ver. 20.

27 And he spake to his sons, saying, Saddle me the ass n. And they saddled him.

n Being secure as to himself, because so many others had been there without any harm; and because he perceived the Prophet's Death was a Judgment of God, and that for special Reasons.

28 And he went and found his carcase cast in the way, and the ass, and the lion standing by the carcase: the lion had not eaten the carcase, nor † torn the ass o.

o Here was a concurrence of Miracles: That the Ass did not run away from the Lion, according to his nature and custom, but boldly stood still, as reserving himself for the carrying of the Prophet to his Burial; that the Lion did not devour its prey, as the manner is; nor yet go away when he had done his work which he was sent for, but stood still, partly, to preserve the Carcase of the Prophet from other wild Beasts or Fowls, which would quickly have eaten it; partly, as an evidence that the Prophet's Death was not casual, nor the effect of a Lions hungry and ravenous Disposition, but of God's singular and just Judgment; and consequently, that his Prediction was Divine, and should be infallibly accomplished in its proper time; and partly, as a token of God's Favour to the deceased Prophet, of whose very Carcase he took such special Care: thereby signifying, that although for wise and just Reasons he thought fit to take away his Life, yet his Remains were precious to him, and his Soul did live in his sight.

29 And the prophet took up the carcase of the man of God, and laid it upon the ass, and brought it back: and the old prophet came to the city, to mourn, and to bury him.

30 And he laid his carcase in his own grave p, and they q mourned over him, saying, Alas my brother r.

p So that threatning, ver. 22. was fulfilled; and withal, the memory of his Prophesy was revived and preserved among them, and his very Carcase resting there, might be a witness of their Madness and desperate Wickedness, in continuing in their abominable Idolatry, after such an assurance of the dreadful effects of it. q The old Prophet and his Sons, and others, whom common humanity taught to lament the untimely death of so worthy a Person. r Which was an usual form of expression in Funeral-Lamentations. See Jer. 22. 18.

31 And it came to pass after he had buried him, that he spake to his sons, saying, When I am dead, then bury me in the sepulchre wherein the man of God is buried; * lay my bones beside his bones s.

* 2 King. 23. 18.

s That I may be secured from that Judgment threatned ver. 2.

32 For the saying which he cried by the word of the LORD, against the altar in Bethel, and against all the houses of the high places, which are in the cities of * Samaria t, shall surely come to pass.

t i.e. Of the Kingdom of Samaria; as it was called, though not when this Fact was done, yet before these Books were written. Samaria was properly the name of one City, 1 Kings 20. 1. but from hence the whole Kingdom of Israel was so called, Jer. 31. 5. Hos. 7. 1. and 8. 5. and Amos 3. 9. and the King of Israel is called the King of Samaria, 2 Kng. 1. 3. Hos. 10. 7. and (as here) we read of the cities of Samaria, Ezra 4. 10.

33 ¶ After this thing, u Jeroboam returned not from his evil way, but † * made again of the lowest of the people priests x of the high places: whosoever would y, he † consecrated him z, and he became one of the priests of the high places.

Which is noted to aggravate his Infidelity and Apostacy. x He abated not so much as a circumstance in his Idolatrous Worship. y Without any respect to Tribe or Family, or integrity of Body, or Mind, or Life; all which were to be regarded in the Priesthood. z Heb. he filled his hand. Of which Phrase see Exod. 28. 41. and 29. 9. 33.

34 And this thing became sin ∴ unto the house of Jeroboam, even to cut it off, and to destroy it from off the face of the earth.

∴ Either, an occasion of sin, and means of hardening all his Posterity in their Idolatry: or, a punishment, for so the word sin is oft used. This his obstinate continuance in his Idolatry, after such warnings was the utter ruin of all his Family.

CHAP. XIV.

Jeroboam sendeth his Wife disguised, and with Presents to the Prophet Ahijah at Shiloh, to enquire concerning his Son, who was Sick, 1,—4. He, forewarned by God, denounceth his Ruin because of Idolatry: And the Death of his Child: And the Destruction of Israel, 5,—16. His Son dieth and is buried: And he likewise: Nadab his Son succeedeth, 17,—20. Rehoboam and Judah sin against the Lord, 21,—24. Shishak King of Egypt spoileth Jerusalem, 25,—28. He dieth: and Abijam his Son succeedeth, 29,—31.

AT that time a Abijah the son of Jeroboam fell sick b.

a Either, First, Presently after the things described in the former Chapter: which, though related in the beginning of his Reign, yet might be done a good while after it, and so Abijah the Prophet might be very old, as he is described to be, v. 4. Or, Secondly, many Years after it, i.e. Whilst Jeroboam persisted in his former course. For this Phrase is oft used indefinitely, and without respect to the time last mentioned before it, as Dan. 12. 1. Matth. 4. 1. b By the stroke of God to punish Jeroboam's Rebellion against God.

2 And Jeroboam said to his wife c, Arise, I pray thee, and disguise thy self d, that thou be not known to be the wife of Jeroboam e, and get thee to Shiloh: Behold, there is Ahijah the prophet, which told me that * I should be king over this people.

* Chap. 11. 31.

c Partly, because he would trust none else with this secret; partly, because she might, without suspicion enquire concerning her own Child; and partly, because she would enquire most exactly, and diligently, and faithfully acquaint him with the whole truth. d Change thy habit, and voice, and go like a private and obscure Person. e This caution proceeded: First, From the pride of his heart, which made him loth to confess his folly in worshipping such ignorant and helpless Idols, and to give Glory to the God whom he had forsaken. Secondly, From jealousie and suspicion, lest the Prophet knowing this, should either give her no Answer, or make it worse than indeed it was. Thirdly, From Policy, lest his People should by his example be drawn to forsake the senseless Calves, and to return to the God of Judah, whom they had rashly forsaken.

3 And take † with thee ten loaves, and ‖ cracknels, and a ‖ cruse of honey f, and go to him g: he shall tell thee what shall become of the child.

4 And Jeroboam's wife did so, and arose, and went to Shiloh, and came to the house of Ahijah: but Ahijah could not see, for his eyes † were set h by reason of his age.

5 ¶ And the LORD said unto Ahijah, Behold, the wife of Jeroboam cometh to ask a thing of thee for her son, for he is sick: thus and thus shalt thou say unto her: for it shall be, when she cometh in, that she shall feign her self to be another woman.

6 And it was so, when Ahijah heard the sound of her feet, as she came in at the door, that he said, Come in, thou wife of Jeroboam i, why feignest thou thy self to be another? for I am sent to thee with † heavy tidings.

i By which discovery he both reproves their folly, who thought to conceal themselves or their designs from that God from whom they expected and desired the discovery of the most secret things; and withal gives her assurance of the truth and certainty of that Message which he was to deliver.

7 Go, tell Jeroboam, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, Forasmuch as I exalted thee from among the people, and made thee prince over my people k Israel:

k For so they were when Jeroboam was first set over them.

8 And rent the kingdom away from the house of David, and gave it thee: and yet thou hast not been as my servant David l, who kept my commandments, and who followed me with all his heart, to do that only which was right in mine eyes, l Who though he fell into some sins, yet, first, he constantly persevered in the True Worship of God; from which thou art revolted. Secondly, He heartily repented of, and turned from all his sins whereas thou are obstinate and incorrigible.

9 But hast done evil above all that were before thee m: for thou hast gone and made thee other gods, and molten images n, to provoke me to anger o, and hast cast me behind thy back p:

m Above all the former Kings of my People, as Saul, and Solomon, and Rehoboam. n Or, other Gods, to wit, (for so and oft signifies among the Hebrews, as hath been formerly noted) molten images, namely, the Golden Calves: which he calls other gods, not as if the Israelites esteemed the Calves made of their own Gold, to be gods indeed, which it is incredible should find belief with any man in his wits, especially with the whole Body of the Israelites, who knew that the Ark and Cherubims, though made by Gods special direction, were not Gods, but only Pledges of God's Presence, &c. Nor as if they thought them to be other gods in a strict and proper sense; for it is apparent that they still pretended to Worship the God of their Fathers, as the Jews at Jerusalem did, though in a differing manner; but only because God rejected their whole Worship, and, howsoever they called or accounted it, he reckoned it a manifest defection from him, and a breaking of themselves to other gods, or devils, as they are called, 2 Chron 11. 15. by whose instigation they were led to such Idolatrous practices, and whom alone they served and worshipped therein, whatsoever pretences they had to the contrary. o i.e. Whereby thou didst provoke me. For otherwise this was not Jeroboam's design in it, but only to establish himself in the Throne. p Despised, and disregarded, and forsaken me, and my Commands, and my Worship, as we do things which we cast behind our backs.

10 Therefore behold, I * will bring evil upon the house of Jeroboam, and will cut off from Jeroboam him that pisseth against the wall q, and him that is shut up and left r in Israel, and will take away the remnant of the house of Jeroboam, as a man taketh away dung s, till it be all gone.

So shall the Kingdom and People of Israel be always in an unquiet and unsettled posture, toiled to and fro by Foreign Invasions and Civil Wars; by oppolite Kings and Factions, and by the dissensions of the People. See 2 Kings 17. 18. g To wit, Euphrates, oft so called by way of eminency, as Gen. 15. 18. and 31. 21. 1 Kings 4. 21, 24. This was accomplished in part, 2 Kings 15. 29. and more fully, 2 Kings 17. 6. h For the Worship of their Idols, Exod. 34. 13. Deut. 16. 21. God having before condemned the making and worshipping of the Calves, by which they defigned or pretended to Worship the True God; he now takes notice that they were not contented with the Calves, but (as it is the nature of Idolatry, and all sin, to proceed from evil to worse) were many of them fallen into another and a worse kind of Idolatry, even their worship of the Heathenish Baals, which they commonly exercised in Groves. See on 1 Kings 18. 19.

16 And he shall give Israel up, because of the sins of Jeroboam, who did sin, and who made Israel to sin i.

i To wit, by his invention, and making of the occasion of their sin, the Calves; by his example, by encouraging those and only those that worshipped the Calves; and by his Authority requiring and compelling them to do it. This is mentioned as a monstrous aggravation of his wickedness, that he was not content with his own sin, but was the great Author and chief cause of drawing others into sin, and of corrupting and undoing the whole Kingdom: which therefore God would never forgive him, nor forget him, but upon all occasions mentions him with this eternal brand of infamy upon him.

17 ¶ And Jeroboams wife arose, and departed, and came to Tirzah k: and when she came to the threshold of the door l, the child died.

k An Ancient and Royal City. Jos. 12. 24. in a pleasant place, Cant. 6. 4. where the Kings of Israel had a Palace, Chap. 15. 33. and 16. 6, 8, 23, 24. whither Jeroboam was now removed from Shechem, either for his pleasure, or for his Sons recovery, by the healthfulness of the place. l To wit, of the King's House, which probably was upon, or by the Wall of the City, and near the Gate, which was the place of Judicature, See v. 12.

18 And they buried him, and all Israel mourned for him, according to the word of the LORD, which he spake by the hand of his servant Ahijah the prophet.

19 And the rest of the acts of Jeroboam, how he warred, and how he reigned, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel m.

m Heb. in the book of the words or things of the days, &c. By which you are not to understand that Canonical Book of the Chronicles, for that was written long after this Book; but a Book of Civil Records, the Annals, wherein all remarkable passages were Recorded by the King's Command from day to day; out of which the Sacred Penman by the direction of God's Spirit, took out those passages which were most considerable and useful for God's Honour, and Mens Edification.

20 And the days which Jeroboam reigned, were † Heb. lay down. two and twenty years n: and he † slept with his fathers o, and Nadab his son reigned in his stead.

n So he lived till Asa's second year, Chap. 15. 25. o Either, First, He was Buried with his Ancestors. But their Sepulchre seems to be too mean and improper for a great King; and Kings use to be Buried in peculiar Sepulchres. Or, Secondly, He died, as his Fathers did.

21 ¶ And Rehoboam the son of Solomon reigned
* 2 Chron. 12. 13. in Judah: * Rehoboam was forty and one years old p when he began to reign, and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city which the LORD did chuse out of all the tribes of Israel, to put his Name there: and his mothers name was Naamah, an Ammonitess q.

p Therefore he was born a year before Solomon was King, as appears from 1 Kings 11. 42. This is noted as an aggravation of Rehoboam's folly, that he was old enough to have been wiser. q A People cursed by God, and shut out of the Congregation of his People for ever, Deut. 23. 3. Neh. 13. 1. This is observed as one cause both of God's displeasure in punishing Solomon with such a Son, and of Rehoboam's Apostacy after his three first years, 2 Chro. 11. 17.

22 And Judah did evil r in the sight of the LORD, and they provoked him to jealousie with their sins which they had committed, above all that their fathers had done.

r After a little time. 2 Chron. 11. 17.

23 For they also s built them high places t, and ‖ Or, standing images, or, statues. ‖ images, and groves u on every high hill, and under every green tree x.

s They followed the example of the Israelites, although they were better instructed, and had the Temple in their Kingdom, and liberty of access to it, which was denied to the Israelites; and the priviledge of Worshipping God in his own way, and the Courses, and Sermons, and Examples of the Priests and Levites, to teach and stablish them, and the dreadful example of Israel's horrid Apostacy, to caution and terrifie them. t Which was unlawful, and, now especially when the Temple was Built, and ready to receive them; unnecessary, and therefore expressed a greater contempt of God and his express Command to the contrary. u Not only after the manner of the Heathens and Israelites, but against a direct and particular prohibition. x The People were universally corrupted: which is a prodigious, all things considered, and is a clear evidence of the greatness and depth of the Original corruption of Man's Nature, which without Gods Grace is ready to break forth into all sorts of wickedness.

24 And there were also Sodomites y in the land, and they did according to all the abominations of the nations which the LORD cast out before the children of Israel.

y i. e. Males, who prostituted their Bodies to the filthy Lusts of others: of whom see on Deut. 23. 17. who also did this in the worship, and to the honour of their Idols, as also the Women did, Numb 25. 1, 2. And this might be one occasion of so great a spreading of Idolatry among the Lustful Israelites. And on the other side, God doth frequently punish Idolatry with Corporal uncleanness, Rom. 1. 21, 28. See 1 Kings 15. 12. and 22. 46. 2 Kings 23. 7.

25 ¶ And it came to pass in the fifth year of king Rehoboam z, that Shishak king of Egypt a came up against Jerusalem b.

z Presently after his and his Peoples Apostacy, which was not till his fourth year: When the Apostatical Israelites enjoyed Peace and some kind of Prosperity, at first, for many Years together: of which difference two reasons may be given: First, That Judah's sins were committed against clearer Light, and more powerful means and remedies of all sorts, and therefore deserved more severe and speedy Judgments. Secondly, That God discovered more Love to Judah in chastizing them speedily, that so they might be humbled, and reformed, and so graciously preserved, as it happened; and more anger against Israel, that he spared them, and by their impunity hardned and ripened them to that total destruction which he intended to bring upon them. a Of whom see 1 Kings 11. 40. and 2 Chron 12. 2, &c. where this History is more fully described. He is thought by many to be Solomon's Brother-in-law. But how little such Relations signifie among Princes, when their Interest is concerned, all Histories witness. Besides Rehoboam was not Solomon's Son by Pharaoh's Daughter, and so the relation was in a manner extinct. b Either, From ambition and a desire to enlarge his Empire: or, from jealousie of Rehoboam's growing-greatness: Of which see 2 Chron. 11. or, by Jeroboam's instigation: or, from a covetous desire of possessing these great Treasures which David and Solomon had left: and, above all, by God's Providence, disposing his heart to this expedition for Rehoboam's punishment.

26 And he took away the treasures c of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the kings house, he even took away all: and he took away all the shields of gold * which Solomon had made.
* Chap. 10. 16.

c It is implied, that first he took the City: which may seem strange, considering the great strength of that City, and how much time it took Nebuchadnezzar and Titus to take it. But, First, It might cost Shishak also some time, and a long Siege e're he took it, though that be not here related. Secondly, It is probable that David and Solomon in their building and altering of this City, had more respect to State and Magnificence, than to its defence, as having no great cause to fear the Invasion of any Enemies, and being too secure in reference to their Posterity, because of God's Promise of the Kingdom to be continued to them and to their seed for ever. And it is probable and certain, that after the division between Judah and Israel, the Kings of Judah did add very much to the Fortifications of this City.

27 And king Rehoboam made in their stead brazen shields, and committed them unto the hands of the chief of the † guard d, which kept the door of the kings house.
† Heb. runners.

d Whereas the Golden Shields, as being more precious, were kept in a certain place.

28 And it was so, when the king went into the house of the LORD e, that the guard bare them, and brought them back into the guard-chamber.

e By which it seems the affliction had done him some good, and brought him back to the Worship of God, which he had forsaken, Chap. 12. 1.

29 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Rehoboam, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah f.

f Such a Book of Chronicles as that mentioned above, ver. 19.

30 And there was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam g all their days.

g Not an Invasive War with Potent Armies, which was forbidden, Chap. 12. 12. and not revived till Abijam's Reign, 2 Chron. 13. but a defensive War from those Hostilities which by small Parties and Skirmishes they did to one another.

31 And Rehoboam slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David: and his mothers name was Naamah an Ammonitess h. And Abijam his son reigned in his stead.

h This is repeated as a thing very observable. See above, ver. 21.

CHAP. XV.

Abijam followeth his Father's Sins: God however keepeth promise: He dieth, and Asa his Son succeedeth him, 1——8. His good Reign, 9——15. Baasha warreth against him: he maketh a League with Benhadad, 16——22. He dieth, and Jehoshaphat succeedeth him, 23, 24. Nadab's wicked Reign: Baasha slayeth him: destroyeth his Father's House: and succeeds him: His wicked Reign, 25——34.

NOw in the eighteenth year of king * Jeroboam a the
* 2 Chr. 13. 1. son of Nebat, reigned Abijam over Judah.

a Obj. How can this be, when he Reigned 3 Years, ver. 2. and Asa, his Successor, began his Reign in the twentieth Year of Jeroboam, v. 9? Answ. Parts of Years are commonly called and accounted Years both in the Old and New Testament, and in Prophane Writers. So his Reign began with Jeroboam's 18th Year, and continued his whole 19th Year, and ended within his 20th Year, in which also Asa's Reign began. And thus one and the same Year may well be, as it frequently is, attributed to two several Persons.

2 Three years b reigned he in Jerusalem: and his mothers name was Maachah the daughter of Abishalom c.

b See the last Note, on ver. 1. c Or, of Absalom, as he is called 2 Chron. 11. 21. And because he is here mentioned as a known Person, without any addition of his Kindred or Quality, some conceive that this was Absalom's Daughter, called properly Tamar, 2 Sam. 14. 27. and from her Royal Grandmother, 2 Sam. 3. 3. Maacheh; and that she is called Michajah (which differs not much from Maacheh) the Daughter of Uriel, 2 Chr. 13. 2. because she was first Married to Uriel, as Josephus affirms, Antiq. 8. 3. and afterwards to Rehoboam. Others think this was another Person, and that both she and her Father had each of them several Names, which was not unusual among the Hebrews.

3 And he walked in all the sins of his father d, which ‖ Chap. 11. 4. he had done before him: and his * heart was not perfect with the LORD his God, as the heart of David his father.

d Which his Father lived in, Either, First, Before his Humiliation. Or rather, Secondly, after his Deliverance from Shishak, when, tho he did not openly renounce the Worship of God, he seems to have relapsed into his former Sins; which otherwise would not have been remembred against him; as David's Name and Memory is never loaded with the shame of his Sins, because he truly repented of them.

4 Nevertheless, for Davids sake did the LORD his
‖ 2 Sam. 21. 17. God give him a ‖ lamp e in Jerusalem, to set up his son after him, and to establish Jerusalem f:

e i. e. A Son and Successor to perpetuate his Name and Memory, which otherwise had gone into obscurity. The same Phrase is used above, ch. 11. 36. 2 King. 8. 19. 2 Chr. 21. 7. f i. e. That he might maintain that City, and Temple, and Worship, as a Witness for God, in the World, against the Israelites and Heathen World, who should have enquired after it, and embraced the True Religion there established and fet up, as a Beacon upon an high Hill, that all Men might take notice of it.

5 Because David did that which was right in the eyes
* Exod. 32. 11. & 1 K. 9. 4. of the LORD, and turned not aside from any thing that he commanded him all the days of his life, * save onely in the matter of Uriah the Hittite g.

g Quest. How is this true, seeing David sinned in the matter of Nabal, 1 Sam. 25. and Achish, chap. 27. and Mephibosheth, and his Indulgence to his Children, Adonijah, Amnon and Absalom; and in the numbring of the People? Ans. This and the like Phrases are not to be understood as exclusive of every sinful Action, but onely of a sinful course or state, or of an habitual and continued Apostasie from God, or from his Ways, as the very Phrase of turning aside from God, or from his Commands, doth constantly imply, as appears from Exod. 32. 8. Deut. 9. 12, 16. 1 Sam. 8. 3. Psal. 78. 57. Isa. 44. 20. 1 Tim. 1. 6. and 5. 15, &c. And thus it is most true. For David's other Sins were either sudden and transient Acts, proceeding from Humane Infirmity, and extraordinary Temptations, and soon repented of, and blotted out, as in the cases of Nabal and Achish; or, mistakes of his Judgment, which was not fully convinced of the sinfulness of such Actions, as in the other Cases alledged: whereas that which concerned Uriah's Wife was a designed and studied Sin, long continued in, defended with a Succession of other Sins, presumptuous, and scandalous to his Government, and to the True Religion, which he so eminently professed.

6 And there was war between Rehoboam and Jero-
* Chap. 14. 30. boam h all the days of his life.

h Which was said, chap. 14. 30. and may be here repeated to signifie the Cause and Original of the War between Abijam and Jeroboam, which is implied here, and particularly described, 2 Chron. 13. Abijam continued the War which Rehoboam had begun, and pushed it on to a decisive Battel. But the place may be thus rendred, Yet there was War, &c. i. e. Although God was pleased to shew so much respect to David, as for his sake to continue the Succession to the Kingdom in his Posterity, yet he thought fit to manifest his Displeasure against David's Successors for their Sins, and to mix their Honour and Happiness with Wars and Troubles.

7 Now the rest of the acts of Abijam, and all that he
* 2 Chr. 13. 3. did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah i? And there was war between Abijam and Jeroboam.

i In their Annals; whence they were long after this time Translated into the Sacred Book of Chronicles. See above on chap. 14. 19.

8 And Abijam slept with his fathers, and they buried
* 2 Chr. 14. 1. him in the city of David: and Asa * his son reigned in his stead.

9 ¶ And in the twentieth year of Jeroboam k king of Israel, reigned Asa over Judah.

k In or towards the end of the Year. See above, ver. 1.

10 And forty and one years reigned he in Jerusalem: and his ‖ mothers l name was Maachah, the daughter of ‖ That grandmother. Abishalom.

l i. e. His Grand-Mothers, as appears from ver. 2. who is called his Mother, as David is called Abijam's Father, v. 3. and this Asa's Father, v. 11. And so the names of Father, and Mother, and Sons, and Daughters, are oft taken, both in Sacred and Prophane Authors, for Grand-Parents and Grand-Children. And, his Grand-Mothers Name may be here mentioned, rather than his Mothers, because his Mother was either an obscure Person, or was long since dead, or indisposed, or unwilling to take care of the Education of her Son, and so he was Educated by the Grand-mother, who, though she did poison his Father Abijam with her Idolatrous Principles, ver. 12. yet could not infect Asa, nor with-hold him from prosecuting his good purposes of Reforming Religion. Which is here remembred to his praise.

11 And Asa did that which was right in the eyes of the
* 2 Chr. 14. 2. LORD m, as did David his father.

m As to the Government of his Kingdom, and Life, and the Reformation, and Establishment of God's Worship.

12 And he took away the Sodomites n out of the land,
* 2 Chr. 15. 16. and removed all the idols that his fathers had made.

n Of whom see chap. 14. 24. not all of them, but those whom he could find out; but some escaped his observation and censure, as appears from chap. 22. 46.

13 And also * Maachah his mother, even her he re-o i. e. He took from her either the Name and Authority of Queen-Regent, which she, having been Rehoboam's Wife, and Abijam's Mother, took to her self during Asa's Minority, and abused to the Patronage of Idolatry; or, the Dignity of the Queen-Mother, and those Guards, or other Enfigns of Honor, or Instruments of Power, which, as such, she had enjoyed and misemployed. Otherwise, he removed her from the Queen, i. e. from his Wife, that she might not be infected by her, and afterwards infect his Children: which was a prudent and necessary care, for the prevention of so great and publick a Mischief. p Heb. a terror, or horror, ie. an horrible Idol; which it may be he so called, either, because all Idols, though for a season they please, yet in the end will bring dreadful effects upon their Worshippers: or, because this was an Idol of a more horrible or terrible Shape, more abominable than ordinary, and not to be feen without Horror: whether it was that filthy Idol, called Priapus, which was commonly placed in Groves or Gardens; or, Pan, or some other Heathen God, to whose Service the in a special manner devoted her self. q That when it was burnt to Powder, it might be thrown into the Water, and be unfit for any Use. See Exod. 32. 20. Deut. 12. 3.

14 But the high places were not removed: never-
* Chap. 22. 43. theless, * Asa his heart was perfect with the LORD r all his days.

r Obj. He did take these away, 2 Chron. 14. 3. Answ. He took away those which were devoted to the Worship of Idols, as is there said, or took away the altars of the strange gods, and the high places, to wit, where they were worshipped: but as for those High Places where the True God was Worshipped, he did not take them away; partly, because he thought there was no great Evil in them, because they had been used by David and Solomon, and other Good and Wise Men; and because the True God was there worshipped, and that in the manner, though not in the place, which God had appointed; and partly, because he thought the removal of them might do much more hurt than their continuance, to wit, by occasioning the total neglect of God's Worship by many of the People, who either could not, or through want of competent Faith and Zeal would not go up to Jerusalem to Worship, now especially, when the Israelites, their near Neighbours, formerly their Friends, were become their Enemies, and watched all opportunities to invade or molest them, which they concluded they would do when all their Males were gone up to Jerusalem; and partly, because the People were so obstinately bent towards them, that it was or at least, seemed to him, impossible to remove them without great Offence, or fach Commotions as were highly dangerous to that Church and State. s i. e. He did sincerely and constantly adhere to the Worship and Service of God. Though he could not hinder the People from using the High Places, yet he did intirely Devote himself to the Worship of God in the manner and place prescribed by God.

15 And he brought in the † things which his father † Heb. his. had dedicated t, and the things which himself had dedicated, into the house of the LORD, silver, and gold, and vessels.

t Abijam, to wit, when he was in distress, and going to fight with Jeroboam, 2 Chron. 13. though afterwards he did not perform his Vows, nor bring in what he had Devoted; whether because he was prevented by Death, or because he afterwards relapsed to Idolatry, as may seem probable from the 12th Verse of this Chapter.

16 ¶ And there was war between Asa and Baasha
* 2 Chr. 16. 1. king of Israel all their days u.

u So long as they two Lived and Reigned together. Which is not to be understood, as if there were a solemn and delared War continuing all that time (for Asa was quies in a great measure for his first ten years, 2 Chr. 14. 1. till the Israelites had recovered themselves from that dreadful Blow given them by Abijam, 2 Chron. 13. and Baasha began to Reign in Asa's third Year) but so that there were many private and particular Hostilities practised among them; in which sense the same Phrase is used, chap. 14. 30.

17 And * Baasha king of Israel went up against Ju-
* 2 Chr. 16. 1. dah x, and built y Ramah z, that he might not suffer any
16. 2. to go out or come in to Asa king of Judah a.

x Perceiving Asa's great Success; of which see 2 Chron. 14. and 15. and the defection of many of his own Subjects to him upon that occasion, 2 Chron. 15. 9. he began to bestir himself, and commenceth a War against him. y i. e. Repaired and fortified. z A City of Benjamin; which either belonged to the Kingdom of Israel, from the Division (as some other places of that Tribe are suppos'd to have done; of which see on 1 King. 11. 13.) or belonged to Judah, but was now Invaded and taken by Baasha, and Fortified. a Therefore he chose this place, because it was in the way from his Kingdom to Jerusalem, and, as some add, in, or near the straits of the Mountains, where they could easily discover and hinder all Passengers that way.

18 Then Asa took all the silver, and the gold that were left b in the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the kings house, and deliver'd them into the hand of his servants: and king Asa sent them to * Benhadad c the son of Tabrimon, the son of Hezion king of Syria, that dwelt at Damascus, saying,

* 2 Chr. 16. 2.

b These poor Remainders, which either Shishak had left at that time, chap. 14. 26. or, Abijam, or Asa, or others, both of Israel and Judah, had not dedicated; which probably was not inconsiderable, because Asa had got great Spoils from Zerah, 2 Chron. 14. and he and his numerous and prosperous People did at this time express a great Zeal for the House and Worship of God. c Wherein he committed three great Faults, amongst many others, First, he Alienated things consecrated to God, without necessity. Secondly, He did this out of Carnal Fear and Distrust of that God whose Power and Goodness he had lately experienced. Thirdly, He did this for an ill intent, to hire him to the breach of his League and Covenant with Baasha, v. 19. and to take away part of that Land which by Right, and the special Gift of God, belonged to the Israelites.

19 There is a league between me and thee, and between my father and thy father d: behold, I have sent unto thee a present of silver and gold: come, and break thy † Heb. go up. league with Baasha king of Israel, that he may † depart from me e.

d Whereby it appears, that albeit he was an Adversary to Israel all Solomon's days, chap. 11. 25. yet after the Division of the Kingdoms of Israel and Judah, he was in League with both of them, either, because his Designs lay upon the enlargement of his Empire other ways; or rather, because he thought it his Wisdom and Interest to leave them to themselves to undo one another by their intestine Wars, and so to prepare the way to his Conquest of both; whereas his invading of either of them might have made up the Breach, and forced them to unite against their common Enemy. And therefore as soon as he was free from this fear, and one of them needed and earnestly desired his help against the other, he gladly embraced the opportunity. e That being called to defend himself, he may be forced to depart from my Territories.

20 So Ben-hadad hearkned unto king Asa, and sent the captains of the hosts which he had, against the cities of Israel, and smote Ijon, and Dan, and Abel-beth-maachah, and all Cinneroth f, with all the land of Naphtali.

f The Northern parts of Baasha's Kingdom, which were neareſt to his own Kingdom of Damascus, and most remote from those parts where Baasha was now employed, which were in the most Southern parts of his Dominions.

21 And it came to pass, when Baasha heard thereof, that he left off building of Ramah, and dwelt in Tirzah g.

g Now the Royal City of Israel. See chap. 14. 17. There he abode to defend his own Kingdoms, and durst not return to oppose Asa, left the Syrian King should make a second and worse Invasion. So Asa met with success in his Ungodly Course, as on the other side good Men sometimes meet with Disappointment in a good Cause and Course. So there is no judging of Causes by Events.

22 Then king Asa made a proclamation throughout † Heb. free. all Judah, (none was † exempted ..) and they took away the stones of Ramah, and the timber thereof, wherewith Baasha had builded: and king Asa built with them Geba of Benjamin, and Mizpah h.

h All sorts of Persons were obliged to come, except those who were disenabled by Age, or Infirmity, or Absence, or by the publick Service of the King and Kingdom in other places. i i. e. Repaired and strengthened them, for they were built before. See Jer. 41. 9. Quest. Why did he not rather perfect the Fortifications of Ramah which Baasha had begun? Ans. Because Baasha might have returned and recovered it after wards; and he thought it most convenient that there should be no City nor Fort in that place.

23 The rest of all the acts of Asa, and all his might, and all that he did, and the cities which he built, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? Nevertheless i, in the time of his old age he was diseased in his feet.

i Notwithstanding the great things which he had done, and the Glory and Prosperity which he enjoyed, he felt the effects of Humane Infirmity, and of his own Sins; of which see 2 Chron. 16. 12, 13.

24 And Asa slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his father: and * Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his stead.

27 ¶ And Baasha the son of Ahijah, of the house m of Issachar, conspired against him, and Baasha smote him at Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philistines n, (for Nadab and all Israel laid siege to Gibbethon)

m i. e. Of the Tribe, which is oft called an House, as Judg. 10. 9. Psal. 135. 20. Hos. 1. 7. n Who, taking advantage of the Division between Israel and Judah, had retaken this Town, which belonged to the Tribe of Dan, Jos. 19. 44. and belonged to the Levites, Jos. 21. 23. upon whose departure to Judah, 2 Chron. 11. 14. the Kings of Israel seized their Towns and Lands to their own use, as was noted before; which made them so much concerned for this Town, to besiege both now and many Years after this time, chap. 16. 15.

28 Even in the third year of Asa n king of Judah, did Baasha slay him o, and reigned in his stead.

n How this agrees with 2 Chron. 16. 1. see in the Notes there. o Which he did, not to fulfil God's Threatning, but only to advance himself; and therefore this is called Murder, Chap. 16. 7.

29 And it came to pass when he reigned, that he smote all the house of Jeroboam, he left not to Jeroboam any that breathed p, until he had destroyed him, according unto * the saying of the LORD q, which he spake * Chap. 14. by his servant Ahijah the Shilonite:

p i. e. Any of the Males of that Family. See Deut. 20. 16. Josh. 10. 40. q So God over-ruled Baasha's Ambition and Cruelty, to fulfil his own Counsel and Prediction.

30 Because of the sins of Jeroboam which he sinned, and which he made Israel to sin r, by his provocation wherewith he provoked the LORD God of Israel to anger.

r So that same wicked Policy which he used to establish the Kingdom in his Family, proved his and their Ruine: which is very frequently the Event of Ungodly Counsels.

31 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Nadab, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel *? * See 2 Kings 15.

32 And there was war between Asa and Baasha king of Israel all their days.

33 In the third year of Asa king of Judah, began Baasha the son of Ahijah to reign over all Israel in Tirzah *, twenty and four years. * Ad reigned.

34 And he did evil in the sight of the LORD, and walked in the way of Jeroboam, and in his sin wherewith he made Israel to sin.

CHAP. XVI.

Jehu prophesyeth against Baasha, 1—7. Elah succeedeth him: Him Zimri slayeth, and succeedeth: He, besieged by Omri, burneth himself, 8—20. Omri prevaileth against Tibni, and is King: Buildeth Samaria: Followeth the Sins of Jeroboam, and dieth, 21—28. Ahab his son succeedeth him: He is more wicked than his Predecessors, 29—33. Hiel buildeth Jericho: and Joshua's Curse is fulfilled in him. 34.

THen the word of the LORD came to Jehu a the son of Hanani b, against Baasha, saying, a A Prophet, of whom see more, 2 Chron. 19. 2. and 20. 34. b Who also was a Prophet, 2 Chron. 16. 7.

2 Forasmuch as I exalted thee out of the dust c, and made thee prince over my people Israel, and thou hast walked in the way of Jeroboam, and hast made my people Israel to sin, to provoke me to anger d with their sins:

c Out of a low and mean Estate. See 1 Sam. 2. 8. Psal. 113. 7. Quest. How is Baasha's Exaltation to the Kingdom ascribed to God, when he got it by Treachery and Cruelty? Answ. Though that way or manner of Invading the Kingdom was from himself, and his own wicked Heart; yet the Translation of the Kingdom from Nadab to Baasha simply considered, was from God, who by his Decree and Providence ordered it, and disposed of all occasions, and of the Hearts of all the Soldiers and People, so that Baasha should have opportunity of executing God's Judgment upon Nadab; and such success thereupon, that he should get a present and quiet possession of the Kingdom. Nay, the very Act of Baasha, to wit, the killing of his Master Nadab, was an act of Divine Justice, foretold and appointed by God, Chap. 14. 10. And if Baasha had done this in Obedience to God's Command, and with a single Design, to execute God's Vengeance threatned against him, it had been no more a Sin, than Jehu's Act in killing his Master King Jehoram, upon the same account, 2 King. 9. But that Baasha did this, merely to gratifie his own Pride, or Covetousness, or Malice; this was not from God, but from himself, and therefore is charged upon him as Murder here, v. 7. d See on 1 King. 14. 9.

3 Behold, I will take away the posterity of Baasha, and the posterity of his house: and will make thy house * Chap. like * the house of Jeroboam the son of Nebat. 15. 29.

4 * Him that dieth of Baasha in the city, shall the dogs * Chap. eat: and him that dieth of his in the fields, shall the 14. 11. fowls of the air eat.

5 Now the rest of the acts of Baasha, and what he did, and his might, * are they not written in the book * 2 Chr. of the chronicles of the kings of Israel? 16. 1.

6 So Baasha slept with his Fathers, and was buried in Tirzah, and Elah his son reigned in his stead.

7 And also by the hand of the prophet Jehu the son of Hanani, came the word of the LORD e against Baasha, and against his house, even for all the evil that he did in the sight of the LORD, in provoking him to anger with the work of his hands, in being like the house * Chap. of Jeroboam, and because he * killed him f. 15. 29. 2 Kings 10. 17.

e The meaning is, The Message which came from the Lord to Jehu, v. 1. &c. was here delivered by the hand, i. e. the Ministry of Jehu, unto unto Baasha. Jehu did what God commanded him in this matter, tho it was not without apparent Hazard to himself. f i. e. Nadab; who tho he be not expressed, yet is sufficiently understood: 1. By the manifest reference which these Words have to the Murder committed by Baasha, which was done upon Nadab only, ch. 15. 28. 2. By the foregoing Words, the House of Jeroboam; i. e. His Posterity, which was Nadab. Quest. Why doth God punish him for doing God's Work? Answ. 1. Though God appointed, that Jeroboam's Family should be cut off; yet he did not give Baasha Commission to do it; nor had declared how, or by whom he would do it. 2. Baasha did this, not to fulfil God's Will, but his own Lusts. See on ver. 2.

8 In the twentieth and sixth year of Asa king of Judah, began Elah the son of Baasha to reign over Israel in Tirzah, two years g.

g One compleat, and part of the other, ver. 10. which in Scripture-account is reckon'd for a Year. See above 7. 15. and 15. 25.

9 And his servant Zimri (captain of half his chariots b) conspired against him, as he was in Tirzah, drinking himself drunk in the house of Arza † steward of his † Heb. which was over, &c. house in Tirzah i.

b i. e. Of all his Military Chariots, and the Men belonging to them: the Chariots for Carriage of necessary things, being put into other, and meaner Hands. i Whilst his Forces were elsewhere imployed, v. 15. which gave Zimri advantage to exective his Design.

10 And Zimri went in and smote him, and killed him in the twenty and seventh year of Asa king of Judah, and reigned in his stead.

11 ¶ And it came to pass, when he began to reign, assoon as he sat on his throne, that he slew all the house of † 1 Sam. 25. 22. Baasha: he left him * not one that pisseth against a wall, ‖ neither of his kinsfolks, k nor of his friends l. ‖ Or, both his kinsmen and his friends k Heb. Avengers; to whom it belong'd to Revenge his Death. See Numb. 35. 12. l His Confidents, and familiar Acquaintance, such as were most likely to hinder his Settlement in the Throne, and to Avenge their Friends Quarrel.

12 Thus did Zimri destroy all the house of Baasha, according to the word of the LORD, which he spake † Heb. by the hand of, &c. against Baasha m, † by Jehu the prophet:

m i. e. Thus fulfilling God's Threatning, but either without his knowledge, or meerly for his own ends.

13 For all the sins of Baasha, and the sins of Elah his sons; by which they sinned, and by which they made Israel to sin, in provoking the LORD God of Israel to anger with their vanities n.

n i. e. Idols, oft called Vanities; as Deut. 32. 21. 1 Sam. 12. 21. Jer. 14. 22. because they are but imaginary Deities, and meer nothings; 1 Cor. 8. 4. having nothing at all of a God in them, and nothing of Power to do either good or hurt.

14 Now the rest of the acts of Elah, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of * See 2 Kings 14. the kings of Israel *? 15.

15 ¶ In the twenty and seventh year of Asa king of Judah, did Zimri reign seven days in Tirzah: and the people were encamped against Gibethon, which belonged to the Philistines o.

o Which had been besieged before, Chap. 15. 27. but, it seems, was then relieved, or afterwards recovered by the Philistines; taking the advantage of the Disorders and Contentions which were among their Enemies.

16 And the people that were encamped, heard say, Zimri hath conspired, and hath also slain the king: wherefore all Israel made Omri the captain of the host king over Israel that day in the camp.

17 And Omri went up from Gibbethon, and all Israel with him, and they besieged Tirzah.

18 And it came to pass when Zimri saw that the city was taken, that he went into the palace of the kings house, and burnt the kings house over him p with fire, and died;

p Or, and he burnt, &c. Either, 1. Omri burnt it over Zimri; for Pronouns sometimes respect more remote Nouns. Or rather, 2. Zimri (to whom both the foregoing and following Words apparently belong) who burnt it upon himself; that neither himself, nor the Royal Palace and Treasures might come into the hands of his insulting Adversary.

19 For his sins q which he sinned, in doing evil in the sight of the LORD, in walking in the way of Jeroboam r, and in his sin which he did, to make Israel sin.

q i. e. This befell him for his sins. r Which he might do, either before his Reign, in the whole course of his Life, which is justly charged upon him, because of his Impenitency: or in the Seven Days of his Reign; in which, he had time enough to publish his Intentions or Decrees, about the continuance of the Worship of the Calves; or to Sacrifice to them, for his good Success, either already obtained, or further desired.

20 Now the rest of the acts of Zimri, and his treason that he wrought, are they not written in the book of * See Chap. the chronicles of the kings of Israel *? 14. 19.

21 ¶ Then were the people of Israel divided into two parts s: half of the people followed Tibni the son of Ginath, to make him king t: and half followed Omri u.

s Fell into a Civil War: yet neither this, nor any other of God's dreadful Judgments could win them to Repentance; which is an Evidence of their prodigious Impiety, and Incorrigibleness, and how ripe they were for Ruine. t Disdaining that the Soldiers should usurp such a Power over the whole Kingdom, u Because they approved the Person, though not the manner of his Election.

22 But the people that followed Omri prevailed x against the people that followed Tibni the son of Ginath: so Tibni died y, and Omri reigned.

x Partly, because they had the Army on their side; and principally, by the appointment and judgment of God, giving up the Israelites to him who was much the worst; v. 25, 26. y A violent Death, in the Battel.

23 ¶ In the thirty and one year of Asa king of Judah, began Omri to reign over Israel twelve years z: six years reigned he in Tirzah.

z i. e. And he Reigned Twelve Years, not from this 31 Year of Asa, for he died in his 38 Year, v. 29. but from the beginning of his Reign, which was in Asa's 27 Year, v. 15, 16. So he Reigned four Years in a State of War with Tibni, and eight Years peaceably.

24 And he bought the hill Samaria of Shemer, for two talents of silver, and built a on the hill, and called the name of the city which he built, after the name of Shemer, owner of the hill † Samaria. † Heb. Shomron a To wit, the City; and especially, a Royal Palace, because that at Tirzah was burnt, v. 18. * See Chap.

25 ¶ But * Omri wrought evil in the eyes of the 13. 32. LORD, and did worse than all, that were before him. * Mic. 6. 16.

26 For he walked in all the way of Jeroboam b the son of Nebat, and in his sin wherewith he made Israel to sin, to provoke the LORD God of Israel to anger with their vanities.

b &c. Did not only promote the Worship of the Calves, as Jeroboam and all his Successors hitherto had done; but did also imitate all Jeroboam's other sins; which doubtless were many and great; and peradventure he added this to the rest, that together with the Calves, he Worshipped Devils: i. e. other Idols of the Heathens, as may be thought from 1 Cor. 10. 20. where his Worship of the Devils, and of the Calves is distinguished. Besides, though he did no more for the substance of the Action, than his Predecessors did; yet he might justly and truly be said to do worse than they, because he did it with greater Aggravations, after so many terrible Examples of Divine Vengeance upon the Kings and People of Israel for that Sin; or, because he made severer Laws concerning the Calf-Worship; whence we read of the Statutes of Omri, Mich. 6. 16. or did more industriously and violently execute them, with greater Despight against God, and Malice against his Servants.

27 Now the rest of the acts of Omri, which he did, and his might that he shewed, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

28 So Omri slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria, and Ahab his son reigned in his stead.

29 ¶ And in the thirty and eighth year of Asa king of Judah, began Ahab the son of Omri to reign over Israel; and Ahab the son of Omri reigned over Israel in Samaria, twenty and two years.

30 And Ahab the son of Omri did evil in the sight of the LORD, above all that were before him.

31 And it came to pass, † as if it had been a light thing for him c to walk in the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat; that he took to wife Jezebel d the daughter of Ethbaal e king of the Zidonians f, and went and served Baal g, and worshipped him. † Heb. was it a light thing? &c.

c As if that Sin were not big enough to express his Contempt of God; as if he thought it below his Wit and Dignity, to content himself with such a Vulgar Fault. But the Hebrew runs thus, Was it a light thing, &c? i. e. Was this but a small Sin, that therefore he needed to add more Abominations? Where the Question, as is usual among the Hebrews, implies a strong Denial; and intimates, That this was no small Sin, but a great Crime; and might have satisfied his wicked Mind, without any Additions. d A Woman infamous for her Idolatry, and Cruelty, and Sorcery, and Filthiness. See Chap. 18. 4. and 21. 8. 2 King. 9. 22. Revel. 2. 20. e Called Ithobalus, or Ithabalus in Heathen Writers. f So she was of an Heathenish and Idolatrous Race, and such whom the Kings and People of Israel were expresly forbidden to Marry. g i. e. The Idol which the Sidonians Worshipped, which is thought to be Hercules: or false Gods: for this Name is common to all such. And this Idolatry was much worse than that of the Calves; because in the Calves they Worshipped the True God; but in these, false Gods or Devils, as is evident from Chap. 18. 21.

32 And he reared up an altar for Baal in the house of Baal, which he had built in Samaria.

33 And Ahab made a grove h; and Ahab did more to provoke the LORD God of Israel to anger, than all the kings of Israel that were before him.

h Against God's express Prohibition, Deut. 7. 5.

34 In his days i did Hiel the Bethelite k build Jericho l: he laid the foundation thereof in Abiram his first-born, and set up the gates thereof in his youngest son Segub m, * according to the word of the LORD, which * Josh. 6. he spake by Joshua n the son of Nun. 26.

i This is here added, 1. As a Character of the time, and an Instance of the Truth and Certainty of Divine Predictions and Comminations, this being fulfilled 800 Years after it was threatned; and withal, as a Warning to the Israelites, not to think themselves innocent or safe, because the Judgment threatned against them by Ahijah, Chap. 14. 15. was not yet executed, though they continued in that Calf-worship which he condemned: but to expect the certain accomplishment of it in due time, if they perfisted in their Impenitency. Or, 2. As an Evidence of the horrible Corruption of his Times, and of that high Contempt of God which then Reigned. k Who lived in Bethel, the Seat and Sink of Idolatry, wherewith he was thoroughly leavened. l A place seated in the Tribe of Benjamin, but belonging to the Kingdom of Israel: which place he seems to have chosen for his Buildings; not so much for his own advantage, as out of a contempt of the True God, and of his Threatnings, which he designed to convince of Falshood by his own Experience; and out of an ambitious desire to advance his own Reputation and Interest thereby, by attempting that which he knew his King and Queen too, would be highly pleased with. m i. e. In the beginning of his Building, God took away his First-born, and others successively in the progress of the Work, and the youngest when he finished it. And so he found by his own sad Experience, the truth of God's Word, and how vain it was to contend with him. Qu. Why did not God rather punish Hiel himself? Answ. This was a terrible Punishment, to see his Children cut off by Divine Vengeance, before their time, one after another; and all this, for his own folly and rashness. Compare Jer. 52. 10. And as for Hiel himself, possibly after he had been spared so long, that he might be an Eye-witness of his Sons untimely Deaths; he also might be cut off, though it be not Recorded, as not belonging to the Prophecy here mentioned; or, if not, his present Impunity was his greatest Misery; either, as it continued his Torment in the sad and lasting Remembrance of his Loss and Misery; or as it was a mean to harden his Heart so for greater Judgments, to which he was reserved. n Of which, see on Josh. 6. 26.

CHAP. XVII.

Elijah foretelleth Ahab that there shall be a great Drought: Is sent to Cherith, where the Ravens feed him. 1——7. He is sent to Zarephath to a Widow, who feedeth him with Meal and Oil which wasted not. 8——16. Her Son dieth, and he raiseth him. 17——23. She acknowledgeth him to be a Prophet. 24.

AND † Elijah a the Tishbite b who was of the † inhabitants of Gilead c, said unto Ahab d, * As the LORD God of Israel liveth e, before whom I stand f, there shall not be dew nor rain g these years h, but according to my word i.

† Heb. Elijhu. Luke 4. 25. * is called Elias.

a The most eminent of the Prophets, Matth. 17. 3. who is here brought in, like Melchisedech, Gen. 14. 18. Heb. 7. 3. without any mention of his Father, or Mother, or beginning of his Days; like a Man drop't out of the Clouds, and raised by God's special Providence as a Witness for himself, in this most degenerate time and state of things; that by his Zeal, and Courage, and Power of Miracles, he might give some Check to their various and abominable Idolatries, and some reviving to that small number of the Lord's Prophets and People, who yet remained in Israel: as we shall see. b So called, either from the place of his Birth or Habitation; or for some other reason not now known. c Which was the Land beyond Jordan. See Gen. 31. 21. d Having douhtless admonished him of his Sin and Danger before this; and now upon his Obstinacy in his wicked Courses, he proceeds to declare, and execute the Judgment of God upon him. e I swear by the God of Israel, who is the only True and Living God; whom the gods whom thou hast joined with him, or preferred before him, are dead and useless Idols. f Either, 1. Whose Minister I am, (as this Phrase is oft used, as Numb. 3. 6. Deut. 10. 8. and 17. 12. and 18. 5.) not only in general, but especially in this Threatning, which I now deliver in his Name and Authority, and not from my own Imagination or Passion. Or, 2. Who is now present with me, and a Witness of what I say; and let him punish me severely, if I speak not the Truth. g This was a Prediction, but was seconded with his Prayer, That God would verifie it; as it is Recorded, Jam. 5. 17. And this Prayer of his was not voluntary, and malicious; but necessary, and (all things considered) truly Charitable; that by this sharp and long Affliction, God's Honour, and the Truth of his Word and Threatnings (which was now so horribly and universally contemned) might be Vindicated; and the Israelites (whom their present Imp[illegible]sperity had hardned in their Idolatry) might hereby be an[illegible]e their own Wickedness, and the Vanity of their Calve[illegible] and other Idols; and their Dependance upon God, and the necessity of returning to the True Religion. h i. e. These following Years, which were three and an half, Luk. 4. 25. Jam. 5. 17. i i. e. Until I shall declare, That this Judgment shall cease, and shall pray to God for the Removal of it.

2 And the word of the LORD came unto him, saying,

3 Get thee hence, and turn thee East-ward, and hide thy self by the brook Cherith k, that is before Jordan.

k Thus God rescues him from the Fury of Ahab and Jezabel, who, he knew, would seek to destroy him. Qu. Why did not Ahab seize upon him immediately upon these words? Answ. 1. This must be ascribed to God's over-ruling Providence, who hath the Hearts of all Men in his hands; and hath oft protected his Prophets and Servants in such cases. 2. He might say this not by word of Mouth, but by Letter and Message sent to him; as that word is sometimes used, as Exod. 18. 6.

4 And it shall be, that thou shalt drink of the brook, and I have commanded l the Ravens m to feed thee there.

l i. e. I have decreed or appointed. Or, I shall command, i. e. effectually move them, by Instincts and Inclinations, which I shall put into them, which shall be as forcible with them, as a Law or Command is to Men. God is said to command both Brute Creatures, as Ioph. 9. 3. Jonah 2. 10. and senseless things; as Job 38. 11, 12. Psal. 74. 23. Isa. 5. 6. and 45. 12. when he causeth them to do the things which he intends to effect by them. m Which he names, and chuseth for this work; partly, to succour the Prophets Faith against humane Infirmity, by the credibility of the thing, there being many Ravens in those parts, and those delighting to reside near Brooks of Water; and that sort of Creatures being apt and accustomed to seek Provisions, and to carry them away to the places of their abode: and partly, to shew his Care and Power in providing for the Prophet by those Creatures, which are noted for their Greediness, in monopolizing Provision to themselves; and for their Malignity and Unnaturalness towards their own Young; that by this strange and noble Experiment he might be taught to trust God in those many and great Difficulties to which he was likely to be exposed. Obj. The Ravens were unclean, Levit. 11. 15. Answ. They were Unclean for Meat, but not for the Touch. But howsoever that Ceremonial Law was over-ruled by necessity, and by the Law-givers Dispensation.

5 So he went and did according unto the word of the LORD: for he went and dwelt by the brook Cherith, that is before Jordan.

6 And the ravens brought him bread and flesh n in the morning o, and bread and flesh in the evening p: and he drank of the brook.

n Not raw, but boiled by the Ministry of some Angel or Man, and left in some place or places till the Ravens came for it: in all which, there is nothing incredible, considering the Power and Providence of God. o p i. e. For Dinner and Supper, according to the Custom. See Gen. 43. 25. Ruth 2. 14. Luk. 14. 12. Act. 10. 9, 10.

7 And it came to pass † after a while q, that the brook dried up r, because there had been no rain in the land.

† Heb. at the end of days. Gen. 4. 3. and 38. 12. 1 Sam. 14. 24. 2 Sam. 14. 26.

q Heb. At the end of days; i. e. of a Year; for so the word days is often used, as in Exod. 13. 10. Levit. 25. 29. Numb. 9. 22. Judg. 17. 10. 1 Sam. 1. 3. and 27. 7. And this seems to be a convenient time for the drying up of the Brook, which was gradually dried up. And so this agrees well with Chap. 18. 1. in the third Year: of which, see the Notes there. r God so ordering it, partly for the Punishment of those Israelites who lived near it, and had hitherto been refreshed by it: partly, for the Trial and Exercise of Elijah's Faith, and to teach him to depend upon God alone, not on any Creature for his Support: and partly, to shew his own allsufficiency in providing for his People.

8 ¶ And the word of the LORD came unto him, saying,

9 Arise, get thee to *Zarephath s, which belongeth to Zidon t, and dwell there: behold, I have commanded a widow-woman there to sustain thee.

* Luk. 4. 26. Sarepta.

s A City between Tyrus and Sydon, called Sarepta by St. Luke, Chap. 4. 26. by Pliny and others. t To the Jurisdiction of that City, which therefore was inhabited by Gentiles. See Luke 4. 25. And God's providing for his Prophet, first, by an Unclean Bird, and then by a Gentile, whom the Jews esteemed Unclean, was a notable Presage of the Calling of the Gentiles, and of the Rejection of the Jews. u i. e. Appointed or Provided, as before, ver. 4. for that he had as yet no Revelation or Command of God about it, appears from ver. 12.

10 So he arose, and went to Zarephath: and when he came to the gate of the city, behold, the widow woman was there gathering of sticks: and he called to her x, and said, Fetch me, I pray thee, a little water in a vessel, that I may drink.

x Knowing by Divine Suggestion, that this was the woman designed.

11 And as she was going to fetch it, he called to her, and said, Bring me, I pray thee, a morsel of bread in thine hand y.

y Which he said only to try her, and to make way for what follows.

12 And she said, As the LORD thy God liveth z, I have not a cake, but an handful of meal in a barrel, and a little oyl in a cruse: and behold, I am gathering two sticks a, that I may go in, and dress it for me and my son, that we may eat it, and die b.

z By which she discovers, That though she was a Gentile, yet she owned the God of Israel as the True God. a i. e. A few sticks, that number being oft used indefinitely for any small number, both in Scripture, as Hos. 6. 2. and by other Authors. b For having no more Provision, we must needs perish with Hunger. For though the Famine was only in the Land of Israel, yet the Effects of it were in Tyre and Sidon, which were fed by the Corn of that Land. See Act. 12. 20. Or the same Famine might be in those parts also; the chief cause of the Famine, to wit, the Worship of Baal, being common to both places.

13 And Elijah said unto her, Fear not; go, and do as thou hast said: but make me thereof a little cake first c, and bring it unto me, and after make for thee and for thy son.

c Which he requires as a trial and exercise of her Faith, and Charity, and Obedience, which he knew God would graciously and plentifully reward; and so this would be a great Example to encourage others to the practice of the same Graces upon like occasions.

14 For thus saith the LORD God of Israel d, The barrel of meal e shall not waste, neither shall the cruse of oil fail, until the day that the LORD † sendeth rain upon the earth.

† Heb. giveth.

d In whom I perceive thou trustest. e i. e. The Meal of the Barrel. An Hypallage or Metonymy. So the cruse of oil for the oil of the cruse.

15 And she went and did according to the saying of Elijah f: and she, and he, and her house did eat || many days g.

|| Or, a full year.

f Giving Glory to the God of Israel, by believing his Prophet. g i. e. A long time, even above two Years: See Chap. 18. 1. Heb. days; i. e. a full Year; as ver. 7. namely, before the following Event about her Son happened, and the rest of the time of the Famine after it.

16 And the barrel of meal wasted not h, neither did the cruse of oil fail, according to the word of the LORD, which he spake † by Elijah.

† Heb. by the hand of.

h God still Creating new, as fast as the old was spent.

17 ¶ And it came to pass after these things, that the son son of the woman, the mistress of the house, fell sick, and his sickness was so sore, that there was no breath i left in him.

i Or, no Soul, or Life, as this Hebrew Word oft signifies; i. e. He died, as is manifest from the following Verses. See also Heb. 11. 35.

18 And she said unto Elijah, What have I to do with thee k, O thou man of God? art thou come unto me l to call my sin to remembrance m, and to slay my son?

k Wherein have I injured or provoked thee? Or, Why didst thou come to Sojourn in my House, (as the following Words seem to explain these) if this be the Fruit of it? They are Words of a troubled Mind, favouring of some rashness and impatience. l Didst thou come for this end, that thou mightest severely observe my Sins, and by thy Prayers bring down God's just Judgment upon me, for them, as thou hast for the like cause brought down this Famine upon the Nation? m Either, 1. To my remembrance; that I should by this dreadful Judgment be brought to the knowledge and remembrance of my Sins, which have procured it. Or rather, 2. To God's Remembrance; for God is oft said in Scripture, to remember Sins, when he punisheth them; and to forget them, when he spares the Sinner. See 2 Sam. 16. 10. Have I instead of the Blessing which I expected from thy presence, met with a Curse?

19 And he said unto her, Give me thy son n. And he took him out of her bosom, and carried him up into a loft o, where he abode, and laid him upon his own bed.

n Into mine Arms. o A private place, where he might more freely and fully pour out his Soul to God, and use such Gestures or Methods, as he thought most proper, without any offence or observation.

20 And he cried unto the LORD, and said, O LORD my God, hast thou also brought evil upon the widow, with whom I sojourn, by slaying her son p?

p A Prayer full of powerful Arguments. Thou art the Lord, that canst revive the Child: and my God; and therefore wilt not, do not deny me. She is a Widow, add not Affliction to the Afflicted; deprive her not of the great Support and Staff of her Age: She hath given me kind Entertainment: Let her not fare the worse for her kindness to a Prophet, whereby wicked Men will take occasion to reproach both her, and Religion.

21 And he † stretched himself upon the child q three times, and cried unto the LORD r, and said, O LORD my God, I pray thee let this childs soul come † into him again.

† Heb. measured. † Heb. in to his inward parts.

q Not as if he thought this could contribute any Warmth or Life to the Child; but partly, to express, and withal to increase his Grief for the Child's Death, and his Desire of its reviving; that thereby his Prayers might be more fervent, and consequently, more prevalent with God: and partly, that it might appear, That this Miracle, tho wrought by God alone, yet was done for the sake of Elijah, and in answer to his Prayers. Compare 2 King. 4. 34. Josh. 9. 6. Act. 20. 10. r First, he stretched himself, then he prayed, and that for Three times successively. s By which it is evident, That the Soul was gone out of his Body, and therefore doth subsist without it after Death. Compare Gen. 35. 18. This was a great Requeft; but Elias was incouraged to make it; partly, by his Zeal for God's Honour, which he thought was concerned in it, and would be eclipsed by it: partly, by the experience which he had of his prevailing Power with God in Prayer: and partly, by a Divine Impulse moving him to desire it.

22 And the LORD heard the voice of Elijah, and the soul of the child came into him again, and he revived.

23 And Elijah took the child, and brought him down out of the chamber into the house, and delivered him unto his mother: and Elijah said, See, thy son liveth.

24 ¶ And the woman said to Elijah, Now by this I know t that thou art a man of God, and that the word of the LORD in thy mouth is truth u.

t Now I am assured of that concerning which I began upon this sad occasion to doubt. u That the God whom thou professest, is the True God; and the Doctrine and Religion which thou Teachest, is the only True Religion: and therefore henceforth I wholly renounce the Worship of Idols.

CHAP. XVIII.

Elijah in the extremity of Famine is sent to Ahab: meeteth good Obadiah, 1——7. Chargeth him to certifie the King of his coming: He bringeth Ahab to him, 8——16. He reproveth Ahab and the Congregation: By Fire from Heaven convinceth Baal's Prophets: They are slain, 17——40. Elijah by Prayer obtaineth Rain: Runs before Ahab to Jezreel. 41——46.

AND it came to pass after many days, that the word of the LORD came to Elijah in the third year a, saying, Go shew thy self unto Ahab b, and I will send rain upon the earth c.

a Either, 1. From the time when he went to hide himself by the Brook Cherith; Six Months before which time the Famine might begin, tho it was not yet come to extremity. And so this being in, or towards the end of the third Year, it makes up these Three Years and Six Months, Jam. 5. 17. Or, 2. From the time of his going to Sarepta, which probably was a Year after the Famine begun; See on Chap. 17. 7. and so this might be in the middle of the Third Year, which also makes up the Three Years and Six Months. b To acquaint him with the Cause of this Judgment, ver. 18. and to advise him to remove it, and upon that condition to promise him Rain. c According to thy Word and Prayer, which thou shalt make for it. Thus God takes care to maintain the Honour and Authority of his Prophet, and in Judgment remembers Mercy to Israel for the sake of the Holy Seed yet left among them, who suffered in this common Calamity.

2 And Elijah went to shew himself unto Ahab d: and there was a sore famine in Samaria.

d Wherein he shews a strong Faith, and resolute Obedience, and invincible Courage, that he durst at God's Command run into the Mouth of this raging Lion; which was a degree of Martyrdom.

3 And Ahab called † Obadiah which was † the governour of his house e: (now Obadiah feared the LORD greatly f:

† Heb. Obadiahu. † Heb. over his house.

e Being valued by Ahab for his great Prudence and Fidelity, and therefore indulged as to the Worship of the Calves and Baal. f Quest. How could he and some other Israelites be said to fear the Lord, when they did not go up to Jerusalem to Worship, as God had commanded? Answ. Although they seem not to be wholly excusable in this neglect, because they should have preferred God's Service before their Worldly Commodity, according to the good Example of the Priests and Levites, and the generality of the Godly People who did so, 2 Chron. 11. 13, 16. yet because they Worshipped God in Spirit and Truth, and performed all Moral Duties to God and their Brethren, and abstained from Idolatry, and being kept from Jerusalem by violence, they thought necessity, and the apparent Hazard of their Lives, would excuse them from Ceremonial Services; and God bare with their Infirmity herein.

4 For it was so, when † Jezebel cut off the prophets of the LORD, that Obadiah took an hundred prophets g, and hid them by fifty in a cave, and fed them h with bread and water i)

g Which Name is not only given to such as are endowed with an extraordinary Spirit of Prophecy, but to such Ministers as devoted themselves to the Service of God in Preaching, Praying, Praising God, and the like, as 1 Sam. 10. 10, 11, 12. and in this place compared with ver. 22. where Elijah saith, I only remain a Prophet of the Lord, to wit, strictly so called; and Matth. 10. 41. 1 Cor. 12. 28, 29. and 14. 29. h With the Hazard of his own Life, and against the King's Command; as wisely considering, that no Command of an Earthly Prince could over-rule the Command of the Supreme Lord, the King of Kings, or discharge him from those Acts of Piety to God, and Charity to Men, which God's Law indispensably required. i Either properly; which was a great kindness in those Circumstances: or figuratively, i. e. with Meat and Drink.

5 And Ahab said unto Obadiah, Go into the land, unto all fountains of water, and unto all brooks k: peradventure we may find grass to save the horses and mules alive, † that we lose not all the beasts.

† Heb. that we cut not off our beasts.

k About which, Grass was most probably to be found in that great Drought.

6 So they divided the land between them, to pass throughout it. Ahab went one way by himself l, and Obadiah went another way by himself.

l Not daring to trust any other, Obadiah excepted, left being bribed by such as had Grass for their own use, they should not give him a true Account.

7 ¶ And as Obadiah was in the way, behold, Elijah met him: and he knew him, and fell on his face m, and said, Art thou that my lord Elijah?

m By this profound Reverence, shewing his great Respect and Love to him.

8 And he answered him, I am: go tell thy lord n, Behold, Elijah is here.

n Ahab: whom, though a very wicked Man, he owns for Obadiah's Lord and King; thereby instructing him, that he did well in owning him as such; and that the Wickedness of Kings doth not exempt their Subjects from Obedience to their Lawful Commands.

9 And he said, What have I sinned o, that thou wouldest deliver thy servant into the hand of Ahab, to slay me?

o Wherein have I so offended God, and thee, that thou shouldest inflict this punishment upon me, and expose me to certain ruin by this means?

10 As the LORD thy God liveth, there is no nation or kingdom p, whither my lord hath not sent to seek thee: and when they said, He is not there; he took an oath of the kingdom and nation, that they found thee not q.

p To wit, near to his own, where he could in reason think that Elijah had his chiefest. Nothing is more frequent than to understand General Expressions with such Limitations. q Not that he could force other Kingdoms to take an Oath, but that by his Persuasions he prevailed with the chief Persons in several Kingdoms for his Satisfaction to swear that they did not know of Elijah's being among them. Which was not hard for him to obtain. For Ahab was a great Prince, and had a great Interest among the Neighbouring Kings. The King of Tyre was his Father-in-law; the King of Moab Tributary to him; Jehoshaphat, his Friend and Relation, to whom the King of Edom was Tributary. We read also of all the Kings of Arabia, and of all the Kings of the Hittites, and of Syria, 1 King. 10. 15, 29. which as they corresponded with Solomon, so how far they might be Allied to, or Confederate with Ahab, we know not; nor what Articles or Agreements were between him and them, among which this might be one, That they should deliver up to one another all their Fugitive or Banished Subjects upon Demand; which might give sufficient ground for his desire or expectation of this Oath. Quest. How then could Elijah lie hid in the House of the Widow of Sarepta? Answ. That might easily be, either, because she her self, or at least others, did not know particularly who he was; or, because she used all possible Care to conceal him, her Conscience and Interest both obliging her so to do; or because God secured him there.

11 And now thou sayest, Go tell thy lord, Behold, Elijah is here.

12 And it shall come to pass, as soon as I am gone from from thee, that the Spirit of the LORD r shall carry thee whither I know not; and so when I come and tell Ahab, and he cannot find thee, he will slay me t: but I thy servant fear the LORD from my youth u.

r The Holy Ghost; to whom the Inspiration and Conduct of the Prophets is commonly ascribed in Holy Scripture, as Isa. 48. 16. and 61. 1. Matth. 4. 1. Act. 16. 6, 7. who might do this either immediately by his own Power, or by an Angel, or by a strong Wind. † Such transportations of the Prophets having doubtless been usual before this time, as they were after it. See 2 King. 2. 16. Ezek. 3. 12, 14. Mat. 4. 1. Act. 8. 39. s Either as a cursed Impostor that hath deluded him with vain Hopes: or rather, because I did not forthwith seize upon thee, and bring thee to him to receive punishment. u He speaks not these, nor the following Words, in way of vain boasting; but only for his own necessary vindication and preservation, that he might move the Prophet to pity and spare him, and not put him upon that hazardous action; which yet he was resolved to do, if the Prophet peremptorily required it.

13 Was it not told my lord, what I did when Jezebel slew the prophets of the LORD? how I hid an hundred men of the LORDS prophets by † fifty in a cave, and fed them with bread and water?

† Heb. fifty, fifty.

14 And now thou sayest, Go tell thy lord, Behold, Elijah is here: and he shall slay me.

15 And Elijah said, As the LORD of hosts x liveth, before whom I stand, I will surely shew my self unto him to day.

x The Lord of all the Creatures, which are called God's Hosts, Gen. 2. 1. Deut. 4. 19. Psal. 103. 21. and 148. 2. and are all subject to his Command. He mentions this Title as his Shield, under the Protection whereof he did, and durst venture to come into Ahab's Presence.

16 So Obadiah went to meet Ahab, and told him: and Ahab went to meet Elijah.

17 ¶ And it came to pass when Ahab saw Elijah, that Ahab said unto him, Art thou he * that troubleth Israel y?

* Act. 16. 20.

y Have I at last met with thee, O thou great Disturber of my Kingdom, the Author of this Famine, and of all our Disquiets and Calamities?

18 And he answered, I have not troubled Israel, but thou and thy fathers house z, in that ye have forsaken the commandments of the LORD, and thou hast followed Baalim.

z These Calamities are not to be imputed to my Passions, but thine and thy Fathers Wickedness, which God punisheth by this means. He answered him thus boldly, because he spoke and acted in God's Name, and for his Honour and Service, whose Vassal Ahab was.

19 Now therefore send a, and gather to me all Israel b unto mount Carmel c, and the prophets of Baal d four hundred and fifty, and the prophets of the groves e four hundred, which eat at Jezebels table.

a To wit, Messengers, that this Controversie between thee and me may be decided, the true Cause of these heavy Judgments discovered and removed. That so this Plague may be removed. b By their Deputies, or Heads, or Representatives, that they may be witnesses of all our Transactions. c Not that Carmel in Judah, 1 Sam. 15. 12. but another in Issachar by the Mid-land Sea, Jos. 19. 26. Jer. 46. 18. which he chose as a very convenient place, being not far from the Center of his Kingdom, to which all the Tribes might conveniently resort, and at some good distance from Samaria, that Jezebel might not hinder his Design; and a very high Mountain, Amos 9. 3. and that upon the Sea, whence he might have the opportunity to discover the Rain at its first approach, which he did, ver. 42, &c. d Which were dispersed in all the parts of the Kingdom. e Which attended upon those Baals or Idols which were worshipped in the Groves, which were near the Royal City, and much valued and frequented by the King and the Queen, 1 King. 14. 13. and 16. 33. 2 King. 13. 6. and therefore were maintained at the Queens Charges.

20 So Ahab f sent unto all the children of Israel, and gathered the prophets together unto mount Carmel.

f He complied with Elijah's motion; partly, because it was so fair and reasonable, that he could not refuse it with Honour, nor without the Discontent of all his People, this being proposed in order to their Deliverance from this terrible Famine; partly, because the Urgency of the present Distress made him willing to try all means to remove it; partly from a Curiosity of seeing some extraordinary Events; and principally, because God inclined his Heart to close with it.

21 And Elijah came unto all the people, and said, How long halt ye between two ‖ opinions g? If the LORD be God h, follow him i: but if Baal k, * then follow him: And the people answered him not a word l.

‖ Or, thoughts. * See Josh. 24. 15.

g Why do you not make straight Paths with your Feet, as the Phrase is, Heb. 12. 13? Why do you walk so lamely and unevenly, being so unsteddy in your Opinions and Practices, and doubting whether it is better to Worship God or Baal? h Whom you pretend to Worship in the Calves, 2 King. 10. 16, 31. compare Exod. 32. 4. i Worship him, and him only, and that in such place and manner as he hath commanded you, and not by the Calves. k If Baal can prove himself to be the True God. l Being convinced of the reasonableness of his Proposition; taught by Experience, that Jehovah had sent this Judgment, and that Baal could not remove it, which had staggered them in their Opinion about Baal; yet not daring to disown Baal, for fear of the Displeasure of the King, then present.

22 Then said Elijah unto the people, I, even I only remain m a prophet of the LORD; but Baals prophets are four hundred and fifty men.

m To wit, here present, publickly to own and plead the Cause of God; for he opposeth himself only to Baal's 450 Prophets, because they only were present; the Prophets of the Groves, being, it seems, not permitted by Jezebel (through her Pride, or Obstinacy, or Care, and Kindness to them) to go thither. See Chap. 22. 6. As for the other Prophets of the Lord, many of them were slain by Ahab or Jezebel, others banished, or hid in Caves.

23 Let them therefore give us two bullocks n, and let them chuse one bullock for themselves o, and cut it in pieces, and lay it on wood, and put no fire under: and I will dress the other bullock, and lay it on wood, and put no fire under:

n He attempts the Decision of this Controversie, not by God's Word, which was either rejected, or despised, or grossly neglected, by the generality of that People; but by a Miracle, to which all that had common Sense must needs submit. o Which they judge best and fittest for their purpose.

24 And call ye on the name of your ‖ gods, and I ‖ will call on the Name of the LORD: and the God that answereth by fire p, let him be God. And all the people answered and said, † It is well spoken.

‖ Or, God. † Heb. The word is good.

p I.e. That shall consume the Sacrifice by Fire sent from Heaven; which the People knew the True God used to do, as Genesis 4. 4. Judges 6. 21. and 13. 20. q Even the Baalites themselves; partly, because they could not without great reproach to themselves and Baal, refuse so equal a motion; and partly, because they were confident of Baal's Power and Divinity, having probably had some Experiments of supernatural and prodigious Events done in the Worship of Baal by God's just and wise Permission, for the hardening of that Apostatical and wicked People in their Idolatry; as God hath in several Ages for the like reason suffered lying Wonders to be wrought by the Devil, whom they worshipped in and by their Idols.

25 And Elijah said unto the prophets of Baal, Chuse ye one bullock for your selves, and dress it first, for ye are many r: and call on the name of your ‖ gods, but put no fire under.

‖ Or, God.

r And I am willing to give you the precedency. This he did, partly, because if he had first offered, and God had answered by Fire, as he knew that he would do; Baal's Priests would have been discouraged, and upon some Excuse (which would easily be accepted in regard of the King's Authority, and the Favour which they had with the People) would have desisted from making the trial on their part; and partly, because the Disappointment of the Priests of Baal, of which he was well assured, would notably prepare the way for the Peoples more diligent attention unto his Words and Actions, and cause them to entertain the Prophets good Success with more Admiration and Affection; and this coming last, would leave the greater Impression and Relish upon their Hearts. And this they accepted, because they might think, that if Baal did answer them first, which they presumed he would, the People would be so confirmed and heightned in their Opinion of Baal, that they by the King's Assistance might murder Elijah before he came to his Experiment.

26 And they took the bullock which was given them, and they dressed it t, and called on the name of Baal from morning u even until noon, saying, O Baal, ‖ hear us. But there was no voice, nor any that ‖ answered. And they ‖ leapt upon the altar x which was made y.

‖ Or, answer. ‖ Or, leaped up and down at the altar.

s Which being chosen by them, v. 25. was now put into their Hands by those who had the Beasts in their Custody, till they were taken away for Sacrifice. t Cut it in pieces, and laid the parts in or upon the Wood. u From the time of the Morning-Sacrifice; which advantage Elijah suffered them to take for their Sacrifice. x Or, over the altar: which might easily be done, the Altar being low, and suddenly made for the present use. Or rather, beside (as the Hebrew (al) oft signifies) the altar: or, before it. They used some superstitious, unusual, and disorderly Gestures, either pretending to be acted by the Spirit of their God, and to be in a kind of Holy Rage, and Religious Extasie; or, in way of Devotion to their god; which they might borrow from the Practice of their Progenitors, who, amongst other things, used Dancing in God's Service and Presence, as Exod. 15. 20. and 32. 19. Judg. 21. 21. 2 Sam. 6. 14. y Heb. which he made: Either, First, Elias; which some think was already made, though the making of it be not mentioned till afterwards, ver. 31. and that it was their Design, by leaping upon his Altar, to overthrow it. Or rather, Secondly, Ahab on their behalf; or, any other Person: that being only an Hebraism, the Third Person Active, being put for the Passive Verb, as our Translators well render it.

27 And it came to pass at noon z, that Elijah mocked them a, and said, Cry † aloud: for he is a god, either ‖ he is talking, or he † is pursuing, or he is in a journey b, or peradventure he sleepeth, and must be awaked.

† Heb. with a great voice. ‖ Or, is meditating. † Heb. hath a pursuit.

z When they had long tried all means in vain. a Derided them and their gods, which were indeed, and had now proved themselves to be ridiculous and contemptible things. By this example we see, that all jesting is not unlawful, but only that which intrencheth upon Piety and good Manners. See on Eph. 5. 4. b He is employed about some other business, and hath not leisure to mind you: for being a god of a small and narrow Understanding, he cannot mind two things at once, and you are immodest and unreasonable to expect it from him.

28 And they cried aloud c, and cut themselves after their manner with knives and lancers d, till † the blood gushed out upon them.

† Heb. pourcles blood of them.

c As if Elias had spoken the truth, and their god needed rowzing. d Mingling their own Blood with their Sacrifices; as knowing by experience, that nothing was more acceptable to their Baal (which was indeed the Devil) than Humane Blood; and hoping hereby to move their god to pity and help them. And this indeed was the Practice of divers Heathens in the Worship of their false gods, as is manifest both from Scripture, as Levit. 19. 28. Deut. 14. 1. 1 King. 18. 28. and and from the express Testimonies of Plutarch, Lucian, Apuleius, and many others.

29 And it came to pass, when mid day was past, and † Heb. had prophesied e until the time of the † offering of the evening sacrifice f, that there was neither voice, nor any to answer, nor any † that regarded g.

e I.e. Praised, and prayed unto, and worshipped their God; for so the word prophesying is used, 1 Sam. 10. 10. and 19. 20, &c. 1 Chron. 25. 2, 3. Matth. 7. 22. 1 Cor. 11. 4. and 14. 5, 6. &c. f Heb. of the Sacrifice, which being here opposed to the time of their offering, which was the morning, ver. 26. must needs be meant of the Evening Sacrifice; of which see Exod. 29. 39. &c. which is called the Sacrifice, by way of Eminency, because it was more solemn, and publick, and frequented, than the Morning Sacrifice; of which divers Reasons may be given. See Exod. 12. 6. Psal. 141. 2. Act. 3. 1. g Heb. there was no attention: Either, First, Of their god, who was so far from answering, that he did not mind any of their Words and Actions. Or, Secondly, Of the People, who were nowtired out with so long attention and expectation; and therefore more readily deserted them, and approached to Elijah and his Altar, at his Call, v. 30.

30 And Elijah said unto all the people, Come near unto me h. And all the people came near unto him; and he repaired i the altar of the LORD k that was broken down l.

h Come away from these impudent Deceivers to me, and expect from me what Satisfaction you desire. i Which by the Peoples help was quickly done; the Materials being all ready, and very slightly put together, only for the present occasion. k Which had been built therefore by some of their Ancestors for the offering of Sacrifice to the God of Israel, which was frequently done in High-Places, of which this was none of the least eminent ones: but being for some time neglected, it needed Reparations. l Either, First, By the Priests of Baal at this time, who leaped upon it to that end: of which see on ver. 26. Or rather, Secondly, By some of the Baalites, out of their Enmity to the True God, whose Temple, because they could not reach, they shewed their Malignity in destroying his Altars, ch. 19. 14.

31 And Elijah took twelve stones, according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Jacob m, unto whom † Gen. 32. 28. the word of the LORD came, saying, * Israel shall be thy name n.

* 2 King. 17. 34.

m This he did, partly, to renew the Covenant between God and all the Tribes, as Moses did, Exod. 24. 4. Partly, to shew, that he prayed and acted in the Name, and for the Service of the God of all the Patriarchs, and of all the Tribes of Israel, and for their good: and partly, to reach the people, that though the Tribes were divided as to their Civil Government, they ought all to be united in the Worship of the same God, and in the same Religion. n Which Jacob was graciously answered by God when he prayed to him, and was honoured with the glorious Title of Israel, which noted his prevalency with God and Men. And I, calling upon the same God, doubt not of a like gracious Answer; and if ever you mean to have your Prayers granted, you must not seek to Baal for it, who, as you now see, neither hears nor regards his most devout Worshippers; but unto the God of Jacob; and if you would recover the Honour which was once conferred upon Jacob, and continued a long time to his Posterity, you must return to that God from whom you are revolted.

32 And with the stones he o built an altar p in the Name of the LORD q: and he made a trench about the altar, as great as would contain two measures r of seed.

o With the assistance of the People, who readily yielded their helping hand. p Which, though generally forbidden, he might do, because he did it by the command and suggestion of God, who can dispence with his own Laws, and upon apparent and urgent necessity, and for a work of great mercy, (to which even by God's Command the Ceremonial Laws must give place, Hos. 6. 6. Mar. 2. 27.) even for the conversion of the Israelites, whom it was impossible to bring to the Altar of Jerusalem at this time. q By the Authority of God, and for his Worship. r I.e. Two third parts of an Ephah: which shews that the Trench was of a competent largeness.

33 And he put the wood in order, and cut the bullock in pieces, and laid him on the wood, and said, Fill four barrels with water s, and * pour it on the burnt-sacrifice, and on the wood t.

* See Judg. 6. 20.

s Which they could quickly fetch, either from the River Kishon; or, if that was dried up, from the Sea; both which were at the foot of the Mountain. See Jer. 46. 18. t This he did, to make the Miracle more glorious, and more unquestionable, and so more successful.

34 And he said, Do it the second time. And they did it the second time. And he said, Do it the third time. And they did it the third time.

† Heb. went.

35 And the water † ran round about the altar, and he filled the trench also with water.

36 And it came to pass, at the time of the offering of the evening sacrifice u, that Elijah the prophet came near, and said, LORD God of Abraham, Isaac, and of Israel, let it be known this day, that thou art God in Israel, and that I am thy servant, and that I have done all these things x at thy word y.

u Which time he chose, that he might unite his Prayers with the Prayers of the Godly Jews at Jerusalem, who at that time assembled together to pray. Act. 3. 1. x Brought this famine, scattered the People hither, and done what I have done, or am doing here. y Not in compliance with my own Passions, but in Obedience to thy Command, as thy Agent and Minister. For that action of shutting up Heaven, and that of killing the Priests of Baal, must needs expose him to great Envy and Reproach; which made this publick Vindication necessary, as it was also effectual, being witnessed from Heaven.

37 Hear me, O LORD, hear me, that this people may know that thou art the LORD God, and that thou hast turned their heart z back again a.

z That they may feel so powerful and sudden a change in their Hearts, that they may know it is thy Work, and the effect of thy Grace to them, and in them. Or, when thou hast turned, &c. or, because thou, &c. So the Particle Vau is oft used; and the Sense is, That they may know thee to be the True God, by the effects of thy Divine Power, in converting their Hearts, and that in so miraculous a way, and in answer to my Prayers. a Unto thee, from whom they have revolted.

38 Then the fire of the LORD fell, and consumed the burnt-sacrifice, and the wood, and the stones, and the dust, and licked up the water that was in the trench.

39 And when all the people saw it, they fell on their faces b: and they said, The LORD, he is the God; the LORD, he is the God c.

b In way of acknowledgment and adoration of the True God. c He alone; and Baal is a dull and senseless Idol. And they double the words, to note their abundant satisfaction and assurance of the Truth of their Assertion.

40 And Elijah said unto them d, ‖ Take the prophets of Baal, let not one of them escape: and they took them, and Elijah brought them down to the brook Kishon e, and slew them there f.

d He takes the opportunity, whilst the peoples Hearts were warm with the fresh sense of this great Miracle. e That their Blood might be poured into that River, and thence conveyed into the Sea, and might not defile the Holy Land. f Quest. How could Elijah do this, seeing he was but a private Person? Answ. First, He had no doubt the Consent of all the Heads of the People, who were here assembled; and of the King too, who durst not resist the universal Torrent, and could not deny that they were Impostors, and worthy of Death; and probably was by the Prophet assured of Rain when this was done. Answ. Secondly, As these Idolatrous Priests were manifestly under a Sentence of Death, passed upon such by the Sovereign Lord of Life and Death, Deut. 13. and 17. So Elijah had sufficient Authority to execute it, as being a Prophet, and an extraordinary Minister of God's Vengeance against Sinners, now especially when the Magistrate so grossly neglected his Duty therein.

41 ¶ And Elijah said unto Ahab, Get thee up g, eat and drink h, for there is ‖ a sound of abundance of rain i.

‖ Or, a noise of rain.

g From the River, where the King and he had been present at the slaughter of Baal's Priests, to thy Tent: which probably was pitched on the side of Carmel. h Take Comfort, and refresh thy self: for neither the King, nor any of the People could have any leisure to eat, being wholly intent upon the decision of the great Controversie. i The Rain is as certainly and speedily coming, as if I did actually see it, or hear the Noise which it makes. God's Wrath is now appeased, and thou shalt have no cause to repeat of this days Work.

42 So Ahab went up to eat and to drink, and Elijah went up to the top of Carmel k, and he cast himself down upon the earth, and put his face between his knees l, k Where he might secretly and ardently pour out his Prayers unto God; and whence he might look towards the Sea, and discern when the Rain was coming. l He either sate, or rather, kneeled upon his Knees, and then cast down his Face to the Ground between his Knees; either, in token of profound Reverence and Humility; or, out of Fervency of Spirit, which oft disposeth Men to uncouth Gestures, which at other times, or in other Men, would be ridiculous; but in them and in that case, are usual and allowed; or, that turning away his Eyes from all outward Objects, he might be more intent and earnest upon his Work, or pray to God without Distraction.

43 And said to his servant, Go up now m, look towards the sea n. And he went up, and looked, and said, There is nothing. And he said, Go again seven times o.

m Whilst I continue praying. n Whence Clouds and Vapours usually arise. Elijah desired to have timely notice of the very first appearance and signification of Rain, not out of Vanity or Ambition, but that Ahab and the People might know that it was obtained from Jehovah by the Prophets Prayers, and thereby be confirmed in the True Religion. o Let us not be dejected for some Disappointments, but continue to wait upon God, who will answer me, and that speedily.

44 And it came to pass at the seventh time, that he said, Behold, there ariseth a little cloud out of the sea, like a mans hand. And he said, Go up, say unto Ahab, † Prepare thy chariot, and get thee down, that the rain stop thee not.

† Heb. Tye, or, bind.

45 And it came to pass in the mean while, that the heaven was black with clouds and wind, and there was a great rain. And Ahab rode and went to Jezreel p.

p Not that in Judah, Jos. 15. 56. but another City in the border of Issachar and Manasseh, Jos. 19. 18.

46 And the hand of the LORD was on Elijah q, and he girded up his loyns r, and ran before Ahab s, † to the entrance of Jezreel.

† Heb. till thou come to Jezreel.

q God gave him more than natural and ordinary strength, whereby he was enabled to outrun Ahab's Chariot, and that for so many Miles together. r That his Garments, which were then long, might not hinder him. See 2 King. 4. 29. and 9. 1. s Partly, to shew how ready he was to honour and serve the King, if he did not exalt himself above or against God: partly, that by this humble and self-denying Carriage, it might appear, that what he had done was not from Envy, or Ambition, or Humane Passion, but only from a just Zeal for God's Glory: partly, that by his Presence with the King, and his Courtiers Courtiers who attended upon him, he might animate and oblige them to proceed in the well-begun Reformation of Religion: and partly, to demonstrate, that he was neither ashamed of, nor afraid for what he had done, tho' he knew how Jezebel would resent it, but durst venture himself in the midst of his Enemies, as being confident of the Divine Power and Protection.

CHAP. XIX.

Elijah threatned by Jezebel flees to Beer-sheba: Is comforted by an Angel, 1—8. At Mount Horeb complaining to God, he is strengthned by a special Revelation, 9—14. Is sent to anoint Hazael, Jehu, and Elisha, 15—18. Elisha followeth Elijah, 19—21.

AND Ahab told Jezebel a all that Elijah had done, and withal how he had slain all the prophets b with the sword.

a For his Vindication, and her Satisfaction. b To wit, of Baal; not of the Groves, who were not present, as may be gathered from chap. 18, 19, 22. and 22. c.

2 Then Jezebel sent a messenger unto Elijah c, saying,
* Ruth 1. 17. * So let the gods do to me, and more also, if I make not thy life as the life of one of them by to morrow at this time d.

c She gives him notice of it before-hand: partly, out of the height of her Spirit, as scorning to kill him secretly and surreptitiously, and resolving to make him a publick Sacrifice: partly, out of her Impatience, till she had breathed out her Rage, which she could do speedily, when it required some time and preparation to seize him, who was now so much esteemed and favoured by all the People: partly, because she supposed, that he who had the confidence to come thither (where, it seems, she was at this time) would still have the same Confidence to stay there, and be obliged in honour to maintain his ground: and principally, from God's all-disposing Providence, that so he might have an opportunity of escaping. d So far was she from being changed by that most evident Miracle, that she persists in her former Idolatry, and adds to it a mad and monstrous Confidence, that in spight of God she would destroy his Prophet.

3 And when he saw that, he arose, and went for his life e, and came to Beersheba, which belonged to Judah f, and left his servant there g.

e i. e. To save his life: or, according to his soul, or mind. Whereby it may be intimated, that he did not flee from Jezreel by the hand or direction of the Lord, by which he came thither, ch. 18. 46. but because of his own fear and apprehension of danger. For this may seem to be an act of humane frailty. For God had brought him hither, and his Presence might seem very necessary here to incourage and ingage the King and People to go on to destroy the Priests of the Groves, and to purge out Idolatry; and his withdrawing, as we see, did discourage all the rest, and occasioned their return to Idolatry again; and, having had such a late and ample experience of God's all-sufficiency in protecting him against the King and 450 of Baal's Priests, and the current of the People incensed against him for the Famine, he had little reason to fear the Threats of an impotent Woman, whom God could cut off in a moment. But Elias was a man subject to like Passions as we are, Jam. 5. 17. which probably is said with respect to his fear and discontent, manifested here and ver. 4. And left he should be exalted above measure (which was also Paul's case, 2 Cor. 12. 7.) for his eminent Gifts, and Graces, and miraculous Works, God saw fit to withdraw his Grace, and to leave him to himself, that he might be sensible of his own impotency and sinfulness, and might not dare to take any part of God's Honour to himself. f Either, First, To the Tribe of Judah, according to the first Division; for Simeon's part, in which Beersheba was, was afterwards taken out of it. Or, Secondly, to the Kingdom of Judah. g Partly, that he might abide there in safety; and partly, that he should wait there till his return; partly, because he would not expose him to those Perils and Hardships which he expected: and partly, because he desired Solitude, that he might more freely converse with God.

4 ¶ But he himself went a days journey into the wilderness h, and came and sat down under a juniper-tree: and he * requested † for himself i that he might die, and said, It is enough k, now, O LORD, take away my life: for I am not better than my fathers l.
* Jona 4. 3, 8.
† Heb. for his Life.

h The vast Wilderness of Arabia. He durst not stay in Judah, tho' good Jehoshaphat Reigned there, because he was Allied to Ahab, and was a Man of an easie temper, whom Ahab might circumvent, and either by force or art seize upon Elijah. i Heb. for his life, or his soul, that it might be taken away from his Body. Or, with his soul, as it is Isa. 26. 9. i. e. He desired it heartily or fervently. Which he did not only for his own sake, that he might be freed from his great Fears and Troubles; but especially from his Zeal for God's Glory, which he saw was and would be dreadfully eclipsed by the relapse of the Israelites into Idolatry, and by Elijah's Death, if it should be procured by the hands of Jezebel, or of the Worshippers of Baal: and therefore he wished to die in Peace, and by the Hand of God. k I have lived long enough for thy Service, and am not like to do thee any more Service; neither thy Words nor Works are like to do any good upon these unstable and incorrigible People. l That I should continue in Life, when other Prophets who have gone before me, have lost their Lives by Jezebel, or other Persecutors.

5 And as he lay and slept under a juniper-tree, behold then, an angel touched him, and said unto him, Arise and eat.

6 And he looked, and behold, there was a cake baken on the coals, and a cruse of water at his † head: and he did eat and drink, and laid him down again.
Heb. Bolster.

7 And the angel of the LORD came again the second time, and touched him, and said, Arise, and eat, because the journey is too great for thee m.

m i. e. Above thy strength, now especially when thou art faint, and weary, and fasting.

8 And he arose, and did eat and drink, and went in the strength of that meat n * forty days and forty nights, unto * Horeb o the mount of God.
* See Deut. 9. 9, 18. Matth. 4. 2.

n God giving that Food a far greater and more durable vertue than ordinary. o He wandred hither and thither for 40 days, till at last he came to Horeb, which in the direct Road was not above 3 or 4 days Journey.

9 ¶ And he came thither unto a cave, and lodged there: and behold, the word of the LORD came to him, and he said unto him, What dost thou here p, Elijah?

p A tacit Reproof. This is not thy proper place, nor the station in which I set thee, which was in Israel, to turn that back-sliding People, to which end I gave thee my help, and would have proceeded to assist thee further, if thou hadst continued there. Nor did I give thee those excellent Gifts to lie idle in this Wilderness, but to employ them for thy People's Good, whom now thou hast deserted, and art come hither, not by my Command, but through thy own Fear and Cowardise.

10 And he said, I have been very jealous for the LORD God of hosts q: for the children of Israel have forsaken thy covenant, thrown down thine altars r, and slain thy prophets with the sword: and * I, even I only am left s, and they seek my life to take it away t.
* Rom. 11. 3. Cap. 18. 22.

q I have not been wholly wanting to my Vocation, but have executed my Office with Zeal for God's Honour and Service, and with the hazard of my own Life; and am fled hither, not being able to endure to see the Dishonour done to thy Name by their obstinate Idolatry and Wickedness. r Those which were erected for thy Worship in High-Places, which they did not destroy, because they were to be abolished by thy Command, Deut. 12. but out of meer contempt and opposition against thee, and therefore they suffered the Altars of Baal to stand. s To wit, of all thy Prophets, I mean, which do boldly and publickly plead thy Cause: for the rest of thy Prophets who are not slain, hide themselves, and dare not appear to do thee any Service. t I despair of doing them any good: for instead of receiving my Testimony, they hunt for my Life.

11 And he said, Go forth, and stand upon the mount before the LORD. And behold, the LORD passed by u, and a * great and strong wind rent the mountains, and brake in pieces the rocks x before the LORD; but the LORD was not in the wind y: and after the wind an earthquake; but the LORD was not in the earthquake.
* Exod. 14 & 33.

u Either, First, By his Harbingers: for, as it follows, the Lord was not yet there. Or, Secondly, Himself. And so this is a brief and general Description of the thing, after which the manner of it is particularly explained. x Whereby he both prepares Elijah to receive this Discovery of God with greatest Humility, Reverence, and Godly Fear; and signifies his Almighty and Irresistible Power, to break the hardest Hearts of the Israelites, and to bear down all opposition that was or should be made against him in the Discharge of his Office. y THE Lord did not vouchsafe his Special and Gracious Presence to Elijah in that Wind, where he confidently expected him: which possibly was, Either, First, To qualifie the excessive Fervour and Passion of Elijah, which mixed it self with his Zeal for God, and to make him more mild in his Censures, and more meek and patient in waiting for the Conversion of Israel; wherein he might sooner expect God's Presence and blessed Success, than in the Storm of Anger or Impatience. Or, Secondly, To teach him not to wonder if God did not accompany his terrible Administration at Mount Carmel with the Presence of his Grace, to turn the hearts of the Israelites to himself, as he desired, but God for wise and just Reasons saw fit to deny.

12 And after the earthquake, a fire; but the LORD was not in the fire: and after the fire a still small voice z.

z Wherein it is implied, That God was present. Which peradventure was to insinuate, that God would do his Work in and for Israel in his own time, not by might or power, but by his own Spirit, Zech. 4. 6. which moves with a powerful, but yet with a sweet and gentle Gale.

13 And it was so, when Elijah heard it, that he wrapped his face in his mantle a, and went out, and stood in the entring in of the cave b: and behold, there came a voice unto him, and said, What dost thou here, Elijah c?

a Through Horror and Dread of God's Presence, being sensible that he was neither worthy nor able to endure the sight of God with open face, Compare Gen. 16. 13. with Exod. 3. 6. b Which God commanded him to do; and as he was going towards the mouth of the Cave, he was affrighted and stopped in his course, by the dreadful Wind, and Earthquake, and Fire; and, when these were past, he prosecutes his Journey, and goeth on to the mouth of the Cave, and there stands still. Or, the words may be rendred, After (as Vau is elsewhere used) he was gone out, and standing in the mouth of the cave: which may be mentioned as the reason why he covered his Face, because now he wanted the shelter of the Cave. c What before he spake by an Angel, he now speaks to him again immediately.

14 And he said, I have been very jealous for the LORD God of hosts: because the children of Israel have forsaken thy covenant, thrown down thine altars, and slain thy prophets with the sword; and I, even I only am left, and they seek my life, to take it away.

15 And the LORD said unto him, Go, return on thy way d to the wilderness of Damascus: and when thou comest, anoint Hazael to be king over Syria e.

d By which thou camest; for so in part lay the way from Horeb to Damascus. e Anoint: Either, First, Figuratively, i. e. appoint or declare him King; which was done, 2 King. 8. 12. For this Word is oft used of them who were never anointed with Oil, Psal. 45. 7. Isa. 45. 1. and 61. 1. Zech. 4. 14. Dan. 9. 24. Or, Secondly, Properly; which which might be done, though it be not related. Again, anoint, either, by thy self; or, by another: for so he anointed Jehu by Elisha, 2 King. 9. 1, 6.

16 And * Jehu the son of Nimshi f shalt thou anoint to be king over Israel: and * Elisha g the son of Shaphat of Abel-Meholah, shalt thou anoint to be prophet in thy room.
* 2 King. 9. 2, 3. * Luk. 4. 27. called Eliseus.

f i. e. His Grand-son, for he was the son of Jehoshaphat, 2 King. 9. 2. g Whom he constituted Prophet, by casting his Mantle over him, here, v. 19.

17 And it shall come to pass, that him that escapeth the sword of Hazael, shall Jehu slay: and him that escapeth from the sword of Jehu, shall Elisha slay h.

h Here the order of times seems to be perverted: for Elisha was Prophet before Jehu or Hazael were Kings, and Hazael was King before Jehu. But that is of no moment as to the substance of the thing threatned, which is only this, That one or other of these should infallibly execute God's Judgments upon the Apostatical Israelites. Elisha is said to slay them, either, because he slew those 42 Children, 2 King. 2. 24. besides others whom upon like occasions he might destroy; or, because he by God's appointment inflicted the Famine, 2 King. 6. 31. or rather, by the Sword which came out of his mouth, as Isa. 49. 2. Revel. 1. 16. and 19. 15, 21. by his Cutting-Prophecies and Threatnings of God's Judgments: the Prophets being said to pull down and to destroy what they only declare and foretel shall be pulled down, &c. Hazael began to slay them before Jehu was King, 2 King. 8. 28. though his Cruelty was much increased afterward, 2 King. 10. 32. and 13. 1, 2, 3. and Jehu destroyed those whom Hazael did not, as King Joram himself, and Ahaziah, and his 42 Brethren, 2 King. 9. 24, 27. and 10. 14. all the near Relations of wicked Ahab.

18 * Yet ‖ I have left i me seven thousand k in Israel, all the knees which have not bowed unto Baal, and every mouth which hath not kissed him l.
* Rom. 11. 4. ‖ Heb. I will cause.

i Or, I have reserved to my self; I have by my Grace kept from the common Contagion: therefore thou art mistaken to think that thou art left alone, or that the People are universally corrupted. Or, I will reserve, from the slaughters last mentioned, and from Jezebel's Rage. k Either, definitely so many: or rather, indefinitely, for many thousands; the number of seven being oft used for a great number, as Lev. 26. 18. Psal. 12. 6. Mic. 5, 5. Zech. 3. 9. Luk. 17. 4. For it is altogether improbable that all the Israelites, except 7000, did worship Baal: except Baal be here Synecdochically put for all their Idols, and the Calves among others. l i. e. All those who have not worshipped Baal, nor professed Reverence or Subjection to him: which Idolaters did to their Idols, by bowing the Knee, Rom. 11. 4. compare Rom. 14. 11. Phil. 2. 10. and by kissing them, or by kissing their Hand with their Mouth, before them, and in respect to them; of which mention is made both in Scripture, as Job 31. 26, 27. Hos. 13. 2. compare Psal. 2. 12. and in Pliny, Apuleius, and other profane Authors. And God chuseth these Expressions here, to teach men, that it is not sufficient to deny inward Veneration of Mind and Heart to Idols, unless they do also forbear all outward significations of Worship or Reverence to them; and that he will own none for his People that do otherwise.

19 ¶ So he departed thence, and found Elisha the son of Shaphat, who was plowing with twelve yoke of oxen before him, and he with the twelve m: and Elijah passed by him, and cast his mantle upon him n.

m Who had twelve Ploughs going, whereof eleven were managed by his Servants, and the last by himself; according to the simplicity and humility of those ancient times, in which Men of good Worth and Estate submitted themselves to the meaneset Employments. n By that Ceremony conferring upon him the Office of a Prophet, which God was pleased to accompany with the Gifts and Graces of his Spirit, wherewith he endowed and qualified him for it. The Mantle was the usual Habit of the Prophets. See 2 King. 1. 8. Zech. 13. 4. But whether he did also Anoint him, is uncertain. See the Note on ver. 16.

20 And he left the oxen, and ran after Elijah o, and said p, Let * me, I pray thee, kiss my father and my mother q, and then I will follow thee. And he said unto him, † Go back again r; for what have I done to thee s?
* Matth. 8. 21, 22. † Heb. Go, return.

o Being powerfully moved by God's Spirit to follow Elijah, and wholly to give up himself to his Function. p Or, but he said: or, yet he said. q i. e. Bid them farewell by the usual Ceremony. See Gen. 29. 11. and 31. 28. Act. 20. 37. r And take thy leave of them, as thou desirest, and then return to me again. s Either, First, To hinder thee from performing that Office. That Employment to which I have called thee, doth not require an Alienation of thy Heart from thy Parents, nor the total neglect of them. Or, Secondly, To make such a Change in thee, that thou shouldst be willing to forsake thy Parents, and Lands, and All, and desire only this Liberty to go and bid them farewel, that thou mayst follow me. Whence comes this marvellous Change? It is not from me, who did only throw my Mantle over thee; but from an higher Power, even from God's Spirit, which hath changed thy Heart, and consecrated thee to thy Prophetical Office: which therefore it concerns thee vigorously to execute, and wholly to devote thy self to it.

21 And he returned back from him t, and took a yoke of oxen, and slew them, and boiled their flesh with the instruments of the oxen u, and gave unto the people x, and they did eat: then he arose, and went after Elijah, and ministred unto him.

t From Elisha to his Parents; whom when he had seen and kissed, he returned to the Field where Elijah was. u i. e. With the Wood belonging to the Plow, &c. to which more was added, as occasion required. But that he burned, to shew his total relinquishing of his former Employment. x i. e. He made thereof a Feast for his Servants who had been Ploughing with him, and for him, and his other Friends and Neighbours who came to take their leave of him. Hereby he shewed how willingly and joyfully he forsook all his Friends, that he might serve God in that high and honourable Employment.

CHAP. XX.

Benhadad not content with Ahab's Homage, besiegeth Samaria, 1—12. By the Direction of a Prophet the Syrians are twice beaten: and Benhadad hides himself, 13—30. The Syrians submits themselves, and Ahab maketh a Covenant with Benhadad, 31—34. The Prophet by a Parable reproveth Ahab: and denounceth Judgments against him, 35—43.

AND Ben-hadad a the king of Syria gathered all his host together b, and there were thirty and two kings c with him, and horses, and chariots: and he went up and besieged Samaria, and warred against it.

a Called Adad by Josephus, and Ader by the LXX, and Adores by Justin; such Changes of Names being usual in their Translations into other Languages, and by other Authors. b To War against Israel: wherein his Design was to amplifie the Conquests which his Father had made, chap. 15. 20. but God's Design was to punish Israel for their Apostacy and Idolatry. c Petty Kings, such as were in Canaan in Joshua's time, who indeed were no more than Governours of Cities or small Territories. These were either Subject or Tributary to Benhadad, or hired by him.

2 And he sent messengers to Ahab king of Israel into the city, and said unto him, Thus saith Benhadad,

3 Thy silver and thy gold is mine d, thy wives also and thy children, even the goodliest are mine.

d I challenge them as my own, and accordingly expect to have them forthwith delivered into my Possession, if thou expectest Peace with me.

4 And the king of Israel answered and said, My lord, O king, according to thy saying, I am thine, and all that I have e.

e I do so far comply with thy Demand, that I will own thee for my Lord, and my self for thy Vassal and Tributary; and will hold my Wives, and Children, and Estate, as by thy Favour, and with an Acknowledgment. But it is not likely that he would deliver up his Wives and Children into the Barbarians hand, or that his proud and imperious Wife Jezebel would permit him to do so.

5 And the messengers came again, and said, Thus speaketh Ben-hadad, saying, Although I have sent unto thee, saying, Thou shalt deliver me thy silver and thy gold, and thy wives, and thy children f:

f Although I did before demand not only the Dominion of thy Treasures, and Wives, and Children, as thou mayst seem to understand me, but also the Propriety and actual Possession of them; wherewith I would then have been contented:

6 Yet I will send my servants unto thee to morrow about this time, and they shall search thine house, and the houses of thy servants; and it shall be, that whatsoever is † pleasant in thine eyes, they shall put it in their hand, and take it away g.

g Yet now I will not accept of those Terms, but together with thy Royal Treasures, I expect all the Treasures of thy Servants or Subjects; nor will I wait till thou deliver them to me, but I will send my Servants into the City, and they shall have free Liberty and Power to search out and take away all which they desire, and this to prevent Fraud and Delay; and then I will grant thee a Peace.

7 Then the king of Israel called all the elders of the land h, and said, Mark, I pray you, and see how this man seeketh mischief i: for he sent unto me for my wives, and for my children, and for my silver, and for my gold, and † I denied him not k.
† Heb. I kept not back from him.

h Whose Counsel and Concurrence he now desires in his Distress. i Though he pretended Peace, and a Friendly Agreement upon these Terms propounded, it is apparent by those Additional Demands, That he intends nothing less than our utter Ruin. k I granted his Demands in the sense before mentioned.

8 And all the elders, and all the people said unto him, Hearken not unto him, nor consent.

9 Wherefore he said unto the messengers of Ben-hadad, Tell my lord the king, All that thou didst send for to thy servant at the first, I will do: but this thing I may not do l. And the messengers departed, and brought him word again.

l If I would do it, I cannot, because my People will not suffer it.

10 And Ben-hadad sent unto him, and said, * The gods do so unto me, and more also, if the dust of Samaria shall suffice for handfuls for all the people that † follow me m.
* Chap. 19. 2.
† Heb. are at my feet.

m If I do not assault thy City with so potent and numerous an Army, that shall turn all thy City into an heap of Dust, and shall be sufficient to carry it all away, though every Soldier take but one handful of it: See the like Bnaft, 2 Sam. 17. 13.

11 And the king of Israel answered and said, Tell him, Let not him that girdeth on his harness, boast himself, as he that putteth it off n.
† Heb. Word.

n Do not Triumph before the Fight and Victory, for the Events of War are uncertain.

12 And it came to pass, when Benhadad heard this † message (as he was drinking, he, and the kings in the ‖ pavilions) that he said unto his servants, ‖ Set your selves in array. And they set themselves in array against the city.
Or, Tents. Or, Place the Engines. And they placed Engines.

o Put your selves and Engines in order, to make the Assault.

13 ¶ And behold, there † came a prophet unto † Heb. approached.

Ahab king of Israel, saying, Thus saith the LORD q, Hast thou seen all this great multitude? behold, I will deliver it into thine hand this day; and thou shalt know that I am the LORD r.

p Who having hid himself before, now ventures to come to Ahab, having this welcome Message in his Mouth. q God, though forsaken and neglected by Ahab, prevents him with his gracious Promise of Help: partly, That Ahab and the Idolatrous Israelites, might hereby be fully convinced and won to God, or left without all Excuse: and partly, that Benhadad's intolerable Pride, and Contempt of God, and of his People, might be repressed and punished: and partly, that the remnant of his Prophets and People who were involved in the same Calamity with the rest of the Israelites, might be preserved and delivered.

r And not Baal, because I will deliver thee, which he cannot do.

14 And Ahab said, By whom? And he said, Thus saith the LORD, Even by the || young men of the princes of the provinces s. Then he said, Who shall † order the battel? And he answered, Thou t.

|| Or, Servants. † Heb. bind, or tie.

s Not by Old and Experienced Soldiers, but by those Young Men; either the Sons of the Princes, and great Men of the Land, who were generally sled thither for Safety; or their Pages, or Servants that used to attend upon them; who are bred up delicately, and seem unfit for the business. t Partly to encourage the Young Men to Fight couragiously, as being in the Presence of their Prince: and partly, that it might appear, that the Victory was wholly due to God's gracious and powerful Providence, and not to the Valour or Worthiness of the Instruments.

15 Then he numbred the young men of the princes of the provinces, and they were two hundred and thirty two: and after them he numbred all the people, even all the children of Israel u, being seven thousand x.

u Either, 1. All the Men; for they only went out to Battel; and the rest of the Men might be consumed with the Sword or Famine, or other Judgments: Or rather, 2. All the Men of War, or all that were fit to go out to War; all, except those whom their Age, or Infirmity, or other sufficient Causes excused. x Which number may possibly be noted with respect unto those 7000, commended chap. 19. 18. for whose sakes principally God gave this deliverance.

16 And they went out at noon y: but Benhadad was drinking himself drunk in the pavilions, he and the kings, the thirty and two kings that helped him.

y When they were eating, and drinking, and secure from all fear and expectation of an Assault.

17 And the young men of the princes of the provinces went out first, and Benhadad sent out, and they told him, saying, There are men come out of Samaria.

18 And he said, Whether they be come out for peace, take them alive; or whether they be come out for war, take them alive z.

z He bids them not Fight, for he thought they needed not to strike one stroke; and that the Israelites could not stand the first brunt.

19 So these young men of the princes of the provinces came out of the city, and the army which followed them.

20 And they slew every one his man a: and the Syrians fled b, and Israel pursued them: and Benhadad the king of Syria escaped on an horse, with the horsemen.

a i. e. Him who came to Fight with him, or to seize upon him, as Benhadad had commanded. b Being amazed at the unexpected and undaunted Courage of the Israelites, and being struck with a Divine Terror.

21 And the king of Israel went out c, and smote the horses and chariots d, and slew the Syrians with a great slaughter.

c i. e. Proceeded further in his March, and Fought against them. d i. e. The men that fought from them, or belonged to them: for so Horses and Chariots are sometimes taken. See on 1 Sam. 13. 5.

22 ¶ And the prophet came to the king of Israel, and said unto him, Go, strengthen thy self, and mark, and see what thou doest e: for at the return of the year f the king of Syria will come up against thee.

e Consider what is fit and necessary for thee to do by way of Preparation, or Prevention. f Next Year about this time, when the Season comes of going forth to Battel: of which see 2 Sam. 11. 1. 1 Chron. 20. 1. 2 Chron. 36. 10.

23 And the servants of the king of Syria said unto him g, Their gods are gods of the hills, therefore they were stronger than we: but let us fight against them in the plain h, and surely we shall be stronger than they.

g They suppose that their gods were no better than the Syrian gods (which the Idolatry of the Israelites had given them too great Cause to imagine) and that there were many gods who had each his particular Charge and Jurisdiction; which was the Opinion of all Heathen Nations, That some were gods of the Woods, others of the Rivers, and others of the Mountains; and they fancied these to be the latter, because the Land of Canaan was a mountainous Land, Deut. 12. 2. And the great Temple of their God at Jerusalem stood upon an Hill, and so did Samaria, where they had received their last Blow: or because the Israelites did generally chuse High Places for the Worship of their gods. It is observable, that they do not impute their ill Success to their Negligence, and Drunkenness, and bad Conduct, or Cowardize, of which they were really guilty; nor to the Valour of the Israelites; but to a Divine Power, which indeed was visible in it. h Wherein there was not only Superstition, but Policy; because the Syrians most excelled the Israelites in Horses, which are most serviceable in plain Ground.

24 And do this thing, Take the kings away every man out of his place i, and put captains k in their rooms.

i Who being of softer Education, and less experienced in Military Matters, were less fit for his Service; and being many of them but Mercinaries, and therefore less concerned in his good Success, would be more negligent and cautious in venturing themselves for his good. k i. e. Experienced Soldiers of his own Subjects, who will faithfully obey the Commands of the General (to which the Kings would not so readily yield) and use their utmost Skill and Valour for their own Interest and Advancement.

25 And number thee an army, like the army † that thou hast lost, horse for horse, and chariot for chariot: and we will fight against them in the plain, and surely we shall be stronger than they. And he hearkned unto their voice, and did so.

† Heb. like the army that fell.

26 And it came to pass at the return of the year, that Benhadad numbred the Syrians, and went up to Aphek † to fight against Israel.

† Heb. to the War

l Not that in Judah; of which, Josh. 13. 4. and 15. 53. but that which is in Asher; of which, Josh. 19. 30. Judg. 1. 31. nigh unto which, was the great Plain of Galilee. And this seems to be one of those Cities which Benhadad's Father had taken from Israel, ver. 34. Here also the Syrians might retreat, if they should be worsted.

27 And the children of Israel were numbred, and || were all present m, and went against them n: and the children of Israel pitched before them o, like two little flocks of kids p: but the Syrians filled the country.

|| Or, were victualled.

m i. e. All the Forces of the Israelites were here gathered together, to oppose the Syrians: so if those had been conquered, all had been lost. n Being persuaded, and encouraged so to do; partly, to prevent the mischiefs of a Siege in Samaria, and the waste of all the rest of their Country: and partly, by the remembrance of their former Success, and an expectation of the same Assistance from God again. o Probably upon some hilly Ground, where they might secure themselves, and watch for Advantage against their Enemies; which may be the reason why the Syrians durst not assault them before the Seventh Day ver. 29. p i. e. Few, and Weak, and Heartless; being also for convenience of Fighting, and that they might seem to be more than they were, divided into Two Bodies.

28 ¶ And there came a man of God, and spake unto the king of Israel, and said, Thus saith the LORD, Because the Syrians have said q, The LORD is God of the hills, but he is not God of the valleys: therefore will I deliver all this great multitude into thine hand, and ye shall know that I am the LORD r.

q Which he knew, either by common Report, strengthned by their present Choice of a Plain Ground for the Battel: or rather, by Revelation from God, who discovereth their Secret Counsels, 2 King. 6. 12. r To wit, The Universal Lord of all Places, and Persons, and Things.

29 And they pitched one over against the other seven days, and so it was, that in the seventh day the battel was joined, and the children of Israel slew of the Syrians an hundred thousand footmen in one day.

30 But the rest fled to Aphek in the city, and the wall s fell upon twenty and seven thousand of the men that were left: and Benhadad fled, and came into the city t, || † into an inner chamber u.

|| Or, from chamber to chamber. † Heb. to a chamber, within a chamber.

s Or, the Walls (the Singular Number, for the Plural; than which, nothing more frequent) of the City; or of some great Castle, or Fort, in, or near the City, in which they were now fortifying themselves; or of some part of the City where they lay. Which might possibly happen through Natural Causes; but most probably, was effected by the mighty Power of God, then sending some sudden Earthquake, or violent Storm of Wind, which threw down the Wall, or Walls upon them; or doing this by the Ministry of Angels. Which cannot be incredible to any Man, except to him that denies the Truth of all the Miracles Recorded in the Old and New Testament; which being Attested, many of them, by Jews and Heathens, it is the height of Folly and Impudence to deny. For if ever Miracle was to be wrought, now seems to have been the proper time, and season for it; when the Blasphemous Syrians denied the Sovereign and Infinite Power of God, and thereby in some sort obliged him, for his own Honour, to give a Proof of it; and to shew, That he was the God of the Plains, as well as of the Mountains; and that he could as effectually destroy them in their strongest Holds, as in the open Fields; and make the very Walls, to whose Strength they trusted for their Defence, to be the Instruments of their Ruine. But it may be further observed, that it is not said, That all these were killed by the Fall of this Wall; but only that the wall fell upon them, Killing some, and Wounding others; as is usual in those cases. Nor is it necessary, that the Wall should fall upon every individual Person; but it is sufficient to justifie this Phrase, if it fell upon the main Body of them; for the Words in the Hebrew run thus, the Wall fell upon 27000 (not of the men that are left, as we render it, but) which were left of that great Army. t Either, 1. Out of the Fields, as the rest of his Army did. Which is distinctly, and particularly noted of him, because he was the most eminent Person in it, and the Head of it. Compare the Title of Psal. 18. Or, 2. At, and from the noise and report of that terrible Fall of the Wall, or Walls; which possibly might be in the outside, or Suburbs of the City; from whence he fled further into the City. u Or, a chamber, within a chamber; where he supposed he might be hid, till he had an opportunity of making an Escape, or of obtaining Mercy.

31 ¶ And his servants said unto him, Behold, now, we have heard that the kings of the house of Israel are merciful kings x: let us I pray thee, put sackcloth on our loins, and ropes upon our heads y, and go out to the king of Israel, peradventure he will save thy life.

x More merciful than others, because that Religion which they had professed, taught them Humanity, and obliged them to shew Mercy. y As a testimony of our sorrow, for undertaking this War; and that we have justly forfeited our Lives for it, which we submit to their Mercy.

32 So they girded sackcloth on their loins, and put ropes on their heads, and came to the king of Israel, and said, Thy servant Benhadad saith, I pray thee let me live. And he said, Is he yet alive? he is my brother z.

z I do not only freely Pardon him, but Honour and Love him as my Brother.

33 Now the men did diligently observe, whether any thing would come from him, and did hastily catch it a: and they said, Thy brother Benhadad b. Then he said, Go ye, bring him: then Benhadad came forth to him; and he caused him to come up into the chariot.

a Or, they took that Word for a good token, and made haste and snatched it (i. e. that Word) from him, i. e. from his Mouth; they repeated the Word again, to try whether the King would own it, or it only dropt casually from him; or made haste to know, whether it was from him: i. e. Whether he spoke this from his Heart, or only in Dissimulation or Design: for it seemed too good News to be true. b Understand, liveth: for that he enquired after, v. 32.

34 And Benhadad said unto him, The cities which my father took from thy father c, I will restore, and thou shalt make streets d for thee in Damascus, as my father made in Samaria. Then said Ahab, I will send thee away with this covenant e. So he made a covenant with him, and sent him away.

c Either, 1. From Baasha, Chap. 15. 20. whom he calls Ahab's Father, because he was his Legal Father; i. e. His Predecessor. Or, 2. From Omri; in whose time, it seems, he made a successful Invasion into the Land of Israel, and took some more of the Cities, and Aphek amongst the rest; though it be not elsewhere Recorded in Scripture. d Or, Markets, &c. places where thou mayst either receive the Tribute which I promise to pay thee, or exercise Judicature upon my Subjects in case of their Refusal. Or ouslets (as the LXX render it) in or into Damascus; i. e. Some strong Fort near Damascus, which might curb the Kings of Damascus, and keep them from attempting any other Invasion into the Land of Israel. e He takes no notice of his Blasphemy against God; nor of the vast Injuries which his People had suffered from him, but only minds his own Grandure, and the advancement of his Power.

35 ¶ And a certain man of the sons of the prophets said unto his neighbour f in the word of the LORD g, Smite me h, I pray thee. And the man refused to smite him i.

f Or, Brother, another Son of the Prophets. g In the Name, and by the Command of God, whereof doubtless he had informed him. h So as to wound me, ver. 37. He speaks what God commanded him, though it was to his own hurt; by which Obedience to God, he secretly reproacheth Ahab's Disobedience in a far easier matter. And this the Prophet by God's appointment desires, that looking like a wounded Soldier, he might have the more free access to the King, and discourse with him: which it was very hard for a Prophet to obtain, the sort of Men being hateful to Ahab, Chap. 22. 8. and to his Courtiers. i Not out of Contempt of God's Command, but most probably, in tenderness and compassion to his Brother.

36 Then said he unto him, Because thou hast not obeyed the voice of the LORD, behold, as soon as thou art departed from me, a lion shall slay thee. And as soon as he was departed from him, a * lion found him, and slew him k.

* Chap. 13. 24.

k If the Punishment seem too severe for so small a Fault, let it be considered; 1. That Disobedience to God's Express Command, especially when it is delivered by a Prophet, is a great Sin, and no less than Capital, Deut. 18. 19. 2. This Fault was much worse in a Prophet, who very well knew the Authority of God's Commands, and this way or manner of Publishing them. 3. We cannot judge of the Case, because this Man might be guilty of many other hainous Sins unknown to us, but known to God; for which, God might justly cut him off: which God chose to do upon this occasion, that by the severity of this Punishment of a Prophet's Disobedience, proceeding from pity to his Brother, he might teach Ahab the greatness of his Sin, in sparing him through foolish pity, whom by the Laws of Religion, and Justice, and Prudence, and common Safety, he should have Cut off, and what Punishment he might expect for it.

37 Then he found another man, and said, Smite me, I pray thee. And the man smote him, † so that in smiting he wounded him.

† Heb. smiting and wounding.

38 So the prophet departed, and waited for the king by the way, and disguised himself l with ashes m upon his face.

l That he might sooner gain Access to the King, and Audience from him. See on ver. 35. m Whereby he changed the Colour of it. Or, with a vail, or cloth, or hand; (as the Hebrew Doctors understand the Word) whereby he might seem to have bound up his Wound, which probably was in his Face; for it was to be made in a very conspicuous place, that it might be visible to Ahab and others.

39 And as the king passed by, he cried unto the king: and he said n, Thy servant went out into the midst of the battel, and behold, a man o turned aside, and brought a man unto me, and said, Keep this man: if by any means he be missing, then shall thy life be for his life p, or else thou shalt † pay a talent of silver.

n This following Relation is not an Untruth, but a Parable; an usual way of Instruction in the Eastern parts, and ancient Times, and most fit for this occasion, wherein an obscure Prophet was to speak to a great King; whose Ears were tender, and impatient of a down-right Reproof, and exceeding Partial in his own Cause; who by this Artifice is made to condemn himself, before he was aware of it, and so forced to receive the Prophet's just Sentence with more Patience and Moderation: Compare, 1 Sam. 12. and 14. o My Commander or Superior, as the manner of his Expression here following sheweth. p Thou shalt die in his stead; as below, ver. 42. Comp. Exod. 21. 23.

40 And as thy servant was busie here and there, † he was gone. And the king of Israel said unto him, So shall thy judgment q be, thy self hast decided it.

† Heb. he was not.

q i. e. Thy Sentence; or the Sentence against thee: thou must perform the Condition to which thou didst submit. Either suffer the one, or do the other.

41 And he hasted, and took the ashes away from his face: and the king of Israel discerned him that he was one of the prophets r.

r Either 1. By his Face, which was known either to the King, or to some of his Courtiers there present. Or, 2. By the change of the manner of his Address to him, which now was such as the Prophets used.

42 And he said unto him, Thus saith the LORD, * Because thou hast let go out of thy hand a man † whom I appointed to utter destruction, therefore thy life shall go for his life s, and thy people for his people t.

* Chap. 22. 37.

† Heb. of my Curse.

s Quest. What was the great Sin of Ahab in this Action, for which God so severely punisheth him? Answ. The great Dishonour hereby done to God, in suffering so horrid a Blasphemer, ver. 23. to go unpunished, which was contrary to an express Law, Levit. 24. 16. Obj. What is this to Benhadad, seeing that Law concerned Israelites only? Answ. It reached both to them that were born in the land, and (as is there expressed) unto strangers that were among them, and in their Power, which was Benhadad's case; for God had delivered him into Ahab's hand, for his Blasphemy, as he promised to do, v. 28. by which act of his Providence, especially compared with that Law, it was most evident, that this man was appointed by God to Destruction, as is here said. But Ahab was so far from punishing this Blasphemer, that he doth not so much as Rebuke him, but Treats him like a Friend, and a Brother; dismisseth him upon easie Terms, and takes his Word for the Performance, and takes not the least Care for the Reparation of God's Honour, but only for the Amplification of his own Power. t Quest. Why were the People punished for Ahab's Sin? Answ. 1. Because Ahab was punished in the loss of his People. 2. The People were punished for their own Sins, which were many, and great; though God took this occasion to inflict it. 3. The great injury and mischief was hereby done to his own People; who by this most foolish and wicked act, were exposed to all those Rapines and Slaughters which Benhadad either did commit, or might have committed against them afterwards; of which, consequently Ahab was guilty. And it must be considered, That all the Israelites were the Lord's peculiar people; nor did their Apostacy from God, deprive God of his right; and the Kings of Israel and Judah had these committed to them, in way of Truft, to be Governed and Protected by them. And therefore Ahab for this gross breach of his Truft, was justly liable, though not to the Censures of his People, yet to the Hand of God, who was his King and Governour.

43 And the king of Israel went to his house, heavy and displeased u, and came to Samaria.

u Not for his Sin, but for the sad Effects of it upon himself, and People; which he might confidently expect, having had many experiences, that God did not suffer the Words of his Prophets to fall to the ground.

CHAP. XXI.

Ahab coveteth to buy Naboth's Vineyard: Which is denied him, and he is grieved, 1——4. Jezebel writeth Letters against Naboth: He is condemned of Blasphemy, and stoned, 5——14. Ahab possesseth the Vineyard, 15, 16. Elijah denounceth Judgment against Ahab and Jezebel, 17——26. He repenting, God deferreth the Judgment, 27——29.

AND it came to pass after these things, that Naboth the Jezreelite had a vineyard, which was in Jezreel a, hard by the palace of Ahab king of Samaria.

a Where one of Ahab's Palaces was, as the other was in Samaria.

2 And Ahab spake unto Naboth, saying, Give me thy * vineyard that I may have it for a garden of herbs, because it is near unto my house, and I will give thee for it a better vineyard than it: or if it † seem good to thee, I will give thee the worth of it in money.

* 1 Sam. 8. 14.

† Heb. be good in thine eyes.

3 And Naboth said to Ahab, the LORD forbid it me, that I should give the inheritance of my fathers unto thee b.

b For God hath expressly, and for divers weighty Reasons forbidden the alienation of Lands from the Tribes and Families to which they were allotted, Levit. 25. 15, 23, 25. Numb. 36. 7. Ezek. 46. 18. And although these might have been alienated till the Jubilee, yet he durst not sell it to the King for that time; because he supposed, that if once it came into the King's Hand, especially to be made a Garden of Pleasure, and affixed to his Palace, neither he, nor his Posterity, could ever recover it again; and so he should both offend God, and wrong his Posterity; which, being, as it seems, a Pious Man, he durst not do.

4 And Ahab came into his house, heavy and displeased, because of the word which Naboth the Jezreelite had spoken to him: for he had said, I will not give thee the inheritance of my fathers: and he laid him down upon his bed, and turned away his face c, and would eat no bread d.

e From the Light, and Company which either then were with him, or might come to him, to the Wall, as Hezekiah did under a like dejection of Spirit, Isa. 38. 2. d Refused to eat meat in his usual time.

5 ¶ But Jezebel his wife came to him, and said unto him, Why is thy spirit so sad, that thou eatest no bread?

6 And he said unto her, Because I spake unto Naboth the Jezreelite, and said unto him, Give me thy vineyard for money; or else, if it please thee, I will give thee another vineyard for it: and he answered, I will not give thee my vineyard.

7 And Jezebel his wife said unto him, Doest thou now govern the kingdom of Israel e? arise, and eat bread, and let thine heart be merry: I will give thee the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite.

e Art thou fit to be King, that canst put up such Affronts from thy Subjects, and hast not the Courage to use thy Absolute Power to dispose of them, and theirs, as seemeth good unto thee?

8 So she wrote letters in Ahabs name, and sealed them with his seal, and sent the letters unto the elders, and to the nobles f that were in his city g dwelling with Naboth.

f Whom she very well knew to be fit for her purpose. g i. e. In Jezreel. So she seeks to destroy him with a pretence of Justice, and with as little reflection upon Ahab, as might be.

9 And she wrote in the letters, saying, Proclaim a fast b, and set Naboth ‖ on high i among the people.

Heb. in the top of the people.

b To remove all suspicion of hatred, or evil design in Ahab, and to beget a good opinion of him amongst his People, as if his Afflictions had done him good, and as if he were grown zealous for Gods Honour, and careful of his Peoples welfare, and therefore desirous to prevent the further displeasure of God against his City and Kingdom, and in order thereunto, to enquire into all those sins which provoked God against them, and effectually to purge them out. i In a Scaffold, or some other high-place, where Malefactors were usually and fitly Placed, that they might be seen, and their defence heard by all the People.

10 And set two men, sons of Belial, before him, to bear witness against him, saying, Thou didst ‖ * blaspheme k God and the king: and then carry him out l, and * stone him m that he may die n.

Heb. bless. So Gr.

k Heb. Bless. Blessing is put for cursing and blaspheming, as Job 1. 5. and 2. 9. also here, as is apparent, because his blessing God and the king had been no Crime. It is a Figure called Euphemismus. God would have Blasphemy so much abhorred, that it should not easily and unnecessarily be named by its proper name. Compare Psal. 16. 4. l To the place where Malefactors were punished, which was out of the City, Lev. 24. 23. Jos. 7. 24. Mar. 15. 20. Heb. 13. 12. partly, to shew that they were unworthy of all humane society, and abhorred by all the people: and partly, because the place where they were killed, was thereby ceremonially polluted. m The proper punishment of Blasphemers, Lev. 24. 15, 16. n As one that cursed his God, and his Political Father, his King. See Exod. 21. 17. and 22. 28.

Job 2. 5, 9. Act. 6. 11 * Lev. 24. 14.

11 And the men of his city, even the elders, and the nobles, who were the inhabitants in his city, did as Jezebel had sent unto them o, and as it was written in the letters which she had sent unto them.

o Which is not at all strange in them who had for a long time cast off the fear and sense of God, and prostituted their Consciences and Religion to please their King, and sold themselves to all manner of wickedness, and could not now make a safe and honourable retreat, and durst not disobey Jezebel's command, by whom they knew the King was wholly governed, and who could easily have taken away their Lives in the same manner, if they had refused to kill Naboth.

12 They proclaimed a Fast, and set Naboth on high among the people.

13 And there came in two men, children of Belial, and sat before him: and the men of Belial witnessed against him, even against Naboth, in the presence of the people, saying, Naboth did ‖ blaspheme God and the king. Then they carried him forth out of the city, and stoned * him p with stones that he died.

Heb. bless. So Gr.

p And his Sons with him, as it may be thought from 2 King. 9. 26. that so the King might have an undisturbed possession: for which they might pretend those examples, Numb. 16. 32. Jos. 7. 24. But these were examples of extraordinary vengeance, and by special Warrant from God; and the Law of God was positively contrary to it, Deut. 24. 16.

2 Kin. 9. 26.

14 Then they sent to Jezebel q, saying, Naboth is stoned, and is dead.

q By whom they knew the Affairs of the Kingdom were managed, and this Design contrived.

15 ¶ And it came to pass, when Jezebel heard that Naboth was stoned, and was dead, that Jezebel said to Ahab, Arise, take possession of the vineyard of Naboth r the Jezreelite, which he refused to give thee for money: for Naboth is not alive, but dead.

r Either, First, By right of Confiscation, to repair the injury which he did to the King by blaspheming him. Or, Secondly, By tyrannical Usurpation. Or, Thirdly, By right of Inheritance: for some say that Ahab was his next Kinsman, his Sons being Dead; which they judge more likely, because his Land was next to the Kings.

16 And it came to pass, when Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, that Ahab rose up to go down to the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, to take possession of it.

17 ¶ And the word of the LORD came to Elijah the Tishbite, saying, 18 Arise, go down to meet Ahab king of Israel, which is in Samaria f: behold, he is t in the vineyard of Naboth, whither he is gone down to possess it.

f Either, who now is there, and about to depart thence to Jezreel: or, who commonly dwells there. t Or rather, he will be; by that time that thou comest thither, thou shalt find him there.

19 And thou shalt speak unto him, saying, Thus saith the LORD, Hast thou killed, and also taken possession u? And thou shalt speak unto him, saying, Thus saith the LORD, in the place where dogs licked the Blood of Naboth, shall dogs lick thy blood, even thine x.

u Thou hast murdered an Innocent and Righteous Man; and instead of repenting for it, thou hast added another piece of injustice and violence to it, and art going confidently and chearfully to reap the Fruit of thy wickedness. He ascribes Jezebel's Fact to Ahab, because Jezebel did it by his Connivance, and Consent, and Authority, and for the satisfaction of his inordinate Appetite. x Quest. How was this fulfilled, when Ahab's blood was not licked in Jezreel, which was in the Tribe of Issachar, but in the Pool of Samaria, chap. 22. 38. which was in the Tribe of Ephraim? Ans. First, This was done, though not in the same individual place, yet in the same general place, i. e. in the Territory of Samaria, within which Jezreel was; and in a place of the same nature, a publick and common place; for such was both the place of Naboth's Execution, and the Pool of Samaria. Secondly, This was particularly accomplished in his Son Joram, as is affirmed, 2 King. 9. 25, 26. whose blood is not improperly called Ahab's blood, because Children are said to be born of their Parents blood. See Job. 1. 13. Att. 17. 26. Obj. These words, thy blood, even thine, shew that it is meant of Ahab's Person. Ans. True, the threatning was so directed and designed at first; but afterwards, upon his humiliation, the punishment was transferred from him to his Son, as is expressed, ver. 29. Obj. This is said to be fulfilled in Ahab's Person, chap. 22. 38. Ans. Either that may be referred to some other Prediction or Commination not elsewhere mentioned: or rather, it intimates, that it was in part, and in some sort fulfilled in him, though not so severely and opprobriously, nor with such Characters of the Curse as it was in his Son; whence he there mentions only the thing, without any regard unto the place here designed. But it may further be observed, That although upon Ahab's humiliation the Curse here threatned might seem to be wholly transferred from his Person to his Posterity; yet upon Ahab's return to sin, in the next Chapter, he brings back the Curse upon himself, and so it is no wonder if it be in some sort fulfilled in him also. Thirdly, The Hebrew word, rendred in the place where, may be, and is by some learned men otherwise rendred, either thus, Instead of this that; that being frequently said to be done in anothers place, which was onely done in his stead: or, like as: or, because that. So it doth not design the place, but the cause and reason of this Judgment. And in this sense the same word is used, Zech. 2. 10.

20 And Ahab said to Elijah y, Hast thou found me z, O mine enemy a? And he answered, I have found thee b: because thou hast sold thy self c to work evil in the sight of the LORD d.

Comp. ch. 22. 8. b The hand of God hath found and overtaken thee in the very act of thy sin. c Thou hast wilfully and wholly resigned up thy self to be the bondslave of the Devil, or Baal, and of wicked Jezebel, to do whatsoever they perswade thee to do; as a man that sells himself to another is totally in his Masters Power, and must employ all his time and strength for his service. Compare 2 King. 17. 17. See on Rom. 7. 14. d i. e. Impudently and and contemptuously. What he minds him, that although his sin was in a great measure hid from the eyes of men by Jezebel's cunning contrivance, yet it was evident and known to God, who would require it at his Hands.

But this humiliation or repentance of Ahab's was only external and superficial, arising from the terror of God's Judgments; and not sincere and serious, proceeding from the Love of God, or a true sense of his sin, or a solemn purpose of amendment of his Life, as appears, because all the particulars of his repentance here, ver. 27. are external and ritual only; nor is there the least intimation of any one sign or fruit of his true repentance, as that he restored Naboth's Land, or reproved his infamous Wife; but in the very next Chapter you find him returning to his former Vomit, hating and threatning the Lords Prophets, &c. m i. e. The Judgment threatned, both that ver. 19. which was not inflicted upon Ahab with so much ignominy, and with that particular signature of Gods vengeance, that it was to be done in the same place, as it was upon his Son Joram; and especially that, ver. 21, 22. which was wholly suspended until his Sons days.

CHAP. XXII.

Ahab intending War against the Syrians, is advised by Jehoshaphat first to ask Counsel of God: Ahab's Prophets advise him to it, especially Zedekiah, 1——12. Micaiah, a Prophet of the Lord, dissuadeth him from it: And is put in Prison by Ahab, 13——28. Ahab goeth to the Battel, is slain: The Dogs lick his Blood; and Ahaziah succeedeth him, 29——40. Jehoshaphat's good Reign over Judah: His Acts and Death: Jehoram succeedeth him, 41——50. Ahaziah's evil Reign, 51——53.

AND they a continued three years b without war between Syria and Israel.

a The Syrians and Israelites designed in the following words. b Computed from the last War and League wherewith it was concluded: because both Ahab and Benhadad were so weakned and broken by the late Wars, that they needed and desired Peace to recruit themselves, and repair their former losses.

2 And it came to pass in the third year, that * Jehoshaphat the King of Judah came down to the king of Israel c.

* 2 Chron. 18. 1, &c.

c Having now, as he supposed, made a firm peace with Ahab by the Alliance contracted between Joram his Son, and Athaliah, Ahab's Daughter; Of which see 2 King. 8. 26. 2 Chron. 18. 1.

3 (And the king of Israel said unto his servants, Know ye that * Ramoth in Gilead is ours d, and we be ‖ still, and take it not out of the hand of the king of Syria?)

* 2 Chron. 6. 7. ‖ Or, silent from taking it.

4 And he said unto Jehoshaphat, Wilt thou go with me to battel to Ramoth-gilead? And Jehoshaphat said to the king of Israel, * I am as thou art, my people as thy people, my horses as thy horses e.

* 2 King. 3. 7.

e I will heartily and effectually join with thee; and my Forces shall be at thy service, as much as thine own.

5 And Jehoshaphat said unto the king of Israel, Enquire f I pray thee, at the word of the LORD to day.

f By some Prophet; that we may know the mind of God in it, and what success we may expect. This was the practice of the Godly. See Judg. 1. 1. and 20. 28. 1 Sam. 23. 2.

6 Then the king of Israel gathered the prophets g together, about four hundred men, and said unto them, Shall I go against Ramoth-gilead to battel, or shall I forbear? And they said, Go up: for the LORD shall deliver it into the hand of the king.

g Which doubtless were his own false Prophets, or the Priests of Baal; probably those very 400 Men whom Jezebel preferred from that great slaughter, chap. 18. who yet gave in their Answer in the Name of Jehovah, not of Baal; either, in compliance with Jehoshaphat; or rather, by Ahab's direction, that good Jehoshaphat might be deceived by them, into a good opinion of the War.

7 And Jehoshaphat said, Is there not here a Prophet of the LORD besides h, that we might enquire of him?

h Besides these, who may seem to be such by your Opinion, and their own profession: but I desire further satisfaction from some other Prophet.

8 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, There is yet one i man (Micaiah k the son of Imlah) by whom we may enquire of the LORD; but I hate him, for he doth not prophesie good concerning me, but evil l. And Jehoshaphat said, Let not the king say so m.

i To wit, in this place, for whom I can speedily send: for there were also other Prophets elsewhere in the Kingdom, as Elijah, Elisha, and others: but these were not at hand for the present occation. k Not one of the 12 Prophets, who lived about 150 Years after this time, but another of that name. l He is always a messenger of evil tidings: which was true, but no sufficient reason why he should hate him, because Micaiah was purely God's Instrument in all his Messages: and whatsoever evil he threatned, Ahab himself was the cause and procurer of it. m Do not prefage evil to our enterprize: let us neither hate his person, nor despise his message; but first hear it, and then do as we see cause.

9 Then the king of Israel called an ‖ Officer, and said, ‖ Or, Eunuch. Hasten hither Micaiah, the son of Imlah.

10 And the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat the king of Judah, sat each on his throne, having put on their robes n, in a ‖ void place o in the entrance of the gate of Samaria; and all the prophets prophesied before them. ‖ Heb. floor.

11 And Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah made him horns of iron p: and he said, Thus saith the LORD q, With these shalt thou push the Syrians, until thou have consumed them.

p Fit emblems of the Power and Victory of these two Kings. The Devil is God's Ape and the false Prophets sometimes imitating the true, who when they declared God's mind by words, did also oftentimes confirm it by sensible signs. See Isa. 20. 2. Jer. 27. 2. q Heb. Jehovah: whose Name he pretends, to gain the more credit and countenance to his words. See on v. 7.

12 And all the prophets prophesied so, saying, Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and prosper: for the LORD shall deliver it into the kings hand.

13 And the Messenger that was gone to call Micaiah, spake unto him, saying, Behold now, the words of the prophets declare good unto the king with one mouth: let thy word, I pray thee, be like the word of one of them, and speak that which is good r.

r This he designs, not out of any Love to Micaiah (whom he perswades to debauch his Conscience), but meerly out of a desire to gratify his Kings humour.

14 And Micaiah said, As the LORD liveth, what the LORD saith unto me s, that will I speak.

s What answer God shall put into my mind and mouth; which, it seems, was not yet done.

15 ¶ So he came to the king, and the king said unto him, Micaiah, shall we go against Ramoth-gilead to battel, or shall we forbear? And he answered him t, Go, and prosper: for the LORD shall deliver it into the hand of the king.

t Not seriously, but ironically, using the very words of the false Prophets, in way of derision: As appears, First, From his omission of that Solemn Preface, Thus saith the Lord; or, this is the word of the Lord, which the Prophets generally used, and which himself useth when he comes to his serious answer, v. 19. Secondly, From Ahab's reply, ver. 16. which shews that he suspected Micaiah's sincerity in that answer, and gathered by his gesture or manner of speaking, that he spake onely mimically, as representing and traducing the false Prophets for their answer. See the like Ironical passages, Gen. 3. 22. Judg. 10. 14. 1 King. 18. 27. Eccles. 11. 9. Ezek. 20. 39. Amos 4. 4, 5. All which expressions are not used to lead Men into mistakes, but to bring them to the sight of their sin and duty; which may be done sometimes most efficaciously in this way. So Micaiah's meaning is plainly this, Because thou dost not seek to know the truth, but only to please thy self, go to the Battel, as all thy Prophets advise thee, and expect the success which they promise thee, and try the truth of their Prediction by thy own costly experience.

16 And the king said unto him, How many times shall I adjure thee u, that thou tell me nothing, but that which is true in the Name of the LORD?

u I adjure thee again and again, that thou give over this mockery, and seriously tell me the mind of God in this matter.

17 And he said, I saw x all Israel * scattered upon the hills y, as sheep that have not a shepherd z: and the LORD said, These have no master, let them return every man to his house in peace a.

See Matth. 24. 16. z As people who have lost their King. See Num. 27. 17. Isa. 40. 11. and 44. 28. Ezek. 34. 23. a Discharged from the War: which was fulfilled, v. 26.

18 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, Did I not tell thee, that he would prophesie no good concerning me, but evil b?

b Now thou seest my words verified, and this man shewing his hatred by this malignant and treasonable Prophecy, and how little heed is to be given to his words. Which crafty insinuation seems to have had too great an influence upon good Jehoshaphat; otherwise, he would never have gone to the Battel.

19 And he said, Hear thou therefore c the word of the LORD: I saw d the LORD sitting on his throne, * and * all the host of Heaven e standing by him f, on his right hand, and on his left.

who are oft called Gods host or hosts, because of their great number, excellent order, and constant readiness to attend upon God, and to execute his Commands. See Gen. 2. 1. Psal. 103.21. and 148.2. These Angels were both good and bad, the one possibly on his right, the other on his left hand. Nor is it strange that the Devils are called the host of Heaven; if you consider, First, That their original seat was in Heaven, and men in Scripture are oft called by the name of the place from whence they came. Secondly, That the name of heaven is oft given to all that part of the World which is above the Earth, and among the rest, to the Air, as Gen. 1. 20. and 7. 11. and 8. 2. and 27. 28. Deut. 4. 11. and 11. 11. where the Devils refidence and dominion lies, Eph. 2. 2. and that both Michael and his Angels, and the Dragon and his Angels, are said to be, and to wage war in heaven, Revel. 12. 7. i. e. either the Air, or the Church. And this place is not to be understood as if Micaiah had seen with his bodily Eyes, the Lord and his Angels sitting in the third Heaven; but that he saw a representation of the Divine Presence in the Air, attended with good and bad Angels. f In the posture of Ministers, to receive and execute his Commands.

20 And the LORD said, Who shall ‖ perswade Ahab g, that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-gilead? And one said on this manner, and another said on that manner.

g This is not to be grosly understood, as if God did ask and take counsel from his Creatures, or were at a loss to find out an expedient to accomplish his own Will; did consider several ways, and then close with that which upon debate appeared to be best; all which, it is ridiculous to imagine concerning a God of perfect and infinite knowledge; but only to bring down divine things to our shallow Capacities, and to express the various means which God hath to execute his own Designs.

21 And there came forth a spirit b, and stood before the LORD, and said, I will perswade him.

b An evil Spirit came out of the knot or company of them, standing possibly on the left hand, and presented himself before the Throne, as having something to say to the Lord.

22 And the LORD said unto him, Wherewith? And he said, I will go forth, and I will be a lying spirit in the
* Judg. 9. 23. mouth of all his prophets k. And he said, * Thou shalt perswade him, and prevail also l: go forth, and do so m.

k I will inspire a Lie into the Minds and Mouths of his Prophets. l I will give them up into thy hands, and blind their minds, and leave them to their own ignorance and wickedness, which will certainly lead them into dreadful miftakes. m This is not a Command, but only a Permission; which is oft expressed in the Imperative Mood; as 1 Sam. 16. 10. Matth. 8. 22. Joh. 13. 27. I will not hinder thee from tempting them, nor give them Grace to withstand their temptation; whereby thou mayst be assured of Success.

23 Now therefore behold, the LORD hath put a lying spirit in the mouth of all these thy prophets, and the LORD hath spoken evil concerning thee.

24 But Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah n went near,
* 2 Chr. 18. 23. and smote Micaiah on the cheek o, and said, * Which way went the spirit of the LORD from me to speak unto thee p?

For as much as I and my Brethren have consulted the Lord, and answered in his Name, and have the same Spirit which thou pretendest to have, and not a lying Spirit, as thou dost falsly and maliciously affirm, How is it possible that the same Spirit should tell us one thing, and thee the quite contrary?

‖ Or, from chamber, to chamber. † Heb. a chamber in a chamber.

25 And Micaiah said, Behold, thou shalt see in that day, when thou shalt go ‖ into † an inner chamber to hide thy self q.

26 And the King of Israel said, Take Micaiah, and carry him back r unto Amon the governour of the city, and to Joash the kings son:

r To wit, into Prison; where it seems, he was before shut up; for so the Lords Prophets were used by Ahab. And some think he was the Deliverer of that unwelcome Message, chap. 20. 41, 42.

27 And say, Thus saith the king, Put this fellow in the prison, and feed him with bread of affliction, and with water of affliction s, until I come in peace t.

See Deut. 16. 3. 2 Chr. 18. 26. Isa. 30. 20. t Until I return in Triumph, which I doubt not I shall do in spight of all his malicious Suggestions to the contrary, and then I shall call him to an account for all his Lies and Impudence.

28 And Micaiah said, If thou return at all in peace, the LORD hath not spoken by me u. And he said x, Hearken, O people, every one of you.

u I acknowledge my self to be an Impostor, and to deserve Death. x i. e. Micaiah, the Person last named, being assured of the Truth of his Prophecy, calls all the People to be Witnesses of it.

29 So the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat the king of Judah y went up to Ramoth-gilead.

y Who, though a good Man, yet was easily deceived in this matter; partly, because Micaiah was a Person unknown to him, and both he and the other Prophets pretending to give their Answer in the Name of the Lord, it seemed hard to him to determine the Controversie, which only the Event could decide; and therefore it is no wonder if he was over-born by the vast Disproportion of 400 Prophets to one, and by his Relation, and Obligation, and Affection to Ahab: and partly, because the War was Just and Lawful to recover his own Rights, which the Syrian King unjustly detained from him.

30 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, ‖ I will disguise my self z, and enter into the battel, but put ‖ Or, he was disguised thou on thy robes a. And the king of Israel disguised himself, and went into the battel. and entred

31 But the king of Syria commanded his thirty and two captains, that had rule over his chariots b, saying, Fight neither with small nor great, save onely with the king of Israel c.

b And the Men that fought from them, or with them, i. e. his whole Army. Possibly the Chariots and the whole Army were distributed into thirty two several parts, and each Captain ruled those Chariots and Soldiers attending upon them, which fell to his share. c This he ordered, either in Policy, truly supposing this to be the best way to put an end to the War: or, with Design to take him Prisoner, that thereby he might wipe out the stain of his own Captivity, and recover the Honour and Advantage which then he lost: or rather, by the Power and Providence of God, which disposeth the Hearts of Kings as he pleaseth; and inclined them to this course, that they might, though ignorantly, accomplish his Word and Counsel.

32 And it came to pass, when the captains of the chariots saw Jehoshaphat, that they said, Surely it is the king of Israel. And they turned aside d to fight against him: and Jehoshaphat cried out e.

d They drew their Forces from their several quarters towards Jehoshaphat. e To the Lord for Help, 2 Chron. 18. 31.

33 And it came to pass, when the captains of the chariots perceived that it was not the king of Israel f, that they turned back from pursuing him.

f Which they easily perceived; either, by the Words uttered to God or them; or, by the difference of his Shape and Countenance from that of Ahab, which probably many of them very well knew.

35 And the battel † increased k that day: and the king was stayed up l in his chariot against the Syrians, and died at even, and the blood ran out of the wound, into the † midst of the chariot.

k i. e. Grew hot and violent. l Was supported by Cordials, or by being his Servants, that by his Presence he might encourage his Soldiers to Fight more couragiously, and that he might see the event of the Battel.

† Heb. stood.

36 And there went a proclamation throughout the host m, about the going down of the sun, saying, Every man to his city, and every man to his own country n.

m Probably by Jehoshaphat's Order, with the Consent of the chief Captains of Israel; and possibly with the permission of the King of Syria, upon notice of Ahab's Death, which was the only thing at which he aimed, v. 31. n The King is dead, and the Battel ended: and therefore every man hath liberty to return to his own House and private occasions.

† Heb. came.

37 ¶ So the king djed, and † was brought to Samaria, and they buried the king in Samaria.

38 And one washed the chariot in the pool of Samaria, and the dogs licked up his blood o, and they washed his armour, according * unto the word of the LORD, which he spake p.

39 Now the rest of the acts of Ahab, and all that he did, and the ivory house q which he made, and all the cities that he built, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

q Heb. the house of the tooth or teeth, to wit, of Elephants: See chap. 10. 18. Not that it was made wholly of solid Ivory, but because the other materials were covered, or intermixed, or adorned with Ivory. Compare Amos 3. 15.

in Jerusalem: and his mothers name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi.

s Part, by himself; and partly, with his Sons whom he took into the Fellowship of his Kingdom. Of which, see more on 2 King. 1. 17.

43 And he walked in all the ways of Asa his father t, he turned not aside from it, doing that which was right in the eyes of the LORD: nevertheless, the high places were not taken away u; for the people offered and burnt incense yet in the high places.

t He took the same care for the government of his Kingdom; and especially for the reformation of Religion, that Asa did: of whom, see Chap. 15. 11. u Object. It is said, he did take them away, 2 Chron. 17. 6. Answ. He took away those which were erected to Idols; of which, he seems to speak there, because the high places are there joined with Groves, which were generally erected to Idols, and not to the True God, as will appear to any one that shall compare all the Scriptures where groves are mentioned; but he could not take away those which were erected to the True God; of which, this place manifestly speaks; as also that parallel place, 1 King. 15. 14. where see the note. Or, he took them away, but not fully; or not in the very beginning of his Reign.

44 And Jehoshaphat made peace with the king of Israel x.

x With Ahab first; and then with his Son. This is noted as a Blemish in his Government, 2 Chron. 19. 2. and proved of most mischievous Consequence to Jehoshaphat's Posterity; as we shall see 2 King. 9. and 10.

45 Now the rest of the acts of Jehoshaphat, and his might that he shewed, and how he warred, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah y?

y Whence the most memorable Passages were Translated into that Canonical Book of the Chronicles.

46 And the remnant of the Sodomites z which remained in the days of his father Asa, he took out of the land.

z Of whom see Deut. 23. 17. 1 King. 14. 24. and 15. 12.

47 There was then no king in Edom: a deputy a was king.

a Sent, and set over them by the Kings of Judah, from the time of David, 2 Sam. 8 14. until the days of Jehoram, 2 Chron. 21. 8.

48 Jehoshaphat ‖ made ships b of Tharshish c to go to Ophir d for gold: but they went not; for the ships were broken at Ezion-geber e.

‖ Or, had the ships.

b As it is expressed, 2 Chron. 20. 36. Or, there were to Jehoshaphat ten ships: the Ellipsis of the Verb Substantive, and of the Præfix Lamed, being frequent in the Hebrew Language. Some render the Words, he made ten ships; so joining both Texts together, and out of both compleating the sence. c Either, 1. Of the Sea, as this Word is thought sometimes to be used. Or, rather 2. To go to Tarshish, (as it is expressed, 2 Chron. 20. 36.) and thence to Ophir, as it here follows. See more on 1 King. 10. 22. d Of which, See 1 King. 9. 28. e Which was in Edom, and consequently in Jehoshaphat's Territories.

49 Then said Ahaziah the son of Ahab unto Jehoshaphat, Let my servants go with thy servants in the ships, but Jehoshaphat would not f.

f Obj. It is said, that he did joyn with Ahaziah herein, 2 Chron. 20. 35, 36. Answ. That was before this time, and before the Ships were broken: for the breaking of the Ships mentioned here, ver. 48. is noted to be the Effect of his Sin, in joyning with Ahaziah, and of the Prophecy consequent upon it, 2 Chron. 20. 37. And good Jehoshaphat being warned and chastised by God for this sin, would not be perswaded to repeat it; whereby he shewed the sincerity of his Repentance.

50 ¶ And Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his Father: and Jehoram his son reigned in his stead.

51 ¶ Ahaziah the son of Ahab began to reign over Israel in Samaria the seventeenth year of Jehoshaphat g king of Judah, and reigned two years h over Israel.

g By comparing this Verse with ver. 41. it appears, that Ahaziah was made King by his Father, and Reigned in Conjunction with him a year or two before Ahab's Death, and as long after it; even as Jehoram the son of Jehoshaphat was made King by his Father in his Life-time, as we shall see hereafter; which possibly was done in compliance with Ahab's desire upon Marriage of his Daughter to Jehoshaphat's Son; and it may be Ahab, to induce and encourage him to do so, gave him an Example of it, and made his Son his Partner in the Kingdom. h Either after his Father's Death: or one before it, and another after it.

52 And he did evil in the sight of the LORD, and walked in the way of his father, and in the way of his mother, and in the way of Jeroboam i the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin.

i Which Clause seems here added, to shew, how little the Authority and Example of Parents, or Ancestors, is to be valued, where it is oppoſed to the Will and Word of God.

53 For he served Baal, and worshipped him, and * provoked to anger the LORD God of Israel, according to all that his father had done.

* By so doing.

II. KINGS.

CHAP. I.

Moab rebelleth against Israel, 1. Ahaziah being sick sendeth to Baalzebub: Elijah foretelleth his Death, 1——4. Ahaziah hearing it, sendeth twice Captains of 50, to bring Elijah to him: Upon whom he bringeth Fire from Heaven, 5——12. The third Captain entreateth Elijah: Who encouraged by an Angel, goeth and telleth the King of his Death, 13——16. Jehoram succeedeth him, 17——18.

THEN Moab a rebelled against Israel, * after the death of Ahab.

* Chap. 3. 5.

a Which had been subdued by David, 2 Sam. 8. 2. as Edom was; and upon the division of this Kingdom into two, Moab was adjoined to that of Israel, and Edom to that of Judah, each to that Kingdom upon which it bordered. And when the Kingdoms of Israel and Judah were weak and forsaken by God, they took that opportunity to Revolt from them; Moab here, and Edom a little after it.

2 And Ahaziah fell down through a latteſs in his upper chamber b that was in Samaria, and was sick, and he sent messengers, and said unto them, Go, inquire of Baal-zebub c the god of Ekron, whether I shall ‖ recover of this disease?

‖ Heb. live. So Gr.

b In which, the Latteſs might be left to convey Light into the lower Room. Which if it now seem absurd to be in a King's Palace, we must not think it was so then, when the World was not arrived to that height of Curiosity and Art, in which now it is. But the Words may be, and are by some rendred, through the Battlements (or through the Latteſs in the Battlements) of the Roof of the House. Where being first walking, after the manner, and then standing and looking through, and leaning upon this Latteſs, which was grown infirm, it broke, and he fell down into the Court or Garden belonging to the House. c Properly, the God of Flies. An Idol so called, because it was fallly supposed to deliver those People from Flies, which were both vexatious and hurtful to them: as Jupiter and Hercules were called by a like name among the Grecians, for the same reason. And it is evident, both from Sacred and Prophane Histories, That the Idol-gods, being consulted by the Heathens, did sometimes through God's Permission, and just Judgment, give them Answers; though they were generally observed, even by the Heathens themselves, to be dark and doubtful.

3 But the Angel of the LORD said to Elijah the Tishbite, Arise, go up to meet the Messengers of the king of Samaria, and say unto them, Is it not because there is not a God in Israel d, that ye go to inquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron?

d Doſt thou not by this action cast contempt upon the God of Israel, as if he were either ignorant of the Event of thy Disease, or unable to give thee any Relief; and as if Baal-zebub had more Skill and Power than he?

4 Now therefore e thus saith the LORD, ‖ Thou shalt not come down from that bed on which thou art gone up, but shalt surely die. And Elijah departed f.

‖ Heb. The bed whither thou art gone up, thou shalt not come down from it.

e For this was a very hainous Crime, to deny the Perfections of God, and to transfer them to an Idol. See Levit. 19. 31. and 20. 6, 27. Deut. 18. 10. f The Messengers not daring to Apprehend him, as suspecting him to be more than Man, because he knew the secret Message which the King delivered to them in his Bed-Chamber.

5 ¶ And when the messengers turned back unto him, he said unto them, Why are ye now turned back g?

f Before you have been at Ekron: which he easily knew by their quick return.

6 And they said unto him, There came a man up to meet us, and said unto us, Go, turn again unto the king that sent you, and say unto him, Thus saith the LORD, Is it not because there is not a God in Israel, that thou fendest to inquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron? therefore thou shalt not come down from that bed on which thou art gone up, but shalt surely die.

7 And he said unto them, ‖ What manner of man was he which came up to meet you, and told you these words?

‖ What was the manner of the man?

8 And they answered him, He was an hairy man h, and girt with a girdle of leather about his loins i: and he said, It is Elijah the Tishbite.

h Either, 1. As to his Body; the hair of his Head and Beard being through neglect grown long, and spread over much of his Face. Or rather, 2. As to his outward Garment, which was rough and haisy, such as were sometimes worn by Eminent Persons in Greece, in ancient Times; and were the proper Habit of the Prophets. See Isa. 20. 2. Zech. 13. 4. Mat. 3. 4. Heb. 11. 37. i As John the Baptist also had; Mat. 3. 4. That by his very outward Habit, he might represent Elias, in whose Spirit and Power he came.

9 Then the king sent unto him a captain of fifty, with his fifty: and he went up to him, (and behold, he sat on the top of an hill) and he spake unto him, Thou man of God k, the king hath said, Come down l.

k So he calls him in way of Scorn and Contempt; q. d. Thou that vaunteſt, as if thou wast more than a meer Man. l The King commands mands thee to come to him: which if thou refuseſt, I am here to carry thee to him by Force.

10 And Elijah anſwered and ſaid unto the captain of fifty, If I be a man of God, then let fire come down from heaven, and conſume thee and thy fifty m. And there came down fire from heaven, and conſumed him and his fifty.

m Which deſire did not proceed from a carnal and malicious Paſſion; but from a pure zeal, to vindicate God's Name and Honour, which was ſo horribly abuſed; and from the motion of God's Spirit; as is evident from God's miraculous Anſwer to his deſire. And therefore Chriſt doth not condemn this Fact of Elias, but only reproves his Diſciples for their perverſe imitation of it, from another Spirit and Principle, and in a more unſeaſonable time, Luke 9. 54, 55.

11 Again alſo he ſent unto him another Captain of fifty, with his fifty: and he anſwered and ſaid unto him, O man of God, Thus hath the king ſaid, Come down quickly n.

n Wherein he diſcovers more Petulancy and Impudence than the former; and ſhews, how little he was moved or affrighted by the former Example.

12 And Elijah anſwered and ſaid unto them, If I be a man of God, let fire come down from heaven, and conſume thee and thy fifty. And the fire of God came down from heaven, and conſumed him and his fifty.

13 ¶ And he ſent again a captain of the third fifty, with his fifty: and the third captain of fifty went up, and came and ‖ fell on his knees before Elijah, and ‖ beſought him o and ſaid unto him, O man of God, I pray thee, let my life, and the life of theſe fifty thy ſervants be precious in thy ſight.

‖ Heb. bowed. ‖ Heb. prayed unto him.

o Expreſſing both Reverence to his Perſon, and a Belief of his Power, and a Dread of God's Judgments.

14 Behold, there came fire down from heaven, and burnt up the two captains of the former fifties, with their fifties: therefore let my life now be precious in thy ſight.

15 And the Angel of the LORD ſaid unto Elijah, Go down with him, be not afraid of him. And he aroſe, and went down with him unto the king p.

p Not fearing the rage of the King, nor of Jezebel, nor of all their Forces. Wherein, he gives an eminent Example of his Faith and Obedience; and withal, of his growth in Grace ſince that time that he fled for fear of Jezebel, 1 King. 19. 3.

16 And he ſaid unto him q, Thus ſaith the LORD, Foraſmuch as thou haſt ſent meſſengers to inquire of Baal-zebub the God of Ekron, (is it not becauſe there is no God in Iſrael to enquire of his word?) therefore thou ſhalt not come down off that bed on which thou art gone up, but ſhalt ſurely die.

q To his very Face. Nor duſt the King lay hands upon him, being daunted with the Prophets preſence, and great courage, and confidence; and affrighted by the late dreadful Evidence of his Power with God and over Men: and withal, ſtruck with a divine and extraordinary Terror.

17 ¶ So he died, according to the word of the LORD which Elijah had ſpoken: and Jehoram r reigned in his ſtead, in the ſecond year of Jehoram the ſon of Jehoſhaphat king of Judah s, becauſe he had no ſon.

r His Brother, Chap. 3. 1. for he had no ſon to ſucceed him, as it here follows. s Other Paſſages of Scripture ſeem to claſh with this, as that Ahaziah, who reigned but two years, begun his reign in Jehoſhaphat's ſeventeenth year, 1 King 22. 51. and therefore this Jehoram muſt begin his Reign in Jehoſhaphat's Nineteenth Year; and therefore before the Reign of Jehoram, Jehoſhaphat's Son; and that Jehoram the ſon of Jehoſhaphat began to reign in the fifth year of Joram, Ahab's ſon, 2 King. 8. 16. Anſw. Theſe difficulties are eaſily reſolved by this conſideration, That it was an uſual Practice among Kings in former Ages, to make their Sons ſometimes their Viceroys and Deputies in the Adminiſtration of the Kingdom; and ſometimes formally Kings in Conjunction with themſelves, and whilſt they lived; whereof there are inſtances both in Prophane Hiſtory, amongſt the Perſians, Greeks, and Romans, and in the Sacred Scripture, as in David; 1 Chron. 23. 1. and 29. 22. in Uzziah, 2 Chron. 26. 21. (and to come cloſe to the point) in Jehoſhaphat, 2 King. 8. 16. who in his Seventeenth Year, when he went to Ahab, and with him to Ramoth-Gilead, appointed his Son Jehoram his Vice-roy, and (in caſe of his Death) his Succeſſor. In the ſecond year from that time, when Jehoram was thus made Vice-King in his Father's ſtead and abſence; this Jehoram, Ahab's ſon, began to Reign: and in the firſt year of the reign of this Joram ſon of Ahab, which was about the Twenty fourth year of Jehoſhaphat's Reign, Jehoram the Son of Jehoſhaphat was formerly made King of Judah, together with his Father; or whileſt Jehoſhaphat lived, and was king of Judah alſo. And ſo all the places agree. To which ſome add, that this Verſe, or this part of it, wherein the difficulty conſiſts, is wanting in ſome ancient Copies, and is omitted by the LXX Interpreters; which is far more prudent and pious to grant, than upon ſuch Chronological difficulties to queſtion the Truth and Divinity of the Holy Scriptures.

18 Now the reſt of the acts of Ahaziah, which he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

CHAP. II.

Elijah taking his leave of Eliſha, with his Mantle divideth Jordan, 1——8. And granting Eliſha his Requeſt on Condition, is taken up by a fiery Chariot into Heaven, 9——11. Eliſha dividing Jordan with Elijah's Mantle, is acknowledged his Succeſſor, 12——18. He with Salt healeth the Waters at Jericho, 19——22. Children mock him, he curſeth them: and they are devoured by two Bears, 23——25.

AND it came to paſs, when the LORD would take up Elijah into heaven by a whirlwind, that Elijah went with Eliſha from Gilgal.

2 And Elijah ſaid unto Eliſha, a Tarry here, I pray thee: for the LORD hath ſent me to Bethel b; and Eliſha ſaid unto him, As the LORD liveth, and * as thy ſoul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they went down to Bethel.

* Heb. lip.

a This he deſires, Either, 1. That he being left alone, might better prepare himſelf for his great Change. Or, 2. Out of his Humility and Modeſty: he deſired no Witneſſes of his Glorious Removal, and no Fame and Glory from it. Or, 3. Out of Indulgence to Eliſha, that he might not be overwhelmed with Grief at ſo ſad a ſight. Or, 4. That he might trie his Love, and whet his Deſire to accompany him; it being highly convenient for God's Honour, and the Church's good, (which Elijah ſought above all things) that there ſhould be Witneſſes of ſo glorious a Tranſlation. b Which was truth, but not the whole truth: for he was to go a far longer Journey. But he was firſt to go to Bethel, as alſo to Jericho, to the Schools of the Prophets there, that he might comfort, and ſtrengthen their hearts in God's Work, and give them his laſt and dying Counſels.

3 And the ſons of the prophets that were at Bethel came forth to Eliſha, and ſaid unto him, Knoweſt thou that the LORD will take away thy maſter c from thy head d to day? And he ſaid, Yea, I know it; hold you your peace e.

c This was revealed to ſome of the Sons of the Prophets, and by them to the whole College. d Heb. from above thy head: Which Phraſe may reſpect, either, 1. The manner of ſitting in Schools, where the Scholar ſat at his Maſters feet, Deut. 33. 3. Act. 22. 3. Or, 2. The manner of Elijah's Tranſlation, which was to be by a Power ſent from Heaven, to take him up thither. e Do not aggravate my grief, nor divert me with any unſeaſonable Diſcourſes; that I may digeſt my Sorrow, and prepare my ſelf for ſo great a Stroke, and diligently attend all my Maſter's ſteps, leſt he be ſnatched away from me whilſt I am talking with you; and that I may beg and obtain ſome great Bleſſing from him, before his departure.

4 And Elijah ſaid unto him, Eliſha, tarry here, I pray thee: for the LORD hath ſent me to Jericho: and he ſaid, As the LORD liveth, and as thy ſoul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they came to Jericho.

5 And the ſons of the prophets that were at Jericho, came to Eliſha, and ſaid unto him, Knoweſt thou that the LORD will take away thy Maſter from thy head to day? And he anſwered, Yea, I know it; hold you your peace.

6 And Elijah ſaid unto him, Tarry, I pray thee here: for the LORD hath ſent me to Jordan. And he ſaid, as the LORD liveth, and as thy ſoul liveth, I will not leave thee. And they two went on.

7 And fifty men of the ſons of the prophets went and ſtood ‖ to view f afar off: and they two ſtood by Jordan.

‖ Heb. ſaw.

f To obſerve this great Event, Elijah's Tranſlation to Heaven, (which they expected every moment, now when he had taken his laſt ſolemn farewell of all the Prophets: and whereof they deſired to be Spectators, not ſo much to ſatisfie their own Curioſity, as that they might be Witneſſes of it to others.

8 And Elijah took his mantle, and wrapt it together, and ſmote the waters, and * they were divided hither and thither, ſo that they two went over on dry ground.

* So Heb. 14. 21. Joſh. 3. 13.

9 ¶ And it came to paſs when they were gone over, that Elijah ſaid unto Eliſha, ask what I ſhall do for thee, before I be taken away from thee. And Eliſha ſaid, I pray thee, let a double portion of thy Spirit g be upon me.

g Either, 1. Double to what is in thee. Which it ſeems not probable, that he had confidence either to aſk, or to expect. Or, rather 2. Double to what the reſt of the Sons of the Prophets may receive at thy Requeſt upon this occaſion. He alludes to the double portion of the Firſt-born, Deut. 21. 17. But though Eliſha deſired no more, yet God gave him more than he deſired or expected; and he ſeems to have had a greater Portion of the Prophetical and miraculous gifts of God's Spirit, than Elijah had.

10 And he ſaid, ‖ Thou haſt asked a hard thing b: nevertheleſs, if thou ſeeſt me when I am taken from thee, it ſhall be ſo unto thee: but if not, it ſhall not be ſo i.

‖ Heb. thou haſt done hard in asking.

b i.e. A rare and ſingular Bleſſing, which I cannot promiſe then, which only God can give; and he gives it only when, and to whom he pleaſeth. i This Sign he propoſed, not without the inſtinct and direction of God's Spirit, that hereby he might engage him more earneſtly to wait, and more fervently to pray for this mercy.

11 And it came to paſs as they ſtill went on and talked, that behold there appeared a * chariot of fire, and horſes of fire k, and parted them both aſunder, and Elijah went up by a whirlwind into heaven l.

* Chap. 6. 17.

k A bright Cloud formed into ſuch a likeneſs, managed by Holy and Bleſſed Angels ſent from Heaven to conduct him thither. l Into the Third Heaven, being in the way ſo transformed and changed, as might make him meet to be admitted into thoſe bleſſed Manſions.

12 ¶ And Eliſha ſaw it, and cried, * My father, my father m, the chariot of Iſrael, and the horſemen thereof n.

* Chap. 13. 14.

And he ſaw him no more: and he took hold of his own clothes, and rent them in two pieces.

m So he calls him for his Fatherly Affection to him, and for his Fatherly Authority which by his Office he had over him, in which reſpect the Scholars of the Prophets are called their Sons, as 1 King. 20. 35. Who by thy Example, and Counſels, and Prayers, and Power with God, didſt more for the Defence and Preſervation of Iſrael, than all their Chariots and Horſes, or other Warlike Proviſions. The Expreſſion alludes to the form of Chariots and Horſes which he had ſeen.

13 He took up alſo the mantle of Elijah, that fell from him o, and went back and ſtood by the † bank of Jordan.

† Heb. lip.

o God ſo ordering it for Eliſha's comfort, and the ſtrengthning of his Faith, as a Pledge, that together with Elijah's Mantle, his Office and Spirit ſhould reſt upon him.

p Who at Elijah's Requeſt divided theſe Waters, and is as able to do it again; and hath given me his Spirit, and Office, and therefore I humbly beg, and confidently expect his Aſſiſtance in this matter. q But theſe Words after [Where is the God of Elijah?] are by many rendred otherwiſe, and that agreeably to the Hebrew, even himſelf? or, even the ſame? (which Words they join with the former, as an Emphatical Addition, or Repetition, which is uſual in fervent Prayers. But they may be rendred without an Interrogation, thus, Surely he is, to wit, here preſent, and ready to help me. Or, ſurely he is the ſame; to wit, to me, that he was to Eliſha, as able and willing to work for me, as for Elijah. Then the following Words they render, as they are in the Hebrew) and he ſmote the water, and it was divided. By which Repetition it may ſeem, that he ſmote it twice, and that at the firſt ſmiting, the Succeſs did not anſwer his Deſire and Expectation. And partly, to ſtir him up to a more lively Exerciſe of Faith and Prayer, which followed God's Denial or Suſpenſion of his Help, as it is here expreſſed; which alſo was attended with deſired Succeſs.

15 And when the ſons of the prophets which were * to view at Jericho, ſaw him r, they ſaid s, The ſpirit of Elijah doth reſt on Eliſha. And they came to meet him, and bowed themſelves to the ground before him s.

17 And when they urged him, till he was aſhamed x, he ſaid, Send. They ſent therefore fifty men, and they ſought three days, but found him not.

x i. e. To wit, to deny them any longer, leſt they ſhould think his denial proceeded from a neglect of his Maſter, or a contempt of the Sons of the Prophets, or a ſecret Content he took in his Maſters Loſs, that he might have his Honour and Power. Or, till they were aſhamed, becauſe he did ſo oft, and ſo obſtinately deny their Requeſt.

18 And when they came again to him (for he tarried at Jericho) he ſaid unto them, Did I not ſay unto you, Go not?

19 ¶ And the men of the city ſaid unto Eliſha, Behold, I pray thee, the ſituation of this city is pleaſant, as my lord ſeeth: but the water is naught, and the ground † barren y.

† Heb. cauſing to miſcarry.

y Either it was ſo originally, at leaſt, as to that part of the City where the College of the Prophets was; for it is not neceſſary to underſtand this of the whole Territory; or, it became ſo from the Curſe of God inflicted upon it, either when Joſhua firſt took it; or afterwards, when Ehiel rebuilt it. Howſoever, upon the Prophets Care, it grew exceeding fruitful, and therefore is commended for its Fertility by later Writers.

20 And he ſaid, Bring me a new cruſe z, and put ſalt therein a. And they brought it to him.

z Partly, that there might be no ground of Suſpicion, that the Cure was wrought by any natural Vertue of any thing which was, or had been in the Cruſe before, but only by God's Power: and partly, that there might be no Legal Pollution in it which might offend God, and hinder his miraculous Operation by it. a A moſt improper Remedy; for Salt naturally makes Waters brackiſh, and Lands barren. Hereby therefore he would ſhew, That this was effected ſolely by the Divine Power, which could work either without means, or againſt them.

21 And he went forth unto the ſpring of the waters, and caſt the ſalt in there b, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD, I have healed theſe waters: there ſhall not be from thence any more death c, or barren land.

b Which was in it ſelf idle and ineffectual, conſidering both the quality of Salt, and the ſmall quantity of it, and the place where it was put; the Fountain which quickly works out any thing which is put into it; See Levit. 11. 36. but was only uſed as a ſign of God's Preſence and Power, which did the thing; compare Exod. 15. 25. 2 King. 4. 41. and 6. 6. c i.e. Hurt, or Danger, as death is oft uſed, (as 2 Cor. 11. 23.) to Men or Beaſts, by drinking of it, as formerly.

22 So the waters were healed unto this day, according to the ſaying of Eliſha which he ſpake.

23 ¶ And he went up from thence unto Bethel d: and as he was going up by the way, there came forth little children e out of the city f, and mocked him g, and ſaid unto him, Go up h, thou bald-head i, go up thou bald-head k.

d To the other School or Colledge of Prophets, to inform them of Elijah's tranſlation, and his Succeſſion into the ſame Office; and to direct, and comfort, and ſtabliſh them, as he ſaw occaſion. e Or, children: or, young men: as this Hebrew word oft ſignifies, as Gen. 22. 5, 12. and 41. 12. 2 Chr. 13. 7. Iſa. 11. 6. It is more than probable they were old enough to diſcern between Good and Evil, as their Expreſſion ſheweth. f Bethel, which was the Mother-City of Idolatry, 1 King. 12. 28, 29. Hoſ. 4. 15. and 5. 8. where the Prophets planted themſelves, that they might bear witneſs againſt it, and diſſuade the People from it; though, it ſeems, they had but ſmall ſucceſs there. g With great petulancy and vehemency, as the Conjugation of the Hebrew Verb ſignifies; deriding both his Perſon and Miniſtry, and that from a prophane Contempt of the True Religion, and a paſſionate Love to that Idolatry which they knew he oppoſed. h Go up into Heaven, whither thou pretendeſt that Elijah is gone. Why didſt not thou accompany thy Friend and Maſter to Heaven? O that the ſame Spirit would take thee up alſo, that thou mightеſt not trouble us nor our Iſrael, as Elijah did! i So they mock his natural Infirmity, which is a great Sin. k The repetition ſhews their Heartineſs and Earneſtneſs, that it was no ſudden nor raſh flip of their Tongue, but a Scoff proceeding from a rooted Impiety and Hatred of God and his Prophets.

24 And he turned back, and looked on them, and curſed them l in the Name of the LORD m: and there came forth two ſhe-bears n out of the wood, and tare forty and two children o of them.

l Nor was this Puniſhment too great for the Offence, if it be conſidered, that theſe Children were grown up to ſome maturity; (See on v. 23.) that their mocking proceeded from a great malignity of mind againſt God: that they mocked not only a man, and an ancient man, whoſe very Age commanded reverence; and a Prophet; but even God himſelf, and that moſt admirable and glorious Work of God, the aſſumption of Elijah into Heaven, which makes it in ſome degree reſemble the Sin againſt the Holy Ghoſt; that they might be guilty of many other hainous Crimes, which God and the Prophet knew; and were guilty of Idolatry, which by God's Law deſerved Death; that the Idolatrous Parents were puniſhed in their Children; and that, if any of theſe Children were more innocent and ignorant of what they ſaid, God might have mercy upon their Souls, and then this Death was not a Miſery, but a real Bleſſing to them, that they were taken away from that wicked and idolatrous Education which was moſt likely to expoſe them not only to Temporal, but to an Eternal Deſtruction. m Not from any carnal or revengeful Paſſion, but by the motion of God's Spirit, and by God's Command and Commiſſion, as appears by God's concurrence with him. Which God did, partly, for the terror and caution of all other Idolaters and prophane Perſons who abounded in that place; partly, to vindicate the Honour, and maintain the Authority of his Prophets; and particularly, of Eliſha, now eſpecially in the beginning of his Sacred Miniſtry. And this did beget ſuch a Confidence in Eliſha, that he durſt venture to go into Bethel after this was done; and ſuch a terror in the Bethelites, that they durſt not avenge themſelves of him. n Poſſibly robbed of their Whelps, and therefore more fierce, Prov. 17. 12. Hoſ. 13. 8. but certainly aſſiſted by an extraordinary Fury, which God raiſed in them for this purpoſe. o This Hebrew word ſignifies not only young Children, but thoſe alſo who are grown up to maturity, as Gen. 32. 22. and 34. 4. and 37. 30. Ruth 1. 5.

25 And he went from thence to mount carmel p, and from thence he returned to Samaria q.

p Partly, to decline the Fury of the People of Bethel: partly, that he might retire himſelf from Men, and converſe more freely with God, and ſo fit himſelf more for the diſcharge of his Employment: and partly, that he might viſit the Sons of the Prophets who lived in that place, or near it. q By the direction of God's Spirit for the Service which he did, chap. 3. 11. &c.

CHAP. III.

Jehoram followeth the Sin of Jeroboam: He with Jehoſhaphat and the King of Edom goeth to Battel againſt Moab, 1——8. They in Diſtreſs for Water obtain it by Eliſha, and a Promiſe of Victory, 9——20. The Moabites deceived by the Colour of the Water, coming as to Spoil, are overcome, 21——25. The King of Moab, by ſacrificing his Eldeſt Son raiſeth the Siege, 26, 27.

NOw Jehoram the ſon of Ahab began to reign over Iſrael in Samaria, the eighteenth year of Jehoſhaphat king of Judah a, and reigned twelve years.

a Queſt. How can this be true, when Ahaziah, Jehoram's Predeceſſor, who Reigned two Years, began his Reign in Jehoſhaphat's 17th Year, 1 King. 22. 51? Anſw. Either, Ahaziah Reigned the greateſt part of two Years, to wit, of the 17th and 18th Years of Jehoſhaphat, (parts of Years being oft called Years in the computation of Times, both in Scripture and other Authors) and Jehoram began his Reign towards the end of his 18th Year: or, Ahaziah Reigned part of this two Years with his Father, and the reſt after him.

2 And he wrought evil in the ſight of the LORD, † but not like his father, and like his mother: for he put away the † image of Baal, * that his father had made b.

† Heb. ſtatue. * 1 King. 16. 31, 32.

b Not from any Principle of Conscience (for that would have reached the Calves also:), but either, because he was startled at the dreadful Judgments of God inflicted upon his Father and Brother for Baal-worship: or, because he needed God's help to subdue the Moabites, which he knew Baal could not do: or, to gratifie Jehoshaphat, whose help he meant to crave, which he knew he should never obtain without this; and for this reason, it seems, Jezabel was willing to connive at it, as a trick of State.

3 Nevertheless, he cleaved unto the sins of Jeroboam c the son of Nebat, which made Israel to sin: he departed not therefrom.

c i.e. The Worship of the Calves: which all the Kings of Israel kept up as a Wall of Partition between their Subjects and those of Judah. Thus he shews that his Religion was over-ruled by his Interest and Policy.

4 ¶ And Mesha king of Moab was a sheep-master d, and rendred unto the king of Israel an hundred thousand lambs, and an hundred thousand rams, with the wool.

d A Man of great Wealth (which in those times and places consisted much in Cattel) which enabled and emboldned him to Rebel against his Sovereign Lord.

5 But it came to pass, when Ahab was dead, that the king of Moab rebelled e against the king of Israel.

e See of this chap. 1. 1. It is here repeated to make way for the following Story. Ahaziah did not attempt the recovery of Moab; either, because he was a Man of a low Spirit and Courage: or, because his Sickness, or the shortness of his Reign, gave not opportunity for it.

6 ¶ And king Jehoram went out of Samaria f the same time, and numbred all Israel g.

f To some place appointed for the Rendezvous of his People. g To wit, such as were fit for War.

7 And he went and sent to Jehoshaphat the king of Judah, saying, The king of Moab hath rebelled against me: wilt thou go with me against Moab to battel? and he said, I will go up: I am as thou art, my people as thy people, and my horses as thy horses h.

h Of which see on 1 King. 22. 4. He joins with him in this War; partly, because the War was very just in it self, and convenient for Jehoshaphat, both in the general, that Rebels and Revolters should be chastised and suppressed, left the Example should pass into his Dominions, and the Edomites should be hereby encouraged to revolt from him, as they did from his Son; and in particular, that the Moabites should be humbled, who had with others invaded his Land before this time, 2 Chron. 20. 1. and might do so again if they were not brought low; for which a fair opportunity was now offered to him; and partly, because Jehoram had reformed some things, and Jehoshaphat hoped by this means to engage him to proceed further in that work.

8 And he i said, Which way shall we go up? And he answered, The way through the wilderness of Edom k.

i Either, Jehoshaphat: or rather, Joram: for the following answer may seem to be Jehoshaphat's. k Which though it was much the longer way, yet they thought it best; partly, to secure the King or Vice-Roy of Edom, of whom they might have some Suspicion, from that Passage 2 Chron. 20. 22. and to carry both him and his Soldiers along with them into the War, both to get their Assistance, and to prevent them from making a War of Diversion against Judah, whilst Jehoshaphat was engaged against Moab; and partly, that they might invade Moab on their weakest side, and where they least expected them. God also thus disposed their Hearts to make way for the following Miracle.

9 So the king of Israel went, and the king of Judah, and the king of Edom l: and they fetcht a compass of seven days journey m: and there was no water n for the † Heb. host, and for the cattel † that followed them.

l i.e. The Vice-Roy under Jehoshaphat, 1 King. 22. 47. here called king; either, because he was so called and accounted by his own People: or, because that word is sometimes used for any Prince or chief Ruler. See Deut. 33. 5. Judg. 18. 1. and 21. 25. 1 King. 20. 1. m Because they made a great Army, which could move but slowly; and they fetched a greater Compass than was usual, for some advantage which they expected by it. n A frequent want in those hot and desart parts; and now, as it seems, increased by the extraordinary Heat and Drines of the Season.

10 And the king of Israel said, Alas, that the LORD hath called these three kings together, to deliver them into the hand of Moab o.

o So he chargeth his Calamity upon God; and not upon himself, whose Sins were the true and proper Causes of it.

11 But Jehoshaphat said, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD, that we may enquire of the LORD by him? And one of the king of Israels servants answered and said, Here is Elisha the son of Shaphat, which poured water on the hands of Elijah q.

p This he should have asked before, when they first undertook the expedition, as he did in a like case, 1 King. 22. 5. and for that neglect he now suffers: but better late than never: His Affliction brings him to the remembrance of his former Sin, and present Duty. q i.e. Who was his Servant: this being one office of a Servant: and this Office was the more necessary among the Israelites, because of the frequent Washings which their Law required.

12 And Jehoshaphat said, The word of the LORD is with him r. So the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat, and the king of Edom went down to him s.

r We may enquire the Mind of God by him: for he is a true Prophet. Which Jehoshaphat might easily understand, because being a good Man, and a great Favourer of the Lords Prophets, he would diligently enquire, and many Persons would be ready to inform him of all things of that nature, and, amongst others, of Elijah's calling of Elisha by casting his Prophetical Mantle over him, 1 King. 19. 19. and of Elijah's Translation, and Elisha's Substitution in his place, and of the proof of it, 2 King. 2. 8, 14. s To his Tent; which was either in the Camp, or not far from it: for he went along with the Army by the Impulse of God's Spirit, for this very occasion. They did not send for him, but went to him, that by giving him this Honour, they might more effectually ingage him to give them his utmost Assistance; and, because they had heard that he was a man of a rugged temper and carriage, who therefore was to be sweetned, and so disposed to pity and relieve them.

13 And Elisha said unto the king of Israel, What have I to do with thee? * Get thee to the prophets of thy father, and to the prophets of thy mother u. And the king of Israel said unto him, Nay x: for the LORD hath called these three kings y together to deliver them into the hand of Moab.

* So Judg. 10. 14. Rom. 11.

t I desire to have no Discourse nor Converse with thee. u i. e. To the Calves, which thou after thy Father's Example dost worship; and to the Baals which thy Mother yet worshippeth by thy Permission; and to which thy Heart is yet inclined, though thou hast destroyed one of his Images for politick Reasons. Let these Idols whom thou worshippest in thy Prosperity, now help thee in thy Distress. x I renounce those false Prophets and Baals, and will seek to none but God for help. y If thou hast no respect for me, yet pity this innocent King of Edom, and good Jehoshaphat, who are involved in the same Danger with my self.

14 And Elisha said, As the LORD of hosts liveth, before whom I stand, Surely were it not that I regard the presence of Jehoshaphat the king of Judah z, I would not look toward thee, nor see thee.

z Whom I Reverence and Love for his Vertue and Piety.

15 But now bring me a minstrel a. And it came to pass when the minstrel played, that the hand of the LORD b † came upon him.

† Heb. was.

a One that can sing and play upon a Musical Instrument. This he was requires, that his Mind which had been disturbed and inflamed with Holy Anger at the sight of wicked Jehoram, might be composed, and cheered, and united within it self, and that he might be excited to the more fervent prayer to God, and joyfully praising him; whereby he was prepared to receive the Prophetical Inspiration. For although Prophecy be the Gift of God, yet men might do something either to hinder or further the reception of it: for which Cause Paul bids Christians study to get the Gift of Prophecy, 1 Cor. 14. 1. And for this very end the Colledges of the Prophets were erected, wherein the Sons of the Prophets did use divers means to procure this Gift, which also they did sometimes receive, as we see 2 King. 2. 3, 5. and, amongst other means, they used Instruments of Musick to exhilerate their Spirits, &c. 1 Sam. 10. 5. Of the great power of Musick upon the Affections, see the Notes on 1 Sam. 16. 16. b i. e. The Spirit of Prophecy, so called, to note that it was not from Elisha's temper of Body or Mind; that it was no natural nor acquired vertue inherent in him; but a singular Gift of God, given to whom and when he pleased. This Phrase is used also Ezek. 1. 3. and 3. 14, 22. and 8. 1.

16 And he said, Thus saith the LORD, Make this valley † full of ditches c.

† Heb. ditches, ditches.

c Which may receive the Water, and hold it for the use of Men and Beasts.

17 For thus saith the LORD, Ye shall not see wind d, neither shall ye see rain, yet that valley shall be filled with water, that ye may drink, both ye, and your cattel, and your beasts.

d Any of those Winds which commonly produce Rain. And seeing is here put for perceiving or feeling, one sense for another, or for all, as Gen. 42. 1. compare Act. 7. 12. Exod. 20. 18. and elsewhere.

18 And this is but a light thing in the sight of the LORD e, he will deliver the Moabites also into your hand.

e This is but a small Favour in comparison of what he intends to you for Jehoshaphat's sake. He will give you more than you ask or expect. For they were so weakned and discouraged with the great Drought, that they had no hopes of proceeding in the offensive War, and thought it sufficient, if it were possible, to defend themselves from the Moabites, ver. 13.

19 And ye shall smite every fenced city, and every choice city, and shall fell every good tree f, and stop all wells of water, and † mar every good piece of land with stones.

† Heb. grieve, make sick.

f This is, Either, First, A Command; and then the last Clause is an Exception from that Law, Deut. 20. 19. which being delivered by a Prophet, might be obeyed. And if this Command seem severe, it must be considered, that the Moabites were a very wicked People, perfidious, cruel, implacable Enemies to God's People upon all occasions, and now in a state of Rebellion. Or rather, Secondly, A Prediction of their Succels, that they should have so full and compleat a Victory, that they should be able to do all which is here expressed.

20 And it came to pass in the morning, when the meat-offering was offered g, that behold, there came water b by the way of Edom i, and the countrey was filled with water.

g i.e. The Morning-Sacrifice: of which Exod. 29. 39, 40. which doubtless was attended with the solemn Prayers of God's People, as the Evening Sacrifice unquestionably was, Act. 3. 1. there being the same reason for substance for both times. At this time Elisha joined his Prayers with the Prayers of God's People, especially those at Jerusalem, as Elijah had done at a like time, 1 King. 18. 29. and this time God chose to answer his and their Prayers, and to work this Miracle, that thereby he might determine the Controversie between the Israelites and the Jews, about the place and manner of Worship, and give a publick Testimony from Heaven for the Jews, and against the Israelites.

Israelites. h Miraculously produced out of some Rock or Vein of the Earth. i From those parts which were towards Edom.

21 ¶ And when all the Moabites heard that the kings were come up to fight against them, they † gathered all that were able to † put on armour k, and upward, and stood in the border l.

† Heb. were cried together. † Heb. girt himself with a girdle.

k Heb. to gird on a girdle, i.e. a Military Girdle, to which the Sword was fastened, 2 Sam. 20. 8. 1 King. 2, 5. l Or, in that border, to wit, of their Country, which was towards Edom, which way they understood the Kings came. Here they stood probably to defend the Passages into their Countrey.

22 And they rose up early in the morning, and the sun shone upon the water, and the Moabites saw the water on the other side as red as blood m.

m Because of the Morning-Sun, which meeting with the Vapours that arose from the Earth, and shining through them upon the Water, gave it a reddish Tincture. God also so ordered things, that their Senses and Fancies were disturbed, or the Air so disposed, that it might seem of this Colour. And they might more easily mistake this for Blood, because they knew that that ground was generally dry, and without any Trenches or Streams of Water, now especially in this dry Season, there being no noise of Wind and Rain, v. 17. And they might justly think that the three Kings being divided in their Religion and Interests, and discontented for want of Water, might fall into Dissentions, and Heats, and mutual Slaughters, of which they had a late Example, 2 Chron. 20. 22, 23.

23 And they said, This is blood: the kings are surely † slain, and they have smitten one another: now therefore Moab to the spoil n.

† Heb. destroyed.

n They were so highly confident, that they send no Scouts, but march thither with their whole Army, and that in great Disorder. Wherein there was also a Divine Hand, strengthening them in their Mistakes, and hardening them to their Destruction.

24 And when they came to the camp of Israel, the Israelites rose up and smote the Moabites, so that they fled before them: but ‖ they went forward smiting the Moabites, even in their countrey o.

‖ Or, they smote in it, even smiting.

o They pursued them to their own Countrey, and entred it, with and after them; the passes, which before the Moabites defended, being now open for them.

25 And they beat down the cities, and on every good piece of land cast every man his stone p, and filled it, and they stopped all the wells of water, and felled all the good Trees: † only in Kirharaseth q left they the stones thereof r: howbeit the slingers s went about it, and smote it †.

p The Stones which happily had been with great care and pains pickt out of the Land, and laid in heaps after the manner, they dispersed again, and slew the people, who should have cleansed them again. q Which was the Royal and strongest City of the Moabites, Isa. 16. 7, 11. into which the remnant of the Moabites were gathered, where also their King was with them. r The Walls and Buildings of this City onely were left; other Cities, and, in a manner, their whole Countrey being utterly destroyed. s Either, First, Such as slung small Stones against those that stood upon the Wall to defend it. Or rather, Secondly, Such as slung great Stones against the Walls to break them down, according to the manner of those times. t i. e. Made Breaches in the Walls, by which they might enter into the City, and take it.

26 ¶ And when the king of Moab saw that the battel was too sore for him, he took with him seven hundred men that drew swords, to break through even unto the king of Edom u: but they could not.

u That being unable to defend the City longer, he might make an escape: which he chose to do on the King of Edom's quarter; because he thought either that his was the weakest side: or, that he would more willingly suffer him to escape; because he was not so hearty in the War as the rest, but onely forced to it, and he might hereafter have some occasion of the King of Moab to joyn with him, as before he had, 2 Chron. 20, 22.

27 Then he took his eldest Son x that should have reigned in his stead, and * offered him for a burnt-offering upon the wall y, and there was † great indignation against Israel z: and they departed from him, and returned to their own land.

* Amos. 2. 1. † Heb. great repentance upon Israel.

x Either, First, The King of Edom's Son; whom in this eruption he took, and then Sacrificed. Compare Amos 2. 1. But, First, That place speaks of the king, not of the king's son: and of the burning of his bones, not of the offering of a living man for a Burnt-Offering. Secondly, this would not have made the besiegers to raise their siege, but to have forbidden it when warrily to engage so barbarous an Action. Thirdly, The following clause, that should have reigned in his stead, agrees not so well to the Edomites, whose King was only Jehoshaphat's Vice-Roy, and therefore his Son had no right to succeed him: as it doth to the Moabites, whose King was revolted from Israel, and intended to keep that Kingdom to himself and Children. Or rather, Secondly, his own Son: whom he Sacrificed; partly, to obtain the favour of his God, according to the manner of the Phunicians and other people in grievous and publick Calamities; whereof we have manifest Testimonies, both in Scripture, as Psal. 106. 37. Ezek. 20. 31. and in Heathen Authors, as Porphyrius, Plutarch, and others: and partly, to oblige the Israelites to quit the siege out of compassion: or, as despairing to Conquer (at least without greater loss of men than it was worth) him who was resolved to defend himself and City to the utmost extremity. y That the besiegers might see it, and be moved by it. z Or, great trouble or repentance upon Israel, i. e. the Israelitish King and people (who was the first cause of the War, and had brought the rest into confederacy with him) were greatly afflicted and grieved for this barbarous action, and resolved to prosecute the War no further, and to withdrew their Forces, as also did their Allies, and returned to their several Homes. Which they were the more willing to do, because the Kingdom and Countrey of Moab were so ruinated both as to their Men, and Cities, or Villages, and Lands, that they were all secure of any great annoyance from it.

CHAP. IV.

Elisha multiplieth the Widows Oyl, 1———7. He is lodged by a Shunamite Woman, who is barren: He promiseth her a Son: Which is born, 8———17. Dieth, and is raised by Elisha, 18———37. A Gliggal he healeth the deadly Pottage, 38———41. And feedeth 100 Men, with 20 Loaves and ears of Corn, 42———44.

NOW there cried a certain woman of the wives of the sons of the prophets a unto Elisha, saying, Thy servant my husband is dead, and thou knowest that thy servant did fear the LORD b: and the creditor is come to take unto him my two sons to be bond-men c.

a Who, though they were wholly devoted to Sacred employment, were not excluded from Marriage, no more than the Priests and Levites. b His poverty therefore was not procured by his idleness, or prodigality, or rather, wickedness; but by his Piety, because he would not comply with the King's way of worship, and therefore lost all worldly advantages. c Either, to use them as his slaves, or to sell them to others, according to the Law. Of which see Exod. 21. 2. Levit. 25. 39. Isa. 50. 1. Matth. 18. 25.

2 And Elisha said unto her, What shall I do for thee d? Tell me, what hast thou in the House e? And she said, Thine hand-maid hath not any thing in the House, save a pot of oil f.

d How shall I relieve thee, who am my self poor? e Which may contribute to the Payment of thy Debts, or, at least, to the satisfaction of thy Creditors, who may perchance deal favourably with thee through my perswasion. f Which was useful for divers things about the Service of God, and health, or delight, or ornament, and other uses of men. See Judg. 9. 9.

3 Then he said, Go, borrow thee vessels abroad of all thy neighbours, even empty vessels, ‖ borrow not a few.

‖ Or, scant not.

4 And when thou art come in, thou shalt shut the door upon thee g, and upon thy Sons, and shalt pour out b into all those Vessels, and thou shalt set aside that which is full.

g Partly, that none may hinder thee from minding thy work of filling and removing the Vessels, which will require attention and diligence: partly, that thou alone mayest enjoy the benefit of it: partly, left any of thy Creditors should break in upon thee, and seize upon thy borrowed Vessels before they are filled: partly, that thy mind being freed from distraction, may be wholly employed in Prayer and Praising of God: and partly, that it may be manifest that this is the work of God alone. b Out of the Pot, in which God multiplied the Oil from time to time.

5 So she went from him, and shut the door upon her, and upon her sons: who brought the vessels to her, and she poured out.

6 And it came to pass when the vessels were full, that she said unto her son i, Bring me yet a vessel. And he said unto her, There is not a vessel more. And the oil stayed k.

i To one of them: for she had two, v. 1. k To teach us, that we should not waste any of God's Good Creatures; and that God would not work Miracles unnecessarily.

7 Then she came and told the man of God: and he said, Go, sell the oil, and pay thy ‖ debt, and live thou and thy children of the rest l.

‖ Or, creditor.

l First do Justice to others, and then take care of thy self and Children.

8 ¶ And † it fell on a day, that Elisha passed to Shunem m, where was a great woman n; and she † constrained him to eat bread p. And so it was, that as oft as he passed by, he turned in thither to eat bread.

† Heb. there was a day. † Heb. laid hold on him.

m A City in Issachar, near Mount Carmel, Jos. 19. 17, 18. whither the Prophet frequently went. n For Estate, or Birth and Quality: See Gen. 24. 35. 1 Sam. 25. 2. o By her importunate desire. p To take his repast there.

9 And she said unto her husband, Behold, now I perceive, that this is an holy man of God q, which passeth by us continually.

q A Prophet, as Judg. 13. 6. and that of eminent Holiness: by our kindness to whom, we shall procure a blessing to our selves.

10 Let us make a little chamber, I pray thee, on the wall r, and let us set for him there a bed, and a table, and a stool, and a candlestick s: and it shall be, when he cometh to us, that he shall turn in thither.

r That he may be free from the noise of Family-businges, and enjoy that privacy, which I perceive, he desireth for his Prayers and Meditations. s He will not be troublesome or chargeable to us: he cares not for rich Furniture or costly entertainment, and is content with bare necessaries.

11 And it fell on a day that he came thither, and he turned into the chamber, and lay there.

12 And he said to Gehazi his servant, Call this Shunamite. And when he had called her, she stood before him.

t i. e. Before the Prophet, in the door of his Chamber, as it is said, ver. 15. The relation seems to be a little perplexed, but may be thus conceived. It is in this Verse recorded in the general, That the Prophet sent Gehazi to call her, and that she came to him upon that call: then follows a particular description of the whole business, with all the Circumstances, viz. of the message with which Gehazi was sent when he went to call her, and of her answer to that message, ver. 13. and of Gehazi's conjecture thereupon, ver. 14. and then of her coming to the Prophet at his call: which is there repeated to make way for the following Passages.

Or, had said.

13 And he said || unto him, Say now unto her, Behold, thou hast been careful for us, with all this care, What is to be done for thee? Wouldest thou be spoken for to the king, or to the captain of the host u? And she answered, I dwell among mine own people x.

t Wherewith shall I recompence all thy care and kindness to me and my servant? u With whom he justly had great power for his eminent service, chap. 3. x I live in Love and Peace among my Kindred and Friends; nor have I any cause to complain of them, or to seek relief from higher Powers.

14 And he said, What then is to be done for her? And Gehazi answered, Verily she hath no Child, and her Husband is old.

t Hast thou observed any thing which she wants or desires? For the Prophet kept himself much in his Chamber, whilst Gehazi went more freely about the House, as his occasions led him.

15 And he said, Call her. And when he had called her, she stood in the door y.

y Out of reverence, humility, and modesty, waiting till he came to her, or called her further in to him.

+ Heb. set time.

16 And he said, About this + season, according to the time of life z, thou shalt embrace a son. And she said, Nay, my lord, thou man of God, do not lye unto thine hand-maid a.

z Of which Phrase see on Gen. 18. 10. a Do not delude me with vain hopes. She could not believe it for Joy, and supposed the Prophet might say thus either for her tryal, or from his own private judgment and affection, and not by warrant from God.

17 And the woman conceived and bare a son, at that season that Elisha had said unto her, according to the time of life.

18 ¶ And when the child was grown, it fell on a day, that he went out to his father to the reapers.

19 And he said to his father, My head, my head b: and he said to a lad, carry him to his mother.

b His Head was grievously pained: which possibly came from the heat of the Harvest-season, to which he was exposed in the field.

20 And when he had taken him, and brought him to his mother, he sat on her knees till noon, and then died.

21 And she went up, and laid him on the bed of the man of God, and shut the door upon him c, and went out.

c Partly, in hopes that this might contribute something to the Child's restitution to Life, she having in all probability had an account of the like Miracle done by Elijah, 1 King. 17. 21. and partly, that she might for the present conceal the death of the Child: which if it had been known, would have filled her Husband with grief, and hindred her journey, and opened the mouths of the Enemies of God and his Prophets to blaspheme; whereas he had a confidence put into her by God, that the Prophet could and would restore her Son.

22 And she called unto her husband, and said, Send me, I pray thee, one of the young men, and one of the asses, that I may run to the man of God, and come again.

23 And he said, Wherefore wilt thou go to him to day? it is neither new moon nor sabbath d. And she said, It shall be || well e.

d Which were the chief and usual times in which they resorted to the Prophets for instruction, for which he supposed she now went, not suspecting but that the Child was well by this time. e My going will not be troublesom to him, nor prejudicial to thee or me. Heb. peace, i. e. peace be to thee, farewell, or be contented, let me go.

|| Heb. peace.

24 Then she saddled an Ass, and said to her servant, Drive, and go forward: || slack not thy riding for me, except I bid thee.

|| Heb. restrain not for me to ride.

25 So she went, and came unto the man of God to mount Carmel: and it came to pass when the man of God saw her afar off, that he said to Gehazi his servant, Behold, yonder is that Shunamite:

26 Run now, I pray thee, to meet her, and say unto her, Is it well with thee? Is it well with thy husband? Is it well with the child? And she answered, It is well f.

f So it was in some respects, because it was the Will of a Wise and Good God, and therefore best for her. Or, it shall be well: though the Child be dead, I doubt not by God's Blessing upon thy Endeavours it shall live again and do well. But she answers ambiguously, and briefly too, that she might sooner come to the Prophet, and more fully open her mind to him.

27 And when she came to the man of God to the hill, she caught || him by the feet g: but Gehazi came near to thrust her away h. And the man of God said, Let her alone, for her soul is || vexed within her i: and the LORD hath hid it from me, and hath not told me k.

|| Heb. by his feet.

|| Heb. bitter.

g She fell at his Feet and touched them, as a most humble and earnest supplicant. Compare 1 Sam. 25. 24. Mark. 28. 9. Withal, she intimated, what she durst not presume to express in words, that he desired him to go along with her. h Judging this posture indecent for her, and offensive to his Master. i Disturb her not, for this uncouth gesture is a sign of some extraordinary grief. k Whereby he signifies, that what he knew or did, was not by any Vertue inherent and abiding in himself, but only from God, who revealed to him only what and when he pleased. Compare 2 Sam. 7. 3.

28 Then she said, did I desire a son of my lord? Did not I say, do not deceive me m?

l This Child was not given to me upon my immoderate desire, for which I might have justly been thus chastised, as Rachel was, Gen. 30. 1. compare with 35. 18. but was freely promised to me by thee in God's Name, and from his special Grace and Favour: and therefore I truft both thou didst pray for it, and God design it as a Blessing, and not as an Affliction, as now it proves, unless thou dost obtain the Child for me a second time, which I know thou canst do, and I humbly beg thee to do. m With vain hopes of a Comfort that I should never have. And I had been much happier if I had never had it, than to lose it so quickly. Therefore thou art in some measure concerned to revive my dead hopes, and to continue to me the great Blessing which thou hast procured.

29 Then he said to Gehazi, gird up thy loins n, and take my staff in thy hand, and go thy way: if thou meet any man, salute him no: and if any salute thee, answer him not again o: and lay my staff upon the face of the Child p.

n Tie up thy long Garments about thy Loins for expedition. See 1 King. 18. 46. o An Hyperbolical expression: Make no delays nor stops by the way, neither by words nor actions, but go with all possible speed. Compare Lut. 10. 4. He requires this haste, that the Miracle might be done secretly and speedily before the Child's death was divulged, which might cause many inconveniences. See on ver. 21. p For God can work a Miracle by the most unlikely and contemptible means, as he did by a Rod, Exod. 14. 16. and a Mantle, 2 King. 2. 8.

30 And the mother of the child said, As the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee q. And he arose and followed her.

q Until thou goest home with me. For she had no great confidence in Gehazi, nor was her Faith so strong as to think that the Prophet could work so great a Miracle at this distance, and by his Staff: which possibly was one reason why this did no good. Compare Matth. 9. 18. and 13. 58. and 17. 20.

31 And Gehazi passed on before them, and laid the staff upon the face of the child, but there was neither voice, nor || hearing r: wherefore he went again to meet him, and told him, saying, The child is not awaked s.

|| Heb. attention.

r i. e. Neither speech, nor Sense, nor any sign of Life, to wit, in the Child. Which disappointment might proceed from hence, that Elisha having changed his mind, and yielded to her importunity to go with her, did alter his course, and not joyn his fervent Prayers with Gehazi's action, but referred them till he came thither. Fi. e. Not revived: death being soft and fitly compared to a sleep, as Psal. 76. 5. Dan. 12. 2. because of the Resurrection which will in due time follow it, and here followed speedily, which makes the expression most proper in this place.

32 And when Elisha was come into the house, behold, the child was dead, and laid upon his bed.

33 He went in therefore, and shut the door upon them twain t, and prayed unto the LORD.

t Upon himself and the dead Child, that he might pray to God without distraction, and might more freely use all those gestures and means which he thought fit.

34 And he went up and lay upon the child u, and put his mouth upon his mouth, and his eyes upon his eyes, and his hands upon his hands x, and he stretched himself upon the child, and the flesh of the child waxed warm y.

u And although some ceremonial uncleanness might seem to be contracted by the touch of this dead Body, yet that was justly to give place to a Moral Duty, and to an action of so great Piety and Charity as this was, especially when done by a Prophet, and by the instinct of God's Spirit, who can dispence with his own Laws. x One part upon another successively; for the disproportion of the Bodies would not permit it to be done together. Compare 1 King. 17. 21. Act. 20. 10. y Not by any external heat, which could not be transmitted to the Child's Body by such slight touches of the Prophet's Body; but by a Natural heat, proceeding from a principle of Life, which was already infused into the Child, and by degrees, enlivened all the parts of his Body.

35 Then he returned and walked in the house + to and fro; and went up and stretched himself upon him a: and the child neesed seven times, and the child opened his eyes b.

+ Heb. once there, and once there.

z He changed his postures for his own necessary refreshment, and walked to and fro exercising his mind in Prayer to God, and Faith, for the accomplishment of this work. a Repeating his former actions, to teach us not to be discouraged, in our Prayers, if we be not speedily answered, but to wait with Patience, and continue, and be instant in Prayer, till we obtain what we seek for. b So the work began in the former Verse is here perfected. Although Miracles were for the most part done in an instant, yet sometimes they were done by degrees, as here, and 1 King. 18. 44, 45. Mark 8. 24, 25.

36 And he called Gehazi, and said, Call this Shunamite. So he called her, and when she was come in unto him, he said, Take up thy son.

c Heb. come to him, to wit, to the Door of his Chamber: Where probably he met her with this joyful Message.

37 Then

37 Then she went in d, and fell at his feet, and bowed herself to the ground, and took up her son, and went out.

d Into his Chamber, and, after she had done him honour, to the Bed where the Child lay, whence she took him, and went her way.

38 ¶ And Elisha came again to Gilgal e, and there was a dearth in the land, and the sons of the prophets were sitting before him f: and he said unto his servant, Set on the great pot, and seeth pottage g for the sons of the prophets.

e When he came with Elijah, chap. 2. 1. where was a School of the Prophets, whom he designed to comfort concerning the present Dearth, and their other discouragements, and to confirm in the profession and practice of Religion, and to instruct in the Duties of the present Season. f At his feet, as Scholars to be taught by him. See chap. 2. 3. Act. 22. 3. g He provides no delicious Meats, but meer Necessaries, to teach them the contempt of worldly delights.

39 And one went out into the field to gather herbs, and found a wild vine h, and gathered thereof wild gourds his lapful, and came and shred them into the pot of pottage: for they knew them not.

h A Plant called Coloquintida, whose Gourds or Leaves resemble the Leaves of a Vine, and are very bitter, and pernicious to the eater.

40 So they poured out for the men to eat: and it came to pass as they were eating of the pottage, that they cryed out, and said, O thou man of God, there is death in the Pot i: and they could not eat thereof.

i i. e. Some deadly thing; which they gathered from its excessive bitterness, by which possibly some of them might discern what it was.

41 But he said, then bring meal: and he cast it into the Pot k: and he said, Pour out for the people, that they may eat: and there was no + harm in the Pot l.

+ Heb. evil thing.

k Together with the Pottage which they had taken out of it. l The Meal took away that hurtful quality, not by its natural Power, which could do little in so short a time, but by the supernatural Blessing of God upon it.

42 ¶ And there came a man from Baal-shalisha, and brought the man of God bread of the first fruits m, || twenty loaves n of barley, and full ears of corn || in the husk thereof, and he said, give unto the people o, that they may eat.

|| Heb. in his sack, or garment.

m Which were the Priests due, Numb. 18. 2. but these, and probably the rest of the Priests dues, were usually brought by the Pious Israelites, according to their ability and opportunity, to the Lord's Prophets; partly, because they did a great part of the Priests office: and partly, because they were not permitted to carry them to Jerusalem; and they might reasonably think that their circumstances being extraordinary, would warrant their giving of them to extraordinary Persons; and that those ceremonial Institutions ought to give place to the greater Laws of necessity and mercy to the Lord's Prophets. And this passage seems to be noted here, not only on occasion of the following Miracle; but also that by this one instance we might understand how so many Schools of the Prophets were supported. n Small Loaves, as appears, both because one Man brought them all so far; and because, otherwise there had been no Miracle here. o To wit, the Sons of the Prophets, who were then present with him, ver. 38.

43 And his servitor said, What should I set this before an hundred men? He said again, Give the people, that they may eat: for thus saith the LORD, * They shall eat, and shall leave thereof.

* Job. 6. 11

44 So he set it before them, and they did eat, and left thereof, according to the word of the LORD.

CHAP. V.

Naaman by his Captive Maid's report goeth to Elisha to be cured of his Leprosie, 1—9. Elisha sends to him a Command to wash in Jordan: He is angry, and disdaineth it: His Servant's Advice: He doth it, and is healed, 10—14. He returneth with Gifts to Elisha, who refuseth them: He departs, 15—19. Gehazi, Elisha's Servant, obtaining his Master's Name unto Naaman: taketh Gifts from him: is smitten with Leprosie, 20—27.

NOw Naaman captain of the host of the king of Syria, was a great man + with his master a, and || + honourable b, because by him the LORD had given || deliverance unto Syria c: he was also a mighty man of valour, but he was a leper.

+ Heb. before, or, gracious. || Heb. lift-ed up, or accepted in countenance. Or, Victory.

a In great Power and Favour with the King of Syria. b Highly esteemed both for his quality and success. Which expression he useth, partly, to mind the Israelites, that all the hurt they had from the Syrians was from the Lord, who used them as his Rod, and gave them the Successes against Israel, which are recorded; and partly, to check that proud Conceit which then was working, and afterwards more fully discovered it self in the Israelitish Nation, as if the Care, and Providence, and Goodness of God, were wholly confined to themselves, and not imparted to any other People.

2 And the Syrians had gone out by companies d, and had brought away captive out of the land of Israel a little maid, and she + waited on e Naamans wife.

+ Heb. was before.

d Making Inroads into the Land of Israel to rob and plunder, after the manner of those times. See 1 Sam. 30. 8. 2 King. 13. 21. and 24. 2. e Heb. was before, i. e. stood before her, or ministred to her. Compare Deut. 1. 38.

3 And she said unto her mistress, Would God my lord were + with the prophet that is in Samaria f; for he would + recover him of his leprosie g.

+ Heb. before. + Heb. gather in.

f Either, First, In the Kingdom of Samaria; Or, Secondly, In the City of Samaria: where he was when she was taken: or, where he commonly resided, though he went to other places, as need required. g Or, take him away (as this Hebrew Verb is used, Gen. 30. 23. Zeph. 1. 2.) from his Leprosie, i. e. take away his Leprosie from him.

4 And one went in, and told his lord h, saying, Thus and thus said the maid that is of the land of Israel.

h One of Naaman's Servants hearing this, went in and told it to Naaman, and he to the King of Syria, which is implied. Or, And he went in, &c. i. e. Naaman, mentioned, ver. 1. hearing this from his Wife, told it to the King of Syria, as the next Words intimate.

5 And the king of Syria i said, Go to, go, and I will send a letter unto the king of Israel k. And he departed, and took + with him ten talents of silver, and six thousand pieces of gold l, and ten changes of raiment.

+ Heb. in his hand.

i Foram the Son of Ahab, chap. 3. 1. k Desiring him to obtain this Favour from the Prophet. l Partly, for the Charges of his Journey; and partly, for Presents to the Prophet, or others, as he saw fit.

6 And he brought the letter to the king of Israel, saying, Now when this letter is come unto thee, behold, I have therewith sent Naaman my servant to thee, that thou mayest recover him m of his leprosie.

m i. e. Procure his recovery by the means of Elisha, v. 3, 4. whom thou maist command to use his utmost skill and power herein.

7 And it came to pass, when the king of Israel had read the letter, that he rent his clothes n, and said, Am * I God, to kill and to make alive o, that this man doth send unto me to recover a man of his leprosie? Wherefore consider, I pray you, and see how he seeketh a quarrel against me p.

* Deut. 32. 39. and 1 Sam. 2. 6.

n Either, in detestation of his Blasphemy, in giving God's Perfections to him: or rather, for Grief, arising from a suspicion and fear that the Syrian made this only a pretence for the War which he designed against him. o He expresseth it thus, because Leprosie is a kind or degree of Death, Numb. 12. 12. and he thought it as impossible to cure it, as to raise the Dead. p For not doing what he requires, which he knows impossible for me to do.

8 ¶ And it was so, when Elisha the man of God q had heard, that the king of Israel had rent his clothes, that he sent to the king, saying, Wherefore hast thou rent thy clothes r? Let him come now to me, and he shall know that there is a prophet in Israel.

q Whom Joram had not advised with, either, because the sudden surprizal made him forget it: or, because he hated him, and scorned to beg to any thing from him. r There was no just occasion for thee to do so.

9 So Naaman came with his horses, and with his chariot, and stood at the door of the house of Elisha s.

s Waiting for Elisha's coming to him.

10 And Elisha sent a messenger unto him t, saying, Go, and wash in Jordan seven times, and thy flesh shall come again u unto thee, and + thou shalt be clean.

+ Heb. be clean.

t Which he did, partly, to try and exercise Naaman's Faith and Obedience: partly, for the Honour of his Religion and Ministry, that it might appear he fought not his own Glory and Profit in his miraculous Performances, but only God's Honour, and the Good of Men: and partly, for the discovery of the Almighty Power of God, that could by such slight means cure so desperate a Disease. u Which was in great part confirmed by the Leprosie. See Numb. 12. 12.

11 But Naaman was wroth x, and went away, and said, Behold, I + thought y, he will surely come out to me, and stand, and call on the Name of the LORD his God, and + strike his hand over the place, and recover the leper.

+ Heb. said, or, I said with my self, He will surely x Supposing himself despised and mocked by the Prophet. y Herein come out, he gives an Example of the perverseness of Mankind, who are apt to prefer their own Fancies before God's Appointments. + Heb. move up z Over or upon the afflicted part where the Leprosie is; without which it seemed to him ridiculous to expect a Cure.

12 Are not + Abana and Pharpar, rivers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel? May I not wash in them, and be clean a? So he turned and went away in a rage.

+ Heb. Amana.

a Is there not as great a vertue in them to this purpose? But he should have considered, that the Cure was not to be wrought by the Water, but by the Power of God: who might use what means and methods of Cure he pleased.

13 And his servants came near, and spake unto him, and said, My father b, if the prophet had bid thee do some great thing, wouldest thou not have done it? how much rather then, when he saith to thee, Wash and be clean?

b Or, our father. So they call him, both to shew their Reverence and Affection to him, and to mitigate his exasperated Mind.

14 Then went he down, and dipped himself seven times in Jordan, according to the saying of the man of God: and his flesh came again like unto the flesh of a little child c, and * he was clean.

* Luk. 4. 27.

c i. e. Fresh and pure, free from the least mixture or mark of the Disease.

15 ¶ And he returned to the man of God d, he and all his company, and came and stood before him: and he said, Behold, now I know that there is no God in all the earth, earth, but in Israel e: now therefore, I pray thee, take a blessing f of thy servant.

d To give him thanks, and a recompence for his great kindness.
e By this wonderful Work I am fully convinced, that the God of Israel is the only True God, and that other gods are but impotent Idols. f A thankful acknowledgment. See on Gen. 33. 11.

16 But he said, As the LORD liveth before whom I stand, I will receive none: and he urged him to take it, but he refused g.

g Not that he thought it simply unlawful to receive Gifts or Presents, which he did receive from others, chap. 4. 42. but because of the special circumstances of the present case; this being much for the Honour of the True God and Religion, that the Syrians should see the generous Piety, and Charity, and Kindness of his Ministers and Servants, and how much they despised all that worldly Wealth and Glory, which the Priests or Prophets of the Gemiles so greedily sought after; and that hereby Naaman might be much confirmed in that good Religion which he had embraced, and others might be brought to a love and liking of it.

17 And Naaman said, Shall there not then, I pray thee, be given to thy servant two mules burden of earth h? for thy servant will henceforth offer neither burnt-offering, nor sacrifice unto other gods, but unto the LORD.

h Wherewith I may make an Altar of Earth, as was usual, Exod. 20. 24. He desires the Earth of this Land, because he thought it more holy and acceptable to God, and proper for his Service; or, because he would by this Token profess and declare his Conjunction with the Israelites in the Worship of God, and constantly put himself in mind of his great Obligations to that God from whose Land this was taken. And though he might freely have taken this Earth without asking any leave, yet he rather desires it from the Prophet's Gift, as believing that he who had put so great a Vertue into the Waters of Israel, could put as much into the Earth of Israel, and make it as useful and beneficial to him in a better way. And these thoughts, though extravagant and groundless, yet were excusable in an Heathen, and a Novice, who was not yet thoroughly instructed in the True Religion.

‖ Or, be favourable to. So Gr.

18 In this thing the LORD ‖ pardon thy servant, that when my master goeth into the house of Rimmon i to worship there, and he leaneth on my hand k, and I bow myself in the house of Rimmon: when I bow down myself in the house of Rimmon l, the LORD pardon thy servant in this thing m.

i A Syrian Idol, called here by the LXX Remman, and Act. 7. 43. Remphan. k Or, arm, as that word sometimes signifies, both in Scripture and other Authors; or, shoulder. Upon which, the King leaned, either for state, or for support. Compare chap. 7. 2. l Not in honour to the Idol, which I do here, and shall there, openly renounce; but only in compliance with the King's infirmity and convenjency, who cannot well bow if I stand upright. m Because there seemed to be an appearance of Evil in this action, though done with an honest mind, he desires the Prophet's Prayers that God would not charge it upon him as Idolatry, nor be displeased with him for that practice.

19 And he said unto him, Go in peace n. So he departed from him † a little way.

† Heb. a little piece of ground.

n These words may contain an Answer: Either, First, To his last Petition, v. 18, and so the sense may be this, Be not too solicitous about this matter, Go, and the Peace or Blessing of God go along with thee. So the Prophet both Prays to God to bless and direct him in this and all other things, and intimates that God would do so. Or, Secondly, To the former, v. 17. trouble not thy self about any of our Earth, but go to thy own Land, and I wish thee from God, and doubt not but God will give thee peace, i. e. his favour and other Blessings, which are oft contained in this Word, if thou dost persist in this Religion which thou hast now received. Or rather, this is only a farewel Salutation, wherewith the Prophet dismisseth him without any further Answer to his Requests, or Instruction about his Doubt: which he forbore by the direction of God's Spirit, which sometimes gives and sometimes denies Instructions to Persons or People, as he thinks fit. See Act. 16. 6, 7. And the Prophet by the Spirits Direction might forbear to give him particular Answers, partly, because these matters were not of such importance as to concern the Essence or Foundation of Religion: and partly, because he was yet but a Novice, and not able to bear all Truths, which was for a time the condition of the Apostles, Joh. 16. 12. nor fit to be pressed to the practice of the hardest Duties, which Christ himself thought not convenient for his Disciples, Matth. 9. 14, 15, 16, 17. And therefore he at present accepts of his profession of the True, and his renunciation of the False Religion; and of this Declaration, that what he did in the Temple of Rimmon should not now be (as he had formerly intended and practised it) a Religious Action towards the Idol, but only a civil Respect to his Master. And what was necessary for him to know further about the Lawfulness or Sinfulness of that Action, the Prophet might take another and a more convenient time to inform him.

20 ¶ But Gehazi the servant of Elisha the man of God, said, Behold, my master hath spared Naaman this Syrian o, in not receiving at his hand that which he brought: but as the LORD liveth, I will run after him, and take somewhat of him p.

o A Stranger, and one of that Nation who are the implacable Enemies of God's People p, whom therefore my Master should not have had so much regard to, as to the Lord's Prophets, who better deserved and more needed the Money which he offered, than Naaman himself did. p He swears, that he might have some pretence for the Action to which he had bound himself by his Oath; not considering, that to swear to do any wicked Action, is so far from excusing it, that it makes it much worse.

Heb. is there peace?

21 So Gehazi followed after Naaman: and when Naaman saw him running after him, he lighted down from the chariot to meet him q, and said, † Is all well?

q Thereby testifying his great Respect to the Prophet his Master.

22 And he said, All is well: my master hath sent me r, saying, Behold, even now there be come to me from mount Ephraim two young men of the sons of the prophets: give them, I pray thee, a talent of silver, and two changes of garments.

r This was a very unlikely Story; but Naaman was not willing to question it, but glad of the opportunity of shewing his Gratitude to the Prophet.

23 And Naaman said, Be content, take two talents: and he urged him s, and bound two talents of silver in two bags, with two changes of garments, and laid them upon two of his servants, and they bare them before him.

s Who at first refused it upon a pretence of Modesty and Obedience to his Masters command.

24 And when he came to the ‖ tower t, he took them † Or, from their hand, and bestowed them in the house; and he let the men go u, and they departed. † Heb. to hide places.

t A safe and private place which he chose for that purpose, and where possibly he hid and kept other things which he had got by such like Frauds and Artifices. u Before they came within sight of his Master.

25 But he went in and stood before his master: and Elisha said unto him, Whence comest thou Gehazi? and he said, Thy servant went † no whither. † Heb. not hither, or thither.

26 And he said unto him, Went not mine heart with thee x, when the man turned again from his chariot to meet thee? Is it a time y to receive money, and to receive garments, and oliveyards, and vineyards, and sheep, and oxen, and men-servants, and maid-servants z?

x Did not my Mind, being enlightned by God's Spirit, discern what thou saidst and didst? y Was this a fit season for this action? I had but newly and obstinately refused his Gifts, for great Reasons; of which see on ver. 16. and now thou hast given him cause to think, that I was a cursed and wicked Impostor, who vain-gloriously refused a fitter place and opportunity to take; and that all our Religion is but an Imposture; and that the God who owns such a vile Wretch for his Prophet, as thou hast represented me to him, is not so holy and righteous as we pretend. z Which Gehazi intended to purchase with this Money: and therefore the Prophet names them, to inform him, That he exactly knew by Divine Inspiration not only Gehazi's outward Actions, but even his most secret Intentions.

27 The leprosy therefore of Naaman shall cleave unto thee, and unto thy seed for ever. ‖. And he went out from his presence † a leper as white as snow ***.

‖ i. e. For some Generations; or for a long time, as that word is oft used, and as may be thought by comparing this with Exod. 20. 5. and 34. 7. † Being confounded with the sense of his Guilt, and Shame, and Misery, and banished from the Company of others by God's Law, Levit. 13. and 14. * Which is the worst kind of Leprosie, and noted by Physicians to be incurable. See Exod. 4. 6. Numb. 12. 10. 2 Chron. 26. 19, 20. Nor was this punishment too severe for Gehazi's Wickedness, which was great, and various, horrid Covetousness, which is Idolatry; the Prophanation of God's Name, by a wicked Oath; down-right Theft; deliberate and impudent Lying, and that to a Prophet, which was in a manner a lying to the Holy Ghost, like theirs, Acts 5. 3. A desperate contempt of God's Omniscience, Justice, and Holiness; an horrible Reproach fastned upon the Prophet, and his Religion; and a mischievous Scandal given to Naaman and all other Syrians that might hear of it.

CHAP. VI.

Elisha giving leave to the young Prophets to enlarge their Dwellings, causeth Iron to swim, 1——7. He discloseth the King of Syria's Counsel, 8——12. Who sendeth Syrians to apprehend him: He is preserved by Angels, they are smitten with Blindness: are brought into Samaria, and dismissed in Peace, 13——23. Samaria is besieged, and brought to such extream Want and Famine, that Women eat their own Children, 24——29. The King sendeth to slay Elisha, 30——33.

AND the sons of the prophets a said unto Elisha, Behold now, the place where we dwell with thee b, is too strait for us c.

a Either at Bethel: or, Jericho: or rather, at Gilgal: as may seem from its nearness to the River of Jordan, ver. 2. b Or, before thy face: i. e. under thy Inspection and Direction; where thou dost frequently dwell with us. Or, to thy face; which may be joined with the following Words; and so the sense may be this: It is apparent to thy view, that this place is too strait for us. c The number of the Prophets increasing by the gracious Providence of God, and by the Ministry and Miracles of Elijah and Elisha.

2 Let us go, we pray thee, unto Jordan d, and take thence every man a beam e, and let us make us a place there where we may dwell. And he answered, Go ye.

d i. e. To the Woods near Jordan, which were near to them. See on v. 1. e i. e. A piece of Timber for the Building. Hence it may be gathered, That although the Sons of the Prophets principally devoted themselves to Religious Exercises, such as Prayer, and praising of God, and the studying of God's Word, and Instructing of others, and waiting for Divine Revelations; yet they did sometimes employ themselves about Manual Arts; which now they might be forced to, through the Iniquity of the Times.

3 And one said, Be content, I pray thee, and go with thy servants. And he answered, I will go.

4 So he went with them. And when they came to Jordan, they cut down wood.

5 But as one was felling a beam, the † ax head f fell † Heb. into the water: and he cried, and said, Alas master, for it was borrowed g.

f The Iron fell from the Wood. g He was the more concerned, partly, because he was now forced to be idle and useless to them in the common Work; and partly, because it was his Friends loss, who now was likely to suffer for his kindness; and as Justice obliged him to restore it, so his Poverty disenabled him from it.

6 And the man of God said, Where fell it? and he shewed him the place: and he cut down a stick, and cast it in thither, and the iron did swim.

7 Therefore said he, Take it up to thee: and he put out his hand, and took it.

8 ¶ Then the king of Syria warred against Israel, and took counsel with his servants, saying, † In such and such a place shall be my ‖ camp h.

† Heb. in the place of such a man, Or, encamping.

h Thither I will send my Forces, to surprize some place: or to lie in Ambush where the King or his People were to pass, ver. 9.

9 And the man of God sent unto the king of Israel, saying, Beware that thou pass not such a place, for thither the Syrians are come down.

10 And the king of Israel sent to the place b which the man of God told him, and warned him of, and saved himself i there not once nor twice k.

b Either Spies, to try whether the Prophet spake Truth: or rather Soldiers, to secure the Place and Passage designed. i Either his Person when he was to pass that way: or his People, or Places of Importance. k But much more frequently.

11 Therefore the heart of the king of Syria was sore troubled for this thing, and he called his servants, and said unto them, Will ye not shew me which of us is for the king of Israel?

12 And one of his servants said, † None, my lord, O king: but Elisha the prophet, that is in Israel, telleth the king of Israel the words that thou speakest in thy bedchamber. † Heb. no.

13 ¶ And he said, Go, and spie where he is, that I may send and fetch him l. And it was told him, saying, Behold he is in Dothan m.

l For though I cannot conceal my Designs from him, yet I may possibly take him by force; his Power being, I doubt not, much inferior to his Knowledge. m A City near Shechem, Gen. 37. 17. and not far from Samaria.

14 Therefore sent he thither horses, and chariots, and a † great host: and they came by night and compassed the city about. † Heb. heavy.

15 And when the ‖ servant of the man of god n was risen early, and gone forth o, behold, an host compassed the city, both with horses and chariots; and his servant said unto him, Alas my master, how shall we do? ‖ Ministrer.

n Who having been with him but a little time, even since Gehazi's Dismission, had not yet seen any Experiments of his great Power; or, if he had, his Faith might easily be shaken upon so great and sudden a danger. o Either out of the Gates of the City, where he might see them; or, out of his House into the Streets of the City, where he might learn this by the Common Fame and Tumult of the People.

16 And he answered, Fear not: for * they that be with us, are moe than they that be with them. * 2 Chron. 32. 7.

17 And Elisha prayed, and said, LORD, I pray thee, open his eyes, that he may see p. And the LORD opened the eyes of the young man, and he saw: and behold, the mountain was full of horses, and chariots of fire q round about Elisha r.

p That by some visible Appearance, he may see the Invisible Guard of Angels which incompass and defend us. q Which is useful, both for Defence to those that are surrounded by it, and Offence to the Enemies who shall attempt to break through it. r Either the Mountains were round about the City, and therefore round about Elisha, who was within it: or, he saw in a Vision, Elisha upon the Mountain encompassed with Fiery Horses and Chariots.

18 And when they came down to him s, Elisha prayed unto the LORD, and said, Smite this people, I pray thee, with blindness. And he smote them with blindness t, according to the word of Elisha.

s Either in the City, into which they easily got admission when they declared, That the only end of their coming, was to take Elisha: or in the Field without the City, whither he went to meet them. t Not with a total Blindness, that they could see nothing, for then they would not have followed him; but with a partial Blindness, that they could not distinctly discern the Man they sought: which might be by some Alteration made by God in their Brain, or in the Air. See the Notes on Gen. 19. 11.

19 ¶ And Elisha said unto them, This is not the way, neither is this the city u: † follow me, and I will bring you to the man whom ye seek x. But he led them to Samaria y. † Heb. come ye after me.

u To wit, where you will find the Man for whom you seek, which was very true; because he was now come out of the City: and if they had gone on in that way into the City, they had found that Elisha was gone thence. There is indeed some Ambiguity in his Speech, and an Intention to deceive them, which hath ever been esteemed lawful in the state of War, as appears from the use of Stratagems. x. And so he did, though not in such manner as they expected and desired. y Which seemed to them to be some small and ordinary City; their Senses being still deluded by a Divine Operation.

20 And it came to pass, when they were come into Samaria, that Elisha said, LORD, open the eyes of these men, that they may see. And the LORD opened their eyes, and they saw; and behold they were in the midst of Samaria.

21 And the king of Israel z said unto Elisha, when he saw them, My father a, shall I smite them? shall I smite them b?

z To whom Elisha had doubtless sent notice of his Intentions, that he might accordingly prepare himself. a Now he gives him this Title of Reverence and Affection, because of a great and present Benefit he received from him; though otherwise he hated him, and would not hearken to his Counsel. b The repetition of the question shews his great desire to smite them, and that with utter Destruction.

22 And he answered, Thou shalt not smite them: Wouldest thou smite those whom thou hast taken captive with thy sword, and with thy bow c? set bread and water before them d, that they may eat and drink, and go to their master.

c It is against the Laws of Humanity, and Custom of War, to kill Captives, though thou thy self hast taken them with thy own Sword and Bow; which may seem to give thee some colour of Right to destroy them; but much more unworthy will it be in cold Blood to kill these, whom not thy Arms, but God's Miraculous Providence hath put into thy Hands. d i. e. Give them Meat and Drink, which may refresh and strengthen them for their Journey. Which was an action of singular Piety and Charity, in doing good to their Enemies, which was much to the Honour of the True Religion; and of no less Prudence, that hereby the hearts of the Syrians might be both mollified towards the Israelites, and afraid to Oppose that People who had such an Invincible Protector.

23 And he prepared great provision for them, and when they had eaten and drunk, he sent them away e, and they went to their master. So the bands of Syria came no more f into the land of Israel.

e Refreshed, but Disarmed, as is most probable. f Either, 1. In such a manner, to wit, in small Bands, or Companies, which might be Entrapped, as these had been: but their next Attempt was, by an open and solemn War, and a Conjunction of all their Forces, which they still ridiculously conceited would be too hard for the King, and Prophet, and God of Israel; notwithstanding their multiplied Experiences to the contrary. Or, 2. For some considerable time; until the Terror of these Examples was got out of their Minds.

24 ¶ And it came to pass after this, that Benhadad king of Syria g gathered all his host, and went up, and besieged Samaria.

g He whom Ahab wickedly and foolishly spared, 1 King. 20. 42. who now comes to require Ahab's Kindness, and to fulfil that Divine Prediction. Benhadad was a name very frequent among the Kings of Syria, 1 King. 15, 18, &c. and Chap. 13. 24. 2 King. 13. 3, 24. if not common to them all. See Jer. 49. 27. Amos 1. 4.

25 And there was a great famine in Samaria: and behold they besieged it, until an asses head was sold for fourscore pieces h of silver, and the fourth part of a kab i of doves dung k for five pieces of silver.

h Supposed to be Shekels; and the common Shekel being valued at fifteen pence of English Money, this amounts to five pounds. A vast price, especially for that which had not in it so little Meat, and that unwholsome, and unclean by Law, Levit. 11. 13. though necessity might seem to excuse their Violation of that Law. i A Measure containing 24 Eggs. k Which they used not for Fire (for he is speaking here onely of the scarcity of Food) but for Food. Which if it seem incredible, it must be considered, First, That Famine hath constrained People to eat things as improper and unfit for nourishment as this, as dry Leather, and Man's Dung, as is implied, Isa. 36. 12. and affirmed by grave Historians. Secondly, That some Creatures do usually eat the Dung of others. Thirdly, That Doves Dung, though it be hotter than ordinary, might in other respects be fitter for Nourishment than other, as being made of the best and purest Grains, and having some moisture in it, &c. Fourthly, That this Hebrew Word being of an obscure and doubtful signification, and no where else used, may be, and is by Learned Men otherwise rendred and understood: either, first, of the Corn which is found in the Crops of Doves: or, secondly, of the Guts and other Inwards of Doves: or rather, thirdly, of a sort of Cicer or Pease, which in the Arabick Language (which is near a kin to the Hebrew, and from which many Words are explained) is called Doves Dung: for this was a Food much in use amongst the poorer Israelites, and was by all esteemed a very coarse Food, and therefore fit to be joined with an Asses Head: and a Kab was the usual Measure of all sorts of Grains and Fruits of that sort.

26 And as the king of Israel was passing by upon the wall l, there cried a woman unto him, saying, Help my lord, O king.

l To give necessary order for the Defence of the City against Assaults, and to see if the several Guards were watchful and diligent, and if his Directions were executed, and to observe the Motions of the Enemy.

27 And he said, ‖ If the LORD do not help thee m, whence shall I help thee? out of the barn-floor, or out of the wine-press n? ‖ Or, Let not the Lord save thee.

m Or, No God help thee, as some both ancient and late Interpreters render the Words. So they are Words of Impatience, and Rage, and a Cursed Curse, wishing that God would not help her, as he could not, as Festus among Heathens understand it: which agrees too well with the Character of the Man, an Infidel, and an Idolater, and a wicked Man, and at this time in a great Rage, as appears from ver. 31. Or, they may be rendred thus, No; (as this Hebrew Particle is sometimes used, as Job 20. 17. Psal. 34. 5. and 41. 2. and 50. 3. Prov. 3. 25. and 31. 4.) let the Lord help thee. So it may be taken, either,

First,

Fifth, As a Direction: No: do not cry to me; but to God for help: God help thee, for I cannot. Or rather, Secondly, As a prophane Scoff. No: come not to me, but go to him to whom Elisha directs you; Pray to the Lord: you see how ready he is to help you, by his suffering you to come to this Extremity: wait upon God for Relief, as Elisha adviseth me: but I will wait no longer for him, ver. 33. and I will take a course with Elisha for thus abusing both me and my People with vain hopes. Or, thus, the Lord (on whom forsooth thou and I are commanded to wait for help) will not help thee, as he could easily do, and would do, if he were so good as Elisha pretends; whence then shall I help thee? n Doft thou ask of me Corn or Wine, which I want for my self?

28 And the king said unto her, What aileth thee? And she answered, This woman said unto me, Give thy son, that we may eat him to day, and we will eat my son to morrow.

29 So* we boiled my son, and did eat him o: and I said unto her on the † next day, Give thy son, that we may eat him: and she hath hid her son p.

* Deut. 28. 53, 57. † Heb. other.

o A dreadful Judgment threatned to them in case of their Apostacy, Deut. 28. 56, 57. in which they were now deeply plunged. Compare Ezek. 5. 10. p Either, that the might eat him alone; or rather, that she might save him from Death, her Bowels yerning towards him, and her hunger being in great measure satisfied.

30 ¶ And it came to pass, when the king heard the words of the woman, that he rent his clothes q, and he passed by upon the wall, and the people r looked, and behold, he had sackcloth within upon his flesh s.

q Partly, in Grief for such an horrid Fact: and partly, through Indignation at the Prophet, ver. 31. r Who were in great numbers upon the Wall, either to defend the City: or rather, to seek for relief from the Soldiers, for whose Provisions the King doubtless took special care, as it was necessary, for the preservation of the place. s Under his inner Garments, in token of his sorrow, and with a pretence of humiliation, which he would shew by outward signs, as his Father Ahab had done, not without some advantage to himself, 1 King. 21. 27, 28, 29.

* Ruth 1. 17.

31 Then he said, * God do so, and more also to me, if the head of Elisha the son of Shaphat shall stand on him this day t.

t If I do not this day take his head and life. This wretched and partial Prince overlooks his own great and various sins, and amongst others, his obstinate cleaving to the Idolatry of the Calves, and the Whoredoms and witchcrafts of his Mother Jezebel, 2 King. 9. 22. and the Wickedness of his People, which was the true and proper cause of this and all their Calamities; and lays the blame of all upon Elisha, either, supposing that he who had the Spirit of Elijah resting upon him, had brought this Famine by his Prayers, as Elijah had formerly done, 1 King. 17. 1. or, because he had encouraged them to withstand the Syrians, by promising them help from God in due time: or, because he would not by his intercession to God, and the working of a Miracle, deliver them from these Calamities, as he easily could have done. But he did not consider, that the Prophets could not work what Miracles, and when they pleased, but only as far as God saw fit, whose time was not yet come: otherwise, it was Elisha's Interest, as well as theirs, to be freed from this distress.

32 But Elisha sat in his house u (and the Elders x sat with him) and the king sent a man from before him y: but e're the messenger came to him, he said to the elders z, See ye how this son of a murderer a hath sent to take away mine head b? Look when the messenger cometh, shut the door, and hold him c fast at the door: Is not the sound of his masters feet behind him d?

u In the House where he lodged: for he had no House of his own, having forsaken all when he followed Elijah, 1 King. 19. 20, 21. x So they might be called, Either, First, From their age. Or rather, Secondly, from their office, which was either Ecclesiastical, or Civil: so they were either the Sons of the Prophets: or rather, some Godly men who were then in some Power and Office, either in the Court, or Army, or City, as may seem probable from what he requires of them. And though Joram was a wicked King, and most of his Officers probably like himself; ye there were some of them, whom Elisha's Holy Life, and Powerful Ministry, and Glorious Miracles, and the great and publick benefits procured by him, had won to God, and to the True Religion, at least to the profession of it, among which Jehu might be one: and these were here sitting with him; either, to receive comfort and counsel from him in this distressed time; or rather, to follicite him to use his Power with God, for their relief: which accordingly he doth, and in compliance with them, not out of any fear of the King, (from which he very well knew by frequent experience, and certain assurance, that God both could and would deliver him,) he gives the following answer, chap. 7. 1. y Or, one of them who stood before his face, one of his Guard, or some other Officer, to take away his head, as it follows. z Being admonished by God of his danger. a The genuine Son of that wicked Ahab the Murderer of the Lord's Prophets, 1 King. 18. 4. and 21. 9. whose son he is not by Birth only, but also by his manners and bloody disposition. Compare Joh. 8. 44. This expression may seem very harsh and unfit; nor is it to be drawn into imitation by others: but it must be considered, that he was an extraordinary Prophet, intrusted with a Power in some sort superior to that of Joram, and had Authority to controle and rebuke him in the Name of the King of kings. b To kill me, before he hear what I have to say. c Not the King, but the Messenger, who was last mentioned; that he may not break in upon me, and take away my Life, before the King comes. d You shall not need to hold him long, for the King is just at his heels coming, as is probable; either, to recal his rash and furious sentence; or, at least to debate the matter with the Prophet, and to procure relief.

33 And while he yet talked with them, behold, the messenger came down unto him e: and he said f, Behold, this evil g is of the LORD h, what should I wait for the LORD any longer i?

e To wit, to the Door, where also we are to understand that he was held fast, that he could not come at the Prophet till the King came, as the Prophet had commanded them to do. f Either, 1. The Messenger in the Kings name and words. Or, Secondly, The King himself, who, though not here named, may be presumed to be present, both by the Prophets prediction of his speedy coming, and by the presence of the lord, on whose hand the king leaned, chap. 7. 2. g This dreadful Famine, which is now so extream, that Women are forced to eat their own Children. h He hath inflicted it, and (for ought that I see) he will not remove it. Thus he lays all the blame upon God, not, as he ought, upon his own, and his Mothers wickedness, which provoked God, who doth not willingly afflict, to send this heavy Judgment upon him. i Thou bidst me wait upon God for help: but I perceive I may wait long enough before deliverance comes: I am weary with waiting, I can wait no longer.

CHAP. VII.

Elisha prophesieth incredible Plenty in Samaria: And the death of a great Lord, who would not believe the Prophesie, 1, 2. Four Lepers visit the Camp of the Syrians, and bring tidings of their flight, being hasted away by God, 3——11. The King sendeth Spies, who confirm this Report: And he spoileth their Tents: Great Plenty: The Lord, on whose Hand the King leaned, is trodden upon by the People, and dieth, 12——20.

THen Elisha said a, Hear ye the word of the LORD, Thus saith the LORD b, To morrow about this time shall a measure c of fine flour be sold for a shekel d, and two measures of barley for a shekel, in the gate of Samaria.

a Either, to the Messenger, to be reported to the King: or rather, to the King, being then come to him, as it is expressed, ver. 18. and to his Courtiers, who were come with him, ver. 2. b The Lord, whom you have so highly offended, and at present despise and refuse to wait upon, of his own meer Grace and Bounty hath sent you the glad tidings of your deliverance. c Heb. Seah, a Measure containing six Cabs, or 144 Egg-shells, or about a Peck and a Pottle of our Measure. d Compare this with chap. 6. 25.

2 Then † a lord on whose hand the king leaned e, answered the man of God, and said, Behold, if the LORD would make windows f in heaven, might this thing be? And he said, behold, thou shalt see it with thine eyes, but shalt not eat thereof g.

† Heb. a lord which belonged to the King, leaning upon his hand.

e When he walked. See chap. 5. 18. f Through which he could Rain down Corn, as once he did Manna. g A just punishment for such peremptory unbelief, whereby he made not only the Prophet, but even God himself (in whose Name it was evident Elisha said and did this and other things) a lyar.

3 ¶ And there were four leprous men at the entring in of the gate h: and they said one to another, Why sit we hear until we die?

h To wit, of the City; out of which they were shut by virtue of God's Law, Leu. 13. 46. and 14. 3. either, the dwelling place of the Lepers, was near the Gate: or, they were come very near the Gate, for fear of the Syrians.

4 If we say, we will enter into the city, then the famine is in the city, and we shall die there: and if we sit still here, we die also. Now therefore come, and let us fall unto the host of the Syrians: if they save us alive, we shall live; and if they kill us, we shall but die.

5 And they rose up in the twilight i to go unto the camp of the Syrians: and when they were come to the uttermost part of the camp of Syria, behold, there was no man there.

i In the Evening twilight, as appears from v. 9. and 12.

6 For the LORD made the host of the Syrians to * hear a noise k of chariots, and a noise of horses, even the noise of a great host: and they said one to another, Lo, the king of Israel hath hired against us the kings of the Hittites l, and the kings of the Egyptians m to come upon us.

* Sam. 5. 24.

k Either, in the Air: or rather in their Ears: otherwise the Samaritans had heard it. l Under which name (as elsewhere under the name of the Amorites) he seems to understand all, or any of the People of Canaan. For though the greatest number of that People were destroyed, yet very many of them were spared, and many of them upon Joshua's coming, fled away, some to more remote parts, (which that famous and ancient Inscription upon a Pillar in Africa testifies) and others to the Lands bordering upon Canaan, where by reason of the scarcity of Inhabitants there was in that Age room enough for them; and there they seated themselves, and grew numerous and powerful, and had (after their ancient and constant manner) Kings over them. The Kings also of Tyrus or Sidon may be here included. m By which they may understand, either the King of Egypt, the Plural number being put for the Singular, as it is elsewhere: or, the Princes and Governors of the several Nomi or Provinces in Egypt, such being oft called kings in Scripture.

7 Wherefore they arose and fled in the twilight, and left their tents, and their horses, and their asses, even the camp as it was, and fled for life.

∴ To save their Lives; which they fancied to be in such present and extream danger, that they durst not stay to take away any of their Goods, but every man fled the next way before him.

8 And when these lepers came to the uttermost part of the camp, they went into one tent, and did eat and drink, and carried thence silver, and gold, and raiment, and went and hid it: and came again, and entred into another tent, and carried thence also, and went and hid it.

9 Then they said one to another, We do not well*: this day is a day of good tidings, and we hold our peace: if we tarry till the morning-light, † some mischief will come upon us: now therefore come, that we may go and tell the kings houshold.

† Heb. we shall find punishments.

* Not well for our Brethren, whom we should pity and help: nor well for our selves; for we may suffer for this neglect: either, from the Syrians, who may lie lurking hreabouts; or, from our King and people; or, from God's immediate hand.

10 So they came, and called unto the porter of the city: and they told them o, saying, We came to the camp of the Syrians, and behold, there was no man there, neither voice of man, but horses tied, and asses tied, and the tents as they were.

o To wit, the Porter and his Companies.

11 And he called the porters p, and they told it to the kings house within.

p Either, his fellow-porters of the City: or rather, the Porters or Guards of the Gate of the King's House.

12 ¶ And the king arose in the night, and said unto his servants, I will now shew you what the Syrians have done to us: they know that we be hungry, therefore are they gone out of the camp, to hide themselves in the field, saying, When they come out of the city, we shall catch them alive, and get into the city.

13 And one of his servants answered and said, Let some take, I pray thee, five of the horses that remain, which are left † in the city: (behold, they are as the multitude of Israel that are left in it: behold, I say, they are even as all the multitude of the Israelites that are consumed q) and let us send and see.

† Heb. in it.

q So the sense is, We may well venture these horses, though we have no more, because both they and we are ready to perish through hunger; and therefore let us use them whilst we may for our common good, or to make the discovery. But the repitition of the Phrase seems to imply something more emphatical and significant than the saving of four or five Horses, for which it is not probable they would be so much concerned in their circumstances. The words therefore may be rendred otherwise, Behold, they are of a truth (the Hebrew prefix, Caph, being not here a note of similitude, as the other Translations make it, and as it is commonly used, but an affirmation of the truth and certainty of the things, as it is taken Numb. 11. 1. Deut. 9. 10. Hos. 4. 4. and 5. 10. Job. 1. 14.) all the multitude of the horses of Israel that are left in it: (to wit, in the City:) behold, I say, they are even all the multitude of the Horses of the Israelites, which (i. e. which multitude) are consumed, i. e. reduced to this small number, all consumed except these five. And thus the vulgar Latin, and some others, understand it. And this was indeed a memorable passage, and worthy of a double behold, to shew what mischief the Famine had done both upon Men and Beasts, and to what a low ebb the King of Israel was come, that all his Troops of Horses, to which he had trusted, were shrunk to so small a number.

14 They took therefore † two chariot-horses r, and the king sent after the host of the Syrians, saying, Go, and see.

† Heb. two chariots of horses, 1 Kin. 20. 33.

r Or, two chariots of horses: or rather, two chariot-horses, as divers render the words, i. e. Horses which belonged to the Kings Chariots. For single Horses seem much more proper for this service, than Chariots and Horses. And whereas it was moved by the King's Servant, that all the five Horses should be sent, it seems it was thought by the King and others, that two were sufficient for that purpose.

15 And they went after them unto Jordan, and lo, all the way was full of garments and vessels, which the Syrians had cast away † in their haste s: and the messengers returned and told the king.

† Or, in their affrightment.

s For, in their fear or consternation, wherewith God struck them.

16 And the people went out, and spoiled the tents of the Syrians: So a measure of fine flour was sold for a shekel, and two measures of barley for a shekel, according to the word of the LORD.

17 ¶ And the king appointed the lord on whose hand he leaned, to have the charge of the gate t: and the people trod upon him in the gate, and he died, as the man of God had said, who spake when the king came down to him.

t Partly, to prevent tumults, and disorders and mischiefs amongst the People: and partly, to take order about the shutting of the Gates, if need were, and if the Syrians should happen to return upon them.

18 And it came to pass, as the man of God had spoken to the king, saying, Two measures of barley for a shekel, and a measure of fine flour for a shekel, shall be to morrow about this time in the gate of Samaria:

19 And that lord answered the man of God, and said, Now behold, if the LORD should make windows in heaven, might such a thing be? And he said, Behold, thou shalt see it with thine eyes, but shalt not eat thereof.

20 And so it fell out unto him: for the People trod upon him in the gate, and he died.

CHAP. VIII.

The Shunamite having, by Elisha's Advice, left the Land, because of the Famine, returneth home: And hath her whole Estate restored to her for Elisha's sake, 1——6. He cometh to Damascus: Benhadad is sick: And sendeth Hazael to him with Presents: Elisha foretelleth Benhadad's violent death: and Hazael's cruel Reign, with Tears: Hazael's Answer: He killeth his Master, and succeedeth him, 7——15. Jehoram's wicked Reign in Judah: Edom and Libna revolt, 16——22. He dieth, and Ahaziah his Son succeedeth him: His wicked reign: He entertaineth Friendship with Joram King of Israel, 23——29.

THen a spake Elisha unto the woman b (* whose son he had restored to life) saying, Arise, and go thou and thine houshold, and sojourn wheresoever thou canst sojourn c: for the LORD * hath called for a famine d, and it shall also come upon the land seven years e.

* Chap. 4. 35. * Psal. 105. 16. Hag. 1. 11.

a This particle of time may be understood, either, particularly and definitely of the time next following the former History: or, more generally and indefinitely (as it is frequently used) of the time in which Elisha and this Shunamitish Woman lived. Possibly this might happen before the History of Naaman, chap. 5. or at least, before the Siege of Samaria, chap. 6. But this is not certain. b Expressing his gratitude for her former Kindnesses, by taking special care for her preservation. c In any convenient place out of the Land of Israel. d i. e. Hath appointed to bring a Famine, or a great scarcity of Provisions. This Expression intimates, that all afflictions are sent by God, and come at his Call or Command. e A double time to the former Famine under Elijah, Jam. 5. 17. which is but just and reasonable, because they were still obstinate and incorrigible under all the severe and succeeding Judgments of God, and under the powerful ministry of Elisha, who confirmed his Doctrine by glorious Miracles. See Levit. 26. 21, 24, 28.

2 And the woman arose, and did after the saying of the man of God: and she went with her houshold, and sojourned in the land of the Philistines f seven years.

f Either, because that was near her Lands and Dwelling, which she thought she might have an eye to, when occasion required: or, because there was more plenty than in Judah: or, because she knew that her going to dwell in Judah would be very displeasing to the King of Israel, whose favour she was like to need hereafter. Nor was there now that danger of Idolatry from the Philistines, as there had been formerly, because their Power and influence was now grown inconsiderable, and probably many of the Jews and Israelites lived among them. And this Land, though bordering upon Israel, was free from this Famine, that it might appear that this was a special Hand and Judgment of God upon the Israelites for their Idolatry, and for their unprofitableness under all the means of Grace which now they plentifully enjoyed by Elisha and many other Prophets; which the Philistines not enjoying, their sin was much less, and therefore their present condition was better.

3 And it came to pass at the seven years end, that the woman returned out of the land of the Philistines: and she went forth to cry unto the king for her house, and for her land g.

g Which having been forsaken by her, were possessed by her Kindred, or others, who had obtained them from the King, and now intended to keep the possession of them.

4 And the king talked with Gehazi the servant of the man of God h, saying, Tell me, I pray thee, all the great things that Elisha hath done.

h Quest. How could the King speak with Gehazi who was a Leper? Ans. Either, the King might speak with him at a convenient distance, it being usual for others to discourse with Lepers, as 2 King. 7. 8. Matth. 8. 2. Luk. 17. 12. or, his Leprosy might be of that sort which was not infectious: or, if his Leprosy was such as made him yet to be unclean, the King's great Curiosity might easily prevail with him to break a Ceremonial Law, who made no scruple of violating God's Moral Law.

5 And it came to pass, as he was telling the king how he had restored a dead body to life, that behold, the woman i whose son he had restored to life, cried to the king, for her house, and for her land. And Gehazi said, My lord, O king, this is the Woman, and this is her son, whom Elisha restored to life.

i By God's wonderful and Gracious Providence brought thither in the most advantagious season.

6 And when the king asked the woman k, she told him, So the king appointed unto her a certain ‖ Officer, saying, Restore all that was hers, and all the fruits of the field, since the day that she left the land, even till now.

‖ Or, eunuch.

k Concerning the truth of Gehazi's relation.

7 ¶ And Elisha came to Damascus l; and Ben-hadad the king of Syria was sick, and it was told him, saying, The man of God is come hither.

l Either to the City; or rather, to the Kingdom of Damascus; by comparing v. 9. as Samaria, which properly was the name of the City, is sometimes the name of the Kingdom; of which see on 1 King. 13. 32. Hither he came by the special direction of the Spirit, and under God's protection, upon the Errand here following.

8 And the king said unto Hazael, Take a present in thine hand m, and go meet the man of God, and enquire of the LORD by him, saying, Shall I recover of this disease?

m By which he thought to purchase his Favour, and the healing of his Disease.

9 So Hazael went to meet him, and took a present † with him, even of every good thing of Damascus, forty camels burden n, and came and stood before him, and his son said, thy son Ben-hadad o king of Syria hath sent me to thee, saying, Shall I † recover of this disease?

† Heb. in his hand. † Heb. live.

n Hazael carried the more noble Present, hoping, as his Master did, to get some Interest in the Prophet, and advantage to himself by it.

if. Whether the Prophet received it or not, is not here mentioned; but it is moſt probable he did not, from his former practice, chap. 5. and becauſe the Reaſons which then ſwayed him, were ſtill of the ſame Force. o He who before perſecuted him as an Enemy, chap. 6. 13,14. now in his Extremity honours him like a Father.

10 And Eliſha ſaid unto him, Go, ſay unto him, Thou mayeſt certainly recover: howbeit, the LORD hath ſhewed me, that he ſhall ſurely die p.

p Here is no contradiction: for the firſt Words contain an Anſwer to Benhadad's Queſtion, ver. 8. Shall I recover this Diſeaſe? To which the Anſwer is, thou mayeſt or ſhalt recover, i. e. notwithſtanding thy Diſeaſe, which is not mortal, and ſhall not take away thy life. The latter Words contain the Prophet's Explication of, or Addition to that Anſwer, which is, that he ſhould die, not by the power of his Diſeaſe, but by ſome other Cauſe. But it is obſervable, that in the Hebrew Text it is, lo, the Adverb, which ſignifies not; which though moſt affirm to be put for lo, the Pronoun, ſignifying to him; yet others take it as it lies, and Tranſlate the Words thus, Say, thou ſhalt not recover: for the Lord hath ſhewed me, that he ſhall ſurely die. Or, according to the former reading, the firſt Words may be taken interrogatively, ſay unto him, Shall thou indeed recover? (as thou doſt flatter thy ſelf): no: (which Negation is implied in the very queſtion, and gathered from the following Words) for the Lord hath ſhewed me, that he ſhall ſurely die.

11 And he ſetled his countenance † ſtedfaſtly q, until he was aſhamed r: and the man of God wept.

q The Prophet fixed his Eyes upon Hazael. r Either, till the Prophet was aſhamed to look any longer upon him: or, till Hazael was aſhamed, as apprehending that the Prophet ſuſpected or diſcerned ſomething extraordinary, and of an evil and ſhameful Nature in him. The Hebrew Words are ambiguous, and may indifferently be referred to either of them; but they ſeem more properly to belong to Hazael, becauſe it follows by way of Diſtinction, the Man of God wept.

* Chap. 10. 32. & 13. 3. Amos 1. 3. * Chap. 15. 16. Hoſ. 13. 16 Amos 1. 13.

12 And Hazael ſaid, Why weepeth my lord? And he anſwered, Becauſe I know * the evil that thou wilt do unto the children of Iſrael ſ: their ſtrong holds wilt thou ſet on fire, and their young men wilt thou ſlay with the ſword, and wilt * daſh their children, and rip up their women with child.

ſ So here was a double Cauſe of his Grief and Tears, the evil of ſin in Hazael: and the evil of ſuffering upon Iſrael.

13 And Hazael ſaid, But what, is thy ſervant a dog t, that he ſhould do this great thing? And Eliſha anſwered, The LORD hath ſhewed me that thou ſhalt be king over Syria u.

t Either, ſo vile and unworthy, as this Expreſſion is uſed, 2 Sam. 3. 8. and 9. 8. or ſo impudent, for which Dogs are noted: or, ſo fierce, and barbarous, and inhumane. Compare Pſal. 22. 16, 20. and 59. 6. u And when thou ſhalt have Power in thy hand, thou wilt diſcover that bloody Diſpoſition, and that Hatred againſt God's People, which now lies hid from others, and poſſibly from thy ſelf; and therefore with the Kingdom thou wilt inherit their cruel Diſpoſitions.

14 So he departed from Eliſha, and came to his maſter, who ſaid to him, What ſaid Eliſha to thee? And he anſwered, He told me that thou ſhouldeſt ſurely recover x.

x He repreſents the Prophets Anſwer by halves, that by his Maſters Security he might have the fitter opportunity to execute his Treaſonable Deſign.

15 And it came to paſs on the morrow, that he took a thick cloth, and dipt it in water, and ſpread it on his face y, ſo that he died: and Hazael reigned in his ſtead z.

y Pretending it may be to cool his immoderate Heat with it, but applying it ſo cloſely, that he cheaked him therewith: by which Artifice his Death ſeemed to be Natural, there being no ſigns of a violent Death upon his Body. And this he the more boldly attempted, becauſe the Prophet's Prediction made him confident of the Succeſs. z Having the favour of the People, and of the Men of War.

* 2 Chr. 21. 4. † Heb. reigned.

16 ¶ And in the fifth year of Joram the ſon of Ahab king of Iſrael, Jehoſhaphat being then king of Judah, * Jehoram the ſon of Jehoſhaphat king of Judah † began to reign a.

a Jehoram was firſt made King or Vice-Roy by his Father divers Years before this time, to wit, at his expedition to Ramoth-Gilead, as was noted before; which Dominion of his ended at his Fathers return. But now Jehoſhaphat, being not far from his Death, and having divers Sons, and fearing ſome Competition and Diſſention among them, makes Jehoram King the ſecond time, as David did Solomon upon the like occaſion, 1 Chron. 29. 22. which is the thing here related. But of this ſee more in the Notes on 2 King. 1. 17. and 3. 1.

c After his Father's Death. d Athaliah, ver. 26. This unequal Marriage, though Jehoſhaphat poſſibly deſigned it as a mean of uniting the two Kingdoms under one Head, and in the True Religion, is here and elſewhere noted, as the Cauſe both of the great Wickedneſs of his Poſterity, and of thoſe ſore Calamities which befel them.

* 2 Sam. 7. 13. † Heb. candle, or lamp.

19 Yet the LORD would not deſtroy Judah, for David his ſervants ſake, * as he promiſed him to give him alway e a † light ſ, and to his children.

e Heb. all days, until the coming of the Meſſiah, as it is elſewhere limited and explained: for ſo long, and not longer, this Succeſſion might ſeem neceſſary for the making good of God's Promiſe and Covenant made with David. But when the Meſſiah was once come, there was no more need of any Succeſſion, and the Scepter might and did without any Inconvenience depart from Judah, and from all the ſucceeding Branches of David's Family, becauſe the Meſſiah was to hold the Kingdom for ever in his own Perſon, though not in ſo groſs a way as the carnal Jews imagined, but in a Spiritual manner. ſ i. e. 21 So Joram went over to Zair, and all the chariots with him, and he roſe by night and ſmote the Edomites which compaſſed him about: and the captains of the chariots, and the people b fled into their tents.

b i. e. The common Soldiers of the Edomites, herein following the example of their Captains.

22 Yet Edom revolted i from under the hand of Judah until this day. Then Libnah k revolted l at the ſame time.

i For though Joram had given them a Defeat, yet it may ſeem to have been no great ſlaughter, but only a putting them to flight; and therefore they might eaſily rally again. And Jehoram could not purſue the Victory, becauſe he was recalled by the revolt of his own Subjects, which had took the occaſion of his Abſence, and probably feared that others would follow their Example, if they had the like occaſion. k A conſiderable City in Judah, belonging to the Prieſts, Joſ. 15. 42. and 21. 13. l Why, ſee 2 Chron. 21. 10, 11. 24 And Joram ſlept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David: and * Ahaziah his ſon reigned in his ſtead. * 2 Chr. 22. 1.

25 ¶ In the twelfth year of Joram n the ſon of Ahab king of Iſrael, did Ahaziah o the ſon of Jehoram king of Judah begin to reign.

n Obj. It was in the eleventh year of Joram, chap. 9. 29. Anſw. Either, Firſt, He began to Reign in the Confines of Joram's 11th and 12th Year, in the very end of his 11th Year, or towards the beginning of the 12th, whence it is indifferently aſcribed to the one or the other. Or, Secondly, The one year of Ahaziah did concur with the latter half of Joram's 11th Year, and the former half of his 12th Year: and if he could not be ſaid to begin to reign in both theſe Years, yet he might unqueſtionably be ſaid to reign in both of them; and the Hebrew word, both here and chap. 9. 29. properly ſignifies he reigned, and not, he began to reign, as it is Tranſlated. Or, Thirdly, Ahaziah began to Reign with his Father, and during his Life, according to the late Examples both in Judah and Iſrael, there being alſo ſpecial occaſion for it, by reaſon of Joram's cruel and long ſickneſs, 2 Chron. 21, 18, &c. and this was in Joram's 11th Year, and then his Father died, and he began his ſingle Reign in Joram's 12th Year. o Called alſo Jehoahaz, 2 Chron. 21. 17. and Azariah, 2 Chron. 22. 6.

26 Two and twenty years old p was Ahaziah when he began to reign; and he reigned one year in Jeruſalem; and his mothers name was Athaliah, the daughter q of Omri king of Iſrael.

27 And he walked in the way of the houſe of Ahab, and did evil in the ſight of the LORD, as did the houſe of Ahab; for he was the ſon in law of the houſe of Ahab r.

r He was the proper Son of Athaliah, Daughter of Ahab, and the Grand-Son-in-law of Ahab, becauſe his Father was Ahab's Son-in-law, ver 18.

11 ¶ Then Jehu came forth to the ſervants of his lord k, and one ſaid unto him, Is all † well? Wherefore came this mad fellow m to thee? And he ſaid unto him, Ye know the man, and his communication n.

k To the reſt of the Commanders and Officers there preſent. l Is not this unlucky Meſſenger come with ſome ill Tidings? m They perceived him to be a Prophet by his Habit, and Geſtures, and manner of Speech. And theſe prophane Soldiers eſteemed the Lord's Prophets Mad-men: partly, becauſe of their neglect of themſelves, and contempt of all Worldly Wealth and Honour, which the wiſe Men of this World ſo greedily ſeek, and of their ſtrange and uncouth manner of living: partly, becauſe of their Holy Exerciſes to which they devoted themſelves, which they eſteemed nothing but a Religious Phrenzy: and partly, becauſe of thoſe unuſual and ſeemingly ridiculous Geſtures and Actions which the Prophets ſometimes uſed in raptures of Spirit, or in the Fervours of Devotion. Compare Jer. 29. 26. Joh. 10. 20. Act. 26. 24. n You rightly gueſs that he was a Mad-man, and ſo it appears by his Diſcourſe with me, which was, after the manner of that ſort of Men, vain and impertinent, to tell me of my ſins, or of my duty, or ſuch things as are not worth my ſpeaking, or your hearing.

12 And they ſaid, It is falſe o; tell us now p. And he ſaid, Thus and thus ſpake he to me, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD, I have anointed thee king over Iſrael.

o There is ſomething extraordinary and of great Importance in his Meſſage, as we plainly perceive by his calling thee into an inner Chamber, by his great Expedition, and by his Geſture and Carriage. p His Concealment of the thing made them more greedy to know it.

† Heb. reigneth.

13 Then they haſted q, and took every man his garment, and put it under him r on the top of the ſtairs ſ, and blew with trumpets, ſaying, Jehu † is king.

q Being well pleaſed with the thing; partly, from the advantage which hereby they expected; partly, from that deſire of Change which is in moſt Mens Natures; and principally, by God's Providence, inclining their Hearts to Jehu. r A Ceremony uſed in the Eaſtern parts towards Superiors, in token of great Reverence to his Perſon, that they would not have his Feet to touch the Ground, and that they put themſelves and their Concerns under his Feet, and into his Diſpoſal. See on Matth. 21. 7. ſ In ſome high and eminent place, whence he might be ſeen and owned by all the Soldiers, who were called together upon this great occaſion.

14 So Jehu the ſon of Jehoſhaphat the ſon of Nimſhi, conſpired againſt Joram: (Now Joram had kept Ramoth-giliad t, he and all Iſrael, becauſe of Hazael king of Syria:

t Which Interpreters conclude to have been taken by Joram before this time, though the taking of it be not mentioned. This they gather, Firſt, from the mention of the inner chamber, ver. 2. and of the top of the ſtairs here. Secondly, From ver. 15. let none go forth out of the City. But theſe Arguments ſeem not to be cogent. Not the former, becauſe there might be ſome Suburbs or out-Buildings belonging to the City, or not far from it, which the Iſraelites might have in their Poſſeſſion. Nor the latter, as we ſhall there ſee. And if it was taken, why ſhould all Iſrael be there to keep it, for which a ſtrong Garriſon was ſufficient? The Words therefore may be otherwiſe rendred, exactly according to the Hebrew, Joram had kept, or did keep (to wit, by his Army left there) or put guards, or laid ſiege at, or to (for ſo the Particle Beth is oft uſed) Ramoth-Gilead. And therefore he had all Iſrael, i. e. all the Military Force of Iſrael, with him, that he might both maintain the Siege, and withal oppoſe Hazael who fought to relieve it.

* Chap. 8. 29. † Heb. he was ſick. † Heb. he was wounded. † Heb. ſmote. Heb. he was wounded.

16 So Jehu rode in a chariot, and went to Jezreel z, (for Joram lay there) and Ahaziah king of Judah was come down to ſee Joram.

z Accompanied with the Horſemen of his Army.

17 And there ſtood a watch-man on the tower in Jezreel, and he ſpied the company of Jehu as he came, and ſaid, I ſee a company. And Joram ſaid, Take an horſeman, and ſend to meet them, and let him ſay, Is it peace a?

a Enquire who it is comes, and if he come upon peaceable terms. For he feared, leſt either the Syrians had prevailed there; or, ſome Sedition or Rebellion was raiſed againſt him; which the Example of Libnah, and his own guilty Conſcience, made him fear.

18 So there went one on horſeback to meet him, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the king, Is it peace? And Jehu ſaid, What haſt thou to do with peace b? turn thee behind me. And the watch-man told, ſaying, The meſſenger came to them, but he cometh not again.

b What right haſt thou, or thy Maſter that ſent thee, to Peace?

19 Then he ſent out a ſecond on horſeback, which came to them, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the king, Is it peace? And Jehu anſwered, What haſt thou to do with peace? turn thou behind me.

22 And it came to paſs when Joram ſaw Jehu, that he ſaid, Is it peace f, Jehu? And he anſwered, What peace g, ſo long as the whoredoms of thy mother Jezebel, and her witchcrafts h are ſo many?

f Doſt thou come to me with a peaceable Mind, or in a way of Hoſtility? For now, when it was too late, he began to ſuſpect ſome Treachery: which God hid from him before, to prepare him for Deſtruction. g What cauſe haſt thou to expect Peace, when thou haſt ſo long abetted, and doſt ſtill abet, and allow thy Mother in her abominable Practices? h Which are to be underſtood, either, Firſt, Literally; Spiritual Whoredom, which is Idolatry, being oft puniſhed with corporal. See ver. 30. and witchcraft there was oft practiſed by Idolaters. Or rather, Myſtically and Spiritually, of her Idolatry, which is oft called whoredom, becauſe it is a departing from God, to whom we are all tied by many Obligations; and witchcraft, either, becauſe it doth ſo powerfully bewitch and deceive Mens Minds; or, becauſe it is a manifeſt entring into Covenant with the Devil. For Idolatry being her chief Sin, and the cauſe of all the reſt, it ſeems improbable, that Jehu would omit that in the Inditement which he drew againſt her. He mentions not Joram's, but his Mother's Sins; partly, becauſe they were more notorious and infamous: partly, becauſe they were the principal cauſe why God inflicted, and he was come to execute theſe Judgments: partly, becauſe by his Connivance he had made them his own: and partly, becauſe he could find no groſs and odious matter wherewith to charge him, except about the Worſhip of the Calves; which he forbore to mention, both leſt it ſhould loſe his Intereſt amongſt his Officers and Soldiers, who were devoted to that Worſhip; and becauſe he himſelf intended to keep it up.

† Heb. filled his hand with a bow. † Heb. bowed.

23 And Joram turned his hands i, and fled, and ſaid to Ahaziah, There is treachery, O Ahaziah.

25 Then said Jehu to Bidkar his captain, Take up, and cast him in the portion of the field of Naboth the Jezreelite: for remember how that ‖ when I and thou rode together after Ahab his father l, * the LORD laid this burden m upon him.

l Which might be when Ahab went in his Chariot, attended with his Nobles or Chief Officers (of which these were two) to take a formal and solemn possession of Naboth's Land: for then the Prophet Elijah met him, and denounced this Judgement against him, 1 King. 21. 17, &c. m i. e. this grievous Prophecy: for such are oft, and truly called burdens, as Isa. 13. 1. and 15. 1. Jer. 23. 33, 34. Nah. 1. 1.

26 Surely, I have seen yesterday, the † blood of Naboth, and the blood of his sons n, said the LORD, and I will ‖ requite thee in this ‖ plat o, saith the LORD. Now therefore take and cast him into the plat of ground p, according to the word of the LORD.

n Who, as it seems, were killed with their Father by Jezebel's advice, to make the possession of the Vineyard more sure to Ahab, though it be not mentioned in its proper place, 1 Kin. 21. 13. For it is not unusual to bring in such fragments of History in succeeding Writings which were neglected in the History of those matters. Thus we read of the earthquake in the days of Uzziah, Amos 1. 1. which was not recorded in his History in the Books of the Kings or Chronicles. Although he might well be charged with taking away the lives of his Sons, because he took away the necessary supports of their lives. o Of which see the Notes on 1 King. 21. 19. p Where he shall lie unburied, and be a prey to the Dogs or Fowls, according to the prediction, 1 King. 21. 24.

q By some secret way, hoping to escape, whilst they were busie about Joram. r As you have done Joram, for he also is of the House of Ahab, chap. 8. 18. s They smote or wounded him, but not mortally; either, supposing that the wound was mortal; or, being more remiss in executing Jehu's Sentence against him, because they were not so much concerned in his, as in Joram's Death; or, because they had some kindness for him, either for his own, or for Jehoshaphat's sake. t Quest. How doth this agree with 2 Chron. 22. 9. He sought Ahaziah: and they caught him, for he was hid in Samaria, and brought him to Jehu: and when they had slain him, &c? Ans. Either, First, Samaria is there to be understood, not of the City, but of the Kingdom, or Territory so called, 1 King. 13. 32. and elsewhere, in which Megiddo was: and so that may be noted to shew that he could not flee into his own Kingdom where he might have been safe; but was forced to take up in another part of the Kingdom of Israel, in the Territory of Samaria, and there to hide himself. Or, Secondly, if Samaria be the City, then the History is briefly and imperfectly described here, and the defects supplied there, (the Book of Chronicles being in great part written for that end, to supply things omitted in the Book of Kings) and out of both, the History may be thus compleated: He fled first to Megiddo, and thence to Samaria, where he was caught, and thence brought to Jehu, and by his Sentence was put to death at Megiddo, either because Jehu was there at that time upon some occasion; or, for some other reason, which at this distance of time we cannot understand.

28 And his servants carried him in a chariot to Jerusalem, and buried him in his sepulchre with his Fathers, in the city of David u.

u Which they did by Jehu's permission for Jehoshaphat's sake, 2 Chron. 22. 9.

29 And in the eleventh year of Joram x the son of Ahab, began Ahaziah to reign over Judah.

x Of this see the Note on Chap. 8. 25.

30 ¶ And when Jehu was come to Jezreel, Jezebel heard of it, and she † painted her face, and tired her head y, and looked out at a window.

y Either, hoping that by her Majestick dress and carriage, she might strike Jehu or his followers with such an awe, that they should not offer any injury to her person: or rather, because, perceiving her case to be desperate, and that she could not live, was resolved to die with honour and gallantry.

31 And as Jehu entred in at the gate z, she said, Had Zimri peace, who slew his master a?

z Of the King's Palace. a Remember that thy Brother Traitor Zimri had but a very short enjoyment of the benefit of his Treason, and was speedily and severely punished for it by my Grand-Father Omri, 1 King. 16. 9, 16. and do thou expect the same from some of my posterity.

32 And he lift up his face to the window, and said, Who is on my side, who? And there looked out to him two or three ‖ eunuchs b.

b For such used to attend upon Queens in their Chambers.

33 And he said, Throw her down. So they threw her down c, and some of her blood was sprinkled on the wall, and on the horses: and he trod her under foot.

c Being mercenary Creatures, they quickly comply with Jehu's command, sacrificing her Life to save their own.

34 And when he was come in, he did eat and drink, and said, Go see now this cursed woman, and bury her d: for she is a kings daughter e.

d This he suddenly commanded, either, because he had forgot the charge given him above, ver. 10. or, because having done his own business, he was careless about God's Work, and the fulfilling of his threatning. e See 1 King. 16. 31. He doth not say, because she was a king's wife, lest he should seem to shew any respect to that wicked and cursed house of Ahab, which God had devoted to ignominy and utter destruction.

35 And they went to bury her: but they found no more of her than the scull, and the feet, and the palms of her hands.

36 Wherefore they came again, and told him: and he said, This is the word of the LORD f, which he spake † by his servant Elijah the Tishbite, saying, * In the portion of Jezreel shall the dogs eat the flesh of Jezebel:

f This strange Providence brings that to his mind which he had forgotten, or did not regard.

37 And the carcase of Jezebel shall be as dung upon the face of the field, in the portion of Jezreel, so that they shall not say, This is Jezebel g.

g These words are not extant in the place where this Prophecy is first mentioned, 1 King. 21. 23. but are here added, either by Jehu, by way of explication and amplification: or rather, because Elijah spoke them, though they be not there Recorded, as being for the substance of them contained in the former words; it being usual to insert some passages in following Writings, which had been omitted in the former.

CHAP. X.

Jehu by his Letters causeth 70 of Ahab's Sons to be slain: The Fact is excused by Elijah's Prophecy, 1——11. Also 42 of King Ahaziah's Brethren, 12——14. By subtilty he slayeth all the Priests and Professs of Abab: Breaketh down his Images and Temple, 15——28. He followeth the sin of Jeroboam, 29——31. Hazael oppresseth Israel: Jehoahaz succeedeth Jehu, 32——36.

AND Ahab had seventy sons a in Samaria b: And Jehu wrote letters, and sent to Samaria, unto the rulers of Jezreel c, to the Elders d, and to † them that brought up Ahabs children e, saying, a Either, First, Properly Sons by several Wives. Or rather, Secondly Grand-sons are comprehended, who are oft called sons; and Grand-fathers, fathers in Scripture. b Either, because they were bred up there, that being the chief city of the Kingdom: or, because upon the tidings of Joram's slaughter, they fled thither, or were by their Friends conveyed from several parts thither, as to the strongest place; in which it may seem by Jehu's message, they intended to defend themselves and Ahab's Children, and to set up one as King in Joram's stead: or rather, because they were left there by Joram, when he went to Ramoth-Gilead, that, if the Syrians had prevailed against him, they might have safety in that very strong and great City, and he by their means succour from it. c Heb. the princes of Jezreel, i. e. The great Persons and Officers of the Court, which then was, and had been for some time at Jezreel, who either had fled thither with Ahab's Sons, upon the news of Jehu's Actions and Successes: or rather, had been sent by Joram with his Sons to Samaria, to take care of them there. d Either, by Age: or rather, by Office, the Rulers or Senators of Samaria. e That had a more particular care of the several Children under the inspection of the princes or rulers here mentioned.

† Heb. to them that nourish.

2 Now assoon as this letter cometh to you, seeing your masters sons are with you, and there are with you chariots and horses, a fenced city also, and armour:

3 Look even out the best and meetest of your masters sons, and set him on his fathers throne, and fight for your masters house f.

f Thus he speaks, either, because he had some notice of their intentions thus to do: or, to make tryal of them, whether they would do so, or would be true to him and his designs: or, to signifie to them his intentions of fighting against them, if they did so, that by the terror hereof he might bring them to a compliance with him.

4 But they were exceedingly afraid, and said, Behold two kings stood not before him g: how then should we stand?

g All their Power and Interest, either in Jezreel, or in the Army before, or in Ramoth-Gilead, could not hinder him from executing his design, from killing the two Kings, and from invading one of their Kingdoms. It is true, he surprized the Kings, which a little weakens their argument; but fear and self-love made them easily yield to it.

5 And he that was over the house h, and he that was over the city i, the elders also, and the bringers up of the children, sent to Jehu, saying, We are thy servants, and will do all that thou shalt bid us k; we will not make any king: do thou that which is good in thine eyes.

h The chief Governour of the Kings Palace or Castle there. i The chief Magistrate or military Governour. k They make no delays or conditions, but submit all to his mercy.

6 Then he wrote a letter l the second time to them, saying, If ye be † mine, and if ye will hearken unto my voice, take ye the heads of the men m, your masters sons, and come to me to Jezreel by to morrow this time: (now the kings sons being seventy persons, were with the great men of the city, which brought them up)

† Heb. for me

l Thus Jezebel is requited for her Letter directed in like manner to the Elders of Naboth's City, whereby his life was wickedly taken away, 1 King. 21. 8. And it is probable that some of these Elders were concerned in that very Business, which makes the Judgment of God more remarkable. m Which word seems to imply that some of them were grown up, who doubtless trod in their Parents steps; and those that were younger, were justly cut off for their Parents sin: of which see on Exod. 20. 5. Deut. 5. 9.

7 And it came to pass when the letter came to them, that they took the kings sons, and slew seventy persons ∴ †

† Heb. the kings.

sons ∴, and put their Heads in baskets, and sent him them to Jezreel.

∴ Jehu justly required this, because the Sovereign and most righteous Lord of all mens lives commanded it; but the Samaritans wickedly obeyed it, because they destroyed Persons in a great measure innocent, meerly out of slavish fear, and without any knowledge of, or regard to God's Command.

8 ¶ And there came a messenger, and told him, saying, They have brought the Heads of the kings sons. And he said, Lay ye them in two heaps at the entring in of the gate n, until the morning.

n The place of Judicature; to signifie, that this was an act of Justice, and of God's Righteous Judgment; and the place of greatest concourse, where people went out of the City, and came into it, and whither they resorted for Judgment, and other occasions; that all men might behold this dreadful spectacle of divine vengeance upon Ahab's Family, and thereby might justifie Jehu's cause and proceedings.

9 And it came to pass in the morning, that he went out, and stood, and said to all the people o, Ye be righteous: behold, I conspired against my master, and slew him: but † who slew all these?

† Heb. and

o Either, First, To the promiscuous multitude met there to gaze upon this sad and strange spectacle. So the sense is, Be not ye troubled nor affrighted with these unusual and dismal occurrences: if any thing be amiss in these actions, I do here publickly and solemnly acquit you as Righteous and Innocent; do not you therefore fear any vengeance from God or men for it: if there be any guilt, it is in me, and in those who cut off these heads. Or, Secondly, To those who cut off, and brought the heads; for the same persons did both, and were here present, as Jehu commanded them, v. 6. to them he speaks in the audience of all the people; or by all the people may be meant all those who brought the heads, and were there waiting for Jehu, according to his order. So the speech is in part Ironical, to this purpose, You are Righteous in your own eyes, and you look upon me as a Traitor, and Rebel, and Murderer, because I have risen against, and slain my Master, which I acknowledge I have done. But if I am guilty, you are not innocent, and therefore cannot accuse me: for I have killed one, but you a great number. This explication seems probable; only the Hebrew word, ham, being generally used of the common people, may seem not so fitly to agree to these Rulers and great Men, who had brought the Heads; and that expression, to all the people, implies, that Jehu did not direct his speech to some particular Persons, but to the whole Body of the people then present, whom he clears from all blame, and to whom he appeals as Witnesses, between him and these persons.

10 Know now, that there shall fall unto the earth nothing of the word of the LORD, which the LORD spake p concerning the house of Ahab: for the LORD hath done that which he spake * † by his servant Elijah q.

† 1 Kings 21. 29. † Heb. by the hand of.

p But the truth is, neither I nor they are to be blamed; nor you that assisted and encouraged me herein: for this is not man's work, but God's, and done by his command. q Whom he mentions, rather than Elisha; partly, because Elijah was now dead, and therefore his name and memory was more sacred than Elisha's, who was yet alive; this being the common humour and folly of Mankind, to value and honour those that are dead, whom they contemned whilst they lived; and partly, because Elijah's Prophecy was known, and publick, and famous; when Elisha's was delivered in a corner, and that not from his own mouth, but by one of the Sons of the Prophets.

h Either all his Houshold: or rather, all his Kindred, and Relations, though more remote from him.

18 And Jehu gathered all the people together i, and said unto them, Ahab served Baal a little, but Jehu shall serve him much k.

i By their Representatives, their Elders or Rulers, as was usual: to whom he imparts his mind; and they being generally Corrupt, and Time-servers, and such as had no sence of Religion in them, durst not oppose his Resolution, but seemed to comply with it. k As if he had said, My quarrel is only with Ahab's Family, and not with Baal; which my actions shall manifest. Which words being manifestly false, and spoken with a design to deceive, cannot be excused from Sin, though they were uttered with a pious intention; this being an unmoveable Principle, That we must not do the least Evil of Sin, that the greatest good may come, Rom. 3. 8. And if Jehonadab did concur with Jehu herein, it was a humane Infirmity.

19 Now therefore call unto me all the prophets of Baal, all his servants l, and all his priests, let none be wanting: for I have a great sacrifice to do to Baal m; whosoever shall be wanting, he shall not live. But Jehu did it in subtilty n, to the intent that he might destroy the worshippers of Baal.

l Either, 1. All his Ministers: of whom there may seem to have been several sorts, whereof two are here distinctly mentioned, his Prophets and Priests; and the rest of the Inferior sort, may be comprehended under this general Title of Servants, because they were to attend upon the others in their Sacred Ministrations. And these being once destroyed, Jehu rightly concluded, that the rest would fall of course. And this sence may seem to be favoured by ver. 22. wherein Vestments were brought forth for all these worshippers of Baal; which were not commonly used by the People, in the Worship either of God, or of Baal; but onely by the Priests, or Ministers. Or, 2. All his Worshippers, as the same word is Translated, in the close of this Verse. Quest. How could all these be contained in one House of Baal? Ans. Well enough, for the number of Baal's Worshippers had been vastly diminished by the Ministry of Elijah, and Elisha, and the rest of the Prophets; and by Joram's neglect, and disuse of that Worship. For the generality of the Israelites had too much knowledge to have any real and Religious respect to such senseless Idols; only they practised it in compliance with the humour of their King and Queen, and for worldly, or wicked ends; and therefore when the King deserted it, they generally forsook it; some few silly and besotted Persons excepted, who are here gathered together. Besides, this House or Temple of Baal might be very large and capacious, and probably was so, because it was the chief of that sort, as being in the King's City, and nigh his Palace, and for the use of the King and Queen, and the whole Court; and for great and high Solemnities. Moreover, as the name of the House or Temple of God at Jerusalem oft signifies, not only the principal Building, but all the other Buildings and Courts belonging to it; in which all the Worshippers stood when they Worshipped, so it might be here; and so there was space sufficient for all the Worshippers of Baal, which can reasonably be thought to have been at this time in all Israel. m I will offer to him a noble and acceptable Sacrifice; not of Sheep, or Oxen, &c. as they understood it; but of his own beloved Priests, and Prophets, and Servants; as he meant it. n With another design, that he might both certainly Discover, and utterly Destroy them all, without any farther trouble, or danger of Sedition or Tumult in his Kingdom.

20 And Jehu said, † Proclaim o a solemn assembly for Baal: and they proclaimed it.

outh to p Either, 1. Because they thought Jehu was serious and sincere in outh. his Professions; it being natural, and usual for men too easily to believe, what they wish to be true. And for the Priests which Jehu destroyed before, ver. 11. they might think that was done, only because of their nearness and Relation to Ahab and his Family. Or, 2. For fear of their Lives: for certain Death was threatned to all that did not come, ver. 19. which considering, Jehu's fierce and bloody Temper, they knew would be executed; whereas, if they did come, there was more than a possibility of the sparing of their Lives: for Jehu was known to be indifferent and unconcerned in matters of Religion, one that had served Baal when his Prince Ahab lived and did so; and forsook it when the next Prince Joram did; and therefore it was doubtful whether Jehu had not in good earnest returned to his first Love, to that Religion which he had formerly embraced, and only deserted in complacency to others. Or, 3. By God's just Providence, deceiving their Minds, and enclining their Hearts to come to their own Destruction. q i.e. The Temple.

22 And he said unto him that was over the vestry, Bring forth vestments r for all the worshippers of Baal. And he brought them forth vestments.

r Sacred Garments; such as were used by the Priests and others of the Lord's Ministry in God's Worship; and from thence the Devil borrowed this Custom in his Worship.

23 And Jehu went, and Jehonadab the son of Rechab s into the house of Baal, and said unto the worshippers of Baal, Search, and look that there be here with you none of the servants of the LORD t, but the worshippers of Baal only.

s Whom the Rabbines possibly did not know, and therefore suspected nothing; or, if any of the more crafty sort suspected any thing, it was now too late to amend their Error. t Because their Presence will offend Baal, and deride, or pollute his Worship: whence Prophane Persons have been oft excluded from Solemn Acts of Worship, both by Jews and Heathens. So this did not raise their suspicion.

24 And when they went in u to offer sacrifices, and burnt-offerings, Jehu appointed fourscore men x without, and said, If any of the men whom I have brought into your hands, escape, he that letteth him go, his life shall be for the life of him.

u When some in the name of the rest went to the Altar to offer Sacrifice. x Far greater numbers being doubtless in readiness to assist them, in case of any opposition.

25 And it came to pass assoon as he y had made an end of offering the burnt-offerings z, that Jehu said to the guard, and to the captains a, Go in, and slay them, Heb. the let none come forth. And they smote them with † the outh. edge of the sword, and the guard and the captains cast them out b, and went to the city of the house of Baal c.

y i.e. The Chief Priest of Baal. See 2 Chron. 23. 17. z So far he suffered them to proceed; either, because till then they were not all come into the House: Or, because having been taken in the very act of gross Idolatry, their Destruction was more just and reasonable. a i.e. To the Fourscore Men, and their Officers. b i.e. Cast their Carcasses out of the City. But that was not proper Work for the Guard: nor could they so soon have done it; nor would they stay to do it, when they were going in haste to other Work; nor indeed was it necessary to be done; because they intended to pull down the House, and bury them in its Ruines, and turn it into a Draught-House, as it follows. This Word therefore is, and may be joined with the next; and both rendred, They went hastily and eagerly; properly, they flung themselves out (Hiphil for Hithpahel, which is not unusual in the Hebrew Language) and went. The like Expression is used, Esth. 6. 12. hasted, Heb. pushed himself on, or flung himself, i. e. went with great hafte; and in the Greek Text, Mark 14. 72. c Either, 1. To some City near to Samaria, where another eminent Temple of Baal was erected. But this seems not to agree with the Context, there being but one House or Temple of Baal mentioned, both in the foregoing and following Verses. Or rather, 2. To some Buildings belonging to this House of Baal, which may be here called the City; either for some particular reason now unknown: or, because they were very numerous and capacious. For as there were divers Chambers and Rooms built without the Temple, belonging to it, for the use of the Priests, and Levites, &c. So it may probably be conceived, That this famous Temple of Baal had many such Buildings; in some of which, the Priests of Baal, or of the Grove, (whereof there were great numbers belonging to the King's Court, 1 King. 18. 19.) peradventure might dwell; and others of them might be for divers uses belonging to the House, and Service of Baal. And into these Buildings the Guard might go, and that hastily, to surprize, and kill those inferior Ministers of Baal, who were there employed in preparing things for the Sacrifices which were to be offered; or, in other Services belonging to that House, or that Solemnity.

g Herein he discovers his Hypocrisie, that he follows God as far as his Interest would permit; namely, in destroying the House of Ahab, and the Worship of Baal, but no further: for he still resolves to keep up the Worship of the Calves: partly, lest he should disoblige and irritate his own Nobles and Subjects, who had been long inured, and were heartily affected to it: and partly, lest he should open a Door for his People to return to their Obedience to the House of David. And his sin and folly is the more inexcusable, both because he durst not trust that God with the keeping of his Kingdom, of whose Power, and Faithfulness, and Kindness to him, he had such ample Experience in his giving him the Kingdom; and because he had so great and uncontrolable a Power in the matters of Religion; having first pretended, and seemed to set up the Worship of Baal with all his might, and then destroying it with no less Vehemency, none daring to mutter against him in either case; and because the House of David, and Kingdom of Judah, his Competitor, now was, and was likely to be in a feeble and declining Condition, and much more likely to fall into his Hands, than that his Kingdom should come into theirs.

CHAP. XI.

Athaliah destroyeth all the Royal Family: only Jehoash escapeth: is hid six Years in the House of God, 1——3. Jehoiada giving Order to the Captains in the Seventh Year anointeth him King, 4——12. Athaliah is slain, 13——16. The Covenant is renewed between God, the King, and the People: and Baal's Worship is destroyed: the King is set on his Throne, 17——21.

a i. e. All of the Royal Family, left after those Slaughters, 2 Chron. 21. 2, 4. and 22. 1. and 2 King. 10. 13, 14. except one, as the next Verse limits and explains it. This she did, partly out of Rage at the Extirpation of her Family; resolving, that David's Family should not out-live hers; partly, from Ambition and desire of Rule; for which many Persons have destroyed their nearest Relations: partly, from the Zeal which she had for Idolatry, and the Worship of Baal which she intended to establish; to which she knew the House of David were implacable Enemies. And partly, in her own Defence, that she might secure her self from Jehu's Fury, who was commanded by God, and resolved in himself, utterly to destroy all the Branches of Ahab's Family, whereof she was one, Chap. 8. 18, 26. For had she not done this, she suspected, that either the King, or People of Judah would have delivered her up to Jehu upon his Demand. Possibly those whom she slew were Joram's Children by another Wife: Of which, see on the next Verse. And this was the fruit of Jehoshaphat's Marrying his Son to a Daughter of that Idolatrous and Wicked House of Ahab, even the extirpation of all his Posterity, but one. And this dreadful Judgment God permitted, and inflicted upon him and his, to shew how much he abhors all such sinful and unequal Affinities.

2 But Jehosheba b the daughter of king Joram c sister of Ahaziah, took Joash the son of Ahaziah c, and stole him from among the kings sons which were slain d; and they e hid him, even him and his nurse in the bed-chamber f, from Athaliah, so that he was not slain.

b Called Jehoshabeath, 2 Chron. 22. 11. c To wit, by another Wife, and not by this Athaliah: for it is not likely Jehoiadah who Married her, 2 Chron. 22. 11. would have Married one of that wicked and cursed House, except he were married very young, and therein over-ruled by his Parents. e Either, 1. His Adopted, and Legal Son, who was to to succeed him, though he was of another House, and of Nathan's Family, as many think: such Persons being sometimes called the Sons of their Predecessors, as we shall see hereafter. Or rather, 2. His proper and natural Son; for not only he, but the rest who were slain, are here called the kings (i. e. Joram's) sons. d Either, 1. From amidst of the Carcasses, where this Infant was laid, and supposed by her to be killed, though it was not quite dead; either through the Compassion, or Connivance of the Instruments of this Execution; or by some other Artifice which his Nurse used. Or, 2. Out of that Apartment of the Palace which was allotted for the Kings Children. e Jehosheba and her Husband Jehoiadah. f Which was in the House of the Lord; as is affirmed in the next Verse. So that it was one of those Chambers adjoyning, or near to the Temple, which were for the uses of the Priests and Levites, and for them only: which made it more proper for this purpose.

3 And he was with her hid in the house of the LORD, six years g: and Athaliah did reign over the land h.

g Either, Athaliah thought they were all Dead; or if she suspected that this was preserved, she thought an Infant could do her no great harm; and that she could so well assure the Kingdom to her self within a few Years, that the need not fear any such weak Competitor; or she was willing to smother up the business, left if she had made a strict and diligent Search for it, the People should thereby learn, that there was yet a Son of David's Family left; and so be unquiet under her Government, and desirous of a Change. h Which she had an opportunity to do, because she was not only the late King's Wife, but also was probably made Queen-Regent upon Joram's going to Ramoth-Gilead.

‖ Chron. 23. 1. 4 And * in the seventh year Jehoiada sent i, and fet the rulers over hundreds k, with the captains l and the guard m, and brought them to him into the house of the LORD n, and made a covenant with them o, and took an oath of them p in the house of the LORD, and shewed them the kings son.

i If this action of Jehoiadah's seem strange and irregular, this was no ordinary case, but there were divers peculiar things in it; as that Athaliah was a meer Usurper, having no pretence of Right to the Crown, and one of that wicked House which God had particularly, and by Name, devoted to Destruction; that Jehoiadah's Wife was nearer Allied, and had more Right to the Crown, than Athaliah; that the Crown of Judah was by Divine appointment appropriated to the Sons of David; and therefore the Right of the Crown was inherently in him whom Jehoiadah set up, which Right her Usurpation could not exclude: That Jehoiadah was not a meer private Person, but the Husband of the King's Aunt; and probably the High-Priest, to whom it belonged in great part to see the Laws of God executed: That Jehoiadah did not act alone in the business, but had the Consent and Concurrence of the Chief Rulers both Civil and Ecclesiastical; and besides all this, that it is conceived, That he had a special Motion of God's Spirit, or the Direction and Encouragement of the Prophets of that time. So that this action cannot be drawn into a President for succeeding Times, and for other Kingdoms. k Of whom see Exod. 18. 25. Of these there were five, which are named, 2 Chron. 23. 1. And these were either, 1. Civil, or Military Officers. But then such small Officers could not have stood him in much stead. And why did he not rather engage Captains of Thousands, or greater Persons, whom doubtless he might easily have brought into this Confederacy? Or rather, Priests or Levites of eminency, as their Work sheweth, ver. 5, 6, 7. and 2 Chron. 23. 1, 2. and their distinction from the Captains and Guard. l Or, Princes, or Nobles, or Commanders; such as he knew were weary of her Idolatrous and Tyrannical Government, and faithful to their King. m Possibly those who had been the former King's Guard, who had been displaced by Athaliah, as Persons whose Fidelity she suspected. n i.e. Into the Courts of that House, which oft come under the Name of the House, or Temple of the Lord: for into the House none but the Priests or Levites might enter. o To restore the King to his Kingdom, and Religion to its Purity. p For their Secresie and Fidelity in the present Design.

5 And he commanded them, saying, This is the thing ‖ Chron. that ye shall do; a third part of you q that enter in * on

q Either, 1. A third part of you, (i.e. of the whole Number, including those that come in, and those that go out on the Sabbath) even they that enter in on the Sabbath: and so the two other Third parts were to consist of those that went out on the Sabbath; as some gather from ver. 6, 7. Or rather, 2. A third part only of those that enter in on the Sabbath, who seem to be plainly divided into three Thirds here; and ver. 6. as those that went forth on the Sabbath are expressly distributed into Two Parts, ver. 7. i. e. That come into the Temple on the Sabbath-day. For the understanding of this matter, you must know, That the Levites were, in and from David's time, distributed into Twenty four Courses, which were to do the Work of the Temple successively, and by turns; each Course consisting of about a Thousand Men for his Week: of which see 1 Chron. 23. and 24. r Either, 1. Of that Bed-chamber where the King now was. But it is unlikely, and without Example, either that one Bed-chamber, or the Temple, or any part of it, should be called the King's House. And besides, the King's Person is secured by other Persons, ver. 7. Or rather, 2. Of that part which leadeth to the King's Palace, which Athaliah now possessed, and whence they might expect Opposition.

16 And they laid hands on her q, and she went by the way by the which the horses came into the king's house r, and there was she slain s.

q Or, they gave her space or room, to wit, to go out of the Court of the Temple, and did not keep her within it, as they could have done. 17 ¶ And Jehoiada made a Covenant between the LORD, and the king, and the people t, that they should be the LORD's people; between the king also and the people u.

t A Sacred Covenant, whereby he solemnly ingaged both the King, and People, as it here follows, that they should be the Lord's people; i. e. That they should renounce, and root out all Idolatry, and set up and maintain God's true Worship. Comp. 2 King. 23. 10. u This was a Civil Covenant, whereby the king engaged himself to Rule them justly, and in the fear of God; and the People obliged themselves to Defend and Obey him. Comp. 2 Sam. 5. 3.

18 And all the people of the land went into the house of Baal, and brake it down, his altars and his images brake they in pieces throughly, and slew Mattan the priest of Baal before the altar x: and the priest appointed officers † over the house of the LORD y.

x To which possibly he fled for Refuge: or rather, he was brought thither as a fit Sacrifice to his God. y Of which see more particularly, 2 Chron. 23. 18, 19.

19 And he took the rulers over hundreds, and the captains and the guard, and all the people of the land, and they brought down the king from the house of the LORD, and came by the way of the gate of the guard z to the kings house, and he sat on the throne of the kings.

20 And all the people of the land rejoyced, and the city was in quiet; and they slew Athaliah with the sword besides the kings house.

21 Seven years old was Jehoash when he began to reign.

CHAP. XII.

Jehoash reigneth well all the days of Jehoiada: He giveth order for the repair of the Temple, 1——16. He diverteth Hazael from Jerusalem, by a present of the hallowed Treasures: He is slain by his servants: Amaziah succeedeth him, 17——21.

IN * the seventh year of Jehu, Jehoash began to reign; and forty years reigned he in Jerusalem: And his mothers name was Zibiah of Beersheba.

* 2 Chro. 24. 1.

2 And Jehoash did that which was right in the sight of the LORD a all his days, wherein Jehoiada the Priest instructed him.

a To wit, for the matter of it, though not with an honest and sincere mind, but onely by the influence of his good Tutor and Rectorer, as the words here following plainly imply.

3 But the high places were not taken away b: the people still sacrificed, and burnt incense in the high places c.

b To which the people were so fondly and strangely addicted, that the foregoing Kings, though men of riper years, and great power and courage, and finally settled in their Thrones, could not take them away; and therefore it is not strange if Jehoiada could not now remove them, when the King was very young and tender, and not well settled in his Kingdom, and when the people were more corrupt and disorderly through Athaliah's male-Administration. c To God.

4 ¶ And Jehoash said to the priests d, * All the money of the ‖ † dedicated things e that is brought f into the house of the LORD, even ‖ the money of every one that passeth the account ∴, † the money that every man is set at g, and all the money that † cometh into any mans heart h to bring into the house of the LORD, d Remembring that he owed his preservation and restauration to the Temple, and that he was made by God the Guardian of his Temple and Worship, and that he had covenanted to be so, he now takes care to repair it. e This may be, Either, First, The general designation of the Money, the particulars whereof here follow. Or rather, Secondly, A special branch of it, the Money which had been either formerly or lately vowed or dedicated to the use and service of God and of his House, either by the former Kings; of which see below, ver. 18. and compare 1 King. 7. 51. and 15. 15. 2 King. 12. 18. 2 Chron. 15. 18. or, by this King or his people. f Or rather, that shall be brought: for though the people might Vow to bring it thither in convenient time, yet it is not likely they would bring much Money thither in the Tyrannical and Idolatrous Reign of Athaliah: or, if they did, that Athaliah would not leave it for her own use. g i. e. The half Shekel, which was paid of every one that was numbred from 20 Years old and upward; of which the very same Phrase is used, Ex. 30. 13. compare 2 Chron. 24. 5, 6, 9. h Heb. the money of souls, or persons, according to his taxing, i. e. the money which every man that had vowed his person to God, paid according to the rate which the Priest put upon him; Of which see Levit. 27. 2, &c. i All that shall be freely offered. See Exod. 35. 2, and 35. 5.

5 Let the priests take it to them i, every man of his acquaintance, and let them repair the breaches of the house, wheresoever any breach shall be found k.

i Let them go abroad through all the parts of the Land, as they have acquaintance and interest, and gather up the Money, and bring it to Jerusalem. k Either through decay; or, by ill accidents; or, by the malice of Athaliah or her Relations: Of which see 2 Chron. 24. 7.

6 But it was so, that † in the three and twentieth year of king Jehoash, the priests had not repaired the breaches of the house l.

† Heb. in the three and twentieth year.

l Either, because the People were generally corrupt and backward to the Worship of God, especially where it cost them any thing: or, because the Persons employed in making the Collections, were negligent, or unfaithful, perverting the Money received, to their own uses, as may seem probable from the contrary character of other Persons, of whom it is noted, that they dealt faithfully, below, v. 15. or, because the people did not like this way of Collection, and had no good opinion of the Collectors Faithfulness.

7 Then king Jehoash called for Jehoiada the priest, and the other priests, and said unto them, Why repair ye not the breaches of the house? now therefore receive no more money of your acquaintance, but deliver it m for the ‖ breaches of the house.

8 And the priests consented to receive no more money of the people, neither to repair the breaches of the house n.

n Nor to take the charge of that work which the King had committed unto them, but freely to resign it to whom the King should appoint.

9 But Jehoiada the priest o took a chest, and bored a hole in the lid of it, and set it beside the altar p, on the right side, as one cometh into the house of the LORD: and the priest that kept the † door q, put therein all the money that was boought into the house of the LORD

Or, Secondly, That place 2 Chron. speaks of the Gate of the Temple strictly so called, nigh unto which the Altar of burnt-Offerings was. Or, Thirdly, It was placed near the entrance into the Priests Court, which was over against the Altar, and not far from it, so as the people standing in their own Court, might either put their Money into it, or see when the Priests put it in. q The Door of the Priests Court, which, together with the Temple and all its utensils, was committed to the charge of the Priests and Levites, Numb. 18. 4. 1 Chron. 9. 26, &c.

13 Howbeit, there were not made u for the house of the LORD, bowls of silver, snuffers, basons, trumpets, any vessels of Gold, or vessels of silver, of the money that was brought into the house of the LORD.

u To wit, until all the breaches of the House were repaired; but, when that was done, they laid it out for these things, as is noted 2 Chron. 24. 14.

14 But they gave that to the workmen, and repaired therewith the house of the LORD.

4 And Jehoahaz besought the LORD, and the LORD hearkened unto him c: for he saw d the oppression of Israel e, because the king of Syria oppressed them f.

c Not for his sake, for God regards not the prayers of the wicked and impenitent, Psal. 66. 18. Prov. 1. 28. and 15. 8. but for other reasons expressed below, ver. 23. d i. e. He observed it with care and compassion. e His chosen and once beloved people. k i. c. The King of Syria, ver. 4. with which this Verse is to be joyned; ver. 5. and 6. being put within a Parenthesis, as it is in our Translation. But this verse may be translated otherwise, Although he (either the King of Syria, v. 4. or the Lord, ver. 5. to whom Judgments are oft ascribed, even when wicked men are the instruments of executing it) had not left, &c. And so it may be joyned with the next foregoing Verse, as a great aggravation of their impenitency, and obstinate continuance in their Idolatry, notwithstanding such terrible Judgments, which in all reason should have driven them from it. l i. e. Of his Army, or Men of War, as the following words evince. m i. e. Had broken and ground them to dust, or powder, as the Corn is many times broken by threshing.

8 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Jehoahaz, and all that he did, and his might n, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

n For though his success was not good, he shewed much personal valour and courage. Which is noted to intimate, that the Israelites were not conquered, because of the basenes and cowardice of their King, but meerly from the Righteous and dreadful Judgment of God, who was now resolved to reckon with them for their filthy Apostacy.

9 And Jehoahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria, and Joash his son reigned in his stead.

10 ¶ In the thirty and seventh year of Joash king of Judah o, began Jehoash the son of Jehoahaz to reign over Israel in Samaria, and reigned sixteen years.

o By which, compared with v. 1. it may be gathered, that Jehoahaz had two or three Years before his death made his Son Jehoash King with him: which is very probable, because he was perpetually in the state of War, and consequently in danger of an untimely death; and because he was a Man of valour, as is implied here, ver. 12. and declared 2 Chron. 25.

11 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD; he departed not from all the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel sin: † but he walked therein.

† Heb. he walked not.

12 And the rest of the acts of Joash, and all that he did, and his might wherewith he fought against Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

13 And Joash slept with his fathers, and Jeroboam sat upon his throne: and Joash was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel.

14 ¶ Now Elisha was fallen sick, of his sickness whereof he died, and Joash the king of Israel came down unto him, and wept over his face p, and said, O my father, my father, the chariot of Israel and the horsemen thereof q.

p Not for any true Love and Respect to him, for then he would have followed his counsel, in forsaking the Calves, and returning to the Lord; but for his own and the Kingdoms inestimable loss in him. q See 2 King. 2. 12.

15 And Elisha said unto him, Take bow and arrows: And he took unto him bow and arrows.

16 And he said to the king of Israel, † Put thine hand upon the bow. And he put his hand upon it: and Elisha put his hands upon the kings hands.

† Heb. Make thine hand to ride.

17 And he said, Open the window eastward r: and he opened it. Then Elisha said, Shoot: and he shot. And he said, The arrow of the LORD's deliverance, and the arrow of deliverance from Syria: for thou shalt smite the Syrians in Aphek s, till thou have consumed them t.

r Either, towards Syria, which lay North-East-ward, from the Land of Israel: or, towards the Israelites Land beyond Jordan, which lay East-ward from Canaan, and which was now possessed by the Syrians. Either way this Arrow is shot against the Syrians, as a token what God intended to do against them. s Not in the City, but in the Territory of it, where it seems there was a great Battel to be fought between the Israelites and Syrians. Of Aphek see 1 Sam. 4. 1. and 29. 1. 1 King. 20. 30. though it is possible there might be several Cities of that name. Or, as in Aphek, i. e. thou shalt smite them as they were smitten in the City and Territory of Aphek, i. e. utterly destroy them. See 1 King. 20. 26, 29, 30. the Particle as being oft understood, as hath been formerly and frequently proved. t i. e. The Syrians, not all that people, but their Armies, or at least that which was to be at Aphek, where a dreadful Battel was to be fought. Or, if this be meant of all the Syrian Armies, this is to be understood conditionally, if he did not hinder it by his unbelief or neglect, signified in the following Verses.

18 And he said, Take the arrows: and he took them. And he said unto the king of Israel, Smite upon the ground u: and he smote thrice, and stayed.

u The former sign portended Victory, and this was to declare the number of the Victories.

19 And the man of God was wroth with him, and said, Thou shouldest have smitten five or six times, then hadst thou smitten Syria till thou hadst consumed it: whereas now thou shalt smite Syria but thrice x.

x Quest. Wherein was Jehoash his fault, or why was the Prophet angry with him? Anſw. The Prophet himself did not yet know how many Victories Jehoash should obtain against the Syrians, but God had signified to him, that he should learn that by the number of the Kings strokes. And he was angry with him, not simply, because he smote onely thrice, but because by his unbelief and Idolatry he provoked God so to over-rule his heart and hand, that he should smite but thrice, which was a token that God would assist him no further. Although his smiting but thrice might proceed either from his unbelief or negligence.

For by the former ſign, and the Prophet's Comment upon it, he might clearly perceive that this alſo was intended as a ſign of his ſucceſs againſt the Syrians, and therefore he ought to have done it frequently, and vehemently.

20 ¶ And Eliſha died, and they buried him y: and the bands of the Moabites invaded the land at the coming in of the year z.

∴ Or, were about to bury, as that Particle is oft uſed in the Hebrew Tongue. a Coming towards them, but at ſome diſtance. b Not daring to carry the dead Corps further to the place appointed for his burial, they made uſe of the next burying-place, where Eliſha was buried, and there they removed ſome Stone, or opened ſome Door, and haſtily flung down their dead Corps there. c i. e. The man's dead Body, or the Coffin in which he was put. d Which might eaſily be, the Coffin and linnen in which Eliſha's Body was put, and the Fleſh of his body being now conſumed: for this was ſome conſiderable time after his death. e Which Miracle God wrought there, partly, to do honour to that great Prophet, and that by this Seal he might confirm his Doctrine, and thereby confute the falſe Doctrine and Worſhip of the Iſraelites; partly, to ſtrengthen the Faith of Joaſh, and of the Iſraelites, in his promiſe of their ſucceſs againſt the Syrians; and partly, in the midſt of all their Calamities to comfort ſuch Iſraelites as were Eliſha's followers, with the hopes of that Eternal Life, whereof this was a manifeſt pledge, and to awaken the reſt of that people to a due care and preparation for it.

22 ¶ But Hazael king of Syria oppreſſed Iſrael all the days of Jehoahaz.

And he invaded theſe People becauſe they were Subjects to his Kingdom, from which they had revolted in Joram's days, 2 King. 8. 20. i Which was the Land of Edom: Of which ſee 2 Sam. 8. 13. Pſal. 60. 2. k Or, the rock: the chief City of that part of Arabia, called by other Authors Petra, which ſignifies a rock, becauſe it was built upon a Rock, 2 Chron. 25. 12. l Which ſignifies, the obedience of God, i. e. given him by God as a reward of his Obedience to God's Meſſage by the Prophet, 2 Chron. 25. 8, 9.

8 ¶ Then Amaziah ſent meſſengers to Jehoaſh, the ſon of Jehoahaz ſon of Jehu, king of Iſrael, ſaying, Come, let us look one another in the face m.

m Let us fight perſonally, and with our Armies. This challenge he ſent, partly upon the late and great injuries done by the Iſraelites to his people, 2 Chron. 25. 10. 13. and partly, from ſelf-confidence, and a deſire of advancing his Glory and Empire by his Arms.

9 And Jehoaſh the king of Iſrael ſent to Amaziah king of Judah, ſaying, The thiſtle that was in Lebanon, ſent to the cedar that was in Lebanon n, ſaying, Give thy daughter to my ſon to wife o: and there paſſed by a wild beaſt that was in Lebanon, and trod down the thiſtle p.

n By the thiſtle, a low and contemptible, yet troubleſome Shrub, he underſtands Amaziah; and by the cedar, himſelf, whom he intimates to be far ſtronger than he, and out of his reach. o Let us make a match, i. e. let us fight. Onely he expreſſeth this Bloody work in a civil manner, as Amaziah had done, ver. 8. and as Abner did, 2 Sam. 2. 14. Or, let thy Kingdom and mine be United under one King, as formerly they were; and let us decide it by a pitched Battel, whether thou or I ſhall be that King. Or, as ſome expound it, by affirming, That it was great arrogancy and preſumption for him to deſire a Friendly League or Affinity with him; he leaves him to gueſs how intolerable it was that he ſhould undertake to wage War againſt him. p And with no leſs eaſe ſhall my Soldiers tread down thee and thy Forces.

10 Thou haſt indeed ſmitten Edom, and thine heart hath lifted thee up: glory of this q, and tarry † at home: for why ſhouldeſt thou meddle to thy hurt, that thou ſhouldeſt fall, even thou, and Judah with thee?

† Heb. x thy houſe.

q Content thy ſelf with that Glory and Succeſs, and let not thine Ambition betray thee to ruin.

11 But Amaziah would not hear r: therefore Jehoaſh king of Iſrael went up ſ, and he and Amaziah king of Judah looked one another in the face at Beth-ſhemeſh, which belongeth to Judah t.

r Becauſe God blinded and hardned him to his deſtruction, for his abominable and ridiculous Idolatry, 2 Chron. 25. 10. ſ To wit, into the Kingdom of Judah, carrying the War into his Enemies Country. t Which is added to diſtinguiſh it from that Bethſhemeſh in Iſſachar, and another in Naphthali, Joſ. 19. 22. 38.

12 And Judah † was put to the worſe before Iſrael, and they fled u every man to their tents.

† Heb. was ſmit.

u Being unſatisfied in the ground and manner of the quarrel, and diſcouraged by their King's Idolatry, and ſmitten by God with a ſpirit of fear.

13 And Jehoaſh king of Iſrael took Amaziah king of Judah, the ſon of Jehoaſh, the ſon of Ahaziah, at Beth-ſhemeſh, and came to Jeruſalem x, and brake down the wall of Jeruſalem, from the gate of Ephraim y, unto the corner-gate, four hundred cubits z.

x Commanding entrance in Amaziah's name, and with his conſent, which he durſt not deny. y Which lies to Ephraim. z Which was done, partly in ſcorn and contempt; and partly, that he might reenter and retake it, if they ſhould attempt to renew the War.

14 And he took all the gold and ſilver, and all the veſſels that were found in the houſe of the LORD, and in the treaſures of the kings houſe, and hoſtages a, and returned to Samaria b.

a To aſſure their peaceable carriage towards him. b He did not keep Jeruſalem, nor ſeek to gain the poſſeſſion and dominion of that Kingdom; partly, becauſe he thought he could not keep it, conſidering the difficulty he found in keeping his own from ſuch potent and near Enemies as the Syrians were; and the great affection which all Judah bare to David's Houſe: and partly, becauſe God ſo inclined his heart, that he might make good his promiſe to David and his Family.

15 ¶ Now the reſt of the acts of Jehoaſh which he did, and his might, and how he fought with Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

16 And Jehoaſh ſlept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria with the kings of Iſrael, and Jeroboam his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

17 ¶ And Amaziah the ſon of Joaſh king of Judah, lived after the death of Jehoaſh ſon of Jehoahaz king of Iſrael, fifteen years.

18 And the reſt of the Acts of Amaziah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

This Azariah is called Uzziah, 2 King. 15. 30. 2 Chron. 26. 1. both names ſignifying the ſame thing for ſubſtance; that, Gods help; and this, Gods ſtrength.

22 He built Elath g, and reſtored it to Judah h, after that the king i ſlept with his fathers.

24 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD: he departed not from all the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.

25 He reſtored the coaſt of Iſrael from the entring of Hamath k, unto the ſea of the plain l, according to the word of the LORD God of Iſrael, which he ſpake by the hand of his ſervant * Jonah m, the ſon of Amittai the prophet, which was of Gath-Hepher.

IN the twenty and ſeventh year of Jeroboam king of Iſrael a, † began Azariah b ſon of Amaziah king of Judah to reign c.

† Heb. reigned.

a Queſt. How can this be true, ſeeing Amaziah, the Father of this Azariah, lived onely till the 15th Year of Jeroboam's Reign, chap. 14. 2, 23? Anſw. This might be either; Firſt, Becauſe Jeroboam was made King by, and Reigned with his Father eleven or twelve Years, and afterwards Reigned alone; and ſo there is a two-fold beginning of his Kingdom; by the former this was his 27th Year, and by the later, his 15th Year. Or, Secondly, becauſe there was an Inter-Reign for eleven or twelve Years in the Kingdom of Judah; either, through the prevalency of that Faction which put off Amaziah the Father, and kept the Son out of his Kingdom; or, becauſe Azariah was very young when his Father was ſlain, and the people were not agreed to reſtore him to his Right till his 28th Year, chap. 14. 21. a Chr. 26. 1. And yet theſe 11 or 12 Years of Inter-Reign, in which he has been deducted from the exerciſe of his Regal Office, ſome think to be included in thoſe 52 Years which are here aſcribed to Azariah's Reign, ver. 2. which may well be doubted. b Called alſo Uzziah here, and ver. 13. 30. Solely and fully to exerciſe his Regal Power.

2 Sixteen years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned two and fifty years d in Jeruſalem, and his mothers name was Jecholiah of Jeruſalem.

d Beſides the fifteen Years of his Minority laſt mentioned.

3 And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that his father Amaziah had done e; e i. e. In the ſame manner, ſincerely, and but for a time.

4 Save that f the high places were not removed: the people ſacrificed and burnt incenſe ſtill on the high places.

f Underſtand this, as bowbeit, chap. 14. 4.

5 ¶ And the LORD * ſmote the king, ſo that he was a leper g unto the day of his death, and dwelt in a ſeveral houſe b: and Jotham the kings ſon was over the houſe, judging the people of the land i.

6 And the reſt of the acts of Azariah, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

9 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, as his fathers had done: he departed not from the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.

11 And the reſt of the acts of Zachariah, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.

12 This was * the word of the LORD which he ſpake unto Jehu, ſaying, Thy ſons ſhall ſit on the throne of Iſrael unto the fourth generation. And ſo it came to paſs.

15 And the reſt of the acts of Shallum, and his conſpiracy which he made, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.

16 ¶ Then Menahem ſmote Tiphſah n, and all that were therein, and the coaſts thereof from Tirzah o: becauſe they opened not to him p, therefore he ſmote it; and all * the women therein that were with child, he ript up q.

17 In the nine and thirtieth year of Azariah king of Judah, began Menahem the ſon of Gadi to reign over Iſrael, and reigned ten years in Samaria.

18 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD: he departed not all his days from the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.

† Heb. caused to come forth.

20 And Menahem † exacted the money of Israel, even of all the mighty men of wealth, of each man x fifty shekels of silver, to give to the king of Assyria: so the king of Assyria turned back, and stayed not there in the land.

x i.e. Of each of those wealthy Israelites. But as each of these were not equally Wealthy, so it is not probable that he taxed them equally. Others therefore render it, to or for each man, i.e. for every Assyrian Soldier: which Interpretation is favoured by the placing of the Words in the Hebrew Text, which differs from that in our Translation.

21 ¶ And the rest of the acts of Menahem, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

22 And Menahem slept with his fathers, and Pekahiah his son reigned in his stead.

23 ¶ In the fiftieth year of Azariah king of Judah, Pekahiah the son of Menahem began to reign over Israel in Samaria, and reigned two years.

24 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, he departed not from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin.

25 But Pekah the son of Remaliah, a captain of his, conspired against him, and smote him in Samaria, in the palace of the kings house, with Argob, and Arieh ‖, and † with him fifty men of the Gileadites y: and he killed him, and reigned in his room.

* Isa. 7.1.

28 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, he departed not from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin.

29 In the days of Pekah king of Israel, came * Tiglath-pileser z king of Assyria, and took Ijon, and Abel-beth-maachah a, and Janoah b, and Kedesh, and Hazor c, and Gilead d, and Galilee e, all the land of Naphtali, and carried them captive to Assyria.

See the Notes on Isa. 9. 1.

30 And Hoshea the son of Elah made a conspiracy against Pekah the son of Remaliah, and smote him, and slew him f, and reigned in his stead, in the twentieth year of Jotham the son of Uzziah g.

f Which he did more easily effect, because the people were enraged against Pekah, as the Man who by his Murder of King Pekahiah the Son of Menahem, whom the Assyrian Monarch set up and favoured, and by his unnecessary War with Ahaz, had brought the Assyrian upon them, and caused the loss of one half of that Kingdom. g Quest. How could this be, when Jotham Reigned only 16 Years, below, ver. 33? Ans. The meaning is, That he began his Reign in the twentieth Year after the beginning of Jotham's Reign; or, which is the same thing, in the fourth Year of Ahaz, by appears from chap. 16. 1. But the Sacred Writer, having not yet made mention of Ahaz, thought it more proper to number Hoshea's Years by Jotham, of whom he had spoken, than by Ahaz. Besides, as Jotham did Reign divers Years in his Father's Life, so might Ahaz in Jotham's Life, and Jotham might for divers Reasons (which it is needless here to enquire) resign up the Administration of the Kingdom wholly into Ahaz his hands some Years before his Death, and therefore might be said to Reign but 16 Years, though he lived longer.

31 And the rest of the acts of Pekah, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

* 2 Chr. 27. 1.

32 ¶ In the second year of Pekah the son of Remaliah king of Israel, began * Jotham the son of Uzziah king of Judah to reign.

33 Five and twenty years old was he when he began to reign h, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem: and his mothers name was Jerusha, the daughter of Zadok.

h To wit, properly and alone: for he had Reigned before this, as his Father's Deputy and Vice-Roy.

34 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD: he did according to all that his father Uzziah had done.

35 ¶ Howbeit, the high places were not removed: the people sacrificed and burnt incense still in the high places: he built the higher gate of the house of the LORD i.

i Not of the Temple, properly so called; but of one of the Courts of the Temple, probably that which led to the King's Palace, 2 Chron. 23. 20. called also the new gate, Jer. 26. 10. and 36. 10.

36 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Jotham, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

IN * the seventeenth year of Pekah a the son of Remaliah, Ahaz the son of Jotham king of Judah began to reign.

* 2 Chr. 28. 1.

a Of which see on ch. 15. 30.

2 Twenty years old was Ahaz when he began to reign b, and reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem, and did not that which was right in the sight of the LORD his God, like David his father.

b Of the Difficulty hence arising, see the Notes on chap. 18. 2. to which it more properly belongs.

3 But he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, yea, and made his son to pass through the fire c, according to the abominations of the heathen, whom the LORD cast out from before the children of Israel.

c Either, 1. By way of Lustration, to pass hastily thorow it, so as to be scorched, and, as it were, baptized with it: Or, 2. By way of Oblation, so as to be utterly consumed, and offered for a Burnt-offering, which was the practice of Heathens, and of some Israelites, in imitation of them; of which, see 2 Kings 21. 6. Psal. 105. 36. Jer. 7. 31. which seems best to agree with 2 Chron. 28. 3. where it is said, he burnt his children, i.e. some of them: first one, as is here noted, and afterwards others of them, as is there observed. Of these practices, see more on Lev. 18. 21. and Deut. 18. 10.

4 And he sacrificed and burnt incense in the high places, and on the hills, and under every green tree d.

d After the manner of the Heathens; See on Deut. 12. 2. Jer. 2. 20. Hos. 4. 13.

5 ¶ * Then Rezin king of Syria, and Pekah son of Remaliah king of Israel, came up to Jerusalem to war: and they besieged Ahaz, but could not overcome him e.

* Isa. 7.1.

e Because God of his own meer Grace, undertook their Protection, as he promised to do, and disappointed the Hopes and Design of their Enemies: of which, see on Isa. 7.

6 At that time Rezin king of Syria recovered Elath f to Syria, and drave the Jews from Elath: and the Syrians came to Elath, and dwelt there unto this day.

f i.e. Took it from the Jews, who had not long since taken it, chap. 14. 22. It lay in the land of Edom, upon the Red Sea, very conveniently for Navigation: of which, see on 1 Kings 9. 26.

7 So Ahaz sent messengers to Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria, saying, I am thy servant, and thy son g: come up, and save me out of the hand of the king of Syria, and out of the hand of the king of Israel h, which rise up against me.

g I yield my self to thee, as thy Vassal, to serve and obey thee, and pay thee Tribute, upon condition thou doest assist me against my Enemies. h For though they were now gone from Jerusalem, yet he justly concluded they would return again, and from time to time molest and vex him.

8 And Ahaz * took the silver and the gold that was found in the house of the LORD, and in the treasures of the kings house, and sent it for a present to the king of Assyria.

9 And the king of Assyria hearkened unto him: for the king of Assyria went up against † Damascus i, and took it, and carried the people of it captive k to Kir l, and slew Rezin.

† Heb. Damascus.

i The Metropolis of the Syrians, and the Head of that Kingdom, Isa. 7. 8. k As was prophesied, Amos 1. 5. l Not Kir of Moab, Isa. 15. 1. but a part of Media, which then was subject to the King of Assyria.

10 ¶ And king Ahaz went to Damascus, to meet Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria m, and saw an altar n that was at Damascus: and king Ahaz sent to Urijah the priest the fashion of the altar, and the pattern of it, according to all the workmanship thereof.

m To congratulate his Victory, and acknowledge his Favour and Help, and to beg the Continuance of it. n Of an excellent Structure, upon which the Syrians used to offer to their Idols; see 2 Chron. 28. 23.

11 And Urijah the priest built an altar according to all that king Ahaz had sent from Damascus o; so Urijah the priest made it against king Ahaz came from Damascus p.

o So he complied with the King's Command against his own Conscience, and against the express Command of that great God, to whom the King, and he both, were subject. p He made haste, and delayed not to do it, to please the King, and advance himself.

12 And when the king was come from Damascus, the king saw the altar: and the king approached to the altar, and offered thereon q.

q To wit, a Sacrifice, and that not unto God, but unto the Syrian Idols, as appears from 2 Chron. 28. 23, 24. to whom that Altar was appropriated. Whether he offered this by himself, or by a Priest, is not certain.

13 And he burnt his burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and poured his drink-offering, and sprinkled the blood of † his peace-offerings r upon the altar.

† Heb. which were his.

r For the Heathens, and Ahaz, in imitation of them, offered the same sorts of Offerings to their false Gods, which the Israelites did to the true, the Devil being noted to be God's Ape in this Worship.

14 And he brought also the brazen altar, which was before the LORD s, from the fore-front of the house, from between the altar and the house of the LORD t, and put it on the north side of the altar u.

s Of Burnt-Offerings, made by Solomon, and placed there by God's appointment. t i.e. From before the Lord's House; See on Levit. 1. 5. u Or rather, from between his Altar, &c. or, that Altar, &c. His new Altar was at first set below the Brazen Altar, and at a further distance from the Temple. This he took for a Disparagement to his Altar; and therefore most impiously and audaciously takes that away, and puts his in its place. x Or, of that Altar: or of his Altar; as before. So he put God's Altar out of its place and use.

15 And king Ahaz commanded Urijah the priest, saying, Upon the great altar y burn * the morning burnt-offering, and the evening meat-offering, and the kings burnt-sacrifice, and his meat-offering, with the burnt-offering of all the people of the land, and their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, and sprinkle upon it all the blood of the burnt-offering, and all the blood of the sacrifice z: and the brazen altar shall be for me to enquire by a.

* Exod. 29. 39, 40. Num. 28. 4.

y i.e. This new Altar; which was greater than Solomon's, either in quantity, or in his estimation. z Whatsoever is offered to the true God, either in my Name (for possibly he did not yet utterly forsake God, but Worshipped Idols with him) or on the behalf of the People, shall be offered upon this new Altar; Which he seems to prescribe, not only to gratifie his own Humour, but also in design to discourage, and by degrees to extinguish the Worship of the True God: for he concluded, that the Worshippers of God would never be willing to offer their Sacrifices upon his Altar. a That shall be referred for my proper use, to enquire by; i. e. at which I may seek God, or his favour, or enquire of his Will, to wit, by Sacrifices joined with Prayer, when I shall see fit. He saith only to seek, or to enquire; not seek the Lord, or, to enquire of the Lord, as the Phrase is more largely expressed elsewhere; but he would not vouchsafe to mention the name of the Lord, whom he had so grosly forsaken and despised.

16 Thus did Urijah the priest, according to all that king Ahaz commanded b.

b Having once began to debauch his Conscience, he could not now make an honourable Retreat; and therefore proceeds to execute all the King's Commands.

17 ¶ And king Ahaz cut off * the borders of the bases, and removed the layer from off them, and took down the * sea from off the brazen oxen that were under it, and put it upon a pavement of stones c.

* 1 Kings 7.27, 28.
* 1 Kings 7.23, 25.

c Which he did, either to express his Contempt of them, or to render them inconvenient for the uses to which they had been designed; or to dispose of them, or of the Brass of them, in some other place and way, as best suited with his fancy; or for the King of Assyria, as it follows in the next Verse.

18 And the covert for the sabbath d that they had built in the house, and the kings entry without e, turned he from the house of the LORD, for the king of Assyria f.

d The form and use whereof is now unknown. It is generally understood of some Building, or Covert, either that where the Priests after their Weekly Course was ended, abode until the next Course came, and relieved them; which was done upon the Sabbath-day, see 2 Kings 11. 5, 7. or that in which the Guard, or Watchmen of the Temple, kept their Station; or that under which the King used to sit to hear God's Word, and see the Sacrifices; which is called, the covert of the Sabbath, because the chief times in which the King used it for those ends, was the Weekly Sabbath, and other solemn Days of Feasting, or Fasting (which all come under the name of Sabbaths in the Old Testament) upon which the King used more certainly, and solemnly, to present himself before the Lord, than at other times. e By which the King used to go from his Palace to the Temple; see on 1 Kings 10. 5, 12. f i. e. That he might ingratiate himself with the King of Assyria, by his publick Contempt and Rejection of that Religion which had been the only Partion-Wall between the Kings of Judah, and other Kings; and which possibly the present King of Assyria did vehemently dislike and hate; and therefore required these things from Ahaz.

19 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Ahaz, which he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

20 And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David, and Hezekiah his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP. XVII.

Hoshea King of Israel his wicked Reign: being subdued by Shalmaneser King of Assyria, he confederateth against him with So King of Egypt: He is besieged, taken Prisoner: and with all the People carried Captive to Assyria for their Sins, 1——23. The strange Nations translated into Samaria, are plagued with Lions: an Israelitish Priest is sent to them: Whence followeth a mixture of Religions, 24——41.

IN the twelfth year of Ahaz king of Judah, † began Hoshea the son of Elah to reign a in Samaria, over Israel nine years b.

† Heb. reigned.

a Quest. How can this be true, seeing it is said, that he reigned, or began to reign in Israel, in the twentieth year of Jotham? chap. 15. 30. which was the Fourth Year of Ahaz, as was there noted? Ans. He usurped the Kingdom in Ahaz his Fourth Year; but either was not owned as King, by the generality of the People; or was not accepted and established in his Kingdom by the Assyrian, till Ahaz his Twelfth Year: Or, in his eighth first Years, he was only a Tributary Prince, and the King of Assyria's Vice-Roy; and after that time he set up for himself, which drew the Assyrian upon him. b To wit, after his Confirmation and peaceable Possession of his Kingdom: For in all, he reigned Seventeen, or Eighteen Years; to wit, Twelve with Ahaz, who reigned Sixteen Years, and Six with Hezekiah, 2 Kings 18. 10.

2 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, but not as the kings of Israel that were before him c.

c For he neither worshipped Baal, as many of his Predecessors did; nor compelled the People to Worship the Calves; one of them, that of Dan, being destroyed, or carried away before, as the Hebrew Writers affirm; nor, as some add, hindred those by force, who were minded to go to Jerusalem to worship. And yet, the measure of the Israelites sins, being now full, vengeance comes upon them without remedy: Compare 2 Kings 23. 26.

3 ¶ Against him came up Shalmaneser d king of Assyria, and Hoshea became his servant, and † gave him ‖ presents e.

† Heb. rendred.

‖ Or, tribute.

d The Son, or Successor of Tiglath-pileser. The ancient Hebrew Writers make him the same with Sennacherib, who Eight Years after this time, invaded the Kingdom of Judah; See chap. 18. 10, 13. It being very frequent in the Eastern parts, for one man to be called by several Names, especially by the People of several Countries. Josephus affirms, that he met with his Name in the Annals of the Tyrians, which were extant in his days. He came against him, either because he denied the Tribute which he had promised to pay; or that he might make him Tributary. e Swore Fealty to him, and engaged to pay him a Tribute.

4 And the king of Assyria found conspiracy in Hoshea: for he had sent messengers to So king of Egypt f, and brought no present to the king of Assyria, as he had done year by year: therefore the king of Assyria shut him up, and bound him in prison g.

f By Heathen Writers called Sua, or Sabachus, that by his Assistance he might shake off the Yoke of the King of Assyria; who now was, and for many Years had been the King of Egypt's Rival; See 2 Kings 18. 21. Jer. 37. 5. g To wit, after he had come up against him, and taken him, with Samaria; the particular Relation whereof here follows.

5 ¶ Then the king of Assyria came up throughout all the land, and went up to Samaria, and besieged it three years.

6 ¶ * In the ninth year of Hoshea, the king of Assyria took Samaria, and carried Israel away into Assyria, and placed them in Halah, and in Habor, by the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes h.

* Chap. 18. 10.

h This is added, to distinguish this place from the former, which was either in Assyria, or in the mountainous and less inhabited parts of Media. Hither he carried them, partly to replenish his own Country; and partly, because these places were at so great a distance from Canaan, that this would cut off all Hopes and Thoughts of returning to their own Countrey.

7 For so it was, that the children of Israel had sinned against the LORD their God, which had brought them up out of the land of Egypt, from under the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and had feared other gods;

8 And walked in the statutes of the heathen i (whom the LORD had cast out from before the children of Israel) and of the kings of Israel, which they had made k.

i i.e. According to the Laws and Customs of the Heathen, in the Worship of their Baals, and other of their sins. k i.e. Which the Kings of Israel had ordained concerning the Worship of the Calves, and against their going up to Jerusalem to worship.

9 And the children of Israel did secretly those things that were not right, against the LORD their God, and they built them high places in all their cities, from the tower of the watchmen, to the fenced city m.

l This belongs, either, 1. To their gross Idolatries, and other abominable Practices, which they were ashamed to own before others; Compare Ezek. 8. 12. Or, 2. to the Worship of Calves: And so the Words are otherwise rendered, and that agreeably to the Hebrew Text; they cloaked, or disguised, or covered things that were not right against, or before, or towards the Lord: i. e. They covered their Idolatrous Worship of the Calves, with fair Pretences of necessity, the Two Kingdoms being now divided, and at enmity; and of their honest intention of serving the True God, and retaining the substance of the Jewish Religion, from which they alledged, that they differed only in Circumstances of Worship. m In all parts and places, both in Cities, and in the Countrey; yea, in the most inhabited and neglected parts, where few or none dwell, beside the Watchmen, who are left there in Towers, to preserve the Carcel and Fruits of the Earth, or to give notice of the approach of Enemies.

10 And

10 And they set them up † images and * groves in every * high hill, and under every green tree:

11 And there they burnt incense in all the high places, as did the heathen n whom the LORD carried away before them o; and wrought wicked things to provoke the LORD to anger p.

n Not only to the Lord, which was practised and tolerated, sometimes in the Kingdom of Judah; but also to the Idols or Baal's of the Heathen. o For the same sins; by whose Example they should have taken warning. p i.e. In despight and contempt of God, and his Authority and Command, as the next Verse shews.

12 For they served idols *, whereof the LORD had said unto them, * Ye shall not do this thing.

13 Yet the LORD testified against Israel q, and against Judah † by all the prophets, and by all * the seers r, saying, * Turn ye from your evil ways, and keep my commandments, and my statutes, according to all the law which I commanded your fathers s, and which I sent to you by my servants the prophets.

q Disowned, and gave Testimony against their false Worship, which they would fasten upon him, and against all their Iniquities. r To whom he declared his Mind, by extraordinary Revelations and Visions, and by whom he published it to you, bearing Witness from Heaven to their Doctrine, by eminent and glorious Miracles. s Whereby he accuseth them of Partiality, that they observed only those Laws of God, which they might safely keep, and lived in the constant Breach of others, which their Kings forbad them to observe.

14 Notwithstanding, they would not hear, but * hardened their necks t like to the neck of their fathers, that did not believe in the LORD their God.

t i.e. Refused to submit their Necks to the Yoke of God's Precepts. A Metaphor from stubborn Oxen, that make their Necks hard, or stiff, and will not bow to the Yoke; see on Deut. 31. 27.

15 And they rejected his statutes, and his covenant that he made with their fathers, and his testimonies which he testified against them, and they followed vanity u, and became vain x, and went after the heathen that were round about them, concerning whom the LORD had charged them, that they should not do like them.

u i.e. Idols; oft so called, because of their nothingness, impotency, and unprofitableness; and to shew the folly and madness of Idolaters. x By the long Worship of Idols, they were made like them, vain, sottish, and senseless Creatures.

16 And they left all the commandments of the LORD y their God, and * made them molten images, even two calves, and made a * grove, and worshipped all the host of heaven z, and served * Baal.

y They grew worse and worse; from a partial Disobedience to some of God's Laws, they fell by degrees to a total Apostacy from all of them. z The Stars, as Saturn, Jupiter, Mars, Venus, &c. See Deut. 4. 19.

17 And they * caused their sons and their daughters to pass through the fire, and used divination, and inchantments, and sold themselves to do evil a in the sight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

a Of which Phrase, see on 1 Kings 21. 21.

18 Therefore the LORD was very angry with Israel, and removed them out of his sight b: there was none left * but the tribe of Judah only c.

b i.e. Out of Canaan, the only place of God's solemn Worship, and gracious Presence; or, out of his Church. c And the greatest part of the Tribe of Benjamin, and those of the Tribes of Simeon and Levi who adhered to them, and were incorporated with them; and therefore very fitly denominated from them: See of this Phrase on 1 Kings 11. 13.

19 Also Judah kept not the commandments of the LORD their God, but walked in the statutes of Israel which they made d.

d Judah's Idolatry and Wickedness is here remembred, as an aggravation of the sin of the Israelites, which was not only evil in it self, but scandalous, and mischievous to their Neighbour, who by their Examples were instructed in their wicked Arts, and provoked to an Imitation of them; See Hosea 4. 15. and compare Matth. 18. 7.

20 And the LORD rejected all the seed of Israel e, and afflicted them, and delivered them into the hand of spoilers, until he had cast them out of his sight.

e i.e. All the Kingdom, or Tribes of Israel: first, one part of them, chap. 15. 29. and now the rest. But this extends not to every individual Person of these Tribes; for many of them removed into the Kingdom of Judah, and were associated with them, as appears from 2 Chron. 11. 16. and many other places.

21 For * he rent Israel from the house of David, and they made Jeroboam the son of Nebat king f, and Jeroboam drave Israel from following the LORD g, and made them sin a great sin h.

f Which Action is here ascribed to the People, because they would not tarry till God, by his Providence, had invested Jeroboam with the Kingdom which he had promised him; but rashly, and unthankfully, and rebelliously, rose up against the House of David, to which they had such great Obligations; and set him upon the Throne without God's leave or advice. g He not only diswaded, but kept them by force from God's Worship at Jerusalem, the only place appointed for it. h So the Worship of the Calves is called, to meet with that idle Conceit of the Israelites, who esteemed it a small sin, especially when they were forced to it by severe Penalties; which yet he shews did not excuse it from being a sin, and a great sin too.

22 For the children of Israel walked in all the sins of Jeroboam which he did, they departed not from them i; i But willingly and resolutely followed the wicked Examples and Commands of their Kings, though contrary to God's express Commands.

23 Until the LORD removed Israel out of his sight k, as he had said by all his servants the prophets. So was Israel carried away out of their own land to Assyria, unto this day.

k They continued to the last, obstinate and incorrigible under all the Instructions and Corrections which God sent to them; and therefore were most justly given up by God into this dreadful Captivity; which all this foregoing Discourse was designed to prove.

24 ¶ And the king of Assyria l brought men from Babylon m, and from Cuthah, and from Ana, and from Hamath, and from Sepharvaim n, and placed them in the cities of Samaria, instead of the children of Israel; and they possessed Samaria, and dwelt in the cities thereof.

l Either Salmanasser, or rather his Son and Successor, Esarhaddon; Ezra 4. 2. because this was a work of some time; and as his Father had projected, and possibly began this; so he executed or finished it: whence it is ascribed to him, rather than to his Father. m Which then was subject to the Assyrian Monarch; but a few years after revolted from him, and set up another King; as appears both from Sacred and Profane Histories. n Several places then in his Dominion.

25 And so it was at the beginning of their dwelling there, that they feared not the LORD ‖ i. therefore o the LORD sent lions among them, which slew some of them.

‖ They did not acknowledge, nor worship God in any sort. i For this gross Neglect, and contempt of God, which was contrary to the Principles and Practices of the Heathens, who used to worship the Gods of the Nations where they lived, and gave that honour to their false gods, which here they denied to the true. Hereby also God asserted his own Right and Soveraignty over that Land, and made them to understand, that neither the Israelites were cast out, nor they brought into that Land by their Valour, or Strength, but by God's Providence, who as he had cast the Israelites out for their neglect of God's service; so both could, and would in his due time, turn them out also, if they were guilty of the same sins.

26 Wherefore they spake p to the king of Assyria, saying, The nations which thou hast removed, and placed in the cities of Samaria, know not the manner of the God of the land q: therefore he hath sent lions among them, and behold, they slay them, because they know not the manner of the God of the land.

p i.e. They wrote, or sent Messengers to him for relief. q They supposed the true God to be like one of their Topical Deities, who had their particular Countries and Provinces allotted to them.

27 Then the king of Assyria commanded, saying, Carry thither one of the priests r, whom ye brought from thence, and let them go and dwell there, and let him teach them the manner of the God of the land.

r i.e. One of the chief of the Priests, with others, to be under his Inspection and Direction; as may be gathered from the following Words; where it is said of the same Person, or Persons, let them go, &c. and then, let him teach, &c. Nor is it probable, that one Priest could suffice for the instruction of the Inhabitants of so many and distant parts.

28 Then one of the priests whom they had carried away from Samaria, came and dwelt in Bethel, and taught them how they should fear the LORD s.

s i.e. The manner of God's Worship, as it was practised in Israel; as may be gathered both from the Quality of this Person, who was an Israelitish Priest; and from the place of his Residence, Bethel, a place infamous for the Worship of the Calves, and from the manner of their making Priests by this man's Direction, ver. 32.

29 Howbeit, every nation made gods of their own t, and put them in the houses of the high places, which the Samaritans u had made, every nation in their cities wherein they dwelt.

t Or, worshipped (as that Verb is sometimes used; of which, see Exod. 32. 35.) i.e. those whom they worshipped in the places from whence they came, whose names here follow. u i.e. The former People, or Inhabitants, not of the City, but of the Kingdom of Samaria.

30 And the men of Babylon made Succoth-benoth, and the men of Cuth made Nergal, and the men of Hamath made Ashima.

31 And the Avites made Nibhaz, and Tartak, and the Sepharvites burnt their children in fire to Adrammelech, and Anammelech, the gods of Sepharvaim.

32 So they feared the LORD, and made unto themselves of the lowest of them priests of the high places x, which sacrificed for them y in the houses of the high places.

x See the Notes on 1 Kings 12. 31. y To wit, unto the true God: For as to the Worship of their own Gods, they needed no Instruction, and would not permit a Person of another Religion to minister therein.

33 * They feared the LORD z, and served their ‖ Or, the own gods, after the manner of the nations ‖ whom they carried away from thence a.

† They thereto-

? They worshipped God externally in that way which the Israelites used. z These words belong, either, 1. To both the foregoing Branches, and to the Israelites; and then the sense is, They trod in the steps of their Predecessors, the Israelites (who, in regard of their several Tribes, are both here, and elsewhere, called Nations) who did, many of them, worship both God in their Calves, and Baal too. Or, 2. To the last Branch only; but then the Words must be otherwise rendred; they served their own Gods, after the manner of the Nations (Inhabitants) were brought; i.e. each of them served the God of the Country or Place whence he was brought, as is related above, ver. 30, 31. But these Nations could not so properly be said to be carried away, or to be carried away captive (as this Hebrew word signifies) as the Israelites; and therefore the former Interpretation seems more proper.

34 Unto this day they b do after the former manners: they fear not the LORD c, neither do they after their statutes d, or after their ordinances, or after the law and commandment which the LORD commanded the children of Jacob e, * whom he named Israel f.

*Gen. 32. 28. & 35. 10.

b Either, 1. the Samaritans, whose Religion he hath hitherto been describing, and to the description whereof he returns, ver. 41. So the following Verses are a Digression, wherein he designs only to take an occasion to compare them with the Israelites, and to aggravate the sins of the Israelites above theirs, which he doth, ver. 35, &c. and then returns to the former Description, ver. 41. Or rather, 2. The Israelites, who are the principal Subjects of this whole Discourse; and of whom he unquestionably speaks, ver. 35. and thence to ver. 41. of whom also the last words of ver. 33. are to be understood; and from thence he takes an occasion to return to his main business, to relate, and aggravate the sins of Israel; and thereby to justifie his severe proceedings against them, to all the World. So the sense of the place is this; As the Israelites before their Captivity, gave these Nations an ill Example, in serving the Lord, and Baal together; so, or after their former manner, they do unto this day, in the Land of their Captivity. c Though they pretended to fear, and serve both the Lord and Idols; yet in truth they did not, and do not fear or worship the Lord, but their own Calves, or other vain Inventions: And God will not accept that mongrel and false Worship, which they pretend to give to the true God. Or, this may intimate, that the Israelites were worse than their Successors, because these feared the Lord, and Idols too; but they did quite cast off the Fear and Worship of God in their Captivity, and wholly degenerated into Heathenish Idolatry. d i.e. God's Law delivered to their Fathers, and to them, as their Inheritance, Psal. 119. 111. This is alledged as an Evidence, that they did not fear the Lord, whatsoever they pretended, because they lived in the constant Breach of his statutes. e i.e. Themselves: the Noun put for the Pronoun; which is usual among the Hebrews. f A Name, signifying his special Interest in God, and Power with him, which was given to him, not only for himself, but for his Posterity also, whom God frequently honours with that Name. And by this great favour he aggravates their sin.

35 With whom the LORD had made a covenant g, and charged them, saying, * Ye shall not fear other gods, nor bow your selves to them, nor serve them, nor sacrifice to them:

*Jud. 6. 10.

g Containing many precious Promises, upon the Condition here following: see Gen. 17. 7. Exod. 19. 5. and 24. 7.

36 But the LORD, who brought you up out of the land of Egypt, with great power, and a stretched-out arm, him shall ye fear, him shall ye worship, and to him shall ye do sacrifice.

37 And the statutes, and the ordinances, and the law, and the commandment which he wrote for you, ye shall observe to do for evermore, and ye shall not fear other gods:

38 And the covenant that I have made with you, ye shall not forget, neither shall ye fear other gods.

39 But the LORD your God h ye shall fear, and he shall deliver you out of the hand of all your enemies i.

h i.e. God alone, as the whole Context shews. i And therefore you have no pretence of need to go to other gods for relief.

40 Howbeit, they did not hearken, but they did after their former manner.

41 So k these nations l feared the LORD, and served their graven images, both their children, and their childrens children: as did their fathers, so do they unto this day.

k i.e. In like manner, and after their Example. l Who came in their stead.

CHAP. XVIII.

Hezekiah King over Judah his good Reign: He is not afraid of the King of Assyria: and overcometh the Philistines, 1—8. Samaria is carried away Captive by Salmanasser King of Assyria: for their sins, 9—12. Sennacherib invadeth Judah: and Hezekiah payeth him Tribute, 13—16. Rabshakeh sent by Sennacherib, revileth Hezekiah: blasphemeth God: and stirreth up the People to mutiny: which is told the King, 17—37.

NOw it came to pass in the third year a of Hoshea son of Elah king of Israel, that * Hezekiah the son of Ahaz king of Judah began to reign.

*2 Chron. 28. 27. & 29. 1. He is cal. led Ezekias, Mat. 1. 9 a In the third of those nine years mentioned, chap. 17. 1. of which see there. See below ver. 10.

2 Twenty and five years old was he when he began to reign b, and he reigned twenty and nine years in Jerusalem: his mothers name also was Abi c, the daughter of Zachariah.

b How is this credible? For then Ahaz, who lived but Six and Thirty Years, chap. 16. 2. must beget Hezekiah at the Eleventh Year of his Age. Ans. 1. There are some like Instances mentioned by credible Authors; which these very Men will not deny, who are so ready to quarrel with the holy Scriptures for such matters. 2. This being the confessed Custom of Sacred, and other Writers, in the numbring of Years, sometimes to omit, and sometimes to add those which are imperfect, or unfinished: And so Ahaz might be near One and Twenty Years old when he began to Reign, and near Seventeen Years older when he died: And on the other side, Hezekiah, when he began to Reign, might be only Four and Twenty years old compleat, and but entred into his Five and Twentieth Year.——And thus Ahaz might be between Thirteen and Fourteen Years old, when he got Hezekiah; which is not at all strange, especially in that Nation to which God had promised a singular degree of Fruitfulness, and in that House of David to which God had made so many, and such great Promises. 3. It is not certain that Ahaz lived only Thirty six Years, for those Sixteen Years which he Reigned, Chap. 16. 2. may be computed, not from the first beginning of his Reign, when he Reigned with his Father; (of which, see the Notes on Chap. 15. 30.) which was at the Twentieth Year of his Age, but from the beginning of his Reign alone. 4. Some affirm, That Hezekiah was not the Natural, but only the Legal Son and Successor of Ahaz: for the name of Son is given in Scripture to such Persons; as 1 Chron. 3. 16. comp. with 2 King. 24. 17. Matth. 1. 12. compared with Jer. 22. 30. and to Adopted Sons, Act. 7. 21. Heb. 11. 24. And to Sons in Law, 1 Sam. 24. 16. and 26. 17. Luk. 2. 23. Any of these Solutions are far more credible to any Man of common Prudence, than that these Sacred Books, whose Divine Original hath been so fully evidenced both by God and Men, are but the Fictions and Contrivances of a base Impostor. And if none of these Solutions were sufficient, it is absurd to conclude, That a true Resolution cannot be found, because it is not yet found; because it is manifest, That many difficulties both in Scripture, and in the Arts, which were formerly judged Insoluble, have been cleared in later Times: and therefore we may justly expect the Resolution of other Difficulties, which may be thought not yet fully explained. c Or, Abiah, 2 Chron. 29. 1.

And this he attempted to do, notwithstanding the Peoples great and constant Affection to them; partly, because he had more Zeal and Courage than his Predecessors: and partly, because the dreadful Judgments of God upon the Kingdom of Israel for their Superstition and Idolatry, had made the People of Judah more pliable to the Commands of God, and of their good King. e By God's Command to be an Ordinance or Mean for the conveyance of God's Blessing to the People: which therefore had been hitherto kept as a Memorial of God's Mercy; but being now commonly abused to Superstition, was destroyed. f Not doubtless as a God, but only as to an Instrument and Token of God's Mercy, by and through which, their Adoration was directed to God, and given to that only for God's sake. g i.e. He said, This Serpent, howsoever formerly honoured, and used by God as a sign of his Grace, yet now it is nothing but a piece of Brass, which can do you neither Good nor Hurt; and therefore is no fit Object for your Worship.

7 And the LORD was with him, and he prospered whithersoever he went forth: and he rebelled against the king of Assyria l, and served him not.

l He shook off that Yoke of Subjection and Tribute, to which his Father had wickedly submitted, Chap. 16. 7. and reassumed that full and independent Soveraignty which God had setled in the House of David, which Ahaz could not alienate further, than for his own time. And Hezekiah's Case differs much from that of Zedekiah, who is blamed for Rebellion against the King of Babylon, both because he had ingaged himself to him by a solemn Oath and Covenant, which we do not read of Ahaz; and because he broke the Covenant which he himself had made; and because God had actually given the Dominion of his own Land and People to the King of Babylon, and commanded both Zedekiah and his People to submit to him. And whereas Hezekiah is here said to Rebel; that Word implies, only a defection from that Subjection which had been professed and performed to another; which sometimes may be justly done, and sometimes may not: and therefore that Word doth not necessarily prove this Action to be a Sin. And these Words, he rebelled, &c. are explained by the next following Words, and he served him not. And that it was not a Sin in him, seems most probable, because God did own, and assist him therein; and did not at-

14 And Hezekiah king of Judah sent to the king of Assyria to Lachish, saying, I have offended u, return from me: that which thou puttest on me, will I bear. And the king of Assyria appointed unto Hezekiah king of Judah, three hundred talents of silver, and thirty talents of gold.

t That he might affright the People into a compliance with him, which he perceived Eliakim and his Brethren endeavour to prevent.

29 Thus saith the king, Let not Hezekiah deceive you, for he shall not be able to deliver you out of his hand:

30 Neither let Hezekiah make you trust in the LORD, saying, The LORD will surely deliver us, and this city shall not be delivered into the hand of the king of Assyria.

31 Hearken not unto Hezekiah: for thus saith the king of Assyria, ‖ † Make an agreement with me by a present u, and come out to me, and then eat ye every man of his own vine x, and every one of his fig-tree, and drink ye every one the waters of his ‖ cistern:

z Of which see Jer. 49. 23. a Of which see Chap. 17. 24. b The names, either 1. of Idol-gods. But why should only these two be named, and not the Gods of the other places here mentioned? Or rather, 2. of Cities or Countries, as is manifest from Chap. 19. 13. where those words are repeated among other places, whose Kings are there mentioned, and where they are rendred, of Henah and Ivah, as they should be here also, the words in the Hebrew being the very same. c i. e. Either the Gods here mentioned, which together with other Idols, were Worshipped in Samaria. Or, 2. Their gods; which is easily understood from the foregoing words.

35 Who are they among all the gods of the countries, that have delivered their Countrey out of mine hand, that the LORD should deliver Jerusalem out of mine hand?

36 But the people d held their peace, and answered him not a word: for the king's commandment was, saying, Answer him not e.

d i. e. Either these Three Men, this Word being sometimes used of a very few men, as 1 Sam. 9. 24. Or rather, the people that were with them upon the wall, ver. 26. to whom he spake, and from whom he expected an answer. e Which was wisely ordered; partly, left by their words they should either betray their Fears, or provoke their Enemies to greater Injuries or Blasphemies; or give them some advantage or direction for their further Proceedings: and partly, that by this Instance of Obedience and Calmness, he might see the resolution of the People to cleave unto their King; and the vanity of his Attempts to seduce them to a defection from him.

37 Then came Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, which was over the houshold, and Shebna the scribe, and Joah the son of Asaph the recorder, to Hezekiah * with their clothes rent, and told him the words of Rabshakeh.

Hezekiah acquainteth Isaiah the Prophet with the Blasphemies of Rabshakeh: he promiseth deliverance from the Lord, 1——7. Sennacherib is forced to march against the Moors: sendeth blasphemous Letters to Hezekiah, 8——13. His Prayer, 14——19. Isaiah prophecieth the Destruction of Sennacherib and good of Zion, 20——34. 3 And they said unto him, Thus saith Hezekiah, This day is a day of trouble, and of rebuke a, and ‖ blasphemy: for the children are come to the birth, and there is not strength to bring forth b.

‖ Or, provocation.

a Either, 1. From God, wherein God rebukes and chastens us sorely. Or rather, 2. From the Assyrian, who reviles and Reproacheth us: for his business here is to complain, not of God, but of the Assyrian. b We are like a poor Travelling Woman in great Extremity, and having no strength left to help her self, and to bring forth her Infant into the World. We have attempted to deliver our selves from the Assyrian Yoke; and had carried on that work to some maturity, and as we thought, brought it to the Birth; but now we have no might to finish, unless thou assist us. We have begun an happy Reformation, and are hindred by this insolent Assyrian, from bringing it to perfection. See 2 Chron. 32. 1.

4 It may be c the LORD thy God d will hear e all the words of Rabshakeh, whom the king of Assyria his master hath sent to reproach the living God, and will reprove the words f which the LORD thy God hath heard: wherefore lift up thy prayer for the remnant g that are † left.

c He speaks doubtfully, because he knew not whether God would not deliver them all up into the Assyrians hand, as he, and his people deserved. But sometimes this is not a word of doubt, but of good hope; as Numb. 22. 33. Josh. 14. 12. d To whom thou art dear and precious. He saith not our God, because he seemed to have forsaken and rejected them; and they, by their Designs had forfeited all their interest in him. e i. e. Will shew by his Actions, that he hath heard them with just Indignation. f Or rather, will reproue him, (an Ellipsis of the Pronoun, which is frequent in the Hebrew Tongue) for the words, as the Syriack, and Arabick, and Caldee render it. g This he mentions as an Argument, to stir up Isaiah to pray, and to move God's Compassion towards them; That they were but a small Remnant either of God's People, of whom Ten Tribes were now lost: or of the Kingdom of Judah, which had been greatly wasted and depopulated in the days of Ahaz; and now lately by this Assyrian, ver. 13.

5 So the servants of King Hezekiah came to Isaiah.

6 ¶ And Isaiah said unto them, Thus shall ye say to your master, Thus saith the LORD, Be not afraid of the words which thou hast heard, with which the servants of the king of Assyria have blasphemed me.

7 Behold, I will send a blast upon him h, and he shall hear a rumour, and shall return to his own land, and I will cause him to fall by the sword in his own land.

h Heb. a wind, a Storm or Tempest, by which name God's Judgments are oft called; i. e. a violent, and sudden, and terrible Stroke; namely, That miraculous Destruction of his Army, of which, ver. 35. Although the place may be rendred thus, I will put a Spirit within him, so that he shall hear a rumour, and return, &c. For by Spirit, is many times understood an Imagination, or Inclination, or Affection; in which sense we read of the Spirit of fear; 2 Tim. 1. 7. Of the Spirit of jealousie, Numb. 5. 14. Of the Spirit of slumber, Rom. 11. 8. Or, a Spirit against (for so the Hebrew Preposition Beth is oft used, as hath been noted before) him; Of whom this Word is elsewhere used, as Judg. 9. 23. 1 Sam. 16. 14, 23. 1 King. 22. 23 as it is also given to Man's Soul, Job 12. 10. Eccles. 12. 7. which is a Spiritual substance, as the Angels are. And this Interpretation seems most agreeable to the design of this Verse, which is in brief to represent all the Judgments of God which were to befall him, and which are related in the following History; and therefore all the other Particulars being contained in the following Branches of this Verse; the tidings of Tirhakah, ver. 9. in these words, he shall hear a rumour; his returning to his own Land, and being slain there, ver. 36. 37. in the next words, it seems most probable, That the chiefest of all the Judgments, to wit, the Destruction of 185 thousand Souldiers in one night, ver. 35. is not omitted here, but expressed in the first branch of the Verse; and the Spirit here is the same thing, which is there called an Angel; this latter Word being there used, to limit and explain the former, which otherwise was of a doubtful signification.

8 ¶ So Rabshakeh returned i, and found the king of Assyria warring against Libnah: for he had heard that he was departed from Lachish k.

i To the King, to give him an account of the Treaty, and to advise with him what was further to be done; leaving behind him the Army under the other Commanders mentioned, Chap. 18. 17. as is most probable from the other threatning Message here following; which would have been very unsuitable, if his Siege had been raised. k Not being able to take it.

9 And when he heard say of Tirhakah king of Ethiopia l, Behold, he is come out to fight against thee: he sent messengers again unto Hezekiah, saying, l Heb. of Cush, i. e. Either, 1. of Arabia, as that Word is most commonly meant; of which see the notes, and especially my Latin Synopsis, upon Numb. 12. 1. Or rather, 2. Of Ethiopia beyond Egypt. Nor was there any need, that he should force his passage through Egypt, which is objected against this Opinion by a very Learned Man; because the Egyptians (against whom this Sennacherib Warred, as Herodotus Historians, Herodotus and Berosius, relate) and the Ethiopians were Confederates in this Expedition, as Josephus expressly affirms; who lived above 1600 Years nearer the time when this was done, than we; and therefore was more likely to understand it.

10 Thus shall ye speak to Hezekiah king of Judah, saying, Let not thy God in whom thou trustest deceive thee, saying, Jerusalem shall not be delivered into the hand of the king of Assyria.

11 Behold, thou hast heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all lands, by destroying them utterly: and shalt thou be delivered m?

m No certainly, never expect it: such questions oft imply a denial; as Gen. 18. 17.

12 Have the gods of the nations delivered them which my fathers have destroyed; as Gozan, and Haran, and Rezeph, and the children of Eden which were in Thelasar n?

n Several places about, or beyond Euphrates. See Gen. 11. 31. Ezek. 27. 23.

13 Where is the king o of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim, of Hena, and Ivah p?

o Either, 1. Their god, whom he here calls their King; because they looked upon him as their Protector and Governour; which Kings are, or should be to their People. Or rather, 2. Their King properly so called. And as before he compared their gods with the God of Jerusalem; so now he compares their Kings with King Hezekiah; and by both intends to perswade them, that neither their God, nor their King, was able to save them out of his Hand. p Of which see the notes on Chap. 18. 34.

14 ¶ And Hezekiah received the letter of the hand of the messengers, and read it: and Hezekiah went up into the house of the LORD q, and spread it before the LORD r.

q i. e. Into the Court of the Temple: for further he might not enter. r i. e. Before the Ark; or Temple: which he did, not to acquaint God, but to strengthen his own Faith, and quicken himself to Prayer.

15 And Hezekiah prayed before the LORD, and said, O LORD God of Israel, * which dwellest between the cherubims, thou art the God, even thou alone of all the kingdoms of the earth, thou hast made heaven and earth:

* 1 Sam. 4. 4.

16 LORD, bow down thine ear, and hear: open, LORD thine eyes, and see; and hear the words of Sennacherib, nacherib, which hath sent him s to reproach the living God.

s i. e. The messenger who brought this railing Letter, ver. 14. Or Rabshakeh, who was easily understood out of the former Chapter, although he would not do him the honour to name him; or, sent him; to wit, This Letter.

17 Of a truth, LORD, the kings of Assyria have destroyed the nations, and their lands.

18 And have † cast their gods into the fire: for they were no Gods, but the work of mens hands, wood and stone: therefore they have destroyed them.

19 Now therefore, O LORD our God, I beseech thee save thou us out of his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that thou art the LORD God, even thou onely.

20 ¶ Then Isaiah the son of Amoz sent to Hezekiah, saying, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, That which thou hast prayed to me against Sennacherib king of Assyria, I have heard t.

t i. e. Accepted it, and will answer it: A common Synecdoche.

21 This is the word that the LORD hath spoken concerning him, The virgin u, the daughter of Zion x hath despised thee, and laughed thee to scorn; the daughter of Jerusalem hath shaken her head at thee y.

u So he calls Zion, or Jerusalem; partly, because she was pure in good measure from that gross Idolatry wherewith other people were defiled, which is called Spiritual Whoredom: partly, to signifie, that God would defend her from that Rape which Sennacherib intended to commit upon her, with no less Care and Zeal, than Parents do their Virgin Daughters from those who seek to Force and Deflour them: and partly, to intimate, that as she had not yet been Forced, and taken by her Barbarous Enemies, so she should still retain her Virginity, in spight of his Attempts against her. x i. e. The People of Zion; i. e. as it follows, of Jerusalem; so called Synecdochically from the Mountain and City of Zion, which was an Eminent part of it. Cities and Countries are oft called Mothers, as 2 Sam. 20. 19. and their Inhabitants Daughters; as Numb. 21. 25. Josh. 17. 16. Judg. 1. 27. Psal. 45. 13. and 137. 8. y Laughed at all thy proud and impotent Threatnings. This is a Gesture of Contempt and Derision: of which, see Psal. 22. 7. and 44. 13. Jer. 18. 16. Matt. 27. 39.

22 Whom hast thou reproached and blaspheméd? and against whom hast thou exalted thy voice z, and lift up thine eyes on high a? even against the holy One of Israel b.

z By Rabshakeh, who cryed with a loud voice, Chap. 18. 28. a A Gesture of Pride, and Scornfulness, Prov. 21. 4. b Not against Man, but against the Holy God, who will not suffer thy Impious Blasphemies to go unpunished; and against the holy one of Israel, who hath a special relation and kindness to Israel, having as it were set himself apart for them, and set them apart for himself, as being at this time the God of the Jews onely, and not the God of the Gentiles; whom, as yet, he suffered to walk in their own evil ways, Act. 14. 16. And therefore he will Plead their Cause against thee.

23 By † thy messengers c thou hast reproached the LORD, and hast said, With the multitude of my chariots I am come up to the heighth of the mountains d, to the sides of Lebanon e, and will cut down † the tall cedars thereof, and the choice fir-trees thereof f: and I will enter into the lodgings of his borders g, and into the ‖ forest of his Carmel h.

c So thou hast advanced thy very Servants above me. d I have brought up my very Chariots to those Mountains which were thought inaccessable by my Army. e An high Hill, famous for Cedars and Fir-trees, here following. f This may be understood, either, 1. Mistically, I will destroy the Princes, and Nobles of Judah, (which are sometimes compared to cedars, &c.) Or, their strongest Cities. Or rather, 2. Literally, I will cut down the Trees that hinder my March, and plain and prepare the way for all my numerous Army and Chariots. And by this one Instance, he intimates, that nothing should stand in his way; no not the highest and strongest Places. g i. e. Those Towns and Cities (which he calls Lodgings in way of Contempt) which are in his utmost Borders, and most remote from me. I am come into the Land of Canaan an Border Lebanon, and I resolve to march on to the other extreme Border, and so to destroy the whole Countrey, from one border to another: the borders of a Land being oft put for the whole Land within its Borders; as Exod. 8. 2. Psal. 74. 17. and 147. 14. Isa. 54. 12. Or, as it is in the Hebrew, into the Lodging of his border; for which, in the Parallel place, Isa. 37. 24. it is, into the heights of his border. And so this may be understood of Jerusalem; which it is not probable, that in all his brags he would omit; and against which, his chief Design now lay, which he here calleth a lodging, for its contemptible smallness, if compared with his great and vast City of Nineveh; or, as it is in Isa. 37. the heights, for its two famous Mountains, Zion and Morish; or for the Mountains which were round about Jerusalem; Psal. 125. 2. and he adds, of his border, because this City was in the Border of Judah; as being part of it in the Tribe of Benjamin, and near the Kingdom of the Ten Tribes, which was now in the Assyrians hands. h i. e. The Forest of Mount Carmel, which may seem to be another Inaccessible Place, like Lebanon. Or, into his forest, and his fruitful field. For Carmel, though properly it was a pleasant and fruitful Mountain in the Tribe of Issachar, of which see Josh. 12. 22. yet it is oft us'd to signifie, any fruitful place, as is manifest from Isa. 10. 18. and 16. 10. Jer. 2. 7. And thus all the parts of the Land are here enumerated; the Mountains, the Cities, the Woods, and the Fruitful Fields. Or, his fruitful forest; to wit, Jerusalem; which is thought by many Interpreters, to be called a Forest, Jer. 21. 14. Ezek. 20. 46. a name which agrees well enough to Cities, where Buildings are very numerous, and close, and high, like Trees in a Forest. And if Jerusalem might be called a Forest, it might well be called Hezekiah's Carmel; or, Fruitful Place: because his chief Strength, and Treasure, and Fruit was now in it: and this last Word may seem to be added here, to intimate, that this was not like other Forests, unfruitful, and barren. And so both this, and the foregoing words are understood of the same place, even of Jerusalem; the last Branch being joined to the former by way of Apposition; into the lodging of his border, the forest of his Carmel; or, his fruitful Forest; there being no more words in the Hebrew Text.

24 I have digged and drank strange waters i, and *with the sole of my feet have I dried up all the rivers of ‖ besieged places k.

i Such as were never discovered nor used by others. And therefore all thy endeavours to deprive me of Water for my Army, 2 Chron. 32. 3. are Idle and Fruitless. k And as I can furnish my Army with Water digged out of the Earth, by their Labour, and my Art; so I can deprive my Enemies of their Water, and can dry up their rivers, and that with the sole of my feet; i. e. With the March of my vast and numerous Army, who will easily do this, either by marching through them, and each carrying part away with them: or by drinking every one a little of them: or by their pains, making many new Channels, and deriving the Waters of the River into them, as Cyrus dried up Euphrates, and thereby took Babylon.

* Deut. 11. 10.
‖ Or, fenced cities.

25 ‖ Hast thou not heard long ago, how I have done it, and of ancient times that I have formed it l? now have I brought it to pass, that thou shouldest be to lay waste fenced cities into ruinous heaps m.

‖ Or, Hast thou not heard long ago, how I have made it, and formed it even from ancient times? now have I brought it to pass, that thou shouldest be to lay waste fenced cities into ruinous heaps?

l Hast thou not long since learned, that which some of thy Philosophers could, and did teach thee; that there is a Supreme and Powerful God, by whose Decree and Providence all these Wars and Calamities were sent, and ordered; whose meer Instrument thou art, so that thou hast no cause for these vain Boastings? This work is mine, more than thine. Or, as it is in the Margent of our Bibles, Hast thou not heard (that (a Particle oft underflood) I have made (i. e. Constituted, or Purchased, or Adorned, for all these ways is this Hebrew Verb used) it (i. e. it to be their Jerusalem, which he now threatned; or rather, the Jewish Nation, (and so which he endeavoured to Root out: the Relative Pronoun, being put without the Antecedent, which is to be gathered out of the Context; of which I have formerly given instances) long ago, and formed it of ancient times? i. e. Didst thou not hear what I did for this People many Ages since, that I carried them out of Egypt in spight of Pharaoh and all his Host; and through the Read-sea, where I overthrew the Egyptians; and through the vast howling Wilderness; and then brought them into this Land, by a strong hand, by which I destroyed all their Enemies, and planted them in their stead? By which thou mayest understand how dear this People are to me, and how easily I could destroy thee before them, If I saw it fit; and that the Places which thou hast taken, and the Conquests which thou hast made here, are not to be imputed to thy Valour, or Numbers, but unto my Providence, who for wise and just Reasons, have given them up into thy hands, as it here follows. This may seem to be the truest sence, because that barbarous Prince and People were much more likely to hear the tidings of what God did for the Israelites in Egypt, and at the Red-sea, and in Canaan; the fame of which was spread in all those parts; than to hear of, or be instructed in the Doctrine of God's particular Providence in the Government of several Nations, and all their Counsels, and actions of State, and War. For, though the Assyrian was indeed the Rod in God's hand, &c. Isa. 10. 5. yet he did not so understand it, nor was God in all his thoughts, but he minded only the enlargement of his own Empire, by the Destruction of other Kingdoms, as it there follows, ver. 7, 13, 14, 15. m This Translation seems better to agree both with the foregoing Branch of this Verse, and with the following Verse, than the other Interrogative Translation in the Margent; and the plain sense seems to be this, Great Things I have done for this People, which thou canst not be ignorant of; but now I have changed my course towards them, resolved to Punish them severely for their Sins; and therefore, now I have brought it to pass, i. e. I have so disposed of things by my Providence, that thou shouldest be a Great and Victorious Prince, and that thou shouldest imploy thy Forces against them, to do my work upon them, that thou shouldest be (to wit, a person raised up, and fitted, and strengthned for this very purpose) to lay waste fenced cities (and to turn them) into ruinous heaps; i. e. That thou shouldest be so successful as thou hast hitherto been, first against the Kingdom of Israel, and now against Judah.

26 Therefore n their inhabitants o were † of small power, they were dismayed and confounded, they were as the grass of the field p, and as the green herb, as * the grass on the house tops, and as corn blasted before it be grown up q.

† Heb. short of.

n Because I had armed thee with my Commission and strength, and taken away their Spirits and Courage, and withdrew my help from them, to give it to thee. o The People of Israel, and Judah, and other Places which thou hast Conquered. p Which is weak and quickly fading, and unable to resist any Hand or Instrument which offers Violence to it. q i. e. All their Designs and Hopes were disappointed, before they could come to any Perfection or Success.

27 But I know thy ‖ abode, and thy going out, and thy coming in r, and thy rage against me s.

‖ Or, sitting.

r Though thou dost not know me, yet I thoroughly know thee, and all thy Designs and Actions, all thy secret and subtil Contrivances in the place of thy abode, in thy own Kingdom and Court; and the Execution of thy Designs abroad, what thou intendest in thy going out, and with what successes or further thoughts thou comest in, or returnest to thy own Land. For the Phrase, Compare Deut. 31. 2. Psal. 139. 2, 3. s i. e. Against my servant Hezekiah, and my People, against whom he was engaged, because they would not deliver up Jerusalem to him, which he demanded. Things are frequently said to be done against God, which are only done against his People, because of that near Union and Relation which is between them. See Zech. 2. 8. Acts 9, 4, 5. But the Words may well be rendred, and thy rage is with me, or before me, as the Syriack hath it; or, is manifest to me; as the Chaldee renders it. And so this Branch of the Verse answers to the former; I know, &c. and it is before me.

28 Because

28 Because thy rage against me, and thy tumult t is come up into mine ears, therefore * I will put my hook in thy nose, and my bridle in thy lips u; and I will turn thee back by the way by which thou camest x.

* 2 Kings 19. 28. Isa. 37. 29.

t i. e. Thy tumultuous Noise, thy Clamours, and Blasphemies which Rabshakeh in thy Name belched forth against me, with a loud voice, Chap. 18. 28. u A Metaphor from wild and furious Beasts, that must be thus managed. x I will cause thee to return to thy Home with shame and loss.

29 And this shall be a sign unto thee y, Ye shall eat this year such things as grow of themselves, and in the second year, that which springeth of the same, and in the third year z sow ye, and reap, and plant vineyards, and eat the fruits thereof a.

y To wit, of the certain accomplishment of the Promises here made to thee; That Zion should triumph over this insulting Enemy, ver. 21. That God would not only preserve the City from his present Fury, ver. 34. but also, That God would bless his People with a durable Prosperity, and an happy Increase, ver. 30, 31. And thus it is not only a sign of a short Deliverance, which would be past before this Sign was fulfilled, (though there are Instances of such Signs as followed the thing done; as Exod. 3. 12. Isa. 7. 14.) but of a future Mercy, which was to continue long after that Sign. And this Sign was the more necessary, because otherwise Hezekiah and his People had cause to fear, That the Assyrians would be greatly enraged for their shameful Repulse, and the Destruction of their Army, and would quickly recruit their Army, and return against them with far greater Force and Violence. But some affirm; That Sennacherib when he heard of Tirhakah's March against him, of which, ver. 9. went with his Army to meet him, and overthrew him, and the Egyptian who was joined with him, as was noted before; and prosecuted his Victory, by following them into Egypt, and Ethiopia: in the Conquest of which, he spent two years; in which space, the People did eat such things as grew of themselves: and in the third year returned to Jerusalem, intending to Besiege it. It is true, it is said, and so the sign went before the thing, (which may be objected against the Truth of this Relation) ver. 9. That when he heard of Tirhakah, he sent Messengers to Hezekiah, pretending as if he would forthwith come against him; but it is not said, that he did so: nor is it set down what he did with Tirhakah, because the Design of the Sacred Writer, was only to write the History of the Jewish Nation; not of others, but only with respect to them. z This was an excellent Sign, for it was miraculous; especially, considering the waste and havock which the Assyrians had made in the Land; and that the Jews had been forced to retire into their strong hold, and consequently to neglect their Tilling, and Sowing, and Reaping; and yet this Year they should have sufficient Provision from those Fruits of the Earth which the Assyrian left; and the Second Year, which probably was the Year of Release, in which they might neither Sow, nor Reap, from such Fruits as the Earth brought forth of its own accord; and so in the Third Year. a You shall not Sow, and another Reap, as lately you did; but you shall enjoy the Fruit of your own Labours.

c That handful of Jews who now were gathered together, and shut up in Jerusalem, shall go out to their several Habitations, and by my singular Blessing increase exceedingly. d The same thing expressed in other words, which is usual in the Hebrew Language. ∴ Although when you reflect upon your selves, and consider either your present fewness, and weakness, or your great unworthiness, this may seem too great a Blessing for you to expect, or believe; yet God will do it from the Zeal which he hath, both for his own Name, to vindicate it from the Blasphemous Reproaches of the Assyrians, and for the good of his undeserving People.

32 Therefore thus saith the LORD concerning the king of Assyria, He shall not come into this city, nor shoot an arrow there, nor come before it with shield, nor cast a bank against it e.

† Heb. with a great weeping.

e Which was true, though he sent Rabshakeh, and others, with a great Host against Jerusalem, Chap. 18. 17. Either because that Host went away with Rabshakeh to Libnah; above ver. 8. Or rather, because that Army did not form a close Siege against it, but only marched towards it, and disposed themselves so as to block it up at some distance; possibly waiting till the King of Assyria had taken Libnah and Lachish, (which they presumed he would speedily do) and should come up with the rest of his Forces, when they intended to fall more vigorously to their Work.

33 By the way that he came, by the same shall he return f, and shall not come into the city, saith the LORD.

f Whereas he expected to devour the Kingdom of Judah at one Morsel, and then to proceed further, and to conquer Egypt, or other Neighbouring Countries; and, as it is said of him, and concerning this very time, and design, Isa. 10. 7. To cut off Nations not a few; he shall meet with so sad a disappointment and rebuke here, that he shall make haste to return with shame to his own Country.

CHAP. XX.

Hezekiah receiving a Message of Death: by Prayer hath his Life lengthned: for a Sign the Sun goeth backwards. 1——11. The King of Babylon's Ambassadors come to Hezekiah: with Letters and a Present: he sheweth them all his Treasures, 12——15. Whereupon Isaiah foretelleth him the Babylonish Captivity: He dieth: and Manasseh is K. 16——21.

* 2 Ch. 32. 24. Isa. 38. 1.
† Heb. Give charge.

a i. e. In that Year of the Assyrian Invasion, as is manifest from hence, that that was in Hezekiah's 14th Year, chap. 18. 13. and God concerns now added 15 Years more to him, chap. 20. 6. and yet Hezekiah Reigning nine ed only 29 Years in all, chap. 18. 2. And this happened, Either, First, before the Affair of the destruction of Sennacherib's Army. Or, Secondly, Before it, as may be thought from v. 6. where he speaks of his Delivery from the King of Assyria, as a future thing. It is true, that when Hezekiah received that insolent Message from the Assyrian, he was in Health, and went into the Temple to pray, ch. 19. 14. but there might be time more than enough for this Sickness and Recovery, between that Threatning, and this Destruction of the Assyrian. b Take care to make thy Will, and to settle the Affairs of thy Family and Kingdom: which he the rather presseth upon him, because the State of his Kingdom required it: for it is plain, that Hezekiah had not as yet any Son, Manasseh his Heir and Successor not being born till three years after this time, by comparing this chap. 20. 6. with chap. 21. 1. c According to the Course of Nature, and of thy Disease, which is mortal in its kind, and will be so in effect, if God doth not miraculously prevent it. Such Threatnings, though absolutely expressed, have oft-times secret Conditions, which God reserves in his own Breast. See Jonah 3. 4.

2 Then he turned his face to the wall d, and prayed unto the LORD, saying, d Either, because the Temple lay that way: or rather, that by turning his Face from the Company, he might intimate his desire of Privacy, and so might with more Freedom and Fervency pour out his Soul to God.

3 I beseech thee, O Lord, remember now how I have walked before thee in truth e, and with a perfect heart, and have done that which is good in thy sight: and Hezekiah wept † sore f.

† Heb. with a great weeping.

e i. e. Sincerely, with an honest Mind, as the following Words explain it. I have in some measure (humane frailty excepted) kept the Condition which thou didst require, 1 King. 8. 25. and therefore do humbly beg of thee, that the Promise made to David and to his Posterity upon that condition, may not fail in my Person, or as yet thou hast not given me a Son. See on ver. 1. I am not conscious to my self of any gross Exorbitances in the Course of my Life, for which thou usest to shorten Mens Days, and cut off my Life in thy Displeasure, which by this sharp Message thou threatnest to do. f Partly, for that Horror of Death which is and was common to Men, especially, in the times of the Old Testament, when the Grace of God in Christ was not so fully manifested, as now it is: and principally, for the distracted and miserable Condition in which the Church and State were then likely to be left, through the uncertainty of the Succession to the Crown, and the great Proneness of the People to backslike to their false Worship, and evil Practices; which he easily perceived, and which he knew would bring far worse Calamities upon them, if he were removed; as afterwards it came to pass.

4 And it came to pass, afore Isaiah was gone out into the middle ‖ court g, that the word of the LORD came to him, saying, g To wit, of the King's Palace; of which see on 1 King. 7. 8. Or, into the middle city, as it is in the Hebrew. For some observe, that there were three Cities, or three parts of this City; one called the City of David in Sion; another called Jebus, or Salem; and a third which was betwixt these two parts, and united them all into one City, called Jerusalem. This is noted to shew God's great readiness to hear the sincere and fervent Prayers of his Children.

5 Turn again, and tell Hezekiah the captain of my people, Thus saith the LORD, the God of David thy father h, I have heard thy prayer, I have seen thy tears: behold, I will heal thee; on the third day i thou shalt go up into the house of the LORD k.

h I am mindful of my Promise made to David and his House, and will make it good in thy Person. i Which shews that the Cure was miraculous.

raculous. k To give me Solemn Praise for this Mercy. Which proves the Perfection of the Cure.

6 And I will add unto thy days fifteen years l, and I will deliver thee and this city out of the hand of the king of Assyria m: and * I will defend this city for mine own sake n, and for my servant Davids sake.

Chap. 19. 34.

l Beyond what thou dost expect, and beyond what thou wouldst do if I should leave thee to the force of thy Disease. m This is added, either, first, Because he might otherwise fear the Assyrians return to this City from which he was so shamefully repulsed. Or, Secondly, Because this Sickness happened before that great slaughter, chap. 19. 35. Of which see the Notes on ver. 1. n To vindicate my Glory against that insolent Blasphemer.

7 And Isaiah said, Take a lump of figs o. And they took and laid it on the boil ., , and he recovered.

o Though the deliverance was certainly promised, yet means must be used, and those suitable: for this hath naturally a power of ripening and softning Boils or Sores; though that Power was altogether insufficient to produce so sudden and so compleat a Cure. ∴ Which seems to have been a Plague-sore.

8 ¶ And Hezekiah said p unto Isaiah, What shall be the sign q that the LORD will heal me, and that I shall go up into the house of the LORD the third day?

p Or rather, had said: for it is evident this was said before his recovery, though his recovery be mentioned before it; such transpositions being frequent in Scripture. q He asketh a Sign, not because he distrusted it; but for the strengthning of his Faith, which otherwise might be shaken by the greatness of his danger, and by the contradiction between this and his former Message. Compare Judg. 6. 17,37,39. Isa. 7. 11.

9 And Isaiah said, This sign shalt thou have of the LORD, that the LORD will do the thing that he hath spoken: shall the shadow go forward ten degrees, or go back ten degrees?

10 And Hezekiah answered, It is a light thing for the shadow to go down ten degrees r: nay, but let the shadow return backward ten degrees.

r To wit, in an instant: for that Course or Motion of the Sun is natural for the kind of it, though miraculous for the swiftness of it; but the other would be both ways miraculous.

11 And Isaiah the prophet cried unto the LORD s, and * he brought the shadow ten degrees backward t, by which it had gone down in the † dial of Ahaz u.

Isa. 38. 8. Heb. degrees.

s Being moved by God's Spirit first to offer him this Sign, and then to pray for it. t Quest. 1. What were these degrees? Answ. Lines in the Dial: but whether each of these Lines or Degrees noted an hour, or half an hour, or a quarter of an hour, is uncertain, and not very considerable in this case. Quest. 2. What was it that went down? Answ. Either, First, The Shadow alone went back without the Sun. For God could so dispose of the Light of the Sun, by interposing Clouds, or other things, so that the Shadow should fall only upon those Lines, and in that manner as God directed it. And whereas the Sun is said to have gone down, that may be spoken according to appearance, as other Passages of Scripture are understood, as when the Moon is called one of the great Lights, Gen. 1. though it be less than some of the Stars: and when the Sun is said to go down, Jer. 15. 9. and to be turned into darkness, Joel 2. 31. Or, Secondly, The Sun it self went back, and the Shadow with it. This may seem most probable: First, By comparing this with Jos. 10. 13. where the Sun it self stood still. Secondly, Because it is said, the Sun it self returned, Isa. 38. 8. for which he here mentions the Shadow only, because the Miracle was not so easily discovered in the Sun, as in the Shadow of a Dial. And though the Sun may be elsewhere taken improperly, yet where the improper signification is unnecessary, the proper is and ought to be preferred before it. Thirdly, Because this Miracle was noted by the Babylonians, who, having understood that it was done for Hezekiah his sake, sent to enquire into the truth and manner of it, 2 Chron. 32. 31. Obj. If this had been done, the Heathen Historians and Astronomers would have taken notice of it, which we do not find that they did. Answ. So it is most probable they did: although those Books be not now extant: which is not strange; this being confessed and bewailed, that so very few of the first and ancient Writers are now left. Herodotus himself, the first, and Father of the ancient Historians, being long after this time. And yet it is observed, that there are some Intimations of these things left, though mixed with Fables, as many true Histories were; as what the Poets fabled of Jupiter's making the Night twice as long as it should have been, that he might enjoy Alcmena longer. Whether the Sun or Shadow went backward suddenly, or leisurely, and in the same time in which it had gone down, is a Question of no great moment, the Miracle being evident either way. u Which Ahaz had made in the King's Palace. This Dial he mentions, because the truth of the Miracle might be best and soonest discovered there: this Dial possibly being visible out of the King's Chamber, or at least being near to it, and the Degrees being most distinct and conspicuous in this Dial; but the same thing was discerned by all other Dials.

Isa. 39. 1. 12 ¶ * At that time Berodach-baladan x the son of Baladan king of Babylon, sent letters and a present unto Hezekiah y: for he had heard that Hezekiah had been sick.

x Called Merodach-Baladan, Isa. 39. 1. whose Name Josephus found in that famous Chaldean Historian, Berosus. He seems to have been the King of Assyria's Vice-Roy in Babylon, and upon that terrible Slaughter of 185 thousand in the Assyrian Host, and the Death of Sennacherib, and the differences among his Sons, to have usurped and absolute Sovereignty over Babylon, and either himself or his Son destroyed the Assyrian Monarchy, and translated the Empire to Babylon. y Partly, for the Reasons mentioned, 2 Chron. 32. 31. and partly, to assure himself of the Friendship and Assistance of Hezekiah against the Assyrians, their common, and as yet powerful Enemy.

13 And Hezekiah hearkned unto them z, and shewed them all the house of his ‖ precious things, the silver, and the gold, and the spices, and the precious ointment, and all the house of his ‖ † armour, and all that was found in his treasures a: there was nothing in his house, nor in all his dominion, that Hezekiah shewed them not b.

‖ Or, Jewels. † Heb. Vessels.

z i.e. Granted their Desires of a League and Amity with them. a For though his Country had lately been harassed by the Assyrians, yet he had reserved all his Treasures and precious things, which he and his Fathers had gathered in Jerusalem. Besides, he had considerable Spoils out of the Assyrian Camp. Also he had many Presents sent to him, 2 Chr. 32. 23. which doubtless were things of considerable Worth. b Which he did though vain Ostentation and pride of heart, 2 Chron. 32. 25, 26. being lifted up by the great Honour which God had done him, in working such glorious Miracles for his sake, and by the great Respects and Presents rendred to him from divers Princes and People, and now by this great Babylonian Monarch. So hard a matter is it even for a good man to be high and humble.

14 ¶ Then came Isaiah the prophet unto king Hezekiah, and said unto him, What said these men, and from whence came they unto thee? And Hezekiah said, They are come from a far country c, even from Babylon d.

c A vain-glorious Expression, intimating the great Honour which he had from all parts both far and near. d That great and potent Monarchy: which he speaks to magnifie his own Honour and Happiness.

15 And he said, What have they seen in thine house? and Hezekiah answered, All the things that are in mine house have they seen: there is nothing among my treasure that I have not shewed them.

e He asketh, not that he was ignorant of it, but that from his Answer he might take the occasion of delivering God's message to him.

16 And Isaiah said unto Hezekiah, Hear the word of the LORD.

17 Behold, the days come, that all that is in thine house, and that which thy fathers have laid up in store unto this day, * shall be carried into Babylon f: nothing shall be left, saith the LORD.

2 Chap. 24. 13. & 25. 13. Jer. 27. 22.

f This Judgment is denounced against him for his Pride, which God exceedingly abhors: and for his Ingratitude, whereby he took that Honour to himself which he should have given entirely to God; and abused God's Gifts and Favours to the Gratification of his own Lusts: Of both which see 2 Chron. 32. 25, 26. and for his carnal Confidence in that League which he had now made with the King of Babylon, by which, it is probable, he thought his Mountain to be so strong, that it could not be removed.

18 And of thy sons that shall issue from thee, which thou shalt beget g, shall they take away, and they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon h.

g i.e. Of thy Grand-Children, who are oft called Sons. h They shall be Servants to that Heathen Monarch, whereby both their Bodies will be subject to Slavery, and the Lusts of their Lords, and their Souls exposed to the peril of Idolatry, and all sorts of Wickedness; which must needs be very grievous to so good a Man as Hezekiah, and was indeed a very sore Judgment. Whereby God would teach the World the great Evil of Sin, yea even of those Sins which are generally esteemed but small and venial; for such were those Sins of Hezekiah noted upon v. 17.

19 Then said Hezekiah unto Isaiah, Good is the word of the LORD i, which thou hast spoken. And he said, ‖ Is it not good, if peace and truth be in my days k?

‖ Or, Shall there not be peace and truth,

i I heartily submit to this Sentence, as being both just, because deserved and procured by mine and my Peoples sins; and merciful, because cause the Punishment is less than I have deserved. k Which speaks not as if he were careless and unconcerned for his Posterity, (which neither the common Inclinations and Affections of Nature in all Men, nor that singular Piety and Charity which was eminent and manifest in Hezekiah, can suffer us to believe) or for the Church and People of God, for whose Welfare he was so solicitous and industrious in the whole Course of his Life; but because it was a singular favour that this Judgment did not immediately follow his Sin, the Cause of it, but was suspended for a longer time.

20 ¶ And the rest of the acts of Hezekiah, and all his might, and how he made a pool, and a conduit, and brought Water into the city, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

21 And Hezekiah slept with his fathers: and Manasseh his son reigned in his stead.

2 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD b, after the abominations of the heathen, whom the LORD cast out before the children of Israel.

b Partly, by the ſtigation of the wicked Princes of Judah, who in Hezekiah's time were ſecret Enemies to his Reformation, and now, when their Fetters were knock't off by Hezekiah's death, break forth into open Hoſtility againſt it, and corrupt the King's tender years with Chap. 21. with their wickedst counsel; and principally, by his own vicious inclination.

5 And he built altars for all the host of heaven, in the two courts f of the house of the LORD.

f The one of the Priests, the other of the People, 1 King. 6. 36.

6 And * he made his son pass through the fire g, and observed times h, and used inchantments, and dealt with familiar spirits, and wizzards: he wrought much wickedness in the sight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

7 And he set a graven image of the grove i that he had made, in the house of which the LORD said to David, and to Solomon his son, * in this house, and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen out of all the Tribes of Israel, will I put my Name for ever.

Or, Thirdly, The Graven Image of Asherah, a god or goddess so called, possibly the same called elsewhere Astaroth. See Judg. 6. 25, 28. 2 King. 23. 6. 2 Chron. 15. 16.

8 Neither will I make the feet of Israel move any more out of the land k which I gave their fathers; only if they will observe to do according to all that I have commanded them, and according to all the law that my servant Moses commanded them.

k They shall no more be carried Captives into a strange Land, as it had happened before.

9 But they hearkened not: and Manasseh seduced them to do more evil than did the nations whom the LORD destroyed before the children of Israel l.

l Partly, because they were not contented with those Idols which the Canaanites worshipped, but either themselves invented, or they borrowed from other Nations many new Idols and kinds of Idolatry; and partly, because as their light was far more clear, their obligations to God infinitely higher, and their helps and antidotes against Idolatry much stronger than the Canaanites had; so their sins, though the same in kind, were unspeakably worse in respect of these dreadful aggravations.

10 ¶ and the LORD spake by his servants the prophets, saying,

11 * Because Manasseh king of Judah hath done these abominations, and hath done wickedly above all that the Amorites m did, which were before him, and hath made Judah also to sin with his idols n; o By the great commotion which such terrible reports shall cause in the hearts and heads of the hearers. See on 1 Sam. 3. 11. Jer. 19. 3.

13 And I * will stretch over Jerusalem the line of Samaria, and the plummet of the house of Ahab, and I will wipe Jerusalem, as a man wipeth a dish, † wiping it, and turning it upside down q.

* Isa. 34. 11. † Heb. he wipeth and turneth it upon the face thereof.

p She shall have the same measure and lot, i.e. the same Judgments which Samaria had. The line is oft put for ones lot or portion, as Psal. 16. 6. 2 Cor. 10. 16. because mens portions or possessions used to be measured by Lines, Psal. 78. 55. Amos 7. 17. Or, it is a Metapor from workmen who mark out by Lines what parts of the Building they would have thrown down, and what they would have stand. See Isa. 34. 11. Lam. 2. 8. Amos 7. 7, 8. Zech. 1. 16. Or, it is an allusion to that fact of David, who destroyed the Moabites by a measuring Line, 2 Sam. 8. 2. q As men do with a Dish that hath been used, first wipe it empty it of all that is in it, then throughly cleanse and wipe it; and lastly, turn it upside down, that nothing may remain in it; so will I deal with Jerusalem, throughly empty and purge it from all its wicked Inhabitants, and that so as to cut off all hopes of restitution.

14 And I will forsake the remnant of mine inheritance r, and deliver them into the hand of their enemies, and they shall become a prey, and a spoil to all their enemies;

r i.e. The Kingdom of Judah, the onely remainder of all the Tribes of Israel, which I did once chuse for my Inheritance, but now, notwithstanding that priveledge, will utterly reject and forsake them.

15 Because they have done that which was evil in my sight, and have provoked me to anger, since the day their fathers came forth out of Egypt, even unto this day s.

s This fore Judgment, though it was chiefly inflicted for the sins of Manasseh and his Generation, yet had a respect unto all their former sins, the guilt whereof, was upon this occasion revived. See Exod. 32. 34.

16 Moreover, Manasseh shed innocent blood † very much, till he had filled Jerusalem † from one end to another, beside his sin u wherewith he made Judah to sin, in doing that which was evil in the sight of the LORD.

† Heb. from mouth to mouth.

t The Blood of those Prophets and Righteous Men who either reproved his sinful practices, or refused to comply with his wicked commands and worship. u i.e. His Idolatry, which is elsewhere called guilt and corruption, and here sin, by way of eminency; which is the more considerable, because it is here compared with horrid cruelty, and implied to be worse than that, and more abominable in God's sight, because it doth more directly and immediately strike at the Glory and purity of the Divine Majesty, by respect unto which all sins are to be measured. And this expression God here useth in opposition to the gross error of most men, who look upon Idolatry as a small sin, as a meer mistake of the mind, as the fruit of a good intention, and as an excess proceeding from Zeal in Religion.

17 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Manasseh, and all that he did, and his sin that he sinned, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

18 And * Manasseh slept with his fathers, and was buried in the garden of his own house x, in the garden of Uzzah: and Amon his son reigned in his stead.

* 2 Chro. 33. 20.

x Not in the Sepulchre of the Kings; either, by the people's desagnation, who judged him unworthy of that honour; or rather, by his own choice and command, as a lasting testimony of his sincere Repentance and Abhorrency of himself for his former Crimes. y Or, of King Uzziah, who possibly planted or enlarged it.

19 ¶ Amon was twenty and two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned two years in Jerusalem: and his mothers name was Meshullemeth, the daughter of Haruz of Jotbah.

20 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, as his father Manasseh did.

21 And he walked in the way that his father walked in, and served the Idols that his father served, and worshipped them:

22 And he forsook the LORD God of his fathers, and walked not in the way of the LORD.

23 ¶ And the servants of Amon conspired against him, and slew the king in his own house.

24 And the people of the land slew all them that had conspired against King Amon, and the people of the land made Josiah his son king in his stead.

25 Now the rest of the acts of Amon which he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

26 And he was buried in the sepulchre, in the garden of Uzza: And * Josiah his son reigned in his stead.

Josiah's good reign: His care for the repair of the Temple, 1——7. Josias. Hilkiah found a Book of the Law: The King by it understandeth God's Threatnings against Backsliders, and by Huldah the Prophetess enquireth of the Lord, 8——14. She propheſieth the deſtruction of Jeruſalem: but not in Joſiah's time, 15——20.

JOsiah * was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned thirty and one years in Jerusalem: and his mothers name was Jedidah the daughter of Adajah of Boscath.

* 2 Chr. 34. 1.

2 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, and walked in all the way of David his father, and turned not aside to the right hand or to the left.

3 ¶ And it came to pass in the eighteenth year a of king Josiah, that the king sent Shaphan the son of Azaliah, the son of Meshullam the scribe b, to the house of the LORD, saying, a Not of his Life, but of his reign, as it is expressed, 2 Chron. 34. 3, 8. What he did before this time, see 2 Chron. 34. 3, &c. b The Kings Secretary.

4 Go up to Hilkiah the high priest, that he may sum the silver c which is * brought into the house of the LORD, which the keepers of the † door d have gathered of the people:

5 And let them deliver it into the hand of the doers of the work, that have the oversight of the house of the LORD: e and let them give it to the doers of the work, which is in the house of the LORD, to repair the breaches of the house, e i.e. The care and overlight of the workmen; which also were Levites, 2 Chron. 34. 12.

6 Unto carpenters, and builders, and masons, and to buy timber, and hewen ſtone f, to repair the houſe.

f Either, hewed or cut out of the Quarries; or, to be hewed and fitted to the Building.

7 Howbeit, there was no reckoning made with them of the money that was delivered into their hand, becauſe they dealt faithfully g.

g i. e. Becauſe it was found by experience that they dealt faithfully. Verbs ſignifying the being of a thing, are oft put for the manifeſtation of it.

8 ¶ And Hilkiah the high prieſt ſaid unto Shaphan the ſcribe, I have found the book of the law b in the houſe of the LORD: and Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan, and he read it.

b That original book of the law of the Lord, given or written by the hand of Moſes, as it is expreſſed, 2 Chron. 34. 14. which by God's Command was put beſide the Ark, Deut. 31. 26. and probably taken from thence and hid, by the care of ſome godly Prieſt, when ſome of the Idolatrous Kings of Judah perſecuted the true Religion, and defaced the Temple, and (which the Jewiſh Writers affirm) burnt all the Copies of God's Law which they could find, and now found among the Rubbiſh, or in ſome ſecret place.

9 And Shaphan the ſcribe came to the king, and brought the king word again, and ſaid, Thy ſervants have † gathered the money that was found in the houſe, and have delivered it into the hand of them that do the work, that have the overſight of the houſe of the LORD.

† Heb. melted.

10 And Shaphan the ſcribe ſhewed the king, ſaying, Hilkiah the prieſt hath delivered me a book: And Shaphan read it before the king.

11 And it came to paſs when the king had heard the words of the book of the law i, that he rent his clothes.

i i.e. The dreadful Comminations againſt them for the ſins ſtill reigning among the people. Queſt. Did Joſiah never ſee and read a Copy of this Book before this time? If he did not, how could he do ſo much towards the Reformation of Religion, as he did before? if he did, why was he not ſooner convinced and humbled by it? Anſ. If Joſiah had not yet ſeen a Copy of this Book (which is not impoſſible) yet there was ſo much of the Law left in the minds and memories of many of the People, as might eaſily perſuade and direct him to all that he did till this time: or, if Joſiah had ſeen and read it before, which ſeems more probable, yet the great Reverence which he juſtly bare to the Original Book, and the ſtrange, and remarkable, and ſeaſonable finding of it, had very much awakened and quickened him to a more ſerious and diligent reading, and attentive conſideration of all the paſſages contained in it, than he uſed before.

12 And the king commanded Hilkiah the prieſt, and Ahikam the ſon of Shaphan, and Achbor the ſon of Micaiah, and Shaphan the ſcribe, and Aſahiah a ſervant of the kings k, ſaying, k Who moſt conſtantly waited upon the King's Perſon: otherwiſe all of them were the King's Servants.

13 Go ye, enquire of the LORD l for me, and for the people, and for all Judah, concerning the words of this book m that is found: for great is the wrath of the LORD that is kindled againſt us, becauſe our fathers have not hearkened unto the words of this book, to do according unto all that which is written concerning us.

l Either, what he intends to do with us: or, what we ſhall do to him, to appeaſe his wrath. m Whether the Curſes here threatned muſt come upon us without remedy, or whether there be hope in Iſrael concerning the prevention of them.

14 So Hilkiah the prieſt, and Ahikam, and Achbor, and Shaphan, and Aſahiah went unto Huldah the prophetes n, the wife of Shallum, the ſon of Tikvah, the ſon of Harhas, keeper of the † wardrobe, (now ſhe dwelt in Jeruſalem in ‖ the colledge o) and they communed with her.

Or, 2. Becauſe the King or his Courtiers had longer and greater experience of the eminency of her Prophetical Gifts, than of Jeremiah's, who began not to prophecy till the thirteenth Year of Joſiah, Jer. 1. 2. and being well aſſured of her Fidelity in delivering the Mind and Counſel of God, to thoſe that enquired of her, they rightly concluded, that it was much more conſiderable what meſſage God ſent, than by whom it was conveyed to them. o Where the Sons of the Prophets, or others, who devoted themſelves to the ſtudy of God's Word, uſed to meet and diſcourſe of the things of God, and receive the Inſtructions of their Teachers. Others both Ancient and Modern render it, in another or the ſecond part, to wit, of the City, i. e. in the Suburbs, which alſo were Fortified and Walled about by Hezekiah, 2 Chron. 32. 5.

15 ¶ And ſhe ſaid unto them, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, tell the man that ſent you to me,

16 Thus ſaith the LORD, Behold, I will bring evil upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof, even all the words of the book which the king of Judah hath read;

17 Becauſe they have forſaken me, and have burnt incenſe unto other gods, that they might provoke me to anger with all the works of their hands p: therefore my wrath ſhall be kindled againſt this place, and ſhall not be quenched.

p Gods made with hands. This ſhe adds to aggravate their folly and contempt of God, in preferring ſuch vain and idle things before him.

18 But to the king of Judah, which ſent you to enquire of the LORD, thus ſhall ye ſay to him, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, As touching the words which thou haſt heard;

19 Becauſe thine heart was tender, and thou haſt humbled thy ſelf before the LORD, when thou heardſt what I ſpake againſt this place, and againſt the inhabitants thereof, that they ſhould become a deſolation and a curſe, and haſt rent thy clothes, and wept before me: I alſo have heard thee, ſaith the LORD.

20 Behold therefore, I will gather thee unto thy fathers, and thou ſhalt be gathered into thy grave in peace q, and thine eyes ſhall not ſee all the evil which I will bring upon this place. And they brought the king word again.

q i. e. In a time of publick Peace, and the Tranquility of thy Kingdom; or ſo as thou ſhalt not ſee all the evil which I will bring upon this place, as the following words explain it: for otherwiſe he died in Battel, chap. 23. 29. Beſides, he died in peace with God, and was by death tranſlated to everlaſting Peace.

y Queſt. How could he rightly do this, ſeeing Bethel was a part of the Kingdom of Iſrael, not of Judah? Anſ. Either, Firſt, This City was now under the Kingdom of Judah, to which it was added by Aſiah long ſince, 2 Chron. 13. 19. Or, Secondly, He did this by vertue of that ancient right which David and his Poſterity had to the Kingdom of Iſrael, which though ſuſpended for a time by God's grant of the Ten Tribes to Jeroboam, and the ſucceeding Kings of Iſrael: yet theſe being all extinct, it might ſeem to return to him, at leaſt ſo far as to pluck up Idolatry out of the Land of Iſrael, as he had opportunity, and eſpecially out of thoſe parts of it which bordered upon Judah. Or, Thirdly, The King of Babylon having ingaged in a War with the Aſſyrian, Hezekiah's great Enemy, and having thereupon occaſion for Hezekiah's friendſhip, did (as ſome ſuppoſe) enlarge his Dominion, and give him ſome power over the Kingdom of Iſrael, at leaſt as to matters of Religion: Which may ſeem not improbable from 2 Chron. 30. 1, 4, 5, 6. By this Relation it appears, and from the nature of the thing, and common practice in like cases, it is more than probable, that after the departure of the King of Assyria, divers of the Israelites who had retired to other parts, and kept themselves out of the Conquerours hands, returned together with their Priests to their own Land, and to their old trade of Worshipping Idols; to whom, peradventure, they ascribed this their Deliverance from that Judgment which Jehovah had brought upon them. h According to that Famous Prophecy, 1 King. 13. 1, 2.

l i. e. Celebrated with such Solemn care, and great preparation, and numerous Sacrifices, 2 Chron. 35. 7, 8, 9. and universal Joy of all good men; which was much the greater, because of their remembrance of the former wicked and miserable times under Manasseh, and Amon; and the good hopes they now had of the happy Establishment of their Nation, and the True Religion; and of the prevention of God's Judgments denounced against them. m Or, from the days of Samuel, the last of the Judges; as it is expressed 2 Chron. 35. 18. 5 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Jehoiakim, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

6 So Jehoiakim slept with his Fathers: and Jehoiachin h his son reigned in his stead.

h Called also Jechoniah, 1 Chron. 3. 16. (as Jehoiakim also was, by comparing this with Matt. 1. 11.) and in way of contempt, Choniah, Jer. 22. 24.

7 And the King of Egypt came not again any more * Jer. 46. 2. out of his land i: for * the king of Babylon had taken from the river of Egypt unto the river Euphrates, all that pertained to the king of Egypt.

i To wit, in this Kings days; nor until Zedekiah's time, Jer. 37. 6, 7. nor to any purpose. He could not now come out to Protect the King of Judah, being scarce able to defend his own Kingdom.

8 ¶ Jehojachin * was eighteen years old when he began to reign k, and he reigned in Jerusalem three months l: and his mothers name was Nehushta, the daughter of Elnathan of Jerusalem.

* 2 Chron. 36. 10. Esth. 2. 6.

k Object. He was then but Eight years old, 2 Chron. 36. 9. Answ. 1. Both are true; in his Eighth Year he began to Reign with his Father, who made him King with him, as divers other Kings of Israel and Judah had done in the like times of trouble; and in his Eighteenth Year he reigned alone. 2. He is called a son of eight years when he began to reign, 2 Chron. 36. 9. because this was the Eighth Year, not of his Age, but of the Babylonish Captivity, or Bondage; under which, both he, and his Father had been just so long; for it began in the Fourth Year of Jehojakim, as it is affirmed, Jer. 25. 1. and continued all his Reign, which lasted Eleven Years, Chap. 23. 36. and so the first Year of Jehojakim was precisely the Eighth Year of that Captivity. And this is certain, That the Years of Kings mentioned in Scripture, are not always accounted from the beginning of their Age, but from some other Remarkable Time or Thing: thus Saul, when at Man's Estate, is called, the son of one year, 1 Sam. 13. 1. of which see my notes there; and Ahaziah, (whose Father lived only Forty Years, 2 Chron. 21. 20.) is called a son of forty and two years when he began to reign, 2 Chron. 22. 2. because that was the Forty and Second Year of the Reign of Omri's Family, as most think. And therefore it cannot seem strange, if the Years of this King be computed, not from his Birth, but from the beginning of so great and famous a Change of the Jewish Affairs, as this Captivity made; this being the usual way of the Romans and Greeks, and other more Ancient and Eastern Nations, to compute the times from the great Changes and Revolutions happening among them. And that this was the practice of the Jews in the Computation of these very times, is evident from the use of it in the Prophecy of Ezekiel, Chap. 1. 2. which was the fifth year of Jehojakim's captivity; and Chap. 33. 21. in the Twelfth year of our Captivity; and Chap. 40. 1. in the Twenty fifth year of our captivity. 3. To all this might be added, That some here acknowledge an Error of the Scribe, and affirm, That in the first and best Copies, in 2 Chron. 36. 9. it was not eight, but eighteen; which they gather from hence, because those two Ancient and Venerable Translators, the Syriack and Arabick, read there, as it is here, was eighteen years old; which they say, they would never have presumed to do, if they had not so read it in those Hebrew Copies, out of which they drew their Translation; or in some of them. l And ten days, which are added, 2 Chron. 36. 9. But such small sums are frequently omitted in great Numbers. See on Gen. 15. 13. 1 King. 16. 8.

9 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his father had done.

10 ¶ * At that time the servants of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came up against Jerusalem m, and the city ¶ was besieged.

* Dan. 1. 1.

† Heb. came into Siege.

m Either, 1. Because the People had made Jehojachin King without his consent. Or, 2. Because he had some notice, or at least a suspition of his intentions to Rebel against him, and to joyn with Egypt against him, as Zedekiah his Successor did. But whatsoever was the Second and Immediate cause of it, the chief cause was God's Commandment, or the direction of his Providence, as it was said, ver. 2.

11 And Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came against the city, and his servants did besiege it.

12 And Jehoiachin the king of Judah went out to the king of Babylon n, he, and his mother, and his servants, and his princes, and his ‖ officers, and the king of Babylon took him in the eighth year of his reign o.

‖ Or, Eunuchs.

n i. e. Yielded up himself and the City into his hands; and this by the Counsel of Jeremiah, and to his own good. o i. e. Of Nebuchadnezzar's Reign; as appears by comparing this with Chap. 25. 8. and because Jehojachin Reigned not half a Year.

13 * And he carried out thence all the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the kings house, and cut in pieces p all the vessels of gold q which Solomon king of Israel had made r in the temple of the LORD, as the LORD had said.

* Chap. 20. 17. Isa. 39. 6.

p Or rather, took away, as this word elsewhere signifies; or cut off, to wit, from the Temple. For why should they cut in pieces those Vessels which might conveniently be carried away? And that they were not cut in pieces, but reserved whole, is manifest from Ezra 1. 7. and Dan. 5. 2, 3. q i. e. The most and choicest of them, by comparing this with ch. 25. 14, 15. r So he expresseth it, either First, because these Vessels were made by the godly Kings of Judah, instead of those which Solomon made, and so they go by his Name; as the Ship of the Argonauts was still reputed the same Ship, though in was from time to time recruited with new materials, until nothing of the old was left. Or, Secondly, Because though the City and Temple had been rifled more than once both by the Kings of Egypt and Israel, and by the wicked Kings of Judah; yet these Golden Vessels were preserved from them, either by the care of the Priests, who hid them out of the way; or by the clemency of the Conquerors, and the reverence which they bare to such sacred Instruments; or by the special providence of God, disposing their hearts to leave them. Or, if they had been taken away by any of these Kings, they might afterwards be recovered by the intreaty, or at the Cost of the godly Kings of Judah.

14 And he carried away all Jerusalem s, and * all the Princes, and all the mighty men of valour, even ten thousand t captives, and all the craftsmen and smiths: none remained save the poorest sort of the people of the land.

15 And * he carried away Jehoiachin to Babylon, and the King's mother, and the King's wives, and his ‖ officers, and the mighty of the land, those carried he into captivity, from Jerusalem to Babylon.

* 2 Chron. 36. 10.

16 And all the men of might, even seven thousand, and craftsmen, and smiths a thousand, all that were strong and apt for war, even them the king of Babylon brought captive to Babylon.

17 ¶ And * the king of Babylon made Mattaniah his fathers brother king in his stead, and changed his name to Zedekiah x.

* Jer. 37. 1. 1 Chr. 3. 15.

x That he might admonish him of (what this Name signifies) the justice of God, which had so severely Punished Jehojakim for his Rebel-sion; and would no less certainly overtake him, if he should be guilty of the same Rebellion and Perfidiousness, of which his Predecessor was guilty.

2 Chr. 6. 1. Jer. 37. 1. & 52. 1. & Chap. 23. 31.

18 * Zedekiah was twenty and one years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem: and his mothers name was * Hamutal, the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

19 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, according to all that Jehoiakim had done.

20 For through the anger of the LORD it came to pass in Jerusalem and Judah, until he had cast them out from his presence, that Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon y.

y Thus the Peoples Sins were the true Cause why God gave them wicked Kings, whom he suffer'd to do wickedly, that they might bring the long-deserved, and threatned Punishments upon themselves and their People.

2 And the city was besieged unto the eleventh year of king Zedekiah.

Jer. 52. 6

3 And on the ninth day of the * fourth month c the famine prevailed in the city, and there was no bread for the people of the land d.

c Which Word is easily understood, by comparing this and the first verse, and Jer. 39. 2. and 52. 6. where it is expressed. d i. e. For the common sort of People, who flock'd thither from all parts, upon the Approach of the Babylonian Army; but only for the great Men and Soldiers. See of the grievousness of this Famine, Lam. 4. 10. and Ezek. 5. 10, 12.

4 ¶ And the city was broken up e, and all the men of war fled f by night, by the way of the gate, between two walls g, which is by the king's garden, (now the Caldees were against the city round about) and the king h went the way toward the plain i.

e By the Chaldeans, who broke and entred the Gate, Jer. 39. 3. f Which word is fitly supplied out of the parallel place, Jer. 39. 4. or out of the following Verb, went away. g Between the outward and inward Wall of the City, by a private way, having the advantage of the darkness of the night, and possibly of some Vault under the ground. h This word also is necessarily to be understood; partly, by its singular, which agrees not with the men of war; and partly out of the next verse, where it is expressed. i Of Jericho, as it follows.

5 And the army of the Caldees pursued after the king, and overtook him in the plains of Jericho: and all his army was scattered from him.

6 So they took the king, and brought him up to the king of Babylon, to Riblah k, and they † gave judgment upon him l.

† Heb. spake judgment with him.

k Of which see above, 23. 33. and below v. 21. where Nebuchadnezzar staid, that he might both supply the Besiegers with more Men, and Military Provisions, as their occasions required; and have an eye to Chaldea, to prevent or suppress any Commotions which might happen there in the time of his absence. l The King's Officers appointed thereunto, examined his Cause, and passed the following Sentence against him.

7 And they slew the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes, and † put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and bound him with fetters of brass, and carried him to Babylon m.

† Heb. made blind.

m Thus two Prophecies were fulfilled, which seemed contrary one to the other, that he should go to Babylon, Jer. 32. 5. and 34. 3. and that he should never see Babylon: Which seeming Contradiction, because Zedekiah the False Prophet could not reconcile, he concluded both were false, and that Jeremy was a false Prophet; and it seems Zedekiah the King might stumble at this difficulty.

*See Chap. 24. 12. & Ver. 24.

8 ¶ And in the fifth month, on the seventh day of the month n, (which is * the nineteenth year of king Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon) came Nebuzar-adan || captain of the guard, a servant of the king of Babylon, unto Jerusalem:

Or, chief Marshal.

n Quest. How doth this agree with Jer. 52. 12. where he is said to come thither on the tenth day? Answ. Either he came to Jerusalem on the Seventh Day, and burnt the Temple on the tenth Day: Or this Sacred Writer speaks of the day of his Departure from Riblah towards Jerusalem, and Jeremiah speaks of his coming to Jerusalem, which was about three days Journey from Riblah.

9 And he burnt the house of the LORD o, and the kings house, and all the houses of Jerusalem, and every great mans house burnt he with fire.

o Which had now stood about 450 Years.

10 And all the army of the Caldees that were with the captain of the guard, brake down the walls of Jerusalem round about.

20 And Nebuzar-adan captain of the guard, took these, and brought them to the king of Babylon, to Riblah.

21 And the king of Babylon smote them, and slew them at Riblah in the land of Hamath. So Judah was carried away out of their land.

24 And Gedaliah sware to them, and to their men b, and said unto them, Fear not to be the servants of the Caldees: dwell in the land, and serve the king of Babylon, and it shall be well with you.

b Assured them by his Promise and Oath, that they doing what he required, should be kept from the Evils which they feared. This he might safely swear, because he had not only the King of Babylon's Promise and Intercest too, but also God's Promise for their Indempnity, deliver'd by Jeremiah.

25 But it came to pass in the seventh month, that Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, the son of Elishama, of the seed † royal c, came, and ten men d with him, and * smote Gedaliah, that he died, and the Jews and the Caldees that were with him at Mizpah.

I. CHRONICLES.

These Books of the Chronicles are not the same which are so called 1 King. 14. 19. and elsewhere, (because some Passages said to be there mentioned, are not found here) but other Books, and written by other Persons, and for other Ends. Yet this same Writer took out of those Books such Historical Passages as were most useful or necessary. They were written after the Babylonish Captivity, as appears from 2 Chron. 36. 20, &c. by Ezra, as may be gathered not only from the same Words used in the place now quoted, and in the beginning of that Book which goeth under the name of Ezra, but also from some other Passages, which we may observe hereafter, and from the Exactness and Diligence here used in making Catalogues of Persons and Families, which also is used in the Book of Ezra. If one or two Passages seem to be of a later Date, those were added by some other Prophets; there being some few such Additional Passages in the Books of Moses. The chief Design of these Books is, to compleat the History of the Kings of Judah, and to gather up the Fragments of Sacred History, which were omitted in the Books of Samuel and Kings, and to explain some Passages there mentioned, and to give an exact Account of the Genealogies: Which (though ignorant or inconsiderate Persons may think trivial and useless) was a Work of great Necessity, to preserve the Distinction of the Tribes and Families; that so it might appear that Christ came of that Nation, and Tribe, and Family, of which he was to be born. And this Account having been hitherto neglected, is most seasonably mentioned in these Books, because this was to be in a manner the last part of the Sacred and Canonical History of the Old Testament, and therefore the fittest place to Record those Genealogies, upon which the Truth and Authority of the New Testament in some sort depends. And whereas many things in these Genealogies to us are obscure and doubtful, they were not so to the Hebrews; and all the Persons here named, were known to them by those very particular and exact Genealogies, which they kept in their several Families and in publick Registers; from whence this Sacred Pen-man, by the Direction of God's Spirit, took those Things which were of most Importance.

b Formerly he mentions only one Son, but here he names and treats of Noah's three Sons, partly because they were all the Founders of the New World; and partly because the Accomplishment of Noah's Famous Prophecy, Gen. 9. 25, 26, 27. could not otherwise appear, but by the account of their several Posterities.

* Gen. 10. 2.

5 * The sons of Japheth; Gomer, and Magog, and Madai, and Javan, and Tubal, and Meshech, and Tiras.

Or, Diphath, as it is in some Copies.

6 And the sons of Gomer; Ashchenaz, and || Riphath c, and Togarmah.

c Or, Diphath: For those two Hebrew Letters which answer to our D and R, being very like, are oft confounded and exchanged, as v. 7, 41, 46, 50.

7 And the sons of Javan; Elishah, and Tarshish, Kittim, and || Dodanim.

Or, Rodanim, according to some Copies.

8 The sons of Ham; Cush, and Mizraim, Put, and Canaan.

9 And the sons of Cush; Seba, and Havilah, and Sabta, and Raama, and Sabtecha: and the sons of Raamah; Sheba and Dedan.

* Gen. 10. 8.

10 And Cush * begat Nimrod: he began to be mighty upon the earth.

11 And Mizraim begat Ludim, and Anamim, and Lehabim, and Naphtuhim, 12 And Pathrusim, and Casluim, (of whom came the Philistines d,) and * Caphthorim.

* Deut. 2. 23.

d Of which see the Notes on Gen. 10. 14.

* Gen. 10. 15.

13 And * Canaan begat Zidon his first-born, and Heth,

14 The Jebusite e also, and the Amorite, and the Girgashite, e The People so called. So the Names which follow until v. 17. are not the Names of particular Persons, but of People or Nations. And all these descended from Canaan, though some of them were afterwards extinct or confounded with others of their Brethren by Cohabitation or mutual Marriages, whereby they lost their Names: Which is the Reason why they are no more mentioned, at least under these Names.

15 And the Hivite, and the Archite, and the Sinite,

16 And the Arvadite, and the Zemarite, and the Hamathite.

17 The sons of * Shem f; Elam, and Ashur, and Arphaxad, and Lud, and Aram, and Uz, and Hul, and Gether, and || Meshech.

* Gen. 10. 22. & 11. 10.

|| Or, Mash. Gen. 10. 23.

f Either the Name of Sons is so taken here as to include Grandsons, who are called Sons, Gen. 29. 5. 2 Sam. 19. 24. Or, these Words, The Children of Aram, are understood and inserted before Uz, out of Gen. 10. 23. where they are expressed.

18 And Arphaxad begat Shelah g, and Shelah begat Eber.

g Either Immediately, or Mediately by his Son Cainan, who is expressed, Luke 3. 35. of which, God assisting, I shall speak in its proper place.

19 And unto Eber were born two sons: the name of the one was || Peleg, (because in his days the earth was divided h,) and his brothers name was Joktan.

|| That is, division.

h In their Languages and Habitations: Of which see Gen. 11. 7.

20 And * Joktan begat Almodad, and Sheleph, and Hazarmaveth, and Jerah.

* Gen. 10. 26.

21 Hadoram also, and Uzal, and Diklah,

22 And Ebal i, and Abimael, and Sheba,

i Or, Obal, as it is Gen. 10. 28. Such proper Names being oft differently written, according to the difference of Times, and People, and Writers.

23 And Ophir, and Havilah, and Jobab: all these were the sons of Joktan.

24 * Shem, Arphaxad k, Shelah,

* Gen. 11. 10. Luke 3. 36.

k Having given a brief and general Account of the Original of the World and the People in it, he now returns to a more large and particular Account of the Genealogy of Shem, from whom the Jews were descended.

25 * Eber, Peleg, Reu,

* Gen. 11. 15.

26 Serug, Nahor, Terah,

* Gen. 11. 17.

27 * Abram, the same is Abraham.

* Gen. 21. 3.

28 The sons of Abraham; * Isaac, and * Ishmael.

* Gen. 21. 2.

29 These are their generations: The * first-born of Ishmael, Nebajoth: then Kedar, and Adbeel, and Mibsam,

* Gen. 16. 15.

30 Mishma, and Dumah, Massa, || Hadad, and Tema,

* Gen. 29. 13. to 17.

31 Jetur, Naphish, and Kedemah. These are the sons of Ishmael.

|| Or, Hadar, Gen. 36.

32 Now * the sons of Keturah, Abraham's concubine: she bare Zimran, and Jokshan, and Medan, and Midian, and Ishbak, and Shuah. And the sons of Jokshan; Sheba, and Dedan.

* Gen. 25. 1, 2.

33 And the sons of Midian; Ephah, and Epher, and Henoch, and Abida, and Eldaah. All these are the sons of Keturah.

Gen. 21. 34 And * Abraham begat Isaac. * The sons of Isaac; Esau, and Israel.

Gen. 25. 35 The sons of * Esau; Eliphaz, Reuel, and Jeush, and Jaalam, and Korah.

Gen. 36. 10. 36 The sons of Eliphaz; Teman, and Omar, || Zephi, and Gatam, Kenaz, and Timna l, and Amalek.

Or, Zepho. Gen. 36. 11. l There is another Timna, the Concubine of Eliphaz. Gen. 36. 12. but this was one of his Sons, though called by the same name; there being some Names common both to Men and Women in the Hebrew and in other Languages.

37 The sons of Reuel; Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah.

38 And the sons of Seir m; Lotan, and Shobal, and Zibeon, and Anah, and Dishon, and Ezer, and Dishan.

m One of another Nation, Prince of the Horims; whose Genealogy is here described, because of that affinity which was contracted between his and Esau's Posterity; and those who were not united and incorporated with them, were destroyed by them. See Deut. 2. 12.

Or, Homan. Gen. 36. 22. 39 And the sons of Lotan; Hori, and || Homam: and Timna was Lotans sister.

Or, Alvan, Gen. 36. 23 40 The sons of Shobal; || Alian, and Manahath, and Ebal, || Shephi, and Onam. And the sons of Zibeon; Ajah, and Anah.

Or, Shobo. Gen. 36. 23. 41 The sons of Anah; * Dishon. And the sons of Dishon, || Amram, and Eshban, and Ithran, and Cheran.

Gen. 36. 25. 42 The sons of Ezer; Bilhan, and Zavan, and || Jakan. The sons of Dishan; Uz, and Aran.

Or, Hemdan. Gen. 36. 26. 43 Now these are the * Kings that reigned in the land of Edom n, before any King reigned over the Children of Israel; Bela the son of Beor: and the name of his city was Dinhabah.

Or, Aban. Gen. 36. 27. n Of this and the following Verses see on Gen. 36. 31, &c. whence this whole Relation is taken.

* Gen. 36. 31. 44 And when Bela was dead, Jobab the son of Zerah of Bozrah reigned in his stead.

45 And When Jobab was dead, Husham of the land of the Temanite, reigned in his stead.

46 And when Husham was dead, Hadad the son of Bedad (which smote Midian in the field of Moab) reigned in his stead: and the name of his city was Avith.

47 And when Hadad was dead, Samlah, of Masrekah reigned in his stead.

Gen. 36. 37. 48 * And when Samlah was dead, Shahul of Rehoboth by the river, reigned in his stead.

49 And when Shahul was dead, Baal-hanan the son of Achbor reigned in his stead.

Or, Hanan. Gen. 36. 39. 50 And when Baal-hanan was dead, || Hadad reigned in his stead: and the name of his city was || Pai: and his wives name was Mehetabel the daughter of Matred, the

Gen. 36. 40. 51 Hadad died also. And the * Dukes of Edom were, Duke Timna, Duke Aliah, Duke Jetheth, 52 Duke Aholibamah, Duke Elah, Duke Pinon,

53 Duke Kenaz, Duke Teman, Duke Mibzar,

54 Duke Magdiel, Duke Iram. These are the Dukes of Edom.

CHAP. II.

The Sons of Israel: Of Judah by Tamar: The Children of Jesse, 1——17. Of Caleb the Son of Hezron: Of him by the Daughter of Machir, 18——24. And Jerahmeel, 25——33. Of Sheshan, 34——41. Another Branch of Caleb's Posterity, 42——49. Of Caleb the Son of Hur, 50——55.

Or, Israel. THese are the sons of || Israel; * Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah, Issachar, and Zebulun,

* Gen. 29. 32. & 30. 2 Dan, Joseph, and Benjamin, Naphtali, Gad and Asher.

Gen. 38. 5. & 35. 18, 22. & 46. 8, &c. 3 The sons of * Judah a, Er, and Onan, and Shelah: which three were born unto him of the daughter of * Shua the Canaanites. And Er the first-born of Judah, was evil in the sight of the LORD, and he slew him.

* Gen. 38. 3. & 46. 12. a Whom he puts first, because the best part of the right of the First-born, to wit, the Dominion, was conferred upon him, Gen. 49. 8. and because the Messiah was to come out of his Loyns.

* Gen. 38. 29, 30. Mat. 1. 3. 4 And * Tamar his daughter in law, bare him Pharez, and Zerah. All the sons of Judah were five.

* Ruth 4. 18. 5 The Sons of * Pharez; Hezron, and Hamul.

Or, Zabdi. Josh. 7. 1. 6 And the Sons of Zerah; || Zimri, * and Ethan, and Heman, and Calcol, and || Dara b: five of them in all.

1 King. 4. 31. b If these be the same who are mentioned as the sons of Machol, 1 King. 4. 31. Either the same Man had two Names, Zerah and Machol, as was usual among the Hebrews: or, one of these was their immediate Father, and the other their Grandfather,

Or, Darda. 7 And the sons of Carmi c: || Achar d, the troubler of Israel, who transgressed in the thing * accursed.

Or, Achan. Josh. 6. 18. & 7. 1. c Who is here mentioned, because he was the son of Zimri, who is also called Zabdi, Josh. 7. 1. d Called Achm, Jos. 7. 1. and here Achar, with a little variation for greater significancy: For Achar signifies a Troubler.

8 And the sons of Ethan; Azariah.

9 The sons also of Hezron that were born unto him; Jerahmeel, and || Ram, and || Chelubai.

|| Or, Aram. Mat. 1. 3. || Or, Caleb. Ver. 18.

10 And Ram * begat Aminadab, and Aminadab begat Nahshon, prince of the children of Judah.

* Ruth 4. 19. Mat. 1. 4. 11 And Nahshon begat Salma, and Salma begat Boaz.

12 And Boaz begat Obed, and Obed begat Jesse,

13 * And Jesse begat his first-born Eliab e, and Abinadab the second, and || Shimma the third,

|| Or, Shimeah 1 Sam. 16. 6. e Called also Elihu, 1 Chron. 27. 18. unless that was another person, and the word Brother be taken more largely for a Kinsman, as it is frequently used.

14 Nethaneel the fourth, Raddai the fifth,

|| Or, Ozem 1 Sam. 16. 6. 15 Ozem the sixth, David the seventh f:

f For though he had eight Sons, 1 Sam. 16. 10. one of them either died presently after that time, or is neglected for some reason now unknown, as others are. See the Notes on Mat. 1. 8, 9.

16 Whose sisters were Zerujah, and Abigail. And * the sons of Zerujah; Abishai, and Joab, and Asahel, was three. * 2 Sam. 2. 18.

17 And Abigail bare Amasa, and the father of Amasa was Jether the Ishmeelite g.

g By Birth or Habitation, but by profession an Israelite, 2 Sam. 17. 25. where see my Notes.

18 And Caleb the son of Hezron h † begat children of Azubah his wife, and of Jerioth: her sons i are these, Jesher, and Shobab, and Ardon.

† Heb. was with child of Azubah.

h Not that Caleb, Numb. 13. 6. for he was the Son of Jephunneh, both of whom he speaks Ch. 4. 15. but another Caleb. i i.e. The Sons, either 1 of Jerioth, she being last mentioned: or, rather 2. of Azubah, who is by way of distinction called his Wife, when Jerioth probably was only his Concubine, and, as it may seem, barren: and therefore upon Azubah's death he married another Wife, v. 19. And those other Sons of this Caleb mentioned below, v. 42. are his Sons by some other Wife distinct from all these.

19 And when Azubah was dead, Caleb took unto him Ephrath, which bare him Hur.

20 And Hur begat Uri, and Uri begat * Bezaleel. * Exod. 31. 2.

21 And afterward Hezron went in k to the daughter of * Machir, the father of Gilead l, whom he † married when he was n threescore years old, and she bare him Segub. * Numb. 27. 1. † Heb. took.

k i.e. Lay with her, as that Phrase is commonly used, as Gen. 4. 1. and 6. 4. l Of a man so called. Or, if Gilead be the Name of that known Country, Father is put for Head or Governour, as it is used, 1 Sam. 24. 11. 2 King. 5. 13. and 16. 7. Isa. 22. 21. Or, for Protector, or Curator, as Father is used Job. 29. 16. Jer. 2. 27. Lam. 5. 3. This Man being a Man of noted Valour, and the great Champion in those Parts. m Heb. And he took her, to wit, to wife. Or, After he had taken her. for so the Particle vau is used, as hath been formerly noted. n Heb. And he was, to wit, when he went in unto her, Or, when he married her.

22 And Segub begat Jair, who had three and twenty cities in the land of Gilead o.

o Which he had, though he was of the Tribe of Judah, as here we see, because he married a Daughter of Manasseh, Numb. 26. 29. whence he is called a Son of Manasseh, Numb. 32. 41. Deut. 3. 14. And because, being a Man of great Courage, he joyned himself with that half Tribe in subduing Gilead, wherein he acted so valiantly and successfully, that he had 23 Cities or great Towns given to him to possess or dispose of: or, rather to Rule over them, and have some advantage from them; As a king is said to have his Kingdom, although he hath not the propriety of all the Lands and Houses in it.

* Numb. 32. 41. Deut. 3. 14. Josh. 13. 30. 23 * And he took p Geshur and Aram q, with the towns of Jair r, from them s, with Kenath t, and the towns thereof, even threescore cities: all these belonged to the sons of Machir u, the father of Gilead.

p Or, For he had taken. So this is the Reason why he had so great a Territory and Jurisdiction given to him. q Two Cities or great Towns so called. r i.e. With those 23. Cities which he is said to have, v. 22. s i.e. from the former Inhabitants, which is easily understood. t Which was taken by Nobah, one of Jairs Commanders sent by him to take it, as may be gathered from Numb. 32. 41, 42. u Partly to his own Sons, and partly to his Son-in-law Jair, who by reason of that dear Affection which was betwixt them, and his so taking his own Tribe and Kindred to fight for them and to dwell with them, is here reckoned as his own Son.

24 And after that Hezron was dead in Caleb-ephratah x, then Abiah Hezrons wife bare him Ashur y the father of Tekoa z.

x A place then so called by a Conjunction of the Names of the Man and his Wife; afterwards supposed to be called Bethlehem-Ephratah. Others translate the words thus, When Caleb took Ephratah. So it is an Ellepsis of the Verb which is here to be understood out of v. 19. where it is expressed. y After the father's death. z A known place, 2 Sam. 14. 2, 4. Jer. 6. 1. Amos 1. 1. Whose Father he is called, because he was either the Progenitour of the People inhabiting there; Or, their Prince and Ruler: Or, the Builder of the City.

25 And the sons of Jerahmeel the first-born of Hezron were, Ram the first-born, and Bunah, and Oren, and Ozem, and Ahijah a.

a Or, of (the prefix, mem being oft understood) Ahijah, his Wife so called, as may seem probable from the next Verse, where he mentions another Wife.

26 Jerahmeel had also another wife whose name was Atarah, she was the mother of Onam.

27 And

27 And the sons of Ram the first-born of Jerahmeel were Maaz, and Jamin, and Ekor.

28 And the sons of Onam were, Shammai, and Jada. And the sons of Shammai; Nadab, and Abishur.

29 And the name of the wife of Abishur was Abihail, and she bare him Ahban, and Molid.

30 And the sons of Nadab, Seled, and Appaim: but Seled died without children.

31 And the sons b of Appaim; Ishi. And the sons of Ishi; Sheshan. And * the children of Sheshan; Ahlai.

Or, Jether. Ver. 32. 33.

b An Expression oft used both afterwards in this Verse, and elsewhere, and in prophane Authors too, where there is but one Son. It is an Enallage of the Number, which is frequent in the Hebrew.

32 And the sons of Jada the brother of Shammai; Jether, and Jonathan: and Jether died without children.

33 And the sons of Jonathan; Peleth, and Zaza. These were the sons of Jerahmeel.

34 Now Sheshan had no sons c, but daughters: and Sheshan had a servant, an Egyptian, whose name was Jarha.

c To wit, living when he died, his Son Ahlai, v. 31. dying before him: unless Ahlai was the Name of a Daughter.

35 And Sheshan gave his daughter to Jarha his Servant to wife, and she bare him Attai.

36 And Attai begat Nathan, and Nathan begat * Zabad,

* Chap. 11. 41.

37 And Zabad begat Ephlal, and Ephlal begat Obed,

38 And Obed begat Jehu, and Jehu begat Azariah,

39 And Azariah begat Helez, and Helez begat Eleasah, 40 And Eleasah begat Sisamai, and Sisamai begat Shallum, 41 And Shallum begat Jekamiah, and Jekamiah begat Elishama.

42 Now the sons of Caleb the brother of Jerahmeel d were, Mesha his first-born, which was the father of Ziph e: and the sons of Mareshah the father of Hebron f.

d To wit, of that Caleb mentioned v. 18. as appears by comparing that Verse with v. 25. And these are his Sons by another and his third Wife. See on v. 18. e The Name either of a Man: or of a Place, of which see Jos. 15. 24, 55. And then Father is to be understood here as v. 23, and 24. f Not the place so called, but a Man, as is evident because his Sons here follow.

43 And the sons of Hebron; Korah, and Tappuah, and Rekem, and Shema.

44 And Shema begat Raham the father of Jorkoam: and Rekem begat Shammai.

45 And the son of Shammai was Maon: and Maon was the father of Beth-zur g.

g A Place in Judah, Jos. 15. 58. See on v. 23.

46 And Ephah Calebs Concubine bare Haran, and Moza, and Gazez: and Haran begat Gazez.

47 And the sons of Jahdai h; Regem, and Jotham, and Geshan, and Pelet, and Ephah, and Shaaph.

h The Son of Gazez last mentioned: which is implied because he follows next after him in the Genealogy. Or, the Sons of Moza: whose name might be changed into Jahdai for some reason now unknown.

48 Maachah Calebs Concubine bare Sheber and Tirhanah.

49 She bare also Shaaph the father of Madmannah i, Shevah the father of Machbenah, and the father of Gibea: and the daughter of Caleb was * Achsah.

* Josh. 15. 17.

i This, and divers other following Names are the Names of Places in Judah, and Father is meant as v. 38, 24.

50 These were the sons of Caleb the son of Hur, the first-born of Ephratah; Shobal the father of Kirjath-jearim.

51 Salma the father of Beth-lehem k, Hareph the father of Beth-gader l.

k To wit, in part: For Boaz descended from another Salmon, who was the Son of Nasshan, v. 11. l Called also Pennel the father of Gedor, chap. 4. 4.

52 And Shobal the father of Kirjath-jearim, had sons; || Or, Reaiah, chap. 4. 2. Haroeh m, and || half of the Manahethites.

m Which may signifie an Overseer, a Prophet, or Teacher, or Ruler; but here is a proper Name, as appears from chap. 4. 2. where he is called Reaiah with no great variation in the Hebrew.

|| Or, half of the Menahethites, Or, Hasmenonites. 53 And the families of Kirjath-jearim n; the Ithrite, and the Puhite, and the Shumathite, and the Mishraite: of them o came the Zareathite, and the Eshtaulite p.

n Or, In Kirjath-jearim, all which descended from Shobal, v. 51. o i.e. Of the Family of the Mishraite, last mentioned. p The Inhabitants of two places called Zoreah and Eshtaol, Jos. 15. 33.

|| Or, Atarites: or, grandmothers of the House of Joab. 54 The sons of Salma q; Bethlehem r, and the Netophathite, || Ataroth s, the house of Joab t, and half of the Manahethites u, the Zorites x.

q Of that Salma mentioned, v. 51. r i.e. The inhabitants of Bethlehem. s The name of a Person, or People. t The Progenitors of Joab's Family. u The other half being mentioned v. 52. * For, to wit, the Zorite.

55 And the families of the Scribes y which dwelt z at Jabez ||; the Tirathites, the Shimeathites, and Suchathites. These are the * Kenites that came of Hemath † the father of the house of * Rechab.

* Judg. 1. 16. † Jer. 35.

y Either Civil, who were Publick Notaries, who wrote and signed Legal Instruments: Or Ecclesiastical. And these were either Levites, 2. or Simeonites, or rather Kenites, and are here mentioned not as if they were of the Tribe of Judah, but because they dwelt among them, and probably were allied to them by Marriages, and so in a manner incorporated with them. z Or, rather dwelt; Heb. Were Dwellers. For the other translation, which dwelt, may seem to insinuate that these were Descendants of Judah, which they were not; but this Translation onely signifies their Cohabitation with them, for which cause they are here named with them. || A Place in Judah, so named probably from that Famous Father of that Tribe, chap. 4. 9. † Who dwelt in Judah, Judg. 1. 11. Thus they are distinguish'd from the other Branch of the Kenites, who dwelt in the Tribe of Manasseh, Judg. 4. 11.

CHAP. III.

The Sons of David, 1——9. His Line to Zedekiah, 10——16. the Successors of Jeconia, 17——24.

NOw these were the sons of David, which were born unto him in Hebron: the first-born * Amnon, of Ahinoam the * Jezreelitess a: the second || Daniel, of Abigal the Carmelitess b:

2 The third, Absalom the son of Maachah, the daughter of Talmai King of Geshur: the fourth, Adonijah the son of Haggith:

3 The fifth, Shephatiah of Abital: the sixth, Ithream by * Eglah his wife c.

* 2 Sam. 3. 5.

c Which Title belongs either to all the foregoing Women, or rather, as the singular numb. she weth, to Eglah onely, last mentioned: who possibly may be so called because she was his first, and therefore most proper, Wife, though her son was born after all the rest before-mentioned, and therefore both she and her Son are put in the sixth Place, the Wives being here named onely for the Sons sakes. See more on 2 Sam. 3. 5.

4 These six were born unto him in Hebron, and * there he reigned seven years and six months: and * in Jerusalem he reigned thirty and three years.

* 2 Sam. 2. 11. * 2 Sam. 5. 5.

d All David's Children by her, as the Text positively affirms: and therefore Solomon is called her onely Son, Prov. 4. 3. because she loved him as if he had been so. e Called also Eliam, 2 Sam. 11. 3. See on 2 Sam. 11. 3.

6 Ibhar, also, and || Elishama, and Eliphelet f,

|| Or, Elishua, 2 Sam. 5. 15. || Or, Elida. 1 Chr. 14. 7.

f And he had two other sons called by the same Names, v. 8. but they were by differing Wives: and probably they were then distinguished by some additional Clause or Title, which is here omitted, because it was now needless for us to know it: Or, the two first were dead before the two second were born, and therefore the Names of the diseased were given to these to preserve their Memory.

7 And Nogah, and Nepheg, and Japhia,

|| Or, Elishua, 2 Sam. 5. 15. || Or, Beeliada, 1 Chr. 14. 7.

8 And Elishama, and || Eliada, and Eliphelet, nine g.

g Obj. There are but seven mentioned, 2 Sam. 5. 14, &c. Ans. 2 Sam. 5. Two of them are omitted there, because they died very early, or were Inglorious, or died without issue: And here we have all the sons of David, as it here follows v. 9. which Clause is not added 2 Sam. 5.

9 These were all the sons of David, besides the sons of the concubines, and * Tamar their sister.

* 2 Sam. 13. 1.

10 And Solomons son was * Rehoboam, || Abia his son, Asa his son, Jehoshaphat his son,

* 1 King. 11. 43. || Abijam, & 15. 6.

11 Joram his son, || Ahaziah his son, Joash his son,

|| Or, Uzziah, 1 King. 15. 1.

12 Amaziah his son, || Azariah his son, Jotham his son,

2 King. 15. 30.

13 Ahaz his son, Hezekiah his son, Manasseh his son,

2 King. 21. 17.

14 Amon his son, Josiah his son.

2 King. 23. 34.

15 And the sons of Josiah were, the first-born || Johanan, the second || Jehoiakim, the third || Zedekiah, the fourth Shallum h.

|| Or, Azariah, 2 Chr. 22. 6. || Or, Jehoahaz, 2 Chron. 36. 1.

h Of whom, at least under that Name, there is no mention in the History of the Reign of Josiah's Sons, 2 King. 23, & 24. But in Jerem. 22. 11. there is mention of Shallum the Son of Josiah King of Judah, which reigned instead of Josiah his Father. Which most conceive to be the same who is otherwise called Jehoahaz, 2 King. 23. And this seems most probable, 1. From that Phrase, he reigned instead of Josiah; which implies that he immediately succeeded his Father; otherwise he would not have been said to have reigned instead of his Brother, as Zedekiah is said to reign instead of Jehoiachim, 2 King. 24. 17. because he was his next Successor. 2. From the Order of that Sermon or Discourse of Jeremiah, which was directed to Zedekiah, and his Servants, and People, as appears by Jer. 21. 1, 2, 11. and 22. 1, 2. whom he admonisheth by the Examples of the Kings his Predecessors, and of the Sentence of God concerning each of them, and that in order as they reigned; 1. Of Shallum, v. 11. &c. 2. Of Jehoiakim, v. 18, &c. 3. Of Jechoniah, &c. Therefore Shallum is the same with Jehoahaz, who was the first King after Josiah, 2 King. 23. 31. 3. From the nature of that Prophecy, Jer. 22. 11. 12. which best agrees to Jehoahaz, who was carried captive not so far as Babylon, but onely to Egypt a very near Countrey, whence the People hoped that he would speedily and easily return, or be re-established in his throne by the King of Egypt,

|| Or, Elishama, 2 Sam. 5. 16. || Or, Eliada. 1 Chr. 14. 7. || Or, Eliphalet, 1 Chr. 14. 7. || Or, Jehoiakim, 2 Chr. 36. 4. || Or, Zedekiah, 2 Chr. 36. 10. || Or, Mattaniah, 2 King. 24. 17.

in opposition to the King of Babylon. 4. Because Jehoahaz was one of Josiah's younger Sons, as appears by comparing 2 King. 23. 31. 36. And this Shallum is here called his fourth Son.

16 And the sons of Jehojakim, ‖ Jeconiah his son, Zedekiah his son i.

Or, Jehoiachin, 2 King. 24. 6.

i Not his Natural Son, for he was his Uncle, 2 Kings 24. 17. but his Legal Son, or his Successor, upon whom the Son's Right was devolved by vertue of that Law, Numb. 27. 8, 9, 10. and therefore it is not strange if he have the Name of Son with it. See the Notes on Luke 3. Or this was another Zedekiah; because it is improbable and without Example, that one and the same Man should be twice mentioned in the same Genealogy as the Son of two several Parents.

Or, Coniah, Jer. 22. 24.

17 And the sons of Jeconiah; Assir k, † Salathiel his son l.

* Mat. 1. 11.

k Or, of Jechoniah the Captive, or Prisoner: which is added to shew that he begat his Son when he was Captive in Babylon, as it is noted, Mat. 1. 12. whither he was carried Captive, 2 King. 24. 17. Obj. It is said of this Jechonias, Jer. 22. 30. Write this Man childless. Answ. So he is called, because he was an Unhappy Prince, and had no Son that succeeded him in the Throne, as the next Words explain it. See more on that Place. l Either his Legal, or his Natural Son: of which see the Notes on Jer. 22. 30. and Mat. 1. 12. and Luke 3. 27.

18 Malchiram also, and Pedajah m, and Shenazar, Jecamiah, Hoshama, and Nedabiah.

m The Sentence seems to be short and imperfect, as is frequent in the Hebrew Language, and something is here understood, as, The Sons also of Salathiel were Malchiram and Pedajah, &c. as they gather from hence that the same Zerubbabel is called the Son of Pedajah, v. 19. and the son (i. e. the Grandson) of Salathiel, Mat. 1. 12. Or, Malchiram and the rest here named were the Sons of Jeconiah; and they are differing Zerubbabels, which are mentioned here v. 19. and Mat. 1. 12. and Luk. 3. 27. of which see the Notes on those places.

19 And the sons of Pedajah were, Zerubbabel, and Shimei; and the sons of Zerubbabel; Meshullam, and Hananiah, and Shelomith their sister n:

n i. e. Sister to the two last named Sons of Zerubbabel, to wit, by both Parents; and therefore named before the other five, v. 20. who were her Brethren by the Father, but not by the Mother.

20 And Hashubah, and Ohel, and Berechiah, and Hazadiah, Jushab-hesed, five o.

o Either of Zerubbabel: or of Meshullam, as is gathered from hence that the Sons of Hananiah (Brother to Meshullam, v. 19.) are named v. 21. and therefore those v. 20. are presumed to be the Sons of Meshullam. But that is no necessary Inference, for Meshullam possibly had no Sons, and therefore he passeth from him to Hananiah, v. 21.

21 And the sons of Hananiah, Pelatiah, and Jesaiah: the sons of Rephaiah, the sons of Arnan, the sons of Obadiah, the sons of Shekaniah p.

p. All these Men, both Parents and their Sons here blended together, are mentioned as the Sons of Hananiah, and Branches of the Royal Stock.

22 And the sons of Shechaniah; Shemajah: and the sons of Shemajah; * Hattush, and Igeal, and Bariah, and Neariah, and Shaphat, six q.

*Ezra 8.2.

q To wit, including the Father. But the Hebrew word, Shishá, which is rendred six, may be the proper Name of one of the Sons of Shemajah, who may be so called, because he was the sixth Son.

† Heb. Hizkijahu.

23 And the sons of Neariah r; Elioenai, and † Hezekiah, and Azrikam, three.

r Who alone is here mentioned, because his Elder Brethren probably died without Issue.

24 And the sons of Elioenai were, Hodajah, and Eliashib, and Pelajah, and Akkub, and Johanan, and Dalajah, and Anani, seven.

CHAP. IV.

The Posterity of Judah by Caleb the Son of Hur, 1——4. By Ashur, 5——8. By Jabez: His Prayer, 9——20. The Posterity of Shelah, 21——23. The Posterity, and Cities of Simeon: Their Conquest of Gedor: And of the Amalekites in Mounts Seir, 24——43.

THE sons a of Judah; * Pharez, Hezron, and ‖ Carmi, and Hur, and Shobal.

* Gen. 38. 29. & 46. 12.

a i. e. The Posterity: For onely Pharez was his immediate Son. But they are all mentioned here only to shew Shobal's Descent from Judah, of whom he intended to speak more particularly.

‖ Or, Chelubai, Ch. 2. 9.

2 And ‖ Reajah b the son of Shobal, begat Jahath, and Jahath begat Ahumai, and Lahad. These are the families of the Zorathite c.

Or, Caleb, Ch. 2. 18.

‖ Or, Haroch, Ch. 2. 52.

b Called Haroch, ch. 2. 52. of whom see there. c Or whom see on ch. 2. 53.

3 And these were of the father of Etam d; Jezreel, and Ishma, and Idbash: and the name of their sister was Hazelelponi.

d Etam is the Name either of a Man, or of a Place: of which see below, v. 32. and 2 Chron. 11. 6. Whose Inhabitants descended from him. The Name of his Father is not here expressed.

4 And Penuel the father of Gedor, and Ezer the father of Hushah. These are the sons of Hur, the first-born of Ephratah e, the father of Beth-lehem f.

e Either they are other Sons besides those mentioned ch. 2. or there is some variation in their Names, which is most frequent among the Hebrews, as hath been oft proved. f This Title is here given to the Father, and ch. 2. 51. to Salma, his Son, who had it either with, or after his Father. See the Notes on ch. 2. 51, 52.

*Ch.2.24. 5 And * Ashur the father of Tekoa, had two wives, Helah, and Naarah.

6 And Naarah bare him Ahuzam, and Hepher, and Temeni, and Haahashtari. These were the sons of Naarah.

7 And the sons of Helah were, Zereth, and Jezoar, and Ethnan g.

g Understand here, and Coz, out of the beginning of the following Verse. The like Ellipses we have in the end of v. 13. and of ch. 7. v. 18.

8 And Coz begat Anub, and Zobebah, and the families of Aharhel, the son of Harum.

9 And Jabez h was more honourable than his brethren i: and his mother called his name ‖ Jabez, saying, Because I bare him with sorrow.

‖ That is forcerful.

h One of the Fathers of the Families of Aharhel last mentioned. i For Courage, and especially for true and fervent Piety expressed in the following Petition.

10 And Jabez called on the God of Israel k, saying, † Oh that thou wouldest bless me indeed l, and enlarge my coast m, and that thine hand might be with me n, and that thou wouldest † keep me from evil o, that it may not grieve me p. And God granted him that which he requested.

† Heb. O that thou wouldest bless me, &c.

k When he was undertaking some great and dangerous Service. l I trust not to my own or Peoples Valour, but only to thy Blessing and Help. m Drive out these wicked and cursed Canaanites, whom thou hast commanded us to root out, and therefore I justly beg and expect thy blessing in the Execution of thy Command. n To protect and strengthen me against my Adversaries. o Or, work with (for so the Hebrew Prefix Mem is sometimes used, as Cant. 1. 2. & 3. 9. Isa. 5. 7. 8.) evil, i. e. so restrain and govern it. p That it may not oppress and overcome me, which will be very grievous to me. The consequent put for the antecedent; and more is understood than is expressed. He useth this expression in allusion to his Name, which signifies grief, q. d. Lord, let me not have that Grief which my Name implies, and which my Sin deserves.

11 And Chelub the brother of Shuah, begat Mehir, which was the father of Eshton.

12 And Eshton begat Beth-rapha, and Paseah, and Tehinnah the father of ‖ Irnahash. These are the men of Rechah q.

‖ Or, the City of Nahash.

q From these are sprung the present Inhabitants of Rechah, a Town not elsewhere mentioned.

13 And the sons of Kenaz r; Othniel, and Seraiah: and the sons of Othniel; ‖ Hathath s.

‖ Or, Hathath and Meonai.

r The Son either of Chelub, v. 11. or of his Son Eshton, v. 12. and the Father of Jephunneh, and consequently Caleb's Grandfather, v. 15. Whence Caleb is called a Kenezite, Numb. 32. 12. 1 Under-stand, and Meonothai, out of v. 14. See above on v. 7.

Who was a Meonothai, &c.

14 And Meonothai begat Ophrah: and Seraiah: begat Joab, the father * of the ‖ valley t of † Charashim, for they were Craftsmen.

* Neh. 11. 35.

‖ Or, Inhabitants of the Valley.

† This is Craftsmen, Or, Ge-Charashim.

t i. e. Of the Inhabitants of the Valley.

15 And the sons of Caleb the son of Jephunneh; Iru, Elah, and Naam: and the sons of Elah; ‖ even Kenaz u.

u Another Kenaz differing from that Kenaz, v. 13. Or, his Name might be Uknaz.

16 And the sons of Jehaleleel x; Ziph, and Ziphah, Tiria, and Azareel.

x The Son of Kenaz, or Uknaz last mentioned.

17 And the sons of Ezra y were, Jether, and Mered, and Epher, and Jalon: and she bare Miriam, and Shammai, and Ishbah the father of Eshtemoa.

y The Son of Azareel last named. ? She, i. e. Bithiah, bare unto Mered, As may seem by comparing this with v. 18.

18 And his wife a ‖ Jehudijah b bare Jered the father of Gedor, and Heber the father of Zocho and Jekuthiel the father of Zanoah. And these c are the sons of Bithiah the daughter of Pharaoh d, which Mered took.

a Either Ezra's Wife, or rather, another Wife of Mered. b Or, the Jewess, so called to distinguish her from his Egyptian Wife here following. c To wit, Miriam, and the rest following, v. 17. d Either 1. of Pharaoh King of Egypt: For Mered might be a Person of great Estate and Quality: Or this might be only Pharaoh's Illegitimate Daughter. Or, of some other Egyptian or Israelite called by that Name; which might easily happen upon divers occasions.

19 And the sons of his wife ‖ Hodiah e, the sister of Naham, the father of Keilah the Garmite, and Eshtemoa the Maachathite.

‖ Or, Jehudijah, mentioned before.

e His third Wife.

20 And the sons of Shimon f were, Amnon, and Rinnah, Ben-hanan, and Tilon. And the sons of Ishi g were Zoheth, and Ben-zoheth.

f Another Son of the Father of Keilah, mentioned v. 19. g Son of Tilon last mentioned.

21 The sons of Shelah h * the son of Judah were, Er, the father of Lecah, and Laadah the father of Mareshah, and the families of the house of them that wrought fine linen, of the house of Ashbea.

* Gen. 38.

h Having treated of the Posterity of Judah by Pharez, and by Zare, he now comes to his Progeny by Shelah, of whom see Gen. 38.

22 And Jokim, and the men of Chozeba, and Joash, and and Saraph, who had the dominion in Moab i, and Jashubi-lehem. And, ‖ these are ancient things k.

‖ Or, But.

i Which they ruled in the name and for the use and service of the Kings of Judah, to whom Moab was Subject from David's Time. Or, who had Possessions in Moab: or, who married Wives in Moab. k The Sense is either, 1. These Persons and things were in Ancient times; and therefore it is not strange if now they be so little known. But that might have been with equal Truth said of divers other parts of this Account. Or, rather, 2. But those Blessed times and Things are long since past and gone. Our Ancestors then had the Dominion over the Heathen, but their degenerate Posterity are now slaves to them in Chaldea, Persia, &c. where they are employed as Porters or Gardiners, or in other Servile Works.

23 These were ‖ the Potters, and those that dwelt amongst plants and Hedges: there they dwelt m with the King n for his work.

‖ Or, Jeramel.

l Or rather, these are: for he seems to oppose their present Servitude to their former Glory, and to shew their low and mean Spirits that had rather tarry among the Heathen to do their Drudgery, than return to Jerusalem to serve God and enjoy their Freedom. m Or, tarried, Or, now dwelt; when their Brethren are returned. n Of Babylon or Persia: Esteeming it a greater Honour and Happiness to serve that Earthly Monarch in the meanest Employments, than to serve the King of Kings in his Temple, and in his most Noble and Heavenly Work.

24 The sons of Simeon o were ‖ Nemuel, and Jammi, Jarib, Zerah, and Shaul:

‖ Or, Jemuel.

o These are here joyned with Judah, because their Possession was taken out of Judah's Portion, Jos. 19. 1. This Account seems to differ from that, Gen. 46. both in the Number and Names of the Persons, which is not strange, considering how Customary it was amongst the Hebrews for one Person to have 2, or 3 Names given to him upon several occasions. And for Obad, Gen. 46. 10. he may be omitted here, because he left no Posterity or Family after him, as the rest did.

† Heb. Jamin.

25 Shallum his son p, Mibsam his son, Mishma his son.

p i. e. Son of Saul last mentioned.

26 And the sons of Mishma; Hamuel his son, Zacchur his son, Shimei his son.

27 And Shimei had sixteen sons, and six daughters: but his brethren had not many children, neither did all their Family multiply, † like to the children of Judah q.

† Heb. not like.

q The Tribe of Simeon did not increase proportionably to the Tribe of Judah in which they dwelt; as appears by those two Catalogues, Numb. 1. 22. & 26. 14. Which is to be ascribed to Gods Curse upon them delivered by the Mouth of Holy Jacob, Gen. 49. and signified by Moses his neglect of them when he Blessed all the other Tribes.

* Josh. 19. 2.

28 And they dwelt at * Beersheba r, and Moladah, and Hazar-shual, r This, and the following Cities are mentioned, Jos. 19. 2. &c. with no great Alterations.

‖ Or, Eltolad. Josh. 19. 4.

29 And at ‖ Bilhah, and at Ezem, and at ‖ Tolad,

‖ Or, Bethul. Josh. 19. 4.

30 And at Bethuel, and at Hormah, and at Ziklag,

‖ Or, Hazar-susim. Josh. 19. 5.

31 And at Beth-marcaboth, and ‖ Hazar-susim, and at Beth-birei, and at Shaaraim. These were their cities unto the reign of David c.

‖ Or, Bethsusah. Josh. 19. 6.

c Either 1. of David's Posterity; i. e. as long as the Kingdom of Judah lasted, or until the Captivity of Babylon. But this seems not to be true; for Simeon was gone into Captivity with the rest of the Ten Tribes long before that time. Or rather 2. of David himself. And this may seem to be added, because some of these Cities though given to Simeon by Joshua, yet through the Sloth or Cowardise of that Tribe, were not taken from the Philistins, until David's time, who took some of them; and, the Simeonites having justly forfeited their Right to them by their neglect, gave them to his own Tribe. For it is evident concerning Ziklag, one of them, that it was in the Philistins Hands in David's time, and by them given to him, and by him annexed to the Tribe of Judah, 1 Sam. 27. 6.

32 And their Villages were, ‖ Etam, and Ain, Rimmon, and Tochen, and Ashan, five Cities.

‖ Or, Ether Josh. 19. 7.

33 And all their Villages that were round about the same cities unto ‖ Baal. These were their habitations, and ‖ their genealogy.

‖ Or, Bilhah.

‖ Or, Baalath-beer, Josh. 19. 8.

34 And Meshobab, and Jamlech d, and Joshah, the son of Amaziah.

‖ Or, they of Gedor.

d These and the rest here following are particularly mentioned for their Valiant and Successful Atchievements related v. 39, &c.

35 And Joel, and Jehu the son of Josibiah, the son of Serajah, the son of Asiel.

36 And Elioenai, and Jaakobah, and Jeshohajah, and Asajah, and Adiel, and Jesimiel, and Benajah, 37 And Ziza the son of Shiphi, the son of Allon, the son of Jedajah, the son of Shimri, the son of Shemajah.

38 These e † mentioned by their names, were princes in their families: and the house of their fathers † increased greatly f.

e Named v. 34, 35, 36, 37. f Which forced them to seek for new and larger Habitations.

39 And they went to the entrance of Gedor g, even unto the east side of the valley h, to seek Pasture for their flocks.

g To that Country that belongs to Gedor, or borders upon it: either that Gedor, Jos. 15. 58. or that called Gederah, Jos. 15. 36. h Of which see on 1 Sam. 17. 1, 52.

40 And they found fat pasture and good, and the land was wide, and quiet, and peaceable: for they of Ham i had dwelt there of old k.

i i. e. The Posterity of that cursed Ham, either the Arabians: or the Canaanites, or Philistins, who descended from Ham, Gen. 10. 6. And accordingly these words contain a Reason, either 1. to prove that the land was good; because the Arabians, who being wholly given to Pasturage, used to find out the Choicest Grounds, had formerly pitched their Tents there. Or, 2. Why they went and possessed this place, because it was not in the Hands of their Brethren of Judah, but in the Possession of that People which they had Authority and Command to expel. k i. e. Had possessed it of old and hitherto. Or, dwelt there before; i. e. before they came and cast them out of their Possessions.

41 And these written by name, came in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah l, and smote their tents m, and the habitations that were found there, and destroyed them utterly unto this day n, and dwelt in their rooms: because there was pasture there for their flocks.

l But a little before their Captivity, which was in the sixth year of Hezekiah, 2 Kings 17. So their Joy in their new, and pleasant, and fruitful Possessions lasted but for a very little while. m i. e. The People dwelling in Tents: for so it seems these still did for the conveniency of Pasturage. n i. e. so as they could never after recover themselves.

† Heb. the head of them, Dei.

42 And some of them, even of the sons of Simeon, five hundred men, went to mount Seir o, having † for their captains Pelatiah, and Neariah, and Rephajah, and Uzziel the sons of Ishi, o Probably about the same time.

* See 1 Sam. 1. 20. 9.

43 And they smote * the rest of the Amalekites p that were escaped, and dwelt there unto this day q.

p Not destroyed by Saul, or David, or his Successors. q Either 1. until the Captivity of the Ten Tribes. But that happening so speedily after this time, this Expression may seem to be very improper and insignificant here. Or rather 2. until the Babylonish Captivity, or the time next after it, when these books were written. For although the main Body of that Tribe dwelling in Canaan were carried into Captivity, yet this small Remnant of them having removed their Dwellings, and being planted in Mount Seir, which lay Southward from Judah, might possibly be continued and preserved in those Parts, when their Brethren were gone into Captivity.

1. 8. & 30. 17. 2 Sam. 8. 12.

CHAP. V.

The Line of Reuben unto the Captivity: Their War against the Hagarites, 1——10. The Chief Men and habitations of Gad, 11——17. the Number of the Reubenites, Gadites, and half the Tribe of Manasseh, that marched against the Hagarites, and overcame them, 18——24. they are all carried Captive into Assyria, 25, 26.

NOw the sons of Reuben the first-born of Israel, (for he was the first-born a, but forasmuch as he * defiled his fathers bed, his birth-right b was given unto the sons of Joseph c the sons of Israel d: and the genealogy is not to be reckoned after the birth-right e.

* Gen. 35. 22. & 49. 4.

a These and the following words to v. 3. which are inclosed within a Parenthesis, seem to be inserted here as an Answer to a secret Objection, or as a Reason why Reuben's Genealogy was not set down first, but Judah's was put before it, which is double, the first follows immediately, the other is in the last clause of this Verse. b. i. e. The Right of the First-born, which, although it contain in it something of Dominion, Gen. 27. 1. 32. which Joseph had in his own person, Gen. 49. Yet principally consisted in having a double Portion, as appears from Deut. 21. 17. which Joseph enjoyed both in his Person and in his Posterity, which had 2 parts of twelve in Canaan. And it is Joseph's Posterity which is here considered. c Ephraim and Manasseh, each having a distinct Portion. d This is added emphatically, because they were reputed and treated as if they had been the immediate Sons of Jacob: of which see Gen. 48. 5. e This is the second Reason, which sheweth both why Reuben's Genealogy was not first mentioned; and if another Tribe was to be ranked before it, why that was Judah, and not Joseph, as it might seem most fit for the former Reason; because, saith he, the Order of their Genealogy was not to be ruled by the Birth-right, but by an higher Privilege, which was given to Judah, and which here follows.

* Gen. 49. 8, 10. Psal. 60. 7. & 108. 8. *Mic. 5. 2.

2 For * Judah f prevailed above his brethren g, and b of him came the * chief ‖ ruler i, but k the birth-right was Josephs.)

f Not the Person (for so Joseph prevailed) but the Tribe of Judah. g Excelled the other Tribes in Number and Power, and especially in the following Priviledge. b Or, for, as the Hebrew vau is oft used: This being a Reason of the foregoing Assertion, or a Declaration wherein he did prevail. i The Government was by Gods Promise and Appointment to be seated chiefly and most durably in that Tribe, first in David and his Successors, and then in the Messiah, who sprang out of Judah, Heb. 7. 14. which was a far greater Priviledge than the Birth-right. Or, as to the Ruler, (i. e. as to the Point of Dominion) he was more than he, or preferred before him, i. e. before Joseph, who is named in the very next clause, the pronoun being referred unto the following noun, which is frequent among the Hebrews, as Psal. 87. 1. & 105. 19. k Or, although, as vau is oft used; so this prevents or removes an Objection against Judah's Precedency taken from his Birth-right.

* Gen. 46. 9. Exod. 6. 14. Numb. 26. 5.

3 The sons, I say, of * Reuben the first-born of Israel were, Hanoch and Pallu, Ezron, and Carmi.

4 The sons of Joel l; Shemajah his Son, Gog his son, Shimei his son, l Who was the Son either of Carmi last mentioned: or rather of Hanoch Reuben's First-born, because he and his were successively Princes of this Tribe, as may be gathered from v. 6.

5 Micah his son, Reajah his son, Baal his son,

6 Beerah his son, whom ‖ Tilgath-pilneser king of Assyria, carried away captive: he was prince of the Reubenites.

‖ Or, Tiglath-pileser 2 King. 15. 29. & 16. 7.

7 And his brethren m by their families, (when the genealogy genealogy of their generation was reckoned) were the chief n Jeiel, and Zechariah.

m i.e. The other Sons of Reuben and their Posterity. n Heb. the head, each was the Head of his Family.

8 And Bela the son of Azaz, the son of || Shema, the son of Joel, who o dwelt in * Aroer, even unto Nebo, and Baalmeon.

o To wit, the Reubenites, all these here before mentioned, as appears both by the following Verses, which relate to the whole Tribe; and by the Agreement of this Description of their Inheritance with that, Jos. 13. 15, 16.

9 And eastward he p inhabited unto the entring in of the wilderness from the river Euphrates q: because their cattel were multiplyed r in the land of Gilead.

p i.e. The Tribe of Reuben. q From Jordan and the Wilderness beyond it unto Euphrates. Or, of the Wilderness, which lies towards or reacheth to the River Euphrates, namely, the great Wilderness of Kedemoth, Deut. 2. 26. which was extended far and wide towards Euphrates: for that was the Eastern border of Reuben's Possession, and not Euphrates, to which their Habitation never reached. r Which forced them to enlarge their Habitation as far as they could Eastward towards Euphrates.

10 And in the days of Saul they made war s with the Hagarites t, who fell by their hand: and they dwelt in their tents u † throughout all the east-land of Gilead x.

s The Galites and Manassites joyning with them in the War, v. 18, 19. t The Ishmeelites, who dwelt in Arabia the Desert. u The Israelites took possession of their Lands and Tents or Houses. x Which lay Eastward from the Land of Gilead.

11 And the children of Gad, who dwelt over against them, in the land of * Bashan unto Salcah, were as followeth.

12 Joel the chief y, and Shapham the next, and Jaanai, and Shaphat in Bashan z.

y The Prince of the Tribe, or at least of his Family, when they were numbred, to wit, in the days of Jotham, v. 17. z i.e. Who dwelt in the City of Bashan. Others thus, Who abode in Bashan to defend the City and Country, when their Brethren went out to War against the Hagarens, v. 18.

13 And their brethren of the house of their fathers, were, Michael, and Meshullam, and Sheba, and Jorai, and Jachan, and Zia, and Heber, seven.

14 These a are the children of Abihail the son of Huri, the son of Jaroah, the son of Gilead, the son of Michael, the son of Jeshishai, the son of Jahdo, the son of Buz:

a These seven last named.

15 Ahi the son of Abdiel, the son of Guni, chief of the house of their fathers b.

b This Ahi was the Head or chief of the Houses or Families either 1. of those seven named, v. 13, or 2. of Abdiel and Guni last named, and of their Fathers.

16 And they c dwelt in Gilead d in Bashan e and in her † towns f, and in all the suburbs g of * Sharon h, upon † their borders i.

c i.e. The Children or Tribe of Gad. d i.e. In part of Gilead: for the Reubenites and Manassites dwelt in other parts of it, Deut. 3. 12, 13, 16. e in the Land of Bashan, as it is said v. 11. Qu. How come the Gadites to dwell in Bashan, when all Bashan is expressly said to be given to the half Tribe of Manasseh, Deut. 3. 13. & Jos. 13. 29, 30? Ans. All Bashan is put for the greatest Part of it by a Synecdoche, very frequent in Scripture and all Authors; and so the Gadites might possess a Part of it. And thus both Bashan and Gilead are used for parts of them, Jos. 17. 1. where it is said of Machir a Manassite, that he had Gilead and Bashan. And as it is unquestionably true that Gilead is taken sometimes more largely for all the Land of the Israelites beyond Jordan, sometimes more strictly for that part of it which Borders upon Mount Gilead; of which see my notes on Jos. 17. 1. The like may be presumed concerning Bashan; and so in its strictest sense it might be all given to the Manassites, and yet in its largest Sence might comprehend a Part of the Land belonging to the Gadites. f i.e. In some of her Cities and Towns. g i.e. In its Fields and Pasture-grounds, 1 Chron. 27. 29. h Not that within Jordan, Isa. 35. 2. but another without Jordan. i. To wit, of Gilead and Bashan. For Gilead, properly so called, or the greatest part of it, belonged to the Reubenites; and Bashan, or the greatest part of it, to the Manassites; and so the Gadites (whose Habitation was between the Reubenites and Manassites) had those Parts of both their Countries which were towards their Borders. Or, unto their Borders, i. e. as far as the Suburbs or Fields of Sharon, which were last mentioned, were extended.

17 All these were reckoned by Genealogies in the days of * Jotham king of Judah k, and in the days of * Jeroboam l King of Israel.

k Who reigning long, partly in his Fathers days, and partly by himself, 2 Kings 15. And being at leasure as to Wars or Troubles, thought this a fit Season to examine the state of his People. l Either the second of that name, of whom see 2 Kings 13. 13, 14. Or rather the first Jeroboam; partly because he is called simply Jeroboam, without any Addition; which shews that he speaks of the most famous of the two: and partly because this Work of taking an Account of the People doth far better agree to the Times of Jeroboam the First, when the Kingdom of Israel was first erected and established, and broken off from that of Judah, when it was necessary for Jeroboam, to know his own Strength and the Numbers of his People, than to the Times of Jeroboam the second, when the Kingdom of Israel was broken, and near to its Ruine.

18 The sons of Reuben, and the Gadite, and half the tribe of Manasseh, † of valiant men, men able to bear buckler and sword, and to shoot with bow, and skilful in war, were four and forty thousand seven hundred and threescore, that went out to the war.

19 And they made war with the Hagarites, with * Jetur, and Nephish, and Nodab m.

m i.e. With the Posterity of Jesur, &c. who were Ismeelites, appears from Gen. 25. 15.

20 And they were helped against them n, and the Hagarites were delivered into their hand, and all that were with them o: for they cryed to God in the battel, and he was intreated of them, because they put their trust in him.

n To wit, By God, v. 22. who gave them extraordinary Courage and Success. o Their Friends and Allies in this War.

21 And they † took away their cattel, of their camels fifty thousand p, and of sheep two hundred and fifty thousand, and of asses two thousand, and of † men an hundred thousand q.

p For Camels were very numerous in Arabia, being used in War and for Burdens, &c. and being very patient of thirst, and therefore most fit for those hot and dry Countries. q Whom they took Prisoners, and either used as Slaves, or sold them for such.

22 For there fell down many slain, because the war was of God r. And they s dwelt in their steads until the captivity t.

r God put them upon it, and mightily assisted them in it. s i.e. That Party of these Tribes which went out to this War being 44760 men; or part of them by the consent of the rest. t Of which, 2 Kings 15. 29. and 17. 6.

23 And the children of the half-tribe of Manasseh u, dwelt in the land x: they increased from Bashan, unto Baal-hermon, and Senir, and unto mount Hermon.

u Having discoursed of the Reubenites, v. 3, &c. and next of the Gadites, v. 11, &c. he now comes to the Manassites. x i.e. In their Land, to wit, in the Northern part of the land beyond Jordan.

24 And these were the heads of the house of their fathers, even Epher, and Ishi, and Eliel, and Azriel, and Jeremiah, and Hodaviah, and Jahdiel, mighty men of valour, † famous men, and heads of the house of their fathers.

25 And they transgressed against the God of their fathers, and went a * whoring after the gods of the people of the land, whom God destroyed before them.

26 And the God of Israel stirred up the spirit y of * Pul king of Assyria, and the spirit of Tilgath-pilneser king of Assyria, and he carried them away, (even the Reubenite, and the Gadite, and the half tribe of Manasseh) and brought them unto * Halah, and Habor, and Hara, and to the river Gozan z, unto this day.

y He so governed his Counsels and Affections, that he should bring his Forces against this People rather than others. z Of which places see, 2 King. 15. & 17.

CHAP. VI.

The Sons of Levi: the Line of the High Priests from Aaron to the Captivity, 1—15. The Families of Gershom, Merari, and Kohath, 16—48. The Office of Aaron and his Line unto Abimaaz, 49—53. The Cities of the Priests and Levites, 54——81.

1 THE sons of Levi; * || Gershom, Kohath, and Merari.

2 And the sons of Kohath; Amram, Izhar a, and Hebron, and Uzziel.

a Called also Amminadab, v. 22. compare Exod 6. 21.

3 And the children of Amram; Aaron, and Moses, and Miriam. The sons also of Aaron; * Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.

4 Eleazar begat Phinehas, and Phinehas begat Abishua,

5 And Abishua begat Bukki, and Bukki begat Uzzi b, b In whose days it is supposed that the High-Priesthood was translated from Eleazar's Family to Ithamar's, for some Cause now unknown, in whose Line it continued for some Successions.

6 And Uzzi begat Zerahiah, and Zerahiah begat Merajoth,

7 Merajoth begat Amariah, and Amariah begat Ahitub,

8 And * Ahitub begat Zadok, and * Zadok begat Ahimaaz,

9 And Ahimaaz begat Azariah, and Azariah begat Johanan,

10 And Johanan begat Azariah, (* he it is that executed the priests office c † in the * temple that Solomon built d in Jerusalem.)

c So did all the rest, but it is implied that he did it worthily, he filled his place, and valiantly discharged his Office in Uzziah's time; of which see 2 Chron. 26. 17, &c. Or this, he, may relate to Johanan, otherwise called Jehojadah, who is so highly commended for the good Service which he did to the House of God and of the King: of whom see 2 Kings 11. d In Solomon's Temple; so called to distinguish it from the second Temple which was built or in building when these Books were written.

11 And * Azariah begat Amariah, and Amariah begat Ahitub, 12 And Ahitub begat Zadok, and Zadok begat Shallum,

13 And Shallum begat Hilkiah, and Hilkiah begat Azariah, 14 And Azariah begat * Serajah e, and Serajah begat Jehozadak, e Who was slain by Nebuchadnezzar at Riblah, 2 Kings 25. 18, 21.

15 And Jehozadak went into captivity, * when the LORD carried away Judah and Jerusalem by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar.

16 The sons of Levi; * || Gershom, Kohath, and Merari f.

f This he repeats, as the Foundation of the following Genealogy of those Levites who were not Priests.

17 And these be the names of the sons of Gershon; Libni, and Shimei.

18 And the sons of Kohath were Amram, and Izkar, and Hebron, and Uzziel.

19 The sons of Merari; Mahli, and Mushi. And these are the families of the Levites according to their fathers g.

g Who are distinguished and named from their Fathers. And the following Catalogue is thought to contain the successive Heads or Chiefs of their several Families until the Times of David, by whom they were distributed into several Ranks or Courses.

20 Of Gershom; Libni his son, Jahath his son, * Zimmah his son h.

h i.e. His Grandson, by his Son Shimei, as appears from v. 42. 43. the Names of Father and Son being oft used in Scripture of more remote Progenitors or Successors.

21 || Joah his son, || Iddo his son, Zerah his son, Jeaterai his son.

22 The sons of Kohath; || Amminadab his son, Korah i, his son, Assir his son.

23 Elkanah his son, and Ebiasaph his son, and Assir his son, 24 Tahath his son, || Uriel i his son, || Uzziah his son, and || Shaul his son.

i Called also Zephaniah, v. 36. where also Uzziah here following is called Azariah.

25 And the sons of Elkanah k; * Amasai, and Ahimoth.

k The Son of that Korah mentioned above, v. 22. as is manifest by v. 35, 36, 37. and by Exod. 6. 23, 24.

26 As for Elkanah l: the sons of Elkanah; || Zophai his son, and Nahath m his son, l This was another Elkanah Son or Grandson of the former Elkanah, and either the Son or Brother of Abimpth last mentioned, or of Amasai. m Called also Toah, v. 34. and Tohu, 1 Sam. 1. 1.

27 * Eliab his son, Jeroham his son, Elkanah n his son.

n The Father of the Prophet Samuel, 1 Sam. 1. 1. who therefore follows here.

28 And the sons of Samuel; the first-born, || Vashni, and Abiah.

29 The sons of Merari; Mahli, Libni his son, Shimei his son, Uzza his son, 30 Shimea his son, Haggiah his son, Asaiah his son.

31 And these o are they whom David set over the † service p of song in the house of the LORD, after that the * ark had rest q.

o Whose Names here follow. p Heb. the Hands. Hand put for Ministery or Service, which is commonly Performed by the Hand. Thus God is frequently said to speak or command things by the Hand (i. e. the Ministery) of Moses. Compare 2 Chron. 29. 27. q Which was in David's Time, 2 Sam. 6. 17.

32 And they ministred before the dwelling-place of the tabernacle r of the congregation, with singing, until Solomon had built the house of the LORD in Jerusalem: and then they waited on their office according to their order s.

r Or, the Tabernacle of the Tent, as the same Hebrew words are translated, Exod. 39. 32. & 40. 2, 6. s Which David had appointed by the Spirit, as it follows in this Book.

33 And these t are they that † waited with their children: of the sons of the Kohathite; Heman a singer, the son of Joel, the son of Shemuel u, t To wit, Heman here mentioned; and Asaph, v. 39. and Ethan, v. 44. u Or, Samuel the Prophet.

34 The son of Elkanah, the son of Jeroham, the son of Eliel, the son of || Toah,

35 The son of || Zuph, the son of Elkanah, the son of Mahath, the son of Amasai,

36 The son of Elkanah, the son of || Joel, the son of Azariah, the son of Zephaniah,

37 The son of Tahath, the son of Assir, the son of * Ebiasaph, the son of Korah, 38 The son of Izhar, the son of Kohath, the son of Levi, the son of Israel.

39 And his brother x Asaph (who stood on his right hand) even Asaph the son of Berechiah, the son of Shimea, x Asaph is here called Heman's Brother, both by birth being of the same Tribe and Father, Levi; and by his Office and Employment, which was the same with his.

40 The son of Michael, the son of Baasiah, the son of Melchiah, 41 The son of Ethni, the son of Zerah, the son of Adajah, 42 The son of Ethan, the son of Zimmah, the son of Shimei, 43 The son of Jahath, the son of Gershom, the son of Levi.

44 And their brethren the sons of Merari, stood on the left hand: Ethan y the son of || Kishi, the son of Abdi, || Or, Kushaiah, Ch. the son of Malluch, y Called also Jeduthun, 1 Chron. 9. 16. 2 Chron. 35. 15. and in the Titles of divers Psalms.

45 The son of Hashabiah, the son of Amaziah, the son of Hilkiah,

46 The son of Amzi, the son of Bani, the son of Shamer, 47 The son of Mahli, the son of Mushi, the son of Merari, the son of Levi.

48 Their brethren also the Levites z were appointed unto all manner of service of the tabernacle of the house of God.

z Such of them as had no skill in Singing were otherwise employed.

49 But a Aaron and his sons offered * upon the altar of the burnt-offering, and * on the altar of incense, and * were appointed for all the work of the place most holy, and to make an atonement for Israel, according to all that Moses the servant of God had commanded.

a Having mentioned the Work and Employment of the High Priests, he briefly rehearseth the Names of the Persons who successively performed it.

50 And these are the sons of Aaron: Eleazar his son, Phinehas his son, Abishua his son,

51 Bukki his son, Uzzi his son, Zerahiah his son,

52 Merajoth his son, Amariah his son, Ahitub his son, 53 Zadok his son, Ahimaaz his son.

54 Now these are their dwelling places throughout their castles in their coasts, of the sons of Aaron, of the families of the Kohathite: for theirs was the lot b.

b Or, this Lot or Portion which here follows. Or, the first Lot as appears by the sequel.

55 And they gave them Hebron in the land of Judah, and the suburbs thereof round about it.

56 But the fields of the city, and the villages thereof, they gave to Caleb the son of Jephunneh.

57 And to the Sons of Aaaron they gave the cities c of Judah, namely, Hebron the city of refuge, and Libna with her suburbs, and Jattir, and Eshtemoa, with their suburbs.

c Or, out of the Cities; the Hebrew eth being put for meeth, as hath been oft noted.

58 And || Hilen with her suburbs, Debir with her suburbs, || Or, Holon, Josh. 21. 15.

59 And || Ashan with her suburbs, and Beth-shemesh with her suburbs. || Or, Ain,

60 And out of the tribe of Benjamin, Geba with her suburbs, and || Alemeth with her suburbs, and Anathoth with her suburbs. All their cities throughout their families, were thirteen cities d. || Or, Almon, Josh. 21. 18.

d Whereof 11 are here numbred, and two more added to them, Jos. 21. 13.

61 And unto the sons of Kohath, which were left e of the family of that tribe, were cities given out of the half tribe, namely, out of the half tribe of Manasseh, * by lot, * Josh. 21. ten cities f.

e Over and above the Priests who were of the same Family of Kohath and Tribe of Levi: f Or, by lot. (with a full Point, for there the Sense ends.) All their Cities were ten Cities, as it is expressly said, Jos. 21. 26. Those words, All their Cities were, are to be understood out of the former Verse; which is not unusual in the Holy Scripture. And so this sacred Writer explains himself, v. 66, &c. where eight of these Cities are named, whereof only two are taken out of this half Tribe of Manasseh, v. 70. the other two being named, Jos. 21. 21, &c. where these things are more plainly and fully declared.

62 And to the sons of Gershom g throughout their families, out of the tribe of Issachar, and out of the tribe of Asher, and out of the tribe of Naphtali, and out of the tribe of Manasseh in Bashan, thirteen cities.

g Understand here, cities were given, which is also understood, v. 61, and expressed, v. 64.

63 Unto the sons of Merari were given by lot throughout their families, out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad, and out of the tribe of Zebulun, * twelve cities.

64 And the children of Israel gave to the Levites h these cities i with their suburbs.

h i.e. To the Tribe of Levi, consisting of Priests and other Levites. i Which are numbred or named in this Chapter.

65 And they gave k by lot out of the tribe of the children of Judah, and out of the tribe of the children of Simeon, and out of the tribe of the children of Benjamin, these cities which are called by their names.

‖ To wit, of those Levites of the Family of Kohath who were Priests, as appears both by v. 57, &c. where the Cities given to the Aaronites are said to be taken out of the Tribes here named, even out of Judah, (under which Simeon is comprehended, because his Lot lay within that of Judah) and Benjamin; and by the next Verse where the other Kohathites who were not Priests are called, the Residue of the Families of the Sons of Kohath, by way of distinction from those of them to whom this v. 65. relates. l Which are expressed by their Names above, v. 57, &c.

66 And the residue of the families of the sons of Kohath, had cities of their coasts m out of the tribe of Ephraim.

m Or, of their borders, i. e. of their Country contained within its Borders, as that word is oft used, as hath been noted before.

* Josh. 21. 21. 67 * And they n gave unto them o of the cities of refuge p, Shechem in mount Ephraim with her suburbs: they gave also Gezer with her suburbs, n Either the Ephraimites: or rather the Children of Israel, as it is expressed v. 64. who gave part out of Ephraim, and part out of the half-tribe of Manasseh, as it here follows. But the Ephraimites could not give away any Cities belonging to the Manassites, i. e. To the residue of the Kohathites last mentioned. p Or, the cities (i. e. the City: the plural number used of one; of which frequent Examples have been given before, see ch. 7. 3, 12, 14.) of refuge. Or, cities, (the construct form being put for the absolute, of which there wants not Examples in the Hebrew Language) the City of refuge. As to the Names of these Cities, divers of them are differing from those Names which were given to them, Jos. 21. 15. Nor is it at all strange that the Names of Places should be changed in so many hundreds of years as were between Joshua and this time. And to the Cities themselves, this is further to be observed, that they are dispersed among all the Tribes, partly that Jacob's Prophecy might be fulfilled concerning the scattering of Levi, Gen. 49. 7. and partly that every Tribe might have Teachers among them by whom they might be directed in, and quickned to the observation of God's Laws, upon which their safety and happiness wholly depended.

* See Josh. 21. 22, ad 35. where many of these Cities have other names. 68 And * Jokmeam with her suburbs, and Beth-horon with her suburbs, 69 And Ajalon with her suburbs, and Gath-rimmon with her suburbs.

70 And out of the half-tribe of Manasseh, Aner with her suburbs, and Bileam with her Suburbs, for the family of the remnant of the Sons of Kohath.

71 Unto the Sons of Gershom were given out of the family of the half-tribe of Manasseh, Golan in Bashan with her suburbs, and Ashtaroth with her Suburbs.

72 And out of the tribe of Issachar, Kadesh with her suburbs, Daberath with her Suburbs, 73 And Ramoth with her suburbs, and Anem with her suburbs.

74 And out of the tribe of Asher, Mashal with her suburbs, and Abdon with her suburbs, 75 And Hukok with her suburbs, and Rehob with her suburbs.

76 And out of the tribe of Naphthali, Kedesh in Galilee with her suburbs, and Hammon with her suburbs, and Kirjathaim with her suburbs.

77 Unto the rest of the children of Merari, were given out of the tribe of Zebulun, Rimmon with her suburbs, Tabor with her suburbs.

78 And on the other side Jordan by Jericho, on the east-side of Jordan were given them out of the tribe of Reuben, Bezer in the wilderness with her suburbs, and Jahzah with her suburbs, 79 Kedemoth also with her suburbs, and Mephaath with her suburbs.

80 And out of the tribe of Gad, Ramoth in Gilead with her suburbs, and Mahanaim with her suburbs, 81 And Heshbon with her suburbs, and Jazer with her suburbs.

e To wit, of the Posterity of Uzzi, as the other 22600, v. 2. were the Posterity of Tolah.

5 And their brethren among all the families of Issachar, were men of might, reckoned in all by their genealogies four score and seven thousand.

6 The sons of * Benjamin; Bela, and Becher, and Jediael, three f. * Gen. 46. 21.

f They were Ten, Gen. 46. 21. and five of them are named, ch. 8. 1. but here only three are mentioned, either because these were most Eminent for Courage or Fruitfulness; or because the other Families were now extinct.

7 And the sons of Bela; Ezbon, and Uzzi, and Uzziel, and Jerimoth, and Iri, five; heads of the house of their fathers g, mighty men of valour, and were reckoned by their genealogies, twenty and two thousand and thirty and four.

g Each of them Head, or Chief, or Commander of that House or Family from which he was descended, or to which he belonged. For it may seem by comparing this with ch. 8. 3, &c. that these were not the immediate sons of Belah, but his Grandchildren descended each from a several Father; and their Fathers are here omitted, peradventure because they were obscure persons, as their Sons are mentioned for their Eminency.

8 And the sons of Becher; Zemira, and Joash, and Eliezer, and Elioenai, and Omri, and Jerimoth, and Abiah, and Anathoth, and Alameth. All these are the sons of Becher.

9 And the number of them after their genealogy by their generations, heads of the house of their fathers, mighty men of valour, was twenty thousand and two hundred.

10 The sons also of Jediael, Bilhan: and the sons of Bilhan, Jeush, and Benjamin, and Ehud, and Chenaanah, and Zethan, and Tarshish, and Ahishahar.

11 All these the sons of Jediael, by the heads of their fathers, mighty men of valour, were seventeen thousand and two hundred souldiers fit to go out for war and battel.

12 Shuppim also and Huppim h, the children of ‖ Ir, and Hushim, the sons of ‖ Aher i. ‖ Or, Iri, ver. 7.

h Called Muppim and Huppim, Gen. 46. 21. also Hupham and Shupham, Numb. 26. 39. i But divers take the Hebrew word aher for a Common, not Proper Name, and render the words thus, another son, or the son of another Family or Tribe, to wit, of Dan, as may be gathered, 1. from Gen. 46. 23. where Hushim is mentioned as the only Son of Dan, where also the word sons is used of that one Man, as it is here. 2. From the Clause of the next Verse, the sons of Bilhah, who was Mother both to Dan and Naphtali. 3. Because otherwise the Genealogy of Dan is quite left out. 4. From the word another, which is used in the Hebrew Writers to design an Abominable thing which the Writer disdained to mention; whence they call a Swine, which to them was a very unclean and loathsome Creature, another thing. And it must be remembred that the Tribe of Dan had made themselves and their Memory Infamous and Detestable by that gross Idolatry, which began first and continued longest in that Tribe, Judg. 18. For which reason many Interpreters conceive this Tribe is omitted in the numbring of the sealed Persons, Rev. 7. ‖ Or, Ahi, ver. 7.

13 The sons of Naphtali; Jahziel, and Guni, and Jezer, and * Shallum, the sons k of Bilhah. * Gen. 46. 24. Mat. 1. 2. Luk. 3. 36.

k i. e. The Grandchildren: for Bilhah was Jacob's Concubine, and Mother both to Naphtali, the Father of these last named Persons, and to Dan. See on v. 12.

14 The sons l of Manasseh; Asriel, whom she bare m, (but his concubine the Aramitess bare Machir the father of Gilead n.

l i. e. Grandchildren, as v. 13. For both Asriel and Zelophehad were the Grandchildren of Machir Son of Manasseh, Numb. 26. 29, &c. and 27. 1. m To wit, his Wife, as may be thought, because his Concubine is here oppos'd to her. Or, whom he got; for the Hebrew Word yalad is sometimes used of Mens begetting, as Gen. 5. 18, &c. Compare Psal. 2. 7. But these and the following words may be otherwise rendred according to the Hebrew Text, whom his Concubine the Aramitess bare, who bare him (which Ellipses are very frequent in the Hebrew) for meetly, of, or by Machir: So this was a differing Asriel from him named Numb. 26. 31. for that was Gilead's Son, and this his Brother. n A Person so called, as is manifest from v. 17. and Numb. 26. 29.

15 And Machir took to wife the Sister o of Huppim, and Shuppim, whose sisters name was Maacah) and the name of the second p was Zelophehad: and Zelophehad had daughters q.

o Which Word is here fitly understood out of the following Clause, where it is expressed, and she is called Maacah, who also is called the wife of Machir, v. 16. p Of the second Son or Grandson of Machir; for so Zelophehad was, Numb. 26. 29, &c. Or, Zelophehad is here called the second, because he was the younger Brother of Asriel, who was the eldest son of Hepher, the Son of Gilead, the Son of Machir. q i. e. Onely Daughters, and no Sons.

16 And Maacah the wife of Machir bare a son, and she called his name Peresh, and the name of his brother was Sheresh, and his sons were Ulam and Rakem.

17 And the sons of Ulam, * Bedan. These r were the sons of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh. * 1 Sam. 12. 11.

r To wit, Asriel and Zelophehad, named, v. 14, 15. the Relative being here referred to the remoter Antecedent; as is frequent in the Hebrew.

18 And his sister s Hammoleketh bare Ishod, and Abiezer, and Mahalah t.

s i. e. Gilead's Sister. t Understand, and Shemida, out of the next Verse.

19 And the sons of Shemida were Ahian, and Shechem, and Likhi, and Aniam.

20 And the sons of Ephraim; Shuthelah, and Bered his son u, and Tahath his son, and Eladah his son, and Tahath his son, u Either, 1. the Son of Shuthelah; and so Tahath the son of Bered; and so the rest, which make up seven succeeding Generations. Or, 2. the son of Ephraim, and so Tahath is the son not of Bered, but of Ephraim, and so forward. And thus all these were Brethren, and Sons or Grandchildren of Ephraim living together at one time with their Father. Ishi, and two called Tahath. Arnin. That might easily happen; either because the first Shuthelah and Tahath were dead before the other two of those Names were born: or because two of them were Ephraim's Sons, and two of them his Grandchildren called after their Uncles Names. For this is certain, the Name of Sons is promiscuously used concerning immediate Children, and Grandchildren, and Great Grandchildren.

21 And Zabad his son, and Shutelah his son, and Ezer, and Elead, whom the men of Gath that were born in that land, slew x, because they came down to take away their cattel.

x This History is not recorded elsewhere in Scripture, but it is in the ancient Hebrew Writers, though mixed with many fables. The Philistins (one of whose Cities this Gath was) and the Egyptians were next Neighbours; and in those Ancient Times it was usual for such to make Inroads one into anothers Country, and to carry thence what Prey they could take; as we find both in Scripture and in profane Writers. And as the Philistins had probably made such Inroads formerly into Egypt, and particularly into the Land of Goshen, which was the utmost part of Egypt bordering upon the Philistins Land; so the Israelites might requite them in the like kind: and particularly the Children of Ephraim, either presuming upon their Numbers and Strength; or having possibly received the greatest Injury from the Philistins in their last invasion, might make an Attempt upon the Philistins to their own great loss; as is here related. And this seems to have happened a little before the Egyptian Persecution, and before the Reign of that new King mentioned, Exod. 1. 8. The Philistins are here called the men of Gath, either because they were subject to the King of Gath, as afterwards that People were; or because they lived about Gath. And this Clause, that were born in that land, may be added emphatically, as the Motive which made them more resolute and furious in their Fight with the Ephraimites, because they fought in, and for their own Land, wherein all their Wealth and Concerns lay, and against those that unjustly endeavoured to turn them out of their Native Country.

22 And Ephraim their father y mourned many days, and his brethren z came to comfort him.

y Either, 1. That Ephraim of whom he speaks, v. 20. whose Sons are here named. But that to many seems hard, especially if these several Sons named, v. 20, 21. be understood successively so as each Man be the son of him who is named next and immediately before him, which seems most probable; for so here are Seven successive Generations of Ephraim, which it is not likely that Ephraim lived to see; for then he must have been near 200 years old. Although it is not necessary that the Persons here said to be slain, should be that Generation which was last mentioned; but the Particle whom may belong to the other Sons of Ephraim of the fourth, or fifth, or sixth Generation. Nor is the word, whom, in the Hebrew Text, which runs thus, and the men of Gath——slew them, i. e. the Sons of Ephraim in the general, as they are expressed in the beginning of v. 20. without respect to this or that particular Generation. And the relative Particle, them, may be referred not unto the Persons last named, but unto some of the other and more remote Persons: this being a common Observation of Hebricians, that the Relative oft belongs to the remoter Antecedent. Or, 2. Zabad the Father of the three Persons and Families last named, who might possibly have two Names, and be called both Zabad and Ephraim. Or rather the Name of Ephraim may be put patronymically (as the Learned speak) for the Son and Successor of Ephraim; who being now in Ephraim's stead, the Head of the Tribe, as old Ephraim was in his time, might well be called by the same name. Thus Isaac is put for his Son Jacob or Israel, Amos 7. 9. and Moses for the Sons of Moses, Psal. 90. Title, and David for his Son Rehoboam, 1 King. 12. 16. and for Christ, Jer. 30. 9. Ezek. 34. 23. and (as many think) Abraham for Jacob, Abraham's Grandchild, Acts 7. 16. And these words, their Father, seem to be added by way of distinction, to shew that he meant not this of the old Ephraim, but of another, who was Father to the three Persons said to be slain, v. 21. For if he had understood this of the first Ephraim, having called these the Sons of Ephraim, it might seem superfluous and tautological to tell us that Ephraim was their father. z i. e. His Kinsman, as that Word is frequently used.

23 And when he went into his wife, she conceived and bare a son, and he called his name Beriah, because it went evil with his house.

24 (And his daughter a was Sherah, who built b Beth-horon the nether, and the upper, and Uzzen-sherah.)

a i. e. His Grandchild, or Great Grandchild; for such are oft called Sons or Daughters in Scripture. b i. e. Rebuilt or repaired, which possibly she did in Joshua's time. And this Work may be ascribed to her, because these Works were done either by her design or contrivance; or by her Instigation and Influence upon her Husband and Brethren who did it.

25 And Rephah was his son, also Rezeph, and Telah his son, and Tahan his son.

26 Laadan his son, Ammihud his son, Elishama c his son, c The Head of the Tribe of Ephraim in the Wilderness, Num. 1. 10. ‖ Or, Nun, Num. 13. 8.

27 ‖ Non his son, Jehoshuah his son.

28 And their possessions d and habitations were Bethel e, and the † towns thereof, and east-ward * Naaran, and west-ward Gezer, with the † towns thereof; Shechem also and the towns thereof, unto ‖ Gaza f and the † towns thereof. † Heb. daughters. * Josh. 16. 7. † Heb. daughters.

d i. e. The Portion allotted to the Tribe of Ephraim. e Which daughters, stood in the Border of Benjamin, but belonged to Ephraim. f Not that ‖ Or, Azzah of the Philistins, which belonged to another Tribe, and was remote Azzah. from Ephraim, but another of the same Name. Or rather Ad-azzah, as it is in the Margent of our Bible; the Particle, ad, here rendred unto, being a part of the Name; for why should unto be put to this Town, which is not put to any of the other?

29 And by the borders of the children of * Manasseh, Beth-shean and her towns, Tannach and her towns, * Megiddo and her towns, Dor and her towns. In these dwelt the children of Joseph g, the son of Israel. * Josh. 17. 7. † Josh. 17. 11.

g i. e. Of Ephraim, Joseph's Eldest Son, who is sometimes called Joseph, as hath been noted before.

30 * The sons of Asher: Imnah, and Ishuah, and Ishuai, and Beriah, and Serah their sister. * Gen. 46. 17.

31 And the sons of Beriah; Heber, and Malchiel who is the father of Birzavith.

32 And Heber begat Japhlet, and Shomer, and Hotham, and Shuah their sister.

33 And the sons of Japhlet, Pasach, and Bimhal, and Ashvath. These are the children of Japhlet.

34 And the sons of Shamer ‖; Ahi, and Rohgah, Jehubbah, and Aram. ‖ Or, Shomer, ver. 32.

35 And the sons of his brother h, Helem, Zophah, and Imnah, and Shelesh, and Amal.

h Brother either of Shamer the eldest, namely Hotham: or of Aram last mentioned.

36 The sons of Zophah; Suah, and Harnepher, and Shual, and Beri, and Imrah:

37 Bezer, and Hod, and Shamma, and Shilshah, and Ithran, and Beera.

38 And the sons of Jether ‖; Jephunneh, and Pispah, and Arah. ‖ Or, Ithran, ver. 37.

39 And the sons of Ulla i; Arah, and Haniel, and Reziah.

i Another Son of Jether, as may be gathered by the course of the Genealogy, though he be not expressed with his Brethren, v. 38. See the like defect v. 18. and 34.

40 All these were the children of Asher, heads of their fathers house, choice and mighty men of valour, chief of the princes. And the number throughout the genealogy of them that were apt to the war, and to battel, was twenty and six thousand men.

CHAP. VIII.

The Sons and Chief Men of Benjamin, 1——34. The Stock of Saul and Jonathan, 35——40.

* Gen. 46. 21. Numb. 26. 38. NOw Benjamin a begat * Bela b his first-born, Ashbel the second, and Aharah the third, a He had spoken something of this Tribe before, ch. 7. 6. but now he treats of it again, and that more fully and exactly; partly for Saul's sake, who was of this Tribe; and partly, because this Tribe adhered to David and the Kingdom of Judah, and went with Judah into Babylon; and now were returned from thence in greater Numbers than the other Tribes, except Judah. b So called by Moses: but the Names of the rest vary from those in Moses: either because the same Person had two several Names, as hath been often noted: or because these were not the immediate Sons of Benjamin, but his Grandchildren here mentioned in their Parents stead, possibly because they were more eminent than their Parents.

2 Nohah the fourth, and Rapha the fifth.

3 And the sons of Bela, were ‖ Addar, and Gera, and Abihud, ‖ Or, Ard. Gen. 46. 21.

4 And Abishua, and Naaman, and Ahoah,

5 And Gera, and ‖ Shephuphan, and Huram. ‖ Or, Shupham, Num. 26. 39.

6 And these c are the sons of Ehud: these are the heads of the fathers of the Inhabitants of Geba d, and they removed them e to * Manahath: * Ch. 2. 52

c Either those three last mentioned; or rather these following, v. 7. because he here speaks of them who were removed, and they are said to be removed, v. 7. He describes the Sons of Benjamin by the Places of their Habitation, without an exact Account of their Parents; because their Genealogies were broken by that almost total Extirpation of this Tribe, Judg. 20. e Either their Fathers, or their Heads and Superiours removed them: or they removed themselves; either because they were too numerous for that place: or because they desired to change their Habitation, and hoped it would be for the better, and judged Manahath a more convenient Place.

7 And Naaman, and Ahiah, and Gera, he f removed them, and begat Uzza, and Ahihud g.

f Either, 1. Their Father: Or, 2. Gera last mentioned, who, it seems, was the Chief Counsellor or Promoter of this Work. g When he was seated in Manahath.

8 And Shaharaim begat children in the country of Moab h, after he i had sent them away. Hushim and Baara were his wives k.

h Whither he had removed himself either at the same time when Elimelech did, Ruth 1. 1. &c. or upon the same or like occasion. i Ehud or Gera last mentioned. k Others joyn these Words with the former, and render the place thus, after he had sent them (to wit, his Sons) away, with Hushim and Baara his wives, i. e. as he also sent his Wives away from from him. Which may be here mentioned as a Brand upon him, to shew that he was without natural Affection to his Wives and Children. And it seems the more probable that he divorced them, because we find him married to another Wife, v. 9.

9 And he begat of Hodesh his wife, Jobab, and Zibia, and Mesha, and Malcham, 10 And Jeuz, and Shachiah, and Mirma. These were his sons, heads of the fathers.

11 And of Hushim he begat Ahitub, and Elpaal.

12 The sons of Elpaal; Eber, and Misham, and Shamed, who built Ono, and Lod l with the towns thereof.

l Of which see Ezr. 2. 33. Nehem. 7. 37. and 11. 35.

At that time when they made such a slaughter among Ephraims Children, ch. 7. 21. and were possibly pursuing their Victory, till they were driven back by these Benjamites who came to the Succour of their Brethren. Or, 2. Now when they were returned from the Captivity, and found the Men of Gath possessed of Ajalon. Or, 3. At some other time not mentioned in Scripture.

39 And the sons of Eshak his brother, were Ulam his first-born, Jehush the second, and Eliphelet the third.

40 And the sons of Ulam were mighty men of valour, archers s, and had many sons, and sons sons, an hundred and fifty. All these are of the sons of Benjamin.

CHAP. IX.

The Chief of the Tribe of Judah, Benjamin, Ephraim, and Manasseh, who returned from Captivity, and dwelt at Jerusalem, 1——9. Also the Priests and Levites, and how they executed their Office in the Temple at Jerusalem, 10——34. The Family of Saul, 35——44.

1 SO all Israel were reckoned by genealogies: and behold, they were written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah a, who b were carried away to Babylon for their transgression.

a Not in that Sacred and Canonical Book so called, but (as hath been oft observed before) in the Publick Records, wherein there was an Account of that Kingdom, and of the several Families in it, according to their Genealogies. b i.e. Which Tribe or People of Judah last mentioned.

2 Now the first inhabitants c that dwelt in their possessions, in their cities d, were the Israelites e, the priests, Levites f, and the Nethinims g.

c The first after the Return from Babylon. d i.e. That took possession of their own Lands and Cities, which had been formerly allotted to them; but of late years had been taken from them for their Sins, and possessed by other People. e i.e. The common People of Judah and Israel, called here by the general Name of Israelites, which was given to them before that unhappy Division of the two Kingdoms, and now is restored to them when the Israelites are united with the Jews in one and the same Commonwealth, that so all the Names and Signs of their former Division might be blotted out. And although the generality of the ten Tribes were yet in Captivity, yet divers of them were now returned, either such as had long before the Captivity fled to Jerusalem to Worship God, and joined themselves with Judah, as those 2 Chron. 11. 16. and others. Or such as, upon Cyrus his general Proclamation, associated themselves, and returned with those of Judah and Benjamin. f These took possession of the Cities or Places belonging to them, as they had need and opportunity. g A certain Order of Men, either Gibeonites, or others joyned with them, devoted to the Service of God, and of his House, and of the Priests and Levites; who, that they might attend upon their Work without Distraction, had certain Places and Possessions given to them; which they are now said to repossess.

3 And in * Jerusalem dwelt of the children of Judah and of the children of Benjamin, and of the children of Ephraim, and Manasseh b.

* Nehem. 11. 1.

b i.e. Some of each of these Tribes; either such as offered themselves; or such as were chosen by Lot: See Nehem. 11. 1, 2.

4 Uthai, the son of Ammihud i, the son of Omri, the son of Imri, the son of Bani, of the children of Pharez the son of Judah.

i That there is so great a Diversity of Names between this Catalogue and that Nehem. 11. may be ascribed to two Causes: 1. To the Custom of the Hebrews, who used very frequently to give two or three several Names to one Person: And, 2. To the change of Times; for here they are named who came up at the first Return; but many of those in Nehemiah might be such as returned afterward, and came and dwelt either in stead of the Persons here named, who might be then dead, or gone from Jerusalem, or with them.

5 And of the Shilonites k, Asajah l the first-born, and his sons.

k Or, Shelanites, as they are called from Shelah, Numb. 26. 20. l Called also Maaseiah, Nehem. 11. 5.

6 And of the sons of Zerah; Jeuel, and their brethren, six hundred and ninety.

7 And of the sons of Benjamin; Sallu the son of Meshullam m, the son of Hodaviah, the son of Hasenuah.

m Who is mentioned, but described by other Parents, Neh. 11. 7. or at least by Persons under other Names. Possibly these were his more immediate, and those his more remote Parents: or he might be born of one, and adopted by another. For this is certain, Men are sometimes in Scripture called the Sons of those who adopted them, or whose Right of Inheritance fell to them.

8 And Ibnejah the son of Jeroham, and Elah the son of Uzzi, the son of Michri, and Meshullam the son of Shophatiah, the son of Reuel, the son of Ibnijah;

9 And their brethren according to their generations, nine hundred and fifty six o. All these men were chief of the fathers in the house of their fathers.

o They are reckoned but 928. in Neh. 11. 8. either because there he mentions only those that were by Lot determined to dwell at Jerusalem, to whom he here adds those who freely offered themselves to it; see Neh. 11. 1, 2. because some of the Persons and Families first placed there were dead or extinguished, or else removed from Jerusalem upon some emergent occasion.

10 And of the priests; Jedajah, and Jehojarib, and Jachin, 11 And Azariah p the son of Hilkiah q, the son of Meshullam, the son of Zadok, the son of Merajoth, the son of Ahitub, the ruler of the house of God r.

p The same called Seraiah, Nehem. 11. 11. q Either of him in Josiah's time, 2 King. 22. 8. or rather another of the same name. r Or, a ruler in the house of God: Not the High-Priest, who was Ezra, Ezr. 3. 8. but a Chief Ruler under him; either the second Priest, as such are called, Numb. 3. 32. or the Head of one of the 24 Families or Courses of the Priests.

12 And Adaiah the son of Jeroham, the son of Pashur s, the son of Malchijah, and Maasai the son of Adiel, the son of Jahzerah, the son of Meshullam, the son of Meshillemith, the son of Immer.

s i.e. His Great Grandson, as appears from Neh. 11. 12, 13.

13 And their brethren, heads of the house of their fathers, a thousand and seven hundred and threescore, † very able men t for the work of the service of the house of God.

† Heb. mighty men of valour

t Heb. mighty men of valour: Which is here noted as an excellent Qualification for their Place; because the Priests might meet with great Opposition and Difficulty in the faithful Discharge of their Office, in the Execution of the Censures upon all Impure Persons without our Exception, and in preserving Sacred things from Violation by the Touch of Forbidden Hands. Of which see an eminent Instance in Azariah, 2 Chron. 26. 17, &c.

14 And of the Levites; Shemajah the son of Hashub, the son of Azrikam, the son of Hashabiah, of the sons of Merari.

15 And Bakbakkar, Heresh, and Galal: and Mattaniah the son of Micah, the son of Zichri, the son of Asaph.

16 And Obadiah the son of Shemajah, the son of Galal, the son of Jeduthun: and Berechiah the son of Asa, the son of Elkanah, that dwelt in the villages of the Netophathite u.

u Or, Netophathites; which were in Judah, ch. 2. 54. Here they now dwelt, either because their proper Cities were not yet built; or because they were not yet numerous enough to replenish them.

17 And the porters x were Shallum, and Akkub, and Talmon, and Ahiman, and their brethren. Shallum was the chief.

x Whose Office it was to keep all the Gates of the Temple, that no unclean Person or Thing might enter into it.

18 (Who hitherto waited in the kings gate y eastward) They were porters in the companies z of the children of Levi.

y In the East-gate of the Temple, which was so called, either because it was the Chief and most Magnificent of all the Gates; or because the Kings of Judah used to go to the Temple through that Gate, 2 King. 16. 18. Compare Ezek. 44. 1, 2. Under this Gate he comprehends all the rest, which also were guarded by these Porters. z Or, according to the companies, or orders, or courses, i. e. They kept the Gates successively, according to that Method into which themselves and the rest of their brethren the Levites were distributed, for the more convenient management of their several Offices; among which this of the Porters was one.

19 And Shallum the son of Kore, the son of Ebiasaph, the son of Korah, and his brethren (of the house of his father) the Korhites were over the work of the service, keepers of the † gates of the tabernacle a: and their fathers b being over the host of the LORD c, were keepers of the entry d.

a Or, who were, to wit, in time past, which is expressed in a like case, v. 20. when the Tabernacle was standing, before the Temple was built. b The Kohathites, of whom see on Numb. 4. 4. c Or, with (as this Hebrew Particle is oft used) the host, &c. i. e. When the Israelites were in the Wilderness, encamped in a military manner round about the Tabernacle, with, or among whom these were then placed. d i.e. Of the Vail by which they entred into the Tabernacle; which he calls the entry distinctively, because then there were no Gates. The meaning is, That all things were now restored to their Primitive Order and Institution; and the several Persons took those Places and Offices upon them, which their Ancestors had before them.

20 And * Phinees the son of Eleazar was the ruler over them e in time past, and the LORD was with him f.

* Num. 31. 6.

e i.e. Over all the Porters, and other Levites and Priests before mentioned. f To direct, and assist, and bless him in the discharge of his Place. Which seems here related to encourage his Successor, and consequently all the Priests and Levites of this time to go on couragiously and resolutely in their Work, not doubting but God will stand by them as he had done by their Fathers.

21 And Zechariah the son of Meshelemiah, was g porter h of the door of the tabernacle i of the congregation.

g To wit, in the time of David, as the following Verse sheweth. See ch. 26. 1, 2. and 27. 2. h i.e. Chief Porter. i i.e. Of the Door which led out of the Priests Court into the Tabernacle, in which the Ark was placed, 2 Sam. 6. 17.

22 All these which were chosen to be porters in the gates, were two hundred and twelve. These were reckoned by their genealogy in their villages k: whom * David and Samuel the * seer † did ordain l in their || set office m.

* Ch. 26. 1, 2. * 1 Sam. 9. 9. † Heb. founded. || Or, trust.

k Where their usual Residence was, and whence they came to Jerusalem in their Courses. l In the times of the Judges there was much Disorder and Confusion both in the Jewish State and Church, and the Levites came to the Tabernacle promiscuously, and as their Inclinations or Occasions brought them. But Samuel the best of Judges, having some prospect and good hopes of deliverance from their Enemies, and of an happy Settlement of the Israelitish Church and Nation; and observing that the Levites were greatly increased, he began to think of establishing some Order among the Levites in their Ministration about the Tabernacle. And these Intentions of his probably were communicated by him to David, who after Samuel's Death, and his own peaceable Settlement in his Throne, revived and perfected Samuel's Design, and took care to put it in Execution. m Heb. in their faith, or faithfulness, i. e. Either, 1. In their Office, which is called faithfulness, because this is required in that Office. Or, 2. In the Faithful Discharge of their Duty, and in obedience to the Will of God, signified to them by Revelation, or by the Spirit, as it is said of David, 1 Chron. 28. 12. which they received by Faith, and accordingly designed, and David executed it. And so this is added to shew, that this was no Humane Invention, as some might conceive, but a Divine Appointment, to which all ought to submit.

23 So they and their children had the oversight n of the gates of the house of the LORD, namely, the house of the tabernacle o, by wards p.

n To wit, in David's time. o This is added to explain what he means by the House of the Lord, not that Tabernacle which David had set up for the Ark; but that more solemn Tabernacle, which Moses had made by God's express Command and most particular Direction; which in David's time was at Gibeon; in which God was, and would be worshipped until the Temple was built. See 1 King. 3. 2, &c. 2 Chron. 1. 3, 5, &c. p i.e. By Turns or Courses, each of them at his Gate, and in his appointed time.

24 In four quarters were the porters q: toward the east, west, north, and south.

q i.e. The Chief Porters, as this is explained, v. 26.

25 And their brethren which were in their villages, were to come r after seven days s, from time to time with them t.

r From their several Villages to the Place of Worship. s Every Sabbath or Seventh Day the Courses were changed, and the New Comers were to tarry till the the next Sabbath-day. See 2 King. 11. 5, 7, 9. t i.e. To be with them, i.e. with the Chief Porters, who always abode in the Place of God's Worship, and to minister to them.

26 For these Levites, the four chief porters, were in their || set office u; and were over the || chambers and treasuries x of the house of God.

|| Or, treasuries
|| Or, store houses.

u i.e. These were constantly upon the place, and in the execution of their Office, that so they might oversee and direct the Inferiour Porters in their Work. Or, as others render the Words, agreeably to the Hebrew Text, For these (i.e. their Brethren, v. 25.) were under the charge, or committed to the trust of the four chief porters, who also were Levites, as their Brethren were; whereas the Chief of all of them was a Priest. Either way these Words contain a Reason of what was said, v. 25. why the rest were to come to these, and to be with them. x In which the Sacred Utensils, and other Treasures belonging to the Temple, were kept.

27 And they lodged round about the house of God y, because the charge was upon them, and † the opening thereof every morning pertained to them.

† Heb. were of the key. Gr.

y Therefore they were obliged to constant Residence in the Place; and were not permitted to dwell in the Villages, as their Brethren were.

28 And certain of them had the charge of the ministring vessels, that they should † bring them in and out by tale.

† Heb. bring them in by tale and carry them out by tale.

29 Some of them also were appointed to oversee the vessels, and all the || instruments of the sanctuary, and the fine flour, and the wine, and the oil, and the frankincense, and the spices.

|| Or, vessels.

30 And || some of the sons of the priests made * the ointment of the spices z.

|| Or, He * Exod. 30. 23.

z This is added to prevent a Mistake, and to shew, that although the Levites were intrusted with the keeping of this Ointment, yet none but the Priests could make it. See Exod. 30. 22, &c.

31 And Mattithiah, one of the Leyites (who was the first-born of Shallum the Korhite) had the || set office a, over the things that were made || in the pans a.

|| Or, trust
|| Or, flat pans or, slices

a i.e. Was to take care that Fine Flour might be provided and kept safely and well, that when occasion required they might make Cakes in Pans to be offered to the Lord: of which see on Lev. 2. 5.

32 And other of their brethren of the sons of the Kohathites, were over the † shew-bread b to prepare it every sabbath.

† Heb. bread of ordering b Of which see Exod. 35. 13.

33 And these c are d * the singers, chief of the fathers of the Levites, who remaining in the chambers e, were free f: for † they were imployed in that work g day and night h.

* Ch. 31. 8. † Heb. on them

c i.e. Others of the Levites; of whose several Offices he had spoken before. d Or rather, were; which is understood, and all along in the foregoing and following Verses, and again in this very Verse. e Where they waited, that they might be ready to come whensoever they were called to the Service of God in the Tabernacle. f From all Trouble and Employment, that they might wholly attend upon the proper Work. g Either composing or ordering Sacred Songs; or actually singing; or teaching others to sing them. h i.e. Continually, and particularly in the Morning and Evening, the two times appointed for solemn Service and Offerings.

34 These chief fathers of the Levites, were chief throughout their generations: these dwelt at Jerusalem i.

i Upon their return from Babylon they were not suffered to chuse their Habitations in the Country, as others were, but were obliged to settle themselves at Jerusalem, that they might constantly attend upon God's Service there, and be ready to instruct the younger Levites in their Office, as they needed or desired it.

35 And in Gibeon dwelt the father of Gibeon, Jehiel † whose wives name was Maacha k:

† Heb. whose father Gibeon

* In this and the following verses to the end of this Chapter he repeats what he said before, ch. 8. 29. &c. concerning Saul's Genealogy, that he might make way for the following History. Which is a figure called Epanalepsis, which is frequent both in Sacred and Profane Writers.

36 And his first-born son Abdon, then Zur, and Kish, and Baal, and Ner, and Nadab, 37 And Gedor, and Ahio, and Zechariah, and Mikloth.

38 And Mikloth begat Shimeam, and they also dwelt with their brethren at Jerusalem over against their brethren.

39 * And Ner begat Kish, and Kish begat Saul, and Saul begat Jonathan, and Malchi-shua, and Abinadab, and Eshbaal.

* Ch. 8.

40 And

40 And the son of Jonathan was Merib-baal: and Merib-baal begat Micah.

41 And the sons of Micah were Pithon, and Melech, 1 Ch.8.35 and Tahrea, * and Ahaz.

42 And Ahaz begat Jarah, and Jarah begat Alemeth, and Azmaveth, and Zimri: and Zimri begat Moza.

43 And Moza begat Binea: and Rephajah his son, Eleasah his son, Azel his son.

44 And Azel had six sons, whose names are these: Azrikam, Bocheru, and Ismael, and Sheariah, and Obadiah, and Hanan. These were the sons of Azel.

CHAP. X.

Saul's Overthrow and Death, 1——7. The Philistines triumph over Saul, 8——10. The Kindness of Jabesh-Gilead towards Saul and his Sons: His Sin, 11——14.

1 NOW * the Philistins fought against Israel a, and the men of Israel fled from before the Philistins, and fell down ‖ slain in mount Gilboa. * 1 Sam. 31.1,2.

a Of this and the following Verses till v. 13. see my Notes on 1 Sam. 31. where we have the same thing expressed almost in the same Words.

Or, wounded.

2 And the Philistins followed hard after Saul, and after his sons, and the Philistins slew Jonathan, and ‖ Abinadab, and Malchi-shua, the sons of Saul.

3 And the battel went sore against Saul, and the † archers † hit him: and he was wounded of the archers. Heb. Israel. Heb. bows.

4 Then said Saul to his armour-bearer, Draw thy sword, and thrust me through therewith, lest these uncircumcised come, and ‖ abuse me: but his armour-bearer would not, for he was sore afraid. So Saul took a sword, and fell upon it. Heb. and him. Or, mock

5 And when his armour-bearer saw that Saul was dead, he fell likewise on the sword, and died.

6 So Saul died, and his three sons, and all his house b died together.

b i. e. All his Children, to wit, then present with him, namely, his three sons, as it is expressed, 1 Sam. 31. 6. For it is evident that Ishbosheth and Mephibosheth were not slain. But nothing is more common in Scripture and all Authors, than to understand all of a great and most considerable part.

7 And when all the men of Israel that were in the valley c, saw that they fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead, then they forsook their cities, and fled, and the Philistins came and dwelt in them.

c Which was beneath Mount Gilboa, where the Fight was, v. 1.

8 And it came to pass on the morrow, when the Philistins came to strip the slain, that they found Saul and his sons fallen in mount Gilboa.

9 And when they had stripped him, they took his head, and his armour, and sent into the land of the Philistins round about, to carry tidings unto their idols, and to the people.

10 And they put his armour in the house of their gods, and fastened his head in the † temple of Dagon d. Heb. house.

d And his Body severed from his Head to the Wall of Bethshan, 1 Sam. 31. 10.

11 And when all Jabesh-gilead heard all that the Philistins had done to Saul:

12 They arose, all the valiant men, and took away the body of Saul, and the bodies of his sons, and brought them to Jabesh, and buried their bones under the oak in Jabesh, and fasted seven days e.

e To wit, every Day till Evening, after the manner of the Jewish Fasts.

13 So Saul died for his transgression f which he † committed against the LORD, * even against the word of the LORD g, which he kept not; and also for asking counsel of one that had a familiar spirit h, * to enquire of it i: Heb. transgression. † Sam. 13. & 23. * Sam. 7.

f The Sense is, Wonder not that Saul fell by the Hands of the Philistins, who were armed against him by his own Sin, and by God's Vengeance for it. g Against God's express, and plain, and positive Command: which is a great Aggravation of any Sin. h Which also was contrary to a manifest Command, Levit. 19. 31. and moreover, contrary to his own Conscience, which was so fully convinced hereof, that he had endeavoured the utter Extirpation of all such Persons, in pursuance of God's Law. See 1 Sam. 28. 9. i Concerning the Event of the approaching Battel.

14 And enquired not of the LORD k: therefore he slew him, and turned the kingdom unto David the son of † Jesse. Heb. Ishai.

k Obj. Saul enquired of the Lord, 1 Sam. 28. 6. Ans. He did so, but not in a right manner, not humbly and penitently, not diligently and importunately, not patiently and perseveringly: but when God would not answer him speedily, he gives it over, and goes from God to the Devil. Compare 1 Sam. 14. 18, 19. Such an inconsiderable and trifling Inquiry as Saul made, is justly accounted to be no Enquiry at all. As they are said not to eat the Lord's Supper, 1 Cor. 11. 20. who did eat it in a sinful and irregular manner.

CHAP. XI.

David made King at Hebron: by Joab's valour winneth the Castle of Zion from the Jebusites: repaireth the city of Jerusalem, 1——9. A Catalogue of his mighty men, 10——47.

1 THen * all Israel a gathered themselves to David unto Hebron, saying, Behold, we are thy bone and thy flesh. * 2 Sam. 5. 1.

a i. e. All the Tribes of Israel, as it is expressed, 2 Sam. 5. 1. i. e. their Elders, as it is here said v. 3. and Officers, and a great multitude of the Soldiers and People.

2 And moreover, † in time past, even when Saul was king, thou wast he that leddest out, and broughtest in Israel: and the LORD thy God said unto thee b, Thou shalt ‖ feed my People Israel, and thou shalt be ruler over my people Israel. † Heb. both yesterday and the third day. Or, rule.

b Or, concerning thee: for it is apparent that they knew of it; and therefore many of them opposed David hitherto against their own Consciences.

3 Therefore came all the elders of Israel to the king to Hebron, and David made a covenant with them in Hebron before the LORD, and they anointed David king over Israel, according to the word of the LORD † by * Samuel. † Heb. by the hand of. * 1 Sam. 16. 13.

4 And David and all Israel * went out to Jerusalem c, which is Jebus, where the Jebusites were, the inhabitants of the land. * 2 Sam. 5. 6.

c Of this and the three following Verses see the Notes on 2 Sam. 5. 6, &c.

5 And the inhabitants of Jebus said to David, Thou shalt not come hither. Nevertheless David took the castle of Zion, which is the city of David.

6 And David said, whosoever smiteth the Jebusite first, shall be † chief and captain. So Joab the son of Zeruiah went first up, and was chief d. † Heb. head.

d Before this he was one of David's Chief Captains, 2 Sam. 3. 22, 23. and General of the Forces of Judah; but now he is made Captain-General of all the Forces of Israel and Judah.

7 And David dwelt in the castle: therefore they called ‖ it, The city of David. ‖ That is, Zion, 2 Sam. 5. 7.

8 And he built the city round about: even from Millo round about: and Joab † repaired the rest of the city. † Heb. revived.

9 So David † waxed greater and greater: for the LORD of hosts was with him. † Heb. went on going and increasing.

10 * These also are the chief of the mighty men whom David had, (who ‖ strengthned themselves with him in his kingdom e, and with all Israel f, to make him king, according to the word of the LORD concerning Israel. * 2 Sam. 23. 8. Or, did strongly with him.

e Who helped him with all their Might to settle him in his Kingdom. f In conjunction with all those Loyal Israelites who joined with David; of whom see the next Chapter.

11 And this is the number of the mighty men, whom David had: Jashobeam ‖ an Hachmonite g the chief of the captains: he lift up his spear against three hundred, slain by him b at one time. ‖ Or, he was of Hachmoni.

g Called the Tachmonite and Adino the Eznite, 2 Sam. 23. 8. b To wit, by his own Hand, 500 more being slain by others then joyning with him, who purshed the Victory that he alone got, and in the pursuit slew 500, both which Sums make up the 800 numbred 2 Sam. 23. 8. the slaughter of all which is justly ascribed to him, because it was the Effect of his Valour. But concerning that and other Differences about these Persons or Things, see my Notes on 2 Sam. 23.

12 And after him was Eleazar the son of Dodo the Ahohite, who was one of the three mighties.

13 He was with David at ‖ Pasdammim, and there the Philistins were gathered together to battel, where was a parcel of ground full of Barley, and the people fled from before the Philistins. ‖ Or, Ephesdammim, 1 Sam. 17.

14 And they ‖ set themselves in the midst of that parcel, and delivered it, and slew the Philistins, and the LORD saved them by a great ‖ deliverance. ‖ Or, stood. ‖ Or, station.

15 Now ‖ three of the thirty captains * went down to the rock to David, into the cave of Adullam, and the host of the Philistins encamped in the valley of Rephaim. ‖ Or, three captains over the thirty. * 2 Sam. 23. 13.

16 And David was then in the hold, and the Philistins ‖ garrison was then at Beth-lehem.

17 And David longed and said, O that one would give me drink of the water of the well of Beth-lehem, that is at the gate. ‖ Or, depuy.

18 And the three brake through the host of the Philistins, and drew water out of the well of Bethlehem, that was by the gate, and took it, and brought it to David. But David would not drink of it, but poured it out to the LORD,

19 And said, My God forbid it me, that I should do this thing: shall I drink the blood of these men, † that have put their lives in jeopardy? for with the jeopardy of their lives they brought it: therefore he would not drink it. These things did these three mightiest i. † Heb. with their lives.

i Heb. these three mighties, to wit, last mentioned, whereof one was Abishai, v. 20. For the Acts of two of the first three are here passed over, being recorded 2 Sam. 23.

20 And Abishai the brother of Joab, he was chief of the three: for lifting up his spear against three hundred, he slew them k, and had a name among the three.

k He vanquished them all, and slew a great number of them; tho' it be not said that he slew them all at one time, as it is said of Jashobeam above v. 11.

21 * Of the three he was more honourable than the two, for he was their captain, howbeit he attained not unto the first three l. * 2 Sam. 23. 19, &c.

l He did not equal them in Valiant Exploits.

22 Benajah the son of Jehojada, the son of a valiant man of Kabzeel, † who had done many acts: he slew two lion-like men of Moab: also he went down, and slew a lion in a pit in a snowy day. † Heb. great acts.

23 And he slew an Egyptian, † a man of great stature, five cubits high, and in the Egyptians hand was a spear like a weavers beam, and he went down to him with a staff, and pluckt the spear out of the Egyptians hand, and slew him with his own spear. † Heb. a man of measure.

24 These things did Benajah the son of Jehojada, and had the name m among the three mighties.

m Or, had a name, i. e. was greatly reputed: For though he did not equal Abishai, one of these three, as appears by v. 20, 21. yet he did excel the third of them, and all the thirty here following.

25 Behold, he was honourable among the thirty, but attained not to the first three; and David set him over his † guard n. † Heb. hearing.

n Heb. his hearing or obedience, i. e. those that were always ready to hear and obey or execute his Commands, to wit, the Guards of his Body. Gesenius.

26 Also the valiant men of the armies, were Asahel the brother of Joab, Elhanan the son of Dodo of Bethlehem:

27 Shammoth the ‖ Hararite, Helez, the Pelonite, ‖ Or, Harorite, 2 Sam. 23. 25.

28 Ira the son of Ikkesh the Tekoite, Abiezer the Anthothite, 29 Sibbecai the Hushathite, Ilai the Ahohite,

30 Maharai the Netophathite, Heled the son of Baanah the Netophathite,

31 Ithai the son of Ribai of Gibeah, that pertained to the children of Benjamin, Benajah the Pirathonite, 32 Hurai of the brooks o of Gaash, Abiel the Arbathite, o Or, of the valleys, i. e. of one of them: the Plural Number for the Singular: so called because he was born or bred there.

33 Azmaveth the Baharumite, Eliahba the Shaalbonite, 34 The sons of Hashem p the Gizonite, Jonathan the son of Shage the Hararite, p Or, or Jashem, to wit, Jonathan here following, and Shammah here omitted, but expressed, 2 Sam. 23. 32, 33.

35 Ahiam the son of Sacar the Hararite, Eliphal the son of Ur, 36 Hepher the Mecherathite, Ahijah the Pelonite,

37 Hezro the Carmelite, Naari the son of Ezbai,

38 Joel the brother of Nathan h, Mibhar ‖ the son of Haggeri, Or, the Haggerite.

q Either, 1. The same who is called Ittai the son of Nathan of Bobah, being possibly his Brother by Birth and Nature, and called his Son by Adoption, or right of Succession to his Estate: or called his Brother at large for his near Kinsman, and his Son for his Nephew: Or, 2. Another, who, upon the Death of the former, was put in his stead.

39 Zelek the Ammonite, Naharai the Berothite, the armour-bearer of Joab the son of Zerujah, 40 Ira the Ithrite, Gareb the Ithrite,

41 Uriah the Hittite r, Zabad the son of Ahlai, r The last of that Catalogue in 2 Sam. 23. 39. But here some others are added to the Number, because though they were not of the Thirty, yet they were Men of great Valour and Renown amongst David's Commanders.

42 Adina the son of Shiza, the Reubenite, a captain of the Reubenites, and thirty s with him.

s Thirty Captains who were under him as their Colonel.

43 Hanan the son of Maacah, and Jehoshaphat the Mithnite, 44 Uzziah the Ashterathite, Shama and Jehiel the sons of Hothan the Aroerite t, t So called possibly because his Station and Quarters were upon the River Aroer beyond Jordan, being placed there for the Defence of those Parts.

45 Jediael the ‖ son of Shimri, and Joha his brother, the Tirzite, ‖ Or, Shimrite.

46 Eliel the Mahavite, and Jerimai, and Joshaviah, the sons of Elnaam, and Ithmah the Moabite u.

u So called, either because he was by Birth a Moabite, though now proselyted to the True Religion: or from some eminent Service done by him against the Moabites, as among the Romans Scipio was called Asiatick and African, because of his great Atchievements and Victories over those Parts and People.

47 Eliel, and Obed, and Jaasiel the Mesobaite.

See Jos. 3. 15. & 4. 18. Jer. 49. 19. This is noted either as a Description of the Time when this was done, it being usual with Historians to note the Circumstances of great Actions; or as an aggravation of the Fact. And possibly these being Men of great Nimbleness and Dexterity, did swim over Jordan, through their ardent Desire to help their Brethren, and to fight with their Enemies. m i. e. The People that lived in the Valleys or Deserts beyond Jordan, who, as it seems, when Saul was engaged against the Philistins, took that advantage to fall upon the Israelites beyond Jordan. n Either, 1. the People that lived more Eastward and remote from Jordan, and those who lived more Westward or nearer to it. Then David received them: and made them captains of the band y.

u Not only saving Graces, but other Heroical and generous Motions are ascribed to God's Spirit, which here fitted up in him a more than ordinary greatness and presentness of Mind and Resolution. x We have observed God's singular and gracious Care of thee, and Kindness to thee, and if we should oppose thee, we should be Fighters against God and his Word and Providence. y i. e. Of those Forces which they brought with them. 32 And of the children of Issachar, which were men that had understanding of the times p, to know what Israel ought to do: the heads of them were two hundred, and all their brethren were at their commandment.

p Either, 1. skill in the Stars, and several Seasons and Changes of the Air; which might be of good use in Husbandry, to which this Tribe was addicted, Gen. 49. 14. Deut. 33. 18. Or rather, 2. By the great Authority and Command which they had over all their Brethren upon this account, as it here follows. 3. Because this is so considerable a Circumstance in all Humane, and especially in publick Affairs, that the Success or Disappointment of them depends very much upon the right or wrong Timing of them, and therefore this is a very fit expression to signifie their great Prudence. And particularly they shewed this point of their Wisdom at this time; for as they had adhered to Saul whilst he lived, as knowing the time was not yet come for David to take Possession of the Kingdom: and as they could not join themselves to David, whilst Abner lived, and was potent, and had the Command of the other Tribes wherewith they were encompassed, so as soon as he was dead, and they had opportunity to declare themselves, they owned David for their King. 4. Or, 2. To the same particular persons, they were each of them sincerely Loyal to David, and did not dissemble with David; pretending to be for him, whilst in their hearts they favoured Saul's Family; which possibly some of those who came to Hebron did. Or this is particularly noted of this Tribe, because they lay under some suspicion in this matter; as also some of the other Tribes did; and therefore the like testimony is given to all of them, v. 38.

† Heb. with a heart.

38 All these men of war, that could keep rank, came with a perfect heart to Hebron, to make David king over all Israel: and all the rest also of Israel were of one heart t to make David King.

t To wit, after the death of Abner and Ishbosheth.

39 And there they were with David, three days, eating and drinking: for their brethren had prepared for them.

‖ Or, and all sort of meat.

u That lived not far from Hebron, the place where they now were. x This is added by way of amplification and explication, to shew that he did not understand this of those Israelites only who lived in the Neighbourhood of Hebron, but of those that lived at some distance, yet were nearer to Hebron, than some of the other Tribes here named. y Which, though not commonly used in this manner, nor fit for such purposes, now they so used, because the quantity of Provisions which they brought, was very great, as the Numbers of the People at Hebron were, and Horses they had few in Israel, and most of their Asses, and Camels, and Mules here mentioned probably were used to carry divers Men, or Women and Children, to this great, and publick, and happy Solemnity. z Partly because their Civil Wars were wholly ended, and they were all united under one King: and partly because they had now a King of Eminent Valour, and Piety, and Felicity, and therefore expected to be saved from all their Enemies and Calamities, as they were.

David fetcheth the Ark from Kirjath-jearim, with great Solemnity, ——8. Uzza being smitten, the Ark is left at the House of Obed-Edom, 9 —— 14.

b i. e. Unto all the People then assembled with him at Hebron. This Story is mentioned in another place in 2 Sam. 5. 8 &c. even after the taking of Jerusalem and the two first fights with the Philistins, whereas here it is placed before the latter, and there is no mention here of the former. The matter may be this conceived: There being now a great and general concourse of all Israel, and David being now Established in his Throne with universal consent and applause, he begins with God, and his first Thoughts and Cares are about Religion and the Ark, then the great Instrument and Ornament of it, and takes the Opportunity of this Assembly to desire their Advice and concurrence with him in it, that the Ark might be brought either to Hebron, which then was the Royal City, or to Jerusalem, which as probably he told them, he was resolved, to Refuge, and doubted not, by God's Help, to take. After this was proposed by the King and accepted by the People, this great Assembly was dismissed, only some of them David referred to go with him against Jerusalem, which accordingly he did, and succeeded in his Enterprize, as is related, 1 Sam. 5. But before this Resolution could be executed, the Philistines came and fought twice with David, as is related 1 Sam. 5. 17, &c. and here 14. 8, &c. And after they were repulsed with great loss and shame, David sets upon the Execution of that which before he had resolved, and in order to it calls another General Assembly of the People, i. e. If this Translation of the Ark be pleasing to God, which I purpose to enquire by the Urim after the manner, and to act accordingly. c Heb. let us break unto and send, i. e. let us send Messengers speedily and universally to the several Tribes. We are now in some sort pent up in a Corner of the Land in Hebron, but let us break up the Assembly and disperse our selves, and send far and near about this Work. It is a Metaphor from the Sea or Rivers, which, when the Banks are Broken, do suddenly overflow the whole adjoyning Country. d By which word he minds them of the great Desolations and Destructions which God for their sins had hitherto made among them; and therefore adviseth that Remnant whom God had so graciously saved in and from those dreadful Ruines, that they would more seriously set themselves to seek God than they had formerly done.

e Heb. lying or remaining.

3 And let us † bring again the Ark of our God to us: for we enquired not at it f in the days of Saul g.

f The Ark was then neglected, and the generality of the People either lived in the gross neglect of this solemn worship of God; or contented themselves with going to Gilgal and offering Sacrifices there; not caring, though the Ark, the Soul of the Tabernacle, was in another place. g So it was in the days of Samuel: but it is rather charged upon Saul than him: partly because Samuel was exercised with continual Wars or expectation of Wars with the Philistins all the time of his Regency, and therefore wanted the Opportunity to bring back the Ark, which Saul had and neglected: partly because Samuel took care to stir up and maintain Religion among them by other Means and in an extraordinary manner; whereas this was but one Branch of Saul's Impiety, and was joyned with a contempt of all Religion, as the History of his Life shews: and partly because it was more proper to accuse himself and the present Generation who were guilty of this neglect, than to rake into the Ashes of their deceased Progenitors, and lay his Charge against those who were dead and gone some good while since.

4 And all the congregation said that they would do so: for the thing was right in the eyes of all the people h.

10 And David enquired of God, saying, Shall I go up against the Philistins? and wilt thou deliver them into mine hand? and the Lord said unto him, Go up, for I will deliver them into thine hand.

11 So they came up to Baal-perazim, and David smote them there. Then David said, God hath broken in upon mine Enemies by mine hand, like the breaking forth of waters: therefore they called the name of that place ‖ Baal-perazim.

‖ Or, listmen.

5 Of the sons of Kohath e; Uriel the chief, and his brethren an hundred and twenty.

e To wit, of Amram or Izhar, Kohath's Sons, Numb. 3. 27. Otherwise Elizaphan, v. 8. and Hebron, v. 9. and Uzziel, v. 10. were Kohath's Children; of which see Exod. 6. 17, 18, 22.

6 Of the sons of Merari; Asaiah the chief, and his brethren two hundred and twenty.

7 Of the sons of Gershom; Joel the chief, and his brethren an hundred and thirty.

8 Of the sons of Elizaphan; Shemaiah the chief, and his brethren two hundred.

9 Of the sons of Hebron; Eliel the chief, and his brethren fourscore.

10 Of the sons of Uzziel; Amminadab the chief, and his brethren an hundred and twelve.

11 And David called for Zadok and Abiathar the priests f, and for the Levites, for Uriel, Asaiah, and Joel, Shemaiah, and Eliel, and Amminadab, f i. e. The Chief Priests, whether the High-Priest, and both the second Priest, see Numb. 3. 32.

12 And said unto them, Ye are the chief of the fathers of the Levites: sanctifie your selves g, both ye and your brethren, that ye may bring up the ark of the LORD God of Israel unto the place that I have prepared for it.

g By solemn Purification and Preparation of your selves, both in Soul and Body. See on Exod. 19. 10. 15.

13 For * because ye did it not at the first h, the LORD our God made a breach upon us, for that we sought him not after the due order k.

* 2 Sam. 6. 3. Ch. 13. 7.

h Because you did not sanctifie and prepare your selves by solemn Prayer, and seeking Counsel from God, and by a serious consideration of God's Will as to the Manner of carrying it; which it was your Duty more than others to observe and see it executed: i He takes a part of the guilt to himself, because it was his Duty, as well as theirs, diligently to read the Law and word of God, and to see it executed, and their oversight did not excuse his. k According to the Rules which he appointed.

14 So the Priests and the Levites sanctified themselves, to bring up the ark of the LORD God of Israel.

15 And the children of the Levites l bare the ark of God upon their shoulders, with the staves thereon, as * Moses commanded, according to the word of the LORD.

* Exod. 25. 14. Numb. 4. 15.

16 And David spake to the chief of the Levites, to appoint their brethren to be the singers, with instruments of musick, psalteries, and harps, and cymbals, † sounding, by lifting up the voice with joy.

† Heb. causing a voice.

17 So the Levites appointed * Heman the son of Joel: and of his brethren, * Asaph the son of Berechiah, and of the sons of Merari their brethren, * Ethan the son of Kushaiah.

* Ch. 6. 33. * Ch. 6. 39. * Ch. 6. 44.

18 And with them their brethren of the second degree m, Zechariah, Ben, and Jaaziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, Eliab, and Benaiah, and Maasiah, and Mattithiah, and Eliphalet, and Mikniah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel the porters n.

m The first rank or degree of Sacred Musicians being those three famous Persons named v. 17. next unto whom were these here named. n Who were to keep the Doors of the Tabernacle and Courts, but withal were instructed in Musick and singing, that when they were free from Attendance upon their proper Office, they might not be idle nor unprofitable persons in God's House.

19 So the singers, Heman, Asaph, and Ethan, were appointed to sound with cymbals of brass, 20 And Zechariah, and Aziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, and Eliab, and Maasiah, and Benaiah, with psalteries on Alamoth p.

o In this Catalogue Ben is omitted, who was mentioned v. 18. Yet others think him to be the same who is called Azariah, v. 21. But Ben might be some other person, who was indeed appointed for this Work, as is related, v. 17, 18. and yet he might be taken off by death or sickness, or some sudden and extraordinary Accident which hindred his Execution of the Place and Work allotted for him, which might force the chief of the Levites to appoint some other in his stead, when they came to put their Institution in practice, as here they did. p Or, mute (as that particle is elsewhere used) Alamoth which is thought to be the name of an Instrument of Musick; or of a certain Tune, or Note, or part in Musick. The certain signification of it is not now known, nor is it necessary for us to know it. And the like may be said of Sheminith, v. 21.

21 And Mattithiah, and Eliphaleh, and Mikneiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel, and Azaziah, with harps ‖ on the Sheminith q to excel r.

q See on v. 20. r Which word may be here added to note the Excellency of that Instrument, or Note, or part of Musick; or that there was a greater Exaltation or Elevation of the Voice than in the former.

22 And Chenaniah chief of the Levites ‖ was for † song: he instructed about the song, because he was skilful.

‖ Or, to the carriage: so Ch. 35. 3. † Heb. lifting up.

s He was for lifting up either, 1. of the Ark: he was for carriage of the Ark, being appointed to instruct or direct the time and manner of carrying the Ark, and when they should make a stand or a change in the bearers. Or rather, 2. of the Voice: he was the Moderator of the Musick, instructing them when and how to lift up their Voices, or change their Notes, or make their Score, which best agrees with the following Reason, because he was skilful: For this required far more Skill than the carriage of the Ark, which any man of common discretion could easily govern; and with v. 27. where this same Chenaniah is joyned with the Singers.

23 And Berechiah and Elkanah were door-keepers for the ark s.

s They were appointed to keep the Door of the Tent in which the Ark was to be put and kept, that no unallowed Person might press in and touch it; and in like manner they were to attend upon the Ark in the War and to guard it from the press and touch of profane Hands; for which end these two were before the Ark, as their other two Brethren mentioned in the close of v. 24. came after it, that so it might be Guarded on all sides: which, how necessary it was to be done, sufficiently appears from the danger of coming too near the Ark, or to look into it, which was exemplified in the Bethshemites, 1 Sam. 6. 19.

24 And Shebaniah, and Jehoshaphat, and Nathaneel, and Amasai, and Zechariah, and Benaiah, and Eliezer the Priests * did blow with the trumpets before the ark of God: and Obed-edom and Jehiah were door-keepers for the ark.

* Numb. 10. 8.

25 So * David and the elders of Israel, and the captains over thousands, went to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD, out of the house of Obed-edom with joy.

* 1 Sam. 6. 13. 2 Sam. 6. 12. Or.

26 And it came to pass when God helped the Levites u that bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, that they offered seven Bullocks, and seven rams.

u Either, 1. by giving them strength to carry their Burden: or rather, 2. by encouraging them in their Work with some comfortable Sign of his Presence with them, and approbation of their work and manner of carrying the Ark. When they saw that he did not cut off any of the persons employed, as he had done before, but spared and favoured them; which they perceived when they had gone six paces, as appears by 2 Sam. 6. 13.

† Or, carrying. 2 Sam. 6. 13. Or.

27 And David was clothed with a robe of fine linen x, and all the Levites that bare the ark, and the singers, and Chenaniah the master of the † song with the singers. David also had upon him an ephod of linen.

x i. e. With a Linen Ephod, as it is explained in the close of this verse, where this circumstance is repeated, because it was a notable and unusual thing for David, who was no Levite, to wear a Levitical Garment. See of this and the following verses the Notes on 2 Sam. 6. 14, 15, 16.

28 Thus all Israel brought up the ark of the covenant of the LORD with shouting, and with sound of the cornet, and with trumpets, and with cymbals, making a noise with psalteries and harps.

29 And it came to pass as the ark of the covenant of the LORD came to the city of David, that Michal the daughter of Saul, looking out at a window, saw king David dancing and playing, and she despised him in her heart.

CHAP. XVI.

David's Festival Sacrifice and Alms. The Psalm of Thanksgiving, sung by a Quire, and the People said Amen, 1——36. Ministers, Porters, Priests, and Musicians appointed to attend the Ark continually, 37——43.

1 SO * they brought back the Ark of God a, and set it in the midst of the tent that David had pitched for it: and they offered burnt-sacrifices and peace-offerings before God.

* 2 Sam. 6. 17.

a Of these three first Verses see on 2 Sam. 6. 17, 18, 19.

2 And when David had made an end of offering the burnt-offerings, and the peace-offerings, he blessed the people in the name of the LORD.

3 And he dealt to every one of Israel, both man and woman, to every one a loaf of bread, and a good piece of flesh, and a flagon of wine.

4 And he appointed certain of the Levites to minister before the ark of the LORD, and to record, and to thank, and praise the LORD God of Israel:

5 Asaph the chief, and next to him Zechariah, Jeiel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel † with psalteries and with harps; but Asaph made a sound with cymbals;

† Heb. and in the hand of.

6 Benaiah also and Jahaziel the priests, with trumpets continually before the ark of the covenant of God.

7 Then on that day David ‖ delivered first this psalm b to thank the LORD into the hand of Asaph and his brethren.

‖ Or, appointed to serve the Lord by the hand of Asaph.

b Whereby it is implied, that after this he delivered many other Psalms successively into their Hands, to be sung by them to the praise of God in his publick Service. See 2 Sam. 23. 1. 2 Chron. 29. 30. As for the matter of this Psalm, I shall defer the Explication of it till I come to the Book of Psalms, where we shall find it in the same words, in Psal. 96. and 105.

8 * Give thanks unto the LORD, call upon his name: make known his deeds among the people.

* Psal. 105. 1.

9 Sing unto him, sing psalms unto him, talk ye of all his wondrous works.

10 Glory ye in his holy Name, let the heart of them rejoyce that seek the LORD.

11 Seek the LORD and his strength, seek his face continually.

12 Remember his marvellous works that he hath done, his wonders, and the judgments of his mouth.

13 O ye seed of Israel his servant, ye children of Jacob his chosen ones.

14 He is the LORD our God, his judgments are in all the earth.

15 Be ye mindful always of his covenant: the word which he commanded to a thousand generations.

25 For great is the LORD, and greatly to be praised: he also is to be feared above all gods.

26 For all the * gods of the people are idols: but the LORD made the heavens.

* Lev. 19. 4.

27 Glory and honour are in his presence: strength and gladness are in his place.

28 Give unto the LORD, ye kindreds of the people; give unto the LORD glory and strength.

29 Give unto the LORD the glory due unto his name; bring an offering, and come before him, worship the LORD in the beauty of holiness.

30 Fear before him, all the earth: the world also shall be stable, that it not be moved.

31 Let the heavens be glad, and let the earth rejoice: and let men say among the nations, The LORD reigneth.

32 Let the sea roar, and the fulness thereof: let the fields rejoyce, and all that is therein.

33 Then shall the trees of the wood sing out at the presence of the LORD, because he cometh to judge the earth.

34 * O give thanks to the LORD, for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.

* Psal. 107. 1. & 118. 1. & 136. 1.

35 And say ye, Save us, O God of our salvation, and gather us together, and deliver us from the heathen c, that we may give thanks to thy holy name, and glory in thy praise.

c This might seem an improper and unreasonable Prayer for David's time, when the Israelites were not yet scattered amongst the Heathen, but indeed it was not so: partly because they had already been sadly divided by a Civil War among themselves; and though they were now externally and visibly united under David, yet he might justly think that there were some who yet retained in their Hearts their old Leaven, their Hatred of him, and their affection to Saul, which might hereafter break forth when occasion was offered, as it did, 2 Sam. 16. 8. and therefore he justly prays, that they may be gathered and united together in hearty Love as well as in outward Shew: and partly, because this Psalm or Prayer was made by David for the use of the Church, not only in that present time, but in future Ages, in which David foresaw by the Spirit of Prophecy, or by consideration of those Ancient and Sacred Predictions, Deut. 31. and 32. that the Israelites would one time or other forsake God, and for their Apostacy be dispersed among the Heathens, when they should have great and particular need of this Prayer.

36 Blessed be the LORD God of Israel for ever and ever: and all * the people said, Amen, and praised the LORD.

* Deut. 27. 15.

37 So he left there d, before the ark of the covenant of the LORD, Asaph and his brethren, to minister before the ark continually, as every days work required:

Ark and by the High-Priest, Exod. 28. 12, 20, 21. who now was Abiathar; who therefore abode here with the Ark, when Zadok was left at Gibeon.

40 To offer burnt-offerings unto the LORD upon the altar of the burnt-offering continually * || morning and evening, and to do according to all that is written in the law of the LORD, which he commanded Israel:

41 And with them Heman and Jeduthun, and the rest that were chosen, who were expressed by name g, to give thanks to the LORD, because his mercy endureth for ever:

42 And with them Heman and Jeduthun with trumpets and cymbals, for those that should make a sound, and with musical instruments of God h: and the sons of Jeduthun were † porters.

CHAP. XVII.

David designing to build God an House: Nathan at first approveth of it: After by the Word of God forbiddeth him, 1——10. Promising him Blessings and Benefits in his Seed, 11——15. David's Prayer and Thanksgiving, 16——22.

* 2 Sam. 7. 1, &c.

NOw * it came to pass a as David sat in his house, that David said to Nathan the prophet, Lo, I dwell in an house of cedars, but the ark of the covenant of the LORD remaineth under curtains.

a This whole Chapter is explained, 2 Sam. 7. where the same things are recorded with very little variation of the Words; which also hath been considered in my Notes upon that Chapter; to which I refer the Reader, taking notice here but of some very few things.

2 Then Nathan said unto David, Do all that is in thine heart, for God is with thee.

3 And it came to pass the same night, that the word of God came to Nathan, saying,

4 Go and tell David my servant, Thus saith the LORD, Thou shalt not build me an house to dwell in.

5 For I have not dwelt in an house since the day that I brought up Israel, unto this day, but † have gone from tent to tent, and from one tabernacle to another.

† Heb. have been.

6 Wheresoever I have walked with all Israel, spake I a word to any of the judges of Israel, (whom I commanded to feed my people) saying, Why have ye not built me an house of cedars?

7 Now therefore thus shalt thou say unto my servant David, Thus saith the LORD of hosts, I took thee from the sheep-cote, even † from following the sheep, that thou shouldest be ruler over my people Israel:

† Heb. from after.

8 And I have been with thee whithersoever thou hast walked, and have cut off all thine enemies from before thee, and have made thee a name like the name of the great men that are in the earth.

9 Also I will ordain a place for my people Israel, and will plant them, and they shall dwell in their place, and shall be moved no more, neither shall the children of wickedness b waste them any more: (as at the beginning, b Such as are devoted and wholly given up to Wickedness; elsewhere called Children of Belial.

|| Or, at.

10 And || since the time that I commanded judges to be over my people Israel) moreover, I will subdue all thine enemies. Furthermore, I tell thee, that the LORD will build thee an house.

11 And it shall come to pass, when thy days be expired, that thou must go to be with thy fathers, that I will raise up thy seed after thee, which shall be of thy sons, and I will establish his kingdom.

12 He shall build me an house, and I will establish his throne for ever.

* 2 Sam. 7. 14.

13 * I will be his father, and he shall be my son, and I will not take my mercy away from him, as I took it from him that was before thee.

14 But I will settle him in mine house c, and in my kingdom d for ever, and his throne shall be established for evermore.

c In my Dwelling-place, either, 1. In Jerusalem, the place where God had put his Name for ever, 2 King. 21. 4, 7. 2 Chron. 6. 5, 6. Compare 1 King. 11. 36. and 15. 4. Or, 2. In the Temple, which is more properly and constantly called God's House; and so this Expression agrees but very imperfectly with Solomon, or his Successors, who might be said to be settled in God's House, because they were settled near it, and in some sort set over it, because they were to take care that the Priests and others should perform their Offices and God's Service in it; but strictly and properly agrees only to Christ, to whom alone that Promise also of an Everlasting Establishment in this Kingdom belongs, as was noted on 2 Sam. 7. And this Expression seems to be most emphatically added, to signifie, that that Person in whom all those Promises should be fully and perfectly accomplished, to wit, the Messias, should be settled not only in the King's Throne, as others of David's Successors were, but also in God's House or Temple; and consequently, that he should be a Priest as well as a King; which Mystery was more clearly revealed to David, Psal. 110. 1, 2, 4. and may be intimated, though obscurely (as was fit and usual in that state of the Church) in these Words. d Either, 1. In the Kingdom of Israel, which God calls his Kingdom, because he was in a special manner their King and Governour, having raised them up and formed them into a Kingdom, and given them that Protection and Assistance which Kings owe to their Kingdoms; and because he expected and required from them, what Kings do from their People, that they should be wholly governed by his Laws, and devoted to his Service. Or, 2. In God's Kingdom in a more large and general Sence. And this, as well as the former Phrase, may seem singularly to belong to the Messiah, who was not only to be the King of Israel, but also of all Nations, as was foretold even in the Old Testament, as Psal. 2. 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12. and 22. 27, 28. and 72. 11. Isa. 2. 4. Hagg. 2. 7. and so this may be an Intimation of that great Mystery which is more fully revealed in the New Testament, to wit, that Christ is the Head, or King, or Governour of all God's Church, consisting of Jews and Gentiles, and of all Nations, and indeed of all Creatures, the Angels not excepted; all which is God's Kingdom, and by him given to his Son our Blessed Lord Christ. And for the signification of these great things there is so great and remarkable an Alteration of the Phrase here from what it is in 2 Sam. 7. where speaking to David, he constantly calls it his (i. e. David's) Kingdom, and his House, v. 12, 13, 16, 19, 25, 27. for which he here saith my House, and my Kingdom, which also he distinguisheth from his Throne, which is mentioned in the next Clause of this Verse, and in v. 11, 12. But these things I submit to the Judicious Reader.

15 According to all these words, and according to all this vision, so did Nathan speak unto David.

16 And David the king came, and sat e before the LORD, and said, Who am I, O LORD God, and what is mine house, that thou hast brought me hitherto?

e Which may note either his Gesture; or his Continuance there till he had finished this following Prayer.

17 And yet this was a small thing in thine eyes, O God, for thou hast also spoken of thy servant's house for a great while to come, and hast regarded me according to the estate of a man of high degree, O LORD God f.

f i. e. Thou hast treated me as if I had been born the Son of a great Monarch, and not a poor Shepherd, as indeed I was, O Lord God. Oth. Thus, Thou hast regarded or respected me as the Type or Figure, or according to the Rank or Order of that excellent Man, or Man of high Degree, who is also the Lord God, i. e. of the Messiah, who is God-Man. i. e. Thou hast given to me and my House an Everlasting Kingdom, which is the peculiar Priviledge of that great Person the Messiah, Dan. 2. 44. and 7. 13, 14.

18 What can David † speak more to thee for the honour of thy servant? for thou knowest thy servant.

† Heb. add.

19 O LORD for thy servants sake g, and according to thine own heart hast thou done all this greatness, in making known all these † great things.

g In 2 Sam. 7. 21. it is, for thy words sake, i. e. for the sake of thy Word and Promise made to thy Servant: as that Phrase, for David's sake, is oft thus understood, for God's Covenants sake made with David.

20 O LORD, there is none like thee, neither is there any God besides thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears.

21 And what one nation in the earth is like thy people Israel, whom God went to redeem to be his own people, to make thee a name of † greatness and terribleness, † by driving out Nations from before thy people, whom thou hast redeemed out of Egypt?

† Heb. greatnesses and terrible things.

22 For thy people Israel didst thou make thine own people for ever, and thou LORD, becamest their God.

23 Therefore now LORD, let the thing that thou hast spoken concerning thy servant, and concerning his house, be established for ever, and do as thou hast said.

† Heb. let it be established.

24 Let it even be established, that thy name may be magnified for ever, saying, The LORD of hosts is the God of Israel, even a God to Israel h, and let the house of David thy servant be established before thee.

h Or, The Lord of Hosts, the God of Israel, is a God to Israel, i. e. He is really to his People that which he hath filled himself, their God, having taken such care of them, and shewed such Mercy and Truth to them, as did fully answer that Title.

† Heb. the eye of thy servant.

25 For thou, O my God, † hast told thy servant that thou wilt build him an house: therefore thy servant hath found in his heart to pray before thee.

26 And now, LORD, (thou art God, and hast promised this goodness unto thy servant.)

|| Or, is of thy servant, that it may be before thee for ever: for thou blessest, O LORD, and it shall be blessed for ever.

27 Now therefore || let it please thee to bless the house

b For which 2 Sam. 8. 8. Betah and Berothai are mentioned. 10 He sent Hadoram his son to king David, || to enquire of his welfare, and || to congratulate him, because he had fought against Hadarezer, and smitten him, (for Hadarezer † had warred with Tou) and with him all manner of vessels of gold, and silver, and brass.

10. From 2 Sam. 8. 10. Or, inquire. † Heb. to bless. † Heb. was the man of war.

11 Them also king David dedicated unto the LORD, with the silver and the gold that he brought from all these nations; from Edom, and from Moab, and from the children of Ammon, and from the Philistins, and from Amalek.

12 Moreover, Abishai the son of Zerujah slew of the Edomites in the valley of salt, eighteen thousand.

13 And he put garisons in Edom, and all the Edomites became Davids servants. Thus the LORD preserved David whithersoever he went.

14 So David reigned over all Israel, and executed judgment and justice among all his people.

|| Or, remembrancer, 2 Sam. 8. 17. || Called Ahimelech in Sam. || Called Seraiah in Sam. and Shisha. 1 King. 4. 3.

15 And Joab the son of Zerujah was over the host, and Jehoshaphat the son of Ahilud, || recorder.

16 And Zadok the son of Ahitub, and || Abimelech the son of Abiathar, were the priests, and || Shausha was scribe.

17 And Benajah the son of Jehojada was over the Cherethite, and the Pelethite: and the sons of David were chief † about the king.

CHAP. XIX.

David's Messengers to Hanun are villanously intreated, 1——5. The Ammonites and Syrians are overcome by Joab and Abishai, 6——15. By David himself, 16——19.

2 Sam. 10. 1, &c.

NOw * it came to pass after this, that Nahash the king of the children of Ammon died a, and his son reigned in his stead.

a Of all the Contents of this Chapter see the notes on 2 Sam. 10. where we have the same things, and almost the very same words.

2 And David said, I will shew kindness unto Hanun the son of Nahash, because his father shewed kindness to me. And David sent messengers to comfort him concerning his father: so the servants of David came into the land of the children of Ammon, to Hanun, to comfort him.

† Heb. in thine eyes doth David.

3 But the princes of the children of Ammon said to Hanun, † Thinkest thou that David doth honour thy father that he hath sent comforters unto thee? are not his servants come unto thee for to search, and to overthrow, and to spie out the land.

4 Wherefore Hanun took Davids servants, and shaved them, and cut off their garments in the midst hard by their buttocks, and sent them away.

5 Then there went certain, and told David how the men were served. And he sent to meet them (for the men were greatly ashamed) and the king said, tarry at Jericho until your beards be grown, and then return.

† Heb. to stink.

6 And when the children of Ammon saw that they had made themselves † odious to David, Hanun and the children of Ammon sent a thousand talents of silver to hire them chariots and horsemen out of Mesopotamia, and out of Syria-maachah, and out of Zobah.

7 So they hired thirty and two thousand chariots b, and the king of Maachah and his people, who came and pitched before Medeba. And the children of Ammon gathered themselves together from their cities, and came to battel.

b i. e. 32000 Men fighting from or with Chariots, as that word is elsewhere used: of which see my Notes on 1 Sam. 13. 5. And this Interpretation seems the more probable by comparing this place with 2 Sam. 10. 6. where this Army is said to consist of 20000 footmen, and 12000 men of Ishtob; which make up these 32000 men, who fought partly from Chariots, and partly on foot with Chariots, or attending upon the Chariots, as the ancient manner of fighting was. And here v. 6. this Army is made up of Chariots and Horsemen; where, except the chariots be understood of footmen, there were no footmen in the Army, which is unusual and incredible.

8 And when David heard of it, he sent Joab, and all the host of the mighty men.

9 And the children of Ammon came out, and put the battel in aray before the gate of the city: and the kings that were come, were by themselves in the field.

|| Or, the face of the battel was. † Heb. the head of the battel. || Or, young men.

10 Now when Joab saw that † the battel was set against him, before and behind, he chose out of all the || choice of Israel, and put them in aray against the Syrians.

11 And the rest of the people he delivered unto the hand of † Abishai his brother, and they set themselves in aray against the children of Ammon.

12 And he said, If the Syrians bee too strong for me, then thou shalt help me: but if the children of Ammon be too strong for thee, then I will help thee.

13 Be of good courage, and let us behave our selves valiantly for our people, and for the cities of our God: and let the LORD do that which is good in his sight.

14 So Joab and the people that were with him, drew nigh before the Syrians, unto the battel; and they fled before him.

15 And when the children of Ammon saw that the Syrians were fled, they likewise fled before Abishai his brother, and entred into the city. Then Joab came to Jerusalem.

|| That is, Euphrates. || Or, Shobach, went before them.

16 And when the Syrians saw that they were put to the worse before Israel, they sent messengers and drew forth the Syrians that were beyond the || river: and || Shophach, the captain of the host of Hadarezer, 2 Sam. 10. 16.

17 And it was told David, and he gathered all Israel, and passed over Jordan, and came upon them, and set the battel in aray against them, so when David had put the battel in aray against the Syrians, they fought with him.

18 But the Syrians fled before Israel, and David slew of the Syrians seven thousand men, which fought in chariots, and forty thousand footmen c, and killed Shophach the captain of the host.

c How this agrees with 2 Sam. 10. 18. see in the Notes on that place.

19 And when the servants of Hadarezer saw that they were put to the worse before Israel, they made peace with David, and became his servants: neither would the Syrians help the children of Ammon any more.

CHAP. XX.

Rabbah besieged, spoiled, and tortured by David, 1——3. Three Giants slain, 4——8.

* 2 Sam. 11. 1. † Heb. to smite. || Or, at the return of the year.

AND * it came to pass, that † after the year was expired, at the time that kings go out to battel, Joab led forth the power of the army, and wasted the country of the children of Ammon a, and came and besieged Rabbah, (but David tarried at Jerusalem) and Joab smote Rabbah, and destroyed it.

a Of this first verse see my Notes on 2 Sam. 11. 1. and of v. 2, 3. on 2 Sam. 12. 30, 31. and of the rest of this Chapter on 2 Sam. 21. 15, &c. where also an account is given of the seeming differences between this and that Relation.

* 2 Sam. 12. 30. † Heb. the weight of.

2 And David * took the crown of their king from off his head, and found it † to weigh a talent of gold, and there were precious stones in it, and it was set upon

Davids head; and he brought also exceeding much spoil out of the city.

3 And he brought out the people that were in it, and cut them with saws and with harrows of iron, and with axes: even so deale David with all the cities of the children of Ammon. And David and all the people returned to Jerusalem.

4 And it came to pass after this, * that there ‖ arose † war at ‖ Gezer with the Philistins; at which time Sibbechai the Hushathite slew ‖ Sippai that was of the children of ‖ the giant, and they were subdued.

5 And there was war again with the Philistins, and Elhanan the son of ‖ Jair slew Lahmi the brother of Goliah the Gittite, whose spear-staff was like a weavers beam.

6 And yet again * there was war at Gath, where was † a man of great stature, whose fingers and toes were four and twenty, six on each hand, and six on each foot: and he also was † the son of the giant.

7 But when he ‖ defied Israel, Jonathan the son of ‖ Shimea, Davids brother slew him.

8 These were born unto the giant in Gath: and they fell by the hand of David, and by the hand of his servants.

CHAP. XXI.

David numbreth the people, 1——6. He repenteth: of three Judgments propounded, he chooseth the Pestilence: and why, 7——13. David, by God's direction, buildeth an Altar, and sacrificeth: the Plague is stayed, 14——30.

AND * ‖ Satan stood up a against Israel, and provoked David to number Israel.

a Heb. stood, to wit, before the Lord and his Tribunal to accuse David and Israel, and to beg God's permission to tempt David to number the People. Standing is the Accusers posture before Mens Tribunals; and consequently the Holy Scripture (which useth to speak of God, and of the things of God, after the manner of Men, to bring them down to our Capacities) elsewhere represents Satan in this posture, as 1 Kings 22.21. *Zech.*3.1. And so this agrees with 2 Sam. 24.1. where the Lord is said to move David, i. e. to give Satan Commission or Permission to move him; for otherwise God tempteth no man, James 1. 13. But of this, and of this whole Chapter, and of the Variations and seeming Contradictions between this Narrative and that in Samuel, see my Notes on 2 *Sam.*24.

2 And David said to Joab, and to the rulers of the people, Go, number Israel, from Beersheba even to Dan; and bring the number of them to me, that I may know it.

3 And Joab answered, The LORD make his people an hundred times as many mo as they be: but my lord the king, are they not all my lords servants, why then doth my lord require this thing? why will he be † a cause of trespass to Israel b.

b Or, why will he be, or, why should this be a trespass, or a cause of trespass, or an occasion of punishment, (for Hebrew words signifying sin are oft used to note the punishment of sin:) or a desolation, or a cause of desolation or destruction (for the verb whence this noun proceeds is oft used in that sense) to or against Israel? Why wilt thou provoke God by this sin to punish Israel? Thus he speaks, because God commonly punisheth the People for the sins of their Rulers, because they are for the most part guilty of their sins in one kind or other; or at least God takes this occasion to punish People for all their sins.

4 Nevertheless, the kings word prevailed against Joab: wherefore Joab departed, and went throughout all Israel, and came to Jerusalem.

5 And Joab gave the sum of the number of the people unto David. And all they of Israel were a thousand thousand and one hundred thousand men that drew sword: and Judah was four hundred threescore and ten thousand men that drew sword.

6 But Levi and Benjamin counted he not among them c; for the kings word was abominable to Joab.

c Partly for the following reason; and principally by Gods special and gracious Providence to these two Tribes, to Levi, because they were devoted to his Service; and to Benjamin, because they were the least of all the Tribes, having been almost entinct, *Judg.*21 and because God foresaw that they would be faithful to the House of David in the division of the Tribes, and therefore he would not have them diminished. And Joab presumed to leave these two Tribes unnumbred, because he had specious pretences for it; for Levi, because they were no Warriors, and the Kings Command reached only to those that drew sword, as appears from v. 5. And for Benjamin, because they, being so small a Tribe, and bordering upon Jerusalem their chief City, might easily be numbred afterward.

† Heb. and he was evil in the eyes of the LORD concerning this thing.

7 † And God was displeased with this thing d, therefore he smote Israel e.

d Because this was done without any colour of necessity, and out of meer Curiosity, and Ostentation, and carnal Confidence, as Davids own Conscience told him, which therefore smote him, as it is related, 2 Sam. 24.10. e Which is particularly related in the following verses.

* 2 Sam. 24.10.

8 And David said unto God, * I have sinned greatly, because I have done this thing; * but now I beseech thee, do away the iniquity of thy servant, for I have done very foolishly.

* 2 Sam. 12. 13.

9 And the LORD spake unto Gad, Davids seer, saying,

10 Go, and tell David, saying, Thus saith the LORD, I † offer thee three things, chuse thee one of them that I may do it unto thee.

† Heb. stretch out.

11 So Gad came to David, and said unto him, Thus saith the LORD, † chuse thee, † Heb. lift up to thee.

12 Either three years famine, or three months to be destroyed before thy foes, (while that the sword of thine enemies overtaketh thee) or else three days the sword of the LORD, even the pestilence in the land, and the angel of the LORD destroying throughout all the coasts of Israel. Now therefore advise thy self, what word I shall bring again to him that sent me.

13 And David said unto Gad, I am in a great strait: let me fall now into the hand of the LORD, (for very ‖ great are his mercies) but let me not fall into the hand of man.

‖ Or, many

14 So the LORD sent pestilence upon Israel; and there fell of Israel seventy thousand men.

15 And God sent an * angel unto Jerusalem to destroy it: and as he was destroying, the LORD beheld, and he repented him of the evil, and said to the angel that destroyed, It is enough, stay now thine hand. And the angel of the LORD stood by the threshing-floor of ‖ Ornan the Jebusite.

* 2 Sam. 24. 16.

‖ Or, Araunah, 2 Sam. 24.18.

16 And David lift up his eyes, and saw the angel of the LORD stand between the earth and the heaven, having a drawn sword in his hand stretched out over Jerusalem: then David and the elders of Israel, who were clothed in sackcloth f, fell upon their faces.

f i. e. In mourning Garments, humbling themselves before God for their Sins, and deprecating his Wrath against the People.

17 And David said unto God, Is it not I that commanded the people to be numbred? even I it is that have sinned and done evil indeed; but as for these sheep what have they done? let thine hand, I pray thee, O LORD my God, be on me, and on my fathers house, but not on thy people, that they should be plagued.

18 Then † the * angel of the LORD commanded Gad to say to David, that David should go up and set up an altar unto the LORD, in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite.

† Heb. a * 2 Chr. 3. 1.

19 And David went up at the saying of Gad, which he spake in the name of the LORD.

20 ‖ And Ornan turned back, and saw the Angel; and his four sons with him hid themselves g. Now Ornan was threshing wheat.

‖ Or, when Ornan turned back and saw the angel, and his sons with him hiding themselves

g Or, And Ornan turned back (i. e. turned his face from the Angel) for or when (for the Hebrew vau is frequently used both those ways) when he saw the angel, and (so did) his four sons with him hiding themselves, part- ly because of the Glory and Majesty in which the Angel appeared, which mens weak and sinful natures are not able to bear; and partly for fear of Gods Vengeance which was at this time riding circuit in the Land, and now seemed to be coming to their Family.

21 And as David came to Ornan, Ornan looked and saw David, and went out of the threshing-floor, and bowed himself to David with his face to the ground.

22 Then David said to Ornan, † Grant me the place of this threshing-floor, that I may build an altar therein unto the Lord: thou shalt grant it me for the full price, that the plague may be stayed from the people.

† Heb. give.

23 And Ornan said unto David, Take it to thee, and let my Lord the King do that which is good in his eyes: lo, I give thee the oxen also for burnt-offerings, and the threshing-instruments for wood, and the wheat for the meat-offering, I give it all.

24 And king David said to Ornan, Nay, but I will verily buy it for the full price: for I will not take that which is thine for the LOLD, nor offer burnt-offerings without cost.

25 So * David gave to Ornan for the place, six hundred Shekels of Gold by weight.

* 2 Sam. 24.24.

26 And David built there an Altar unto the LORD, and offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings, and called upon the LORD; and he answered him from Heaven by fire h upon the Altar of burnt-offering.

h Heb. by fire sent from Heaven: which was the sign of Gods Acceptance. See Levit. 9. 24. 1 King 18. 24, 38. 2 Chron. 7. 1.

27 And the LORD commanded the Angel, and he put up his sword again into the sheaf thereof.

28 At that time, when David saw that the LORD had answered him in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite, then he sacrificed there i.

i When he perceived that his Sacrifice there offered was acceptable ble to God, he proceeded to offer more Sacrifices in that place, and did not go to Gibeon, as otherwise he should have done.

29 For the Tabernacle of the LORD which Moses made in the Wilderness, and the altar of the burnt-offering were at that season in the high place at * Gibeon.

* 1 King. 3. 4. 2 Chr. 1. 3.

30 But David could not k go before it l † to enquire of God m; for he was afraid because of the sword of the angel of the LORD n.

† Heb. to seek God. * 1 Chr. 16. 39. 21. 29. 2 Chr. 1. 5.

k i. e. Durst not. l i. e. Before the Tabernacle, where the Altar stood. m Heb. to seek God, i. e. humbly to beg his Favour by Prayer and Sacrifice. n i. e. When he saw the Angel stand with his drawn sword over Jerusalem, as is related above, v. 15, 16. he durst not go away thence to Gibeon, least the Angel in the mean time should destroy Jerusalem; for the prevention whereof he thought it most proper to continue to worship God in that place, which he had consecrated by his special Presence and gracious acceptance.

CHAP. XXII.

David prepareth for the Building of the Temple, 1——5. Instructeth Solomon in God's Promises and his Duty, 6——16. he chargeth the Princes to assist his Son, 17——19.

* Deut. 12. 5. 1 Sam. 2. 18.

THEN David said a, * This is the house of the LORD God b, and this is the altar of burnt-offering for Israel.

a Partly by his observation of this gracious and glorious Appearance of God, and his command to erect an Altar and his Acceptance of a Sacrifice offered in this place: and partly by the Instinct and Direction of Gods Spirit, by which as he is said to have had the pattern of the house, porch, Altar, &c. 1 Chron. 28. 11, 12, 19. so doubtless he was also instructed as to the place where the House should be built. b This is the place appointed by God for the building of his Temple and Altar.

2 And David commanded to gather together the strangers that were in the Land of Israel c, and he set masons to hew wrought stones d, to build the house of God.

c The same persons whom Solomon afterwards employed in the same Work: of which see 1 Kings 5. 15. compared with 1 Kings 9. 20, 21. d Wherein he could not do much, being prevented by death: but Solomon carried on and perfected what David had begun.

3 And David prepared iron in abundance for the nails for the doors of the gates, and for the joynings e; and brass in abundance without weight.

e To be used together with melted Lead, for the joyning of those great and square Stones together.

4 Also cedar-trees in abundance: for the Zidonians, and they of Tyre, brought much cedar-wood to David.

* 2 Chr. 2. 1.

5 And David said f, * Solomon my Son is young and tender g, and the house that is to be built for the LORD, must be exceeding magnifical, of fame and of glory throughout all countries: I will therefore now make preparation for it. So David prepared abundantly before his death.

f Within himself, or in his own thoughts. g And therefore through youthful vanity and folly, and unsettledness, may not use that Care, and Consideration, and Diligence in making such Provisions as this great Work requires. Of Solomons Age, see 1 Kings 3. 7.

6 Then he called for Solomon his Son, and charged him to build an house for the LORD God of Israel.

7 And David said to Solomon, My Son, as for me, * it was in my mind to build an house † unto the name of the LORD my God.

* 2 Sam. 7. 1 Chr. 17. 1. † Deut. 12. 5, 11. 1 Chr. 28. 3. † King. 5. 3, 5.

8 But the word of the LORD came to me, saying, * Thou hast shed blood abundantly, and hast made great wars: thou shalt not build an house unto my name, because thou hast shed much blood upon the Earth h in my sight i.

* 1 Chr. 28. 3.

h Not that Wars either now are or then were simply Unlawful, or that David sinned in shedding the Blood of War; for it is manifest, that Davids Wars were undertaken by Gods command, or with his Leave, and were attended with his Blessing; but partly because Davids Military Employments did for a good while fill his Head and Hands, and gave him no leisure for Temple-work: and principally for mystical Signification, to teach us that the Church (whereof the Temple was a manifest and illustrious Type) should be built by Christ, the Prince of Peace, Isa. 9. 6. and that it should be gathered and built up, not by might or power, or by force of Arms, but by Gods Spirit, Zech. 4. 6. and by the preaching the Gospel of Peace. i Which I have taken particular notice of. And this expression may possibly be added in reference to Uriah and the rest of the Israelites, who were slain at the Siege of Rabbah by Davids contrivance; which peradventure David had in his Eye, Psal. 51. 4. where David confessing this Sin, useth this very Expression, I have done this Evil in thy sight.

9 Behold, a son shall be born to thee, who shall be a Man of rest, and I will give him rest from all his enemies round about: for his name shall be ‖ Solomon, and I will give peace and quietness unto Israel in his days.

‖ That is, Peaceable.

10 * He shall build an house for my name, and he shall be my son, and I will be his Father, and I will establish the throne of his Kingdom over Israel for ever k.

* 2 Sam. 7. 13. 1 Kin. 5. 5. Ch. 17. 12, 13.

k Of this see my Notes on 2 Sam. 7. 13.

11 Now my Son, the LOBD be with thee, and prosper thou l, and build the house of the LORD thy God, as he hath said of thee.

l Go on prosperously in carrying on this Work. Or, the Lord give thee that Rest and Prosperity which is necessary for it.

12 Only the LORD give thee wisdom and understanding; and give thee charge concerning Israel m, that thou mayest keep the Law of the Lord thy God.

m i. e. Give thee Instructions or Direction rightly to manage and rule his People Israel. Or, and set thee over Israel, as the Syriack renders it, whom the Arabick follows: Or when (as the Hebrew vau is oft used) he shall set thee over Israel, i. e. when thou shalt be King; for then Solomon would need this Wisdom, for which therefore he Prayeth, 1 King. 3. 9.

13 Then shalt thou prosper, if thou takest heed to fulfil the statutes and judgments which the LORD charged Moses with concerning Israel. Be strong, and of good courage, dread not, nor be dismayed.

14 Now behold, ‖ in my trouble n I have prepared for the house of the LORD, an hundred thousand talents of Gold o, and a thousand thousand talents of Silver p; and of brass, and iron, without * weight: (for it is in abundance) timber also and stone have I prepared, and thou mayest add thereto.

‖ Or, in my poverty.

* As ver. 3.

n This he alledgeth as a reason why he could do no more, because of the many Troubles and Wars both Forreign and Civil, whereby much of his Treasures was exhausted. o A Talent of Gold in the first constitution was 3000 Shekels, as may be gathered from Exod. 38. 24, 25, 26. and so this amounts to a very vast Sum, yet not impossible for David to get, considering how many and great Conquests he made, and what vast Spoils and Presents he got; and that he endeavoured by all just and honourable ways to get as much as he could, not out of Covetousness, or for his own Ends, but meerly out of Zeal for Gods house. And whereas some object, that this quantity of Gold and Silver was sufficient, tho the whole Fabrick of the Temple had consisted of Massy Gold and Silver: it is to be confidered, that all this Treasure was not spent upon the Materials of the Temple, but a very great part of it upon the Workmen, which were nigh 200000, whereof a great number were Officers, which being employed for so long time together, would exhaust a confiderable part of it; and what was not employed in the building of the Temple, was laid up in the Sacred Treasures for future occasions, there being mention of the great Treasures left by David, even in other Authors. But some Learned Men make these Talents far less than those in Moses his time; and they conceive, that as there were two sorts of Shekels both of Gold and Silver, the common and the sacred Shekel, whereof the latter is commonly thought to be double to the former, so also there were Talents of divers kinds and values. For the Hebrew word kikkar, which is rendred a Talent, properly signifies only a Mass or a Piece, as it is used, Exod. 29. 23. 1 Sam. 2. 36. Zech. 5. 7. So it may indifferently denote either a greater or a lesser piece. And this is certain, and observed by two Ancient and most Learned Writers, Varro and Pollux, and by others, that a Talent among the Greeks and Romans sometimes notes but a small quantity: and that a Talent of Gold contains only six drams. And Homer in his Iliads, among other things of no great value, which are propounded as Rewards to the Conquerour at a solemn and publick Exercise, a Bondwoman, an Horse and a Pot, mentions two Talents of Gold; which plainly shews that in his Time (which was after the Building of this Temple) Talents of Gold were very far inferiour in quantity and price to what they had been in former Ages. And Josephus a Jew, and therefore the more competent judge of these things, speaking of this very thing for 100000 Talents of Gold here mentioned, he puts 10000, and for 1000000 Talents of Silver he puts 100000; either because the Talents in Moses his time were of ten times more bulk and price than in Davids and Solomons time, and therefore these Talents reduced to them amounted to no greater Sum; or because he read so in his Copy of the Hebrew Bible. And certainly it is infinitely more tolerable, and reasonable to suppose, that there is a mistake here in the generality of the present Copies of the Hebrew Bible, through the Errour of the Scribe, (which being only in a Numeral and Historical Passage, might happen without Impeachment to the Care of Gods Providence, which hath so miraculously preserved all the most Important and Substantial parts of Scripture, as hath been formerly said) than upon such Pretences to deny the Truth and Divine Original and Authority of the Holy Scriptures. Add to this, that all the Gold then used was not of equal worth and purity; as appears both by the special Commendation given to some forts of Gold in divers parts of Scripture, and particularly by the difference observed in this very History between the Gold and Gold which David gave for this use; whereof one little part being distinctively called pure Gold and refined Gold, 1 Chron. 28. 17, 18. it is sufficiently implied, that all the rest of the Gold was not refined nor pure, which might greatly diminish the Worth of it; for in what degree it was impure or allayed with other things in those Times and Places we cannot know at this Distance: and therefore we cannot make a true Estimate what those Talents of Gold did amount to in our Value. p Just as much in Silver as in Gold; for this is known and agreed, that the Proportion of Gold to Silver is Ten to One.

15 Moreover, there are Workmen with thee in abundance, hewers, and ‖ workers of stone and timber, and all manner of cunning Men for every manner of work.

‖ That is, masons and carpenters.

16 Of the gold, the silver and the brass, and the iron there is no number. Arise therefore, and be doing q, and the LORD be with thee.

q To wit, when thou shalt come to the Throne in my stead.

17 David also commanded all the princes of Israel to help Solomon his Son, saying,

18. Is not the LORD your God with you? and hath he not given you rest on every side? for he hath given the Inhabitants of the land into mine hand, and the land is subdued before the LORD, and before his people r.

r Either 1. It is brought under the command of God and of you his people, all the enemies of God and of Israel, in it or near it, being now perfectly subdued. Or, 2 It is really subdued, whereof both God and your own Eyes are Witnesses.

19 Now set your heart and your soul to seek the LORD your God: arise therefore, and build ye the sanctuary of the LORD God, to bring the Ark of the covenant of the LORD, and the holy vessels of God, into the house that is to be built to the name of the LORD.

SO when David was old and full of years, he made * Solomon his son king over Israel a.

* 1 King. 1. 33. 39. Ch. 28. 5.

a Not that he did resign the Kingdom to him, but that he declared his mind concerning his Succession into the Throne after his death. As David himself is called King, 1 Sam. 16. 1. because he was appointed and anointed to be King after Saul's death, though till then he was only a Subject.

2 And he gathered together all the princes of Israel, with the Priests and the Levites b.

b Partly to declare God's Mind and his own Will, that Solomon should be his Successor; and so to cut off the claims and pretences which others of his Sons might make to the Crown: and partly to acquaint them with those Directions which he had received from God by the Spirit, as appears from ch. 28. 11. &c. concerning the Establishment of a new order and method in the Ministration of the Priests and Levites in the Temple.

3 Now the Levites were numbred from the age of *Numb. 4. * thirty years and upward c: and their numbers 3. by their polls, man by man, was thirty and eight thousand.

c Not only till fifty, as it was appointed, Numb. 4. 2, 3. but even till their death: For that was but a Temporary Law grounded upon a special reason, because the Levites were employed in carrying the Tabernacle and Sacred vessels from place to place; and therefore God would have them freed from those burdens when they came to feel the infirmities of Age: Which Reason wholly ceasing upon the Building of the Temple, and their Work being far easier than it had been, and their Service being more a Privilege than a Burden, their time of Service is justly and fitly prolonged.

4 Of which, twenty and four thousand were ‖ to Or, or to oversee. set forward the work of the house of the LORD d: * Deut. 16. 18. and six thousand were * officers and judges e.

d i.e. To take care that all the Work of the Temple about Sacrifices and other parts or means of Gods Service should be punctually and diligently performed, either by themselves or others: Which they were not to do all at once, but by courses, 1000 at a time, as we shall shortly see. e Whose Work it seems to have been to judge of, and determine all difficult Causes or differences which might arise either among the inferior Priests or Levites about their Sacred Administrations; or among the People, which being governed in all their Concerns only by the Laws of Moses, it was fit and necessary, that the Priests and Levites should be consulted and concerned in their matters.

5 Moreover, four thousand were porters f, and four thousand praised the LORD with instruments g which I made (said David) to praise therewith.

f Whose Office was to take the Charge of all the Gates of the Temple and its Courts, that no forbidden or unclean Person might enter there, and of the Courts themselves, and of several Chambers or Buildings belonging to the Temple and the Service thereof. These also were to do their Work by turns. g Whereof 288 were Persons of greater skill than their Brethren, and did instruct them, and had some Authority over them.

* Exod. 6. 16. Ch. 6. 1. &c. 2 Chr. 8. 14. & 29. 25. †Heb. divisions. 6 And * David divided them into † courses h among the sons of Levi, namely, Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.

h Which he did not by his own Invention, but as a Man of God, and by the command of God, and with the Advice and Concurrence of God and Nathan the Prophets, as is manifest from 2 Chron. 8. 14. & 29. 25.

7 Of the * Gershonites were ‖ Laadan and Shi- * Ch. 26. mei. 21. ‖ Or, Libni, Ch. 6. 17.

8 The sons i of Laadan, the chief was Jehiel, and Zetham, and Joel, three.

i i.e. His Posterity: and so in the following verses: for these could not be their immediate Sons.

9 The sons of Shimei; Shelomith, and Haziel, and Haran three. These were the chief of the fathers of Laadan.

10 And the Sons of Shimei k were, Jahath, ‖ Zi- ‖ Or, Zina, and Jeush, and Beriah: These four were the sons of Shimei. Heb. Ziza.

k Not that Shimei named v. 9. but another, and possibly the Son or Grandson of that Shimei.

11. And Jahath was the chief, and Zizah the second: but Jeush and Beriah † had not many sons: therefore they were in one reckoning, according to their fathers house l. † Heb. did not multiply sons.

l They were reckoned together as one Family, and were not called by the name of their two immediate Parents, but by the name of their Grandfather Shimei.

12 The sons of Kohath; Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel, four.

13 The son of * Amram; Aaron and Moses: and † Aaron was separated, ‖ that he should sanctifie the most holy things m, he and his sons n for ever, to burn incense before the LORD, to minister unto him, and to * bless in his name for ever. * Exod. 6. 20. † Heb. was separated. ‖ Or, to sanctifie holy things, &c. Heb. to bless.

m Not positively; for so he could not sanctifie them, they being sanctified already sanctified by God in the highest degree; but negatively, i. e. him only of that he might keep them from Pollution: For these most holy things holies, &c. were only his eldest Sons the High-priests successively, but all his Posterity or all the Priests; for the Works here following were not peculiar to the High-priest, but common to all the Priests, who might all burn Incense, 2 Chron. 29. 11. Luke 1. 9. and to minister in the Temple, and to bless the People in Gods name, Numb. 6. 23. Deut. 10. 8. n Not and his sons.

14 Now concerning Moses the man of God, his sons were named of the Tribe of Levi n.

n i.e. They were accounted only as common Levites, and were not Priests: which is mentioned partly to secure the Priesthood within the bounds to which God had confined it, lest they should presume to invade it upon a confidence in the Noblenes of their Extraction: and partly for the honour of Moses, and the demonstration of his eminent Piety and Self-denial, who willingly left the Government to Joshua, and the Priesthood to Aaron, and was content to have his Posterity reduced to a very private and mean condition.

15 * The sons of Moses were, Gershom and Eli- * Exod. 2. ezer. 22. & 18. 3.

16 Of the sons of Gershom, ‖ Shebuel was the chief. ‖ Shubael, Ch. 24. 20.

17 And the sons o of Eliezer were, * Rehabiah ‖ the chief p. And Eliezer had none other sons, but the sons of Rehabiah † were very many. * Ch. 24. 21. ‖ Or, the first. † Heb. were multiplied exceedingly.

o For, the son: the plural number for the singular, as Gen. 46. 26. 33. 1 Chron. 2. 8, 31. and oft elsewhere. p. Heb. the first-born, i. e. the very highly first-born. He is so called, not because others were born after him, but because none were born before him. See on Mat. 1. 23.

18 Of the sons of Izhar ‖ Shelomith the chief. ‖ Shelomoth Ch. 24. 22.

19 Of the sons of Hebron; Jeriah the first, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the third, and Jekameam the fourth.

20 Of the sons of Uzziel; Micah the first, and Jeshiah the second.

21 The sons of Merari; Mahli, and Mushi: the sons of Mahli; Eleazar, and Kish.

22 And Eleazar died, and * had no sons, but daughters: and their ‖ brethren the sons of Kish took them. * Ch. 24. 28. ‖ Or, Kish.

23 The sons of Mushi, Mahli, and Eder, and Jeremoth, three.

24 These were the sons of * Levi, after the house of their fathers; even the chief of the fathers, as they were counted by number of names by their polls, that did the work for the service of the house of the LORD, from the age of * twenty years q and upward. * Numb. 1. 3. & 3. 15.

q As the Levites were anciently numbred from two several times, from the 25th year of their Age, and from the 30th Numb. 4. 3. & 8. 24. In like manner and for the same Reasons they are here numbred both from their 20th year, as here, when they were more solemnly prepared for, and instructed, and by degrees exercised in some parts of their Work; and from their 30th year, above v. 3. when they were admitted to the full and compleat Exercise of all the Parts and Works of their Office. And the reason why they were now sooner admitted to Service than they had been formerly by the Constitution of Moses, is given in the next verses, because now their Work was more easie, they being wholly discharged from that burdensome Work of carrying the Tabernacle and its Utensils, which was too heavy for young and tender Shoulders. To which may be added, that the number of the Israelites were greatly increased, and consequently the Services which were to be performed by the Levites on their behalf were multiplied, and the Work of the Temple was much greater than that of the Tabernacle, and therefore more of the Levites were to be employed, and consequently they were to be sooner taken into Service.

25 For David said, the LORD God of Israel hath given rest unto his People ‖ that they may dwell in Jerusalem for ever. ‖ Or, and he dwelleth in Jerusalem, &c.

26 And also unto the Levites r, they shall no more more carry the Tabernacle, nor any vessels of it for the service thereof.

r Or rather, as concerning the Levites, of whom he is here speaking.

27 For by the last words of David s, the Levites were † numbred from twenty years old and above.

s By his last Order and Constitution made by Gods direction and by the Spirit, as hath been once and again noted and proved before. This is here added to signifie, that this great Affair was thus settled by David, not in his younger years, when it might have been thought to have the effect of youthful Heat, and Confidence, and Presumption, and Rashness, but when he was come to the greatest Maturity, when he was old and near his death, and going to give up his Account to his Lord and Maker, of all his Actions, and particularly of the Alterations which he made in the Service of God; which he declared was done by the Spirit of God. These were in a manner his dying words, which usually make the deepest impressions. † Heb. by the numbring of the sons, &c.

28 Because † their office was to wait on the sons of Aaron, for the service of the house of the LORD, in the courts, and in the chambers, and in the purifying of all holy things t, and the work of the service of the house of God. † Heb. was their office.

t i.e. Holy Places, and Garments, and Vessels, and Sacrifices, which were to be washed and cleansed from any Filthiness which possibly might cleave to them.

29 Both for the shew-bread, and for * the fine flour for meat offering, and for the unleavened cakes, and for that which is baked in the ‖ pan, and for that which is fryed, and for all manner of measure and size u. * Lev. 2. 1. & 6. 20. & 7. 9. ‖ Or, fat things.

u This is to be understood either, 1. particularly of the Measure or Quantity of fine Flour, and Wine, and Oil, which was fixed by Gods Law. Or generally of all Measures used either in Sacred or Civil Things, the publick Standards whereof were kept in the Sanctuary or Temple; of which see on Exod. 30. 13. and therefore the care of keeping them inviolable and producing them upon Occasion, must needs belong to the Priests, and under them to the Levites, who were to examine other Measures and all things by them, as oft as occasion required; that so the Priests might be at more leisure for their higher and greater Employments.

30 And to stand every morning x to thank and praise the LORD, and likewise at even x:

x The two Solemn Times of offering Sacrifices: which Work was attended with Publick Prayer and Thanksgiving.

31 And to offer all burnt-sacrifices unto the LORD in the sabbaths, in the new moons, and on the set feasts, by number, according to the order commanded unto them y continually before the LORD:

y i.e. Unto those Persons, the Levites, of whom he speaks. Or, concerning them, i. e. about those things.

32 And that they should keep the charge of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the charge of the holy place, and the charge of the sons of Aaron z their brethren, in the service of the house of the LORD.

z i.e. What the Priests should commit to their charge, or command them to do.

CHAP. XXIV.

The Priests are divided by Lot into 24 Orders, 1——19. Ministers allotted them out of the Levites, out of the Tribe of the Kohathites and Merarites, 20——31.

NOw these are the divisions a of the sons of Aaron: * The sons of Aaron; Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. * Lev. 10. 1. & 26. 61.

a i.e. The several Branches into which that Family was divided or distributed.

2 But * Nadab and Abihu died before their father, and had no children: therefore Eleazar and Ithamar executed the priests office b. * Numb. 3. 4. & 26. 61.

b i.e. Were the only persons to whom and to whose Families the Execution of that Office was committed.

3 And David distributed them, † both Zadok of the sons of Eleazar, and Ahimelech of the sons of Ithamar, according to their Offices c in their service. † Heb. the princes of the sanctuary, and princes of God. 1 Chron. 24. 3, 4, 31.

c Or, courses: or, professions, i. e. Allotting to each of them several times wherein they or theirs should by turns have the Government of Holy Ministrations in the Temple Service.

4 And there were more chief men found of the sons of Eleazar, than of the sons of Ithamar, and thus were they divided. Among the sons of Eleazar there were sixteen chief men of the house of their fathers, and eight among the sons of Ithamar, according to the house of their fathers.

5 Thus were they divided by lot d, one sort with another; for † the governours of the sanctuary, and governours of the house of God e, were of the sons of Eleazar, and of the sons of Ithamar. † Heb. the princes of the sanctuary, and princes of God. Gen. 23. 6.

d Partly to prevent that Envy or Emulation which otherwise might arise among them: and partly that all mens minds and Consciences might be fully satisfied in the Order now established by this Divine way of Decision. e But that is no other than the Sanctuary; and so it may seem to make this Division improper and irregular, the several Members of it being altogether the same. Or rather, of the things of God, i. e. of all persons ministring in the Sanctuary, and of all Holy Ministrations done in it, and of all other matters of the Lord, as they are called by way of distinction from the kings matters, 2 Chron. 19. 11.

6 And Shemajah the son of Nathaneel the scribe, one of the Levites, wrote them before the king, and the princes, and Zadok the priest, and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar, and before the chief of the fathers of the Priests and Levites: one † principal houshold being taken for Eleazar, and one taken for Ithamar f. † Heb. house of the fathers.

f Or, the Chief (which word is easily supplied out of the context) of one house of the Fathers was taken (to wit, by Lot) for Eleazar (i. e. out of his family) and that which was taken after it was taken for Ithamar, i.e. out of his Family. The meaning is, that the first Lot fell to Eleazar, and the second to Ithamar; and the third to Eleazar, and the fourth to Ithamar; and so successively, until all the families of Ithamar had received their Lots: And afterwards all the Lots came forth to the rest of Eleazars Families, which were double in number to those of Ithamar, as was said v. 4.

7 Now the first lot came forth g to Jehoiarib, the second to Jedajah, g To wit, out of the Vessel in which all the Lots were promiscuously put together, and out of which they were severally taken.

8 The third to Harim, the fourth to Seorim.

9 The fifth to Malchijah, the sixth to Mijamin,

10 The seventh to Hakkoz, the eighth to * Abijah, * Neh. 12. 4, 17. Luke 1. 5.

11 The ninth to Jeshua, the tenth to Shecaniah,

12 The eleventh to Eliashib, the twelfth to Jakim,

13 The thirteenth to Huppah, the fourteenth to Jeshebeab,

14 The fifteenth to Bilgah, the sixteenth to Immer,

15 The seventeenth to Hezir, the eighteenth to Aphses.

16 The nineteenth to Pethahiah, the twentieth to Jehezekel,

17 The one and twentieth to Jachin, the two and twentieth to Gamul, 18 The three and twentieth to Delajah, the four and twentieth to Maaziah.

19 These were the orderings of them in their service h, to come into the house of the LORD, according to their manner i, under Aaron their father k, as the LORD God of Israel had commanded him.

h In this order and method they were to come to perform the Offices of the Temple. i i.e. To come into the Temple every Sabbath-day, and to continue there all the Week long until the next Sabbath, when they were relieved by others, as the manner was: See 2 Kings 11. 5. 1 Chron. 9. 25. k i.e. Under the inspection and direction of the High-priest, whom he calls Aaron, because he reprefented his Person, and executed his Office, and also came out of his Loyns, and their father, because of the authority which by Gods appointment he had over them, and that love, reverence, and obedience which they owed to him.

20 And the rest of the sons of Levi l were these. Of the sons of Amram, * Shubael: of the sons of Shubael; Jehdejah m. * Ch. 23. 16. Shebuel.

l Either such as were only Levites, and not Priests: or rather, such as were not named or numbred before in this or the former Chapter. m Who being, as it seems, an eminent Person, or having a very numerous Family, was not reckoned with or under his Fathers Family, but was accounted as a distinct Head of another Family.

21 Concerning Rehabiah n: of the sons of Rehabiah, the first o was Jeshiah.

n The son of Eliezer, ch. 23. 17. o By Birth, or Place.

22 Of the Izharite; * Shelomoth p: of the sons of Shelomoth; Jahath. * Ch. 23. 18 Shelomith.

p Called also Shelomith, ch. 23. 18.

23 And the sons of * Hebron; Jeriah the first q, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the third, Jekameam the fourth. * Ch. 23. 19 & 26. 31.

q Which word is fitly supplied both out of the rest of this verse, the second, third, and fourth having a manifest reference to the first, and out of 1 Chron. 23. 19. and 26. 31. where it is expressed.

24 Of the sons of Uzziel; Michah: of the sons of Michah; Shamir.

25 The brother of Michah was Isshiah: of the sons of Isshiah: Zechariah.

26 The sons of Merari were, Mahli and Mushi: the sons of Jaaziah r; Beno.

r The son either of Mahli: or rather of Mushi last named: for Mahli's Posterity comes v. 28.

27 The sons of Merari by Jaaziah; Beno s; and Shoham, and Zaccur, and Ibri.

s Whose name is here repeated with his Brethren, because he was the First-born and Head of the rest, who were all reckoned with and under his Family, as if they had been Branches of it.

28 Of Mahli came Eleazar, * who had no sons. * Ch. 23. 22

29 Concerning Kish t: the son of Kish was Jerahmeel.

t Another of Mahli's Sons, as appears from 1 Chron. 23. 21.

30 The sons also of Mushi; Mahli, and Eder, and Jerimoth. These were the sons of the Levites, after the house of their fathers.

31 These likewise cast lots over against their brethren the sons of Aaron u, in the presence of David the king, and Zadok and Ahimelech, and the chief of the fathers of the Priests and Levites, even the principal fathers fathers over against their younger brethren x.

u i. e. Answerable for Number and Order to those of the Priests, so as there should be a several course of the Levites for each course of the Priests. This is expressed concerning the Singers, *ch.*25. and the like is implied concerning the Porters, *ch.*26, and is here sufficiently intimated concerning those Levites which were employed in other Sacred Ministrations. x The Lots of the elder and younger Brethren were promiscuously put together, and the order was settled as the Lots came forth, without any regard to the Age or Dignity or Number of the Persons or Families, the youngest Family having the first Course if they had the first Lot, &c.

CHAP. XXV.

The number and Offices of the Singers out of the sons of Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun, 1——7. Their division by Lot into 24 Orders, 8——31.

MOreover, David and the captains of the host a separated b to the service of the sons of * Asaph, and of * Heman, and of * Jeduthun c, who should prophecy d with harps, with psalteries, and with cymbals; and the number of the workmen e, according to their service, was;

a Both of the Civil and Sacred Host: to wit, all the Princes of Israel, with the Priests and the Levites, whom David gathered together, ch.23.2. for this very end, that in their Presence and with their Approbation and Consent all these things might be established; who are here fitly called the Captains of the Host; for the Princes were, under David, the chief Captains or Commanders of the Militia or Trained Bands of the Kingdom; and as the Levites are called an Host, and the Lords Host, *Numb.*4.23. and elsewhere because of their Number and Order in Holy Ministrations; so these Priests and Levites were the Captains and Governours of the rest. b i.e. Distributed them into their several Ranks and Orders: Which, though chiefly done by David as a Prophet, and by Divine direction, as hath been oft observed, yet is here imputed in part to the Captains of the Host, because it was done with their Concurrence and Approbation. c i.e. To the Service of God under the Conduct and Command of these Persons. d i.e. Praise God by singing the Psalms of David, (of which see on *ch.*16.7.) and other sacred Songs made by themselves, who were Prophets in some sort, or by other Prophets or Holy Men of God. Or this Action of theirs is called prophecying, because it had been formerly performed by the Prophets and the sons of the Prophets: of which see 1 *Sam.*10.5. & 19.20. 2 Kings 3.15. 1 Chron. 15.19. e Of the Persons employed in this Sacred Work.

3 Of Jeduthun: the sons of Jeduthun h; Gedaliah, and || Zeri, and Jeshajah, Hashabiah, and Mattithiah, || six, under the hands of their father Jeduthun, who prophesied with a harp to give thanks and to praise the LORD.

|| Or, Jesri, ver.11.
|| with Shimei mentioned v. 17.

h Or, his sons, (the construct form being used before the absolute, of which there are Examples in Scripture) Jeduthun, called by his Fathers name: otherwise they are not six; unless either Jeduthun their Father be included in that number: or Shimei mentioned v. 17. be one of them, as many Learned Men think. See the like, 1 Chron. 24.23.

|| Or, Azareel, v. 18.
|| Or, Shubael, v. 20.

4 Of Heman: the sons of Heman; Bukkiah, Mattaniah, || Uzziel, || Shebuel, and Jerimoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti and Romamtiezer, Joshbekashah, Mallothi, Hothir, and Mahazioth.

|| Or, matters.

5 All these were the sons of Heman the kings seer i in the || words of God k, to lift up the horn l. And God gave to Heman fourteen sons, and three daughters.

i Or, Prophet, which is the same thing, 1 *Sam.*9.9. Either he was a Prophet as well as a Singer; or he is thus called because he prophesied in the sence designed, v.1. And he is called the kings seer, either because the King took special delight in him; or because he frequently attended upon the King in his Palace, executing his Sacred Office there, while the rest were constantly employed in the Tabernacle. k i.e. To sing such Divine Songs as were inspired by God to the Prophets or Holy Men of God. l Either 1. Metaphorically, to extol and praise God for exalting the horn (i.e. the Power and Kingdom) of David; of which Phrase see *Psal.*92.10. & 132.17. Or rather 2. Properly, to praise God with the sound of a Trumpet (as was usual, as 2 *Chron.*5.12. & 13.12.) or some other Musical Instrument made of Horn, which being a Martial kind of Musick, might be most grateful to Davids Martial Spirit: though he was also skilled in other Instruments of Musick which he used in the House of God, as is expressed in the next Verse.

6 All these were under the hands m of their father, for song in the house of God, with cymbals, psalteries and harps, for the service of the house of God, † according to the kings order, to Asaph, Jeduthun, and Heman n.

† Heb. by the hands of the king.

m i.e. Under his direction, as v. 2. n Heb. by the hands of the King, and of Asaph, Jeduthun, and Heman, i.e. according to the Kings appointment, and under the Conduct of Asaph, Jeduthun, and Heman.

7 So the number of them, with their brethren that were instructed in the songs of the LORD, even all that were cunning o, was two hundred fourscore and eight p.

o Who were so skilful that they were able to teach others. p Which, together with their Scholars, make up the 4000 mentioned chap. 23. 5.

8 And they cast lots, ward against ward q, as well the small as the great, the teacher as the scholar r.

q i.e. A Ward, or Rank, or Course of Levites answerable to one of the Priests, upon whom the Levites were to wait in their Holy Ministrations, ch. 23. 28. r Without any respect to their different Ages or Abilities.

9 Now the first lot came forth for Asaph to Joseph s, the second to Gedaliah, who t with his brethren and his sons were twelve.

s i.e. For the Family of Asaph, of which Joseph was. Here that Clause, he, his sons, and his brethren were twelve, is to be understood, as it is expressed in all the following verses, otherwise they do not make up that number of 288. mentioned v. 7. t Heb. he: which word being here expresly, is rightly understood and supplied in the rest.

10 The third to Zaccur, he, his sons, and his brethren were twelve:

11 The fourth to Izri, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve.

12 The fifth to Nethaniah, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

13 The sixth to Bukkiah, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

14 The seventh to Jesharelah, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve.

15 The eighth to Jeshajah, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve.

16 The ninth to Mattaniah, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve.

17 The tenth to Shimei, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

18 The eleventh to Azareel, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve.

19 The twelfth to Hashabiah, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

20 The thirteenth to Shubael, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

21 The fourteenth to Mattithiah, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

22 The fifteenth to Jeremoth, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

23 The sixteenth to Hananiah, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

24 The seventeenth to Joshbekashah, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

25 The eighteenth to Hanani, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

27 The twentieth to Eliathah, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

28 The one and twentieth to Hothir, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

The Division of the Porters, 1——12. The Gates assigned by Lot, 13——19. The Levites have charge of the Treasures of the Temple, 20——28. Officers and Judges, 29——32.

COncerning the divisions of the porters ||: Of the Korhites was || Meshelemiah the son of Kore, of the sons of || Asaph a.

|| they were followeth.
|| Or, Shelemiah, v. 14.

a Not that famous Asaph the Singer, but another Asaph called also Ebiasaph, ch. 6. 37.

|| Or, Ebiasaph, ch. 6. 37.

2 And the sons of Meshelemiah were, Zechariah the first-born, Jediael the second, Zebadiah the third, Jathniel the fourth, Asaph, Ch.6.33. & 9.19.

3 Elam the fifth, Jehohanan the sixth, Elioenai the seventh;

4 Moreover, the sons of Obed-edom were, Shemajah the first-born, Jehozabad the second, Joah the third, and Sacar the fourth, and Nethaneel the fifth:

5 Ammiel the sixth, Issachar the seventh, Peulthai the eighth: for God blessed || him b.

b To wit, with a numerous Posterity and other Blessings, for his Respect and Affection to the Ark. See 2 Sam. 6. 11.

6 Also unto Shemajah his son were two sons born, that ruled throughout the house of their fathers c: for they were mighty men of valour d.

c That

Parbar. u at the Gate or House it self; by which it may seem, that this was a place of some importance, either the vessels of the Temple, or some part of the Treasures of God's House, being kept here.

19 These are the divisions of the porters among the sons of Kore, and among the sons of Merari.

20 And of the Levites, Ahijah was over * the treasures of the house of God, and over the treasures of the † dedicate things x.

* Mal. 3. 10.
† Heb. holy things.

x Either these are the same kind of Treasures, the latter phrase only explaining the former, the particle and being used for that is: or rather they are two different kinds of Treasures, the former containing the Sacred Vessels and other Treasures, which by God's Command were appropriated to the Maintenance of the House and Worship, and Ministers of God, as Tithes and First-fruits, and other things; and the latter only those things which had been freely given or dedicated to God for those Ends; of which see v. 26, 27.

21 As concerning the sons of || Laadan: the sons of the Gershonite Laadan, chief fathers y, even of Laadan the Gershonite were, || Jehieli z.

|| Or, Libni, Ch. 6. 17.
|| Or Jehiel, Ch. 23. 8.

y i.e. Which sons were Chief Fathers, or Heads of the Houses of their Fathers. z Understand here, and his sons, which here follow.

22 The sons of Jehieli; Zetham, and Joel his brother, which were over the treasures of the house of the LORD a.

a As Shelomith and his Brethren were over the Treasures of the dedicated things, v. 26. But both may seem to have been subject and accountable to Ahijah, who was over both these kinds of Treasures, v. 20. Or Ahijah might have a general overlight into the Management of those Treasures as an Auditour of the Accounts, although the others had more dignity and power in the disposal of them.

23 Of the Amramite, and the Izharite, the Hebronite, and the Uzzielite b.

b Or, As concerning the Amramite, &c. The meaning is, The persons here following were of these, or the most of these Families. Only here is none of the Family of the Uzzielites; either because that Family was now extinct, whence it is that we read no more of them in the Scripture, but only in this place, and Numb. 3. 27. or because there was none of them fit to be employ'd and trusted in these Matters.

24 And * Shebuel the Son of Gershom, the son of Moses, was ruler of the treasures c c The Prince or Chief over all the Treasures, and Treasures mentioned either before or afterward, as his very Title shews, which is peculiarly given to him and to none of the rest.

* Ch. 23. 16.

25 And his brethren by Eliezer d; Rehabiah his son, and Jeshajah his son, and Joram his son, and Zichri his son, and * Shelomith his son:

* Ch. 23. 18.

d Another Son of Moses, Exod. 18. 4.

26 Which Shelomith and his brethren, were over all the treasures of the dedicate things, which David the king, and the chief fathers, the Captains over thousands and hundreds, and the Captains of the host had dedicated.

27 † Out of the spoils won in battels, did they dedicate to † maintain e the house of the LORD.

† Heb. out of the battels and spoils.
† Heb. to strengthen.

e Heb. To strengthen it, either to make that building strong and substantial by these and other charges: or rather to repair it when it should be built; for which they might the rather take particular Care, because it was likely, that every one would contribute to the building of the Temple, and there would be no want for that use; but few would provide for the Repairs of it, when by the Injury of Men or time, it should receive any damage.

28 And all that Samuel the * Seer, and Saul the son of Kish, and Abner the son of Ner, and Joab the son of Zerujah had dedicated, and whosoever had dedicated any thing, it was under the hand of Shelomith f, and of his brethren.

* 1 Sam. 9. 9.

f Who is particularly named here, and v. 26. because they were chiefly committed to his Truft, he being, it seems, a Person of Eminent Wisdom and Faithfulness.

29 Of the Izharite, Chenaniah and his sons g were for the outward business h over Israel i for Officers and judges k.

g Who are probably thought to have been 1600, for that Sum added to the 1700, v. 30, and the 2700, v. 32. make up those 6000 Levites which were Officers and Judges, 1 Chron. 23. 4. h For that business of the Lord and of the King (as it is explained here, v. 30, 32.) which was to be done without the Temple and without Jerusalem; for what was to be done within them was committed to other hands, as we have seen. i Synecdochically, i.e. over part of Israel, even over the Midland part, and that which lay upon the Sea-Coast: for the other parts of the Land on both sides of Jordan are here committed to others, v. 30, 31, 32. k Who shall be Officers and Judges over the People, in the several Cities and Towns or Parts of the Land, to determine Questions and Controverses which might arise among them. And the reason why the Levites were intrusted with these matters was, because the Common or Municipal Law of Israel, by which they had and held all their Rights, was no other than the Law of God, whereof the Priests and Levites being the best and established Interpreters, must needs therefore be the most proper Judges of things depending thereupon.

30 And of the Hebronite, Hashabiah and his brethren, men of valour, a thousand and seven hundred were † officers, among them of Israel on this side the charge.

† Heb. over

side Jordan westward l, in all businesse of the LORD m, and in the service of the king n.

l In those parts of the Land of Canaan which border upon Jordan, or are not very remote from it. m i. e. In all things which did or should concern the House or Worship of God; partly to take care that such Monies as were either imposed by a Tax or freely given by the People, towards the building or repairing of the Temple, or towards the Sacrifices and other Holy Ministrations should be gathered and received, and faithfully sent up to Jerusalem to be employed in that Work; partly to see to the Execution of all the Laws of God among the People, and to restrain or punish wilful Offenders against it. n Not that all the Kings Businesses were managed by them; for it is apparent, both from the nature of the thing and from Scripture, that the King's Military Affairs were managed by his Captains, and his Political or Civil Affairs were managed by the Princes and Judges, and Officers of other Tribes: but because they served the King in the Execution of his Decrees, made pursuantly to the Laws of God, by which the several Rights of King and People were established, and all things both in Church and Commonwealth were to be ordered. Now as the King was the Principal Person intrusted with the Execution of Gods Laws, so these Levites chiefly were his Eyes by which he saw his Peoples Transgressions, and his Hands by which he inflicted due and deserved Censures upon them for their Miscarriages. And the doing of this was very much for the service of the King, whose Throne was established and secured by such Righteous Administrations. Besides, they were to take care by their Counsel and Authority to keep the People in Obedience to their King; which the Levites were most obliged and best obliged to do.

* Ch. 23. 19.

31 Among the Hebronites was * Jerijah the chief, even among the Hebronites, according to the generations of his fathers. In the fortieth year n of the reign of David, they were sought for, and there were found among them mighty men of valour, at Jazer of Gilead o.

n Which was his last year, in which he made all the Orders and distributions of Families and Offices recorded in these Chapters. o Which place is here named, either because they were seated in or near that place, but for what cause it is now unknown: or because they were numbred there by some Person sent by David to that purpose.

† Heb. things. 2 Chr. 15. 11.

32 And his brethren men of valour, were two thousand and seven hundred p chief fathers, whom king David made rulers over the Reubenite, the Gadite, and the half tribe of Manasseh, for every matter pertaining to God, and † affairs of the king.

p Which is a very great number to be employed about two Tribes and an half; when all the rest of the Tribes had only 1700. v. 30. besides those under Chenaniah; of whom see on v. 29. But the reason hereof is plain, because the Tribes without Jordan being more remote from the Kings Court, and from the place of publick and solemn Worship, needed more than ordinary help to instruct and keep them in the Practise of the True Religion and the Worship of God, and in Obedience to their King.

CHAP. XXVII.

The 12 Captains for every several Month, 1——15. The Princes of the 12 Tribes, 16——22. The chief keepers of David's Treasures, 25——31. His Counsellors and Friends, 32——34.

NOW the Children of Israel after their number, to wit, the chief fathers and captains of thousands and hundreds, and their officers a that served the king in any matter of the courses b, which came in and went out c month by month d, throughout all the months of the year, of every course were twenty and four thousand.

a The standing Force or Militia of Israel as it was settled under their several Officers, as it here follows. b i. e. In all the businesse wherein the King had occasion for these Persons who were to attend upon him or his Commands, by courses or by turns. Or, according to all the order or state of the divisions, or, about the Companies or Courses into which they were destributed. c i. e. Executed their Office: which is commonly signified by this Phrase, as Numb. 27. 17. and elsewhere. d Who were to be Armed and Mustered, and to wait upon the King, either at Jerusalem or in other places, as the King should see fit. By this order near 300000 of his People were Instructed and Exercised in the use of their Arms, and fitted for the defence of their King and Kingdom when it should be needful, and in the mean time sufficient Provision was made against any sudden Tumults or Irruptions of Enemies. And this monthly Course was contrived that the Burden of it might be easy and equally distributed among the People.

2 Over the first course for the first month, was Jashobeam e the son of Zabdiel: and in his course were twenty and four thousand.

e Of whom see 2 Sam. 23. 8. and 1 Chron. 11. 11.

3 Of the children of Perez f, was the chief of all the Captains of the Host for the first month.

f Or, of Pharez, of the Posterity of Judah, Gen. 46. 12. This seems to be understood of Jashobeam, and to be mentioned as a reason why he was the chief, &c. and the verse may be rendred thus, He was (which is easily understood out of the foregoing words) of the children of Perez (and consequently of the Tribe of Judah, to which the Pre-eminence belonged, and of which Judah was) and he was (or, therefore he was) the chief, (to wit, in Dignity and Precedency, though not in Power and Authority, for these Captains were equal in Power, and Joab was their General) of all the Captains of the Host (whose several Names here follow) and was for the first month; therefore he was first in Order, and was Captain for the first month.

4 And over the course of the second month, was || Dodai an Ahohite, and of his course was Mikloth also the ruler g: in his course likewise were twenty and four thousand.

|| Or, Dodo 2 Sam. 23. 9.

g Who was either 1. the Captain of this Course after the death of this Dodai, as Zebadiah was after Asahel, v. 7. But the differing Phrase there and here sufficiently intimates, that the same thing is not meant in both places. Or, 2. His Lieutenant or Deputy in case of his necessary Absence. But why should such an one be named here and not in the rest of the Courses? Or rather 3. One of the Officers of his Course; who seems here particularly to be named as a Person then of great Note and Eminency.

5 The third captain of the host for the third month, was Benajah the son of Jehojada a || chief priest h: and in his course were twenty and four thousand.

|| Or, ejus qui &c.

h Or, The chief Priest. Or rather, a chief Prince, as this Hebrew Word is oft used, as Gen. 41. 45. & 47. 22. 2 Sam. 8. 18. & 20. 26. 1 King. 4. 5. 2 King. 10 11. and elsewhere. Probably he was not only a Captain of this Course, but a great Officer in the Court and State. For although the Priests might take up Arms in some special Cases; yet it is not likely, that such were constant Officers in the Kings Army, especially seeing the rest of the Captains here named, were of other Tribes. Besides, neither Benajah nor Jehojadah was High-Priest at that time, but Zadok or Abiathar, and before them Abimelech, in whom the Priesthood had been for a long time together, even in the days of Samuel and Saul, and David, and Solomon.

6 This is that Benajah, who was * mighty among the thirty, and above the thirty: and in his course was Ammizabad his son i.

* 2 Sam. 23. 22, 23. Ch. 11. 22.

i Who seems to have been his Fathers Lieutenant, because his Father was Captain of the Kings Guard, 2 Sam. 8. 18. and therefore needed a Deputy in the one or in the other place.

7 The fourth captain for the fourth month, was * Asahel the brother of Joab k, and Zebadiah his son after him l: and in his m course were twenty and four thousand.

* 2 Sam. 23. 24. Ch. 11. 26.

k By which, it seems, the Foundation of this Project was laid whilst David was in Hebron, during which time Asahel was Slain, and Davids Forces were then divided into 24 Courses under 24 Chief Commanders, whereof Asahel was one; only it is probable that the number of their Forces was much less than that which is here mentioned: But when David was fully settled in his whole Kingdom, the design was perfected, and the numbers of their Souldiers increased to this Number. l i. e. After his death; of which see 2 Sam. 2. 23. m Not Asahels, for in his time they were not so numerous, but Zebadiah his Son.

8 The fifth captain for the fifth month, was Shamhuth n the Izrahite: and in his course were twenty and four thousand.

* Ch. 11. 28.

n Supposed to be the same called Shammah, 2 Sam. 23. 11. and Shammoth, 1 Chron. 11. 27.

9 The sixth captain for the sixth month, was * Ira the son of Ikkesh the Tekoite: and in his course were twenty and four thousand.

10 The seventh captain for the seventh month, was Helez the Pelonite o, of the children of Ephraim: and in his course were twenty and four thousand.

o So called also 1 Chron. 11. 27. and the Paltite, 2. Sam. 23. 26.

* 2 Sam. 23. 25.

11 The eighth captain for the eighth month, was * Sibbecai the Hushathite, of the Zarhites p: and in his course were twenty and four thousand.

* Ch. 11. 29.

p Of the Family of the Zarhites.

12 The ninth captain for the ninth month, was Abiezer the Anetothite, of the Benjamites: and in his course were twenty and four thousand.

13 The tenth captain for the tenth month, was Maharai the Netophathite, of the Zarhites: and in his course were twenty and four thousand.

14 The eleventh captain for the eleventh month, was Benajah the Pirathonite, of the children of Ephraim: and in his course were twenty and four thousand.

* Or, Hiddai Ch. 11. 32.

15 The twelfth captain for the the twelfth month, was || Heldai the Netophathite of Othniel: and in his course were twenty and four thousand.

16 Furthermore, over the children of Israel q: the ruler of the Reubenites was Eliezer the son of Zichri: of the Simeonites, Shephatiah the son of Maacha.

* Ch. 26. 30.

q i. e. These were the Princes of the Tribes, as they are called below, v. 22. who were the most ancient and constant Rulers of the Tribes at all times, whether of War or Peace; who seem to have had a superiour Power to these 24 Captains, and therefore are named before them, ch. 28. 1. being probably the Kings chief Counsellors and Assistants in the great Affairs of his Kingdom.

† Heb. do rom.

17 Of the Levites, * Hashabiah the son of Kemuel: † of the Aaronites, Zadok:

18 Of

18 Of Judah, Elihu r, one of the brethren of David: of Issachar, Omri the son of Michael:

r Called also Eliab, 1 Sam. 16. 6.

19 Of Zebulun, Ishmajah the son of Obadiah: of Naphtali, Jerimoth, the son of Azriel:

20 Of the children of Ephraim, Hashea the son of Azaziah: of the half tribe of Manasseh, Joel the son of Pedajah:

21 Of the half-tribe of Manasseh in Gilead, Iddo the son of Zechariah: of Benjamin, Jaasiel the son of Abner:

22 Of Dan, Azareel the son of Jeroham. These were the princes of the Tribes s of Israel.

s Of the most of the Tribes, not of all: for Gad is omitted, probably because that Tribe was joyned with the Reubenites under one Prince; and Asher, for some such reason; or for some other Causes now unknown, and not worth our Enquiry.

* Gen. 15. 5.

23 But David took not the number of them from twenty years old and under t: because * the LORD had said, he would increase Israel like to the stars of the Heavens u.

t The meaning is, David when he desired to number the People, he designed to number only those who were from twenty years old and upward, or (which is the same thing) those that drew sword, 1 Chron. 21. 5. and not those who were from twenty years old and under. u And therefore to number them all both above and under twenty years old, had been both an infinite trouble and a tempting of God, or a questioning of the Truth of his Promises. And possibly this Circumstance might in part deceive or quiet David's Conscience, that his desire of knowing the number of his People, did not proceed from distrust of God's Promise or Providence, but from a Prudent Care to know the true State and Strength of his Kingdom.

* 2 Sam. 24. 15. Ch. 21.

24 Joab the son of Zeruiah began to number x, but he finished not y, because * there fell wrath for it against Israel z, neither † was the number put in the account of the Chronicles of king David a.

x To wit, All from twenty years old and upward, as David commanded him. y For Levi and Benjamin he counted not, 1 Chron. 21. 6. z Whilst he was doing the Work; which was one reason which made him to cease. Heb. And there fell, &c. Though David numbred them with Caution and Limitation, as was noted before, yet this did not hinder God's Wrath from falling upon Israel for this Sin. a The sence is either 1. That the full number was not Registred, because Levi and Benjamin were not counted by Joab. Or rather 2. That David being sensible of and smarting for his Sin, would not have the number brought in by Joab to him, put into the publick Register, though God would have it recorded in Scripture for the instruction of succeeding Ages. For he speaks and was Joabs Act; but of the putting of the Account into the publick Records, which was not done, and which could not be done but by David's Command or Permission.

25 And over the kings treasures b was Azmaveth the son of Adiel: and over the store-houses c in the fields, in the cities, and in the villages; and in the castles, was Jehonathan the son of Uzziah.

b Of Gold or Silver, or other things of great price, which for greater security were kept in Jerusalem and in the Kings Palace: and thither the Tribute-money also was sent and committed to his Care. c Of the Fruits of the Earth, or that share of them which belonged to the King, which were laid up in the Fields, or Cities, or Villages, or Castles, as there was conveniency and occasion.

26 And over them that did the work of the field d for tillage of the ground, was Ezri the son of Chelub.

d Over the King's Husbandry.

† Heb. over that which was of the Vineyards.

27 And over the vineyards e was Shimei the Ramathite: † over the increase of the vineyards for the Wine-cellars, was Zabdi the Shiphmite.

e i. e. Over the Workmen and Labourers in the Vineyards; as the next Officer is over the Fruit of the Vineyards. In like manner, one Man was over the Labourers in the Fields, v. 26. and another over the Fruits of the Fields put into Stores after the manner, v. 25.

28 And over the olive-trees, and the sycamore-trees that were in the low plains, was Baal-hanan the Gederite: and over the cellars of oil was Joash.

29 And over the herds that fed in Sharon f, was Shitrai the Sharonite, and over the herds that were in the valleys was Shaphat the son of Adlai.

f A place famous for its Fruitfulness. See Isa. 33. 9. & 35. 2.

30 Over the camels also, was Obil the Ishmeelite g: and over the Asses, was Jehdeja the Meronothite.

g So called, either because he was born of that People, or had lived among them; or from some notable Exploit which he did against them.

31 And over the flocks, was Jaziz the Hegerite. All these were the rulers of the substance which was king Davids.

32 Also Jonathan Davids uncle was a counsellor, a wise man, and a || scribe h: and Jehiel the || son of Hachmoni was with the kings sons i.

|| Or, Secretary. || Or, Hachmonite.

h Either one Learned in the Laws of God, which were also the Laws of the Land, by which all their Counsels were to be ruled. Or, the King's Secretary. i As their Tutor or Governour.

k The Person whose Counsel in matters of State the King most prized and followed. l Or his Friend, as he is called 2 Sam. 15. 37. The Person whom he most trusted with all his Secrets, and whose Conversation was most pleasant and acceptable to him.

34 And after Ahithophel m, was Jehojada the son of Benajah, and Abiathar; and the general of the kings army was * Joab.

CHAP. XXVIII.

David in a solemn Assembly declareth Gods favour to him, and promise to his son Solomon: exhorteth them to fear God, and encourageth Solomon to build the Temple, 1——10. Giveth him a pattern for the form, and Gold and Silver for the materials, 11——21.

AND David assembled a all the * princes of Israel, the princes of the tribes, and * the captains of the companies that ministred to the kingly course, and the captains over the thousands, and captains over the hundreds, and the * stewards over all the substance and || possession of the king, and of his sons, with the || officers, and with * the mighty men, and with all the valiant men unto Jerusalem.

a This Assembly seems to be distinct from that ch. 23. 2. and more general, as may be gathered from the persons said to be assembled here and there. Though others think them to be the same, and this to be a return to his former Discourse.

2 Then David the king stood up upon his feet b, and said, Hear me, my brethren c, and my people. As for me, I had in mine heart to build an house of rest d for the Ark of the covenant of the LORD, and e for the foot-stool of our God, and had made ready for the building:

b Partly out of Reverence to God and his Word, which was the Matter of the following Discourse; and partly out of Respect to this great and honourable Assembly. c So he calls the Princes and chief Rulers, both because they had a share with him, though under him in the Government; and in compliance with the Divine Command, that the King should not be lifted up above his brethren, Deut. 17. 20. d A place where it might be fixed, and no more removed from place to place, as it had been. e Which is here put expositively, for by the Footstool, &c. he means the Ark.

4 Howbeit, the LORD God of Israel chose me before all the house of my father to be king over Israel * for ever: for he hath chosen * Judah to be the ruler; and of the house of Judah, the house of my father; and among the house of my father, he liked me to make me king over Israel.

will be found of thee; but if thou forsake him m, he will cast thee off for ever n.

k Know him, so as to love him and serve him, as it follows: for Words of Knowledge in Scripture-use commonly imply Affection and Practise: or acknowledge him, as thy God, by loving and obeying him: For otherwise Solomon did already know God, having doubtless been very well instructed in the knowledge of Gods Nature and Law. l If thou doest only put on a Profession of Religion to please me and secure thy hopes of the Kingdom; or if thy Obedience to God be unsincere and with grudging, thou mayst indeed deceive me, but thou canst not deceive him, for he searcheth thy inward Thoughts and the Motions of thy Heart. m If when I am dead and gone, and thou art perfectly at thy own disposal, thou shalt cast off that Religion and Fear of God of which thou now makest Profession, and shalt continue to do so without true Repentance for thine Errours. n Notwithstanding all his Promises made to me and to my Seed, and that great Honour and Favour which he hath shewed to thee, with which possibly thou mayest flatter thy self.

10 Take heed now, for the LORD hath chosen thee to build an house for the sanctuary o, be strong p and do it.

o Or, for a sanctuary, i. e. which is to be a Sanctuary for him, to wit, for the Ark, to dwell in. p Take Courage and Resolution to break through all Difficulties, Troubles, Discouragements or Oppositions which thou mayest possibly meet with.

11 Then David gave to Solomon his son the pattern of the porch q, and of the houses thereof r, and of the treasuries thereof, and of the upper chambers thereof, and of the inner parlours thereof s, and of the place of the mercy-seat t.

q To wit, of the Temple; which is necessarily to be understood. r Either 1. the houses of the Porch, so called because they went thorough the Porch into them. Or rather 2. The Houses of the Temple manifestly understood in the next foregoing Clause of this Verse; to wit, the Holy Place, and the Holy of Holies; which may well pass for two Houses, because they were separated by a Partition; and because they were of differing Dimensions, as appears by 1 King. 6. 2, 20. especially seeing the Holy Place is called the greater House, 2 Chron. 3. 5. comparitively to the Holy of Holies, which was the lesser House, and so you have two Houses. s By these he seems to understand all those Rooms which were made against the Wall of the House round about, as it is said 1 King. 6. 5. which are here called by divers names, according to the difference of their situation or use. t i. e. In what particular part of the Holy of Holies it was to be placed.

† Heb. of all that was with him.

12 And the pattern † of all u that he had by the spirit x, of the courts of the house of the LORD, and of all the chambers round about, of the treasuries of the house of God, and of the treasuries of the dedicate things y.

u For, Even the pattern of all: for this clause belongs both to the foregoing and to the following Particulars. x By the Spirit of God, as is evident from v. 19. For seeing all the particulars of the Tabernacle built by Moses were suggested to him by Gods Spirit, by which even the Workmen were inspired, Exod 25. 40. and 31. 3. it is not credible that God would use less care and exactness in the building of this far more glorious and durable Work. y All which were within the Courts or adjoyning to them, as the other Chambers, v. 11. were adjoyned to the House.

13 Also for the courses of the priests and the Levites, and for all the work of the service of the house of the LORD, and for all the vessels of service in the house of the LORD.

14 He gave of gold by weight, for things of gold, for all instruments of all manner of service, silver also for all instruments of silver, by weight, for all instruments of every kind of service.

15 Even the weight for the candlesticks of Gold, and for their lamps of gold, by weight for every candlestick, and for the lamps thereof: and for the candlesticks of silver by weight, both for the ‖ Main body of the. ‖ candlestick, and also for the lamps thereof, according to the use of every candlestick z.

z Whether they were large and fixed in one place, whereof there were ten in the Holy place, 1 King. 7. 49. or such as were less and loose to be carried from place to place, as need required.

16 And by weight he gave gold for the tables of shew bread a, for every table; and likewise silver for the tables of silver:

a By this and 2 Chron. 4. 19. it appears, that there were divers Tables to be used either successively or together about the Shew-bread; but one of them seems to have been of more Eminency and use than the rest, and therefore it is most commonly called the Table of the Shew-bread in the singular number. But of this and the rest of the Utensils here named, see the Notes on Exodus.

17 Also pure gold for the flesh-hooks, and the bowls and the cups: and for the golden basons he gave gold by weight for every bason, and likewise silver by weight for every bason of silver.

18 And for the altar of incense, refined gold by weight; and gold for the pattern of the chariot of * 1 Sam. 4. the * cherubims b, that spread out their wings and co- 1 King. 6. 23. &c. vered the ark of the covenant of the LORD c.

b i. e. Of the Cherubims, which Solomon was to make, of which see 1 King. 6. 23. (for those which were fastened to the Mercy-seat were made by Moses long before) which he fitly compares to a Chariot, because within them God is oft said to sit and to dwell, as 2 King. 19. 15. Psal. 80. 1. & 99. 1. and sometimes he is said to ride upon a Cherub, Psal. 18. 10. And because a Chariot is made to carry a Person from place to place, this Expression may be used to intimate that God was not so fixed to them by the building of this Temple, but that he both could and would remove from them if they forsook him. And when they did so, God did make use of the Chariot of his Cherubims to convey himself away from them, as is noted Ezek. 10. 15, &c. c Not above it, for that was done by Moses his Cherubims, but before it, to keep it from the Eyes of the High-Priest, when he entered into the most Holy Place, 1 King. 6. 23.

19 All this said David, * the LORD made me understand in writing by † his hand upon ‖ me d, even all the works of this pattern. * Exod. 25. † Or, from. ‖ Or, to, or within.

d The meaning is either 1. That God revealed this to Samuel (see 1 Chron. 9. 22.) or Gad, or Nathan, or some other Man of God who put it into Writing, and by them to David. Or, 2. That God did, as it were, by his own Hand and Finger, (wherewith he wrote the Ten Commandments, Exod. 31. 18.) write these things upon the Table of my Mind, which now I deliver to thee.

20 And David said to Solomon his son, Be strong and of good courage e, and do it: fear not nor be dismayed, for the LORD God, even my God, will be with thee, he will not fail thee, nor forsake thee, until thou hast finished all the work for the service of the house of the LORD.

e See the Notes on v. 10.

21 And behold, the courses of the priests and the Levites, even they shall be with thee for all the service of the house of God, and there shall be with thee for all manner of workmanship, every willing skilful man, for any manner of service: also the princes and all the people will be wholly at thy commandment.

CHAP. XXIX.

David by his Example and Intreaty, 1——5. Causes the Princes and People to offer willingly, 6——9. David's Thanksgiving and Prayer, 10——19. The People having blessed God and Sacrificed, make Solomon King, 20——25. David's reign and death, 25——30.

FUrthermore, David the king said unto all the congregation, Solomon my son, whom alone God hath chosen, is yet * young and tender a, and the work is great: for the palace is not for man, but for the LORD. * Ch. 22. 5.

a Comparitively: for he was now married, as appears by comparing 2 Chron. 9. 30. and 12. 13.

2 Now I have prepared with all my might for the house of my God, the gold for things to be made of gold, and the silver for things of silver, and the brass for things of brass, the iron for things of iron, and wood for things of wood; onyx-stones, and stones to be set b, glistering stones, and of divers colours, and all manner of precious stones, and marble-stones in abundance.

b Diamonds, or Emeraulds, or Rubies, or any of those precious Stones which are usually set in Rings or such things.

3 Moreover, because I have set my affection to the house of my God, † I have of mine own proper good c, of gold and silver, which I have given to the house of my God, over and above all that I have prepared for the holy house, † Heb. I have it to me a peculiar treasure.

c Of that which I have reserved as a peculiar Treasure to my own Use, after I had separated those things which I had devoted to God.

4 Even three thousand talents of gold, of the gold of * Ophir d, and seven thousand talents of refined silver to overlay the walls of the houses withal e: * 1 Kin. 9. 28.

d Which was accounted the best and purest gold: of which see Job. 22. 24. & 28. 16. Isa. 13. 12. By which it appears, that those 100000 Talents mentioned before, ch. 22. 14. were a coarser and impurer sort of Gold. e The Walls of the Temple with Gold, and of the Rooms adjoyning to it, with Silver beaten out into plates and put upon the other Materials here and there as it was thought fit.

5 The gold for things of gold, and the silver for things of silver, and for all manner of work to be made by the hands of artificers. And who then is willing, † to consecrate his service f this day unto the LORD? † Heb. to fill his hand.

f Heb. to fill his hand, i. e. to offer an Offering, as Exod. 32. 29. Levit. 8. 33. as I have done.

6 Then the chief of the ‖ fathers and princes of the tribes of Israel, and the captains of thousands and of hundreds, with the * rulers over the kings ‖ work, offered willingly, ‖ Or, families. * Ch. 27. 25. ‖ Or, business.

7 And gave for the service of the house of God, of gold five thousand talents, and ten thousand drams, drams, and of silver ten thousand Talents; and of brass, eighteen thousand talents, and one hundred thousand talents of iron.

8 And they with whom precious stones were found, gave them to the treasure of the house of the LORD, by the hand of * Jehiel the Gershonite. * Ch. 26. 21.

9 Then the people rejoyced g, for that they offered willingly, because with perfect heart they offered willingly to the LORD: and David the king also rejoyced with great joy.

g Because this was both an Effect of God's Grace in them, and an Eminent Token of God's Favour and Goodness to be continued to them, and a good Pledge that this great and long-desired Work of the building of the Temple, would receive a certain and a speedy Accomplishment.

10 Wherefore David blessed the LORD before all the congregation; and David said, * Blessed be thou, LORD God of Israel our father, † for ever and ever. * Gen. thou art to be blessed. † Or, from everlasting. * Mat. 6. 13. 1 Tim. 1. 17. Rev. 5. 13.

h i. e. Thou art Great and Powerful, &c. i As the Sovereign Lord and Owner of all Persons and Things.

11 * Thine, O LORD, is the greatness, and the power h, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven, and in the earth, is thine; thine is the kingdom, O LORD, and thou art exalted as head above all i.

12 Both riches and honour come of thee, and thou reignest over all k, and in thine hand is power and might, and in thine hand it is to make great, and to give strength unto all l.

k i. e. Thou disposest of Riches and Honour, as thou pleasest. l Even to the weakest, whom thou canst make strong, and to the strongest, who are weak without thy help.

13 Now therefore our God, we thank thee, and praise thy glorious name.

14 But who am I, and what is my people, that we should † be able to offer so willingly m after this sort? for all things come of thee, and † of thine own have we given thee n. † Heb. to retain, to withhold. † Heb. of thine hand.

m i. e. That thou shouldest give us both such Riches out of which we should be able to make such an Offering, and such a willing and free heart to offer them; both which are thy Gifts and the Fruits of thy good Grace and mercy to us. n We return only what we have received, and therefore we do only pay a Debt to thee, and do not hereby oblige thee or deserve any thing from thee.

15 For * we are strangers before thee, and sojourners, as were all our fathers o: * our days on the earth are as a shadow, and there is none † abiding p. * Psal. 39. 12. Heb. 11. 13. 1 Pet. 2. 11. † Heb. expectation.

o These Words may contain a reason, either 1. of the first clause of v. 14. Who am I, &c. i. e. What mean and contemptible Creatures are we, and how unworthy of so high a Favour? For, faith he here, we, I and my People, as it is v. 14. are strangers, &c. poor Pilgrims who bring nothing into the World, and pass hastily thorough it, and can carry nothing with us out of it. Or rather 2. Of the last clause of that 14th verse, of thine own, &c. For the Land which we possess is thine, not ours; we are not the Proprietors or perpetual Possessors of it, but only thy Tenants: and as our Fathers once were meer strangers in it, even with or before Men, Psal. 105. 12. so we at this day are no better with or before thee, having no absolute Right and Title in it, but only to travel through it, and sojourn in it for that short time that we live in the World. And thus the Argument seems to be borrowed from Levit. 25. 23. where this is given as a reason why the Inheritances of the Land of Canaan could not be Sold for ever, but only till the Jubily, for, saith God, the land is mine, as to Dominion and Propriety, for ye were (or, for, or, but you are) only strangers and sojourners with me. p We only give to thee what we must shortly leave, and what we cannot keep to our selves: and therefore it is a great Favour that thou wilst accept such Offerings; or, and therefore we are not perpetual Possessors of this Land and the Fruits of it, but only Pilgrims and Passengers thorough it. Heb. expectation. Lev. 25. 23.

16 O LORD our God, all this store that we have prepared to build thee an house for thine holy name, cometh of thine hand, and is all thine own.

17 I know also, my God, that thou * triest the heart, and hast pleasure in uprightness. As for me, in the uprightness of mine heart I have willingly offered all these things: and now have I seen with joy thy people which are † present here, to offer willingly unto thee q. * Sam. 16. 7. Chr. 28. 9. † Heb. found.

q By the largeness of their Offering I discern the sincerity, Willingness and Generosity of their Hearts towards thee: for David judged, as in reason and charity he ought, of the Tree by its Fruit, and of their Hearts by their Actions.

18 O LORD God of Abraham, Isaac, and of Israel our father, keep this for ever in the imagination of the thoughts of the heart of thy people r, and ‖ prepare their heart unto thee s. ‖ Or, stablish.

r Since it is from thy Grace that thy People have such willing Minds to thy service, as was before acknowledged, I beg the continuance of that Grace to them, that they may persist in the same generous and pious Disposition towards thee and thy Worship.

s Or, rather, as it is in the Margent, stablish or confirm, &c. Thou who hast begun a good Work, confirm and carry it on by thy Grace, otherwise it will languish, and this very People will prove degenerate.

19 And give unto Solomon my son a perfect heart to keep thy commandments, thy testimonies and thy statutes, and to do all these things, and to build the palace for the which I have made provision t.

t By Purchasing the place, 1 Chron. 21. and providing for the Expences of the Work.

20 And David said to all the congregation, Now bless the LORD your God. And all the congregation blessed the LORD God of their fathers, and bowed down their heads, and worshipped the LORD and the king w.

u The Lord with Religious, and the King with Civil Worship, as it is evident.

21 And they sacrificed sacrifices unto the LORD x, and offered burnt-offerings unto the LORD, on the morrow after that day, even a thousand bullocks, a thousand rams, and a thousand lambs, with their drink-offerings and sacrifices in abundance for all Israel y:

x Before the Ark which was there. y Either 1 on the behalf of all Israel, to praise God in their Names, to procure God's Presence and Blessing for them all. Or 2. So many, that the Feasts which, after the manner, were made of the remainders of the Sacrifices, were abundantly sufficient for all the Israelites which were then present and desired to partake of them; or for all the Governours of Israel there Assembled, who may well pass under the name of all Israel, because they represented them all.

22 And did eat and drink before the LORD z on that day with great gladness, and they made Solomon the son of David king the second time a, and * anointed him unto the LORD to be the chief gover- * 1 King. 1. 39. nour b, and Zadok to be priest c.

z i. e. Before the Ark, in Courts or Places as near to it as they conveniently could. Or, as in God's Presence, in a Solemn and Religious manner, praising God for this great Mercy, and begging his Blessing upon this great Affair. a This is called the second time in reference to the first time, which was either 1. when he was made King during Adonijah's Conspiracy, of which see 1 King. 1. 34. &c. And so this was done after David's Death, and not upon that day, when this Feasting and Solemnity lasted, as the words at first view seem to infinuate, this being related in the same verse, and immediately after the Relation of the Feast. But there are Examples of things done at distant times put together in one verse, as Act. 7. 15. So Jacob went down into Egypt, and dyed, he and our Fathers, i. e. first he, and afterward our Fathers. So here, They did eat and drink——on that day with great gladness, and afterward they made Solomon——king the second time. And this Opinion seems to be confirmed by the following Passages, in which it is related, that at this same time they anointed Zadok to be Priest, and that Solomon was King instead of David, and that all Israel, and all David's sons submitted to him: all which was not done till after David's Death, as may be gathered by comparing this with 1 King. 1. & 2. or 2. in 1 Chron. 23. 1. where it is said that David made Solomon his son king over Israel; i. e. he declared him his Successor. And so this second time was during David's Life. And what David had more privately declared, ch. 23. he now more solemnly owns in this great and general Assembly, in which by David's Order, and the Consent of all that Assembly, Solomon was anointed King, i. e. to be King after his Father's Death. And this Opinion the Text seems most to favour. For it is said, And they made Solomon King, &c. they, who? That must be fetched out of the foregoing Words and Verses, they who did eat and drink before the Lord on that day with great gladness, as it is here said, and then immediately it follows, and that with a copulative conjunction, and they made Solomon king, &c. which without violence cannot be pulled away from the foregoing Words. And therefore they must be David and all the Congregation, who were then present, v. 20. of whom it is said, they sacrificed, &c. v. 21. and they did eat, &c. and they made Solomon, &c. The great Objection against this Opinion is, that they anointed Zadok to be Priest at this time, which was not done till after David's death; for till then Abiathar was not thrust out from being Priest, &c. 1 King. 2. 26, 27. This indeed is a difficulty, but not insoluble. It must be remembred that the High-priest had his Vicegerent who might officiate in his stead, when he was hindred by sickness or other indispensable Occasion; and that there seems to be something more than ordinary in Zadok's case; for although Abiathar was properly the High-priest, yet Zadok seems after a sort to be joyned in Commission with him, as we see 2 Sam. 15. 29. & 19. 11. and it is expressly said, Zadok and Abiathar were Priests, 2 Sam. 20. 25. and 1 King. 4. 4. And it may be further considered, that this anointing of Zadok might be occasioned by some miscarriage of Abiathar not recorded in Scripture. Possibly he was unsatisfied with this design of Translating the Crown to Solomon, and did now secretly favour Adonijah's Person and Right, which afterward he did more openly defend: Which being known to David by information, might induce him and the Princes who favoured Solomon to take this course. Which they might the more willingly do in consideration of that Divine Threatning, 1 Sam. 2. 31. &c. of Translating the Priesthood from Ithamar's and Elis house, of which Abiathar was, to Eleazar's Line, to which it had been promised to perpetuity, Numb. 25. 13. of which Line Zadock was. And they might judge this a fit Season, or might be directed by God at this time to Execute that Threatning to the one, and Promise to the other Family. And yet this Action of theirs in Anointing Zadok did not, as I suppose, actually constitute him High-priest, but only settled the Reversion of it upon him and his Line after Ahaziah's death. Even as David's making Solomon King, ch. 23. 1. and their anointing Solomon to be the chief Governour here, did not put him into actual Poſſeſſion of the Kingdom, but only gave him a Right to it in Reverſion after the preſent King's death, as Samuel's anointing of David, 1 Sam. 16. had done to David before him. Hence, notwithſtanding this Anointing, Abiathar continued to exerciſe his Office till Solomon thruſt him out, 1 King. 2. 27. and even after he was removed from the Execution of his Office, yet he was reputed the Prieſt till he died, being ſo called 1 Kings 4. 4. And this, I hope may in ſome ſort reſolve that difficulty. For the other Arguments they ſeem not conſiderable. For as for what follows, v. 23, 24, 25. Then Solomon ſat on the Throne, &c. that indeed ſeems to belong to the time after David's death, being ſufficiently ſeparated from this 23d. verſe; and not to knit to the foregoing Words, as thoſe words, and they made Solomon King, &c. are. And for the particle, then, that is conſeſſed by all to be often uſed at large and indefinitely for, about, or after that time. b i. e. To be King after David's death. c Of which the laſt Note but one.

23 Then Solomon ſat on the throne of the LORD d as king in ſtead of David his father, and proſpered, and all Iſrael obeyed him.

Or, 3. The Throne of the Lord is put for, The Throne of the People of the Lord, by a conciſe and ſhort manner of Speech, which is frequent in the Hebrew Language, as when the Key of David is put for the Key of the Houſe of David; and the Mountain of the Lord, for the Mountain of the Lord's Houſe: Or 4. Becauſe this Throne fell to Solomon not by right of Inheritance, for he had elder Brethren, but by the ſpecial Appointment and Gift of the Lord. And ſo this, of the Lord, is the genitive caſe of the Efficient, as the Learned call it, and ſignifies, which the Lord gave him.

a Or, eſtabliſhed, after his Seditious Brother Adonijah and his Partiſans were ſuppreſſed; and he was received with the univerſal Conſent and Joy of his Princes and People.

2 Then Solomon ſpake b unto all Iſrael, to the captains of thouſands and of hundreds, and to the judges, and to every governour in all Iſrael, ‖ the chief of the fathers.

‖ Or, head of the families. So Gr.

b To wit, concerning his Intention of going to Gibeon, and that they ſhould attend him thither, as the next Verſe ſhews.

3 So Solomon, and all the congregation with him, went to the high place c that was at * Gibeon, for there was the tabernacle of the congregation of God, which Moſes the ſervant of the LORD had made in the wilderneſs.

* 1 Kin. 3. 4. 1 Chr. 16. 39. & 21. 29.

c Upon which the Tabernacle was placed; whence it is called the great high Place, 1 Kings 3. 4.

4 * But the ark of God had David brought up from Kirjath-jearim, to the place which David had prepared for it: for he had pitched a tent for it at Jeruſalem d.

* 1 Sam. 6. 17. 1 Chr. 16. 1.

d He ſeparated the Ark from the Tabernacle, and brought it to Jeruſalem, becauſe there he intended to build a far more noble and laſting Habitation for it.

5 Moreover, * the brazen altar that Bezaleel the ſon of Uri, the ſon of Hur, had made, ‖ he e put before the tabernacle of the LORD: and Solomon and the congregation ſought unto it f.

*Exo. 38. 1 ‖ Or, was there.

e Either Moſes mentioned v. 3. or Bezaleel here laſt named, by the Command and Direction of Moſes: or David, who may be ſaid to put it there, becauſe he continued it there, and did not remove it, as he did the Ark from the Tabernacle. f i. e. Sought the Lord and his Favour by hearty Prayers and Sacrifices in the Place which God had appointed for that Work, Levit. 17. 3, 4.

6 And Solomon went up thither to the brazen altar before the LORD, which g was at the tabernacle of the congregation, and offered a thouſand burnt-offerings upon it.

g i. e. Which Altar. But that he had now ſaid v. 5. and therefore would not unneceſſarily repeat it. Or rather, who: and ſo theſe Words are emphatical, and contain a Reaſon why Solomon went thither, becauſe the Lord was there graciouſly preſent to hear Prayers and receive Sacrifices.

7 In that night h did God appear i unto Solomon, and ſaid unto him, Ask what I ſhall give thee.

h After thoſe Sacrifices were offered. i In a Dream, of which ſee the Notes on 1 King. 3. 5, &c.

8 And Solomon ſaid unto God, Thou haſt ſhewed great mercy unto David my father, and haſt made me * to reign in his ſtead.

9 Now, O LORD God, let thy promiſe unto David my father be eſtabliſhed: * for thou haſt made me king over a people, † like the duſt of the earth in multitude;

* 1 Ki. 3. † Heb. upon the duſt of the earth.

* Num. 27. 17. † Heb. to go out before them.

k What one Man is ſufficient to govern ſo numerous a People.

11 And God ſaid to Solomon, Becauſe this was in thine heart, and thou haſt not aſked riches, wealth, or honour, nor the life of thine enemies l neither yet haſt aſked long life; but haſt aſked wiſdom and knowledge for thy ſelf, that thou mayeſt judge my people, over whom I have made thee king:

l i. e. The taking away of their Lives.

12 Wiſdom and knowledge is granted unto thee, and I will give thee riches, and wealth, and honour, ſuch as * none of the kings have had, that have been before thee, neither ſhall there any after thee have the like.

* 1 Chap. Eccleſ. 2. 9.

13 Then

13 Then Solomon came from his journey to the high place m that was at Gibeon, to Jeruſalem, from before the tabernacle of the congregation, and reigned over Iſrael.

m Or, from the High-place: for the Hebrew prefix Lamed, which commonly ſignifies to, is ſometimes put for the Latin de, which ſignifies from.

14 * And Solomon gathered chariots n and horſemen: and he had a thouſand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thouſand horſe-men, which he placed in the chariot-cities, and with the king at Jeruſalem.

* 1 Kin. 4. 26. & 10. 26, &c.

n Of this, and the three following Verſes, ſee the Notes on 1 King. 10. 26, &c.

15 * And the king † made ſilver and gold at Jeruſalem as plenteous as ſtones, and cedar-trees made he as the ſycamore-trees that are in the vale, for abundance.

* 1 Kin. 10. 27. Ch. 9. 27. † Heb. gave.

Solomon appointeth Workmen to build the Temple. His Embaſſage to K. Hiram, for Workmen and Materials: promiſing to furniſh him with Victuals, 3——10. Hiram's kindneſs, 12——16. Solomon numbreth and divideth the Workmen, 17, 18.

AND Solomon determined to build an houſe for the name of the LORD, and an houſe for his kingdom a.

a i. e. A Royal Palace for himſelf and his Succeſſors. This whole Chapter, for the ſubſtance of it, is contained in 1 King. 5. and in the Notes there it is explained, and the ſeeming differences reconciled.

2 And * Solomon told out threeſcore and ten thouſand men to bear burdens, and fourſcore thouſand to hew in the mountains, and three thouſand and ſix hundred to overſee them.

* 1 Kin. 5. 15.

3 And Solomon ſent to ‖ Huram the king of Tyre ſaying, As thou * didſt deal with David my father, and didſt ſend him cedars to build him an houſe to dwell therein, even ſo deal with me b.

Or, without any Ellipſes, the ſenſe being here ſuſpended, is compleated, v. 7. ſo ſend me, &c. the 4, 5, and 6 verſes being inſerted by way of Parentheſis, to uſher in, and enforce his following Requeſt.

4 Behold, I build an houſe to the name of the LORD my God, to dedicate it to him c, and to burn before him † ſweet inceniſe, and for the continual ſhew bread d, and for the burnt-offerings morning and evening, on the ſabbaths, and on the new-moons, and on the ſolemn feaſts of the LORD our God. This is an ordinance for ever to Iſrael.

† Heb. Incenſe of Spices.

c i. e. To his Honour and Worſhip. d So called here and Numb. 4. 7. becauſe it was to be there continually, by a conſtant ſucceſſion of new Bread, when the old was removed: Of which ſee Exod. 25. 30. Levit. 24. 8.

5 And the houſe which I build is great e: for great is our God above all gods.

e For though the Temple ſtrictly ſo called, was but ſmall, yet the Buildings belonging to it, both above and under ground, were large and numerous.

6 * But who † is able to build him an houſe, ſeeing the heaven, and the heaven of heavens cannot contain him f? who am I then that I ſhould build him an houſe, ſave only to burn ſacrifice before him g.

* 1 Kin. 8. 27. Ch. 6. 18. † Heb. hath reviued, or obtained ſtrength.

f When I ſpeak of building a great Houſe for our great God, let none be ſo fooliſh to think that I mean to include or comprehend God within it, for he is infinite. g i. e. To worſhip him there where he is graciouſly preſent.

7 Send me now therefore a man, cunning to work in gold, and in ſilver, and in braſs, and in iron, and in purple, and crimſon, and blue, and that can skill † to grave with the cunning men that are with me in Judah and in Jeruſalem, whom David my father did provide.

† Heb. to grave graving.

8 Send me alſo cedar-trees, fir-trees, and ‖ algum-trees out of Lebanon: (for I know that thy ſervants can skill to cut timber in Lebanon) and behold, my ſervants, ſhall be with thy ſervants,

‖ Or, almug-trees. 1 Kin. 10. 11.

9 Even to prepare me timber in abundance: for the houſe which I am about to build, ſhall be † wonderfully great h.

† Heb. great and wonderful.

h See the Notes on v. 5.

10 And behold, I will give to thy ſervants, the hewers that cut timber, twenty thouſand meaſures of beaten wheat, and twenty thouſand meaſures of barley, and twenty thouſand baths of wine, and twenty thouſand baths of oyl.

11 Then Huram the king of Tyre anſwered in writing, which he ſent to Solomon, Becauſe the LORD hath loved his people, he hath made thee king over them.

12 Huram ſaid moreover, Bleſſed be the LORD God of Iſrael that made heaven and earth, who hath given to David the king a wiſe ſon, † endued with prudence and underſtanding, that might build an houſe for the LORD, and an houſe for his kingdom.

† Heb. knowing prudence and underſtanding.

13 And now I have ſent a cunning man (endued with underſtanding) of Huram my fathers i; i i. e. Who was my Father's chief Work-man. Or, Hiram Abi, a Man ſo called, the Prefix Hiram being here only a Note of the Accuſative Caſe. See more on ch. 4. 16.

14 The ſon of a woman of the daughters of Dan k, and his father was a man of Tyre, ſkilful to work in gold and in ſilver, in braſs, in iron, in ſtone and in timber, in purple, in blue, and in fine linnen, and in crimſon: alſo to grave any manner of graving, and to find out every deviſe which ſhall be put to him, with thy cunning men, and with the cunning men of my lord l David thy father.

k Of which ſee the Notes on 1 King. 7. 14. l So he calls David here, and Solomon in the next Verſe, either out of ſingular reſpect to their Greatneſs and true Worth: or becauſe he was indeed Tributary to them: or, at leaſt, his Country was nouriſhed by their Country, as it was afterwards, Act. 12. 20.

15 Now therefore the wheat, and the barley, the oil, and the wine which my lord hath ſpoken of, let him ſend unto his ſervants:

16 And we will cut wood out of Lebanon, as much as thou ſhalt need, and we will bring it to thee in flotes by ſea to Joppa, † and thou ſhalt carry it up to Jeruſalem.

† Heb. according to all thy need. † Zephir.

17 * And Solomon numbred all † the ſtrangers that were in the land of Iſrael, after the numbring, where with David his father had numbred them m; and they were found an hundred and fifty thouſand, and three thouſand and ſix hundred.

* 1 Kin. 9. 20. & ver. 2. † Heb. the men, the ſtrangers.

m For David had not only numbred his own People, for which he ſmarted, 2 Samuel 24. but afterward he numbred the Strangers, not out of Vanity, but that Solomon might have a true Account of them, and employ them about his Buildings, as he ſaw fit. Yet Solomon thought fit to number them again, becauſe Death might have made a conſiderable Alteration among them ſince David's numbring of them; and it behoved him to have an exact Account of them.

18 And he ſet * threeſcore and ten thouſand of them to be bearers of burdens, and fourſcore thouſand to be hewers in the mountains, and three thouſand and ſix hundred over-ſeers to ſet the people a work.

* As it is verſe 2.

CHAP. III.

The place and time of building the Temple. The meaſure and ornaments thereof, 1——10. The Cherubims, 11——13. The Veil and the Pillars, 14——17.

THEN * Solomon began to build the houſe of the LORD at Jeruſalem in mount Moriah, ‖ where the LORD appeared unto David a his father, in the place that David had prepared b in the threſhing-floor of * Ornan the Jebuſite.

* 1 Kin. 6. 1, &c. ‖ Or, which was ſeen of David his father. * 1 Chr. 21. 18. & 22. 1. ‖ Or, Araunah. 2 Sam. 24. 18.

a Which Place the Lord had Conſecrated by his gracious Appearance there, 1 Chron. 21. 26. Or, which was ſhewed unto David, to wit, to be the Place where the Temple ſhould be built; which God pointed out to him, partly by his Appearance, and principally by his Spirit ſuggeſting this to David at that time. b By paving down the Buildings which were upon it, or near it, by levelling the Ground, and poſſibly by marking it out for the Temple and Courts, the Dimenſions whereof he very particularly and exactly underſtood by the Spirit of God. c i. e. In the place where that Threſhing-floor formerly ſtood.

2 And he began to build in the ſecond day of the ſecond month d, in the fourth year of his reign.

d Of this Verſe, and the reſt of this Chapter, ſee my Notes on 1 King. 6.

3 Now theſe are the things * wherein Solomon was † inſtructed e for the building of the houſe of God. The length by cubits after the firſt meaſure was threeſcore cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits.

* 1 Kin. 6. 2. † Heb. inſtructed. e Heb. founded.

e Partly by his Father David, and partly by the Spirit of GOD, which inſpired and guided him in the whole Work. Or, theſe were Solomon's Foundations, the Hebrew verb being put for the noun, as it is elſewhere. The Senſe is, Theſe were the Meaſures of the Foundations, dations, upon which he intended to build the Temple. f i. e. According to the Measure of the first and ancient Cubit. By which it is evident that there were Cubits of different sorts and frzes; which also appears from Ezek. 40. 5. and 43. 13. But how big those Cubits were, and how much larger than the common Cubits, and whether this was the Cubit used by Moses in the building of the Tabernacle, which seems most probable, or some other and yet larger Cubit, is not agreed among Learned Men, and cannot now be exactly known, nor is it of any great moment for us to know.

* 1 Kings 5. 3. 4 And the * porch that was in the front of the house, the length of it was according to the breadth of the house, twenty cubits, and the height was an hundred and twenty g: and he overlaid it within with pure gold.

g This being a kind of Turret to the Building. The breadth of it here omitted is expressed to be ten Cubits, 1 Kings 6. 3.

† Heb. good, Gen. 2. 12. 5 And the greater house h he ceiled with fir-tree, which he overlaid with † fine gold, and set thereon palm-trees and chains.

h i. e. The Holy Place, which was thrice as large as the lesser house or the Holy of Holies, which is called the Most Holy House, v. 8. See the Notes on 1 Chron. 28. 11.

† Heb. covered. † Gr. for glory. 6 And he † garnished the house with precious stones † for beauty: and the gold was gold of Parvaim i.

i See the Notes on 1 Kings 9. 26, &c.

7 He overlaid also the house, the beams, the posts and the walls thereof, and the doors thereof with gold, and graved cherubims on the walls.

8 And he made the most holy house, the length whereof was according to the breadth of the house, twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof twenty cubits: and he overlaid it with fine gold amounting to six hundred talents.

9 And the weight of the nails k was fifty shekels of gold: and he overlayed the upper chambers l with gold.

k i. e. Of each of the Nails or Heads of those Nails whereby the Plates were fastned to the Boards. l Of which see on 1 Chron. 28. 11.

‖ Or, (as some think) of marble-work. Gr. of wooden work. 10 And in the most holy house he made two cherubims ‖ of image-work m, and overlaid them with gold.

m Made in the shape of young Men or Boys, as they commonly are. Or, of moveable work, so called because they were not fixed to the Mercy-seat, as the Mosaical Cherubims were, but stood upon their feet, as it is said here v. 13. in a moving posture.

11 And the wings of the cherubims were twenty cubits long: one wing of the one cherub was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the house: and the other wing was likewise five cubits, reaching to the wing of the other cherub.

12 And one wing of the other cherub was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the house: and the other wing was five cubits also, joyning to the wing of the other cherub.

‖ Or, toward the house. 13 The wings of these cherubims spread themselves forth twenty cubits: and they stood on their feet, and their faces were ‖ inward n.

Heb. Towards the House, or rather, that House, not the Holy House, as divers understand it; for then their backs must have been turned towards the Ark, which was indecent and directly contrary to the posture of Moses his Cherubims which looked towards it, but the Most Holy House, which was last named, v. 8. and of which he continues yet to speak; this Posture being most agreeable to their Use, which was with their Wings to close in the Ark and cover it, as it is expressly affirmed below, ch. 5. 8.

* Mat. 27. 51. † Heb. caused to ascend. 14 And he made the * vail o of blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine linen, and † wrought cherubims thereon.

o To wit, the Inner Vail before the Most Holy Place, by comparing this with Exod. 26. 31. 1 Kings 6. 21.

* 1 Kings 7. 15, 21. Jer. 52. 21. † Heb. long. 15 Also he made before the house p * two pillars of thirty and five cubits † high q, and the chapiter that was on the top of each of them was five cubits.

p i. e. Before the Holy House, or before the Temple, as this is explained, v. 17. lest it should be understood of the Most Holy House, of which he had spoken before. q To wit, both of them: of which see the Notes on 1 Kings 7. 15.

16 And he made chains, as in the oracle r, and put them on the heads of the pillars, and made an hundred pomegranats s, and put them on the chains.

r As he had done, or like unto those which he made, in the Oracle; of which see 1 Kings 6. 21. The particle, as, is oft understood, as Gen. 49. 9. Deut. 33. 22, &c. s In each Row; or 200 in all, as it is said 1 Kings 7. 20.

* 1 Kings 7. 21. ‖ That is, he shall establish. ‖ That is, in it is strength. 17 And he * reared up the pillars before the temple, one on the right hand, and the other on the left, and called the name of that on the right hand, ‖ Jachin, and the name of that on the left, ‖ Boaz.

CHAP. IV.

The Altar of Brass: 1. The molten Sea upon twelve Oxen, 2——5. The ten Lavers, Candlesticks and Tables, 6——8. The Courts and the Instruments of Brass, 9——18. The Instruments of Gold; 19——22.

MOreover he made * an altar of brass, twenty cubits the length thereof, and twenty cubits the breadth thereof, and ten cubits the height thereof a.

* Exod. 27. 1. 2 Ch. 15. 8.

a Qu. How could this be when God had said, Thou shalt not go up by Steps unto mine Altar, that thy Nakedness be not discovered thereon, Exod. 20. 26. and Steps were necessary for so high an Altar as this was? Answ. 1. These Steps were so made that there was no fear of this Inconvenience. 2. That Law was useful and fit when it was made; but afterwards when the Priests were commanded to wear Linen Breeches in their Holy Ministrations to cover their Nakedness, Exod. 28. 42. it was not necessary. 3. How soever God could undoubtedly dispense with his own Law, as here he did; for he it was that gave these Dimensions for the Altar.

2 * Also he made a molten sea b of ten cubits, † from brim to brim, round in compass, and five cubits the height thereof, and a line of thirty cubits did compass it round about.

* 1 Kings 7. 23. † Heb. from his brim.

b Of this and v. 3, 4, 5, &c. see the Notes on 1 Kings 7. 23, &c.

3 * And under it was the similitude of oxen, which did compass it round about: ten in a cubit compassing the sea round about. Two rows of oxen were cast, when it was cast.

* 1 Kings 7. 24.

4 It stood upon twelve oxen, three looking toward the north, and three looking toward the west, and three looking toward the south, and three looking toward the east: and the sea was set above upon them, and all their hinder parts were inward.

‖ Or, like a lily-flower.

6 He made also * ten lavers c, and put five on the right hand, and five on the left, to wash in them: † such things as they offered for the burnt-offering, † they washed in them; but the sea was for the priests to wash in.

* 1 Kings 7. 38. † Heb. the work of the burnt-offering.

c Of which see 1 Kings 7. 39, &c.

7 * And he made ten candlesticks of gold according to their form d, and set them in the temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left.

* 1 Kings 7. 49.

d Either 1. the Form which was appointed for them by God, who signified it to David. Or rather 2. the old Form which God prescribed to Moses, Exod. 25. 31, &c. for so these were made. And this Clause seems to be added here, because in many things there was a great variation from the old Form, as in the posture of the Cherubims, the height of the Altar, and divers other things.

8 * He made also ten tables e, and placed them in the temple, five on the right side, and five on the left: and he made an hundred ‖ basons of gold.

* 1 Kings 7. 48. ‖ Or, pots.

e Of which see 1 Kings 7. 48.

9 Furthermore, * he made the court of the priests, and the great court, and doors for the court, and overlaid the doors of them with brass.

* 1 Kings 6. 36.

10 And * he set the sea on the right side of the east end, over against the south.

* 1 Kings 7. 39.

11 And Huram made the pots, and the shovels f, and the ‖ basons; and Huram † finished the work that he was to make for king Solomon for the house of God:

‖ Or, pots. † Heb. caused to make.

f Of these and the following Verses see the Notes on 1 Kings 7. 40, &c.

* 1 Kings 7. 41.

13 And four hundred pomegranates on the two wreathes; two rows of pomegranates on each wreath, to cover the two pommels of the chapiters, which were † upon the pillars.

† Heb. upon the face.

14 He made also bases; and ‖ lavers made he upon the bases:

‖ Or, caldrons.

15 One sea, and twelve oxen under it.

16 The pots also, and the shovels, and the flesh-hooks, and all their instruments did Huram his father g make to king Solomon for the house of the LORD, of † bright brass.

† Heb. burnished bright, or scoured.

g i. e. Solomon's Father; the Relative being put before the Antecedent, which is not unusual in the Hebrew Tongue. And he is so called here, because Solomon usually called him by that name out of that great respect which he bare to him for his excellent Art and Service which he did for him: it being usual to call great Artists and Inventers of things by this Name; of which see Gen. 4. 20, 21. Or, Huram Abiu or Abif, a Man so called, or Huram Abi, as ch. 2. 13.

17 In

17 In the plain of Jordan did the king cast them, in the † clay ground, between Succoth and Zeredathah.

† Heb. the thick ground.

18 Thus Solomon made all these vessels in great abundance; for the weight of the brass could not be found out.

19 And Solomon made all the vessels that were for the house of God, the golden altar also, and the tables whereon the † shew-bread was set b.

† Heb. bread of faces.

b Which were of Gold; and so are distinguished from those ten Tables mentioned v. 8. which seem to have been made of Silver. Compare 1 Chron. 28. 16.

20 Moreover, the candlesticks with their lamps, that they should burn after the manner i, before the oracle, of pure gold;

i According to the prescription of God to and by Moses.

21 And the flowers, and the lamps, and the tongs made he of gold, and that † perfect gold.

† Heb. perfection of gold.

22 And the snuffers, and the ‖ basons, and the spoons, and the censers, of pure gold: and the entry of the house, the inner doors thereof for the most holy place, and the doors of the house of the temple, were of gold k.

‖ Heb. from the fashion of gold. Heb. of fine gold.

k To wit, in part; they were made of Wood, 1 Kings 6. 30. 2 Kings 18. 16. but covered with Golden Plates.

CHAP. V.

The dedicated Treasures: 1. The solemn Induction of the Ark into the Oracle, 2——10. Glory and Praise is sung to God who appeareth in a Cloud, which filled the house, 11——14.

THus all the work that Solomon made for the house of the LORD was finished: * And Solomon brought in all the things that David his father had dedicated; and the silver, and the gold a, and all the instruments, put he among the treasures of the house of God.

* 1 Kings 7. 51.

a Or, even (as that Particle is oft understood) the Silver, and the Gold, the Remainder of those vasts Sums mentioned 1 Chron. 22. 14.

2 * Then Solomon assembled the elders of Israel b, and all the heads of the tribes, the ‖ chief of the fathers of the children of Israel unto Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD, out of the city of David, which is Zion.

* 1 Kings 8. 1. ‖ Or, rulers of the families. Heb. fathers.

b Of this and the following Verses see the Notes on 1 Kings 8. 1, &c.

3 Wherefore all the men of Israel assembled themselves unto the king in the feast, which was in the seventh month.

4 And all the elders of Israel came, and the Levites took up the ark.

5 And they brought up the ark, and the tabernacle of the congregation, and all the holy vessels that were in the Tabernacle, these did the Priests and the Levites bring up.

6 Also king Solomon and all the congregation of Israel that were assembled unto him before the ark, sacrificed sheep and oxen, which could not be told nor numbred for multitude.

7 And the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of the LORD, unto his place, to the oracle of the house into the holy place, even under the wings of the cherubims.

8 For the cherubims spread forth their wings over the place of the ark, and the cherubims covered the ark and the staves thereof above.

9 And they drew out the staves of the ark, that the ends of the staves were seen from the ark before the oracle, but they were not seen without. And ‖ there it is unto this day c.

‖ Or, they are there, 1 King. 8. 8.

c When this History was first written; not when it was reviewed by Ezra, who made some Additions to it: For after the Return from Babylon, neither Staves nor Ark were any more seen or heard of.

13 It came even to pass, as the trumpeters and singers were as one, to make one sound to be heard in praising and thanking the LORD: and when they lift up their voice with the trumpets, and cymbals, and instruments of musick, and praised the LORD, saying, * For he is good, for his mercy endureth for ever: that then the house was filled with a cloud, even the house of the LORD;

a This whole Chapter for the Substance, and almost all the Words of it, are explained in the Notes on 1 Kings 8.

2 But I have built an house of habitation for thee, and a place for thy dwelling for ever.

3 And the king turned his face, and blessed the whole congregation of Israel, (and all the congregation of Israel stood)

4 And he said, Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, who hath with his hands fulfilled that which he spake with his mouth to my father David, saying,

5 Since the day that I brought forth my people out of the land of Egypt, I chose no city among all the tribes of Israel to build an house in, that my name might be there, neither chose I any man to be * a ruler over my people Israel:

* 2 Sam. 6. 21. 1 Chron. 28. 4.

6 But I have chosen Jerusalem, that my name might be there, and have chosen David to be over my people Israel.

7 Now * it was in the heart of David my father, to build an house for the name of the LORD God of Israel.

* 2 Sam. 7. 2. 1 Chron. 28. 2.

8 But the LORD said to David my father, Forasmuch as it was in thine heart to build an house for my name, thou didst well in that it was in thine heart:

9 Notwithstanding, thou shalt not build the house, but thy son which shall come forth out of thy loins, he shall build the house for my name.

10 The LORD therefore hath performed his word that he hath spoken: for I am risen up in the room of David my father, and am set on the Throne of Israel, as the LORD promised, and have built the house for the Name of the LORD God of Israel;

11 And in it have I put the ark, wherein is the covenant of the LORD, that he made with the children of Israel.

12 And he stood before the altar of the LORD, in the presence of all the congregation of Israel, and spread forth his hands;

13 (For Solomon had made a brazen Scaffold, of five cubits † long, and five cubits broad, and three cubits high, and had set it in the midst of the court, and upon it he stood, and kneeled down upon his knees before all the congregation of Israel, and spread forth his hands toward heaven)

† Heb. the length thereof, &c. † Heb. auxiliatory, or place of help.

14 And said, O LORD God of Israel, * there is no God like thee in the heaven, nor in the earth; which keepest covenant, and shewest mercy unto thy servants, that walk before thee with all their heart.

* Exod. 15. 11. Deut. 3. 24.

15 Thou which hast kept with thy servant David my father, that which thou hast promised him, and spakest with thy mouth, and hast fulfilled it with thine hand, as it is this day.

16 Now therefore, O LORD God of Israel, keep with thy servant David my father, that which thou hast promised him, saying, * There shall not fail thee a man in my sight to sit upon the throne of Israel; yet so, that thy children take heed to their way to walk in my law, as thou hast walked before me.

17 Now then, O LORD God of Israel, let thy word be verified which thou hast spoken unto thy servant David.

24 And if thy people Israel ‖ be put to the worse before the enemy, because they have sinned against thee, and shall return and confess thy Name, and pray, and make supplication before thee ‖ in this house:

5 And king Solomon offered a sacrifice of twenty and two thousand oxen, and an hundred and twenty thousand sheep: so the king and all the people dedicated the house of God.

6 * And the priests waited on their offices, the Levites also with instruments of musick * of the LORD, which David the king had made to praise the LORD, because his mercy endureth for ever; when David praised ‖ † by their ministery e: and the priests sounded trumpets before them, and all Israel stood.

17 And as for thee, if thou wilt walk before me, as David thy father walked, and do according to all that I have commanded thee, and shalt observe my statutes and my judgments:

AND * it came to pass (at the end of twenty years, wherein Solomon had built the house of the LORD, and his own house.)

2 That the cities which Huram had restored to Solomon a, Solomon built them, and caused the children of Israel to dwell there.

a Which Solomon gave to Hiram, who not being pleased with them, 1 King. 9. 12, 13. here returns them to him again.

3 And Solomon went to Hamath-zobah, and prevailed against it.

4 And he built Tadmor in the wilderness b, and all the store-cities, which he built in Hamath.

b Of this and the following verses, see on 1 King. 9. 18. &c.

5 Also he built Beth-horon the upper, and Beth-horon the nether, fenced cities, with walls, gates and bars:

6 And Baalath, and all the store-cities that Solomon had, and all the chariot-cities, and the cities of the horsemen, and † all that Solomon desired to build in Jerusalem, and in Lebanon, and throughout all the land of his dominion.

8 But of their children who were left after them in the land, whom the children of Israel consumed not, them did Solomon make to pay tribute unto this day.

9 But of the children of Israel did Solomon make no servants for his work: but they were men of war, and chief of his captains, and captains of his chariots and horsemen.

10 And these were the chief of king Solomons officers, even two hundred and fifty that bare rule over the people.

11 And Solomon * brought up the daughter of Pharaoh out of the city of David, unto the house that he had built for her: for he said, My wife shall not dwell in the house of David king of Israel, because the places are † holy whereunto the ark of the LORD hath come c.

* 1 King. 3.1. & 7.8. † Heb. Holiness.

c Not because every place where once the Ark came was thereby consecrated to God, and might not after the Ark was gone be put to any common use; for then both the house of Obed-edom and all other places where the Ark either rested or passed were made Holy thereby, and unlawful for Men to dwell in; but either 1. Because she was a Woman, and attended by many other Women, who besides the common Pollutions of all, are subject to many and frequent Ceremonial Pollutions peculiar to their Sex, and either she, or at least many of her followers might be Heathens at this time; and therefore he thought it indecent that such persons should come as it were in God's stead, and succeed him in the place where he had dwelt. Or, 2. He speaks not of the time when the Ark was gone, but whilst it was there; and these words contain a Reason not of the more remote words, why he now brought her up thither, but of the words immediately preceding, why he built this House for her; because the Ark was now in the House of David, which therefore ought to be kept pure and free from the very Danger and Appearance of Pollution.

12 Then Solomon offered burnt-offerings unto the LORD, on the altar of the LORD, which he had built before the porch.

13 Even after a certain rate every * day, offering according to the commandment of Moses, on the sabbaths, and on the new moons, and on the Solemn feasts, * three times in a year, even in the feast of unleavened bread, in the feast of weeks, and in the feast of tabernacles.

* Exod. 29. 38. * Exod. 23. 14. Deut. 16. 16.

a Almost all this Chapter is contained in 1 King. 10. where it is explained.

2 And Solomon told her all her questions: and there was nothing hid from Solomon which he told her not.

3 And when the queen of Sheba had seen the wisdom of Solomon, and the house that he had built,

4 And the meat of his table, and the sitting of his servants, and the attendance of his ministers, and their ‖Or, butlers apparel, his ‖ cup-bearers also, and their apparel, and his ascent, by which he went up into the house of the LORD, there was no spirit in her.

7 Happy are thy men, and happy are these thy servants, which stand continually before thee, and hear thy wisdom.

8 Blessed be the LORD thy God, which delighted in thee to set thee on his throne, to be king for the LORD b thy God: because thy God loved Israel, to establish them for ever, therefore made he thee king over them, to do judgment and justice.

9 And she gave the king an hundred and twenty talents of gold, and of spices great abundance, and precious stones: neither was there any such spice as the queen of Sheba gave king Solomon.

c Besides what he gave her of his Royal Bounty, as it is expressed, 1 King. 10. 13. which was in compensation for her Presents, as is here noted.

30 And Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel forty years.

31 And Solomon slept with his fathers; and he was buried in the city of David his father, and Rehoboam his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP. X.

Rehoboam made king. The Israelites by Jeroboam request a relaxation, 1——5. Rehoboam refusing the old men's counsel, by the advice of young men, answereth them roughly, 6——15. Ten tribes revolting, kill Hadoram, and make Rehoboam to flee, 16——19.

AND * Rehoboam went to Shechem a: for to Shechem were all Israel come to make him king. * 1 Kin. 12. 1, &c.

a The Contents of this Chapter are in 1 King. 12. where see the Notes.

2 And it came to pass when Jeroboam the son of Nebat, (who was in Egypt, whither he had fled from the presence of Solomon the king) heard it, that Jeroboam returned out of Egypt;

3 And they sent b and called him. So Jeroboam and all Israel came, and spake to Rehoboam, saying,

b Or, For (as that Particle is oft used, as hath been noted before) they had sent, &c. So this is the Reason why he returned, as was said, v. 2.

4 Thy father made our yoke grievous, now therefore ease thou somewhat the grievous servitude of thy father, and his heavy yoke that he put upon us, and we will serve thee.

5 And he said unto them, come again unto me after three days. And the people departed.

6 And king Rehoboam took counsel with the old men that had stood before Solomon his father, while he yet lived, saying, What counsel give ye me, to return answer to this people?

7 And they spake unto him, saying, If thou be kind to this people, and please them, and speak good words to them, they will be thy servants for ever.

8 But he forsook the counsel which the old men gave him, and took counsel with the young men that were brought up with him, that stood before him.

9 And he said unto them, What advice give ye, that we we may return answer to this people, which have spoken to me, saying, Ease somewhat the yoke that thy father did put upon us?

10 And the young men that were brought up with him, spake unto him, saying, Thus shalt thou answer the people that spake unto thee, saying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it somewhat lighter for us: thus shalt thou say unto them, My little finger shall be thicker than my fathers loins.

11 For whereas my father † put a heavy yoke upon you, I will put more to your yoke: my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions. † Heb. laded.

12 So Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam on the third day, as the king bade, saying, Come again to me on the third day.

13 And the king answered them roughly, and king Rehoboam forsook the counsel of the old men:

14 And answered them after the advice of the young men, saying, My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add thereto: my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.

15 So the king hearkened not unto the people, for the cause was of God, that the LORD might perform his word which he spake by the * hand of Ahijah the Shilonite, to Jeroboam the son of Nebat. * 1 Kin. 11. 31.

16 And when all Israel saw that the king would not hearken unto them, the people answered the king, saying, What portion have we in David? and we have none inheritance in the son of Jesse: every man to your tents, O Israel: and now David, see to thine own house. So all Israel went to their tents.

17 But as for the children of Israel that dwelt in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them.

18 Then king Rehoboam sent Hadoram that was over the tribute, and the children of Israel stoned him with stones, that he died: but king Rehoboam † made speed to get him up to his chariot, to flee to Jerusalem. † Heb. strengthened himself.

19 And Israel rebelled against the house of David unto this day.

CHAP. XI.

Rehoboam raising an Army to subdue Israel, is forbidden by Shemaiah 1——4. He strengtheneth his Kingdom with Forts and Provision, 5——12. The Priests and Levites, and such as feared God, forsaken by Jeroboam, who turneth Idolater, strengthens the Kingdom of Judah, 13——17. The Wives and Children of Rehoboam, 18——23.

*1 Kin. 12. 21, &c.

AND * when Rehoboam was come to Jerusalem, he gathered of the house of Judah and Benjamin a an hundred and fourscore thousand chosen men which were warriors, to fight against Israel, that he might bring the kingdom again to Rehoboam.

a Of this Verse, and v. 2, 3, 4. see the Notes on 1 Kings, 12. 21, &c.

2 But the word of the LORD came to Shemaiah the man of God, saying,

3 Speak unto Rehoboam the son of Solomon king of Judah, and to all Israel in Judah and Benjamin, saying,

4 Thus saith the LORD, Ye shall not go up, nor fight against your brethren: return every man to his house; for this thing is done of me. And they obeyed the words of the LORD, and returned from going against Jeroboam.

5 And Rehoboam dwelt in Jerusalem, and built cities b for defence in Judah.

b i. e. Repaired, and enlarged, and fortified them: as building is oft used in Scripture, as hath been formerly proved: For these Cities, or divers of them, were built before, as appears from Jos. 10. 10. & 12. 15. & 15. 24, 33, 35, 58. & 19. 42.

6 He built even Beth-lehem, and Etam, and Tekoa,

7 And Beth-zur, and Shoco, and Adullam,

8 And Gath, and Mareshа, and Ziph,

9 And Adoraim, Lachish, and Azekah,

10 And Zorah, and Ajalon, and Hebron, which are in Judah and in Benjamin, fenced cities.

11 And he fortified the strong holds, and put captains in them, and store of victuals, and oyl, and wine.

12 And in every several city c he put shields, and spears, and made them exceeding strong, having Judah and Benjamin on his side.

† Heb. presented themselves to him. c To wit, so fortified, as he said v. 11.

13 And the priests and the Levites that were in all Israel, † resorted to him out of all their coasts.

14 (For the Levites left their * suburbs, and their possession, and came to Judah and Jerusalem: for * Jeroboam and his sons had cast them off from executing the priests office unto the LORD d. * Num. 35. 2. * Ch. 13. 9.

d They would not suffer them to instruct and assist the Israelites in the Worship and Service of God, nor to go up to Jerusalem to Worship in their Courses: and these Priests would not joyn with them in the Worship of the Calves, as they were desired and commanded to do; and therefore they willingly forsook all their Patrimonies and Possessions for God's sake.

15 And he ordained him priests for the high places, and for the devils, and for the calves e which he had made.

e Or, for the high places, both for the Devils (i. e. the Baals, or false gods, which divers of his People worshipped, whom he permitted and encouraged to do so, giving them liberty to do any thing but to serve God at Jerusalem) and for the Calves. So he erected two sorts of High-places, some for Baal, and some for the True God, whom he pretended and would be thought to worship, in and by the Calves.

16 And after them out of all the Tribes of Israel, such as set their heart to seek the LORD God of Israel f, came to Jerusalem, to sacrifice unto the LORD God of their fathers.

f Such as loved and feared God in truth, and with their whole Heart.

17 So they strengthened the kingdom of Judah, and made Rehoboam the son of Solomon strong three years: for three years they walked in the way of David and Solomon g.

g This honourable mention of Solomon, as a Pattern of Piety, is a considerable Evidence of his true Repentance before his death: of which see more on 1 King. 11. 43.

18 And Rehoboam took him Mahalath the daughter of Jerimoth to wife, and Abihail the daughter of Eliab, the son of Jesse:

19 Which bare him children; Jeush, and Shamariah, and Zaham.

20 And after her, he took * Maachah the daughter of Absalom, which bare him Abijah, and Attai, and Ziza, and Shelomith. * 1 Kin. 15. 2. She is called Michaiah the daughter of Uriel. Chr. 13. 2.

21 And Rehoboam loved Maachah the daughter of Absalom above all his wives and his concubins: (for he took eighteen wives, and threescore concubins, and begat twenty and eight sons and threescore daughters.)

22 And Rehoboam made Abijah the son of Maachah the chief, to be ruler among his brethren b: for he thought to make him king.

b He declared him his Successor, and gave him the Dominion over his Brethren: wherein (if he was not the First-born, as it seems to be implyed, because this is mentioned as an Effect of his Superlative Love to his Mother) he transgressed that Law, Deut. 21. 15, 16. unless God was pleased to dispence with it at this time.

23 And he dealt wisely, and dispersed i of all his children throughout all the countries of Judah and Benjamin, unto every fenced city k: and he gave them victuals in abundance: and desired † many wives l. † Heb. a multitude of wives.

i Lest his other Sons should after his death unite their Counsels and Forces together against Abijah, he wisely dispersed them into several and distant Places, and under pretence of honouring them with the Government of them, he made them Prisoners in a fort, appointing several persons to observe their motions, and prevent their Combinations.

k Agreeable to their Quality, that their Restraint might be more easie to them. l Either 1. for his Children: Or rather, 2. for himself, by comparing this with v. 21.

CHAP. XII.

Rehoboam forsaking the LORD is punished by Shishak, 1——4. Shemaiah reproveth him: He with the Princes repenteth: Is preserved in his kingdom; but is spoiled of the treasures of the temple, and of his royal palace, 5——12. His reign and death, and Abijah his son is made king, 13——16.

AND it came to pass when Rehoboam had established the kingdom, and had strengthened himself, * he forsook the law of the LORD, and * all Israel with him. * 1 Kin. 14. 22. * Ch. 11. 3.

2 And it came to pass, that in the fifth year a of king Rehoboam, Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem (* because they had transgressed against the LORD) * 1 Kin. 14. 24, 25.

a Presently after the Apostacy of the King and People, which was in his fourth year, by comparing this with ch. 11. 17.

3 With twelve hundred chariots, and threescore thousand horsemen: and the people were without number that came with him out of Egypt, the Lubims b, the Sukkiims c, and the Ethiopians d.

b A People of Africa bordering upon Egypt: of whom see ch. 16. 8. Dan. 11. 43. Nah. 3. 9. c A People living in Tents, as the Word signifies; and such there were not far from Egypt, both in Africa and in Arabia. d Either those beyond Egypt, or the Arabians.

4 And he took the fenced cities which pertained to Judah, and came to Jerusalem.

5 Then came Shemajah the prophet to Rehoboam, and to the princes of Judah, that were gathered together to Jerusalem because of Shishak, and said unto them, Thus saith the LORD, Ye have forsaken me, and therefore have I also left you in the hand of Shishak.

6 Whereupon the princes of Israel, and the king humbled themselves, and they said, The LORD is righteous.

7 And when the LORD saw that they humbled themselves e, the word of the LORD came to Shemajah, saying, They have humbled themselves, therefore I will not destroy them, but I will grant them ‖ some deliverance, and my wrath shall not be poured out f upon Jerusalem by the hand of Shishak.

‖ Or, a little while.

e Which though they did not forcedly, yet God was pleased so far to regard it, as to mitigate their Calamity. f I will give some stop to the course of my Wrath, which was ready to be poured forth upon them to their utter Destruction.

8 Nevertheless, they shall be his servants; that they may know my service, and the service of the kingdoms of the countries g.

g That they may experimentally know and feel the Difference between my Yoke and the Yoke of a Forreign and Idolatrous Prince, and what Mischief they have done to themselves by forsaking me and my Service.

9 So Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem, and took away the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the kings house b, he took all: he carried away also the shields of gold, which Solomon had * made.

* 1 Kin. 10. 16.

b Upon which Condition, and Rehoboam's Submission to him he delivered up to him the fenced Cities of Judah, which he had taken, v. 4. But of this, and the two next verses, see on 1 Kin. 14. 26, &c.

10 Instead of which king Rehoboam made shields of brass, and committed them to the hands of the chief of the guard, that kept the entrance of the kings house.

11 And when the king entred into the house of the LORD, the guard came and set them, and brought them again into the guard-chamber.

12 And when he humbled himself, the wrath of the LORD turned from him, that he would not destroy him altogether: ‖ and also in Judah things went well i.

‖ Or, and yet in Judah there were good things.

i Heb. There were good things. The meaning is either 1. Though there were many Corruptions in Judah, yet there were also divers good things there, which were not in Israel, as the Word and Ordinances, and pure Worship of God, Prophets and Ministers of God's Institution, and divers truly Religious People. And so this is an additional Reason why God would not destroy them. Or, 2. Notwithstanding this loss, they began to recruit themselves, and to regain some degree of their former Prosperity. Whence it follows, v. 13. So, there being some respite given, and Peace being restored, Rehoboam strengthened himself, &c.

13 So king Rehoboam strengthened himself in Jerusalem and reigned: for * Rehoboam was one and forty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned seventeen Years in Jerusalem, the city which the LORD had chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, to put his Name there: and his mothers name was Naamah an Ammonitess.

* 1 Kin. 14. 21.

14 And he did evil, because he ‖ prepared not k his heart to seek the LORD.

‖ Or, fixed. 2 Sam. 7. 3.

k Or, directed not: or, settled not, &c. i. e. Although he humbled himself, and seemed penitent for a season, and professed the True Religion and Worship of God; yet he quickly relapsed into his former Sins, because he was not sincere nor serious in his Actions, and his Heart was not right with God.

15 Now the acts of Rehoboam, first and last, are they not written in the † book of Shemajah the prophet, and of Iddo the seer, concerning genealogies l? And there were wars between Rehoboam and Jeroboam continually.

† He's words.

CHAP. XIII.

Abijah Warreth against Jeroboam king of Israel, 1——3. Declareth the right of his cause, 4——12. Trusteth in God; overcometh Jeroboam, 13——20. His Wives and Children, 21, 22.

* 1 Kin. 15. 1, &c.

NOw * in the eighteenth year of king Jeroboam began Abijah to reign over Judah.

2 He reigned three years in Jerusalem: (his mothers name also was Micajah the daughter of Uriel a of Gibeah) and there was war between Abijah and Jeroboam.

a Called Maachah the Daughter of Absolom, 1 King. 15. 2. She might be Daughter to one, and Grand-daughter to the other; or the proper and natural Daughter of the one, and the others by Adoption; of which there are Instances in Scripture: or the same Person might be called Uriel and Absalom. See 1 King. 15. 2.

3 And Abijah † set the battel in aray c, with an army of valient men of war, even four hundred thousand chosen men: Jeroboam also set the battel in aray against him with eight hundred thousand men, being mighty men of valour.

c Against Jeroboam. We need not scrupulously enquire into the Lawfulness of this War, for this Abijah, though here he makes a fair Flourish and maintained the better Cause, yet was indeed an Ungodly Man, 1 King. 15. 3. and therefore minded not the satisfaction of his Conscience, but only the Recovery of his Parents Ancient Dominions.

4 And Abijah stood up upon mount Zemaraim d, which is in mount Ephraim, and said, Hear me, thou Jeroboam, and all Israel.

d Some commodious Place whence his Voice might be heard by Jeroboam, and some of his Host, who possibly were pitched in the Valley. Or, the two Armies being pitched near to one another, Abijah might desire a Parly before they fought; whereupon Jeroboam, and some of his Commanders and Souldiers, might draw near to him, and stand below him at the bottom of the Hill, where they might hear his Speech: which Jeroboam was the more willing to do, that in the mean time he might cause an Ambushment to come behind Abijah and his Army, as he did, v. 13. whilest he was quietly standing before them, and seemed to hearken to any Terms of Accommodation which might be offered.

5 Ought ye not to know, that the LORD God of Israel gave the kingdom over Israel to David for ever, even to him and to his sons by a covenant of salt e?

e i. e. By a perpetual Covenant, which thy Usurpation cannot disanul. For the Phrase see on Numb. 18. 19.

6 Yet Jeroboam the son of Nebat, the servant of Solomon the son of David, is risen up and hath * rebelled against his lord.

* 1 Kin. 11. 26.

7 And there are gathered unto him vain men, the children of Belial f, and have strengthened themselves against Rehoboam the son of Solomon, when Rehoboam was young g and tender-hearted h, and could not withstand them.

f Such as have cast off the Yoke and Obedience which they owed both to God and to their King. g Not in Age, for he was then 41 years old, but in his Kingdom, which he had but newly obtained, and in Experience in Politick, and especially in Military Affairs, to which he was wholly a stranger, as having been born and bred up in a time of great Peace and Security. h i. e. Cowardly and fearful, who durst not adventure to chastise the Rebels as he should have done. But herein Abijah forgets his Duty both to his Father, whom he falsely traduceth; and to God, by whose Express Command Rehoboam was restrained from the War against Israel, which otherwise he had both Courage and Resolution to prosecute, as appears from the History, 1 King. 12. 21.

8 And now ye think to with-stand the kingdom of the LORD in the hand of the sons of David i, and ye be a great multitude k, and there are with you golden calves l, which Jeroboam * made you for gods m.

* 1 Kin. 12. 28.

i That Kingdom which was not set up by Vain Men in pursuance of their own Ambition and Discontent, as yours was, but ordained and established by God himself in the House of David. k Or, because (that Hebrew Particle being oft so used) ye be, &c. This he mentions partly as the ground of their Confidence, that they had more Tribes and a greater Host; and partly as a presage of their Downfal, which trusting to the Arm of Flesh is. l Or, but there are, &c. There is that among you which may damp your Courage and Confidence: You worship those Images which God abhors and severely forbids. m Or, for God, as that plural word is most commonly used, i.e. instead of God, to give them the Name of God, as Exod. 32. 4. and that worship which is peculiar to him.

9 * Have ye not cast out the priests of the LORD, the sons of Aaron, and the Levites, and have made you priests after the manner of the nations of other lands? so that whosoever cometh † to consecrate himself n with a young bullock, and seven rams, the same may be a priest of them that are no gods o.

* Ch. 11. 14.

† Heb. to fill his hand.

n i.e. To make himself a Priest. See on Levet. 7. 37. o That have nothing of the Nature or Power, though you give them the Name of Gods.

10 But as for us, the LORD p is our God, and we have not forsaken him q, and the priests which minister unto the LORD, are the sons of Aaron, and the Levites wait upon their business.

p Heb. Jehovah, the only True and Great God. q we maintain his Honour and Worship which you have ungratefully rejected.

pure table r, and the candlestick of gold s with the lamps thereof, * to burn every evening t, for we keep the charge of the LORD our God u; but ye have forsaken him.

* Exod. 27. 20.

r So called, because it was made of pure Gold, Exod. 25. 23, 24. s He saith Table and Candlestick, though there were ten of each, ch. 4. 7, 8. either 1. because Shishak had carried away all but one: Or, 2. the singular number is put for the plural, as 1 Kings 7. 48. and oft elsewhere. Or, 3. because ordinarily there was but one of each used at a time for those uses. t And from Evening to Morning continually, Lev. 24. 2, 3. for which end one Candlestick was sufficient, and it is very improbable that all the Candlesticks were used every night. u This he saith, though he was an ungodly King; either because he flattered himself, and fancied that his keeping up the External Worship of God would make full satisfaction for the Errours of his Life: Or, that he might hereby encourage his own Souldiers, and convince or terrifie his Enemies.

† Heb. in the head. Ch. 20. 27. * Jos. 5. 13.

12 And, behold God himself is with us † for our captain, and his priests with sounding trumpets to cry alarm against you x: O children of Israel, * fight ye not against the LORD God of your fathers y, for ye shall not prosper.

x Upon the founding whereof God hath solemnly promised to assist his People, Numb. 10. 9. y You have not only us for your Enemies, but God, even the God whom your fathers honoured and served, to their own great Comfort and Benefit.

13 But Jeroboam caused an ambushment to come about behind them: so they were before Judah, and the ambushment was behind them.

14 And when Judah looked back, behold, the battel was before and behind: and they cried unto the LORD, and the priests sounded with the trumpets.

15 Then the men of Judah gave a shout; and as the men of Judah shouted, it came to pass that God smote a Jeroboam and all Israel before Abijah and Judah.

a By strengthning the Hearts and Hands of the Men of Judah, and taking away the Spirits and Power of their Enemies; and, it may be, by some extraordinary Assistance.

16 And the children of Israel fled before Judah: and God delivered them into their hand.

17 And Abijah and his people slew them with a very great slaughter: so there fell down slain of Israel five hundred thousand b choice men.

b A vast number: but it hath been oft observed and recorded by sacred and profane Historians, that in those antient times there were very numerous Armies, and oft times very great Slaughters; and if this Slaughter was more than ordinary, there is nothing strange nor incredible, because the Almighty God fought against the Israelites.

18 Thus the children of Israel were brought under at that time, and the children of Judah prevailed, because they relyed upon the LORD c God of their fathers.

c They put their Trust in him and confidently expected Help from him: which is a disposition of heart that God prizeth and taketh kindly. See 2 Kings 18. 5. 2 Chron. 20. 20. Psal. 22. 4. Dan. 3. 28.

19 And Abijah pursued after Jeroboam, and took cities from him, Beth-el d with the towns thereof, and Jeshanah with the towns thereof, and Ephraim e with the towns thereof.

d Which Jeroboam recovered afterwards, as appears by the course of the History, tho it be not particularly mentioned, which is the case of many other considerable things. And in the mean time it is very probable, that when Jeroboam's Host was discomfited; and he expected that Abijah would pursue his Victory, he removed the Golden Calf from Beth-el, which lay near Abijah's Kingdom, to some safer place. e A City so called, possibly the same which is mentioned, Joh. 11. 54. or that which is called Ophra, Judg. 8. 27.

20 Neither did Jeroboam recover strength again in the days of Abijah: and the LORD strook him f, and he died g.

f i.e. Jeroboam, as appears from the contrary condition of Abijah described in the next verse. Him God might strike either with vexation and horror of Mind: or with some painful and lingring, but incurable Disease, like that of Jehoram, which tormented him two years together, and at last killed him, 2 Chron. 21. 19. g Not presently, but a year or two after this time.

21 But Abijah waxed mighty, and married fourteen wives, and begat twenty and two sons, and sixteen daughters h.

h Not now after this Victory, for he died presently after it, but in the whole time of his Life, before he was King, and afterward.

‖ Or, Commentary. * Ch. 12. 15.

22 And the rest of the acts of Abijah, and his ways, and his sayings, are written in the ‖ story of the prophets * Iddo.

CHAP. XIV.

Asa is made King: he destroyeth Idolatry, 1——5. Having peace he strengthneth his Kingdom with Forts and Armies, 6——8. In a strait, calling on God, he overthroweth Zerah, and spoileth the Ethiopians, 9——15.

SO Abijah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David, and * Asa his son reigned in his stead: in his days the land was quiet ten years a.

* 1 Kings 15. 8, &c.

a i.e. There was no open War, either by Baasha or others; only there were secret Grudges and private Hostilities between his and Baasha's Subjects, 1 Kings 15. 16.

2 And Asa did that which was good and right in the eyes of the LORD b his God.

b Of this and the next verse, see on 1 Kings 15. 11, 12.

3 For he took away the altars of the strange gods, and the high places, and brake down the † images, and cut down the groves;

† Heb. statues.

4 And commanded Judah to seek the LORD God of their fathers c, and to do the law and the commandment d.

c By his Royal Edicts he required them to Worship God, and him only. d i.e. To practise all which the Laws of Moses required of them.

5 Also he took away out of all the cities of Judah the high places, and the † images: and the kingdom was quiet before him.

† Heb. sun-images.

6 And he built fenced cities in Judah: for the land had rest, and he had no war in those years, because the LORD had given him rest.

7 Therefore he said unto Judah, Let us build these cities, and make about them walls, and towers, gates, and bars, while the land is yet before us d: because we have sought the LORD our God, we have sought him, and he hath given us rest on every side: so they built and prospered.

d i.e. In our Power, as that Phrase is oft used. See on Gen. 13. 9.

8 And Asa had an army of men e, that bare targets and spears, out of Judah, three hundred thousand, and out of Benjamin, that bare shields and drew bows, two hundred and fourscore thousand: all these were mighty men of valour.

e Which, as it seems, he had now gathered together upon the Information of Zerah's Design against him.

CHAP. XV.

Asa with Judah and many of Israel moved by Azariah the Prophet, renew a solemn Covenant with God, 1——15. He removeth Maachah his Mother for her Idolatry: bringeth the hallowed things again into the Temple; and enjoyeth a long peace, 16——19.

AND the spirit of God came upon Azariah the son of Oded.

2 And he went out † to meet Asa, and said unto him, Hear ye me, Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin, * The LORD is with you a while ye be with him, and if ye seek him, he will be found of you: but if ye forsake him, he will forsake you b.

† Heb. before Asa.

a To defend you against all your Enemies, as now you have seen, and you may hereafter expect, if you persist in that good Course into which you are entred. b But let not this Victory make you presumptuous or self-confident; for you are upon your good Behaviour; and if you leave God, he will leave and destroy you after he hath done you good.

* Ch. 12. 1. 3 Now for a long season * Israel hath been without the true God, and without a teaching priest, and without Law c.

c Heb. For many days have been to Israel without the true God, &c. i. e. They have long lived without the sound knowledge and Worship of the True God. The Prophet confirms his foregoing Exhortation and the Threatning annexed to it, That if they forsook God he would forsake them, for the usual manner of Gods dealing with Israel formerly, and therefore in the same case they may expect the same usage. Israel here mentioned and propounded as an Example is here understood, either 1. Specially of the Ten Tribes distinguished by that Name from the Kingdom of Judah; whose Condition had been since Jeroboam's Revolt, and now was such in some measure, as is here described, they having been and still being, without God and his True Worship, and therefore exposed to many Vexations, and Wars, and Miseries. But these had not as yet turned unto God or sought him, nor was God yet found of them, as is said of this Israel, v. 4. Nor had they as yet been exercised with those grievous and continual Vexations, and Wars, and mutual Destructions of which he here speaks, v. 5, 6. and which in succeeding times they felt. For except that one Blow which they had from Abijah, ch. 13. we read of none other great Mischiefs which befel them. Or rather 2. Generally of the whole Nation of Israel in former times, and especially in the times of the Judges; to which all that follows suits very well: For then many times they were, though not wholly and universally, yet in a very great measure and for the generality of them, without God, and his Law, and Teaching Priests, as plainly appears from divers Passages in the Book of the Judges; and then indeed they were brought to all the Exigencies and Calamities here following; then they had grievous Wars both Foreign and Domestick; and then they did sometimes turn to the Lord and sought him, and he was found of them, and did raise up Judges and Saviours to them; of which see Judg. 2. at large, & Judg. 3. 9, 15. & 10. 10. &c.

4 But when they d in their trouble did turn unto the LORD God of Israel, and sought him, he was found of them.

d i. e. Israel, mentioned v. 3.

5 And in those times e there was no peace to him that went out, nor to him that came in f, but great vexations were upon all the inhabitants of the countries g.

e When Israel lived in the gross Neglect and Contempt of God, and his Law and Worship. f Men could not go abroad about their private Occasions without great Danger; as it was in the days of Shamgar, Judg. 5. 6. which is a good Comment upon this Text. g Heb. of those Countries, i. e. The divers Parts of the Land of Israel, both within and without Jordan.

† Heb. beaten in pieces. 6 And nation was † destroyed of nation h, and city of city: for God did vex them with all adversity.

h i. e. One part of the People of Israel destroyed the other by Civil Wars: of which see instances, Judg. 9. 23, &c. and 12. 1, &c. As all the People of Israel are called a Nation, so the several Tribes and Families of them are sometimes called Nations, as Gen. 17. 4. Exek. 2. 3. Acts 4. 27. compared with Psal. 2. 1.

7 Be ye strong therefore i, and let not your hands be weak k: for your work shall be rewarded l.

i Go on therefore Courageously and Resolutely to maintain Gods Worship and to root out Idolatry, as you have begun to do; for this is the only right Method of preserving your selves from such Calamities as your Predecessors have felt. k Be not discouraged with the Opposition which you may possibly meet with. l What you do for God and for his Honour and Service shall not go unrequited.

8 And when Asa heard these words, and the prophecy of Oded the prophet m he took courage n, and put away the † abominable idols out of all the land of Judah and Benjamin, and out of the cities which he had taken o from mount Ephraim, and renewed the altar of the LORD p, that was before the porch of the LORD.

m To wit, of Azariah, v. 1. who was also called by his Father's Name Oded. Or Oded may be here put patronymically for the son of Oded; as David is put for Christ the son of David, Jer. 30. 9. and elsewhere; and Moses for the Sons of Moses, Psal 90. Title. Or here is an Ellipsis of the Relative Word, of which there are many instances both in sacred and profane Authors; as 2 Sam. 21. 19. the Brother of Goliah: Matt. 4. 21. John the son of Zebedee: Luke 24. 10. Mary the Mother of James, by comparing Mark. 15. 40. Joh. 19. 25. Mary the Wife of Cleophas, and many other places. And so this place may be thus read, When Asa heard these words, even the Prophecy of the Son of Oded the Prophet. And this Ellipsis is the more easy and tolerable, because this defect might be well enough understood and supplied out of v. 1. Though some understand this to be another Prophecy of Oded the Father, which is not here expressed, which Azariah his Son repeated to them for the confirmation of his own Prophecy. n For it required great Courage to put away all the Idols, to which so great a number of his People were to this day addicted, and among others, Maachah the Queen, his mother, whom for this reason he deposed, 1 Kings 15. 13. o To wit, Abijah his Father; which was easily understood from ch. 13. 19. Or, which had been taken, the active word being oft so used impersonally for the passive, as Hebraicians know. p Which had been either decayed through Age and long Use of it, or broken by his Idolatrous Mother's means: Or, he consecrated, or dedicated the altar, &c. Which possibly had been polluted by Idolaters, and now needed some purification.

* Ch. 11. 9 And he gathered all Judah and Benjamin, and * the strangers with them, out of Ephraim and Manasseh, and out of Simeon q, (for they fell to him out of Israel in abundance when they saw that the LORD his God was with him.)

q Which Tribe, though they had their Inheritance out of the Portion of Judah, did for the generality of them Revolt to Jeroboam with the other Tribes, as appears from many passages of Scripture. Which they might conveniently do, because their Portion bordered as on one side upon that of Judah, so on the other side upon that of Dan; and therefore might indifferently joyn with the one or other, as they saw fit. r To wit, from the King of Israel.

10 So they gathered themselves together at Jerusalem, in the third month s, in the fifteenth year of the reign of Asa t.

s To wit, of the sacred Year in which the Feast of Weeks or of Pentecost fell: of which see Exod. 23. 16. Deut. 16. 9. t Asa had Peace but Ten years, ch. 14. 1. After which probably there were some Bickerings and Skirmishes, which seem to have been composed: and after that Zerah comes against him and is discomfited. Upon this great Success many of the Israelites fall to him; and in his fifteenth year he calls this Assembly.

† Heb. in that day.

11 And they offered unto the LORD † the same time, of the spoil which they had brought u, seven hundred oxen, and seven thousand sheep.

u Taken from Zerah and his Complices, ch. 14. 13, &c.

12 And they entered into a covenant x to seek the LORD God of their fathers, with all their heart, and with all their soul.

x They engaged themselves by a serious and solemn Covenant before the Lord and this great Assembly.

* Deut. 13. 9, 13. 13 That whosoever would not seek the LORD God of Israel y * should be put to death z, whether small or great, whether man or woman.

y Whosoever should obstinately refuse to pay unto God that Solemn Worship which he required at his Temple in Jerusalem; or should disown God, or serve other Gods. z By vertue of all those Laws which command that such persons should be cut off: and in pursuance of that Law, Deut. 17. 2. Compare Heb. 10. 28.

14 And they sware unto the LORD with a loud voice, and with shouting, and with trumpets, and with cornets.

15 And all Judah ‖ rejoyced at the oath: for they had sworn with all their heart, and sought him with their whole desire, and he was found of them: and the LORD gave them rest round about.

18 And he brought into the house of God the things that his father had dedicated, and that he himself had dedicated, silver, and gold, and vessels.

19 And there was no more war unto the five and thirtieth year of the reign of Asa a.

* For though there were continual Skirmishes between Asa and Baasha and their People all their days, 1 King. 15. 16. yet it did not break forth into an open War till Asa's 35th year, i. e. till that was ended. But how this 35th year is to be computed, see the Note on ch. 16. 1.

CHAP.

CHAP. XVI.

Asa maketh a League with the Syrians against the king of Israel, 1——6. For which the Prophet reproving him, he putteth him into prison, 7——10. He is sick, and seeketh to the Physicians, and not to God: his death and burial, 11——14.

IN the six and thirtieth year of the reign of Asa a, * Baasha king of Israel came up against Judah, and built Ramah, to the intent that he might let none go out or come into Asa king of Judah b.

* 1 Kings 15. 17.

a Or, of the Kingdom of Asa, i. e. of the Kingdom of Judah, which was now Asa's Kingdom; or from the time of the division of the two Kingdoms. Rehoboam reigned 17 years, ch. 12. 13. Abijah 3 years, ch. 13. 2. Asa had now reigned 15 years, ch. 15. 10. All which put together, make up the 35 years mentioned ch. 15. 19. And in the next year Baasha wars against him; and the ground of War was the defection of many of his Subjects to Asa, ch. 15. 9. whom Asa endeavours to engage together with his own Subjects, by an Oath and a Covenant, to be true and faithful to God, and consequently to himself; which was done in his 15th year, ch. 15. 9, 10. and therefore in his 16th year, called here the 36th year of his Kingdom, he commenceth an open War against him. If it be objected, That the Reign, or Kingdom of Asa is otherwise understood of the time of Asa's personal Reign (as I may call it) ch. 15. 10. The answer is obvious, That there are many instances in Scripture (some of which have been formerly given, and others will be given in their proper places,) where the same Word or Phrase is taken differently, and that in the very same Chapter and History. And particularly this variety is elsewhere used both by Sacred and Prophane Writers, in the Computation of the years of Princes, which are sometimes reckoned from the beginning of their Reign, and sometimes from other remarkable Times and Occurrences. Thus Nebuchadnezzar's years are sometimes computed from the beginning of his Reign, as 2 Kings 25. 8. Jer. 52. 12, 29, 30. and sometimes from his compleat Conquest of Syria and Egypt, &c. as that Passage, Dan. 2. 1. In the second year of Nebuchadnezzar, is by the general stream of Interpreters understood. Thus Ahaziah's years, which doubtless were usually computed from the time of his Birth, are computed from another Head, ch. 22. 2. where see the Notes. And the like differences are observed in computing the years of some of the Syrian Monarchs and Roman Emperors; and particularly of Augustus, the years of whose Reign are variously accounted by the Roman Historians; sometimes from his first Consulship, sometimes from the time of the Triumvirate, and sometimes from that Famous Victory at Allium, where he utterly overthrew his Competitor, and made himself sole and unquestionable Emperor. And therefore it is not strange if it be so here. And that it must necessarily be thus understood, appears from hence, that it cannot be the 36th year of the Reign of Asa in his own person, because Baasha began to Reign in Asa's 3d year, 1 King. 15. 28. and reigned only 24 years, and consequently died in Asa's 26th, or 27th year, as it is said he did, 1 King. 15. 8. b That he might keep his Subjects from revoking to Asa, as he perceived they began to do, ch. 15. 9. and keep Asa's Subjects from coming into his Dominions to seduce his People from their Obedience to him.

2 Then Asa brought out silver and gold c out of the treasures of the house of the LORD, and of the kings house, and sent to Benhadad king of Syria, that dwelt at † Damascus, saying,

c This verse, and v. 3, 4, 5, 6. are explained, 1 King. 15. 18, &c.

3 There is a league between me and thee, as there was between my father and thy father: behold I have sent thee silver and gold, go, break thy league with Baasha king of Israel, that he may depart from me.

4 And Ben-hadad hearkened unto king Asa, and sent the captains of † his armies against the cities of Israel, and they smote Ijon, and Dan, and Abel-maim, and all the store-cities of Naphtali.

† Heb. which were his.

5 And it came to pass, when Baasha heard it, that he left off building of Ramah, and let his work cease.

6 Then Asa the king took all Judah, and they carried away the stones of Ramah, and the timber thereof, wherewith Baasha was a building, and he built therewith Geba, and Mizpah.

7 And at that time * Hanani the seer came to Asa king of Judah, and said unto him, Because thou hast relied on the king of Syria, and not relied on the LORD thy God, therefore is the host of the king of Syria escaped out of thine hand d.

f i. e. Upright and sincere, as thine is not. Obj. The heart of Asa is said to be perfect all his days, ch. 15. 17. Answ. He was perfect and sincere in the things there spoken of, in the Establishment of the outward Worship of God; but not in the inward Worship of God, trusting, and fearing, and loving him with all his heart, of which he here speaks. Or thus; He was perfect or sincere in the general Course of his Life, though in some particulars, whereof this is one, his heart did not perfectly cleave to God, as it should have done. g With Baasha, ch. 16. 4.

10 Then Asa was wroth with the seer, and put him in † a prison house h, for he was in a rage with him, because of this thing. And Asa † oppressed some of the people the same time.

11 And behold, the acts of Asa first and last, lo, they are written in the books of the kings of Judah and Israel.

12 And Asa in the thirty and ninth year of his reign was diseased in his feet until his disease was exceeding great: yet in his disease he sought not to the LORD, but to the physicians i.

i He did not humble himself before God, nor earnestly desire his Help, but put all his Confidence in the Skill and Faithfulness of his Physicians, of whom, it seems, he had great experience.

13 And Asa slept with his fathers, and died in the one and fortieth year of his age.

14 And they buried him in his own sepulchre, which he had † made for himself in the city of David, and laid him in the bed which was filled with sweet odours, and divers kinds of spices prepared by the apothecaries art k: and they made a very great burning l for him.

CHAP. XVII.

Jehoshaphat is made King, reigneth well and prospereth, 1——6. He sendeth Levites with the Princes, to teach Judah, 7——9. He is feared by the Nations round about, who bring him presents and tribute: his greatness, captains, and armies, 10——19.

AND * Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his stead and strengthened himself against Israel a.

* 1 Kings 15. 24.

a Against the King and People of Israel, who had molested the Kingdom of Judah with Wars all the days of Asa, after that Sin of his mentioned, ch. 16. 2, &c.

2 And he placed forces in all the fenced cities of Judah, and set garisons in the land of Judah, and in the cities of Ephraim, which Asa his father had taken.

3 And the LORD was with Jehoshaphat, because he walked in the first ways of his ‖ father David b, and sought not unto Baalim.

‖ Or of his father, and David.

b Which David walked in before he fell into those horrid Sins of Murder and Adultery. Or, in the ways of David, and his Father's first ways. For the beginning of Asa's Reign was laudable, as we have seen, though he declined at last. For it seems more probable that this Passage is a Reflection upon Asa, whose last ways were much his worst, and of whose Repentance we have no Evidence, than upon David, who, though he fell dreadfully in the matter of Uriah, yet did manifestly repent of it, and return to his first and holy course of Life, in which also he continued until death; having this Character given him by the Holy Ghost, after his death, That he did right in all things, saving that of Uriah, 1 King. 15. 5.

4 But sought to the LORD God of his father, and walked in his commandments, and not after the doings of Israel c:

c i. e. Their Worship of the Calves, or other Idols.

5 Therefore the LORD stablished the kingdom in his hand, and all Judah † brought to Jehoshaphat presents d, and he had riches and honour in abundance.

† Heb. gave.

6 And his heart ‖ was lift up e in the ways of the LORD: moreover, * he took away the high places and groves f out of Judah.

‖ That is, was encouraged.

* Ch. 19. 3.

e Above all discouragements, and difficulties, and fears, by which Men's Hearts use to be cast down: He was Valiant and Resolute for God and his Ways. f To wit, such only wherein Idols were Worshipped, as appears by comparing this with ch. 20. 33. And though Asa had done this before, yet either he did not do it thoroughly, or the Jews (who were many of them mad upon their Idols) had secretly made new Ones, in the latter part of his Reign, when he grew more infirm in Body, and more remiss in God's cause.

7 Also in the third year of his reign, he ‖ sent to his princes, even to Ben-hail, and to Obadiah, and to Zechariah, and to Nethaneel, and to Michajah, to teach g in the cities of Judah.

‖ Or, sent his princes, even Ben-hail.

g To

g To inform the People of their Duty, and of the King's pleasure. As Judges or Justices of Peace teach or instruct the People in the Laws of the Land, when they deliver their Charges upon the Bench; so did these Princes in the King's Name, admonish and require the People to observe and obey the Laws of God, which were the Municipal Laws of that Land: The particular Explication and Inforcement whereof, they left to the Levites and Priests here following, who were sent for to this end, and accordingly taught the people, v. 9.

8 And with them he sent Levites, even Shemaiah, and Nethaniah, and Zebadiah, and Asahel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehonathan, and Adonijah, and Tobijah, and Tob-adonijah, Levites; and with them Elishama and Jehoram, priests.

9 And they taught in Judah, and had the book of the law of the LORD with them, and went about throughout all the cities of Judah, and taught the people.

10 And * the fear of the LORD † fell upon all the kingdoms of the lands that were round about Judah b, so that they made no war against Jehoshaphat.

* Gen. 35. 5. †Heb. was.

b Justly concluding from this singular Piety that God would eminently appear for him, and against all those who had ill Will to him, which was their Case. For even the Heathens could not but observe, that the Kings of Judah were either Prosperous or Unhappy, accordingly as they served God or forsook him.

11 Also some of the Philistins i brought Jehoshaphat presents, and tribute-silver; and the Arabians k brought him flocks, seven thousand and seven hundred rams, and seven thousand and seven hundred hegoats.

i Who had been Subjects to this Kingdom ever since David's Time, but, it seems, had neglected this Duty in the Times of his Predecessors, but now were moved by their own Fears to perform it. k Either because he had upon some just occasion waged War against them, and subdued them; though the Particulars of it be not described in Scripture: Or, because, they voluntarily put themselves under his Protection, in Recompence whereof they sent him those Presents: Or, only as a free Acknowledgment of their Respects to him.

12 And Jehoshaphat waxed great exceedingly; and he built in Judah ‖ castles and cities of store.

‖ Or, palaces.

13 And he had much business in the cities of Judah l: and the men of war, mighty men of valour were in Jerusalem.

l Partly to repair and fortifie them, and furnish them with all necessary Provisions: and partly to purge out all the Relicks and Seeds of Idolatry and Injustice, which were more secretly and subtilly managed in the Cities than in the Country, and which were first and most in the Cities, and thence spread their Infection into the Country about them. See Jer. 2. 28.

14 And these are the number of them according to the house of their fathers. Of Judah the captains of thousands. Adnah the chief, and with him mighty men of valour, three hundred thousand.

16 And next him, was Amasiah the son of Zichri, who willingly offered himself n unto the LORD; and with him two hundred thousand mighty men of valour.

n As Volunteers and Auxiliaries, to be ready upon Occasion, as the Service of God and the King should require. Possibly these or most of them were the Strangers which had come out of Israel into the Kingdom of Judah in Asa's days, and probably since that in his Time.

17 And of Benjamin, Eliada a mighty man of valour, and with him armed men with bow and shield, two hundred thousand.

18 And next him was Jehozabad, and with him an hundred and fourscore thousand, ready prepared for the war.

19 These waited on the king o, besides those whom the king put in the fenced cities throughout all Judah.

o These above-mentioned were the Trained Bands or Auxiliaries: whose chief Officers waited upon the King to receive his Commands, and to raise, and bring in all, or part of their Forces, to the service of the King and Kingdom, as need required.

2 * And † after certain years he went down to Ahab to Samaria: and Ahab killed sheep and oxen for him in abundance, and for the people that he had with him, and perswaded † him to go up with him to Ramoth-gilead.

* 1 King. 22. 2. † Heb. and he incited. † Heb. the end of years.

3 And Ahab king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat king of Judah, Wilt thou go with me to Ramoth-gilead? And he answered him, I am as thou art, and my people as thy people, and we will be with thee in the war.

† Heb. as. Or, Company. Or, head. Mat. 26. 21.

4 And Jehoshaphat said unto the king of Israel, Inquire, I pray thee, at the word of the LORD to day.

5 Therefore the king of Israel gathered together of prophets, four hundred men, and said unto them, Shall we go to Ramoth-gilead to battel, or shall I forbear? And they said, Go up, for God will deliver it into the kings hand.

† Heb. to day.

6 But Jehoshaphat said, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD † besides, that we might enquire of him?

† Heb. yet, or, more

7 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, There is yet one man, by whom we may enquire of the LORD: but I hate him, for he never prophesieth good unto me, but always evil: the same is Micajah the son of Jimla, and Jehoshaphat said, Let not the king say so.

8 And the king of Israel called for one of his ‖ officers, and said, † Fetch quickly Micajah the son of Jimla.

‖ Or, eunuchs. † Heb. hasten.

9 And the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat king of Judah, sat either of them on his throne, clothed in their robes, and they sat in a ‖ void place, at the entring in of the gate of Samaria, and all the prophets prophesied before them.

‖ Or, floor.

10 And Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah had made him horns of iron, and said, Thus saith the LORD, With these thou shalt push Syria, until † they be consumed.

† Heb. the enjoyn.

11 And all the prophets prophesied so, saying, Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and prosper: for the LORD shall deliver it into the hand of the king.

12 And the messenger that went to call Micajah, spake to him, saying, Behold the words of the prophets declare good to the king ‖ with one assent: let thy word therefore, I pray thee, be like one of theirs, and speak thou good.

‖ Heb. with the mouth of one.

13 And Micajah said, As the LORD liveth, even what my God saith that will I speak.

14 And when he was come to the king, the king said unto him, Micajah, shall we go to Ramoth-gilead to battel, or shall I forbear? And he said, Go ye up and prosper, and they shall be delivered into your hand.

15 And the king said to him, How many times shall I adjure thee, that thou say nothing but the truth to me, in the Name of the LORD?

16 Then he said, I did see all Israel scattered upon the mountains, as sheep that have no shepherd: and the LORD said, These have no master, let them return therefore, every man to his house in peace.

17 (And the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, Did I not tell thee, that he would not prophecy good unto me, ‖ but evil?)

‖ Or, but rather evil.

18 Again he said, Therefore hear the word of the LORD: I saw the LORD sitting upon his throne, and all the host of heaven standing on his right hand, and on his left.

19 And the LORD said, Who shall entice Ahab king of Israel that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-gilead? and one spake, saying after this manner, and another saying after that manner.

20 Then there came out a * spirit, and stood before the LORD, and said, I will entice him. And the LORD said unto him, Wherewith?

* Job 1. 6.

21 And he said, I will go out and be a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets. And the LORD said, thou shalt entice him, and thou shalt also prevail: go out, and do even so.

22 Now therefore behold, the LORD hath put a lying spirit in the mouth of these thy prophets, and the LORD hath spoken evil against thee.

23 Then

23 Then Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah, came near, and smote Micajah upon the cheek, and said, Which way went the spirit of the LORD from me, to speak unto thee?

24 And Micajah said, Behold, thou shalt see on that day, when thou shalt go ‖ into † an inner chamber to hide thy self.

Or, from chamber to chamber. † Heb. a chamber in a chamber.

25 Then the king of Israel said, Take ye Micajah, and carry him back to Amon the governour of the city, and to Joash the kings son:

26 And say, Thus saith the king, Put this fellow in the prison, and feed him with bread of affliction, and with water of affliction, until I return in peace.

27 And Micajah said, If thou certainly return in peace, then hath not the LORD spoken by me. And he said, Hearken, all ye people.

28 So the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat the king of Judah went up to Ramoth-gilead.

29 And the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, I will disguise my self, and will go to the battel, but put thou on thy robes. So the king of Israel disguised himself, and they went to the battel.

30 Now the king of Syria had commanded the captains of the chariots that were with him, saying, Fight ye not with small or great, save only with the king of Israel.

31 And it came to pass, when the captains of the chariots saw Jehoshaphat, that they said, It is the king of Israel: therefore they compassed about him to fight: but Jehoshaphat cried out, and the LORD helped him, and God † moved them to depart from him.

† Heb. incited, ver. 2.

32 For it came to pass, that when the captains of the chariots perceived, that it was not the king of Israel, they turned back again † from pursuing him.

† Heb. from after him.

33 And a certain man drew a bow † at a venture, and smote the king of Israel † between the joynts of the harness: therefore he said to his chariot-man, Turn thine hand, that thou mayest carry me out of the host, for I am † wounded.

† Heb. in his simplicity. † Heb. between the joynts, and between the breastplate.

34 And the battel increased that day: howbeit, the king of Israel stayed himself up in his chariot against the Syrians until the even. And about the time of the sun going down, he died.

† Heb. was sick.

CHAP. XIX.

Jehoshaphat reproved by the Prophet Jehu, visiteth his kingdom, 1—4. his Instructions to the Judges, 5——7. To the Priests and Levites, 8——11.

AND Jehoshaphat the king of Judah returned to his house in peace a, to Jerusalem.

a Safe, being miraculously delivered from eminent danger, as was related, ch. 18. 34, 32.

2 And Jehu the son of Hanani the seer b, went out to meet him, and said to king Jehoshaphat, Should'est thou help the ungodly, and * love them that hate the LORD c? therefore is wrath come upon thee from before the LORD d.

* Psal. 139. 21.

b Of whom see 1 Kin. 16. 1, 2. c Was this agreeable to thy Duty and Love which thou professest to God and Godliness, that thou hast entred into so strict an Alliance and Friendship with wicked Ahab my sworn Enemy, and given such Affittance to him? d Therefore God is angry with thee, and will chastise thee for this miscarriage. Which he did partly by stirring up the Moabites, and others to invade him, ch. 20. partly by permitting his Eldest Son Jehoram to kill all his Brethren, ch. 21. 4. and principally by bringing that sore and almost general Destruction upon his Grand-children by Jehu, 2 Kings 9. 27. and 10. 13, 14. which was the proper Fruit of his Alliance with Ahab.

3 Nevertheless, there are * good things found in thee e, in that thou hast taken away the groves out of the land, and hast prepared thine heart f to seek God.

* Ch. 17. 4, 6.

e i. e. Good Works proceeding from an honest Heart; which God more regards than this particular Error: and therefore though he will chasten thee, yet he will not utterly destroy thee. f Or, directed or set thy heart; i. e. Thou hast sought and served God with all thy heart, and not feignedly, as many others do. And this work of preparing or directing his heart, is here ascribed to Jehoshaphat, as elsewhere it is attributed to God, Prov. 16. 1. Phil. 2. 13. because it is Man's Action, but performed by God's Grace, preventing, enabling, and inclining him to it.

† Heb. he returned and went out.

4 And Jehoshaphat dwelt at Jerusalem: and † he went out again g through the people, from Beersheba to mount Ephraim h, and brought them back unto the LORD God of their fathers i.

g Once he went by his Officers, ch. 17. 7, &c. Now he went in his own person. h i. e. Through his whole Kingdom, wherein these were the two Bounds. i Such of them as had revolted from God to Idols, he reclaimed by his good Counsel and Example, and by the Instructions of the Levites and Priests, whom doubtless now he carried with him, as he sent them before with his Officers of State.

5 And he set Judges in the land, throughout all the fenced cities of Judah, city by city k;

k In every City, for it self and the Country adjacent, that Justice might be administred with the most ease and convenience to the People, and they might not all be forced to go up to Jerusalem.

6 And said to the judges, Take heed what ye do: for * ye judge not for man, but for the LORD l, * who is with you m † in the judgment.

* Deut. 1. 17. * Psal. 82. 1. † Heb. in the matter of Judgment.

l You represent God's Person, to whom Judgment belongeth, and you have your Commission and Power from God, and not from Man only; and your Administration of Justice is not only for Man's good, but also for God's Honour and Service. m Both to observe your Carriage, and to defend you against all those Enemies whom the Impartial Exercise of Justice may provoke.

7 Wherefore now, let the fear of the LORD be upon you, take heed and do it: for there is no iniquity with the LORD our God, nor * respect of persons n nor taking of gifts o.

* Deut. 10. 17. Job 34. 19. Act. 10. 34. Rom. 2. 11. Eph. 6. 9. Col. 3. 25. 1 Pet. 1. 17.

n And therefore you who are in God's stead, and do his Work, and must give an Account to him, must imitate God here. Of respect of persons, see Deut. 10. 17. Job 34. 19. Acts 10. 34. o So as to pervert Judgment for them; by comparing this with Exod. 23. 8. Deut. 16. 19. Prov. 17. 23.

8 Moreover, in Jerusalem did Jehoshaphat set of the Levites, and of the priests, and of the chief of the fathers of Israel p for the * judgment of the LORD q, and for controversies r, † when they returned to Jerusalem s.

* Deut. 16. 18. † Heb. and they returned.

p Who were not Priests and Levites, but such persons of other Tribes as were most Eminent for their Dignity, Ability and Integrity. But whether these Persons made up one Court, called the Sanhedrim, by which all Causes Ecclesiastical and Civil were decided; or there were two distinct Courts, the one Ecclesiastical, consisting of the Priests and Levites; the other Civil, consisting of the Chief of the Fathers of Israel, belongs to another place to determine, and requires more words than the nature of this Work can permit. q i. e. For Sacred Matters concerning the Laws and Worship, and Service of God. r For Matters of Difference between Man and Man. s i. e. When Jehoshaphat and his Company were returned to Jerusalem, then he made this Order concerning establishing Judges there. But so this last Clause may seem superfluous and tautological, being more than implyed in the beginning of the Verse. Or rather, when they, i. e. the Causes and Controversies last mentioned, shall return, or be returned to Jerusalem: i. e. When the Causes shall be so difficult that the Judges ordained in every City cannot determine them; or, when your Brethren that dwell in every City shall come to you, as it is expressed v. 10. appealing from their City-Courts to the great Court or Council at Jerusalem. Of which see on Exod. 18. 26. Deut. 1. 17. & 17. 8. As for the Phrase, not only Persons but Things are said to return, or be returned, as Blood, 1 Kings, 2. 23. and Clouds, Eccles. 12. 2. and Reproach, Hos. 12. 14. If it be further objected, That these Causes were never brought to Jerusalem before, and therefore cannot be properly said to be returned thither; That may be answered both from the usage of our Law, wherein such Causes are said to be returned to Westminster, which never were there before; and from the use of Scripture, wherein Sinners are commonly said to return to the Lord, though they had never been with the Lord in that Sense before, but where estranged from God even from the Womb till the time of their Conversion. And the Dust, i. e. Man's Body, is said to return to the Earth, Eccles. 12. 7. though it was never there before.

9 And he charged them, saying, Thus shall ye do in the fear of the LORD, faithfully and with a perfect heart t.

t Passing such Sentences with your Mouths, as your own Minds and Consciences, upon the hearing of the Parties, shall judge to be Just, and not acting against your own Conscience for Carnal Motives, as Corrupt Judges do.

10 And what cause soever shall come to you of your brethren that dwell in their cities, between blood and blood u, between law and commandment, statutes and judgments x, ye shall even warn them that they trespass not against the LORD y, and so wrath come upon you, and upon your brethren: this do, and ye shall not trespass z.

u Of which see the Notes on Deut. 17. 8. x When any Debates or Differences shall arise about the meaning of any of God's Laws, one Party possibly putting this, and the other a quite differing Sense upon the same place, or one alledging one place, and the other another place, which may seem to clash with it. y Ye shall not only give a Righteous Sentence for what is past, but ye shall admonish the Offender, and others, to take better heed to themselves, and their ways for the future. z So you shall not bring Guilt and Wrath upon your selves and others, which otherwise you will certainly do.

11 And behold, Amariah the chief priest is over you a in all matters of the LORD b; and Zebadiah the son of Ishmael, the ruler of the house of Judah c, for all the kings matters d: also the Levites shall be officers before you e. † Deal courageously, and the LORD shall be with the good f.

† Heb. take courage and do.

a Shall be your President to direct and assist you. b In Spiritual, or Ecclesiastical Matters. c Either 1. the Prince, or chief Ruler, under the King, of the Tribe of Judah, which is called the House of Judah, Judah, 2 Sam. 2. 4, 7, 10. 1 Kings 12: 21, 23. 1 Chron. 28. 4. Jer. 13. 11. Ezek. 4. 6. Or, 2. The Ruler of the King's House, which also seems to be called the House of Judah, 2 Chron: 22. 10. and more fully, the Kings house of Judah, Jer. 22. 6. And who so fit to manage the Kings Matters as the Ruler of the King's House? d For Civil Causes or Controverſies which might arife either between the King and his People; or between Subject and Subject, which may be called the Kings Matters, becauſe it was a principal part of his Office to ſee them juſtly decided. e They ſhall be at your command to ſee your juſt Sentences executed; which work was fitly committed to the Levites, as perſons who might add their Inſtructions to the Corrections, and might work the Guilty to an acknowledgment of their Fault, and a ſubmiſſion to their Puniſhment. And ſo this is an Argument to encourage the Judges to proceed couragiouſly and vigorouſly in their Work, becauſe they had the Levites to ſtand by them and aſſiſt them. f i.e. Shall protect and bleſs good Judges in their doing of Good and Juſt Things.

CHAP. XX.

Several Armies come againſt Judah: Jehoſhaphat in his fear proclaimeth a faſt, 1—4. His Prayer, 5—13. Jehaziel's Prophecy, 14—17. The Enemies are overthrown, 20—25. The People return in Triumph, bleſſing God, 25—30. His Reign: his Navy ſhipwrecked, 31—37.

IT came to paſs after this alſo, that the children of Moab, and the children of Ammon, and with them † other beſide the Ammonites a, came againſt Jehoſhaphat to battel.

†Gr. of the Mineans. Compare ch. 26. 7, 8. in Gr.

a To wit, the people that dwelt in Mount Seir, who were now Confederate with them, as appears from v. 10, 22, 23. Or, This is the Name of a Peculiar People called either Mehumin, of whom you read 2 Chron. 26. 7. (and ſo there is only a Tranſpoſition of two Letters in the Hebrew word, which is not unuſual in that Language) or Minzans, as the LXX Interpreters render this Word; or Ammonium, or Mehaammonim, as it is in the Hebrew (the two firſt Letters being not Prefixes, as they are commonly made, but part of the Word or proper Name of that People) who, as it may ſeem, now dwelt in Mount Seir, being either of the Old Stock of the Edomites, or another Nation ſince come in their ſtead or mixed with them. Others render the place thus, for (as the Hebrew vau is oft taken) with them (i.e. with the Moabites) were the Ammonites or children of Ammon. Which may be diſtinctly noted, either to ſhew the largeneſs of the Confederacy, in which not only the Moabites were engaged, who dwelt nearer Jehoſhaphat's Kingdom, but the Ammonites alſo who lived at a greater diſtance from him: Or to intimate that the Ammonites being poſſibly inſtigated by the Syrians their next Neighbours, were the firſt Beginners and chief Promoters of the War, and Engaged both the Moabites and the Inhabitants of Mount Seir in their Quarrel.

2 Then there came ſome that told Jehoſhaphat, ſaying, There cometh a great multitude againſt thee from beyond the ſea b on this ſide Syria c, and behold, they be in Hazazon-tamar, which is Engedi.

b To wit, the Dead Sea, beyond which Mount Seir lay. c Or, and from Syria, largely ſo called, and ſo it includes the Moabites and Ammonites. And it may be thus expreſſed, to intimate that they came by the inſtigation of the Syrians, who thought by this means to revenge themſelves of Jehoſhaphat for joyning with Ahab againſt them.

† Heb. his face. 3 And Jehoſhaphat feared d, and ſet † himſelf to ſeek the LORD e, and proclaimed a faſt f throughout all Judah.

d Partly from Humane frailty, and partly from the Remembrance of his own Guilt and the Wrath of God denounced againſt him for it, ch. 19. 2. e The Phraſe notes his ſettled Reſolution, Seriouſneſs, and Earneſtneſs in it, and the preparing and fixing his Heart for it. f Partly in token of his Humiliation and Penitence for his Sins, and partly to make himſelf and his people more fervent in their Prayers.

4 And Judah gathered themſelves together, to aſk help of the LORD: even out of all the cities of Judah they came to ſeek the LORD.

5 And Jehoſhaphat ſtood in the congregation of Judah and Jeruſalem, in the houſe of the LORD g before the new court h, g Largely ſo called, i. e. in one of the Courts of the Temple, even in the Court of the People, and upon that Brazen Scaffold which Solomon had Erected for ſuch a purpoſe, 2 Chron. 6. 13. h i.e. Beſides and before the Prieſts Court: for there were but two Courts belonging to the Temple, as is noted 2 Kings 21. 5. & 23. 12. And Jehoſhaphat ſtood in the one, which muſt be that of the People; and before the other, which therefore can be no other than that of the Prieſts, which is called the New Court, becauſe it had been lately renewed when the Altar was renewed, ch. 15. 8. as the Command of Love is called a new Command, Joh. 13. 34. 1 Joh. 2. 8. becauſe it was ſo ſolemnly renewed, and revived, and reinforced by Chriſt.

6 And ſaid, O LORD God of our fathers, art not thou God in heaven? and ruleſt not thou over all the kingdoms of the heathen? and in thine hand is there not power and might, ſo that none is able to withſtand thee.

†Heb. Adon. 7 Art not thou our God, † who didſt drive out the inhabitants of this land before thy people Iſrael, * Jam 2. 23 and gaveſt it to the ſeed of Abraham * thy friend for ever i?

i i. e. To whom thou haſt engaged thy ſelf by Covenant to be his Friend, and the Friend of his Seed for ever, (and therefore we truſt thou wilt not forſake us his Poſterity.

8 And they dwelt therein, and have built thee a ſanctuary therein for thy name, ſaying,

9 * If when evil cometh upon us, as ‖ the ſword, * 1 Kings judgment k, or peſtilence, or famine, we ſtand be- 8. 33, 35. fore this houſe, and in thy preſence, (for thy name Ch. 6. 28. is in this houſe) and cry unto thee in our affliction, ‖ Or, the ſword of judgment. then thou wilt hear and help.

k Or rather, the ſword of judgment or of Vengeance, i. e. War whereby thou judgeſt and puniſheſt thy People for their Sins. Compare Levit. 26. 25.

10 And now behold, the children of Ammon, and Moab, and mount Seir, whom thou * wouldeſt * Deut. 2. not let Iſrael invade, when they came out of the land 4, 9, 19. of Egypt, but * they turned from them, and deſtroy- * Numb. ed them not: 20. 21.

11 Behold, I ſay, how they reward us, to come to caſt us out of thy poſſeſſion, which thou haſt given us to inherit.

12 O our God, wilt thou not judge them? for we have no might againſt this great company that cometh againſt us l: neither know we what to do, but our eyes are upon thee m.

l Thus he ſpeaks, partly though he had great Armies to be drawn together in due time upon great Occaſions, ch. 17. 14, &c. Yet he ſeems to have been ſurprized by theſe Men before his Forces were in readineſs to oppoſe them: and partly becauſe he well knew and pioufly and wiſely conſidered that no Humane Forces, though numerous and valiant, were able to defend him without Gods Aſſiſtance, which he feared by his Sins he had forfeited, and then he had really been as weak as Water. m Looking to thee only for Relief and Succour.

13 And all Judah ſtood before the LORD with their little ones n, their wives and their children.

n Whom they uſed to preſent before the Lord in times of great Diſtreſs, partly to ſtir up themſelves to more fervent and faithful Prayers, that their Eye being upon their harmleſs and tender Children, might affect their Heart with a greater Senſe of their Miſery: and partly to move God to Compaſſion, not as if he were capable of Paſſions or Changes upon ſuch a Sight, but becauſe God hath declared himſelf that he will be prevailed with by ſuch Methods as theſe.

14 Then upon Jahaziel the ſon of Zechariah, the ſon of Benajah, the ſon of Jeiel, the ſon of Mattaniah, a Levite of the ſons of Aſaph, came the ſpirit of the LORD in the midſt of the congregation o.

o He was ſuddenly inſpired by God with the following Meſſage.

15 And he ſaid, Hearken ye, all Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jeruſalem, and thou king Jehoſhaphat, Thus ſaith the LORD unto you, * Be not * Exod. 14. afraid nor diſmaid by reaſon of this great multitude, 13, 14. for the battel is not yours, but Gods p.

p God will fight for you, and he alone will do the Work, you need not ſtrike a Stroke.

16 To morrow go ye down q againſt them: behold, they come up by the † cliff of Ziz, and ye † Heb. ascent. ſhall find them at the end of the ‖ brook, before the wilderneſs of Jeruel. ‖ Or, valley.

q From Jeruſalem, where he and his Army now were; which ſtood upon high ground.

17 Ye ſhall not need to fight in this battel; ſet your ſelves, ſtand ye ſtill, and ſee the ſalvation of the LORD with you, O Judah and Jeruſalem: fear not, nor be diſmaid; to morrow go out againſt them, for the LORD will be with you.

18 And Jehoſhaphat bowed his head, with his face to the ground r: and all Judah, and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem fell before the LORD, worſhipping the LORD.

r In token of his Reverence to God and his Meſſage, his belief of the Promiſe, and his Thankfulneſs for ſo great a Favour.

19 And the Levites, of the children of the Kohathites, and of the children of the Korhites, ſtood up s to praiſe the LORD God of Iſrael with a loud voice on high t.

s By Jehoſhaphat's Appointment. t i.e. With moſt loud voice, with Heart and Voice lifted up: whereby they ſhewed their full aſſurance of the Victory, as if it were already accompliſhed.

20 And they roſe early in the morning, and went forth into the wilderneſs of Tekoa: and as they went forth Jehoſhaphat ſtood and ſaid, Hear me, O Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jeruſalem, * Believe in * Iſa. 7. 9. the LORD your God, ſo ſhall ye be eſtabliſhed; believe † his prophets u. ſo ſhall ye proſper u. † Heb. it

t i. e. Gods Promiſe delivered to us by this Prophet, and conſequently all other Predictions of the Prophets that either have been or ſhall be. u Take heed, leſt by your Unbelief you fruſtrate God's Promiſe.

21 And when he had conſulted with the people, † he appointed ſingers unto the LORD x, and † that Praiſers. ſhould praiſe the beauty of holineſs x, as they went out 20.21. out before the army, and to ſay, * Praiſe the LORD, * 136. 1. for his mercy endureth for ever.

x i.e. With the Elders or chief of the People; partly to take their Advice about the Expediency of the Thing; and partly that they might excite and prepare themſelves and the People under them to this great Work of Praiſing God. y To the Honour and Service of God. z Or, the Glory, or Magnificence or Majeſty of Holineſs, i.e. (by a vulgar Hebraiſm) the Holy Majeſty; a Periphraſis of God. Or, according to the beauty or magnificence of the ſanctuary, i.e. in the ſame comely Order and Magnificent Manner, as they uſed to do it in the Temple; where the following Song was uſually ſung, as 2 Chron. 5. 13. & 7. 3, 6.

† Heb. and in the time that they, &c. † Heb. in ſinging and praiſe. Or, they unto one another. 22 † And when they began † to ſing and to praiſe a, the LORD ſet ambuſhments b againſt the children of Ammon, Moab and mount Seir, which were come againſt Judah, and ‖ they were ſmitten.

a So acceptable are the Fervent Prayers of Gods People to God, and ſo terrible to their Enemies. b Or, lyers in wait, either 1. the Holy Angels, who appeared in the ſhape of Men, and poſſibly put on the Appearances and Viſages of Moabites or Ammonites, and in that ſhape ſlew the reſt, who ſuppoſing this Slaughter to be done by a part of their own Army, fell upon them, and ſo broke forth into Mutual Slaughters. Or, 2. God raiſed Jealouſies and Animoſities amongſt themſelves, which by degrees broke forth, firſt into ſecret Ambuſhments, which one party laid for another, and then into open Hoſtilities and Outrages to their utter Deſtruction. So Vain are all Mens Attempts againſt God, who needs none to deſtroy his Enemies but themſelves, and their own Miſtakes and Paſſions, which he can, when he pleaſeth, arm againſt them.

† Heb. for the deſtruction. 23 For the children of Ammon and Moab, ſtood up againſt the inhabitants of mount Seir, utterly to ſlay and deſtroy them: and when they had made an end of the inhabitants of Seir, every one helped † to deſtroy another.

24 And when Judah came toward the watch-tower c in the wilderneſs, they looked unto the multitude, and behold, they were dead bodies fallen upon the earth, and † none eſcaped.

† Heb. there was not a eſcaping. c Which ſtood upon the Cliff of Ziz mentioned above v. 6. or ſome other Hill which looked toward the Wilderneſs, where their Enemies lay encamped, whoſe Numbers, and Order, and Conditions they could deſcry from thence.

25 And when Jehoſhaphat and his people came to take away the ſpoil of them, they found among them in abundance both riches with the dead bodies, and precious jewels d (which they ſtript off for themſelves) more than they could carry away: and they were three days in gathering of the ſpoil, it was ſo much.

d Which they brought with them partly to corrupt any of Jehoſhaphat's Officers as they ſaw Occaſion: partly to procure neceſſaries for their vaſt Army from time to time: and partly becauſe they came as to a Triumph rather than to a Fight, being ſecure and confident of the Victory becauſe of their great Numbers, and eſpecially becauſe they thought to ſurprize Jehoſhaphat ere he could make any conſiderable preparations againſt them; God alſo permitting them to be puffed up to their own Deſtruction.

26 And on the fourth day they aſſembled themſelves in the valley of ‖ Berachah e; for there they bleſſed the LORD: therefore the name of the ſame place was called the valley of Berachah unto this day.

‖ That is, bleſſing.

* Heb. ſeed. 27 Then they returned every man of Judah and Jeruſalem, and Jehoſhaphat in the * foreſront of them, to go again to Jeruſalem with joy: for the LORD had made them to rejoyce over their enemies.

28 And they came to Jeruſalem with pſalteries, and harps, and trumpets, unto the houſe of the LORD f.

f To renew their Praiſes in the Court of the Temple, the proper and uſual place for it.

* Ch. 17. 10. 29 And * the fear of God was on all the kingdoms of thoſe countries g, when they had heard that the LORD fought againſt the enemies of Iſrael.

g Which were near, or which heard theſe things.

30 So the realm of Jehoſhaphat was quiet: for his God gave him reſt round about.

* 1 Kings 22. 41, &c. 31 * And Jehoſhaphat reigned over Judah: he was thirty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty and five years in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi.

32 And he walked in the ways of Aſa his father, and departed not from it, doing that which was right in the ſight of the LORD.

33 Howbeit, the high places were not taken away h; for as yet the people had not prepared their heart unto the God of their fathers i.

h Not fully nor univerſally; of which ſee on ch. 17. 6. i The Fault was not in Jehoſhaphat, but in the People, who, though they did Worſhip the True God, yet would not be confined to the Temple, but for their own Conveniency, or from their Affection to their Ancient Cuſtom choſe to Worſhip him in the High Places: which Jehoſhaphat was forced to connive at, leſt thoſe People being debarred from that dearly-beloved Practice, ſhould fall into a Neglect of God and his Worſhip.

† Heb. was made to aſcend. 35 And after this k did Jehoſhaphat king of Judah joyn himſelf with Ahaziah king of Iſrael, who made to did very wickedly l:

k This is mentioned as an Aggravation of his Sin, after ſo great a Favour and Obligation laid upon him by God; and after he had been ſo ſharply reproved and threatned by a Prophet for the ſame thing, ch. 19. 2. yet he relapſed into the ſame Sin; which proceeded partly from that near Relation which was contracted between the two Families, and partly from the ſweetneſs and eaſineſs of Jehoſhaphat's Temper, which could not reſiſt the Solicitations of others, in ſuch things as might ſeem indifferent. For he did not joyn with him in a War, as he did with Ahab, but in a peaceable way only, in a Matter of Trade and Commerce. And yet God ſharply reproves and puniſheth him for it, v. 37. to ſhew his great diſlike and deteſtation of all friendly and familiar Converſation of his Servants and People with Idolaters and profeſſed Enemies of God and of Religion, as Ahaziah was, who is therefore thus ſtigmatized in the next words, who did very wickedly. l Or who did induſtriouſly, and malitiouſly, and conſtantly work wickedneſs, as the Hebrew Phraſe implies, giving himſelf up to Idolatry and all Wickedneſs.

36 And he joyned himſelf with him to make ſhips to go to Tarſhiſh m: and they made the ſhips in Ezion-geber n.

m Of which ſee on 1 Kings 10. 22. & 22. 48. n Of which ſee on 1 Kings 9. 26.

37 Then Eliezer the ſon of Dodavah of Mareſhah, prophecied againſt Jehoſhaphat, ſaying, Becauſe thou haſt joyned thy ſelf with Ahaziah, the LORD hath broken thy works. And the ſhips were broken that they were not able to go to Tarſhiſh.

CHAP. XXI.

Jehoram is made King and ſlayeth his Brethren, 1—4. His wicked Reign, 5—7. Edom and Libnah revolt, 8—13. The Prophecy of Elijah againſt him in writing, 12—15. Philiſtins and Arabians oppreſs him: his incurable diſeaſe, death and burial, 16—20.

NOw * Jehoſhaphat ſlept with his fathers, and * 1 Kings was was buried with his fathers in the city of 22. 50. David: and Jehoram his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

2 And he had brethren the ſons of Jehoſhaphat, Azariah a, and Jehiel, and Zechariah, and Azariah a, and Michael, and Shephatiah: all theſe were the ſons of Jehoſhaphat king of Iſrael b.

a Two ſons called by the ſame Name, though doubtleſs diſtinguiſhed by ſome additional Title, which is not mentioned here, becauſe it did not concern ſucceeding Ages to know it. Though indeed there is a Difference in their Hebrew Names, the one being Azariah, the other Azariahu, hu being the laſt Syllable in his Name, as in Elihu, and others. b So he is called either, 1. Becauſe he was ſo by Right: Or 2. Becauſe he was King not only of Judah and Benjamin, but of a great number of Iſraelites, who had come into and ſettled themſelves in his Kingdom, in his and in his Predeceſſors days; who being a conſiderable, and the pureſt and beſt part of Iſrael, may well be called Iſrael, being more truly and properly Gods Iſrael than their Apoſtate Brethren, who were no longer worthy of that Name. Or, 3 Becauſe all his Subjects were Iſraelites; and therefore he was King of Iſrael, though not of all Iſrael. Or, 4. With ſome reflection upon his Memory, for making ſo ſtrict an Alliance and Friendſhip with the King of Iſrael, whoſe Cauſe he defended with his own and his Kingdoms great Hazard, as if he had been the King not ſo much of Judah, as of Iſrael. And this may be the rather noted here, becauſe here ſpeedily follows a ſad Effect of that wicked and curſed Match. Some ſay Iſrael was foiſted into ſome Copies by the Tranſcriber inſtead of Judah, as it was firſt written.

3 And their father gave them great gifts of ſilver and of gold, and of precious things, with fenced cities in Judah: but the kingdom gave he to Jehoram, becauſe he was the firſt-born c.

c Whom he conceived that he ought to prefer by vertue of that Law of God, Deut. 21. 15. though otherwiſe he would not have done it, having probably e're this time perceived his perverſe and wicked Inclinations, and how much he was ſwayed by his Idolatrous Wife. Now he ſaw his Errour when it was too late.

* 2 Kings 16, 17. 4 Now * when Jehoram was riſen up to the kingdom of his father, he ſtrengthened himſelf d, and ſlew all his brethren with the ſword e, and divers alſo of the princes of Iſrael f.

d He took Courage and hardned his heart, as that word ſometimes ſignifies. e Partly becauſe they either did, or he knew that they would, oppoſe him in his wicked Deſigns: and partly for his own Security, leſt his People, who, as he believed, would be highly exaſperated with the Execution of his Counſels, ſhould advance any of them to the Throne, and depoſe him. f Either 1. of Ju-Uzh, here called Israel, of which see the Notes on v.2. Or, 2. The Princes or Chief Men of Israel, properly so called; not the Princes of all Israel are of the several Tribes thereof, but the Chief of those Israelites, whoout of Love to God and to the True Religion, had forsaken their Estates and worldly Advantages in the Kingdom of Israel, and were now incorporated with the Kingdom of Judah. These he especially struck at, either 1. Because his Wife instigated him thereunto, both to punish them for their Revolt from her Father, and to deter others from following their Example: Or, 2. Because he justly and truly thought these would be most firm and constant to, and zealous for that Religion which he was resolved to oppose, being both by their Conscience and Interest obliged to it.

5 Jehoram w.s thirty and two years old g when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem.

g Of this, and v.6,7,8,9.10. see the Notes on 2 Kings 8.17, &c.

6 And he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, like as did the house of Ahab: for he had the daugh-
* Ch.22.2. ter of * Ahab to wife: and he wrought that which was evil in the eyes of the LORD.

7 Howbeit, the LORD would not destroy the house of David, because of the covenant that he had made with David h, and as he promised to give a † light to him, and to his * sons for ever.

†Heb. lamp or candle. * 2 Sam. 7. 12.

h For which in 2 Kings 8.19. it is for David his servants sake; i.e. Not for David's Merits, but for Gods free Promise and Covenant, as it is here explained.

8 In his days the Edomites revolted from under 1 Kings 11.36. 2 Kings 8.19. Psal. 132. 11, &c. † Heb. Band. * 2 Kings 8.21. the † dominion of Judah, and made themselves a king.

9 Then Jehoram * went forth with his princes, and all his chariots with him: and he rose up by night, and smote the Edomites which compassed him in, and the captains of the chariots.

10 So the Edomites revolted from under the hand of Judah unto this day. The same time also did Libnah revolt from under his hand; because he had forsaken the LORD God of his fathers i.

i To wit, publickly and avowedly, setting him at Defiance, as the next Verse shews. And this is mentioned, either 1. As the Reason why the Priests, whose City Libnah was, forsook him, because he had forsaken God: Or rather, 2. As the Reason why God raised up so many Enemies against him, both from abroad and at home.

11 Moreover, he made high places k in the mountains of Judah, and caused the inhabitants of Jerusalem to commit fornication l, and compelled Judah thereto.

k Not to the Lord, whose sworn Enemy he was, but to Baals or False Gods. l Not only by his Counsel and Example, but as it follows, by Force, by Threats, and Penalties.

12 And there came a writing to him from Elijah the prophet m, saying, Thus saith the LORD God of David thy father n, Because thou hast not walked in the ways of Jehoshaphat thy father o, nor in the ways of Asa king of Judah;

m Qu. How could this be, when Elijah was wrapt up to Heaven in Jehoshaphats time, 2 Kings 2. & 3. 11. Answ. Either 1. This was Elisha, or some other Prophet called Elijah, because he acted in the Spirit and Power of Elijah, for which cause John the Baptist also is so called. Or rather, 2. This was really written by Elijah who by the Spirit did clearly foresee and foretel the Reign and Act of Jehoram, (as others did of Josiah, 1 Kings 13. 2. and Isaiah of Cyrus, ch. 45. 3. long before they were born) and in consideration thereof left this Prophecy with Elisha, to be delivered in due time by him or some other person in his Name, and as from his Mouth. n Whose Name he mentions either to upbraid him with his degeneration from so worthy a Parent: Or to take off his Presumption and Confidence, which was grounded upon his being the Son and Successor of David, in whose Posterity the Crown was settled for ever by Gods special Appointment, and by the Approbation of the People. o Whose wise Counsel and good Example thou hast despised.

13 But hast walked in the way of the kings of Israel, and hast made Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to go a whoring, like to the whoredoms of the house of Ahab, and also hast slain thy brethren of thy fathers house, which were better than thy self p:

p More Innocent, and Righteous, and Pious.

14 Behold, with † a great plague will the LOLD † Heb. a great stroke smite thy people q, and thy children, and thy wives r, and all thy goods.

q Qu. Why the People for his Sin? Answ. 1. Because the Generality of them sinned in complying with his Wicked and Idolatrous Commands through Fear, v. 11. 2. Because he suffered in his Peoples Destruction: For as the Honour, and Safety, and Strength of a King lies in the Multitude and Prosperity of his People, Prov. 14. 28. so when they are diminished and destroyed, the King is very much weakned and endangered by it. r Whose Lives shall go for the Lives of thy Brethren, v. 4.

15 And thou shalt have great sickness by disease of thy bowels, until thy bowels fall out, by reason of the sickness day by day s.

s i.e. From day to day continually. Or, year upon year, i.e. one year after another, or, for the space of two years, as the Event shews, v. 19. Heb. days upon days. Days are oft put for a year, as *Exod.*13.10. *Levit.*25.29. *Numb.*9.22. Judg. 17.10. 1 Sam. 1.3. & 27.7. Amos 4. 4.

16 Moreover, the LORD stirred up against Jehoram the spirit of the Philistins t, and of the Arabians, that were near the Ethiopians u.

t A People fully subdued and dispirited: but God now raiseth their Spirits and Courage to do his Work. n Heb. near the Cushites, i.e. Either the Ethiopians, from whom they were parted only by the Red Sea, each dwelling upon the opposite Shores of it: Or, rather a People in Arabia, frequently mentioned in Scripture, and so called, either for their likeness in Colour and Complexion to the Ethiopians properly so called; or because the one of these People were a Colony of the other. But the Ethiopians above Egypt were far enough from these other Arabians, being separated from them by the Red Sea.

17 And they came up into Judah, and brake into it, and † carried away all the substance that was found † Heb. captivated. in the kings house, and his sons also and his wives x: so that there was never a son left him, save ‖ Jehoahaz y the youngest of his sons.

‖ Or, Azariah.

x Whom also they slew, ch. 22. 1. except Ahaziah and Athaliah; Ch.22.1. who possibly were hidden in some secret and safe place. y Called also Azariah, *ch.*22.6. whose signification is near akin to the other, all signifying Gods taking or helping of him.

18 And after all this the LORD smote him in his bowels with an incurable disease.

19 And it came to pass that in process of time, after the end of two years, his bowels fell out by reason of his sickness: so he died of sore diseases: and his people made no burning for him, like the * burning of
*Ch.16.14. his fathers.

20 Thirty and two years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned in Jerusalem eight years, and departed z † without being desired ‖: howbeit they † Heb. without desire. buried him in the city of David, but not in the sepulchre of the kings.

z Heb. Went, to wit, the way of all the Earth, as it is more fully expressed, Jos. 23. 14. Or, to the land of darkness, as Job 10.21,22. Or, to his long home, Eccles. 12. 5. Or, went away, to wit, out of this World; as this Word is used, Job 14.20. Eccles. 5. 15. & 6.4. there being many such Words and Phrases used concerning death in the Old and New Testament, signifying that death is not an Annihilation, but only a Translation into another place and state. See Gen. 15. 15. Phil. 1. 23. ‖ Heb. without desire, which may belong either 1. To himself; he had no desire of living longer, nor any pleasure in Life, but was heartily weary of it, through his excessive Pains: Or rather, 2. To his People, who did not desire that he should live longer, but oft and heartily wished that he had died sooner: Which contempt of him they shewed both by making no burning for him, as they used to do for Good and Laudable Kings, ch. 16. 14. and by denying him burial among the Kings, as it here follows. Desire is here put for a person or thing whose life or continuance is desirable or desired by others, as Isa. 2. 16. Ezek. 24. 16, 18, 21, 25. Dan. 9. 23. & 10. 11, 19. And this is an emphatical Expression, because it is usual with Men to desire the deaths of some persons, whom afterward they lament and heartily wish that they were alive again, as they may have cause to do. But for this ungodly and unhappy Prince, his People did not only in his life time wish his Death, but afterwards they did not repent of those desires, nor wish him alive again, but rejoyced that they were delivered from so great a Plague as he was to them.

CHAP. XXII.

Ahaziah is made King, reigneth wickedly, 1——4. In his confederacy with Joram the son of Ahab he is slain by Jehu, 5——9. Athaliah destroyeth all the Seed Royal, save Joash who was hid, and usurpeth the Kingdom, 10——12.

AND the inhabitants of Jerusalem made * Ahaziah † his youngest son, king in his stead: for the band
* 2 Kings 8.24, &c. of men that came with the Arabians a to the camp, had slain all the * eldest. So Ahaziah the son of Jeho-
*Ch.21.17. ram king of Judah reigned.

a Either 1. a cruel sort of Men who came along with the Arabians, and therefore slew those whom the Arabians had spared, and only carried into Captivity. Or 2. The Philistins, who did accompany the Arabians in this Expedition, ch. 21.16. who lived near the Kingdom of Judah, and therefore thought to make as sure work as they could in destroying all the Branches of the Royal Family, who otherwise, they expected, would recover strength, and revenge themselves upon them.

2 Forty and two years old was Ahaziah when he began to reign b, and he reigned one year in Jerusalem: his mothers name also was * Athaliah the daugh-
* Ch.22.2. ter of Omri c.

b Object. He was then only 22 years old, as is affirmed, 2 Kings 8.26. Besides, Joram his Father, died in his fortieth year, as is twice noted, ch. 21.5, 20. how then can this be true? Answ. 1. In the Hebrew it is, A son of 42 years, &c. which is an ambiguous Phrase, and though it doth for the most part, yet it doth not always signifie the Age of the Person, as is manifest from 1 Sam. 13.1. where see the Notes. And therefore it is not necessary that this should note his Age, (as it is generally presumed to do, and that is the only ground of the difficulty) but it may note either 1. The Age of his Mother Athaliah; who being so great, and infamous, and mischievous a person to the Kingdom and Royal Family of Judah, it is not strange if her Age be here described, especially seeing she her self did for a season sway this Scepter. Or, rather 2. of the Reign of that Royal Race and Family from which by his Mother he was descended, to wit, of the house of Omri, who reigned 6 years, 1 Kings 16. 23. Ahab his son reigned 22 years, 1 Kings 16. 29. Ahaziah his son two years, 1 Kings 22. 51. Jorum his son 12 years, 2 Kings 3. 1. All which put together, make up exactly these 42 years. For Ahaziah began his Reign in Jorams 12th year, 2 Kings 8. 25. And such a kind of Computation of the years, not of the Kings Person, but of his Reign or Kingdom, we had before, *ch.*16. 1. where see the Notes. And so we have an account of the Persons Age, in 2 Kings 8. 26. and here of the Kingdom to which he belonged. Answ. 2. Some acknowledge an Errour in the Transcribers of the present Hebrew Copies, in which Language the numeral Letters for 22 and 42 are so like, that they might easily be mistaken. For that it was read 22 here, as it is in the Book of Kings, in other Hebrew Copies, they gather from hence, that it is at this day so read in divers ancient Greek Copies, as also in those two ancient Translations, the Syriack and the Arabick, and particularly in that Famous and most Ancient Copy of the Syriack which was used by the Church of Antioch in the Primitive Times, and to this day is kept in the Church of Antioch, from which that most Reverend, Learned, Pious, and Publick-spirited Archbishop Usher did at his own great Charge get another Copy transcribed, in which he hath published to all the World that he found it here written, Twenty and two years old, &c. Nor doth this overthrow the Authority of the Sacred Text, as Infidels would have it, partly because it is only an Historical Passage of no Importance to the Substantial Doctrines of Faith and a good Life; and partly because the Question here is not whether this Text be true, but which is the true Reading of the Text, whether that of the generality of present Copies, or that which was used in the Ancient Copies, which the Ancient and Venerable Translators above mentioned did follow: For it seems unreasonable and uncharitable to thiuk that all of them would have conspired to have changed the Text, and put in twenty and two, for forty and two, if they had so read it in their Hebrew Copies. Nor can this open any great Door to those innumerable Changes which some have boldly and rashly made in the Hebrew Text without any such pretence of Authority, as there is for this, which as they are affirmed without Reason, or Authority, or Necessity, so they may as easily be rejected. If all this will not satisfie our present Infidels, I desire them only to consider what hath been hinted before upon such Occasions, that many Difficulties which did seem unanswerable, being now fully cleared by later Writers, it is but reasonable to think that this may be so in after times, either by finding of some Hebrew Copies in which it may be Twenty and two years, &c. or by some other way. c i.e. Of Omri's Family: Or of Ahab, Omri's Son. Grandchildren are oft called Sons and Daughters, as *Matth.*1.1. Luke 3.26.

3 He also walked in the ways of the house of Ahab, for his mother was his counseller d to do wickedly.

d Being a Crafty and an Imperious Woman.

4 Wherefore he did evil in the sight of the LORD, like the house of Ahab: for they were his counsellers after the death of his father e, to his destruction.

e Who, whilst he lived, seduced his Son by his Counsel and Authority, and made other Evil Counsellers then unnecessary.

5 He walked also after their counsel, and went with Jehoram the son of Ahab king of Israel, to war against Hazael f king of Syria at Ramoth-gilead: and the Syrians smote Joram.

f Following the evil Example of Jehoshaphat therein, *ch.*18. though he would not follow him in what was good. But of this and the following verses see 2 Kings 8.28, 29. & 9. 21, 27.

6 And he returned to be healed in Jezreel, because h Either properly so called: Or the Sons of his Cousins or near Kinsmen, who are oft called Brethren: for his Brethren were slain, here implyed, and withal to visit Joram and his Children, as is noted 2 King 10.13. i That came thither to wait upon their King Ahaziah, as is noted v. 1.

* 2 Kings 9.27.

9 * And he sought Ahaziah k: and they caught him, (for he was hid in Samaria l) and brought him to Jehu: and when they had slain him, they buried him m, because (said they) he is the son of Jehoshaphat, who sought the LORD with all his heart. So the house of Ahaziah n had no power to keep still the kingdom.

k Who, though wounded, had made an escape, 2 Kings 9. 27. Either 1. In the Kingdom of Samaria, to wit, in Megiddo. Or, 2. In the City of Samaria: and so he fled first to Megiddo; and, not thinking himself safe there, he fled to Samaria; where he was taken, and fent thence by Jehu's Order to Megiddo, where he received the Sentence of Death. See more of this matter upon 2 Kings 9. 27. m They gave his Servants leave to carry him away to Jerusalem and bury him there, 2 Kings 9. 28. Both God, and Men are oft times said to do what they and others do by their permission, when they could hinder them. n i.e. His Posterity, because they were young and feeble, being ground between two Millstones, the great and growing power of Jehu; and the craft and tyranny of Athaliah.

10 * But when Athaliah the Mother of Ahaziah o,
* 2 Kings 11.1. saw that her son was dead, she arose, and destroyed all the seed royal of the house of Judah.

o This, and *v.*11,12. are explained on 2 Kings 11. 1, 2, 3.

11 But Jehoshabeath the daughter of the king took Joash the son of Ahaziah, and stole him from among the kings sons that were slain, and put him and his nurse in a bed-chamber. So Jehoshabeath the daughter of king Jehoram, the wife of Jehojada the priest (for she was the sister of Ahaziah) hid him from Athaliah, so that she slew him not.

12 And he was with them hid in the house of God six years, and Athaliah reigned over the land.

a Not all but those here following, in whom he put most trust. But this Chapter is almost all taken out of 2 Kings 11. where it is explained.

2 And they went about in Judah, and gathered the Levites out of all the cities of Judah b, and the chief of the fathers of Israel c, and they came to Jerusalem.

b Partly because they could do this without any suspicion, upon pretence of some solemn Feast; which time, it is probable, was chosen for this purpose: and partly because he knew them to be well affected to the Cause of God and the King, to which they were obliged by the two firmest ties, Conscience and Interest. c i.e. Both of the two Tribes, and of the ten Tribes, all which are called Israel; and he useth the name of Israel rather then that of Judah; because there were now great numbers of the other Tribes incorporated with Israel; and these he esteemed more faithful than many of Judah, having given better proofs of the truth of their Religion than they; and therefore he pick't out of the chief men of the other Tribes, as well as of Judah and Benjamin.

3 And all the congregation made a covenant with the King in the house of God: and he said unto them, Behold, the kings son shall reign, as the LORD hath
* 2 Sam. 7.12. 1 Kings 2. 4. & 9. 5. Ch.6.16. & 7.18. * said of the sons of David.

4 This is the thing that ye shall do; A third part of you entring on the sabbath, of the priests and of the Levites shall be porters of the † doors d;

† Heb. thresholds.

d Both that of Shur, 2 Kings 11.6. and other doors adjoyning or leading to it.

5 And a third part shall be at the kings house; and † Heb. foundation. a third part at the gate of the foundation † e: and all the people shall be in the courts f of the house of the LORD.

e At the East-gate, thought to be so called because it stood lower than the rest of the doors at the foot of the steps, by which they went up from the Kings house to the Temple. f Either 1. in the two Courts; and so by the People he understands as well the generality of the Levites who had no particular stations allotted to them, as their Brethren had, *v.*4,5. which were to be in the Priests Court, as the People, who were in the Court of the People: or 2. in the Court of the People, which may be called Courts, the plural number being put for the singular, in regard of great amplitude and divers quarters and partitions, into which it was or might be divided: as the Temple is called Sanctuaries, because of its division into divers parts, *Levit.*26.21.

6 But let none come into the house of the LORD g, save the priests, and they that minister of the Levites h, they shall go in, for they are † holy: but all the people shall keep the watch of the LORD i.
† Heb. holiness. Lev.21.6.

g Strictly so called, as it is distinguished from the Courts, into which others were permitted to come, v. 5. to wit, into the Holy Place. h They who are to minister in course, or by my present appointment. i i.e. Of the house of the Lord, as the phrase may be filled up out of this place and 2 Kings 11 6. The fence is, Let them stand in their Court to prevent and oppose any person who shall endeavour violently to break into the house to seize upon the King, or to disturb their present work; which he expected Athaliah and her Complices would do.

7 And the Levites shall compass the king round about, every every man with his weapons in his hand, and whosoever else cometh into the house, he shall be put to death: but be ye with the king when he cometh in, and when he goeth out.

8 So the Levites and all Judah did according to all things that Jehojada the priest had commanded, and took every man his men that were to come in * on the sabbath, with them that were to go out on the sabbath: for Jehojada the priest dismissed not the courses.

9 Moreover, Jehojada the priest delivered to the captains of hundreds, spears, and bucklers, and shields, that had been king Davids, which were in the house of God.

10 And he set all the people (every man having his weapon in his hand) from the right † side of the † temple to the left side of the temple, along by the altar and the temple, by the king round about.

† Heb. shoulder. † Heb. house.

11 Then they brought out the kings Son, and put upon him the crown, and * gave him the testimony, and made him king: and Jehojada and his sons k anointed him, and said, † God save the King.

* Deut. 17.18. † Heb. Let the King live.

k And Zechariah among the rest, whom afterwards he ungratefully slew, *ch.*24.21.

12 Now when Athaliah heard the noise of the people running and praising the king, she came to the people into the house of the LORD.

13 And she looked, and behold the king stood at his pillar, at the entring in, and the princes and the trumpets by the king: and all the people of the land rejoyced, and sounded with trumpets; also the singers with their instruments of musick, and such as taught to sing praise. Then Athaliah rent her clothes and said, † Treason, treason.

† Heb. Conspiracy.

14 Then Jehojada the priest brought out the captains of hundreds, that were set over the host, and said unto them, Have her forth of the ranges: and whoso followeth her, let him be slain with the sword. For the priest said, Slay her not in the house of the LORD.

15 So they laid hands on her, and when she was come to the entring of the horse-gate, by the kings house, they slew her there.

16 And Jehojada made a covenant between him l and between all the people, and between the king, that they should be the LORDS people m.

l i.e. The Lord, as is sufficiently implied in the end of this verse, and plainly expressed, 2 Kings 11. 17. Or, between himself; that the People might see that he brought them under no bond, but what he would take upon himself. m i.e. That every one in his place and station would maintain the Law and Worship of God, and root out all false Worship; which they did in the next verse.

17 Then all the people went to the house of Baal, and brake it down, and brake his altars and his images in pieces, and * slew Mattan the priest of Baal before the altars.

* Deut. 13.5.

18 Also Jehojada appointed the offices of the house of the LORD by the hand n of the priests the Levites, whom David had * distributed in the house of the LORD, to offer the burnt-offerings of the LORD, as it is written in the * law of Moses, with rejoycing and singing, as it was ordained † by David.

* 1 Chron. 24.1. * Numb. 28.2. † Heb. by the hands of David.

n Or, as it is in the Hebrew, put the offices of the house of the Lord into the hand, i. e. he restored the Priests and Levites, either 1. To their places and offices, which possibly in the time of the Idolatrous Kings, and of Athaliah, had been dispoſed of to persons of other Tribes, partly to gratifie their wicked friends, and partly to bring Gods House and Worship into disgrace: Or, 2. to the exercise of their offices, from which they had been in a great measure hindred.

19 And he set the * porters at the gates of the house of the LORD, that none which was unclean in any thing, should enter in.

* 1 Chron. 26.1, &c.

20 And he took the captains of hundreds, and the nobles, and the governours of the people, and all the people of the land, and brought down the king from the house of the LORD: and they came through the high gate o into the kings house, and set the king upon the throne of the land.

o To wit, of the Court belonging and leading to the Kings Palace.

21 And all the people of the land rejoyced: and the city was quiet, after that they had slain Athaliah with the sword.

CHAP. XXIV.

Joash reigneth well all the days of Jehojada, 1——14. he dieth: is buried honourably: and Joash falleth to Idolatry: slayeth Zechariah the son of Jehojada, 15——22. He is spoiled by the Syrians: slain by Zabad and Jehozabad. Amaziah succeedeth him, 23——27.

JOash * was seven years old a when he began to reign, and he reigned forty years in Jerusalem: his mothers name also was Zibeah of Beer-sheba.

* 2 Kings 12.1, &c.

a A great part of this Chapter is explained on 2 Kings 12.

2 And Joash did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, all the days of Jehojada the priest.

3 And Jehojada took for him two wives, and he begat sons and daughters.

4 And it came to pass after this, that Joash was minded † to repair the house of the LORD.

† Heb. to renew.

5 And he gathered together the Priests and the Levites, and said to them, Go out unto the cities of Judah, and gather of all Israel b, money to repair the house of your God from year to year c, and see that ye haste the matter. Howbeit the Levites hastned it not.

b i. e. Of all the Israelites that were in the Kingdom of Judah. See Ch. 15. 17. and 21. 2. c Either 1. repair part of it every year till the reparations be perfected: Or, 2. gather it from year to year, till you get such a sum as may suffice for the work; for he supposed one or two years collection would not suffice for the work, whether it were that collection of half a shekel for every man, of which see Exod. 30.12, 13. 2 Kings 12. 14. or a voluntary contribution required for the present exigence of the Temple by virtue of the command and example of Moses, who made such a collection for the building of the Tabernacle, *Exod.*35.5. See also *Nehem.*10.32. which he thought would not be any great sum, because of the great iniquity and impiety which yet had reigned for many years, and yet continued in the generality of the people of the Land, the Levites not excepted, as the last Clause of this Verse shews.

6 And the king called for Jehojada the chief d, and said unto him, Why hast thou not required of the Levites to bring in out of Judah and out of Jerusalem, the collection, according to the commandment of * Moses e the servant of the LORD, and Exod.30.13,14. of the congregation of Israel, for the tabernacle of witness?

d It is observable, that he is not called the Chief Priest, or High Priest, but only the Chief, or the Head, which he might be in many other respects, either by reason of his near relation to the Royal Family: or because he was the Chief of one of the 24 Families, or because he had been the chief man in the contriving and bringing about of this great Change, and the General of the Forces employed about it. And the High Priest seems to be mentioned as a distinct person from Jehojadah here, 2 Kings 12. 9, 10. All which make it questionable, whether Jehojadah was the High-Priest or no. e Heb. the Collection of Moses, i. e. such an one as he commanded or made in the like case: of which see on v. 5. In like manner we read of the Sins of Manasseh, 2 Kings 24. 3. and of the Sin of Jeroboam frequently.

7 For the sons of Athaliah f, that wicked woman, had broken up the house of God g, and also all the dedicate things of the house of the LORD did they bestow upon Baalim.

f To wit, Ahaziah, and his Brethren before they were carried away captive, ch. 21. 17. who did this by her instigation, as this phrase implies. g Both broken up the Treasuries, and defaced the House it self.

8 And at the kings commandment they made a chest, and set it without at the gate of the house of the LORD h.

h i.e. Of the Court of the People, whether all manner of persons might come to offer.

9 And they made † a proclamation through Judah and Jerusalem, to bring in to the LORD the collection that Moses the servant of God laid upon Israel in the wilderness.

i i. e. A Collection answerable to it; as they are said to be guilty of the errour of Balaam and gainsaying of Core, Jud. *v.*11. who fell into sins of the same kind.

10 And all the princes, and all the people rejoyced, and brought in, and cast into the chest, until they had made an end.

11 Now it came to pass, that at what time the chest was brought unto the kings office k, by the hand of the Levites, and when they saw that there was much mony, the kings scribe, and the high priests officer came and emptied the chest, and took it, and carried it to his place again. Thus they did day by day, and gathered money in abundance.

k From the gate of the Court into one of the Chambers belonging to the Temple, which was appointed by the King for this office.

12 And the king and Jehojada gave it to such as did the work of the service of the house of the LORD, and hired masons and carpenters to repair the house of the LORD, and also such as wrought iron and brass to mend the house of the LORD.

13 So

13 So the workmen wrought, and † the work was perfected by them, and they set the house of God in his state, and strengthned it.

† Heb. the work was risen.

14 And when they had finished it, they brought the rest of the money before the king and Jehojada, whereof were made vessels for the house of the LORD, even vessels to minister, and ‖ to offer withal, and spoons, and vessels of gold and silver: and they offered burnt-offerings in the house of the LORD continually, all the days of Jehojada.

‖ Or, to offer in the house of the LORD.

l Because Athaliah and her Sons had taken the old ones away, v. 7.

15 But Jehojada waxed old, and was full of days when he died, an hundred and thirty years old was he when he died.

16 And they buried him in the city of David among the kings, because he had done good in Israel m, both towards God, and towards his house.

m i.e. In Judah, which was an eminent part of Israel, and the only part of it which owned God, or was owned by God as his Israel, to whom therefore he oft appropriates this name, thereby signifying that the other Tribes were unworthy of that honourable title, and had forfeited all their right in it to Judah. See on ch. 21. 2.

17 Now after the death of Jehojada, came the princes of Judah, and made obeisance to the King n: then the King hearkned unto them.

n In that posture presenting their requests to him, that they might not be confined to unnecessary and troublesome journeys in coming to Jerusalem to worship, but might have the liberty, which their Fore-fathers enjoyed, of worshipping God in the High-places. Which liberty, when once they had obtained, they knew they could then worship Idols without observation or disturbance: which was the thing at which they aimed. And for the prevention of such Abuses, God obliged all to worship him in one place.

18 And they left the house of the LORD God of their fathers, and served groves and idols: and wrath came upon Judah and Jerusalem for this their trespass o.

o By Hazael King of Syria: of which see 2 Kings 12.17, 18.

19 Yet he sent prophets to them, to bring them again unto the LORD, and they testified against them: but they would not give ear.

20 And the spirit of God † came upon Zechariah the son of Jehojada the priest, which stood above the people p, and said unto them, Thus saith God, Why transgress ye the commandments of the LORD, that ye cannot prosper? because ye have forsaken the LORD, he hath also forsaken you.

† Heb. clothed. So Judges 6.34.

p In an higher place, that his voice and message might be the better heard.

21 And they q conspired against him, and stoned him with stones at the commandment of the king, in the court of the house of the LORD.

q i.e. The people to whom he preached, who were easily corrupted by the examples of their Apostate King and Princes.

22 Thus Joash the king remembred not the kindness which Jehojada his father had done to him, but slew his son: And when he died, he said, The LORD look upon it, and require it r.

r i.e. Make inquisition for my innocent blood. Which he did not wish from any desire of private revenge, with which so wise and good a man would never be willing to die; but partly from a zeal to Publick Justice and the punishment of such gross wickedness; and partly to deter them, if possible, from compleating their murderous intentions. But these words may as well be rendred indicatively as optatively, The Lord will look upon it, and require it, i.e. He will examine this Action, and require satisfaction from you for it.

23 And it came to pass † at the end of the year, that the host of Syria came up against him: and they came to Judah and Jerusalem, and destroyed all the princes of the people from among the people r, and sent all the spoil of them unto the king of † Damascus s.

† Heb. in the revolution of the year. † Heb. Darmesek.

r So soon did God hear the cry of his Holy Prophets blood, and revenge it. r That it might appear they were sent and directed by God to single out to destruction the first beginners and chief promoters of this general Apostacy. s To Hazael the King of that part of Syria called Syria Damascena, from its capital City Damascus.

24 For the army of the Syrians * came with a small company of men, and the LORD delivered a very great host into their hand, because they had forsaken the LORD God of their fathers. So they executed Judgment against Joash.

* Lev. 26.8. Deut. 32. 30. Isa. 30.17.

25 And when they were departed from him, (for they left him in great diseases) his own servants conspired against him, for the blood of the sons t of Jehojada the priest, and slew him on his bed, and he died: and they buried him in the city of David, but they buried him not in the sepulchres of the kings.

t i.e. Of Zachariah his son: the plural number Sons, put for the singular Son, as it is frequently both in Scripture, as Gen. 46. 7. Numb. 26. 42. and in Cicero and other profane Authors. Or, he might kill other sons of Jehojada with him, either because they owned him in what he had said; or lest they should revenge his death.

26 And these are they that conspired against him; ‖ Zabad the son of Shimeath an Ammonite, and Jehozabad the son of ‖ Shimrith a Moabite.

‖ Or, Jozachar, 2 Kings 12.21.

27 Now concerning his sons, and the greatness of the * burdens laid upon him y, and the † repairing of the house of God, behold, they are written in the ‖ story of the book of the kings. And Amaziah his son reigned in his stead.

* 2 Kings 12.18. † Heb. mending. ‖ Or, Midrash. & 18.14.

y Either the severe Prophecies against him, which are oft called Burdens; of which one instance is Recorded, and there might be others that are not Recorded: or the great Judgments of God upon him, both by the Syrians, v. 23, 24. and by great diseases, v. 25.

CHAP. XXV.

Amaziah beginneth to reign well; slayeth his father's murtherers, 1—4. Having hired an army of Israelites against the Edomites, at the word of a Prophet he dismisseth them, 5——10. And with his own people overthroweth the Edomites: The Israelites in their return home Spoil, 11——13. Amaziah serveth the Gods of Edom, and despiseth the admonition of the Prophet, 14——16. He provoketh Joash to his over-throw, 17——24. His Reign: He is slain by Conspiracy, 25——28.

AMaziah * was twenty and five years old a when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty and nine years in Jerusalem: and his mothers name was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem.

* 2 Kings 14.1, &c.

a Of this Verse, and v. 2, 3, 4. see the Notes on 2 Kings, 14. 1, &c.

2 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, but not with a perfect heart.

3 Now it came to pass, when the kingdom was † established to him, that he slew his servants that had killed the king his father.

† Heb. confirmed upon him.

4 But he slew not their children, but did as it is written in the law in the book of Moses, where the LORD commanded, saying, * The fathers shall not die for the children, neither shall the children die for the fathers, but every man shall die for his own sin.

* Deut. 24.16. 2 Kin. 14.6. Jer. 31. 30. Ez. 18.20.

5 Moreover, Amaziah gathered Judah together, and made them captains over thousands, and captains over hundreds, according to the houses of their fathers, throughout all Judah and Benjamin: and he numbred them * from twenty years old and above, and found them three hundred thousand choice men, able to go forth to war, that could handle spear and shield.

* Numb. 1.3.

6 He hired also an hundred thousand mighty men of valour out of Israel b, for an hundred talents of silver.

b Out of the Kingdom of the Ten Tribes.

7 But there came a man of God to him, saying, O king, let not the army of Israel go with thee; for the LORD is not with Israel c, to wit, with all the children of Ephraim.

c He hath forsaken them, and for their sakes will curse thy Forces, if thou joyneſt thy self with them.

8 But if thou wilt go, do it, be strong for the battel d: God shall make thee fall before the enemy: for God hath power to help, and to cast down.

d Take Courage and strengthen thy self, as much as thou canst. It is an Ironical Conceſſion, like that, Go, and prosper.

9 And Amaziah said to the man of God, But what shall we do for the hundred talents which I have given to the † army of Israel? And the man of God answered, The LORD is able to give thee much more than this.

† Heb. band.

10 Then Amaziah separated them, to wit, the army that was come to him out of Ephraim, to go † home again: wherefore their anger was greatly kindled against Judah e, and they returned home † in great anger.

† Heb. to their place. † Heb. heat of anger.

e Because they were both disgraced by this Rejection, and disappointed of that Prey and Spoil which they hoped to gain, whereas now they were sent away empty; for the 100 Talents probably were given to their Officers only to raise Men for this Service; that Sum being otherwise too small to be distributed into so many hands.

11 And Amaziah strengthened himself, and led forth his people, and went to the valley of salt, and smote of the children of Seir, ten thousand.

12 And

12 And other ten thousand left alive, did the children of Judah carry captive, and brought them away unto the top of the rock, and cast them down from the top of the rock, that they were broken all in pieces.

† Heb. the sons of the band.

13 But † the souldiers of the army which Amaziah sent back, that they should not go with him to battel, fell upon the cities of Judah, from Samaria even unto Beth-horon f, and smote g three thousand of them h, and took much spoil.

f To wit, Beth-horon the Lower, which was in the Tribe of Benjamin; and from thence to Samaria, either 1. to the City of Samaria; for the Kings of Judah had taken divers Places within the Kingdom of Israel. Or, 2. To the Kingdom of Samaria: Beth-horon, all and other Places between that City and their own Kingdom. g i. e. Killed, as that word is generally understood. h Not 3000 Cities, but 3000 Persons dwelling in them, who possibly opposed them in taking the Spoil, which was the Thing they fought.

14 Now it came to pass, after that Amaziah was come from the slaughter of the Edomites, that he brought the gods of the children of Seir, and set them up to be his gods, and bowed down himself before them, and burned incense unto them.

15 Wherefore the anger of the LORD was kindled against Amaziah, and he sent unto him a prophet, which said unto him, Why hast thou sought after the gods of the people, which could not deliver their own people out of thine hand i?

i Therefore thou art not only ungrateful and impious, but also ridiculously foolish, in offending that God whose Power and Goodness thou hast now found, and in worshipping such gods of whose Impotency thou hast had late Experience.

16 And it came to pass as he talked with him, that the king said unto him, Art thou made of the kings counsel k? forbear, why shouldest thou be smitten? Then the prophet forbare, and said, I know m that

God hath † determined to destroy thee, because thou hast done this, and hast not hearkned unto my counsel.

k Who art thou that presumest to direct and govern my Affairs, without my Commission? l Provoke me no further, lest I cause thee to be killed for thy Sawciness. m This he might know either by the plain and positive Rules of God's Word, as Prov. 29. 1. or by the Suggestion of God's Spirit.

* 2 Kings, 14. 8.

17 Then * Amaziah king of Judah took advice n, and sent to Joash the son of Jehoahaz, the son of Jehu king of Israel, saying, Come, let us see one another in the face.

n i. e. About the Injury which the Israelites had done to his People, v. 13. and how he should repair it. But of this, and the following Verses see on 2 Kings, 14. 8, &c.

‖ Or, furbush, or, thorn.

18 And Joash king of Israel sent to Amaziah king of Judah, saying, The ‖ thistle that was in Lebanon, sent to the cedar that was in Lebanon, saying, Give thy daughter to my son to wife: and there passed by † Heb. a beast of the field.

† a wild beast that was in Lebanon, and trode down the thistle.

19 Thou sayest, Lo, thou hast smitten the Edomites, and thine heart lifteth thee up to boast: abide now at home, why shouldest thou meddle to thine hurt, that thou shouldest fall, even thou, and Judah with thee.

* Ch. 22. 7.

20 But Amaziah would not hear, for * it came of God o, that he might deliver them into the hand of their enemies, because they sought after the gods of Edom.

o Who gave him up to his own Error and Passion, in order to his Ruine.

21 So Joash the king of Israel went up, and they saw one another in the face, both he, and Amaziah king of Judah, at Beth-shemesh, which belongeth to Judah.

†Heb. smitten.

22 And Judah was † put to the worse before Israel, and they fled every man to his tent.

23 And Joash the king of Israel took Amaziah king of Judah the son of Joash, the son of Jehoahaz, at Beth-shemesh, and brought him to Jerusalem, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem: from the gate of Ephraim to † the corner-gate, four hundred cubits.

† Heb. the gate of it that looketh. Ch. 26. 9.

24 And he took all the gold and the silver, and all the vessels that were found in the house of God with Obed-edom p, and the treasures of the kings house, the hostages also, and returned to Samaria.

p i. e. With Obed-edom's Posterity, to whom the Custody of the Sacred Treasures was committed. See 1 Chron. 26. 15.

25 And Amaziah the son of Joash king of Judah lived after the death of Joash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel, fifteen years.

26 Now the rest of the acts of Amaziah, first and last, behold, are they not written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel?

27 Now after the time that Amaziah did turn away † from following the LORD, they † made a conspiracy against him in Jerusalem, and he fled to Lachish: but they sent to Lachish after him, and slew him there.

† Heb. from after. † Heb. they made a conspiracy.

28 And they brought him upon horses, and buried him with his fathers in the city of ‖ Judah.

8 And the Ammonites gave gifts to Uzziah, and his name † spread abroad, even to the entring in of Egypt, for he strengthened himself exceedingly.

† Heb. went forth.

9 Moreover, Uzziah built towers in Jerusalem, at the * corner-gate, and at the valley-gate, and at the turning of the wall, and ‖ fortified them.

* Neh. 3. 13, 19, 24, 27. Zech. 14. 10. ‖ Or, repaired.

10 Also he built towers in the desert h, and ‖ digged many wells, for he had much cattel, both in the low-country, and in the plains: husbandmen also and vine-dressers in the mountains, and in ‖ Carmel: for he loved † husbandry.

‖ Or, out many cisterns. † Or, fruitful fields.

h Partly to guard his Cattel from the Inroads and Depredations which the Arabians were accustomed to make: and partly to give Notice of the Approach of any Enemy, and to give some stop to their March on that side.

11 Moreover, Uzziah had an army of fighting men, that went out to war by bands i, according to the number of their account, by the hand of Jeiel the scribe, and Maaseiah the ruler, under the hand of Hananiah, one of the kings captains.

i i. e. Some Bands at one time and some at another, as Occasion required. See the Notes on 1 Chron. 27. 1, &c. and 2 Chron. 13. 14.

12 The whole number of the chief of the fathers of the mighty men of valour, were two thousand and six hundred.

13 And under their hand was † an army, three hundred thousand and seven thousand and five hundred, that made war with mighty power, to help the king against the enemy.

† Heb. in the power of an army.

14 And

14 And Uzziah prepared for them throughout all the host, shields and spears, and helmets, and habergeons, and bows, and † slings to cast stones.

† Heb. stones of slings.

15 And he made in Jerusalem engins invented by cunning men, to be on the towers, and upon the bulwarks, to shoot arrows and great stones withal: and his name † spread far abroad, for he was marvellously helped till he was strong.

† Heb. went forth.

16 But when he was strong k, his heart was lifted up to his destruction: for he transgressed against the LORD his God, and went into the temple of the LORD *, to burn incense upon the altar of incense.

k When he was strengthened in his Kingdom, and free from the fear of any Enemy. * Into the Holy place, where the Altar of Incense stood, and into which none but the Priests might enter, much less offer Incense.

17 And Azariah the Priest went in after him, and with him fourscore priests of the LORD, that were valiant men:

18 And they withstood Uzziah l the King, and said unto him, It * appertaineth not unto thee, Uzziah, to burn incense unto the LORD, but to the * priests, the sons of Aaron, that are consecrated to burn incense: go out of the sanctuary, for thou hast trespassed, neither shall it be for thine honour from the LORD God m.

* Num. 18. 7. * Ex. 30. 7.

l Heb. Stood up against Uzziah, not by force, or laying hands upon him to restrain him, for in the next Verse you still find the Censor in his hand; but only by admonition and reproof, which here follows. m Expect that God will punish thee, or put some brand of Infamy upon thee for this presumption. But this they express modestly, and by a figure called Meiosis, where more is meant than is expressed, because they considered that he to whom they spake, though an Offender, was their Lord and Sovereign.

19 Then Uzziah was wroth n, and had a censor in his hand, to burn incense: and while he was wroth with the priests, the leprosie even rose up in his forehead o, before the priests in the house of the LORD, from beside the incense altar p.

n With the Priests. o So as he could not hide his shame: though it is probable it was also in the rest of his Body. p By a stroke from an invisible hand coming from the Altar; that he might be assured that this was the effect of God's just displeasure against him.

20 And Azariah the chief priest, and all the priests looked upon him, and behold, he was leprous in his forehead, and they thrust him out from thence q; yea, himself * hasted also to go out, because the LORD had smitten him.

* Job 15. 32.

q Not by force, as was noted on v. 18. which needed not, for he voluntarily hasted away, as it follows; but by vehement perswasions and denunciations of God's further Judgments upon him, if he did not depart. Some suppose that the Earth-quake mentioned Amos 1. 1. Zech. 14. 5. happened upon this occasion, as another token of God's displeasure against this unparalleld arrogancy.

21 * And Uzziah the king was a leper unto the day of his death r, and dwelt in a * † several house being a leper; for † he was cut off from the house of the LORD: and Jotham his son was over the kings house, judging the people of the land.

* 2 Kings 15. 5. * Lev. 13. 46. † Heb. free.
